6 Of the tribe of Judah, Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh.

7 Of the tribe of Iſſachar, Igal the ſon of Joſeph.

8 Of the tribe of Ephraim, Oſhea e the ſon of Nun.

e Called alſo Joſhua, ver. 16.

9 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Palto the ſon of Raphu.

10 Of the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel the ſon of Sodi.

11 Of the tribe of Joſeph, namely, of the tribe of Manaſſeh f, Gaddi the ſon of Suſi.

f (i. e.) Of that part of the tribe of Joſeph, which is peculiarly called the tribe of Manaſſeh, as the other part of it was called the tribe of Ephraim, ver. 8. The name of Joſeph is elſewhere appropriated to Ephraim, as Ezek. 37. 16, 19. Rev. 7. 8. here to Manaſſeh, poſſibly to aggravate the ſin of the ruler of this tribe, who did ſo baſely degenerate from his noble Anceſtor, Joſeph.

12 Of the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the ſon of Gemalli.

13 Of the tribe of Aſher, Shether the ſon of Michael.

14 Of the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi the ſon of Vophſi.

15 Of the tribe of Gad, Geuel the ſon of Machi.

16 Theſe are the names of the men which Moſes ſent to ſpy out the land: and Moſes called Oſhea the ſon of Nun, Jehoſhua g.

g Oſhea notes a deſire of Salvation, ſignifying, Save we pray thee; but Jehoſhua, or Joſhua, includes a promiſe of Salvation, that he ſhould ſave, or that God by his hands ſhould ſave the people. So this was a Prophecy of his ſucceſſion to Moſes in the government and of the ſucceſs of his arms.

17 And Moſes ſent them to ſpie out the land of Canaan, and ſaid unto them, Get ye up this way ſouthward h, and go up into the mountain i:

h (i. e.) Into the Southern part of Canaan, which was the neareſt part, and the worſt too, being dry and deſert, Joſ. 15. 1, 3, Judg. 1. 15. Pſal. 126. 4. and therefore fitteſt for them to enter and paſs through with leſs obſervation. i (i. e.) Into the mountainous Country, and thence into the Valleys, and ſo take an exact ſurvey of the whole land.

18 And ſee the land what it is k, and the people that dwelleth therein, whether they be ſtrong or weak, few or many:

k Both for largeneſs, and for nature and quality as is more particularly expreſſed ver. 19, 20.

19 And what the land is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad l, and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents m or in ſtrong holds:

l Healthful, or unwholeſome, fruitful or barren. m As the Arabians did, or in unwalled Villages, which, like tents, are expoſed to an Enemy.

20 And what the land is, whether it be fat n or lean, whether there be wood therein, or not. And be ye of good courage o, and bring of the fruit of the land, (now the time was the time of the firſt ripe grapes.)

n Rich and fertile. o Doubt not but God will preſerve you in this dangerous journey, and be not diſmayed nor diſcouraged if you find the people numerous and potent, and well fortified.

21 So they went up, and ſearched the land, from the wilderneſs of Zin p, unto Rehob, as men come to Hamath q.

p In the ſouth of Canaan, Numb. 34. 3. Joſ. 15. 3. differing from the wilderneſs of Sin, which was nigh unto Egypt, Exod. 16. 1. q (i. e.) From the South they paſſed through the whole land, even to the Northern parts of it, Rehob, a City in the North-weſt part, Joſ. 19. 28. Judg. 1. 31. and Hemath, a City in the North-eaſt part, Joſ. 19. 35. Ezek. 47. 17. And that they might more expeditiouſly and ſecurely perform this office, it is probable, that they divided themſelves into ſeveral ſmall parties, and informed themſelves not only by their eye, but alſo by their ear, and the information of perſons of whom they enquired about the nature and condition of their land.

22 And they aſcended by the ſouth r, and came ſ unto Hebron: where * Ahiman, Sheſhai, and Talmai, the children of Anak t were: (now Hebron was built ſeven years before Zoan in Egypt u.)

* Joſh. 15. 14. Judg. 1. 10.

r Here Moſes having generally deſcribed their progreſs and courſe from South to North, now returns more particularly to relate ſome memorable places and paſſages, as that having entred the land in the ſouthern parts, they travelled then till they came to Hebron. ſ Heb. He came, to wit, Caleb, as appears from Joſ. 14. 9, 12, 14. For, as was now intimated, the ſpies diſtributed their work among them, and went either ſeverally, or by pairs; and, it ſeems, the ſurvey of this part was left to Caleb. t A famous Giant ſo called, whoſe children theſe are called, either more generally, as all Giants ſometimes were, or rather more ſpecially, becauſe Arbah, from whom Hebron was called Kiriath-arbah, was the father of Anak, Joſ. 15. 13. And this circumſtance is mentioned as an evidence of the goodneſs of that land and ſoil, becauſe the Giants choſe it for their habitation. u This ſeems to be noted to confront the Egyptians, who vainly boaſted of the Antiquity of their City Zoan above all places.

23 * And they came unto the ‖ brook of Eſhcol, and cut down from thence a branch with one cluſter of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a ſtaff x: and they brought of the pomegranates, and of the figs.

* Deut. 1. 24. ‖ Or, Valley.

x Either for the weight of it, conſidering the length of the way they were to carry it, or for the preſervation of it whole and entire. In thoſe Eaſtern and Southern Countries there are vines and grapes of an extraordinary bigneſs as Strabo and Pliny affirm.

24 The place was called the ‖ brook ‖ Eſhcol, becauſe of the cluſter of grapes which the children of Iſrael cut down from thence.

25 And they returned from ſearching of the land after fourty dayes.

26 And they went and came to Moſes, and to Aaron, and to all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, unto the wilderneſs of Paran, to Kadeſh y, and brought back word unto them, and unto all the congregation, and ſhewed them the fruit of the land.

y So called by way of abbrevation, which is frequent in Hebrew names, for Kadeſh-barnea, Deut. 1. 19. which ſome raſhly confound with Kadeſh in the wilderneſs of Sin, Numb. 20. 1. and 27. 14. and 33. 16. into which they came not till the 40*th* year after their coming out of Egypt, as appears from Numb. 33. 37, 38. whereas they were in this Kadeſh in the ſecond year, and before they received the ſentence of their forty years abode in the Wilderneſs, 27 And they told him z, and ſaid, We came unto the land whither thou ſenteſt us, and ſurely it floweth with * milk and honey a, and this is the fruit of it.

z In the audience of the people, as appears from ver. 30. a They craftily begin their relation with commendations, that their following ſlanders might be more eaſily believed.

28 Nevertheleſs, the * people be ſtrong b that dwell in the land, and the cities are * walled, and very great: and moreover, we ſaw the children of Anak there.

* Deut. 2. 10. 21. * Deut. 1. 28.

b Potent both for the ſtrength of their body and the valour of their minds.

29 The Amalekite dwelleth in the land of the ſouth c: and the Hittite, and the Jebuſite, and the Amorite dwelleth in the mountains d: and the Canaanite dwelleth by the ſea e, and by the coaſt of Jordan.

c Where we are to enter the land, and they who were ſo eager and fierce againſt us, that they came into the Wilderneſs to fight with us, will, without doubt, oppoſe us when we come cloſe by their land, and are about to ſettle in their neighbourhood, the rather, to revenge themſelves for their former loſs and ſhame received by us. Therefore they mention them, though they were no Canaanites. d (i. e.) In the mountainous Country in the South-eaſt part of the land, ſo that you cannot enter there without great difficulty both becauſe of the noted ſtrength and valour of thoſe people, and becauſe of the advantage they have from the mountains. e Not the midland Sea, which is commonly underſtood by that expreſſion, but the ſalt, or dead Sea, as appears, 1. becauſe it is that Sea which is next to Jordan, as here follows: 2. becauſe the Canaanites dwelt principally in thoſe parts, and not near the mid-land Sea. So theſe guard the entrance on the eaſt-ſide, as the others do on the South.

30 And Caleb f ſtilled the people g before Moſes h, and ſaid, Let us go up at once, and poſſeſs it, for we are well able to overcome it i.

f Together with Joſhua, as is manifeſt from Numb. 14. 6, 7, 30. but Caleb alone is here mentioned, poſſibly becauſe he ſpake firſt and moſt, which he might better do, becauſe he might be preſumed to be more impartial than Joſhua, who being Moſes his Miniſter, might be thought to ſpeak only what he knew his Maſter would like. g Which implies either that they had began to murmur, or that by their looks and carriages they diſcovered that grief and anger which boiled in their breaſts. h Or, towards Moſes, againſt whom they were incenſed, as the man who had brought them into ſuch ſad circumſtances. i Partly in moral probability, becauſe we are one people united under one head, whereas they are divided into ſeveral nations and governments, of differing counſels and intereſts and inclinations, and principally becauſe of the aſſiſtance of the Almighty God.

31 But the men that went up with him k, ſaid, We be not able to go up againſt the people, for they are ſtronger than we l.

k All of them, Joſhua excepted. l Both in ſtature of body and numbers of people. Thus they wickedly queſtion the power and truth and goodneſs of God, of all which they had ſuch ample teſtimonies.

32 And they brought up m an evil report of the land n, which they had ſearched, unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, The land through which we have gone to ſearch it, is a land * that eateth up the inhabitants thereof o: and * all the people that we ſaw in it, are † men of a great ſtature.

m Heb. brought forth, to wit, out of their mouthes: they uttered a reproach, or reproachful words. n (i. e.) Againſt, or concerning the land. It is the Genitive Caſe of the Object, as Mat. 10. 1. and 14. 1. o Not ſo much by civil Wars, as moſt think, for that was likely to make their Conqueſt more eaſie; nor by the barrenneſs of the Soil, which conſumed the people with the exceſſive pains it required to make it fruitful, as others think, for they confeſſed the excellency of the land, ver. 27. but rather by the unwholeſomneſs of the air and place, which they gueſſed from the many funerals, which, as ſome Hebrew Writers not without probability affirm, they obſerved in their travels through it: though that came to paſs from another cauſe, even from the ſingular providence of God, which, to facilitate the Iſraelites conqueſt, cut off vaſt numbers of the Canaanites either by a plague, or by the hornet ſent before them, as is expreſſed, Joſ. 24. 12. or ſome other way.

33 And there we ſaw the giants, the ſons of Anak, which come of the giants: and we were in our own ſight as graſhoppers p, and ſo we were in their ſight.

p (i. e.) Small and contemptible.

CHAP. XIV.

1 AND all the congregation a lifted up their voice, and cryed, and the people wept that night.

a Except Caleb and Joſhua, and ſome few others. A Synecdochical expreſſion, the whole for the greateſt part.

2 And all the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron b, and the whole congregation ſaid unto them, * Would God that we had died in the land of Egypt, or would God that we had died in this wilderneſs c.

* See v. 28, 29.

b As the inſtruments and occaſions of their preſent calamity. c It was not long before they had their deſire and did die in the Wilderneſs.

3 And wherefore hath the LORD d brought us unto this land, to fall by the ſword, that our wives, and our children ſhould be a prey e? were it not better for us to return into Egypt?

d From the inſtruments they riſe higher and ſtrike at God, the chief cauſe and author of their journey: by which we ſee the prodigious growth and progreſs of ſin when it is not reſiſted. e To the Canaanites whoſe land we were made to believe we ſhould poſſeſs.

4 And

4 And they ſaid one to another, Let us make a captain f, and let us return into Egypt g.

f Inſtead of Moſes, one who will be more faithful to our intereſt than he. g This was but a purpoſe or a deſire, and yet it is imputed to them as if they had done it, Nehem. 9. 16, 17. they appointed a captain, &c. even as Abraham's purpoſe to offer up Iſaac is reckoned for the deed, Heb. 11. 17. g Stupendious madneſs! whence ſhould they have protection againſt the many hazards, and proviſion againſt all the wants of the Wilderneſs? could they expect either Gods cloud to cover and guide them, or Manna from heaven to feed them? who ſhould conduct them over the Red Sea? or, if they went another way, who ſhould defend them againſt thoſe nations by whoſe borders they were to paſs? what entertainment could they expect from the Egyptians, whom they had deſerted and brought to ſo much ruine?

5 Then Moſes and Aaron fell on their faces h before all the aſſembly i of the congregation of the children of Iſrael.

h As humble and earneſt ſuppliants, either, to the people, to intreat them to deſiſt from their wicked and pernicious enterprize: or rather, to God, by comparing this with Numb. 16. 4. and 20. 6. the only refuge to which Moſes reſorted in all ſuch ſtraits, and who alone was able to ſtill and govern this tumultuous and ſtiff-necked people. i That they might be awakened to apprehend their ſin and danger, when they ſaw Moſes at his prayers, whom God never uſed to deny and never failed to defend even with the deſtruction of his enemies.

6 And Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, which were of them that ſearched the land, rent their clothes k.

k To teſtifie their hearty grief for the peoples blaſphemy againſt God, and ſedition againſt Moſes, and that dreadful judgment which they eaſily foreſaw this muſt bring upon the congregation and people of God.

7 And they ſpake unto all the company of the children of Iſrael, ſaying, The land which we paſſed through to ſearch it, is an exceeding good land.

8 If the LORD delight in us l, then he will bring us into this land, and give it us, a land which floweth with milk and honey.

l If by our rebellion and ingratitude we do not provoke God to loath and forſake us.

9 Only rebel ye not againſt the LORD, neither fear ye the people of the land, for they are bread for us m: their † defence n is departed from them, and the LORD is with us o: fear them not.

m We ſhall deſtroy them as eaſily as we do our bread or common food. Compare Numbers 24. 8. Pſal. 14. 4. n (i. e.) Their counſel, conduct, and courage, and eſpecially, God, who was pleaſed to afford them his protection till their iniquities were full, Gen. 15. 16. is utterly departed from them, and hath given them up as a prey to us. o By his ſpecial grace and almighty power to ſave us from them and from all our enemies.

10 But all the congregation bade ſtone them with ſtones: and the glory of the LORD appeared p in the tabernacle q of the congregation, before all the children of Iſrael.

p Now in extremity of danger to reſcue his faithful ſervants, and to ſtop the rage of the people. q (i. e.) Upon or above the tabernacle, where the cloud uſually reſided, in which the glory of God did appear upon occaſion, and now in a more illuſtrious manner, as the ſtate of things required.

11 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, How long will this people provoke me? and how long will it be ere they believe me, for all the ſigns which I have ſhewed among them?

12 I will ſmite them with the peſtilence, and diſinherit them r, * and will make of thee a greater nation and mightier than they.

* Exod. 32. 10.

r This was not an abſolute determination, as the event ſhewed, but only a commination, like that of Nineveh's deſtruction within 40 days, with a condition implied, except there be ſpeedy repentance, or powerful interceſſion.

13 And * Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, Then ſ the Egyptians ſhall hear it (for thou broughteſt up this people in thy might from among them t.)

* Exod. 32. 12. Deut. 32. 27.

ſ (i. e.) In caſe thou doſt utterly deſtroy them. t Whereby thou didſt get great honour to thy ſelf, which now thou wilt certainly loſe.

14 And they will tell it to the inhabitants of this land u: * for they have heard that thou, LORD, art among this people, that thou LORD, art ſeen face to face, and that * thy cloud ſtandeth over them, and that thou goeſt before them, by day time in a pillar of a cloud, and in a pillar of fire by night.

* Exod. 15. 14. Joſh. 2. 9. and 5. 1.
* Exod. 13. 21.

u For there was much entercourſe between theſe two Nations.

15 Now if thou ſhalt kill all this people, as one man x, then the nations which have heard the fame of thee will ſpeak, ſaying, x (i. e.) Altogether or to a man, and ſuddenly, as it were, by one blow, as if all had but one neck.

16 Becauſe the LORD was not * able to bring this people into the land which he ſware unto them y, therefore he hath ſlain them in the wilderneſs.

* Deut. 9. 28.

y His power was quite ſpent in bringing them out of Egypt, and could not finiſh the work he had begun and had ſworn to do.

17 And now, I beſeech thee, let the power of my LORD be great z, according as thou haſt ſpoken, ſaying, z (i. e.) Appear to be great, diſcover its greatneſs. A real Verb put for a declarative, or the thing for the manifeſtation of the thing. And this may be underſtood either 1. of God's power in preſerving the people, and carrying them on into Canaan, which ſence may ſeem to be favoured by the foregoing verſe, where the Egyptians deny that God had power to do ſo. And according to that ſence he adds the following words, not as an explication of this power, but as an argument to move him to ſhew forth his power for his people notwithſtanding their ſins, according as, or rather becauſe (as the Hebrew word is oft rendred) he had ſpoken, ſaying, &c. and ſo he ſhould maintain the honour and the truth of his own name, or of thoſe Titles which he had aſcribed to himſelf. Or 2. the power of his grace and mercy, or the greatneſs of his mercy, as he calls it, ver. 19. in pardoning of this and their other ſins: for to this the following words manifeſtly reſtrain it, according as thou haſt ſpoken, &c. where the pardon of their ſins is the only inſtance of this power both deſcribed in Gods Titles, ver. 18. and prayed for by Moſes, ver. 19. pardon, I beſeech thee, &c. and granted by God in anſwer to him, ver. 20. I have pardoned, &c. Nor is it ſtrange that the pardon of ſin, eſpecially of ſuch great ſins, be ſpoken of as an act of power in God, becauſe undoubtedly it is an act of omnipotent, and infinite goodneſs; whence deſpairing ſinners ſometimes cry out, that their ſins are greater than God can pardon, as ſome tranſlate Cain's words, Gen. 4. 13. And ſince power is applied to Gods wrath in puniſhing ſin, Rom. 9. 22 why may it not as well be attributed to Gods mercy in forgiving it? Eſpecially if it be conſidered, that even in men revenge is an act of impotency, and conſequently it muſt needs by an act of power to conquer their paſſions and inclinations to revenge and to pardon thoſe enemies whom they could deſtroy.

18 The LORD is * long-ſuffering, and of great mercy, forgiving iniquity and tranſgreſſion, and by no means clearing the guilty, * viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation a.

* Exod. 34. 6. Pſal. 103. 8.
* Exod. 20. 5. and 34. 7.

a Theſe words may ſeem to be very improperly mentioned, as being a powerful argument to move God to deſtroy this wicked people, and not to pardon them. It may be anſwered, that Moſes uſeth theſe words together with the reſt, partly becauſe he would not ſever what God had put together, and partly to ſhew that he did not deſire a full and abſolute pardon, but was willing that God ſhould execute his vengeance upon the principal authors of this rebellion, and leave ſome character of his diſpleaſure upon all the people, as God did, but only that God would not diſinherit them, ver. 12. nor kill all the people as one man, ver. 15. nor deſtroy them both root and branch, becauſe he had promiſed not to extend his wrath againſt them in puniſhing their ſins beyond the third and fourth generation. But the truer anſwer ſeems to be, that theſe words are to be tranſlated otherwiſe, and in deſtroying he will not utterly deſtroy, though he viſit the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation. Of which ſee the notes on Exod. 34. 7. where all this verſe is explained.

19 Pardon, I beſeech thee, the iniquity of this people, according unto the greatneſs of thy mercy, and as thou haſt forgiven this people from Egypt, even ‖ until now b.

b After many and great provocations: ſhew thy ſelf ſtill to be the ſame ſin-pardoning God.

20 And

20 And the LORD said, I have pardoned, according to thy word e.

e So far, as not utterly to destroy them, as I threatned, ver. 12. and thou didst fear, and beg the prevention of it, ver. 19.

* Psal. 72. 19. 21 But truly, as I live, * all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the LORD d.

d (i. e.) With the report of the glorious and righteous acts of God in punishing this rebellious people in manner following. That this is the true sense, appears both from the particle of opposition, and the solemn introduction of them, But truly, as I live, and from the following verses, Because all those men, &c. which come in without any note of opposition, and have a manifest relation to and connexion with this verse.

22 Because all those men which have seen my glory e, and my miracles which I did in Egypt, and in the wilderness, and have tempted me now these ten times f, and have not hearkened to my voice.

e (i. e.) My glorious appearances in the cloud, and in the Tabernacle. f (i. e.) Many times. A certain number for an uncertain, as Gen. 31. 7. Levit. 26. 8. Job 19. 3. Though some reckon ten times precisely wherein they did eminently provoke God.

* Deut. 1. 35. Psal. 95. 11. and 106. 26. Heb. 3. 17. † Heb. if they see the land. * Josh. 14. 6, 8, 9. 23 * † Surely they shall not see the land which I sware unto their fathers, neither shall any of them that provoked me, see it:

24 But my servant * Caleb g, because he had another spirit with him h, and hath followed me fully i, him will I bring into the land, whereinto he went k, and his seed shall possess it l.

g Joshua is not here named, because he was not now among the people, but a constant Attendant upon Moses; nor was he to be reckoned as one of them, any more than Moses and Aaron were, because he was to be their chief Commander. h (i. e.) Was a man of another temper and carriage, faithful and couragious, not acted by that evil spirit of cowardize, unbelief, unthankfulness, disobedience, which ruled in his brethren, but by the spirit of God. i (i. e.) Universally and constantly, in and through difficulties and dangers, which made his partners halt. k In general Canaan, and particularly Hebron and the adjacent parts, Jos. 14. 9. l Or, shall expel it; i. e. its inhabitants, the land being oft put for the people of it. Compare Jos. 8. 7. and 14. 12.

25 (Now the Amalekites, and the Canaanites dwelt in the valley m) to morrow turn ye, and get ye into the wilderness, by the way of the Red-sea n.

m Beyond the mountain at the foot whereof they now were, ver. 40. And this clause is added, either 1. as an aggravation of Israel's misery and punishment, that being now ready to enter and take possession of the land, they are forced to go back into the wilderness: or, 2. as an argument to oblige them more willingly to obey the following command of returning into the Wilderness, because their enemies were very near them, and severed from them only by that Idumean mountain, and, if they did not speedily depart, their enemies would hear of them and fall upon them, and so the evil which before they causelesly feared would come upon them, they, their Wives and their Children would become a prey to the Amalekites and Canaanites, because God had forsaken them, and would not assist nor defend them. The verse may be rendred thus, And or But, for the present, the Amalekite, and the Canaanite dwell in the valley: therefore (which particle is here understood, as it is in other places) to morrow turn ye, &c. Tho some knit these words to the former, and read the place thus, Caleb —— and his seed shall possess it, to wit, the land near Hebron, and also, the land of the Amalekites and of the Canaanites that dwell in the valley. Quest. But how are the Canaanites said to dwell in the valley, here, when they dwelt in the hill, ver. 45. and by the sea-coasts, Numb. 21. 1? Ans. 1. Part of them dwelt in one place, and part in other places. 2. The word Canaanite may here be understood more generally of all the inhabitants of Canaan. n (i. e.) That leadeth to the Red-sea, and to Egypt, the place whither you desired to return, ver. 3, 4.

26 And the LORD spake unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying,

27 How long shall I bear with o this evil congregation which murmur against me? I have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel, which they murmur against me.

o Or, pardon, as ver. 19, 20. or spare: which words are necessarily and easily understood. It is a short and imperfect speech, which is frequent in case of anger, as Exod. 32. 32. Psal. 6. 3. and 90. 13.

28 Say unto them, * As truly as I live, saith the LORD, as * ye have spoken p in mine ears, so will I do to you q: * chap. 26. 65. and 32. 10, 11. Deut. 1. 35. * See Verse 2.

p When you wickedly wished you might have died in the Wilderness, ver. 2. q I will bring your Imprecations upon your heads.

29 Your carcases shall fall in this wilderness, and all that were numbred of you, according to your whole number, from twenty years old and upward, which have murmured against me.

30 Doubtless ye shall not come into the land concerning which I † sware to make you r dwell therein, save Caleb the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua the son of Nun. † Heb. lifted up my hand.

r (i. e.) Your Nation, for God did not swear to do so to these particular persons.

31 But your little ones which ye said should be a prey, them will I bring in, and they shall know the land which ye have despised.

32 But as for you, your carcases they shall fall in this wilderness.

33 And your children shall ‖ wander s in the wilderness forty years t, and bear your whoredoms u, until your carcases be wasted in the wilderness. ‖ Or, feed.

s Like sheep feeding in the deserts: or, shall be shepherds; i. e. shall live like the shepherds of Arabia, in tents, and removing from place to place, having no certain dwelling. t (i. e.) So long as to make up the time of your dwelling in the Wilderness forty years, as appears from Numb. 33. 8. Deut. 1. 3. and 2. 14. Compare Amos 5. 25. It is manifest, that one whole year and part of another were past before this sin or judgment. u (i. e.) The punishment of your Whoredoms, to wit, of your Apostacy from and perfidiousness against your Lord, who was your husband and had married you to himself. x So there should have been 40 years to come, but God was pleased mercifully to accept of the time past as a part of that time. y That as you have first broken the covenant between you and me, by breaking the terms or conditions of it, so I will make it void on my part, by denying you the blessings promised in that covenant, and to be given to you in case of your obedience. So you shall see that the breach of promise wherewith you charged me, ver. 3. lies at your door, and was forced from me by your perfidiousness. Or, my breach, either passively, i. e. your breaking off from me, as such pronouns are oft used, as Gen. 50. 4. Isa. 53. 11. and 56. 7. or actively, i. e. my breaking off or departing from you, and stopping the current of my blessings towards you: you shall feel by experience, how sad your condition is when I withdraw my grace and favour from you.

35 I the LORD have said, I will surely do it unto all this evil congregation, that are gathered together against me; in this wilderness they shall be consumed, and there they shall die.

36 And the men whom Moses sent to search the land, who returned, and made all the congregation to murmur against him, by bringing up a slander upon the land:

37 Even those men that did bring up the evil report upon the land, * died by the plague z before the LORD a. * 1 Cor. 10. 10. Heb. 3. 17. Jude 5.

38 But Joshua the son of Nun, and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, which were of the men that went to search the land, lived still.

41 And Moſes ſaid, Wherefore now do ye tranſgreſs the commandment of the LORD c? but it ſhall not proſper.

c Either that command, Go not up, &c. which, though in this place mentioned after, yet may ſeem to have gone before their tranſgreſſion, by comparing this place with Deut. 1. 42, 43. or that command above ver. 25. turn ye and get ye into the wilderneſs, &c. which was a courſe directly contrary to that which they took.

42 Go not up, for the LORD is not among you, that ye be not ſmitten before your enemies.

43 For the Amalekite, and the Canaanite are there before you, and ye ſhall fall by the ſword: becauſe ye are turned away from the LORD, therefore the LORD will not be with you.

CHAP. XV.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

*Lev. 23. 10. 2 * Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye be come into the land of your habitations, which I give a unto you, a (i. e.) Will certainly give you, notwithſtanding this great provocation and my unchangeable commination. And for their better aſſurance hereof he repeats and amplifies the laws of Sacrifices, whereby thorough Chriſt he was or would be reconciled to them and theirs upon their repentance.

3 And will make an offering by fire unto the *Lev. 17. 16. & 22. 21. † Heb. ſeparating. *Lev. 13. 8, 12, 36. chap. 28. 16, 27. & 29. 2, 8, 13. Deut. 16. 10. *Exod. 29. 18. LORD, a burnt-offering, or a ſacrifice b * in † performing a vow, or in a free-will-offering, or * in your ſolemn feaſts, to make a * ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, of the herd or of the flock:

b (i. e.) A peace-offering, as appears 1. becauſe that word put by it ſelf is oft ſo taken, as Exod. 18. 12. Levit. 17. 5, 8. and 23. 37. Deut. 12. 27. 2. becauſe the offerings for ſins and treſpaſſes had no meat-offerings and drink-offerings attending upon them, excepting only the caſe of the Lepers cleanſing, Levit. 14. 10. 3. becauſe this is explained by and called peace-offerings, ver. 8. 4. from the words here following, becauſe peace-offerings were commonly offered either in performance of a vow, or freely, or by Gods command in their ſolemn feaſts, all which are here expreſſed.

*Lev. 2. 1. *Exod. 29. 40. Lev. 23. 13. 4 Then * ſhall he that offereth his offering unto the LORD, bring a * meat-offering of a tenth-deal c of flour, mingled with the fourth part of an hin of oil d.

c Or, tenth part, to wit, of an Ephah, i. e. an Omer, Exod. 16. 36. d Wherein it ſeems to differ from ſuch meat-offerings as were ſolitary, and not acceſſaries to other ſacrifices.

5 And the fourth part of an hin of wine for a drink-offering ſhalt thou prepare, with the burnt-offering, or ſacrifice, for one lamb.

6 Or for a ram, thou ſhalt prepare for a meat-offering two tenth-deals e of flour mingled with the third part of an hin of oyl.

e Becauſe this belonged to a better ſacrifice than the former; and therefore in the next ſacrifice of a bullock, there are three tenth deals. So the acceſſory ſacrifice grows proportionably with the principal.

7 And for a drink-offering, thou ſhalt offer the third part of an hin of wine, for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

8 And when thou prepareſt a bullock for a burnt-offering, or for a ſacrifice in performing a vow, or * peace-offerings f unto the LORD: *Lev. 7. 11.

f (i. e.) Or any other peace offerings, to wit, ſuch as were offered either freely or by command, which may be called peace-offerings or thank-offerings, by way of eminency, becauſe ſuch are offered purely by way of gratitude to God, and with ſingle reſpect to his command and honour, whereas the peace-offerings made in performance of a vow were made and offered by way of contract and with deſign of getting ſome advantage by them.

9 Then ſhall he bring with a bullock a meat-offering of three tenth deals of flour, mingled with half an hin of oyl.

10 And thou ſhalt bring for a drink-offering half an hin of wine, for an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

11 Thus ſhall it be done for one bullock, or for one ram, or for a lamb, or a kid.

12 According to the number that ye ſhall prepare, ſo ſhall ye do to every one according to their number g.

g (i. e.) As many cattel as ye ſacrifice, ſo many meat and drink-offerings ye ſhall offer.

13 All that are born of the countrey ſhall do theſe things after this manner, in offering an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

h To wit, Proſelyte: for ſuch offerings were not accepted from others.

15 * One ordinance ſhall be both for you of *Exod. 12. 49. the congregation, and alſo for the ſtranger that chap. 9. 14. ſojourneth with you, an ordinance for ever in your generations: as ye are, ſo ſhall the ſtranger be before the LORD i.

i (i. e.) As to the Worſhip of God: his ſacrifices ſhall be offered in the ſame manner, and accepted by God upon the ſame terms, as yours: which was a preſage of the future calling of the Gentiles. And this is added by way of caution and diſtinction, to ſhew that ſtrangers were not upon this pretence to partake of their civil priviledges.

16 One law, and one manner ſhall be for you, and for the ſtranger that ſojourneth with you.

17 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

18 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye come unto the land whither I bring you,

19 Then it ſhall be, that when ye eat k of the bread l of the land, ye ſhall offer up an heave-offering unto the LORD m.

k (i. e.) When ye are about to eat it: for before they did eat it, they were to offer this offering to God. l (i. e.) The bread-corn, as that word is uſed, Job 28. 5. Pſal. 104. 14. Iſa. 28. 28. m (i. e.) To the Prieſt of the Lord, as appears from Ezek. 44. 30.

20 Ye ſhall offer up a cake of the firſt of your dough for an heave-offering as ye do * the heave- *Lev 2. 14. & offering of the threſhing floor n, ſo ſhall ye heave 23. 10, 16. it o.

n (i. e.) Of the corn in the threſhing-floor, as Deut. 16 13. when you have gathered in your corn. o (i. e.) You ſhall offer this in the ſame proportion, to the ſame perſons, i. e. the Prieſts, and with the ſame rites.

21 Of the firſt of your dough ye ſhall give unto the LORD an heave-offering in your generations.

22 And * if ye have erred, and not obſerved * Lev. 4. 2. all theſe commandments p which the LORD hath ſpoken unto Moſes;

p To wit, those now spoken of, those which concern the outward Worship and Service of God, or the rites or ceremonies belonging to it. And herein principally this law may seem to differ from that, Lev. 4. 13. which speaks of some positive miscarriage, or doing that which ought not to have been done about the holy things of God, whereas this speaks only of an omission of something which ought to have been done about holy ceremonies. But besides this, that law, Levit. 4. 13. concerns the whole congregation of Israel, as it is there expressed, but this concerns only the congregation, or a congregation, as it is here expressed, ver. 24. i. e. any particular congregation of Israelites, whether of a whole tribe meeting together by their representatives, or a lesser congregation, such as there were to be many in Canaan, and the words rendred, all the congregation, may be, and are by some here, rendred, every congregation. And by vertue of this law, as some suppose, the Israelites newly after their return from the captivity offered 12 bullocks, one for each tribe, Ezra 8. 35.

23 Even all that the LORD hath commanded you by the hand of Moses, from the day that the LORD commanded Moses, and henceforward among your generations:

24 Then it shall be, if ought be committed by ignorance, † without the knowledge of the congregation, that all the congregation shall offer one young bullock for a burnt-offering r, for a sweet savour unto the LORD, with his meat-offering, and his drink-offering, according to the ‖ manner, and one kid of the goats for a sin-offering.

r In Lev. 4. the bullock is for a sin offering, here it is for a burnt-offering, either because they are different laws, as hath been said; or, because here is added a new penalty, to breed the greater caution and diligence in the Israelites, who had given many instances, and now a fresh and eminent instance, of their heedlesness in observing the commands of God; and so, besides that bullock for a sin-offering, which he leaves to be gathered out of Levit. 4. 14. he now requires another bullock for a burnt-offering.

25 And the priest shall make an atonement for all the congregation of the children of Israel, and it shall be forgiven them, for it is ignorance: and they shall bring their offering, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD, and their sin-offering before the LORD, for their ignorance.

26 And it shall be forgiven all the congregation of the children of Israel, and the stranger that sojourneth among them, seeing all the people were in ignorance.

* Lev. 4. 27.

27 * And if any soul sin through ignorance, then he shall bring a she-goat of the first year for a sin-offering.

28 And the priest shall make an atonement for the soul that sinneth ignorantly, when he sinneth by ignorance before the LORD, to make an atonement for him, and it shall be forgiven him.

29 Ye shall have one law for him that † sinneth through ignorance, both for him that is born amongst the children of Israel, and for the stranger that sojourneth among them.

† Heb. with an high hand.

30 But the soul that doth ought s † presumptuously t, (whether he be born in the land, or a stranger) the same reproacheth the LORD u; and that soul shall be cut off from among his people.

s Understand such things as ought not to be done, and things relating to the Worship of God. t Heb. with an high, or lifted up hand, i. e. knowingly, wilfully, boldly, resolvedly, deliberately, designedly. So this phrase is elsewhere used. See Exod. 14. 8. Lev. 26. 21. Numb. 33. 3. Job 15. 26. Psal. 19. 13. u (i. e.) He sets God at defiance, and exposeth him to contempt, as if he were unworthy of any regard, and unable to punish transgressors.

31 Because he hath despised the word of the LORD, and hath broken his commandment, that soul shall utterly be cut off: his iniquity shall be upon him x.

x (i. e.) The punishment shall be confined to himself, and not fall upon the congregation, as it will do, if they neglect to cut him off.

32 And while the children of Israel were in the wilderness, they found a man that gathered sticks on the sabbath day y.

y This seems to be added as an example of a presumptuous sin: for as the law of the sabbath was plain and positive, so this transgression of it must needs be a known and wilful sin.

33 And they that found him gathering sticks, brought him unto Moses and Aaron, and unto all the congregation z.

z (i. e.) To the Rulers of the congregation, who as they represented and governed the congregation, are called by the name of the congregation.

34 And they a put him * in ward, because it was not declared what should be done unto him b.

* Lev. 24. 12.

a (i. e.) Moses and Aaron, and the 70 Rulers last mentioned. b (i. e.) In what manner he was to be cut off, or by what kind of death he was to die, which therefore God here particularly determines: otherwise it was known in general that sabbath-breakers were to be put to death, from Exod. 31. 14. and 35. 2.

35 And the LORD said unto Moses, * The man shall be surely put to death: all the congregation shall stone him with stones without the camp.

* Exod. 31. 14.

36 And all the congregation brought him without the camp, and stoned him with stones, as the LORD commanded Moses.

37 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

38 Speak unto the children of Israel, and bid * them that they make them fringes b in the † borders c of their garments d, throughout their generations, and that they put upon the fringe of the borders a ribband e of blue f.

* Deut. 22. 12. Mat. 23. 5.

b These were certain threds or ends of their garments, standing out a little further than the rest of their garments, left there for this use. c (i. e.) in the four borders or quarters, as it is, Deut. 22. 12. Heb. wings, which is oft used for borders or ends, as Ruth 3. 9. 1 Sam. 15. 27. and 24. 5, &c. d (i. e.) Of their upper garment, or that wherewith they covered themselves, as is expressed Deut. 22. 12. This was practised by the Pharisees in Christs time, who are noted for making their borders larger than ordinary, Mat. 23. 5. and by Christ himself, as may be gathered from Luk. 8. 44. e To make it more obvious to the sight, and consequently more serviceable to the use here mentioned. Or, of a purple colour, as the Jewish Writers agree, whose Opinion is the more considerable, because it was matter of constant practise among them.

39 And it shall be unto you for a fringe g, that ye may look upon it, and remember h all the commandments of the LORD, and do them: and that ye seek not i after your own heart, and your own eyes k, after which ye use to go a whoring l:

g It (i. e.) the ribband, shall be unto you, i. e. shall serve you for the fringe, to wit, to render it more visible and notorious by its certain and remarkable and distinct colour, whereas the fringe without this was of the same piece and colour with the garment, and therefore less observable. Or it, (i. e.) the ribband, shall be in your fringes, or, put to your fringes, fastened to them. h That by looking upon it you may remember, that your eye may affect your mind and heart. i Or, inquire not for other rules or ways of serving me than I have prescribed you. k (i. e.) Neither after the devices and inventions of your own minds or hearts, as Nadab and Abihu did when they offered strange fire, and as you now did when you pretended to serve and please me by going up the hill and towards Canaan without and against my command; nor after the examples or inventions of others which your eyes see, as you did when you were set upon worshipping a calf after the manner of Egypt. l (i. e.) To depart from me, and to prefer your own fancies before my commands, and to live only by present sight or sence, and not at all by faith in my promises.

40 That ye may remember, and do all my commandments, and be holy unto your God.

41 I am the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD your God m.

m Though I am justly displeased with you for your frequent and horrid rebellions, for which also I will keep you 40 years in the Wilderness, yet I will not utterly cast you off, but will continue to be your God, to preserve and provide for you there, and after that time to bring you into Canaan.

Or, Korah, Dathan and Abiram, and the reſt, who were all together when Moſes ſpake thoſe words, ver. 5, 6, 7. but after that Dathan and Abiram retired to their tents, and then Moſes ſent for Korah and the Levites, who had more ſpecial and more colourable pretences to the Prieſthood, and treats with them apart, and ſpeaks what is mentioned ver. 8, 9, 10, 11. and then having diſpatched them, he ſends for Dathan and Abiram, ver. 12. that he might reaſon the caſe with them alſo apart. k Againſt Aaron, to whom the Prieſthood was confined, and againſt Moſes, both becauſe this was done by his order, and becauſe before Aarons conſecration Moſes appropriated it to himſelf. For whatever they intended, they ſeem not now directly to ſtrike at Moſes for his ſupreme civil government, but only for his intereſt and influence in the diſpoſal of the Prieſthood, as may appear by the whole context, and particularly by ver. 5, 10, 15, &c. l By perpetuating the Prieſthood in your ſelves and family, with the excluſion of all others from it. m A kingdom of Prieſts, an holy nation, as they are called, Exod. 19. 6. a people ſeparated to the ſervice of God, and therefore no leſs fit to preſent themſelves before God, and to offer ſacrifice and incenſe for themſelves than you are. n By his Tabernacle and Cloud, the tokens of his ſpecial and gracious preſence, and therefore ready to receive all their ſacrifices and ſervices from their own hands. o Thou Moſes by preſcribing what laws thou pleaſeſt about the Prieſthood, and confining it to thy brother; and thou Aaron, by uſurping it as thy peculiar priviledge.

But becauſe they would not now go up, therefore they went down quick into the pit, ver. 33.

13 Is it a ſmall thing that thou haſt brought us up out of a land that floweth with milk and honey g, to kill us in the wilderneſs, except thou make thy ſelf altogether a prince over us?

g (i. e.) Out of Egypt, a place indeed of great plenty, but to them a place of torment and intolerable ſlavery. They invidiouſly and ſcoffingly uſe the ſame words wherewith God by Moſes commended the land of Canaan.

14 Moreover, thou haſt not brought us into a land that floweth with milk and honey, or given us inheritance of fields and vineyards: wilt thou † put out the eyes of theſe men h? we will not come up i.

h (i. e.) Of thoſe who are confederate with us, and of all the people, who are of our mind. Wilt thou make them blind, or perſwade them that they are blind, and that they do not ſee what is viſible to all that have eyes, to wit, that thou haſt deceived them, and broken thy faith and promiſe given to them? or wilt thou lead them about like blind men whither thou pleaſeſt, one time towards Canaan, another time toward Egypt again? i We will not obey thy ſummons, nor own thy authority.

15 And

15 And Moſes was very wroth k, and ſaid unto the LORD, * Reſpect not thou their offering l: I * have not taken one aſs m from them, neither have I hurt one of them n.

* Gen. 4. 4,5.
* Acts 20. 33.

k Not ſo much for his own ſake, for he had learnt to bear indignities, Numb. 12. as for Gods ſake, who was highly diſhonoured, blaſphemed and provoked, by theſe ſpeeches and carriages, in which caſe he ought to be angry, as Chriſt was, Mark 3. 5. l (i. e.) Accept not their incenſe which they are now going to offer, but ſhew ſome eminent diſlike of it. He calls it their offering, though it was offered by Korah and his companions, becauſe it was offered in the name and by the conſent of all the conſpirators, for the deciſion of the preſent controverſie between them and Moſes. m (i. e.) Not any thing of the ſmalleſt value, as an aſs was. See 1 Sam. 12. 3. n I have never injured them, nor uſed my power to defraud or oppreſs them, as I might have done, but, which is here implied, I have done them many good offices, but no hurt; therefore their crime is inexcuſable, becauſe without any cauſe or provocation on my part.

16 And Moſes ſaid unto Korah, Be thou and all thy company before the LORD o, thou, and they, and Aaron to morrow.

o Not in the Tabernacle, which was not capable of ſo many perſons ſeverally offering incenſe; but at the door of the Tabernacle, ver. 18. which place is oft ſaid to be before the Lord, as Exod. 29. 42. Levit. 1. 11, &c. where they might now lawfully offer it by Moſes his direction upon this extraordinary occaſion and neceſſity, becauſe this work could not be done in that place, which alone was allowed for the offering up of incenſe, not only for its ſmallneſs, but alſo becauſe none but Prieſts might enter to do this work. Here alſo the people, who were to be inſtructed by this experiment, might ſee the proof and ſucceſs of it.

17 And take every man his cenſer, and put incenſe in them, and bring ye before the LORD every man his cenſer, two hundred and fifty cenſers: thou alſo and Aaron, each of you his cenſer.

18 And they took every man his cenſer p, and put fire in them q, and laid incenſe thereon, and ſtood in the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, with Moſes and Aaron.

p Which they could eaſily make in a ſlight manner, which would ſuffice for the preſent purpoſe. q Taken from the Altar which ſtood in that place, Levit. 1. 3, 5. for Aaron might not uſe other fire, Levit. 10. 1. And it is likely the remembrance of the death of Nadab and Abihu deterred them from offering any ſtrange fire.

19 And Korah gathered all the congregation r againſt them, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and the glory of the LORD appeared ſ unto all the congregation.

r That they might be Witneſſes of the event, and, upon their ſucceſs, which they doubted not of, might fall upon Moſes and Aaron with popular rage and deſtroy them. And it ſeems by this, that the people were generally incenſed againſt Moſes, and inclined to Korah's ſide. ſ In the cloud, which then ſhone with greater brightneſs and Majeſty, as a token of Gods approach and preſence. See Exod. 16. 7, 10. Levit. 9. 6, 23. Numb. 20. 6.

21 * Separate your ſelves from among this congregation ‖, that I may conſume them in a moment.

* Gen. 19. 17, 22. Jer. 51. 6. Rev. 18. 4.

‖ To wit, Korah, and his 250 men, and the people whom he gathered againſt Moſes and Aaron, ver. 19.

22 And they fell upon their faces, and ſaid, O God, * the God of the ſpirits t of all fleſh u, ſhall one man x ſin, and wilt thou be wroth with all the congregation?

* chap. 27. 16. Job 12. 10. Eccl. 12. 7. Iſa. 57. 16. Zech. 12. 1. Heb. 12. 9.

t (i. e.) Of ſouls, as the word ſpirit in Scripture is oft uſed, as Pſal. 31. 5. and 77. 3. Prov. 17. 22. Eccl. 12. 7. Luke 23. 46. Acts 7. 59. And this is no empty title here, but very emphatical and argumentative, thus, Thou art the maker of ſpirits, Zech. 12. 1. deſtroy not thy own workmanſhip, Iſa. 64. 8. O thou who art the preſerver of men, and of their ſpirits: the Lord of ſpirits, Job 12. 10. who as thou maiſt juſtly deſtroy this people, ſo thou canſt preſerve whom thou pleaſeſt: the father of ſpirits, Heb. 12. 9. O deal mercifully with thy own children: the ſearcher of ſpirits, thou canſt diſtinguiſh between thoſe who have maliciouſly raiſed this tumult, and thoſe whoſe ignorance and ſimple credulity hath made them a prey to crafty ſeducers. u (i. e.) Of all mankind: the word fleſh is oft put for men, as Gen. 6. 13. Job 12. 10. Iſa. 40. 5, 6. Ezek. 20. 48. and 21. 4, 5. x To wit, Korah, the ringleader of this ſedition.

24 Speak unto the congregation y, ſaying, Get ye up from about the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram z.

y Whom for your ſakes I will ſpare upon the condition here following. z And On too, who is mentioned ver. 1. though ſome think he deſiſted and repented, and therefore is not now mentioned.

25 And Moſes roſe up, and went unto Dathan and Abiram a: and the elders of Iſrael b followed him.

a Becauſe they refuſed to come to him, he goes to them, to their coſt. b The 70 rulers, whom he carried with him for the greater ſolemnity of the action, and for his own better vindication, becauſe he lay under ſuch calumnies, and to encourage them in their work, notwithſtanding the obſtinate and intractable Nature of the people they were to govern.

26 And he ſpake unto the congregation, ſaying, Depart, I pray you, from the tents of theſe wicked men c, and touch nothing of theirs d, leſt ye be conſumed in all their ſins e.

c Shew your diſlike of them and their wicked ways, by a ſpeedy removal of your perſons, and tents from about them. d Becauſe they and all that was theirs was under a curſe, and therefore not to be touched. See Deut. 13. 16, 17. e Leſt being guilty of their ſins, you periſh together with them.

27 So they gat up from the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram f, on every ſide: and Dathan and Abiram came out, and ſtood in the door of their tents g, and their wives, and their ſons, and their little children.

f Whoſe tents were not far aſunder, being both on the ſouth-ſide of the Tabernacle, as appears from Numb. 2. 10. and 3. 29. g An argument of their fooliſh confidence, pride and impudence, obſtinacy and impenitency, whereby they declared, that they neither feared God, nor reverenced man; and made themſelves ripe for the approaching judgment.

28 And Moſes ſaid, Hereby ye ſhall know that the LORD hath ſent me to do all theſe works h, for I have not done them † of mine own mind i.

h To wit, which I have done, and for which I am traduced by theſe and ſuch like wicked men, as the bringing of the people out of Egypt; the conducting of them through, and the keeping of them ſo long in the Wilderneſs; the exerciſing of power and authority among and over them; giving of laws to them, as about other things, ſo concerning the Prieſthood, which is the ground of the preſent quarrel; and, that which vexeth them moſt, that when they were upon the borders of Canaan, and ready to enter in, I ſhould cauſe them to go back into this vaſt howling Wilderneſs, and fix them there for forty years. i By pretending, or uſurping an authority which God gave me not, by feigning Words or Meſſages from God to eſtabliſh my own inventions, and to comply with my own Will, or Luſt, or Intereſt, as I am now accuſed to have done. For this phraſe ſee Numb. 24. 13. Ezek. 13. 2.

29 If theſe men die † the common death of all men k, or if they be viſited after the viſitation of all men l, then the LORD hath not ſent me m.

k (i. e.) By a natural death. l (i. e.) By plague, or ſword, or ſome uſual judgment. m (i. e.) I am content that you take me for an impoſtor, falſly pretending to be ſent of God. This he might well ſay, becauſe he was inſpired by God to ſay this, and infallibly aſſured by God that this ſhould be done.

30 But if the LORD † make a new thing n, and the earth open her mouth and ſwallow them up, with all that appertain unto them, and they go down quick † into the pit o: then ye ſhall underſtand that theſe men have provoked the LORD p.

n (i. e.) Do ſuch a work as was never heard before. o (i. e.) Into the grave which God thereby makes. The Hebrew word Scheol ſometimes ſignifies hell, and ſometimes the grave, as Gen. 37. 35. Pſal. 55. 15. p By making his Words and Works to be nothing but my devices and artifices.

* chap. 26. 10. and 27. 3. Deut. 11. 6. Pſal. 106. 17.

32 And the earth opened her mouth, and *See ver. 17 & chap. 26. 11. ſwallowed them up, and their houſes, and * all the men that appertained unto Korah q, and all their goods.

q (i. e.) All his family which were there, Women, Children, and Servants: but his Sons, who were ſpared, Numb. 26. 11, 58. 1 Chron. 6. 22, 37. were abſent either upon ſome ſervice of the Tabernacle, or upon ſome other occaſion, God ſo ordering it by his providence, either becauſe they diſliked their fathers act, or upon Moſes his interceſſion for them, or for ſome other reaſon. This expreſſion may ſeem to intimate, that Korah himſelf was not here, but that he continued with his 250 men before the Lord, ver. 18, 19. where they were waiting for Gods deciſion of the controverſie, nor is it probable, that their Chief Captain would deſert them, and leave them ſtanding there without an head, eſpecially when Aaron, his great adverſary, abode there ſtill, and did not go with Moſes to Dathan, &c. ver. 25. And Korah may ſeem to have been conſumed with thoſe 250, ver. 35. though he be not mentioned there, but is eaſily underſtood both by comparing that verſe with ver. 16, 17, 18. and from the nature of the thing it ſelf, there being no cauſe of doubt but that deſtruction which befel the acceſſaries, did much more involve the principal. And ſo much is intimated ver. 40. that no ſtranger come near to offer incenſe before the Lord, that he be not as Korah, and as his company, i. e. deſtroyed, as they were, by fire from the Lord. And when the Pſalmiſt relates this hiſtory, Pſal. 106. the Earths ſwallowing them up is confined to Dathan and Abiram, ver. 17. and for all the reſt of that conſpiracy, it is added ver. 18. And a fire was kindled in their company, the flame burnt up the wicked. As for Numb. 26. 10. which ſeems to oppoſe this Opinion, we ſhall ſee more on that place, if God permit.

33 They, and all that appertained to them, † Heb. Hell. went down alive into † the pit r, and the earth cloſed upon them; and they periſhed from among the congregation.

r (i. e.) Into the earth, which firſt opened it ſelf to receive them, and then ſhut it ſelf to deſtroy them, and tranſmit them to further puniſhments.

34 And all Iſrael that were round about them, fled at the cry of them: for they ſaid, Leſt the earth ſwallow up us alſo.

35 And there * came out a fire from the LORD ſ, and conſumed the two hundred and fifty men that offered incenſe.

ſ (i. e.) From the cloud, wherein the glory of the Lord appeared, ver. 19. to give ſentence in this cauſe.

36 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

37 Speak unto Eleazar t the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, that he take up the cenſers out of the burning u, and ſcatter thou the fire x yonder y, for they are hallawed z.

t Rather than to Aaron, partly becauſe the troubleſome part of the work was more proper for him, and partly leaſt Aaron ſhould be polluted by going amongſt thoſe dead carcaſes; for it is probable this fire conſumed them, as lightning ſometimes doth others, by taking away their lives, and leaving their bodies dead upon the place. u (i. e.) From among the dead bodies of thoſe men who were burnt: Burning put for thoſe who are burnt, as captivity for the captives, Numb. 21. 1. and poverty for the poor, 2 Kings 24. 14. x (i. e.) The cinders or aſhes which are left in or near their cenſers. y (i. e.) Far from the altar and ſanctuary into an unclean place, where the aſhes were wont to be caſt: by which God ſhews his rejection of their ſervices. z Either 1. by Gods appointment, becauſe they were preſented before the Lord by his expreſs order, ver. 16, 17. Or 2. by Gods juſt judgment, becauſe they together with the perſons that uſed them, were accurſed and devoted by God, and therefore were the Lords, and not to be imployed in any profane or common uſe, as appears from Lev. 27. 28. But the firſt Reaſon is the chief, and is rendred by God himſelf, ver. 38.

38 The cenſers of theſe ſinners againſt their own ſouls a, let them make them broad plates for a covering of the altar b: for they offered them before the LORD, therefore they are hallowed, and they ſhall be a ſign c unto the children of Iſrael.

a (i. e.) Their own lives: who were the authors of their own death and deſtruction, Compare 1 Kings 2. 23. Prov. 20. 2. This he ſaith for the vindication of Gods juſtice and his own miniſtry in this ſevere diſpenſation. b To wit, of burnt-offerings, which was made of VVood, but covered with Braſs, before this time, Exod. 27. 1, 2. to which this other covering was added for further ornament and ſecurity againſt the fire which was continually burning upon it. c A monument or warning to all ſtrangers to take heed of invading the Prieſthood, as it follows, ver. 40.

39 And Eleazar the Prieſt took the brazen cenſers, wherewith they that were burnt had offered, and they were made broad plates for a covering of the altar:

40 To be a memorial unto the children of Iſrael, that no ſtranger, which is not of the ſeed of Aaron, come near to offer incenſe before the LORD, that he be not as Korah, and as his company d: as the LORD ſaid to him e by the hand of Moſes.

d (i. e.) That he do not imitate them in their ſin; and therefore bring upon himſelf the ſame plague. e (i. e.) To Eleazar. Theſe words belong to ver. 38. the meaning is, that Eleazar did as God bad him.

41 But on the morrow f all the congregation of the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes and againſt Aaron, ſaying, ye have killed g the people of the LORD h.

f Prodigious wickedneſs and madneſs ſo ſoon to forget ſuch a terrible inſtance of divine vengeance. g You who ſhould have preſerved them and interceded for them, have pulled down Gods VVrath upon them, for the maintenance of your own authority and intereſt. h So they call thoſe wicked VVretches, and Rebels againſt God: which ſhews the power of paſſion and prejudice to corrupt mens judgments.

42 And it came to paſs, when the congregation was gathered againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron, that they i looked toward the tabernacle of the congregation: and behold, the cloud covered it, and the glory of the LORD appeared.

i (i. e.) Moſes and Aaron, who in all their diſtreſſes made God their refuge.

43 And Moſes and Aaron came before the tabernacle of the congregation k.

k To hear what God, who now appeared, would ſay to him.

44 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

45 Get ye up from among this congregation, that I may conſume them as in a moment: and they fell upon their faces k.

l To beg pardon and mercy for the people, as they oft did; thus rendring good to them for evil, which the people requited with evil for their kindneſs.

46 And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, Take a cenſer, and put fire therein from off the altar, and put on incenſe m, and go quickly unto the congregation n. and make an atonement for them: for there is wrath gone out from the LORD; the plague is begun o.

m Which was a ſign of interceſſion, Pſal. 141. 2. and was to be accompanied with it, Luke 1. 9, 10. n VVith the incenſe, to ſtir up the people to repentance and prayer, to prevent their utter ruine. This he might do upon this extraordinary occaſion, having Gods Command for his Warrant, though ordinarily incenſe was to be offered only in the Tabernacle. o In cutting off the people by a ſudden and miraculous ſtroke.

47 And Aaron took as Moſes commanded, and ran into the midſt of the congregation p: and behold, the plague was begun amongſt the people: and he put on incenſe, and made an atoneme nt for the people.

p Hazarding his own life to obey God, and to do this wicked people good.

48 And he ſtood between the dead and the living q, and the plague was ſtayed.

q VVhereby it may ſeem that this plague, like that fire, Numb. 11. 1. began in the uttermoſt parts of the congregation, and ſo proceeded, deſtroying one after another in an orderly manner, which gave Aaron occaſion and direction ſo to place himſelf, as a Mediator to God on their behalf.

49 Now they that died in the plague, were fourteen thouſand and ſeven hundred, beſide them that died about the matter of Korah.

50 And Aaron returned unto Moſes unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and the plague was ſtayed.

CHAP.

CHAP. XVII.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael a, and take of every one of them b a rod c, according to the houſe of their fathers d of all their princes according to the houſe of their fathers, twelve rods: write thou every mans e name upon his rod.

a That I may fully and finally ſatisfie all their ſcruples, and take away all pretence and cauſe of murmuring. b Not of every perſon, but of every Tribe, as it follows. c Either an ordinary walking-ſtaff; or rather, that ſtaff or rod, which the Princes carried in their hands, as tokens of their dignity and authority, as may be gathered from Numb. 21.18. compared with Pſal. 110.2. Jer. 48.16,17. d (i.e.) According to each family proceeding from the Patriarch or Father of that tribe. e (i.e.) Every princes: for they being the firſt-born and the chief of their tribes might above all others pretend to the Prieſthood, if it was communicable to any of their tribes, and beſides each Prince repreſented and acted for all his tribe: ſo that this was a full deciſion of the whole queſtion. And this place ſeems to confirm, what was before obſerved, that not only Korah and the Levites, but alſo thoſe of other Tribes conteſted with Moſes and Aaron about the Prieſthood, as that which belonged to all the congregation, they being all holy, as they ſaid, Numb. 16.3.

3 And thou ſhalt write Aarons name f upon the rod of Levi, for one rod ſhall be for the head of the houſe of their fathers g.

f Rather than Levi's name, for that would have left the controverſie undecided between Aaron and the other Levites, whereas this would juſtifie the appropriation of the Prieſthood to Aarons family. g (i.e.) There ſhall be in this, as there is in all the other Tribes, only one rod, and that for the head of their Tribe, who is Aaron in this Tribe: whereas it might have been expected that there ſhould have been two rods, one for Aaron, and another for his competitors of the ſame Tribe. But Aarons name was ſufficient to determine both the Tribe, and that branch or family of the Tribe, to whom this dignity ſhould be affixed.

4 And thou ſhalt lay them up in the tabernacle of the congregation, before the teſtimony h, *Exod.25.22. * where I will meet with you i.

h (i.e.) Before the Ark of the teſtimony, either mediately, cloſe by the vail behind which the Ark ſtood; or rather immediately, within the vail in the moſt holy place, cloſe by the Ark, as may be gathered by comparing this place with ver. 10. and with Heb. 9.4. i And manifeſt my mind to you for the ending of this diſpute.

5 And it ſhall come to paſs, that the mans rod whom I ſhall chuſe, ſhall bloſſom: and I will make to ceaſe from me the murmurings of the children of Iſrael, whereby they murmur againſt you,

6 And Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, and every one of their princes gave him † a rod a-piece, for each prince one, according to their fathers houſes, even twelve rods: and the rod of Aaron was among their rods k.

k (i.e.) VVas laid up with the reſt, being either one of the twelve, as the Hebrews affirm, or the thirteenth, as others think.

7 And Moſes laid up the rods before the LORD in the tabernacle of witneſs.

8 And it came to paſs, that on the morrow Moſes went into the tabernacle of witneſs l, and behold, the rod of Aaron for the houſe of Levi was budded, and brought forth buds, and bloomed bloſſoms, and yielded almonds m.

l Into the moſt holy place, which he might ſafely do under the protection of Gods command, though otherwiſe none but the High-prieſt might enter there, and that once in a year. m This being, as Joſephus with great probability affirms, a ſtaff of an Almond-tree, as the reſt alſo were.

9 And Moſes brought out all the rods from before the LORD, unto all the children of Iſrael: and they looked, and took every man his rod.

10 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, * Bring Aarons rod again before the teſtimony, to be kept for a token againſt the † rebels, and thou ſhalt quite take away their murmurings from me, that they die not n.

n For if after all theſe Warnings and Prohibitions, backt with ſuch miracles and judgments, they ſhall uſurp the Prieſthood, they ſhall aſſuredly die for it.

11 And Moſes did ſo: as the LORD commanded him, ſo did he.

12 And the children of Iſrael ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, Behold, we die, we periſh, we all periſh o.

o VVords of conſternation ariſing partly from the remembrance of theſe ſevere and repeated judgments, partly from the threatning of Death upon any ſucceeding murmurings, partly from the ſence of their own guilt and weakneſs which made them fear leſt they ſhould relapſe into the ſame miſcarriages, and thereby bring the vengeance of God upon themſelves.

13 Whoſoever cometh any thing near p unto the tabernacle of the LORD, ſhall die: ſhall we be conſumed with dying q?

p (i.e.) Nearer than he ſhould do, an error which we may eaſily commit. q VVill God proceed with us in theſe ſevere courſes, according to his ſtrict juſtice? Will he ſhew us no mercy nor pity, till all the people be cut off and deſtroyed with dying one after another?

CHAP. XVIII.

1 AND the LORD ſaid unto Aaron, Thou, and thy ſons, and thy fathers houſe with thee, ſhall bear * the iniquity of the ſanctuary a: * Lev. 18.25. and thou and thy ſons with thee, ſhall bear the iniquity of your prieſthood b.

a (i.e.) Shall ſuffer the puniſhment of all the uſurpations or pollutions of the Sanctuary, or the holy things by the Levites, or any of the people, becauſe you have authority and power from me to keep them all within their bounds, and I expect you uſe it to that end. Thus the people are in good meaſure ſecured againſt their fears expreſſed Numb. 17.12,13. Alſo they are informed that Aaron's high dignity was attended with great burdens, having not only his own but the peoples ſins to anſwer for, and therefore they had no ſuch reaſon to envy him, as they might think, if the benefits and encumbrances and dangers were equally conſidered. b (i.e.) Of all the errors committed by your ſelves, or by you permitted in others in things belonging to your Prieſthood.

2 And thy brethren alſo of the tribe of Levi, the tribe of thy father, bring thou with thee, that they may be * joyned unto thee, and miniſter unto thee c, but thou and thy ſons with thee ſhall miniſter d before the tabernacle of witneſs. * See Gen. 29. 34.

c About ſacrifices and offerings, and other things, according to the rules and limits I have preſcribed them. The Levites are ſaid to miniſter to Aaron here, to the Church, Numb. 16.9. and to God, Deut. 10.8. They ſhall not contend with thee for ſuperiority, as they have done, but they ſhall be ſubordinate and ſervants to thee. d Or, both to thee and to thy ſons with thee; which Tranſlation may ſeem to be favoured by the following words, before the tabernacle, which was the proper place where the Levites miniſtred, whereas the Prieſts did miniſter to God both before and in the Tabernacle. Beſides, both the foregoing Words and the Two following Verſes do entirely ſpeak of the miniſtry of the Levites, and the miniſtry of the Prieſts is diſtinctly ſpoken of, ver. 5.

3 And they ſhall keep thy charge e, and the charge of all the tabernacle f: only they ſhall not come nigh the veſſels of the ſanctuary, and the altar g, that neither they, nor ye h alſo die.

e (i.e.) That which thou ſhalt command them and commit unto them. f (i.e.) Of the boards and hangings and utenſils of the Tabernacle, to take them down and carry them and ſet them up again. g Which therefore were to be covered by the Prieſts before the Levites might meddle with them. h They for preſuming to touch them, and you for your negligence in not covering them well, or not looking to them.

4 And they ſhall be joyned unto thee, and keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, for all the ſervice of the tabernacle: and a ſtranger ſhall not come nigh unto you.

5 And ye ſhall keep the charge of the ſanctuary i, and the charge of the altar, that there be no wrath any more upon the children of Iſrael k.

i (i.e.) Of the holy, and of the most holy place. k For coming too near the holy place, or for usurping any part of your sacred function, or for any other miscarriage which they may be guilty of through your carelesness or remissness, in which case they shall perish for their error, but their blood will I require at your hands, who should have advised them better, or over-ruled them.

* chap. 3. 12, 45. * chap. 3. 9.

6 And I, behold, I have * taken your brethren the Levites from among the children of Israel: to * you they are given as a gift for the LORD l, to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation.

l (i.e.) For the service of the Lord, to assist you therein, in the servile and troublesome parts of it.

7 Therefore thou and thy sons with thee shall keep your priests office for every thing of the altar m, and within the vail n, and ye shall serve: I have given your priests office unto you, as a service of gift o: and the stranger that cometh nigh shall be put to death.

m To wit, of burnt-offering, as appears from the following words. n This phrase elsewhere signifies the inward or second vail, but here it signifies either the outward vail only, or rather both the vails, the singular number being put for the plural, as when the altar is put for both the altars, as hath been noted; and so this phrase comprehends both the holy, and the most holy place. o As a gift which I have freely conferred upon you, and upon you alone; and therefore let no man henceforth dare either to charge you with arrogance and usurpation in appropriating this to your selves, or to invade your Office.

8 And the LORD spake unto Aaron, Behold, I also have given thee the charge of mine heave-offerings, of all the hallowed things of the children of Israel, unto thee have I given them p by reason of the anointing q, and to thy sons by an ordinance for ever.

p Not only the charge of them, but the use of them for thy self and family, in such manner as I have elsewhere expressed. q To wit, to the Priestly Office, i.e. because thou art Priest, and art to devote thy self wholly to my service, which that thou maist perform more diligently and chearfully, I give thee this recompense.

9 This shall be thine of the most holy things r, reserved from the fire s: every oblation t of theirs, every * meat-offering of theirs, and every * sin-offering of theirs, and every * trespass-offering of theirs, which they shall render unto me u, shall be most holy for thee, and for thy sons x.

* Lev. 2. 2, 3. * Lev. 4. 22, 27. and 6. 25. * Lev. 5. 6. & 7. 7. & 14. 13.

r Such as were to be eaten only by the Priests, and that in the Sanctuary. How these differ from the holy things, see on Levit. 6. 17. s (i.e.) Such sacrifices or such parts of sacrifices as were not burnt in the fire. t Which may be understood either 1. of the wave-loaves, Levit. 23. 17. and the shew-bread, which were most holy things, Lev. 23. 20. and 24. 9. and which did belong to the Priest, nor was there any other such Oblation, besides what is here particularly expressed: for the peace-offerings were not most holy, and the burnt-offerings were not the Priests. Or, 2. of Oblations in general; and so the following particulars are mentioned by way of explication and restriction of that general word, to shew what Oblations are here meant, and to exclude peace-offerings and burnt-offerings. u By way of compensation for a Trespass committed against me, in which case a ram was to be offered, Lev. 6. 2.——6. which was a most holy thing, and may be particularly designed here. x Thou shalt esteem it as a most holy thing, and shalt use it accordingly, in manner following. Or, these are most holy, and therefore shall be for thee and for thy sons, to wit, exclusively, none else may eat them.

10 In the most holy place y shalt thou eat it, every male z shall eat it: it shall be holy unto thee.

y To wit, in the court of the Priests, where there were places for this use. See Lev. 6. 16, 17, 26. and 7. 6. and 8. 31. and 14. 13. Neh. 13. 5, 9. Ezek. 42. 13. which is called the most holy place, not simply and absolutely, as the place within the vail was, but in respect of the thing he speaks of, because this was the most holy of all the places appointed for eating of holy things, whereof some might be eaten in any clean place in the Camp, Lev. 10. 14. or in their own houses. And as the most holy place is sometimes called simply Holy, so it is not strange if an holy place be called most holy, especially this place which was near to the altar of burnt-offerings, which is called most holy, and made all that touched it holy, Exod. 29. 37. And God would have these things eaten by them in an holy place, as in Gods presence, that they might be obliged to the greater caution, and not to abuse Gods good creatures, and especially holy things, to intemperance, and that they might learn to eat this and their other food with thankfulness to God, the giver of it, and with respect to his service and glory, which was afterward prescribed to Christians, 1 Cor. 10. 31. 1 Tim. 4. 3. z And they only, whereas of peace-offerings the females might eat their share, Deut. 12. 18.

11 And this is thine: the heave-offering a of their gift b, with all the wave-offerings c of the children of Israel: I have given them unto * thee, and to thy sons, and to thy daughters with thee d, by a statute for ever: * every one that is clean in thy house e shall eat of it.

* Lev. 10. 14. Deut. 18. 3. * Lev. 22. 2.

a (i.e.) The right-shoulder, which was the Priests. b To wit, of their peace-offerings, as may appear, because here is an enumeration of all that belonged to the Priest in the several Oblations, and therefore it is not likely that he would omit the peace-offerings, wherein the Priest had a share, and the very share here spoken of and called an heave-offering, which was the right shoulder, Lev. 7. 32. which also might be eaten by the daughters, Lev. 7. 34. and 10. 14. as is here said. See Numb. 6. 17, &c. c To wit, the breasts of the peace-offerings, which were waved, Lev. 7. 30, 31, 34. d (i.e.) Who are with thee in thy house, for if they were married to strangers, they might not eat of them, Lev. 22. 12, 13. d To wit, as fixed members of thy house, though they be bond-slaves: for strangers and hired servants were excepted, Lev. 22. 10, 11.

12 * All the † best f of the oil, and all the best of the wine, and of the wheat, the first fruits of them g which they shall offer unto the LORD, them have I given thee.

* Deut. 18. 4. † Heb. fat.

f Heb. the fat for the best: the fat of wheat is the best of it, Deut. 32. 14. Psal. 81. 16. and 147. 14. g As well those which were offered in the name and behalf of the body of the people at the solemn feasts, Lev. 23. 10. 17. as those which were required of particular persons, Exod. 22. 29. and 23. 19. whereof the precise quantity is not determined, but left free to the giver, as an exercise for his piety and charity, only they are enjoyned to give the first and the best of them.

13 And whatsoever is first ripe h in the land, * which they shall bring unto the LORD, shall be thine: every one that is clean i in thine house, shall eat of it.

* Exod. 22. 29. and 23. 19. and 34. 26. Lev. 2. 14. chap. 15. 20. Deut. 26. 2.

h (i.e.) Not only the first-fruits of the oil and wine and wheat now mentioned, but all other first-fruits of all other grains, and all fruit-trees, &c. i And none else, because these were first offered to God, and by consequent given to the Priests; but for those which were directly and immediately given to the Priests, the clean and unclean might eat of them.

14 * Every thing devoted k in Israel, shall be thine.

* Lev. 27. 28.

k Dedicated to God by vow or otherwise, provided it be such a thing as might be eaten or consumed by use: for the vessels or treasures of gold and silver which were devoted or dedicated by Joshua, David, or others, were not the Priests, but were appropriated to the uses of the Temple.

15 Every thing that openeth * the matrix in all flesh, which they bring unto the LORD, whether it be of men l or beasts, shall be thine: nevertheless, the * first-born of man shalt thou surely redeem, and the firstling of unclean beasts shalt thou redeem.

* Exod. 13. 2. & 22. 29. Lev. 27. 26. chap. 3. 13. * Exod. 34. 20.

l Which were offered to God in his Temple, Exod. 13. 12. Luke 2. 22. and to his service and disposal.

16 And those that are to be redeemed m, from a month old shalt thou redeem, according to thine estimation n, for the money of five shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary, * which is twenty gerahs.

* Exod. 30. 13. Lev. 27. 25. chap. 3. 47. Ezek. 45. 12.

m To wit, of men only, not of unclean beasts last mentioned, as is manifest from the time and price of redemption here mentioned, both which agree to men, the time, Numb. 18. 16. the price, Numb. 3. 46, 47. but neither agree to unclean beasts, which were to be redeemed with a sheep, Exod. 13. 13. and that after it was eight days old. n This belongs either 1. to the foregoing clause, to this purpose, that whereas Women newly delivered of a child, continued in their uncleanness either a longer or a shorter time, according to the quality of the birth, as it was male or female, Levit. 12. 4, 5. and the temper of the mother, the Priest was to take that time when he judged the mother to be clean, that so the mother might be purified, and the child redeemed at the same time. Or rather 2. to the following clause, to wit, the price which which was to be paid, as appears by comparing this place with Lev. 27. 2, 3. And both there and here it is said to be done according to the Priests estimation, though a certain rule be added to guide his estimation, and a certain price set, because the Priest was to apply that general rule to each person, and to put that price upon him.

17 But the firstling of a cow, or the firstling of a sheep, or the firstling of a goat, thou shalt not redeem, they are holy o: thou shalt sprinkle their blood upon the altar; and shalt burn their fat for an offering made by fire, for a sweet savour unto the LORD.

o To wit, in a peculiar manner, and higher degree than other beasts, consecrated to an holy use, even to be sacrificed unto God, and not to be redeemed, nor alienated to any other use. Compare Deut. 15. 19.

18 And the flesh p of them shall be thine: as
* Exod. 29. 26, 28. the * wave-breast, and as the right shoulder are thine.

p All the flesh of them, and not only some parts, as in other sacrifices.

19 All the heave-offerings of the holy things, which the children of Israel offer unto the LORD, have I given thee, and thy sons, and thy daughters with thee, by a statute for ever: it is a covenant of salt q for ever, before the LORD, unto thee, and to thy seed with thee.

q (i. e.) A durable and perpetual covenant, so called here and 2 Chron. 13. 5. either, because salt is a sign of incorruption, as being of singular use to preserve things from corruption: or, because it is confirmed and ratified on their part by salt, which is therefore called the salt of the covenant, for which the Priests were obliged to take care, that it should never be lacking from any meat-offering, Levit. 2. 13. And this promise or priviledge conferred upon the Priests is called a covenant, because it is given them conditionally, upon condition of their service, and care about the Worship of God, and sacrifices, which were commonly accompanied with meat-offerings, and therefore with salt.

20 And the LORD spake unto Aaron, Thou shalt have no inheritance in their land r, neither * Deut 10. 9. & 12. 12. & 18. 2. Josh. 13. 14, 33. Ezek. 44. 28. shalt thou have any part among them: * I am thy part s, and thine inheritance among the children of Israel.

r (i. e.) In the land of the children of Israel, mentioned ver. 19. You shall not have a distinct and separate portion of land, as the other Tribes shall. The reason of this law was, partly because God would have them wholly devoted to and employed in his service, and therefore free from worldly incumbrances and businesses; partly because God had abundantly provided for them otherwise by tithes and first-fruits and Oblations of all sorts; partly because God would have their worldly comfort and happiness depend singly upon him and his service, and so would oblige them to use more zeal and diligence in the advancement of piety, even for their own interest, which was either better or worse as true religion flourished or decayed. See Judg. 17. 9, 10. and 19. 18. 2 Chron. 13. 9. and 30. 22. and 31. 4. partly that this might be a firm bond of hearty love and affection between the people and their teachers the Levites, who as they performed religious services for the people, so they received their subsistence from them; and partly that by this means being dispersed among the several Tribes, they might have the better opportunity for teaching and watching over the people, which was their duty, Deut. 33. 10. 2 Chron. 30. 22. Mal. 2. 4, 5, 6, 7. s (i. e.) I have appointed thee a liberal maintenance out of my Oblations.

* Lev. 27. 30. 21 And behold, * I have given the children of Levi all the tenth t in Israel, for an inheritance, for their service which they serve, even the service of the tabernacle of the congregation.

t For the Tithes were all given to the Levites, and out of their Tithes the Tenth was given to the Priests, here ver. 26, &c. and Neh. 10. 37, 38.

22 Neither must the children of Israel henceforth come nigh the tabernacle of the congrega-† Heb. to die. tion u, lest they bear sin, † and die.

u (i. e.) So nigh as to do any act proper to the Priests or Levites.

23 But the Levites shall do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation, and they shall bear their iniquity x: it shall be a statute for ever throughout their generations, that among the children of Israel they have no inheritance.

x (i. e.) The punishment due not only for their own, but also for the peoples miscarriage, if it be committed through their connivance or negligence. And this was the reason why the Priests withstood their King Uzziah, when he would have burnt incense to the Lord, 2 Chron. 26 17, 18.

24 But the tithes of the children of Israel, which they offer as an heave-offering unto the LORD y, I have given to the Levites to inherit: therefore I have said unto them, Among the children of Israel they shall have no inheritance.

y (i. e.) As a rent-charge or an acknowledgment that they have and hold all their lands and the fruits of it from God's bounty. Note, that the word heave offering, which is for the most part understood of a particular kind of Offerings heaved or lifted up to the Lord, is here used for any Offering in general, as before, ver. 8.

25 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,
26 Thus speak unto the Levites, and say unto them, When ye take of the children of Israel the tithes, which I have given you from them for your inheritance: then ye shall offer up an heave-offering of it for the LORD, even a tenth part of the tithe.

27 And this your heave-offering shall be reckoned unto you, as though it were the corn of the threshing-floor z, and as the fulness of the wine-press.

z It shall be accepted of you as much as if you offered it out of your own lands and labours.

28 Thus ye also shall offer an heave-offering unto the LORD, of all your tithes which ye receive of the children of Israel, and ye shall give thereof the LORDS heave-offering to Aaron the priest a.

a And to his children, which were one with him, and were all to have their share herein.

29 Out of all your gifts b ye shall offer c every heave-offering d of the LORD, of all the † best thereof, even the hallowed part thereof † Heb. fat. e out of it.

b Not only out of your Tithes, but out of the other gifts which you receive from the people, and out of those fields which shall belong to your Cities. c To wit, to the Priest. d (i. e.) As many gifts so many heave-offerings, you shall reserve a part out of each of them for the Priest. e This may describe either 1. the nature and proportion of this Offering, and so peradventure he means the Tenth part, which was the part or proportion that God hallowed or sanctified to himself as his proper portion, both here and elsewhere: or 2. the reason or ground of this Offering, because it is a thing hallowed or appropriated by God to himself, and given by him to the Priest, and because the payment of this due doth hallow all the rest, so as they may use it with comfort and good conscience, as it follows, ver. 31, 32.

30 Therefore thou shalt say unto them, When ye have heaved the best thereof from it, then it shall be counted unto the Levites, as the increase of the threshing-floor, and as the increase of the wine-press.

31 And ye shall eat it in every place f ye, and your households: for * it is your reward for * 1 Tim 5. 18. your service in the tabernacle of the congregation.

f (i. e.) In every clean place, and not in the holy place only.

32 And ye shall bear no sin by reason of it, when ye have heaved from it the best of it g:
* Lev. 22. 15, 16. * neither shall ye pollute the holy things of the children of Israel h, lest ye die.

g Implying, that if they neglected this duty, they sinned in the use of such unhallowed food. h As you will do, if you abuse their holy Offerings, by reserving that intirely to your selves, which they offer to God to be disposed as he hath appointed, to wit, part to you, and part to the Priests.

CHAP. XIX.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying,

2 This is the ordinance of the law a which the LORD hath commanded, ſaying, ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael, that they bring thee b a red c heifer without ſpot, wherein is no blemiſh d, and upon which never came yoke e.

a Or, The conſtitution of the law, i. e. that which God hath ordained or eſtabliſhed by Law. b At their common charge, becauſe it was for the common good. c A fit colour to ſhadow forth both the bloody nature and complexion of ſin. Iſa. 1. 8. and the humane nature, and eſpecially the Blood of Chriſt, from which this Water, and all other Rites had their purifying Vertue. d A fit Type of Chriſt, who was ſuch, Heb. 7. 26. 1 Pet. 1. 19. e VVhereby may be ſignified, either that Chriſt in himſelf was free from all the Yoke or Obligation of God's Command, till for our ſakes he took up our Yoke, and put himſelf under the Law; or that Chriſt was not drawn or forced to undertake our burden and croſs, but that he did voluntarily chuſe it. See John 10. 17, 18.

3 And ye ſhall give her unto Eleazar the prieſt f, that he may bring her * forth without the camp g, and one h ſhall ſlay her before his face. * Heb. 13 11.

f VVho was the ſecond Prieſt, and, in ſome caſes, the Vicegerent or Deputy of the High-prieſt. To him, not to Aaron, becauſe this ſervice made him unclean for a ſeaſon, ver. 7. and conſequently unfit for Holy Miniſtrations, whereas the High-prieſt was, as far as poſſibly he could, to be preſerved from all ſorts of defilement, and conſtantly fit for his high and holy Work. g Partly becauſe it was reputed an unclean and accurſed thing, being ceremoniouſly laden with the ſins of all the people, and partly to ſignifie that Chriſt ſhould ſuffer without the Camp, as he did, Heb. 13. 12. in the place where Malefactors ſuffered, Levit. 24. 14. h A perſon appointed by Eleazar for this Work.

i Or, Towards or over-againſt the Tabernacle, either 1. Near to it, and ſo we muſt ſuppoſe that he took ſome of the blood in a baſon and carried it from without the Camp to the Tabernacle, and then returned to this place again: VVhich might be done though it be not here expreſſed. And this ſeems to agree beſt with other places, where this ſprinkling ſeven times was performed in or near the Tabernacle, as Lev. 4. 17. Or, 2. Standing at a good diſtance from it, even without the camp, yet turning and looking towards it. For here is no intimation that he went into the Camp before this Work was done, but rather the contrary is implied, ver. 7. And becauſe being defiled by this Work, he could not come near to the Tabernacle, it was ſufficient for him to turn and look towards it. Either way this poſture ſignified his preſenting of this blood before the Lord by way of atonement and ſatisfaction for his and the peoples ſins, and his expectation of acceptance and pardon only from God and from his mercy-ſeat in the Tabernacle.

5 And one ſhall burn the heifer k in his ſight: * her ſkin, and her fleſh, and her blood l, with her dung, ſhall he burn. Exod 29. 14. Lev. 4. 11, 12.

k To ſignifie the ſharp and grievous ſufferings of Chriſt for our ſins. l All of it, but what was ſpent in ſprinkling.

6 And the prieſt ſhall take cedar-wood, and hyſſop, and ſcarlet m, and caſt it into the midſt of the burning of the heifer.

m All which are here burnt and, as it were, offered to God, that they might be ſanctified to this holy uſe for the future, for of theſe kinds of things was the ſprinkle made wherewith the unclean were ſprinkled, Levit. 14. 4.

7 Then the prieſt ſhall waſh his clothes, and he ſhall bathe his fleſh in water, and afterward he ſhall come into the camp, and the prieſt ſhall be unclean until the even n.

n Partly to teach us the imperfection of the Levitical Prieſthood, in which the Prieſt himſelf was defiled by ſome parts of his Work, and the abſolute neceſſity of a better and holier Prieſthood; and partly to ſhew that Chriſt himſelf, though he had no ſin of his own, yet was reputed by men and judged by God, as an unclean and ſinful perſon, by reaſon of our ſins which were laid upon him, Iſa. 53. 12. 2 Cor. 5. 21.

8 And he that burneth her, ſhall waſh his clothes in water, and bathe his fleſh in water, and ſhall be unclean until the even.

9 And a man that is clean, ſhall gather up * the aſhes of the heifer, and lay them up without the camp in a clean place, and it ſhall be kept for the congregation of the children of Iſrael o, for a water p of ſeparation q: it r is a purification for ſin ſ. * Heb. 9. 13.

o (i. e.) For their uſe, and therefore in a fit place or places, whence any of them might eaſily procure it. p Or, To the water, i. e. to be put to the Water, or mixed with it. q (i. e.) Appointed for the cleanſing of them that are in a ſtate of ſeparation, who for their uncleanneſs are ſeparated from the congregation. r Either the Heifer thus managed, or the VVater thus made and ſprinkled. ſ Heb. A ſin, i. e. a kind of an Offering for ſin, or rather a mean for the expiation or cleanſing of ſin. The name of ſin is ſometimes given to the puniſhment of ſin, and ſometimes to ſacrifice or offering for ſin.

10 And he that gathereth the aſhes of the heifer, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: and it ſhall be unto the children of Iſrael, and unto the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them t for a ſtatute for ever.

t To wit, a Proſelyte, not any ſtranger, as ſome underſtand it. For ſince it is confeſſed all the other ceremonial Laws do not oblige them; and that where the name of ſtranger is put as here it is, it generally ſpeaks of a Proſelyte, it is more reaſonable to take it ſo here, than without any reaſon or evidence to make this a particular exception from the general rule.

13 Whoſoever toucheth b the dead body of any man that is dead, and purifieth not himſelf b, defileth the tabernacle of the LORD c, and that ſoul ſhall be cut off from Iſrael; becauſe the water of ſeparation was not ſprinkled upon him: he ſhall be unclean; his uncleanneſs is yet upon him d.

b To wit, if this Tranſgreſſion be done preſumptuouſly; for if it was done ignorantly, he was only to offer ſacrifice, Levit. 5. 3, 6, 17. c By approaching to it in his uncleanneſs: for holy things or places were ceremonially defiled with the touch of any unclean perſon or thing. See Levit. 15. 31. and 16. 16. Hagg. 2. 13. d He continues in his guilt and filth, not now to be waſhed away by this VVater, but to be puniſhed by cutting off.

14 This is the law, when a man dieth in a tent, all that come into the tent, and all that is in the tent, ſhall be unclean ſeven days.

21 And it ſhall be a perpetual ſtatute unto them, that he that ſprinkleth the water of ſeparation ſhall waſh his clothes l: and he that toucheth the water of ſeparation m, ſhall be unclean until even.

l Becauſe he is unclean, as it here follows. It is ſtrange, that the ſame Water ſhould cleanſe one perſon, and defile another, but God would have it ſo, partly to teach us that it did not cleanſe by any vertue in it or in the Work done, but only by vertue of Gods appointment: partly to mind the Jews of the imperfection of their Prieſthood and their ritual purifications and expiations, and conſequently of the neceſſity of a better Prieſt and ſacrifice and way of purifying, which theſe outward Rites did point at, and partly to ſhew that the efficacy of Gods Ordinances doth not depend upon the perſon or quality of his Miniſters, becauſe the ſame perſon who was polluted himſelf, could and did cleanſe others. m Either by ſprinkling of it, or by being ſprinkled with it, for even he that was cleanſed by it, was not fully cleanſed as ſoon as he was ſprinkled, but only at the even of that day, as is ſaid here and above, ver. 19.

n Not he who is ſo only by touching the Water of ſeparation, ver. 21. but he who is ſo by the greater ſort of uncleanneſs, which laſted ſeven days, of which ver. 11, 16. and which was not removed without the uſe of this Water of purification, as is manifeſt from the context and other places of Scripture, and from the nature of the thing: For the leſſer ſort of uncleanneſs, mentioned in the foregoing verſe, laſted only till even, and was cleanſed by the ſole waſhing of his clothes and fleſh in VVater, ver. 7. without any uſe of this VVater of purification, which, if it had been neceſſary, muſt have been uſed on the third, and on the ſeventh day, according to the Rule, ver. 12, 19. and ſo the uncleanneſs of one day had been made an uncleanneſs of ſeven days, which is a contradiction. Beſides, it is unreaſonable, that he who immediately touched the defiling thing ſhould be no more and longer unclean, than he who touched that perſon only; and it is contrary to other Rules in like caſes, as Levit. 15. where the Man or VVoman having an Iſſue, are thereby made unclean for ſeven days, ver. 13, 28. but he who toucheth them is made unclean only till even, ver. 7, 27. And therefore this cannot be meant of him who was unclean by touching this VVater, who himſelf was unclean only till even, ver. 21. as alſo he who toucheth him is in this place. o To ſignifie to us, the very infectious nature of ſin and of ſinful company. p Becauſe as his defilement was leſs, ſo it was fit the duration of it ſhould be ſhorter.

CHAP. XX.

1 THen a came the children of Iſrael even the whole congregation into the deſert of Zin b, in the firſt month c, and the people abode in Kadeſh d; and Miriam died there e, and was buried there.

a To wit, after many other ſtations and long journeys here omitted, but particularly deſcribed, Numb. 33. b A place near the land of Edom, diſtinct and diſtant from that ſin, Exod. 16. 1. c To wit, of the fortieth year, as is evident, becauſe the next ſtation to this was in mount Hor, where Aaron died, ver. 22, 23, &c. who died in the fifth month of the fortieth year, Numb. 33. 38. Moſes doth not give us an exact journal of all their Occurrences in the VVilderneſs, but only of thoſe which were moſt remarkable, and eſpecially of thoſe which happened in the firſt and ſecond, and in the fortieth year. d VVhether the ſame place called Kadeſh-barnea, where they were long ſince, Numb. 13. 26. and to which they now return after 38 years tedious Travels and VVandrings in the Deſert, Deut. 2. 14. or another place, more ſoutherly, it is not material. e Four months before Aaron, and but a few more before Moſes.

2 And there was no water for the congregation f: and they gathered themſelves together againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron.

f VVhich having followed them through all their former journeys began now to fail them here, and becauſe they were now come near Canaan, and other Countries, where Waters might be had by ordinary means, and therefore God would not uſe extraordinary, leſt he ſhould ſeem to proſtitute the honour of miracles. This ſtory, though like that Exod. 17. is different from it, as appears by divers circumſtances.

3 And the people * chode with Moſes, and ſpake, ſaying, Would God that we had died * when our brethren died before the LORD g. * Exod. 17. 2. * chap. 11. 1. g (i. e.) Suddenly, rather than to die ſuch a lingring and painful death. Their ſin was much greater than their parents in like caſe, becauſe they ſhould have taken warning by their miſcarriages, and by the terrible effects of them which their eyes had ſeen. 33 & 14. 37. & 16. 32, 35, 46.

4 And * why have ye brought up the congregation of the LORD into this wilderneſs, that we and our cattel ſhould die there? * Exod. 17. 3.

5 And wherefore have ye made us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us in unto this evil place? it is no place of ſeed, or of figs, or vines, or of pomegranates, neither is there any water to drink.

6 And Moſes and Aaron went from the preſence of the aſſembly h, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and * they fell upon their faces: and * the glory of the LORD appeared unto them. * chap. 14. 5. & 16. 4. * chap. 14. 10.

h Partly to avoid the growing rage of the people, for Gods ſingular protection of them did not exclude the uſe of ordinary means: and partly to go to God for relief and redreſs.

7 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

8 * Take the rod i, and gather thou the aſſembly together, thou and Aaron thy brother, and ſpeak ye unto the rock k, before their eyes, and it ſhall give forth his water, and thou ſhalt bring forth to them water out of the rock; ſo thou ſhalt give the congregation and their beaſts drink. * Exod. 17. 5.

i That rod which was laid up before the Lord in the tabernacle, as appears from ver. 9. But whether it was Aaron's rod, which was undoubtedly laid up there, Numb 17. 10. or Moſes his rod by which he wrought ſo many miracles, it is not conſiderable; or whether it was not one and the ſame rod, which was commonly called Moſes his Rod, as here ver. 11. and elſewhere, and ſometimes Aarons Rod, as Exod. 7. 12. which may ſeem moſt probable. For it is likely, though not related elſewhere in Scripture, that Wonder-working Rod, called the Rod of God, Exod. 4. 20. was laid up in ſome part of the tabernacle, though not in or near the Ark, where Aarons bloſſoming Rod for a particular Reaſon was put. k VVhich will ſooner hear and obey my Commands, than theſe ſottiſh and ſtubborn people.

9 And Moſes took the rod from before the LORD l, as he commanded him.

l (i. e.) Out of the Tabernacle.

10 And Moſes and Aaron gathered the congregation together before the rock, and he ſaid unto them, Hear now, ye rebels, muſt we fetch you water out of this rock?

11 And Moſes lift up his hand, and with his rod, he ſmote the rock twice: and the * water came out abundantly, and the congregation drank, and their beaſts alſo m. * Exod. 17. 6

m To the men it was a ſacrament, 1 Cor. 10. 3, 4. but to the beaſts it was no holy, but a common thing. So that the Elements in the Sacraments have no inherent and inſeparable holineſs, but only a relative holineſs with reſpect to their uſe, out of which they are unholy and common.

12 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and Aaron, Becauſe * ye believed † me not n, to ſanctifie me o in the eyes of the children of Iſrael p; therefore ye ſhall not bring this congregation into the land which I have given them. * chap. 27. 14. Deut. 1. 37. & 3. 26. & 32. 51. † Heb. not in me.

n But ſhewed your Infidelity: which they did, either by their looks and geſtures, or rather by the matter and manner of their expreſſions and actions, either 1. by ſmiting the Rock, and that twice, which is emphatically noted, as if he doubted whether once ſmiting would have done it, whereas he was not commanded to ſmite ſo much as once, but only to ſpeak to it: or 2. by the doubtfulneſs of theſe Words, ver. 10. Muſt we fetch water out of the rock? Which implies a ſuſpicion of it, as the like words do, Gen. 18. 13. whereas they ſhould have ſpoken poſitively and confidently to the Rock to give forth Waters. And yet they did not doubt of the Power of God, but of his Will, whether he would gratifie theſe Rebels with this further miracle after ſo many of the like kind. And beſides the Words themſelves, it is conſiderable, both with what mind they were ſpoken, which God ſaw to be diſtruſtful, and in what manner they were delivered, which the people might diſcern to come from disbelief or doubt. And there might be divers other unbelieving words uſed by them at this time and place, though they be not here recorded, it being uſual in Scripture to give only the ſum or principal heads of diſcourſes or events, leaving the reſt to be gathered out of them. See Pſal. 106. 32, 33. o (i. e.) To give me glory of my power in doing this miracle, and of my truth in punctually fulfilling my promiſe ſo to do, and of my goodneſs in doing it, notwithſtanding the peoples perverſeneſs. p This made their ſin ſcandalous to the Iſraelites, who of themſelves were too prone to Infidelity, and little needed ſuch an ill example, to prevent the contagion whereof God leaves a monument of his great diſpleaſure upon them, and inflicts a puniſhment as publick and manifeſt as their ſin was.

* Deut. 33. 8. Pſal. 95. 8. & 106, 32, &c. ‖ That is, ſtrife.

13 * This is the water of ‖ Meribah q, becauſe the children of Iſrael ſtrove with the LORD, and he was ſanctified in them r.

q Called Meribah Kadeſh, to diſtinguiſh it from another Meribah, Exod. 17. 7. r Or, among them, to wit, the children of Iſrael laſt mentioned, by the demonſtration of his Omnipotency, Veracity, and Clemency towards the Iſraelites, and of his impartial holineſs and ſeverity againſt ſin, even in his greateſt friends and favourites, as Moſes was.

14 And Moſes ſent meſſengers ſ from Kadeſh, unto the king of Edom, Thus ſaith thy brother t Iſrael, Thou knoweſt all the travel that hath † befallen us u.

ſ By Gods direction, Deut. 2. 1, 2, 3. t For was not Eſau (who is Edom, Gen. 36. 1.) Jacobs brother? Mal. 1. 2. u All the Wandrings and Afflictions of our Parents, and of us their Children, which doubtleſs have come to thine ears.

15 How our fathers went down into Egypt, and we have dwelt in Egypt a long time: and the Egyptians vexed us and our fathers.

* Exod. 3. 7.

16 And * when we cried unto the LORD, he heard our voice, and ſent an angel x, and hath brought us forth out of Egypt: and behold, we are in Kadeſh y, a city in the uttermoſt of thy border.

x To wit, the Angel of the Covenant, Chriſt Jeſus, who firſt appeared to Moſes in the buſh, Exod. 3. 2. and afterward in the cloudy pillar, who conducted Moſes and the people out of Egypt, and thorough the Wilderneſs, as appears from Exod. 14. 19. and 23. 20. and 33. 14. 1 Cor. 10. 4. For though Moſes may be called an Angel, or Meſſenger, a Title given to Phinehas, Judg. 2. 1. and to the Prophets, 2 Chron. 36. 16. and to Haggai, Hag. 1. 13. yet it is not probable, that he is meant, partly becauſe Moſes was the perſon that ſent this meſſage; partly, becauſe there was no reaſon why he ſhould expreſs himſelf by ſuch a dark and doubtful Title to them; and partly becauſe another Angel beſides and above Moſes did conduct them, and the mention hereof to the Edomites was likely to give more authority and efficacy to their preſent meſſage. y (i. e.) Near the City Kadeſh, the particle in being oft ſo uſed, as we have ſhewed.

17 Let us paſs, I pray thee, through thy countrey: we will not paſs through the fields, or through the vineyards, neither will we drink of the water of the wells z: we will go by the kings high-way, we will not turn to the right hand, nor to the left, until we have paſſed thy borders.

z Or, pits, which any of you have digged for your private uſe, to wit, without paying for it, ver. 19. Deut. 2. 6. but only of the waters of common rivers, which are free to all paſſengers, and will not be prejudicial to thee.

18 And Edom ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt not paſs by me a, leſt I come out againſt thee with the ſword.

a (i. e.) Through my country, as thou deſireſt: I will not ſuffer thee to do ſo: which was an act of common policy to ſecure themſelves from ſo numerous an hoſt.

19 And the children of Iſrael ſaid unto him b, We will go by the high-way: and if I and my cattel drink of thy water, then I will pay for it c: I will only (without doing any thing elſe) go through on my feet.

b (i. e.) Their meſſengers replyed unto them what here follows. c For water was a ſcarce commodity in thoſe parts.

20 And he ſaid, Thou ſhalt not go through. And Edom came out againſt him with much people, and with a ſtrong hand.

21 Thus Edom refuſed to give Iſrael paſſage through his border d: wherefore Iſrael turned away from him e.

d But permitted them to go by their border, Deut. 2. 4, 8. Judg 11. 18. and furniſhed them with victuals for their money, Deut. 2. 29. e According to Gods command, Deut. 2. 5.

22 And the children of Iſrael, even the whole congregation, journeyed from * Kadeſh, and came unto mount Hor f.

* chap. 33. 37.

f Whoſe Inhabitants were thence called Horins, Deut. 2. 12. and Eſau the Horite, Gen. 36. 20.

23 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and Aaron in mount Hor, by the coaſt of the land of Edom, ſaying, 24 Aaron ſhall be gathered unto his people: for he ſhall not enter into the land which I have given unto the children of Iſrael, becauſe ye rebelled againſt my † word g at the water of Meribah.

g This was one, but not the only reaſon. God would not have Moſes and Aaron to carry the people into Canaan, for this reaſon alſo, to ſignifie the inſufficiency of the Moſaical law, and Aaronical Prieſthood to make them perfectly happy, and the neceſſity of a better, and ſo to keep the Iſraelites from reſting in them, ſo as to be taken off from their expectation of Chriſt, and from the entertainment of him when he ſhould come.

25 * Take Aaron and Eleazar his ſon, and bring them up unto mount Hor:

* chap. 33. 38. Deut. 32. 50.

26 And ſtrip Aaron of his garments h, and put them upon Eleazar his ſon i, and Aaron ſhall be gathered unto his people, and ſhall die there.

h To wit, of his Prieſtly garments, Exod. 28. 2. Levit. 8. 7, 8, 9. in token of his reſignation of his Office. See the like Iſa. 22. 15, 19, 20, 21. i By way of admiſſion and inauguration of him to his Office.

27 And Moſes did as the LORD commanded: and they went up into mount Hor, in the ſight of all the congregation k.

k That their hearts might be more affected with their loſs of ſo great a pillar, and that they all might be Witneſſes of the Tranſlation of the Prieſthood from Aaron to Eleazar, and therefore might give him the honour due to him.

28 And Moſes ſtripped Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his ſon, and * Aaron died there l in the top of the mount: and Moſes and Eleazar came down from the mount.

* Deut. 10. 6. & 32. 50.

l To wit, in mount Hor. Obj. He died in Moſera, Deut. 10. 6. Anſ. Moſera was the general name of the place where that ſtation was, and mount Hor is a particular place in it, where he died, and was buried alſo, Deut. 10. 6.

29 And when all the congregation ſaw m that Aaron was dead, they mourned for Aaron thirty days n, even all the houſe of Iſrael.

And he ſeems to be called a Canaanite in a general ſence, as the Amorites and others ſometimes are. b To wit, of Canaan, as appears from Numb. 33. 40. towards the Eaſt, and near the dead Sea. c Not of thoſe ſpies which Moſes ſent to ſpy the land, Numb. 13. 17. for that was done 38 years before this, and they went ſo privately, that the Canaanites took no notice of them, nor knew which way they came or went,

but of the ſpies vvhich he himſelf ſent out to obſerve the marches and motions of the Iſraelites. But the words may be otherwiſe rendred, either thus, in the manner of ſpies, ſo the ſence is, when he heard that divers of the Iſraelites came into or towards his Country in the nature of ſpies to prepare the vvay for the reſt: or thus, by the way of Atharim, a place ſo called, as the ſeventy Interpreters here take it, and it ſeems not improbable. d VVhich God permitted for Iſraels humiliation and puniſhment, and to teach them not to expect the conqueſt of that land from their ovvn Wiſdom or Valour, but vvholly from Gods favour and aſſiſtance. See Deut. 9. 4. Pſal. 44. 3, 4.

2 And Iſrael vowed a vow unto the LORD e, and ſaid if thou wilt indeed deliver this people into my hand, then I will utterly deſtroy their cities f.

And ſo this is mentioned here by anticipation, that the Vow being now made and mentioned, the effect or performance of it might be recorded, though out of its place; and ſo this verſe muſt be ſuppoſed to be added by ſome of the Prophets, and inſerted into Moſes his Hiſtory, as ſome other paſſages ſeem to be. Or 2. at this time: and ſo this is not the ſame Arad with that, Joſ. 12. 14. nor this the ſame Hormah with that there mentioned, but another of the ſame Name, which is moſt frequent in perſons and places in Scripture. And this is the more probable, becauſe that Arad and Hormah, Joſ. 12. 14. are two diſtinct places, and had divers Kings, whereas here the ſame place is called both Arad and Hormah; and becauſe that Arad ſeems to be at ſome good diſtance from this and more within the Country, and more northward, as may be gathered from the other places joyned with it, Joſ. 12. whereas this Arad was near Edom, ver. 4. and in the ſouth, ver. 1. Queſt. 1. How could this be now done in the land of Canaan, when Moſes neither entred himſelf, nor led the people into that land? Anſ. Neither Moſes, nor the whole body of the people did this Exploit, but a ſelect number ſent out for this purpoſe to puniſh that King and People who were ſo fierce and malicious, that they came out of their own Country to fight with the Iſraelites in the VVilderneſs, and theſe when they had done this Work returned to their brethren into the VVilderneſs. Queſt. 2. VVhy did they not all now go into Canaan, when ſome of them had once entred it, and purſue this victory? Anſ. Becauſe God would not permit it, there being ſeveral VVorks yet to be done, other people muſt be conquered, the Iſraelites muſt be further humbled, and tried, and purged, Moſes muſt die, and then they ſhall enter, and that in a more glorious manner, even over Jordan, which ſhall be miraculouſly dried up and give them paſſage.

5 And the people ſpake againſt God k, and againſt Moſes, Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt to die in the wilderneſs? for there is no bread, neither is there any water, and * our ſoul loatheth this light bread l.

Thus contemptuouſly do they ſpeak of Manna, whereas it appears it yielded excellent nouriſhment, becauſe in the ſtrength of it they were able to go ſo many and ſuch tedious journies.

* 1 Cor. 10 9. 6 And * the LORD ſent fiery ſerpents m among the people, and they bit the people, and much people of Iſrael died.

m Such there were many in this VVilderneſs, Deut. 8. 15. which, having been hitherto reſtrained by God, are now let looſe and ſent among them. They are called fiery from their Effects, becauſe their Poiſon cauſed an intolerable heat and burning and thirſt in the bodies of the Iſraelites, which was aggravated with this circumſtance of the place that here was no water, ver. 5.

7 Therefore the people came to Moſes, and ſaid, We have ſinned: for we have ſpoken againſt the LORD, and againſt thee: pray unto the LORD, that he take away the ſerpents from us: and Moſes prayed for the people.

8 And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Make thee a fiery ſerpent n, and ſet it upon a pole o: and it ſhall come to paſs, that every one that is bitten, when he looketh upon it, ſhall live p.

This would require ſome time: God would not ſpeedily take off the judgment, becauſe he ſaw they were not throroughly humbled. o That the people might ſee it from all parts of the Camp, and therefore the pole muſt be high, and the ſerpent large. p This method of cure was preſcribed, partly that it might appear to be Gods own Work, and not the effect of nature or art: and partly that it might be an eminent Type of our ſalvation by Chriſt See John 3. 14, 15. The ſerpent ſignified Chriſt, who was in the likeneſs of ſinful fleſh, Rom. 8. 13. though without ſin, as this brazen ſerpent had the outward ſhape, but not the inward poiſon of the other ſerpents: the pole reſembled the croſs upon which Chriſt was lift up for our ſalvation: and looking up to it deſigned our believing in Chriſt.

And as St. Luke aſſures us, that many did write an Hiſtory of the things done and ſaid by Chriſt, Luke 1. 1. whoſe Writings were never received as Canonical: the like may be juſtly conceived concerning this and ſome few other books mentioned in the Old Teſtament. Though the words may be thus rendred, Wherefore it ſhall be ſaid in the relation or narration (for ſo the Hebrew Sepher is confeſſed to ſignifie) of the wars of the Lord. x Or, At Vaheb in Suphah, or in the land of Suph. Vaheb ſeems to be the name not of a man, but of a city or place, and Suphah the name of the Country where it was; and the Hebrew particle eth is oft rendred at. And whereas the ſence ſeems to be imperfect, it muſt be noted, that he quotes only a fragment or piece of the book, and that principally to prove the ſcituation of Arnon, which he had aſſerted ver. 13. for which end the paſſage quoted is ſufficient. And the ſence is eaſily to be underſtood, for it is plain enough that this Poet or Writer is deſcribing the Wars and Works of God by the ſeveral places where they were done, and having begun the ſentence before, and mentioned other places, he comes to theſe here mentioned, At Vaheb in Suphah, and at the brooks of Arnon, &c. And it ſeems probable that the War here deſigned was that of Sihon againſt the Moabites mentioned below, ver. 26. which is fitly aſcribed to the Lord, becauſe it was undertaken and perfected by the ſingular direction and aſſiſtance of God, and that for the ſake of the Iſraelites, that by this means that country might be invaded and poſſeſſed by them, without taking it away from the Moabites, which they were forbidden to meddle with or to diſturb, Deut. 2. 9. and ſo their Title to it might be more juſt and unqueſtionable. See Judg. 11. 12, 13,---27. a (i. e.) The brooks, the plural number for the ſingular, as the plural number rivers is uſed concerning Jordan, Pſal. 74. 15. and concerning Tigris, Nah. 2. 6. and concerning Euphrates, Pſal. 137. 1. and concerning Thermodoon in Virgil, all which may be ſo called becauſe of the ſeveral little ſtreams into which they were divided.

15 And at the ſtream of the brooks that goeth

b A chief City in Moab, as appears from Iſa. 15. 1. of which ver. 28.

16 And from thence they went to Beer c: that is the well whereof the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Gather the people together, and I will give them water d.

c This place and Mattanah, Nahaliel, and Bamoth named here, ver. 19. are not mentioned among thoſe places where they pitched or encamped, Numb. 33. Either therefore they did not pitch or encamp in theſe places, but only paſs by or thorough them, nor indeed is it here ſaid they pitched or encamped in theſe places, which is ſaid of thoſe places Numb. 33. but only that they went to them, ver. 18. or, theſe are ſtations omitted there, and to be ſupplied from hence, for though it be there ſaid they went from ſuch a place and pitched in ſuch a place, yet it is not ſaid they went immediately from the one place to the other, and therefore they might take theſe places in their way. d To wit, in a miraculous manner.

e To praiſe God for giving them ſuch a ſeaſonable bleſſing before they asked it or complained for the want of it. f Give forth thy waters that we may drink. Heb. aſcend, i. e let thy waters, which now lie hid below in the Earth aſcend for our uſe. It is either a prediction that it ſhould ſpring up, or a prayer that it might, or a command in the name of God directed to the Well, by an uſual Proſopopœia, as when God bids the heavens hear, and the earth give ear, Iſa. 1. 2. Any of theſe ways it ſhews their faith. ‖ Or, ſing ye of it, or, anſwer to it or concerning it; it being the manner of the Jewiſh ſingers, that one ſhould anſwer to another, of which ſee Exod. 15, 21. 1 Sam. 18. 7.

18 The princes digged g the well, the nobles of the people digged it, by the direction of the lawgiver h, with their ſtaves i. And from the wilderneſs they went to Mattanah:

g Either by themſelves, or by others whom they commanded to do it. h Or, with the law-giver, i. e. Moſes, they together with Moſes, or they by Moſes his direction and appointment, which is ſignified ver. 16. i Which are here mentioned, either 1. as the Enſigns of their authority, Judg. 5. 14. by which they gave this command of digging: or 2. as the Inſtruments of their Work, not that they did formally and effectually dig the VVell or receptacle for the VVater, for which ſpades were more proper than ſtaves, but that as Moſes ſmote the Rock with his Rod, ſo they ſtruck the Earth with their ſtaves, making only ſome ſmall impreſſion, only for form ſake, or as a ſign that God would cauſe the VVater to flow forth out of the Earth where they ſmote it, as he did before out of the Rock.

k See the Notes on ver. 16.

20 And from Bamoth in the valley l, that is in

l Or, the valley, which might be called Bamoth, not becauſe it was a place naturally high, but from divers other Reaſons which may be eaſily gueſſed. Or, to the valley, or to that valley, that famous, or rather infamous valley, to wit, of Abel ſhittim, Numb. 33. 49. where they committed thoſe foul abominations recorded Numb. 25. m This was the top of thoſe high hills of Abarim; of which ſee Deut. 3. 17, 27. & 32. 49. & 34. 1. 6.

21 And Iſrael ſent meſſengers n unto Sihon the king of the Amorite, ſaying, n By Gods allowance, that ſo Sihons malice might be the more evident and inexcuſable, and that their title to his country more clear in the judgments of all men, as being gotten by a juſt VVar, into which they were forced for their own defence.

22 * Let me paſs through thy land, we will not * Deut. 2. 27. Judg. 11. 19.
turn into the fields, or into the vineyards, we will not drink of the waters of the well: but we will go along by the kings high-way, until we be paſt thy borders o:

o They ſpoke what they ſeriouſly intended and would have done, if he had given them quiet paſſage: but withal they knew that Sihon would not do it, and that he would withſtand them, and that they ſhould ſubdue him and take his land, as God had told them before they ſent this meſſage, as appears from Deut. 2. 24, 26, 27. and accordingly God hardened his ſpirit, and made his heart obſtinate, for this end, that he might deliver him into Iſraels hand there, ver. 30. And no wonder, for he and his people were Amorites, and therefore devoted to deſtruction, as all that people were.

23 * And Sihon would not ſuffer Iſrael to paſs * Deut. 29. 7.
through his border: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and went out againſt Iſrael into the wilderneſs: and he came to Jahaz p, and fought againſt Iſrael.

p A City, of which ſee Deut. 2. 32. Jer. 48. 21.

24 And * Iſrael ſmote him with the edge of * Deut. 2. 32. and 29. 7.
the ſword, and poſſeſſed his land from Arnon q unto Jabbok r, even unto the children of Ammon, for the border of the children of Ammon was ſtrong ſ. * Joſh. 12. 2. & 24. 8. Pſal. 135. 10, 11. and 136. 19. Amos 2. 9.

q Or, which reached from Arnon, &c. ſuch ſupplements being very uſual, and ſo here is contained a deſcription or limitation of Sihons conqueſt and kingdom, that it extended only from Arnon---unto the children of Ammon, and then the following words, for the border of the children of Ammon was ſtrong, come in very fitly, not as a Reaſon why the Iſraelites did not or could not conquer the Ammonites, for they were abſolutely forbidden to meddle with them, Deut. 3. 8. but as a reaſon why Sihon could not enlarge his Conqueſts and Empire to the Ammonites, as he had done to the Moabites. r A River by which the Countries of Ammon and Moab were in part bounded and divided. ſ Either by the advantage of the River, or by their ſtrong holds in their frontiers.

25 And Iſrael took all theſe cities; and Iſrael dwelt in all the cities of the Amorite t: in t Having deſtroyed the ancient Inhabitants, Deut. 2. 34.

26 For Heſhbon was the city of Sihon u the King of the Amorite, who had fought againſt the former king of Moab x, and taken all his land out of his hand, even unto Arnon.

u This is added as a reaſon why Iſrael took poſſeſſion of this land, notwithſtanding Gods prohibition of meddling with them or their land, Deut. 2. 9. becauſe it was not now the land of the Moabites, but had been ſome time ſince taken from them, and in the poſſeſſion of the Amorites. x (i.e.) the predeceſſor of Balak, who was the preſent King.

27 Wherefore they that ſpeak in proverbs y, ſay, Come into Heſhbon z: let the city of Sihon a be built and prepared.

y The Poets or other ingenious perſons, to wit, of the Amorites or Canaanites, who made this following ſong of triumph over the vanquiſhed Moabites; which is here brought in partly as a proof that this was now Sihons land, and partly as an evidence of the juſt judgment of God in ſpoiling the ſpoilers, and ſubduing thoſe who inſulted over their conquered Enemies. z Theſe are the words either of Sihon ſpeaking thus to his people, or of the people exhorting one another, to come and poſſeſs and repair the city which they had taken. a That which once was the royal city of the King of Moab, but now is the city of Sihon.

28 For there is a * fire a gone out of Heſh- * Jer. 48. 45.
bon b, a flame from the city of Sihon: it hath conſumed Ar of Moab c, and the lords of the high places d of Arnon.

a (i e.) The fury of War, which is oft and fitly compared to fire here, as Isa. 47. 14. Amos 1. 7, 10, 12, 14. and 2. 2, 5. b That city which before was a refuge and defence to all the country, now is turned into a great annoyance and a publick mischief. c Quest. How can this be, since Ar was yet in the hands of the Moabites, Deut. 2. 9, 18. 29? Ans. 1. This may be understood not of the city of Ar, but of the people or the country subject or belonging to that great and royal city, as the Chaldee understands it. 2. Possibly Ar was taken by Sihon of the Moabites, but afterwards was either recovered by the Moabites, or upon the Israelites approach quitted by Sihon, gathering all his forces together that he might fight with the Israelites, and so re-possessed by the Moabites. 3. This place may be thus rendred, it shall consume Ar of Moab, the past Tense being put for the future, as is usual in prophetical passages, and so this may be the Amorites prediction or presage, that having taken Heshbon, and its Territories, they should now extend their victories to Ar of Moab, though they fell short of that hope, as ordinarily men do. d Either 1. the Princes or Governours of the strong holds, which were frequently in high places, especially in that mountainous country, and which were in divers parts all along the River of Arnon, and having taken some of these, they promised to themselves that they should take all the rest, and so proceed further and further till they had taken Ar it self. Or rather 2. the priests and people that worship their God in their high places: which may seem more probable, 1. because as the Israelites worshipped God, so the heathens worshipped Baal, in high-places, Numb. 22. 41. and particularly the Moabites are noted for so doing, Jer. 48. 35. 2. because amongst the eminent places of Moab there is mention of Bamoth-baal, or, of the high-places of Baal, Jos. 13. 17.

29 Wo to thee, Moab e, thou art undone, O people of * Chemosh f: he hath given his sons that escaped, and his daughters into captivity g, unto Sihon king of the Amorite h.

* 1 Kings 11. 7, 33.

e Alas poor Moab, thou couldst not save thy self from Sihons sword. f (i. e.) The Worshippers of Chemosh: so the God of the Moabites was called, 1 King. 11. 7, 33. 2 King. 23. 13. Jer. 48. 46. g He, (i. e.) their God, hath delivered up his own people to his and their Enemies, he could not defend them, but suffered many of them to be killed, nor could he secure even those that had escaped the sword, but suffered them to fall into their enemies hands, and by them to be carried into captivity. h Now the words of this and the following verse seem to be not a part of that triumphant song or poem made, as I suppose, by some Amoritish Bard or Poet, which seems to be concluded ver. 28. but of the Israelites making their observation upon it. And here they scoff at the impotency not only of the Moabites, but of their God also, who could not save his people from the sword of Sihon and the Amorites.

30 We have shot at them i: Heshbon is perished, even unto Dibon k, and we have laid them waste even unto Nophah, which reached unto Medebah l.

i Though you feeble Moabites, and your God too, could not resist Sihon, we Israelites by the help of our God have shot, to wit, with success and victory, as the following words shew, at them, to wit, at Sihon and his Amorites, which is easily and plainly understood both from the foregoing and following words. k Heshbon, the Royal City of Sihon, and by him lately repaired, is perished, is taken away from Sihon, and so is all his Territory or Country even as far as Dibon, which, as some think, is called Dibon-gad, Numb. 33. 45. l (i. e.) Whose Territory extendeth to Medeba. Or, yea, even to Medeba: for the Hebrew word asher, is sometimes used for yea, or moreover, as 1 Sam. 15. 20. Psal. 10. 6. and 95. 11. The sense is the whole Country of Sihon, taken by him from the Moabites, is wasted and perished.

31 Thus Israel dwelt in the land of the Amorite:

32 And Moses sent to spy out Jaazer m, and they took the villages thereof, and drove out the Amorite that was there.

m One of the cities of Moab formerly taken from them by Sihon, and now taken from him by the Israelites, Numb. 32. 1, 3, 35. and after the decay or destruction of the Kingdom of the Ten Tribes re-possessed by the Moabites, Jer. 48. 32.

33 * And they turned, and went up by the way of Bashan: and Og n the King of Bashan o went out against them, he, and all his people, to the battel at Edrei.

* Deut. 3. 1. & 29. 7.

n Who also was a King of the Amorites, of whom see Deut. 3. 1, 11. And it may seem that Sihon and Og were the leaders or Captains of two great colonies which came out of Canaan, and drove out the former Inhabitants of these places. o A rich country famous for its pastures and breed of Cattel, Deut. 32. 14. Psal. 22. 12. Jer. 50. 19. and for its Oaks, Ezek. 27. 6.

34 And the LORD said unto Moses, Fear him not p: for I have delivered him into thy hand, and all his people, and his land, and * thou shalt do to him as thou didst unto Sihon King of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heshbon.

* Psal. 135. 10, 11. & 136. 20.

p A necessary caution, for he was a great Giant, Deut. 3. 11. likely to strike them with terror.

35 So they smote him, and his sons, and all his people, until there was none left him alive, and they possessed his land.

CHAP. XXII.

1 AND * the children of Israel set forward, and pitched in the plains of Moab a, on this side Jordan by Jericho b.

* chap. 33. 48.

a Which still retained their ancient Title, though they had been taken away from the Moabites by Sihon, and from him by the Israelites. b (i. e.) Over against Jericho. Or, near the passage over Jordan to Jericho, or its Territories.

2 And Balak the son of Zippor c saw all that Israel had done to the Amorite.

c The son or successor of him whom Sihon had spoiled of part of his Kingdom, Numb. 21. 26. Of him see Judg. 11. 25. Mich. 6. 5.

3 And Moab was sore afraid d of the people; because they were many; and Moab was distressed, because of the children of Israel.

d As it was foretold both in general of all Nations, Deut. 2. 25, and particularly concerning Moab, Exod. 15. 15.

4 And Moab said unto the elders of Midian e: Now shall this company lick up f all that are round about us g, as the ox licketh up the grass of the field. And Balak the son of Zippor was King of the Moabites at that time.

e Called the Kings of Midian, Numb. 31. 8. and Princes of Midian, Jos. 13. 21. who though divided in their Kingdoms, yet were now united upon the approach of the Israelites their common Enemy; and, being, as it seems, a potent and crafty people, and neighbours to the Moabites, these seek confederacy with them. We read of Midianites near mount Sinai, Exod. 2. and 3. which seem to have been a part or colony of this people that went out to seek new quarters, as the manner of those times was, but the body of that people were seated in those parts, as is evident from many Scriptures. f (i. e.) Consume and utterly destroy, in which sense the fire is said to lick up the water and sacrifices, 1 Kings 18. 38. The meaning is, we can expect no mercy from them, they will utterly root us out, as they did the Amorites, if we do not make a stout and timely opposition. g (i. e.) All our people, who lived in the Country and Territory adjoyning to each City, where the Princes resided.

5 * He sent messengers therefore unto Balaam b the son of Beor i to Pethor k, which is by the river of the land of the children of his people l, to call him, saying, Behold, there is a people come out from Egypt: behold, they cover † the face of the earth, and they abide over against me m.

* Josh. 24. 9. Neh. 13. 1, 2. Mic. 6. 5. 2 Pet. 2. 15. Jude 11. Rev. 2. 14.

b Who is called a Prophet, 2 Pet. 2. 16. because God was pleased to inspire and direct him to speak the following prophesie, as he did inspire Caiaphas to speak those words, John 11. 51, 52. and as sometimes he did for a time inspire other wicked men, but in truth he was a soothsayer, as he is called, Jos. 13. 22. See Numb. 24. 1. i Or, Bosor, 2 Pet. 2. 15. for he had two Names, as many others had. k A City in Mesopotamia or Aram, see Numb. 23. 7. Deut. 23. 4. l (i. e.) By Euphrates, which is oft called the River by way of eminency, as Gen. 15. 18. Jos. 24. 2, 15. and here the River of Balaams land, or Country, to wit, of Mesopotamia or Aram, Numb. 23. 7. m They are encamped in my neighbourhood, ready to invade my Kingdom.

6 Come now therefore, I pray thee, curse me n this people, for they are too mighty for me: peradventure I shall prevail, that we may smite them o, and that I may drive them out of the land: for I wot that he whom thou blessest, is blessed, and he whom thou curses, is cursed p.

n (i. e.) Curse them for my sake and benefit, use thy utmost power which thou hast with thy Gods or infernal Spirits to blast and ruine them. o Thou by thy magical imprecations, and I by my sword joyned with them. p He had some experience perience of, or, at leaſt, a great confidence in Balaams skill and power in theſe matters.

7 And the elders of Moab, and the elders of Midian departed, with the rewards of divination q in their hands, and they came unto Balaam, and ſpake unto him the words of Balak.

q Heb. with divinations, by which he underſtands not the inſtruments of divination, which it was needleſs and abſurd to bring to ſo eminent a Diviner, who doubtleſs was thoroughly furniſhed for his own Trade; but the rewards of it, as it is explained 2 Pet. 2. 15. and as in the Hebrew 2 Sam. 4. 10. good tidings is put for the reward of good tidings. Nor is it probable, they would go to, or could expect to prevail with ſuch a perſon, eſpecially being noted for his covetouſneſs, as appears from the ſtory, without that powerful Engine.

8 And he ſaid unto them, Lodge here this night r, and I will bring you word again, as the LORD ſ ſhall ſpeak unto me: and the princes of Moab t abode with Balaam.

r The night was the time when God uſed to reveal his mind by dreams. Here is the firſt diſcovery of his wickedneſs, that he takes time to conſider, and doth his endeavour to effect that wicked motion of curſing the Iſraelites, which he ſhould have rejected and abhorred at the firſt mention of it. ſ Heb. Jehovah, the true God, whom he here mentions, either for his own greater Reputation, as if he conſulted not with inferiour ſpirits, as other Soothſayers did, but with the ſupreme God, or rather, becauſe this was Iſraels God, and the only poſſible way of ruining them, was by engaging their God againſt them, as the known way of the Romans and other Heathens, when they went to beſiege any City, they uſed Inchantments to call forth that God under whoſe peculiar protection they were. t And of Midian too, as is manifeſt from ver. 7. which was needleſs to repeat here.

9 And God came unto Balaam u, and ſaid, what men are theſe with thee x?

u Not to gratifie his covetous deſire, but to advance his own honour and ſervice even by the counſels of his enemies. x He asketh not this for his own information, but partly that Balaam by repeating the thing in Gods preſence, might be convinced and aſhamed of his ſin and folly, in offering his ſervice in ſuch a curſed buſineſs; and partly for a foundation to the following anſwer.

10 And Balaam ſaid unto God, Balak the ſon of Zippor, King of Moab, hath ſent unto me, ſaying, 11 Behold, there is a people come out of Egypt, which covereth the face of the earth: come now, curſe me them, peradventure † I ſhall be able to overcome them, and drive them out.

12 And God ſaid unto Balaam y, Thou ſhalt not go with them, thou ſhalt not curſe the people, for they are bleſſed z.

y To whom God revealeth his mind, not for any love to him, but for the ſake of his people concerned in it, as he did to Pharaoh, Gen. 41. 25. and to Nebuchadnezzar, Dan. 2. 45. z By my irrevocable decree and ſentence, and therefore it is in vain for men to curſe them.

13 And Balaam roſe up in the morning, and ſaid unto the princes of Balak, Get ye into your land: for the LORD refuſeth to give me leave to go with you a.

a He conceals the principal thing, to wit, the reaſon of Gods prohibition, which might have given a ſtop to their further courſe and counſels in this matter, and ſecretly intimates his own good will and readineſs to comply with them, if God had not hindered him.

14 And the princes of Moab roſe up, and they went unto Balak, and ſaid, Balaam refuſeth to come with us b.

b Thus they lay the blame upon Balaam, which he imputed to God.

15 And Balak ſent yet again princes, mo, and more honourable than they.

16 And they came to Balaam, and ſaid to him, Thus ſaith Balak the ſon of Zippor, † let nothing c, I pray thee, hinder thee from coming unto me.

c No counſel nor ſuggeſtion either of God or Man.

17 For I will promote thee unto very great honour d, and I will do whatſoever thou ſayeſt unto me: come therefore, I pray thee, curſe me this people.

d Before he wrought upon his covetouſneſs, now upon his ambition.

18 And Balaam anſwered and ſaid unto the ſervants of Balak, * if Balak would give me his houſe full of ſilver and gold, I cannot e go beyond the word of the LORD my God f, to do leſs or more.

* chap. 24. 13.

e You deſire and expect that from me which is out of my power, to reſiſt the Will of the great God. He ſlily inſinuates, that he wanted not Will, but Power only. f So he calls him, partly to magnifie himſelf as the ſervant of the great Jehovah, partly that by profeſſing this reſpect unto God, he might the ſooner induce him to grant his deſire; and partly becauſe he worſhipped the true God together with Idols, as many in thoſe times and places did.

19 Now therefore, I pray you, tarry ye alſo here this night, that I may know what the LORD will ſay unto me more g.

g Poſſibly he may change his mind or yield to my renewed ſuit. Thus he ſought to make God and his conſcience ſtoop to the ſervice of his pride and covetouſneſs, which was abominable.

20 And God came unto Balaam at night, and ſaid unto him, if the men come to call thee, riſe up and go with them h: but yet the word which I ſhall ſay unto thee, that ſhalt thou do i.

h Since this is thy great deſire and purpoſe, as far as thou canſt, take thy courſe, I will, according to thy Wiſh, withdraw my reſtraint, and leave thee to thy ſelf and thy own choice. Compare Pſal. 81. 11, 12. i Theſe words ſignifie not ſo much his duty, as the event and his diſappointment, Thou ſhalt not do what thou deſireſt, to wit, curſe my people, and ſo inrich and advance thy ſelf, but I will ſo over-rule thy Mind, and bridle thy Tongue, that thou ſhalt ſpeak nothing but what is contrary to thy deſire and intereſt, and therefore though I permit thee to go, thou ſhalt loſe thy deſign in it.

21 And Balaam roſe up in the morning, and ſadled his aſs, and went with the princes of Moab.

22 And Gods anger was kindled becauſe he went k: and the angel of the LORD ſtood in the way † for an adverſary againſt him l: now he was riding upon his aſs, and his two ſervants were with him m.

k Either 1. becauſe he went of his own accord, with the Princes of Moab, and did not wait till they came to call him, i.e. urged him to go, which was the ſign and condition of Gods permiſſion, ver. 20. but rather himſelf roſe and called them, as it may ſeem from ver. 21. Or 2. becauſe thoſe words ver. 20. did contain no approbation nor licenſe, but a bare permiſſion, and that in anger, as Balaam might eaſily have underſtood, if he had conſidered his own heart, or the circumſtances of his conceſſion. This was no more an approbation than that paſſage of Chriſt to Judas, John 13. 27. That thou doeſt, do quickly. Or 3. becauſe he went with ill deſign and deſire to do contrary to what God had charged him, to wit, to curſe the people, as plainly appears from the following ſtory, and from Deut. 23. 5. For God hath been oft and juſtly angry with thoſe who have done what God bad them, when they did it in evil manner, or for evil ends, as appears from Iſa. 10. 6, 7. and many other places. l (i. e.) To oppoſe and terrifie, if not to kill him. m The reſt of the company being probably gone before them. For in thoſe ancient times there was more of ſimplicity, and leſs of ceremony, and therefore it is not ſtrange that Balaam came at ſome diſtance, after the reſt, and attended only by his own ſervants.

23 And * the aſs ſaw the Angel n of the LORD ſtanding in the way, and his ſword drawn in his hand, and the aſs turned aſide out of the way, and went into the field: and Balaam ſmote the aſs, to turn her into the way.

* 2 Pet. 2. 16. Jude 11.

n Which Balaam ſaw not, becauſe God withheld his eyes, as he did the eyes of Daniel's companions, Dan. 10. 7. It is a truth, which meer Philoſophers own, that when God withdraws his concourſe or help from any of his creatures, they cannot perform their natural acts and offices, the eye cannot ſee, as Gen. 19. nor the ear hear, nor the fire burn, as Dan. 3.

24 But the angel of the LORD ſtood in a path of the vineyards: a wall being on this ſide, and a wall on that ſide:

25 And when the aſs ſaw the angel of the LORD, ſhe thruſt her ſelf unto the wall, and cruſht Balaams foot againſt the wall: and he ſmote her again.

26 And the angel of the LORD went further, and and ſtood in a narrow place, where was no way to turn either to the right hand or to the left.

27 And when the aſs ſaw the angel of the LORD, ſhe fell down under Balaam, and Balaams anger was kindled, and he ſmote the aſs with a ſtaff.

28 And the LORD opened the mouth of the aſs o, and ſhe ſaid unto Balaam, What have I done unto thee, that thou haſt ſmitten me theſe three times?

o (i. e.) Conferred upon her the power of ſpeech and reaſoning for that time. Impudent are thoſe Heathens that diſbelieve and ſcoff at the Scripture for this and ſome ſuch relations contained in it, when there are examples of the ſame kind of prodigies, to wit, of Oxen and other brute-creatures ſpeaking ſome few words, in the greateſt and moſt approved Writers of the Roman Hiſtory, as Plutarch, Polybius, Livy, and others. See the particulars in my Latin Synopſis on this place.

29 And Balaam ſaid unto the aſs p, becauſe thou haſt mocked me; I would there were a ſword in mine hand, for now would I kill thee.

p Balaam was not much terrified with the Aſſes ſpeaking, becauſe he was much accuſtomed to converſe with evil ſpirits which oft appeared to him, and diſcourſed with him in the ſhape of ſuch creatures.

30 And the aſs ſaid unto Balaam, Am not I thine aſs, † upon which thou haſt ridden ‖ ever ſince I was thine, unto this day? was I ever wont to do ſo unto thee? and he ſaid, nay.

31 Then the LORD opened the eyes of Balaam, and he ſaw the angel of the LORD ſtanding in the way, and his ſword drawn in his hand: and he bowed down his head, and ‖ fell flat on his face q.

q in token of reverence and ſubmiſſion.

32 And the angel of LORD ſaid unto him, Wherefore haſt thou ſmitten thine aſs theſe three times? Behold, I went out † to withſtand thee, becauſe thy way is perverſe before me r.

r Howſoever thou maiſt deceive thy ſelf or others, I ſee the perverſeneſs of thy heart and way, the wickedneſs of thy deſign and deſires in this journey, which thou haſt undertaken not to pleaſe me, but to gratifie Balak, and, if it be poſſible, to curſe my people.

33 And the aſs ſaw me and turned from me theſe three times: unleſs ſhe had turned from me, ſurely now alſo I had ſlain thee, and ſaved her alive ſ.

ſ I had ſlain thee alone, and not her, and therefore her turning aſide and falling down, was wholly for thy ſake and benefit, not for her own, and thy anger againſt her was unjuſt and unreaſonable.

34 And Balaam ſaid unto the angel of the LORD, I have ſinned, for I knew not that thou ſtoodeſt in the way againſt me: now therefore, if it † diſpleaſe thee t, I will get me back again.

t A frivolous ſuppoſition, for it was apparently diſpleaſing to God, who had now ſaid that his way was perverſe and had therefore oppoſed him and ſought to ſlay him: but hereby he ſhews how loath he was to go back and loſe the hopes he had conceived, and beſides he ſpeaks of deſiſting from the outward action, but ſhews no ſenſe of the plague of his heart, his vile affections, which were the root of this ill deſigned journey.

35 And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto Balaam, Go with the men u: but only the word that I ſhall ſpeak unto thee, that thou ſhalt ſpeak x: ſo Balaam went with the princes of Balak.

u This may be either 1. A meer permiſſion, ſince neither the convictions of thy own conſcience, nor the experience of thy danger have weaned thee from thy baſe deſigns and inclinations, I ſhall no further reſtrain thee, my Angel ſhall give thee no more diſturbance, go on and proſper. Or 2. a conceſſion, I allow thee to go, upon the following terms. For the words here are more abſolute and unconditional than thoſe, ver. 20. x Theſe words may expreſs either 1. The event, or 2. his duty. See above on ver. 20.

36 And when Balak heard that Balaam was come, he went out to meet him y, unto a city of Moab, which is in the border of Arnon, which is in the utmoſt coaſt z.

y That by this great honour he might give him a taſt and earneſt of thoſe great rewards he deſigned him, and thereby oblige him to uſe his utmoſt skill and intereſt for him. z Not far from the camp of the Iſraelites whom he deſired him to curſe.

37 And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Did I not earneſtly ſend unto thee, to call thee? wherefore cameſt thou not unto me? Am I not able indeed to promote thee to honour?

38 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Lo, I am come unto thee: have I now any power at all to ſay any thing a? the word that God putteth in my mouth, that ſhall I ſpeak b.

a To wit, agreeable to thy expectation or my own inclination. b I am forced to do ſo by his ſuperior power, and therefore be not offended with me, if I ſpeak things unpleaſing to thee.

39 And Balaam went with Balak, and they came unto ‖ Kirjath-huzoth.

40 And Balak offered c oxen and ſheep, and ſent to Balaam d, and to the princes that were with him e.

c Or, killed, either for ſacrifice; or rather for a feaſt: for the ſacrifices were offered after this, Numb. 23. 1, 2. d To invite him to the feaſt. e Whom the King had left to accompany him and attend upon him.

41 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that Balak took Balaam, and brought him up into the high places of Baal f, that thence he might ſee the utmoſt part of the people g.

f (i. e.) Conſecrated to the Worſhip of Baal, i. e.) of Baal-Peor, who was their Baal or God, Numb. 25. 2, 3. or of Chemoſh. g (i. e.) All that people, even to the utmoſt and remoteſt of them, as appears by comparing this with Numb. 23. 13. He hoped that the ſight of ſuch a numerous hoſt ready to break in upon his Country, would ſtir up his paſſion and further his charms.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 AND Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Build me here ſeven altars a, and prepare me here ſeven oxen, and ſeven rams b.

a Either 1. To Baal, in whoſe high places this was done, and to whom alone Balak uſed to ſacrifice. Or rather 2. To the true God, otherwiſe he would not have mentioned it to God as an argument why he ſhould grant his requeſts, as he doth ver. 4. And though Balak was averſe from God and his Worſhip, yet he would be eaſily over-ruled by Balaam, who doubtleſs told him that it was in vain to make an addreſs to any other than the God of Iſrael, who alone was able either to bleſs or curſe them as he pleaſed. And therefore when Balaam loſt his deſign this way, he tried it another way with greater ſucceſs, but ſtill uſed the ſame method in provoking their own God to deſtroy the Iſraelites, Numb. 25. But though he direct his ſacrifices to a right Object, he chuſeth a wrong place, and, to comply with Balaks deſire, makes uſe of the high places of Baal for this end, and mingles his own ſuperſtitions with the Worſhip of God, in erecting divers Altars, according to the manner of Heathens and Idolaters, 2 King. 18. 22. Iſa. 17. 8. Jer. 11. 13. Hoſ. 8. 11. and 10. 1. and 12. 11. whereas God appointed, and holy men uſed but one Altar, though many ſacrifices were to be offered upon it, Gen. 8. 20. Exod. 17. 15. and 24. 4. b This being the ſolemn and uſual number in ſacrifices, 1 Chron. 15. 26. 2 Chron. 29. 21, Job 42. 8.

2 And Balak did as Balaam had ſpoken, and Balak and Balaam c offered on every altar a bullock and a ram.

c Balak by procuring them, and Balaam by offering them: though in ancient times Kings were Prieſts alſo, and ſo might perform a Prieſtly Work, as this was.

3 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, ſtand by thy burnt-offering d, and I will go e: peradventure the LORD will come to meet me: and whatſoever he ſheweth me f, I will tell thee. And ‖ he went to an high place g.

d As in Gods preſence, as one that offers thy ſelf as well as thy ſacrifices to obtain his favour. e To ſome ſolitary and convenient place, where I may by my Inchantments prevail with God to appear to me, and to anſwer thy and my deſires in curſing this people. f (i. e.) Reveals to me either by word or ſign. g Or, into the plain, as that word properly ſignifies, for he was now in an high place, Numb. 22. 41. But this is not material, it was doubtleſs ſome ſolitary place, where he might uſe ſome geſtures and ceremonies which he would not have others ſee, and where he might more reaſonably expect to meet with God, for both good and evil ſpirits moſt commonly appeared to perſons in ſuch places.

4 And God met Balaam b; and he ſaid unto him, I have prepared ſeven altars, and I have offered upon every altar a bullock and a ram i.

b Not to comply with Balaams charms, nor to gratifie, but to oppoſe his wicked deſires, and to force him againſt his own inclination and intereſt to utter the following words i Which I pray thee accept, and give me leave to curſe thy people, as their abundant wickedneſs deſerves.

5 And the LORD put a word in Balaams mouth k, and ſaid, Return unto Balak, and thus thou ſhalt ſpeak, k He ſuggeſted what he ſhould ſay, even thoſe words, ver. 8, 9, 10.

6 And he returned unto him, and lo, he ſtood by his burnt-ſacrifice, he, and all the princes of Moab.

7 And he took up l his parable m, and ſaid, Balak the King of Moab hath brought me from Aram n, out of the Mountains of the eaſt o, ſaying, Come, curſe me Jacob p, and come, defie Iſrael.

l To wit, into his mouth, he expreſſed or ſpoke. m (i. e.) His oracular and prophetical ſpeech, which he calls a parable, becauſe of the weightineſs of the matter, and the majeſty and ſmartneſs of the expreſſions, which is uſual in parables. n From Aram Naharaim, or Meſopotamia, Deut. 23. 4. See Gen. 10.22. o In which quarter Aram lay. The Eaſt was infamous for charmers or ſoothſayers, Iſa. 2. 6. p The poſterity of Jacob, i. e. Iſrael, as it here follows.

8 How ſhall I curſe whom God hath not † curſed q? or how ſhall I defie, whom the LORD hath not defied?

q God hath not curſed, but bleſſed Iſrael, and therefore it is a vain and ridiculous attempt for me to curſe them in ſpight of God.

* Deut. 33. 28.

9 For from the top of the rocks r I ſee him ſ, and from the hills I behold him: lo, * the people ſhall dwell alone, and ſhall not be reckoned among the nations t.

r Upon which I now ſtand. ſ I ſee the people according to thy deſire, chap. 22.41. but cannot improve that ſight to the end for which thou didſt deſign it, to wit, to curſe them. t This people are of a diſtinct kind from others, Gods peculiar people, ſeparated from all other Nations, as in Religion and Laws, ſo alſo in divine protection, and therefore my inchantments cannot have that power againſt them, which they have againſt other perſons and people. See Exod. 19. 5. Levit. 20. 24, 26.

10 Who can count the duſt of Jacob u, and the number of the fourth part of Iſrael x: Let † Heb. my ſoul or my life.

* Pſal. 116. 15.

† me die * the death of the righteous y, and let my laſt end z be like his.

u (i. e.) The numberleſs people of Jacob or Iſrael, who according to Gods promiſe, Gen. 13. 16. and 28.14. are now become as the duſt of the Earth. x (i. e.) Of one of the camps of Iſrael, for they were divided into four camps, Numb. 2. which Balaam from this height could eaſily diſcover, much leſs can any man number all their hoſts. y (i. e.) Of this righteous and holy people, the Iſraelites called Jeſurun, Deut. 32. 15. which word ſignifies upright or righteous. The ſenſe is, they are not only happy above other Nations in this life, as I have ſaid, and therefore in vain ſhould I curſe them, but they have this peculiar priviledge, that they are happy after death, their happineſs begins where the happineſs of other peoples ends, and therefore I heartily wiſh, that my ſoul may have its portion with theirs when I die. But it was a vain Wiſh, for as he would not live as Gods people did, ſo he died by the ſword, as others of Gods enemies did, Numb. 31.8. Joſ. 13 22. z (i. e.) My death, as the word is uſed. Or, My poſterity, as this Hebrew word ſignifies, Pſal. 109. 13. Dan. 11.4. Amos 4.2. And as the covenant and bleſſing of God given to Abraham did reach to his poſterity, ſo this might not be unknown to Balaam, which might give him occaſion for this VViſh. Or, my reward, as the word is taken, Prov. 23. 18. and 24. 20. But the firſt ſence ſeems the moſt true, becauſe it agrees beſt with the uſage of Scripture, to repeat the ſame thing in other words, and this includes the third ſence, to wit, the reward, vvhich is here ſuppoſed to follovv death, and for poſterity, it doth not appear that he had any, or, if he had, that he vvas ſo very ſolicitous for them; or that he knevv the tenor of Gods covenant vvith Abraham and his poſterity. Nay, he rather ſeems to have had ſome hope of ruining Abrahams poſterity, vvhich he attempted both here and aftervvards.

11 And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, What haſt thou done unto me? I took thee to curſe mine enemies, and behold, thou haſt bleſſed them altogether.

12 And he anſwered and ſaid, Muſt I not take heed to ſpeak that which the LORD hath put in my mouth a?

a I ſpeak not theſe vvords by my ovvn choice, but by the conſtraint of an higher povver vvhich I cannot reſiſt.

13 And Balak ſaid unto him, Come, I pray thee, with me unto another place, from whence thou mayeſt ſee them: thou ſhalt ſee but the utmoſt part of them, and ſhalt not ſee them all b: and curſe me them from thence.

b He thought the ſight of the people neceſſary both to excite Balaams paſſions, and to ſtrengthen and direct his conjurations, but he vvould novv have him ſee but a part of the people, and not all, becauſe the ſight of all of them might diſmay and diſcourage him, and, as it did before, raiſe his fancy to an admiration of the multitude, and of the felicity of the people, ver. 9, 10.

14 And he brought him into the field of Zophim c to the top of ‖ Piſgah d and built ſeven altars, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

c A place ſo called from the Spies and VVatches vvhich vvere kept there. d An high hill in the land of Moab ſo called, Deut. 3. 27. and 34. 1.

15 And he ſaid unto Balak, ſtand here by thy burnt-offering, while I meet the LORD e yonder.

e To conſult him, and to receive an anſvver from him, if peradventure thoſe renevved ſacrifices vvill melt him into ſome compliance vvith our deſires.

* chap. 22. 35.

16 And the LORD met Belaam f, and * put a vvord in his mouth, and ſaid, go again to Balak, and ſay thus.

f See above on verſe 4. and Numb. 22. 35.

17 And when he came to him, behold, he ſtood by his burnt-offering, and the princes of Moab with him. And Balak ſaid unto him, What hath the LORD ſpoken?

18 And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Riſe up g, Balak, and hearken unto me, thou ſon of Zippor:

g This vvord implies, either 1. The reverence vvherevvith he ſhould hear and receive Gods meſſage, as Ehud did, Jud. 3. 20. vvhich might have been probable, if Balak had been now fitting, as Ehud there vvas: but he vvas ſtanding, ver. 15. or rather 2. The diligent attention required, rouſe up thy ſelf, and carefully mind what I ſay.

* 1 Sam. 15. 29. Mal. 3. 6. Rom. 11. 29. Jam. 1. 17.

19 * God is not a man that he ſhould lie h, neither the ſon of man, that he ſhould repent i: hath he ſaid, and ſhall not do it k? or hath he ſpoken, and ſhall he not make it good?

h (i. e.) Break his Faith and Promiſes made to his people for their preſervation and benediction. i (i. e.) Change his counſels or purpoſes, which men do, either becauſe they are not able to execute them, or becauſe they are better informed and their minds changed by ſome unexpected occurrent, or by their luſts and paſſions, none of which have place in God. And therefore I plainly ſee that all our endeavours and repeated ſacrifices are to no purpoſe, and can make no impreſſion in God, nor induce him to curſe thoſe whom he hath purpoſed and ſolemnly and frequently promiſed to bleſs. k Is he like a man that oft ſpeaks and promiſes what he either never intends, or cannot or will not perform.

20 Behold, I have received commandment to bleſs l: and he hath bleſſed, and I cannot reverſe it.

l Or, I have received a bleſſing, to wit, a ſentence of bleſſing, which God hath put into my mind and mouth, and which I cannot forbear to utter. Heb. I have received to bleſs. The Infinitive put for the noun, as is frequent.

21 He hath not beheld iniquity in Jacob, neither hath he ſeen perverſeneſs in Iſrael m: the LORD his God is with him n, and the ſhout of a King is among them o.

m He (i.e.) God, underſtood v. 20. and expreſſed v. 19. hath not or doth not behold or ſee iniquity or perverſeneſs, i.e. any ſin, in Jacob or Iſrael, which cannot be meant of a ſimple ſeeing or knowing of him, for ſo God did ſee and obſerve, yea and chaſtiſe their ſins, as is manifeſt Exod. 32. 9. Deut. 9. 13. but of ſuch a ſight of their ſins as ſhould provoke God utterly to forſake and curſe and deſtroy them, which was Balaks deſire and Balaams hope and deſign. For as Balaam knew that none but Iſraels God could curſe or deſtroy Iſrael, ſo he knew, that nothing thing but their ſin could move him ſo to do, and therefore he took a right though wicked courſe afterwards, to tempt them to ſin, and thereby to expoſe them to ruine, Numb. 25 And Balaam had now hoped that God was incenſed againſt Iſrael for their ſins, and therefore would be prevailed with to give them up to the curſe and ſpoil. But, ſaith he, I was miſtaken, I ſee God hath a ſingular favour to this people, and though he ſees and puniſheth ſin in other perſons and people with utter deſtruction, as he hath now done in Sihon and Og, and the Amorites, yet he will not do ſo with Iſrael, he winks at their ſins, forgets and forgives them, and will not puniſh them as their iniquities deſerve. In this ſenſe God is ſaid not to ſee ſin, as elſewhere he is ſaid to forget them, Iſa. 43,25. Jer. 31.34. and, to cover them, Pſal. 32. 1. which keeps them out of ſight and ſo out of mind, and to blot them out, Pſal. 51.1,9. and to caſt them behind his back, Iſa. 38.17. or, into the depth of the ſea, Mic. 7.19. in which caſes they cannot be ſeen nor read. And men are oft ſaid not to know or ſee thoſe ſins in their children or others which they do not take notice of ſo as to puniſh them. And this ſence beſt agrees with the context, God hath decreed and promiſed to bleſs this people, and he hath bleſſed them, and I cannot reverſe it, ver. 20. and he will not reverſe it, though provoked to do ſo by their ſins, which he will take no notice of. Others thus, He hath not beheld, as hitherto he hath not, ſo for the future he will not behold, i. e. ſo as to approve it, as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 7. 1. Iſa. 66 2. Hab. 1. 13. or ſo as to ſuffer it, injury againſt Jacob, &c. For aven here rendred iniquity, is oft uſed in that ſence, as Job 5. 6, 7. Prov. 12. 21. and 22. 8. And the other word amal rendred perverſeneſs, oft notes vexation and trouble, as Job 5. 6, 7. Pſal 25. 17. and 36. 4. and the particle beth rendred in is oft uſed for againſt, as Exod. 14. 25. and 20. 16. Numb. 12. 1. So the ſence is, God will not ſee them wronged or ruined by any of their adverſaries, whereof the following words may be a good reaſon, for God is with him, &c. n (i.e.) He hath a favour for this people, and will defend and ſave them. So the phraſe of Gods being with a perſon or people ſignifies, as Judg. 6 13. Pſal. 46. 7. Iſa. 8. 10. o (i.e.) Such joyful and triumphant ſhouts as thoſe wherewith a people congratulate the approach and preſence of their King when he appears among them upon ſome ſolemn occaſion, or when he returns from battel with victory and ſpoils. The expreſſion implies Gods being their King and Ruler, and their abundant ſecurity and juſt confidence in him as ſuch. And here is an alluſion to the ſilver Trumpets which were made by Gods command, and uſed upon great ſolemnities, in which God their King was preſent in a ſpecial manner, Numb. 10. 9. Joſ. 6. 16, 20. 1 Sam. 4. 5. 2 Chron. 13. 12.

* chap. 24. 8. 22 * God brought them out of Egypt p: he q hath as it were the ſtrength of an unicorn r.

p To wit, by a ſtrong hand and in ſpight of all their Enemies, and therefore it is in vain to ſeek or hope to overcome them. q Either 1. God, laſt mentioned. But ſo the compariſon is mean and unbecoming. Or rather 2. Iſrael, whom God brought out of Egypt, ſuch change of numbers being very common in the Hebrew language. The ſence is, Iſrael is not now, what he was in Egypt, a poor, weak, diſpirited, unarmed people, but high and ſtrong and invincible. r Whoſe great ſtrength and fierceneſs is celebrated in Scripture, Numb. 24.8. Deut. 33. 17. Job 39.9. Pſal. 22.21. and 92.10. But whether it be an Unicorn, or a Rhinoceros, or a ſtrong and fierce kind of wild goar, which is here called reem, it is not needful here to determine.

ſ I find by experience and ſerious conſideration, that all mine and thine endeavours to enchant Iſrael, are in vain, being fruſtrated by their omnipotent God. I can do thee no ſervice by my art againſt them. t Not only in ſucceeding times and ages, of which he ſpeaks chap. 24. 17, &c. but even now in this time and age, and ſo forward. u (i.e.) How wonderful and glorious are thoſe Works which God is now about to do for Iſrael, by drying up Jordan, by ſubduing the Canaanites, &c. Theſe things will be matter of diſcourſe and admiration to all ages.

* Gen. 49. 9. 24 Behold, the people ſhall riſe up x as * a great lion, and lift up himſelf as a young lion: he ſhall not lie down y, until he eat of the prey and drink the blood of the ſlain.

x As a lion rowzeth up himſelf to fight or to go out to the prey, ſo ſhall Iſrael ſtir up themſelves to warlike attempts againſt all their enemies, as occaſion ſhall offer it ſelf. y (i.e.) Not reſt or ceaſe from fighting and purſuing.

25 And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Neither curſe them at all, nor bleſs them at all.

26 But Balaam anſwered and ſaid unto Balak, Told not I thee, ſaying, All that the LORD ſpeaketh, that I muſt do?

27 And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Come, I pray thee, I will bring thee unto another place: peradventure it will pleaſe God, that thou mayeſt curſe me them from thence.

28 And Balak brought Balaam unto the top of Peor z, that looketh toward Jeſhimon.

z An high place called Beth-peor, Deut. 3. 29. i. e. the houſe or temple of Peor, becauſe there they worſhipped Baal-peor.

29 And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Build me here ſeven altars, and prepare me here ſeven bullocks and ſeven rams.

30 And Balak did as Balaam had ſaid, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 AND when Balaam ſaw that it pleaſed the LORD to bleſs Iſrael, he went not as at * other times, † to ſeek for inchantments a: but he ſet his face toward the wilderneſs b. * chap. 23. 3. 15. † Heb. to the meeting of inchantments.

a (i.e.) To uſe enchantments, which he is ſaid to have done, either becauſe when he conſulted and ſacrificed to God, he did alſo uſe enchantments and conſult with the Devil, that if one would not, the other might help him; or, becauſe he conſulted God in a magical and ſuperſtitious way, by uſing ſuch poſtures or inſtruments or forms of words as Inchanters uſed. b Where Iſrael lay encamped, either with intent to curſe Iſrael without Gods leave; or rather, expecting what God of his own accord would ſuggeſt to him concerning this matter.

2 And Balaam lift up his eyes, and he ſaw Iſrael abiding in his tents, according to their tribes c: and the ſpirit of God came upon him d.

c In the order appointed Numb. 2. d (i.e.) Inſpired him to ſpeak the following words, and ſo conſtrained him again to bleſs thoſe whom he deſired to curſe.

3 * And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Balaam the ſon of Beor hath ſaid, and the man † whoſe eyes are open e, hath ſaid; * chap. 23. 7, 18. † Heb. who had his eyes ſhut, but now open.

e The eyes, either 1. of his body, as in the following verſe: or 2. of his mind, which God had opened in a peculiar and prophetical manner, whence Prophets are called Seers, 1 Sam. 9. 9. He implies that before he was blind and ſtupid, having eyes, but not ſeeing nor underſtanding. Some render the words, having his eyes ſhut, as the Hebrew Verb Saſtum ſignifies, the letters Schin and Samech being frequently exchanged, and ſo the meaning is, that he received this revelation either in a dream, when mens eyes are ſimply ſhut; or in an extaſie or trance, when mens eyes, though open, are in a manner ſhut, to wit, as to the uſe and exerciſe of them.

4 He hath ſaid, which heard the words of God, which ſaw the viſion f of the Almighty falling into a trance g, but having his eyes open:

f So called either ſtrictly and properly, becauſe he was awake when this was revealed to him; or largely and improperly, for any extraordinary diſcovery of Gods mind to him, whether ſleeping or waking. g Or, extaſy, fainting and falling upon the ground, as the Prophets uſed to do. See 1 Sam. 19. 24. Ezek. 1.28. and 3.23. and 43.3. Dan. 8.17,18. and 10.16. Rev. 1. 17. Others, falling ſuddenly into a ſleep, as the Prophets ſometimes did, as Gen. 15 12. Dan. 8. 18.

6 As the valleys h are they i ſpread forth, as gardens by the rivers ſide k, as the trees of lignaloes l which the LORD hath planted m, and as cedar-trees n beſide the waters o.

h Which oft-times from a ſmall beginning are ſpread forth far and wide. Others, as the brooks, or rivers, as the word ſignifies, which ſtretch out and diſperſe their Waters into ſeveral channels, and ſometimes further. i (i.e.) The Iſraelites laſt mentioned. k Pleaſant and fruitful and ſecured by a fence. l An Arabian and Indian Tree of a ſweet ſmell, yielding good ſhade and ſhelter both to man and beaſt, ſuch is Iſrael, famous among the Nations, and not only ſafe themſelves, but yielding ſhelter to all that joyn themſelves to them. m Which are the beſt of the kind, ſuch as not man, but God might ſeem to have planted, as the beſt of all ſorts are aſcribed to God, as the trees, hills, cities of God, &c. Compare Pſal. 104. 16. n Which are famous for growth, and height, and ſtrength, and durableneſs, whence Solomons Temple was built of this Wood, 1 Kings 6. 9, 10. o Where Trees thrive beſt.

p He (i.e.) God will abundantly water the valleys, gardens and trees, which represent the Israelites, ver. 6. i. e. he will wonderfully bless his people, not only with all outward blessings, of which a chief one in those parts was plenty of Water, but also with higher gifts and graces, with his Word and Spirit, which are oft signified by waters, John 3. 5. and 4. 10. and 7. 38, 39. and at last with eternal life, the contemplation whereof made Balaam desire to die the death of the righteous. Others thus, God shall make his posterity numerous: for the procreation of Children is oft signified by Waters, Fountains, Cisterns, &c as Psal. 68. 26. Prov. 5. 15, 18. & 9. 17. Isa. 48. 1. But there is no necessity of flying to Metaphors here, and therefore the other being the literal and proper sence, is by the laws of good interpretation to be preferred before it. q This also may be literally understood of their seed, which shall be sown in watterish ground, and therefore bring forth a better increase, Isa. 32. 20. Others thus, His seed shall be so numerous that it shall branch forth into many people, the several tribes being reckoned and sometimes called several people. Or, his seed shall rule over many people or nations, which are sometimes signified by many Waters, as Psal. 144. 7. Isa. 57. 20. Jer. 47. 2 Rev. 17. 15. But here also the literal sence seems best. r (i.e.) The King of Israel, either God, who was in a peculiar manner their King or Ruler, Numb. 23. 21. Judg. 6. 13. 1 Sam. 8. 7. Isa. 33 22. or their chief governour or governours, whether King or others: for Moses is called their king, Deut. 33. 5. and the Judges were in a manner Kings. s (i.e.) Than the King of the Amalekites, which King and People were famous and potent in that age, ver. 20. as may be guessed by their bold attempt upon so numerous a people as Israel was. And it is probably thought by the Jewish and other Interpreters, that Agag was the common Name of the Amalekitish Kings, as Abimelech was of the Philistines, and Pharaoh of the Egyptians, and Cæsar of the Romans. But though this King only be instanced in, yet other Kings, to wit, such as did or should border upon the Israelites, are doubtless to be understood, above whom the Kings and People of Israel sometimes were advanced, and oftner should have been, if they had not been their own hinderance by their sins. Some make this a prophecy of Sauls conquering Agag and his People, 1 Sam. 15. 7, 8. But the words seem to be more general, and to signifie a greater honour and advantage to Israel than that was.

* chap. 23 22. 8 * God brought him forth out of Egypt, he hath as it were the strength of an unicorn: he shall eat up the nations his enemies, and shall break f their bones, and pierce them through with his arrows.

f Or, unbone, or, take out, i.e. shall eat the flesh to the very bones, and then break them also.

* Gen. 49. 9. 9 * He couched, he lay down t as a lion, and
* Gen. 12. 3. and 27. 29. as a great lion: who shall stir him up u? * Blessed is he that blesseth thee, and cursed is he that curseth thee.

t Having conquered his Enemies the Canaanites, and their land, he shall quietly and securely rest and settle himself there. u (i. e.) Awake or provoke him.

10 And Balaks anger was kindled against Balaam, and he smote his hands together x: and Balak said unto Balaam, I called thee to curse mine enemies, and behold, thou hast altogether blessed them these three times.

x A sign of great anger, Ezek. 21. 17. and 22. 13.

11 Therefore now, flee thou to thy place y: I thought to promote thee unto great honour, but lo, the LORD z hath kept thee back from honour.

y Whence I sent for thee, Numb. 22. 5. z Whose commands thou hast preferred before my desires and interest; and therefore seek thy recompence from him, and not from me.

12 And Balaam said unto Balak, Spake I not also to thy messengers which thou sentest unto me, saying,

* chap. 22. 18. 13 * If Balak would give me his house full of silver and gold, I cannot go beyond the commandment of the LORD, to do either good or † Gr. of my self. bad † of mine own mind: but what the LORD chap. 16. 28. saith that will I speak.

14 And now behold, I go unto my people: come therefore, and * I will advertise thee a, what this people shall do to thy people in the a Or, inform thee, to wit, concerning future things, as it here follows, for this word seems inseparably joyned with the following. Others, give thee counsel, and tell thee what this people, &c. So it is a short and defective speech, such as we have Exod. 4. 5. and 13. 8. And by counsel they understand that which is related, Numb. 25. 1, 2. which was done by Balaams counsel, Numb. 31. 16. Rev. 2. 14. But the former sence is more unforced and agreeable to the following words, as they lie. b Not in thy time, therefore thou hast no reason to fear, but in succeeding ages, as 2 Sam. 8. 2, &c.

15 And he took up his parable, and said, Balaam the son of Beor hath said, and the man whose eyes were open, hath said:

16 He hath said, which heard the words of God, and knew the knowledge of the most High, which saw the vision of the Almighty, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:

17 I shall c see him d but not now e: I shall behold him, but not nigh: there shall come a * star * Mat. 2. 2.
f out of Jacob, and a * Scepter g shall rise out of * Psal. 110. 2.
Israel, and shall ‖ smite the corners h of Moab, ‖ Or, smite through the princes of Moab.
and destroy all the children of Sheth i.

c Or, I have seen, or do see, for the future is oft put for other times or tenses: he speaks of a prophetical sight, like that of Abrahams, who saw Christs day, Joh. 8. 56. d To wit, the star, and scepter, as it here follows, i.e. a great and eminent Prince, which was to come out of Israels loins, either 1. David, who first did the things here spoken of, 2 Sam. 8. 2. Psal. 60. 8. and 108. 9. and some of the Kings of Judah and Israel after him, for it is not necessarily understood of one particular person: or 2. the Messias, as both Jewish and Christian Interpreters expound it, who most eminently and fully performed what is here said, in destroying the Enemies of Israel or of Gods Church, who are here described under the Names of the neerest and fiercest Enemies of Israel, which he doth partly by himself, by his Word and Spirit, and spiritual Plagues; and partly by his ministers, those Princes whom he makes nursing-fathers to his Church, and scourges to his Enemies. And to him alone agrees the foregoing verb properly, I shall see him, to wit, in my own person, or with the eyes of my own body, as every eye shall see him, Rev. 1. 7. when he comes to judgment. Nor can it seem strange that Balaam should speak of such high and remote things, seeing he foresaw and foretold these things by the revelation of the spirit of God, by which also he foresaw the great felicity of good men, and the miserable state of bad men after death and judgment, Numb. 23. 10. e Not yet, but after many ages. f A title oft given to Princes and eminent and illustrious persons, and particularly to the Messias, Rev. 2. 28. & 22. 16. g (i.e.) A scepter-bearer, a King or Ruler, even that scepter mentioned Gen. 49. 10. h Either 1. literally, the borders, which by a Synecdoche, are oft used in Scripture, for the whole country to which they belong, as Exod. 8. 2. Psal. 74. 17. and 147. 14. Jer. 15. 13. and 17. 3. Or 2. metaphorically, to wit, Princes and Rulers, who are sometimes compared to corners, as Zach. 10. 4. and Christ himself is called a corner stone, because he unites and supports the building. But I prefer the former sence. i Which seems to be the name of some then eminent, though now unknown, place or prince in Moab, where there were many Princes, as appears from Numb. 23. 6. Amos 2. 3. there being innumerable instances of such places or persons sometimes famous, but now utterly lost as to all monuments and remembrances of them.

18 And * Edom shall be a possession d, Seir e * 2 Sam. 8. 14.
also shall be a possession for his enemies f, and Is- Psal. 60. 8, 9.
rael shall do valiantly g:

d Which was also foretold Gen. 25. 23. and in part fulfilled, 2 Sam. 8. 14. 1 Chron. 18. 13. but more fully by Christ, Amos 9. 12. Obad. ver. 18. who shall subdue and possess all his Enemies here signified by the name of Edom, as Jacob or Israel his brother, signifies all his Church and People. e A part and mountain of Edom, Gen. 36. 8. which may be here mentioned as the strongest part of Edom, to shew that not only the rest of Edom, which is more accessible, but even the Rocks and best munitions of it, shall be taken. f The Israelites. g Or, gain power, or riches, or victory, all which are comprehended in this phrase.

19 Out of Jacob h shall come he that shall have dominion i, and shall destroy him that remaineth of the City k.

h Out of Jacobs loins. i David, and especially Christ. k Or, from or out of the City, i.e. the cities, the singular number for the plural, which hath been oft noted before. The sence is, he shall not only subdue those Moabites and Edomites which meet him in the field, but he shall pursue them even to their strongest holds and cities, and shall pull them out thence. Possibly he may note some eminent city in which they confided most, their Metropolis or Royal City, as may be guessed from Psal. 60. 9.

20 And when he looked l on Amalek, he took up his parable, and said, Amalek was ‖ the first m ‖ The first of the nations that warred against Israel, Ex. 17.
of the nations, but his latter end ‖ shall be that he ‖ Or, shall be, even to destruction.
perish for ever n.

l From the top of Pisgah, which was exceeding high, and gave him the prospect of the parts of all these Kingdoms. m Heb. the first fruits; so called either 1. because they were the first of all the neighbouring nations which were embodied together in one government: or 2. because they were the most pow-powerful and eminent of them, as is implied above, ver.9. the best things in each kind being oft signified by the name of first-fruits. Or 3. because he was the first who fought against Israel, and was vanquished by them, in that famous battel Exod. 17. which victory was an earnest and first-fruits of that large harvest of victories which the Israelites should in due time get over all their Enemies, and among others, over Amalek himself, 1 Sam. 15. 3. n He began with God and with Israel, but God will end with him, and the firm purpose and will of God is, that he shall be utterly destroyed, Exod. 17. 14. so that Saul lost his Kingdom for not executing this decree and Gods command pursuant thereunto, 1 Sam. 15.

* 1 Sam. 15. 6. 21 And he looked on * the Kenite o, and took up his parable, and said, strong is thy dwelling-place, and thou puttest thy nest p in a rock:

o The posterity or kindred of Jethro, not that part of them which dwelt among the Israelites, to whom the following words do not agree, but those of them who were mingled with the Amalekites and Midianites. See Exod. 3. 1. Judg. 1. 16. and 4. 11. 1 Sam. 15. 6. p (i.e.) Thy dwelling-place, so called, either because it was in an high place, as nests commonly are: or from their security and confidence of continuing long and safe in it: See Job 29. 18. or in allusion to their name, for Ken in Hebrew signifies a nest.

q Heb. Kain, i.e. the Kenite, so called, either by a transposition of letters, which is very usual in the Hebrew Tongue: or from the name of some eminent place where they lived, or person from whom they were descended, though now the memory of them be utterly lost, as it hath fared with innumerable other places and persons famous in their generations, mentioned in ancient heathen Writers. r (i.e.) Shall be by degrees diminished and wasted by the incursions of divers enemies, till at last the Assyrian comes to compleat the Work and carries them into captivity. For the Kenites lived partly among the Ten Tribes, Jos. 19. 33. compared with Judg. 4. 11. and partly with the Two Tribes, Judg. 1. 16. and 4. 16, 17. and were carried captive with them, part by Salmaneser, the King of Assyria, 2 Kings 17. 6. and part by Nebuchadnezzar, who also is called an Assyrian, Ezra 6. 22. Isa. 52. 4. The words may be rendred thus, shall be wasted. How long? to wit, shall they be thus wasted? (these particles being oft used abruptly and pathetically in the same manner, Psal. 6. 3. and 90. 13. Isa. 6. 11.) till Ashur comes, Ashur shall carry thee away captive.

23 And he took up his parable, and said, Alas! who shall live s when God doth this?

s How calamitous and miserable will the state of the World be when the Assyrian, and after him the Chaldean, shall over-run and overturn all these parts of the World? Who will be able to live and keep his heart from fainting under such grievous pressures? how few will then escape the destroying sword?

24 And ships shall come from the coast of Chittim t, and shall afflict Ashur, and shall afflict Eber u, and he also x shall perish for ever.

t A place or people so called from Chittim the son of Javan, Gen. 10. 4. whose posterity were very numerous and were first seated in the lesser Asia, and from thence sent forth colonies into the Islands of the Ægean sea, and into Cyprus, and afterwards into Macedonia and other parts of Greece, and then into Italy. Whence it comes to pass that by this name is understood sometimes Macedonia, as appears from 1 Macc. 1. 1. & 1 Macc. 8. 5. and sometimes Italy, as is manifest from Dan. 11. 29, 30. and sometimes both, as in this place: for he speaks here of the scourge that God hath appointed for the Assyrian after he had done Gods Work in punishing of his people and the bordering Nations. Now although the Assyrian and Chaldean Empire was subdued by the Medes and Persians, yet the chief afflictions and calamities of that people came from two hands, both beyond the sea, and brought to them by ships, as is here expressed, first from the Grecians under Alexander and his successors, by whom that people were grievously oppressed and wasted; then from the Romans, who subdued all the Grecian Empire, one great part whereof were the Assyrians largely so called, and after many bloody Wars made them a colony. u (i.e.) The posterity of Eber, Gen. 10. 24. the Hebrews, who were the chief and flower of Ebers children, and therefore are here designed by that general Name, such general expressions being oft used concerning one particular, and the most eminent of its kind. And it pleased God to express it thus darkly here, because though he would foretell this for the comfort and instruction of his people in after ages, yet he would not have Balak, nor Balaam neither, understand or utter any thing which might seem to thwart that happy estate of Israel, which Balaam clearly saw and openly applauded. x Not the Hebrews, as some understand, for his affliction was now mentioned before, and other Scriptures tell us they shall have a better end, and that all Israel shall be saved, and therefore not perish for ever, but the afflicter or scourge of Ashur and Eber, to wit, the Grecian and Roman Empire.

25 And Balaam rose up, and went, and returned to his place y: and Balak also went his way.

y (i.e.) To Mesopotamia. Obj. He went only to Midian, where he was slain, Numb. 31. 8. Ans. 1. He is said to return home, because he intended and began to do so, though he was diverted by the Midianites: for men in Scripture are oft said to do what they design or attempt to do, as Exod. 8. 18. Numb. 14. 40. Ans. 2. He did go home first, though afterwards he returned to the Midianites, either because they sent for him, or to recover his lost credit, and to do that by policy which he could not do by charms, to which purpose he gave them that devilish counsel which was put in practice, Numb. 25. and that by his advice, Numb. 31. 16. Rev. 2. 14.

CHAP. XXV.

1 AND Israel abode in * Shittim a, and the people b began to commit whoredom c with the daughters of Moab d. * chap. 33. 49.

a A place called more largely, Abel-Shittim, Numb. 33. 49. it being usual with the Hebrews to abbreviate long proper Names, as Hermon is put for Baal-hermon, Judg. 3. 3. Tholad for El-tholad, Jos. 19. 4. Nimrim, Isa. 15. 6. for Beth-nimrim, Numb. 32. 36. And this was their last station, from whence they passed immediately into Canaan. So this is here noted as a great aggravation of their sin, that they committed it when God was going to put them into the possession of their long-expected and much-desired land. b Not all, but many of them, as appears from Deut. 4. 3, 4. 1 Cor. 10. 8. c Both corporally and spiritually, either because they prostituted themselves to them upon condition of worshipping their God: or because their filthy God was worshipped by such filthy acts, as Priapus and Venus were. d And of Midian too, as is evident from ver. 6. 17, 18. and Numb. 31. 16. for both these people being confederated in this wicked design, the one is put for the other, and the daughters of Moab may be named, either because they began the transgression, or because they were the chief persons, possibly, the relations or courtiers of Balak King of Moab.

2 And * they called e the people unto the sacrifices e of their gods f: and the people did eat, and bowed down g to their gods b: * Josh. 22. 17. Psal. 106. 28. Hos. 9. 10.

e This may be noted, either 1. as the consequent of their Whoredom, an invitation to further society in their sacred feasts: or rather 2 as the cause or occasion of their Whoredom, the Hebrew Vau here signifying for, as it oft doth. The Moabites being now Neighbours to the Israelites, and finding themselves unable to effect their design against Israel by War and Witchcraft, they now fell another way to work, by contracting familiarity with them, and, perceiving their evil and lustful inclinations, they, i.e. their daughters, last mentioned, invited them to their feasts. e (i.e.) Unto the feasts which were made of their parts of their sacrifices, after the manner of the Jews and Gentiles too, the participation whereof was reckoned a participation in the Worship of that God to whom the sacrifices were offered, 1 Cor. 10. 8. and therefore was forbidden to the Israelites when such feasts and sacrifices belonged to a false God, Exod. 34. 15. Yet this was a less and more modest kind of Idolatry, and therefore is fitly used to usher in what was more gross and impious. f (i.e.) Of their God, Baal-peor, the plural Elohim being here used, as commonly it is, for one God. g Which properly notes the outward act of Worship, which here consisting in, or being accompanied with filthy actions, may either signifie or connote them. b Before their Gods, or, to the honour and worship of their Gods.

3 And Israel joyned himself i unto Baal-peor k: and the anger of the LORD was kindled l against Israel.

i The word implies a forsaking of God to whom they were and should have been joyned, and a turning to, embracing of, strict conjunction with, and fervent affection, after this false God. Compare Hos. 9. 10. and 2 Cor. 6. 14. k Called Baal, by the Name common to many false Gods, and especially to those that represented any of the heavenly bodies, and Peor, either from the Hill Peor, where he was worshipped, Numb. 23. 28. or rather from a verb signifying to open and uncover, either because of the obscene posture in which possibly the Idol was set, as Priapus was: or because of the filthiness which was exercised in his worship. l (i.e.) Discovered it self in a dreadful plague, Ps. 106. 29.

4 And the LORD said unto Moses, * Take all the heads of the people, and hang them up m before the LORD n against the sun o, that the fierce anger of the LORD may be turned away from Israel. * Deut. 4. 3. Jos. 22. 17.

m The sense is, either 1. Take, to wit, to thy self and thy assistance, all the heads, i.e. the Judges, as they are called ver. 5. Or Rulers of the people, and in their presence and by their help hang them, i.e. the people now mentioned, to wit, such of them as were guilty, as was ſaid ver. 2. And this ſence ſeems to be favoured by the next verſe, where the execution of this command is mentioned. Moſes ſaid unto the Judges of Iſrael, whom he had taken to himſelf and called together, Slay ye every one his man, i.e. Each of you execute this command of God and hang up the delinquents under your ſeveral juriſdictions. Or 2. Take, i.e. apprehend, all the heads, i.e. the chief of the people, ſuch as were chief either in this tranſgreſſion, or rather in place and power, who are ſingled out to this exemplary puniſhment either for their neglect in not preventing, reſtraining or puniſhing the Offenders according to their power and duty, or for their concurrence with others in this wickedneſs, which was more odious and miſchievous in them than in others. And then this muſt be neceſſarily limited to ſuch heads as were guilty, which is evident from the nature of the thing, and from the words of the verſe. And ſo theſe heads of the people differ, as in name and title, ſo in place and dignity, from the Judges of the people ver. 5. which may ſeem to note the ſuperior Magiſtrates, even the 70 Elders, which, being perſons of great worth and piety, choſen by God and endowed with his ſpirit, moſt probably kept themſelves from this contagion, and therefore were fitter to puniſh others, and the heads of the people ſeem to be the inferior Magiſtrates, the rulers of tens or hundreds, or the like, who as they did many of them, partake with the people in other rebellions, ſo probably were involved in this guilt. Now theſe are to be hanged up, as other malefactors and condemned perſons were, Deut. 21. 23. 2 Sam. 21. 6. n To the vindication of Gods honour and juſtice. o (i e.) Publickly, as their ſin was publick and ſcandalous, and ſpeedily before the Sun go down. But withal, this phraſe may ſignifie, that theſe alſo muſt be taken down about ſun-ſetting, as other malefactors were, Deut. 21. 23.

p (i e.) Thoſe under his charge: for as theſe 70 were choſen to aſſiſt Moſes in the government, ſo doubtleſs the care and management of the people was diſtributed among them by juſt and equal proportions.

6 And behold q one of the children of Iſrael came, and brought unto his brethren r, a Midianitiſh woman, in the ſight of Moſes ſ, and in the ſight of all the congregation t of the children of Iſrael, who were weeping u before the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

q This was done, either 1. Before Gods command to Moſes, and by him to the Judges, ver. 4, 5. ſuch tranſpoſitions and diſorders being not unuſual in ſacred ſtory. Or rather 2. In the order it is related, to wit, when Moſes had given the charge to the Judges, and, as it may ſeem, before the execution of it, otherwiſe it is probable he would not have been ſo bold and fooliſh to have run upon preſent and certain ruin, when the Examples were freſh and frequent before his eyes. r (i.e.) Into the Camp of the Iſraelites, or to his Friends and Relations in his Tent, whither he carried her, ver. 8. for his or their fleſhly ſatisfaction. ſ An argument of intolerable impudence and contempt of God and of Moſes. t (i. e.) The rulers of the congregation with divers of the people. u Bewailing the abominable wickedneſs of the people and the dreadful judgments of God, and imploring Gods mercy and favour.

* Pſal. 106. 30. * Exod. 6. 25. 7 And * when Phinehas the * ſon of Eleazar, the ſon of Aaron the Prieſt, ſaw it, he roſe up from amongſt the congregation, and took a javelin in his hand.

8 And he went after the man of Iſrael into the ‖ tent x, and thruſt both of them through y, the man of Iſrael and the woman through her belly z: ſo the plague a was ſtayed from the children of Iſrael.

x Or, Brothel-houſe: For ſince they gave way to ſuch leud practiſes, no doubt they ſingled out convenient places for their wickedneſs. y Which is no warrant for private perſons to take upon them the execution of juſtice upon any, though the greateſt malefactors, becauſe Phinehas was himſelf a man in great authority and power, and did this after the command given by Moſes to the Rulers to ſlay theſe tranſgreſſors, and in the very ſight, and no doubt, by the conſent of Moſes himſelf and alſo by the ſpecial inſtinct and direction of Gods Spirit. z Or, in her brothel-houſe, for the word is the ſame before uſed and tranſlated tent, and it may be called hers, becauſe ſhe choſe or uſed that place for her wicked purpoſes, as the reſt doubtleſs did other places of like nature. a Either the peſtilence or ſome other ſudden and grievous mortality.

* 1 Cor. 10. 8. 9 And * thoſe that died in the plague, were twenty and four thouſand b.

b Object. They were but 23000. 1 Cor. 10. 8. Anſw. The odd thouſand here added were ſlain by the Judges according to the order of Moſes, the reſt by the immediate hand of God, but both ſorts died of the plague, the word being uſed, as oft it is, for the ſword, or hand, or ſtroke of God.

10 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

11 * Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar, the ſon of Aaron the prieſt hath turned my wrath away from the children of Iſrael, (while he was zealous c for my ſake d among them) that I conſumed not the children of Iſrael in my jealouſie. * Pſal. 106. 30.

c Fervent, and reſolute, and valiant. d For my ſatisfaction and vindication.

12 Wherefore ſay, Behold, I give unto him my covenant of peace e.

e (i.e.) The covenant of an everlaſting prieſthood, as it is expounded v. 13. which is called a covenant of peace, partly with reſpect to the happy effect of this heroical action of his, whereby he made peace between God and his people, and partly with regard to the principal end and uſe of the Prieſtly Office, which was conſtantly to do that which Phinehas now did, even to mediate between God and Men, to obtain and preſerve his own and Iſraels peace and reconciliation with God by offering up ſacrifices and incenſe and prayers to God on their behalf, Num. 16. 47, 48. as alſo by turning them away from iniquity, which is the only peace-breaker, and by teaching and preſſing the obſervation of that law, which is the only bond of their peace, Mal. 2. 5, 6, 7.

13 And he ſhall have it, and his ſeed after him f, even the covenant of an everlaſting prieſthood g, becauſe he was zealous for his God, and made an atonement for the children of Iſrael.

f Queſt. What advantage had he by this promiſe, ſeeing the thing here promiſed was due to him by birth? Anſ. 1. The ſame bleſſing may be oft-times promiſed, as the Kingdom was to David; and the renewing of this promiſe might ſeem convenient here, to ſignifie that bloodſhed was ſo far from polluting him, and thereby caſting him out of the Prieſthood, that it was a mean to confirm him in it. 2. This promiſe ſecured him and his againſt divers contingences, which otherwiſe have been befallen him or them, as that he ſhould live longer than his father, elſe he could not have been the High-prieſt; that he ſhould be preſerved from thoſe blemiſhes which might have rendred him uncapable of the Prieſthood, which were many; that he ſhould have a ſeed, and they ſuch as were fit for that office. g (i.e.) To continue as long as the law and commonwealth of the Jews did. Queſt. How was this verified, ſeeing the Prieſthood went from Eleazars to Ithamars line in Eli, and three or four of his ſucceſſors? Anſ. 1. This promiſe, as others of the like nature, was conditional, and therefore might be made void and of none effect by the miſcarriages of Phinehas his ſons, as it ſeems it was, and thereupon a like promiſe was made to Eli of the line of Ithamar, that he and his ſhould walk before the Lord, to wit, in the office of High-prieſt for ever, which alſo for his and their ſins was made void, 1 Sam. 2. 30. Anſ. 2. That was but a ſhort interruption, and not conſiderable in ſo long a ſucceſſion, for the Prieſthood returned to Phinehas his line in the time of Solomon, 1 King. 2. 26, 27, 34. 1 Chron. 24. 3. and continued in that line till the captivity of Babylon, as is evident, and afterward too, 1 Chron. 6. 4. Ezra 7. 1, 5. even until Chriſts time, for any thing which appears to the contrary.

14 Now the name of the Iſraelite that was ſlain, even that was ſlain with the Midianitiſh woman, was Zimri the ſon of Salu, a prince h of † a chief houſe i among the Simeonites k. † Heb. houſe of a father.

h This is added as a proof of Phinehas his zeal, that he durſt venture upon ſo great a perſon, who was likely to have many avengers of his blood. i Heb, Of the houſe of his Father. Every Tribe was divided into great Houſholds, called the houſes of their Fathers, Numb. 1. 2. and he was the Prince or chief of one of theſe, tho not of the whole Tribe. Of the Tribe of Simeon, which ſeems to have been too much influenced by his and other ſuch Examples, ſo that for 59300. which were numbred, Numb. 1. 22, 23. there were now only 22200. Numb. 26. 14.

15 And the name of the Midianitiſh woman that was ſlain, was Cozbi the daughter of Zur l, he was head over a people, and of a chief houſe m in Midian.

l One of the Kings or Princes of Midian, Numb. 31. 8. Joſ. 13. 21. m Or, and over her fathers houſe.

n And why not the Moabites, who were as guilty, ver. 1. Anſw. 1. Becauſe God will reſerve to himſelf a liberty of puniſhing or ſparing, according to his own good pleaſure. 2. God had a kindneſs for the Moabites for Lots ſake, Deut. 2. 9. 3 God puniſhed the Moabites in another manner, partly by his own immediate hand, whereby it is probable he cut off thoſe Moabitiſh Women that were guilty of this fact, partly by a particular and dreadful kind of excommunication, Deut. 23. 3. and partly by impunity, which in its conſequences is commonly worſe and more pernicious than any or all temporal puniſhments, which none that believes the Bible can deny. 4. It is probable the Midianites were moſt guilty, as in perſwading Balak lak to send for Balaam, as may be gathered from Numb. 22. 4, 7. So in the reception of Balaam after Balak had dismissed him, Numb. 31.8. and in further consultation with him, and in contriving the means for the executing of this wicked plot. o (i.e.) Kill them: in which words as there is a command to war against them, so there is a promise of success.

18 For they vex you with their wiles p, wherewith they have beguiled you in the matter of Peor, and in the matter of Cozbi q, the daughter of a prince of Midian, their sister r, which was slain in the day of the plague for Peors sake.

p For under pretence of kindred and friendship and leagues, yea and Marriages, which they offered to them, instead of that War which the Israelites expected from them, they sought only an opportunity to insinuate themselves into their familiarity, and execute their hellish plot of bringing that curse upon the Israelites, which they had in vain attempted to bring another way. q By drawing you both to spiritual and corporal whoredom. r In a large sense, to wit, their Country-woman.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 AND it came to pass after the plague a that the LORD spake unto Moses, and unto Eleazar b the son of Aaron the priest, saying, a Last mentioned, chap. 25. 8, 9. b Who, his father being dead, was High-priest.

2 Take the sum c of all the congregation of
* chap. 1. 3. the children of Israel * from twenty years old and upward, throughout their fathers house, all that are able to go to war in Israel.

c They were numbred twice before, Exod. 30. 11, 12. & Numb. 1. 1, 2. Now they are numbred a third time, partly to demonstrate the faithfulness of God, both in cutting all those off whom he had threatned to cut off, Numb. 14.29. and in a stupendious increase and multiplication of the people according to his promise, notwithstanding all their sins and the sweeping judgments inflicted upon them; and partly to prepare the way for the equal division of the land which they were now going to possess.

3 And Moses and Eleazar the priest spake with them in the plains of Moab d, by Jordan near Jericho e saying, d See Numb. 22. 1. and 33. 48. e See Numb. 22. 1.

4 Take the sum of the people f, from twenty years
* chap. 1. 1. old and upward, as the LORD * commanded Moses, and the children of Israel which went forth out of the land of Egypt.

f Which words are easily supplied and necessarily to be understood from ver. 2.

* Gen. 46. 8. Exod. 6. 14. 1 Chro. 5. 1. 5 * Reuben the eldest son of Israel: the children of Reuben; Hanock, of whom cometh the family of the Hanochite: of Pallu, the family of the Palluite:

6 Of Hesron, the family of the Hesronite: of Carmi, the family of the Carmite.

7 These are the families g of the Reubenite: and they that were numbred of them, were forty and three thousand and seven hundred and thirty h.

g (i.e.) The chief houses, which were subdivided into divers lesser families. h Whereas in their last numbring they were 46500, Numb. 1. 21. for Korahs conspiracy, as well as other provocations of theirs had cut off many of them.

8 And the sons i of Pallu; Eliab.

i For, son, of which change of the number. See Gen. 21. 7. and 46. 7.

9 And the sons of Eliab; Nemuel, and Dathan, and Abiram: this is that Dathan and Abiram which
* chap. 16. 2. were * famous in the congregation, who strove against Moses and against Aaron in the company of Korah, when they strove against the LORD.

10 And the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up together with Korah k, when that company died, what time the fire devoured two hundred and fifty men: and they became a sign l.

k According to this translation Korah was not consumed by fire with his 250 men, Numb. 16. but swallowed up by the earth. But others rather think he was devoured by the fire, of which see on Numb. 16. 32, 35. and render these words, and the things of Korah, or belonging to Korah, to wit, his tent, and goods, and family, children excepted, as here follows. Which interpretation receives strength by comparing this place with Numb. 16. 32. And the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them (to wit, Dathan and Abiram, as is manifest from ver. 24, 25, 27.) up, and their houses, and all the men that appertained unto Korah, which variation of the phrase plainly shews that Korah himself was not swallowed up with them, but only his men and his tabernacle, which is mentioned there, together with the tabernacles of Dathan and Abiram, ver. 24, 27. but his person is not there mentioned with their persons. Nor is it unusual both in sacred and profane Authors, by the Name of a man who is the head and master, to understand only his house and family, though himself be not included. But this difficulty may be cleared another way. The Hebrew particle eth may be here the note of a Nominative case, as it is 2 King. 6. 5. Neh. 9. 19. Jer. 38. 16. Ezek. 39. 14. & 43. 7. and there may be a defect of a verb, which is most frequent, and so the place may be rendred thus, and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up, to wit, Dathan and Abiram, ver. 9. and Korah, or, and as for Korah he died (which verb is easily understood out of the following noun, of which Ellipsis there are many instances in Scripture, some whereof have been given before, and more will follow in their places) in the death of that company, or when that company died, what time the fire devoured the two hundred and fifty men. And so this place and Numb. 16. 35. explain one another; and whereas there is mention only of 250 men consumed by that fire, Korah is here added to the number. l (i.e.) God made them a monument or example, to warn others not to rebel against God nor against Magistracy, nor to usurp the Priestly Office.

m God being pleased to spare them, either because they disowned their fathers fact, and thereupon separated themselves both from his tent and company, or because Moses interceded for them, or because God would glorifie his own free mercy in sparing some, while he punished others, according to his declaration in a like case, Exod. 33. 19. Hence the sons of Korah are mentioned 1 Chron. 6. 22, 38. and oft in the book of Psalms.

12 The sons of Simeon after their families: of Nemuel n, the family of the Nemuelite: of Jamin, the family of the Jaminite: of Jachin o, the family of the Jachinite:

n Called Jemuel, Gen. 46. 10. Exod. 6. 15. o Called also Jarib, 1 Chron. 4. 24. And such Names might be either added or changed upon some special occasion, not recorded in Scripture.

13 Of Zerah o, the family of the Zarhite: of Shaul, the family of the Shaulite.

o Called also Zohar, Gen. 46. 10. Exod. 6. 15. There is another of his sons, Obad, mentioned Gen. 46. 10. not here, possibly because his family was extinct before this time.

14 These are the families of the Simeonite: twenty and two thousand and two hundred p.

p Whereas there were 35400 in Numb. 1. 23. It is thought the example of Zimri, one of their Princes, Numb. 25. and some others among them, did infect the generality of the tribe, and so caused this great diminution in their numbers.

15 The children of Gad q after their families: of Zephon r, the family of the Zephonite; of Haggi, the family of the Haggite: of Shuni, the family of the Shunite.

q Who is placed next, because he was joyned with Reuben and Simeon in the same camp and quarters, Numb. 2. 10, 14. r Called Zephion, Gen. 46. 16.

16 Of Ozni s, the family of the Oznites: of Eri, the family of the Erites:

s Called Ezbon, Gen. 46. 16.

17 Of Arod t, the family of the Arodites: of Areli, the family of the Arelites.

t Called Arodi, Gen. 46. 16.

18 These are the families of the children of Gad, according to those that were numbred of them, forty thousand and five hundred u.

u Fewer by above 5000 than there were in their last numbring, Numb. 2. 15.

19 * The sons of Judah were Er and Onan: * Gen. 38. 2, &c. & 46. 12.
and Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan.

20 And the sons of Judah after their families * 1 Chro. 2. 3. were; of Shelah, the family of the Shelanites: of Pharez, the family of the Pharzites: of Zerah, the family of the Zarhites.

21 And the sons of Pharez x were; of Hesron, the family of the Hesronites: of Hamul, the family of the Hamulites.

x Which though Judahs Grandchildren are here mentioned among his sons, because they are put in the stead of Er and Onan, which died before.

22 These

22 These are the families of Judah, according to those that were numbred of them, threescore and sixteen thousand and five hundred y.

y About 2000 more than they were, Numb. 1.27. whereas the foregoing Tribes were all diminished, this Tribe was now encreased, and the blessing promised to that Tribe above the rest, Gen. 49. 8. doth herein begin to shew it self.

* 1 Chro. 7.1. 23 * Of the sons of Issachar after their families: of Tola, the family of the Tolaites: of Puah z, the family of the Punites.

z Called also Phuvah, Gen. 46. 13. as his brother Jashub, ver. 24. is called Job, Gen. 46. 13.

24 Of Jashub, the family of the Jashubites: of Shimron, the family of the Shimronites.

25 These are the families of Issachar, according to those that were numbred of them, threescore and four thousand and three hundred a.

a A great increase. Compare Numb. 2. 6.

* Ger. 46.14. 26 Of * the sons of Zebulun, after their families: of Sered, the family of the Sardites: of Elon, the family of the Elonites: of Jahleel, the family of the Jahleelites.

27 These are the families of the Zebulunites, according to those that were numbred of them, threescore thousand and five hundred b.

b Whereas before they were but 57400 in Numb. 1,31. and 2. 8. So that Judahs camp was much encreased, as Reubens was much diminished.

* Gen. 46.20. 28 * The sons of Joseph, after their families, were Manasseh and Ephraim.

* Josh. 17. 1 29 Of the sons of Manasseh: of * Machir, the family of the Machirites: and Machir begat Gilead: of Gilead come the family of the Gileadites c.

c Gilead is here mentioned as Machirs only son, and therefore some conceive that the family of the Machirites, and of the Gileadites, are one and the same family, only called by two Names, first Machirites, but afterwards Gileadites. Others make them distinct families, because Machir had other children, Gen. 50.23. 1 Chron. 7.14,15,16. which are called by their fathers Name, Machirites, whereas the children of his eldest son Gilead are called by his Name, Gileadites. But though Machir had other children, it seems they and their posterity were extinct at this time, and that Machir alone was left and his posterity, as may be gathered by comparing this and the following verses with Jos. 17. 1, 2, 3. & 1 Chron. 7. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19.

30 These are the sons of Gilead, of Jeezer d, the family of the Jeezerites: of Helek, the family of the Helekites.

d Called also Abiezer, Jos. 17.2. Judg. 6.11,34. 1 Chron. 7 18.

31 And of Asriel, the family of the Asrielites: and of Sechem, the family of the Sechemites:

32 And of Shemida, the family of Shemidaites: and of Hepher, the family of the Hepherites.

* chap. 27. 1 & 36. 11. 33 And * Zelophehad the son of Hepher had no sons but daughters; and the Names of the daughters of Zelophehad, were Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

34 These are the families of Manasseh, and those that were numbred of them, fifty and two thousand and seven hundred e.

e Whereas they were but 32200 in Numb. 1.35. So they are now increased above 20000, according to that prophecy Gen. 49. 22.

35 These are the sons of Ephraim, after their families: of Shuthelah, the family of the Shuthalhites: of Becher f, the family of the Bachrites: of Tahan, the family of the Tahanites.

f Called also Bered, 1 Chron. 7. 20.

36 And these are the sons of Shuthelah: of Eran g, the family of the Eranites.

g Called Edan or Hudan, 1 Chron. 7. 26. the letters Daleth and Resh being alike in the Hebrew tongue, and therefore oft changed, as is evident from Scripture-instances.

37 These are the families of the sons of Ephraim, according to those that were numbred of them, thirty and two thousand and five hundred. These are the sons of Joseph after their families.

* 1 Chro. 7.6. 38 * The sons of Benjamin h after their families: of Bela, the family of the Belaites: of Ashbel i, the family of the Ashbelites: of Ahiram k, the family of the Ahiramites:

h Who were Ten, Gen. 46, 21. whereof only five are here mentioned, the rest probably together with their families being extinct ere this time. i Called also Jediael, 1 Chron. 7. 6. k Called also Aharah, 1 Chron. 8. 1. and Ehi, Gen. 46. 21.

39 Of Shupham l, the family of the Shuphamites: of Hupham m, the family of the Huphamites.

l Called also Shuppim, 1 Chron. 7. 12. and Muppim, Gen. 46. 21. m Called Huppim, Gen. 46. 21. 1 Chron. 7. 12.

40 And the sons of Bela were Ard and Naaman: of Ard n, the family of the Ardites: and of Naaman, the family of the Naamites.

n Or, Arde, and by transposition Adar, 1 Chron. 8. 3.

41 These are the sons of Benjamin after their families: and they that were numbred of them, were forty and five thousand and six hundred.

42 These are the sons of Dan after their families: of Shuham o, the family of the Shuhamites. These are the families of Dan after their families p.

o Called, by transposition, Hushim, Gen. 46. 23. p The greater families subdivided into lesser families.

43 All the families of the Shuhamites, according to those that were numbred of them were threescore and four thousand and four hundred q.

q All from one son and family, whereas of Benjamin, who had ten sons, and here five families, there were only 45600. to shew that the increase of families depends singly upon Gods blessing and good pleasure.

* 1 Chro. 7.30. 44 * Of the children of Asher after their families: of Jimna, the family of the Jimnites: of Jesui r, the family of the Jesuites; of Beriah, the family of the Berilites.

r Called Isui, Gen. 46. 17. where also there is another son of Asher, named, to wit, Ishuah, whose family seems now to be lost.

45 Of the sons of Beriah: of Heber, the family of the Heberites: of Malchiel, the family of the Malchielites.

46 And the name of the daughter of Asher, was Sarah s.

s Who seems to be here mentioned, because she was a Woman of masculine Wisdom, or courage or other vertue.

47 These are the families of the sons of Asher, according to those that were numbred of them, who were fifty and three thousand and four hundred t.

t Whereas they were only 41500 in Numb. 1. 41.

* Gen. 46.24. 1 Chro. 7.13. 48 * Of the sons of Naphtali after their families: of Jahzeel, the family of the Jahzeelites: of Guni, the family of the Gunites:

49 Of Jezer, the family of the Jezerites: of * Shillem, the family of the Shillemites.

* 1 Chro. 7.13. Shallum. 50 These are the families of Naphtali, according to their families: and they that were numbred of them, were forty and five thousand and four hundred.

51 These were the numbred of the children of Israel, six hundred thousand, and a thousand seven hundred and thirty u.

u Very nigh as many as they were before, Numb. 1. 46. so wisely and marvellously did God at the same time manifest his justice in cutting off so vast a number, and his mercy in giving such a speedy and numerous supply, and his truth in both.

52 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

53 Unto these x the land shall be divided y for an inheritance, acccording to the number of names z.

x To these families now mentioned. y By lot, ver. 55. The land was divided into nine parts and an half, respect being had in such division to the goodness as well as to the largeness of the several portions, and the lot gave each Tribe their part. z (i.e.) Of the persons, names being oft put for persons, as Acts 1. 15. Phil. 2. 9. Rev. 3. 4. & 11. 13. The meaning is, that the share of each Tribe was divided amongst the several families, to some more, to some less, according to the number of the persons of each family, Numb. 33. 54. And withal, if one of the lots or portions proved too large or too little for all the families and persons of that Tribe, in this case they might either give part of their portion to another Tribe, as Simeon and Dan had parts of Judahs share, Jos. 19. 4, 40. or take away a part from the portion belonging to another Tribe.

54 * To many thou a shalt † give the more inheritance, and to few thou shalt † give the less inheritance: to every one shall his inheritance be given, according to those that were numbred of him b.

* chap. 33. 54. † Heb. multiply his inheritance. † Heb. diminish his inheritance.

a Thou Moses, partly by thy self, for he divided the land beyond Jordan to the two tribes and an half, and partly by thy successor Joshua, whom thou shalt empower and command to do it. b According to the number of the families and persons now numbred and being 20 years old, no regard being to be had either to any increase of the number by those who came up to that age between this time and the division of the land, or to the diminution of this number by the sword of Canaanites or otherwise.

* chap. 33. 54. Josh. 11. 23. & 14. 2.

c Which lots seem to have been cast only for the Tribes, not as some would have it, for the several families, for the distribution of it to them was left to the Rulers Wisdom, according to the Rule now given ver. 54. Yet, if any lot was too large for the Tribe, they might give up part of their right to others, with the Rulers consent, as Judah gave a share to Simeon and to Dan within his lot. d (i. e.) The lots shall go under the Names of each Tribe or each Patriarch.

56 According to the lot shall the possession thereof be divided between many and few e.

e (i. e.) That share, which shall by lot fall to each Tribe, shall be distributed to the several families and persons in such proportions as their numbers shall require.

57 * And these are they that were numbred of the Levites: of Gershon the family of the Gershonites: of Kohath, the family of the Kohathites: of Merari, the family of the Merarites.

* Gen. 46. 11. Exod. 6. 16, 17, 18, 19. 1 Chro. 6. 1, 16.

58 These are the families of the Levite f: the family of the Libnites, the family of the Hebronites, the family of the Mahlites, the family of the Mushites, the family of the Korhites: and Kohath begat Amram.

f Which are here numbred by themselves, because they were not to have a distinct share of the land, whence it is that they are not so distinctly and exactly mentioned as the other Tribes, but confusedly and imperfectly, some of them being wholly omitted here. See Exod. 6. 17, 18, 19.

59 And the name of Amrams wife was * Jochebed, the daughter of Levi, whom her mother g bare to Levi in Egypt: and she bare unto Amram, Aaron and Moses, and Miriam their sister.

* Exod. 2. 1, 2. & 6. 20.

g To wit, Levi's wife, which must necessarily be understood.

60 And unto Aaron was born, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.

61 And * Nadab and Abihu died, when they offered strange fire before the LORD.

* Lev. 10. 2. chap. 3. 4. 1 Chron. 24. 2.

62 And those that were numbred of them, were twenty and three thousand h, all males from a month old and upward i: for they were not numbred among the children of Israel, because there was no inheritance given them among the children of Israel.

h One thousand more than they were, Numb. 3. 39. i The reason of which different way of numbring see on Numb. 3. 15.

63 These are they that were numbred by Moses and Eleazar the priest, who numbred the children of Israel in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho.

64 But among these there was not a man of them whom Moses and Aaron the priest numbred, when they numbred the children of Israel in the wilderness of Sinai.

65 For the LORD had said of them, They * shall surely die in the wilderness: and there was not left a man of them i, save Caleb the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua the son of Nun.

* chap. 14. 28, 29. 1 Cor. 10. 5, 6.

i To wit, of those who then murmured and rebelled against God, as plainly appears both because this threatning and punishment is confined to those transgressors, and because otherwise this had not been true, for of those that were then numbred there were now left Eleazar and Ithamar, and possibly many of the Levites, and some others, who being not guilty of that sin, did not partake of their judgment. Caleb and Joshua are mentioned here, as also Numb. 14. not by way of exception, as if these were murmurers, which is utterly denied, Numb. 14. 24. but by way of opposition, to signifie that they, though they were two of the spies, and companions of them who were the chief authors and ringleaders of that mutiny, yet they kept themselves from their sin, and therefore God kept them from their plague and destruction, as also he did some others for the same reason.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 THen came the daughters of * Zelophehad a, the son of Hepher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, of the families of Manasseh, the son of Joseph; and these are the names of his daughters; Mahlah, Noah, and Hoglah, and Milcah and Tirzah.

* chap. 26. 33. & 36. 11. Josh. 17. 3.

a Perceiving that the males only were numbred, and that the land was to be divided to them only, they put in their claim for a share in their fathers inheritance.

2 And they stood before Moses, and before Eleazar the priest, and before the princes, and all the congregation, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation b, saying,

b Nigh unto which it seems was the place where Moses and the chief rulers assembled for the administration of publick affairs, which also was very convenient, because they had frequent occasion of recourse to God for his assistance and direction therein.

3 Our father * died in the wilderness, and he was not in the company of them that gathered themselves together against the LORD * in the company of Korah c: but died in his own sin d, and had no sons.

c Nor in any other rebellion of the people, which must be understood, because all of them are opposed to his own sin, in which alone he is said to die. But they mention this only either 1. because he might possibly be accused to be guilty of this: Or 2. because he being an eminent person might be thought guilty of that rather than of any other, because the great and famous men were more concerned in that rebellion than others: Or 3. to gain the favour of Moses, against whom that rebellion was more particularly directed, and more desperately prosecuted than any other: Or 4. because peradventure he died about that time, and therefore might be presumed guilty of that crime. Or rather. 5. because that sin, and, as it may seem, that only of all the sins committed in the Wilderness, was of such a flagitious nature, that God thought fit to extend the punishment not only to the persons of those rebels, but also to their children and families, Numb. 16. 27, 32. as was usual in like cases, as Deut. 13. 15. Jos 7. 24. Whence it is noted as a singular priviledge granted to the children of Korah, that they died not, Numb. 26. 11. whereas the children of their confederates died with them. And this makes their argument here more proper and powerful, that he did not die in that sin for which his posterity were to be cut off, and to lose either their lives or their inheritances, and therefore their claim was more just. d Either 1, for that sin mentioned Numb. 14. which they call his own sin, in opposition not to the rest of the people, for it was a common sin, but to his children, i. e. the sin for which he alone was to suffer in his person, and not in his posterity, as God had appointed, Numb. 14. 33. Or rather 2. for his own personal sins, for 1. these were more properly his own sins. 2. It was a truth, and that believed by the Jews, that death was a punishment for mens own sins. 3. The punishment of that common sin was not directly and properly death, but exclusion from the land of Canaan, and death only by way of consequence upon that.

4 Why should the name of our father be † done away e from among his family, because he hath no son? give unto us therefore a possession f among the brethren of our father.

e As it will be, if it be not preserved by an inheritance given to us in his name and for his sake. Hence some gather, that the first son of each of these heiresses was called by their fathers name, by vertue of that law. Deut. 25. 6. whereby the brothers first son was to bear the name of his elder brother, whose Widow he married. f In the land of Canaan upon the division of it, which, though not yet conquered, they concluded would certainly be so, and thereby gave glory to God by believing.

5 And Moses brought their cause before the LORD g.

g (i. e.) Into the Tabernacle, where God was pleased to speak with Moses upon occasions, Exod. 25. 22 Numb. 7. 89. For it was an hard case, and though their plea seemed reasonable, yet Moses shewed his humility and modesty, that he would not determine it himself without Gods particular direction.

6 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

7 The daughters of Zelophehad speak right: thou shalt surely give them h a possession of an inheritance among their fathers brethren, and thou shalt cause the inheritance of their fathers i to pass unto them.

* b In Hebrew it is of the masculine gender, to shew that Women in this case should enjoy the mans priviledge, and that the heavenly Canaan, whereof this was a type, did belong no less to Women than to Men, Gal. 3. 28. i (i. e.) Which belonged to their fathers, in case they had lived.

8 And thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If a man die, and have no son, then ye shall cause his inheritance to pass unto his daughter.

9 And if he have no daughter, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his brethren.

10 And if he have no brethren k, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his fathers brethren.

k Nor sisters, as appears from ver. 8.

11 And if his father have no brethren, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his kinsman, that is next to him of his family, and he shall possess it: and it shall be unto the children of Israel a statute of judgment l, as the LORD commanded Moses.

l A statute or rule, by which the Magistrate shall give judgment in such cases.

* Deut. 3. 27. & 32. 49.

12 And the LORD said unto Moses, * Get thee up into this mount Abarim m, and see the land which I have given unto the children of Israel.

m The whole tract of mountains was called Abarim, Numb. 33. 47. whereof one of the highest was called Nebo, Deut. 32. 49. and the top of that Pisgah, Deut. 34. 1.

their eyes: that is the * water of Meribah in Kadesh o in the wilderness of Zin.

o This is added, to distinguish this miscarriage of Moses from that of the people in Rephidim, Exod. 17. 7.

15 And Moses spake unto the LORD p, saying, p The words here following, and others too, which are recorded, Deut. 3. 23, 26.

* chap. 16. 22.

16 Let the LORD * God of the spirits of all flesh q, set a man over the congregation;

q (i. e.) Of all men: the searcher of spirits, that knowest who is fit for this great employment, the father and giver and governour of spirits, who canst raise and suit the spirits of men to the highest and hardest works, as thou didst those Numb. 11. 16, 17. See Numb. 16. 22.

17 Which may go out before them, and which may go in before them r, and which may lead them out, and which may bring them in; that the congregation of the LORD be not * as sheep which have no shepherd.

r (i. e.) Which may wisely conduct them in all their affairs, both when they go forth to war, or upon other occasions, and when they return home and live in peace. A metaphor from shepherds, as it here follows, which in those places used not to go behind their sheep, as ours now do, but before them, and to lead them forth to their pasture, and in due time to lead them home again. Of this phrase see Deut. 28. 6. Act. 1. 21.

18 And the LORD said unto Moses, Take thee Joshua, the son of Nun, a man in whom is the spirit s, and lay thine hand upon him t.

s The spirit of government, of wisdom, and of the fear of the Lord, &c. t By which ceremony Moses did both design the person and confer the power, and by his prayers, which accompanied that rite, obtain from God all the spiritual gifts and graces necessary for his future employment, as appears from Deut. 34. 9. See of this custom Gen. 48. 14. Levit. 1. 4. Numb. 8. 10. 1 Tim. 4. 14.

19 And set him before Eleazar the priest, and before all the congregation u: and give him a charge x in their sight.

u That they may be witnesses of the whole action, and may acknowledge him for their supream ruler. x Thou shalt command him in my Name to undertake the government of my people, which otherwise he will be afraid and unwilling to do, and thou shalt give him counsels and instructions for the right management of that great trust.

y Thou shalt not now use him as a servant, as thou hast done, but as a brother and thy partner in the government, shewing respect to him, and causing others to do so, and thou shalt impart to him the ensigns and evidences of thy own authority, whatsoever they be. Some understand this honour of those spiritual endowments which did adorn Moses, which Moses was now to confer upon him. But this Joshua had before, for in him was the spirit, ver. 18. and he received a further measure of the spirit by Moses his laying on of hands, from both which this honour is distinguished, and, had he meant this, he would not have expressed it in so dark and doubtful a phrase, but have called it a putting not of honour, but of the spirit upon him, as it is called, Numb. 11. 17. And seeing the word honour here may very well be properly understood, why should we run to figurative significations?

21 And he shall stand before Eleazar the priest, who shall ask counsel for him z, * after the judgment ‖ of Urim † before the LORD *: at his word ‖ shall they go out, and at his word they shall come in, both he and all the children of Israel with him, even all the congregation.

* Exod. 28 30.

z When he requires him to do so, and in important and difficult matters. See Jos. 9. 14. Judg. 1. 1. & 20. 18. 1 Sam. 23. 9. ‖ Or, by or from the judgment, i e. by seeking and receiving and communicating to him the judgment or sentence thereby given: or, by the judgment is here put defectively for, by the breast-plate of judgment, as it is called, Exod. 28. 30. as the testimony is oft put for the ark of the testimony. Or, concerning the judgment or sentence, i.e. what the mind and will of God is in the matter. Or, after the manner or rite, for so the Hebrew word mishpat here used oft signifies. † Understand, and of Thummim, for these two generally go together; only here, as also 1 Sam. 28. 6. Urim is synecdochically put for both Urim and Thummim. For the manner of this enquiry and answer, see on Exod. 28. 30. * Ordinarily in the Tabernacle near the second vail, setting his face to the Ark, or otherwise presenting himself as in Gods presence, as Abiathar did by Davids direction, 1 Sam 23. 9. when they were both banished from the Ark. ‖ (i.e.) The word of the Lord, last mentioned, delivered to him by the High-priest.

22 And Moses did as the LORD commanded him: and he took Joshua, and set him before Eleazar the priest, and before all the congregation.

23 And he laid his hands upon him, and gave him a charge, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses.

CHAP. XXVIII.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel a, and say unto them, My offering and * my bread for my sacrifices made by fire b for a † sweet savour unto me, shall ye observe to offer unto me in their due season.

* Lev. 5. 11. & 21. 6, 8. Mal. 1. 7, 12.

a God here repeats some of the former laws about sacrifices, not without great reason, partly because they had been generally discontinued for 38 years together; partly because the generation to which the former laws had been given about these things was wholly dead, and it was fit the new generation should be instructed about them, as their parents were; partly to renew the testimonies of Gods grace and mercy, notwithstanding their frequent forfeitures thereof by their horrid apostacies and rebellions; and principally because they were now ready to enter into that land in which they were obliged to put these things in practice, Deut. 12. 8, &c. b According to this translation the sense is, My offering, i.e. my offerings or sacrifices; and my bread, i.e. either my shewbread, or rather my meat-offering made of bread or meal, for my sacrifices made by fire, i.e. which is to accompany my burnt-offerings. Or thus, My offering, to wit, my bread (i. e.) my meat offering, which was made of bread or meal, which is oft expressed by this very name of korban, or offering, as Lev. 2. 1. & 6. 20. But because korban signifies not only a meat-offering, but other offerings also, as Lev. 7. 37, 38. therefore he limits that general word by adding my bread, with (so the Hebrew Lamed is oft used, as Gen. 46 26. Ezra 1. 5. & 2. 63, &c.) my sacrifices made by fire, which may be understood either 1. generally for all the sacrifices, as that phrase is sometimes taken, as 1 Sam 2. 28. where it must needs be so meant, because the burnt-offerings properly so called, were not given to the Priest, but reserved to God himself, and the Priests portion lay in the other sacrifices only: or 2 specially and properly for burnt-offerings, and so under them, as the most eminent kind, are contained all other sacrifices, as under the meat-offering here is contained the drink-offering. And according to this translation and explication, these words contain a full and general rule comprehending all the particulars following in this chapter, as in reason they ought to do, and which otherwise they do not.

3 And

*Exod.29.38. 3 And thou shalt say unto them, * This is the offering made by fire, which ye shall offer unto the LORD: two lambs of the first year without †Heb.in a day. spot, † day by day, for a continual burnt-offering.

4 The one lamb shalt thou offer in the morning, †Heb.between the two evenings. and the other lamb shalt thou offer † at even.

5 And a tenth part of an ephah of flour for a * meat-offering c, mingled with the fourth part *Lev. 2. 4. *Exod. 29. 40. of an * hin of beaten oyl.

c Which was an appendix or accessory to the principal sacrifice. See on Lev. 2. 1. & Numb. 15. 4.

6 It is a continual burnt-offering, which was ordained d in mount Sinai for a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

d Or, prescribed, instituted by God. Or, made, i. e. offered at that place, though since omitted for 38 years.

7 And the drink-offering thereof shall be the fourth part of an hin for the one lamb: in the ho- †Heb.Shekar. Gr.Sicera. See Luke 1. 15. ly place shalt thou cause the † strong wine f to be poured unto the LORD, for a drink-offering.

e (i. e.) Upon the altar of burnt-offerings which was in the court of the Priests, nigh the entrance into the Sanctuary. See Exod. 29. 42. 2 Chron 29. 7. f Heb. Shecar, which though it signifie in the general all kinds of strong drink, yet is here put for the most famous of that kind, to wit, for wine, which alone was used in offerings, as appears below, ver. 18. Exod. 29. 40.

8 And the other lamb shalt thou offer at even: as the meat-offering of the morning, and as the drink-offering thereof, thou shalt offer it g, a sacrifice made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD.

g Or, thou shalt offer with it. Or, with the meat-offering of the morning, and with the drink-offering thereof, thou shalt offer it; the letter caph being put for beth, which are alike in Hebrew; and the words are said to be read with beth in some copies.

9 And on the sabbath-day two lambs h of the first year without spot, and two tenth-deals of flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oyl, and the drink-offering thereof.

h Besides that for the daily sacrifice, ver. 10.

10 This is the burnt-offering of every sabbath, beside the continual burnt-offering, and his drink-offering.

i Which, though not reckoned among the solemn feasts, Lev. 23. yet were celebrated as such, by the sound of Trumpets, Numb. 10. 10. by extraordinary sacrifices, by abstinence from servile works, Amos 8. 5. and by attendance upon the ministry of Gods Word, 2 Kings 4. 23. And God ordained it thus, partly that by giving God the first fruits of every month they should acknowledge him as the Lord of all their time, and own his providence by which all times and seasons, and all the fruits and blessings of them, and actions done in them are ordered, and partly that it might be a type of the future renovation of the World by Christ.

12 And three tenth deals of flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oyl, for one bullock; and two tenth deals of flour for a meat-offering mingled with oyl, for one ram.

13 And a several tenth deal of flour mingled with oyl, for a meat-offering unto one lamb, for a burnt-offering of a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the LORD.

14 And their drink-offerings shall be half an hin of wine unto a bullock, and the third part of an hin unto a ram, and a fourth part of an hin unto a lamb: this is the burnt-offering of every month throughout the months k of the year.

k (i. e.) To be offered in the beginning of every month.

15 And one kid of the goats l for a sin-offering unto the LORD m shall be offered, besides the continual burnt-offering, and his drink-offering.

l An he-goat. See Numb. 15. 24. m Not unto the moon, to which the Gentiles offered it.

19 But ye shall offer a sacrifice made by fire for a burnt-offering unto the LORD, two young bullocks, and one ram, and seven lambs of the first year: they shall be unto you without blemish.

20 And their meat-offering shall be of flour mingled with oyl: three tenth deals shall ye offer for a bullock, and two tenth deals for a ram.

21 A several tenth deal shalt thou offer for every lamb throughout the seven lambs.

22 And one goat for a sin-offering, to make an atonement for you.

23 Ye shall offer these beside the burnt-offering in the morning p, which is for a continual burnt-offering.

p And that in the evening too, as is evident from the nature of the thing and from other scriptures, but the morning sacrifice alone is mentioned, partly because the celebration of the feast began with it, and principally because this alone was doubtful, whether this might not be omitted when so many other sacrifices were offered in that morning, whereas there was no question but the evening sacrifice should be offered, when there were none other besides it to be offered.

24 After this manner ye shall offer daily throughout the seven days † the meat of the sa- †Heb. the bread. crifice made by fire q, of a sweet savour unto the LORD: it shall be offered beside the continual Lev. 3. 11, 16. burnt-offering, and his drink-offering.

q (i. e.) The sacrifice made by fire, which is as it were my meat or food: for as God is said to smell the sacrifices, to wit, metaphorically, i. e. to accept of them, so is he said to eat them, i. e. to devour or consume them, and to be satisfied with them: such things spoken of God after the manner of men, are to be understood so as will agree with the Majesty of God.

25 And on the seventh day ye shall have an holy convocation: ye shall do no servile work.

26 Also * in the day of the first fruits r, when *Exod. 23. 16. & 34. 22. ye bring a new meat-offering s unto the LORD, Deut. 16. 1 after your weeks be out t: ye shall have an holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work.

27 But ye shall offer the burnt-offering u for a sweet savour unto the LORD, two young bullocks, one ram, seven lambs of the first year.

u For the celebration of the feast over and besides that other offering which was joyned with the first fruits. Lev. 23. 18. so here is a new additional sacrifice prescribed, which doth not destroy the former.

28 And their meat-offering of flour mingled with oyl, three tenth deals unto one bullock, two tenth deals unto one ram.

29 A several tenth deal unto one lamb, throughout the seven lambs.

30 And one kid of the goats to make an atonement for you.

8 But ye shall offer a burnt-offering unto the LORD, for a sweet savour, one young bullock, one ram, and seven lambs of the first year: they shall be unto you without blemish.

9 And their meat-offering shall be of flour mingled with oyl, three tenth deals to a bullock, and two tenth deals to one ram:

g By which the High-priest made atonement, of which see Lev. 16. 9, 29, 30.

* Lev. 23. 34. 12 And * on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, ye shall have an holy convocation, ye shall do no servile work, and ye shall keep a feast h unto the LORD seven days i.

h The feast of booths, of which see Lev. 23. 34, 35. Deut. 16. 13. i Not by abstaining so long from all servile works, but by offering extraordinary sacrifices each day.

* Ezra 3 4. 13 And ye * shall offer a burnt-offering, a sacrifice made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the LORD, thirteen young bullocks k, two rams and fourteen lambs k of the first year: they shall be without blemish.

k More sacrifices than at any other feast, partly because this feast was in the close of the year, when it was meet to supply the defects of the year past, and when they had gathered in all their fruits, Deut. 16. 13,15. and therefore ought to make the larger returns and acknowledgment to God; partly because it was Gods pleasure so to order it, for reasons known to himself, in whose Will we ought to acquiesce. And the same reason holds why these sacrifices grew fewer and fewer every day.

14 And their meat-offering shall be of flour mingled with oyl, three tenth deals unto every bullock of the thirteen bullocks, two tenth deals to each ram of the two rams:

15 And a several tenth deal to each lamb of the fourteen lambs:

16 And one kid of the goats for a sin-offering beside the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

17 And on the second day ye shall offer twelve young bullocks, two rams, fourteen lambs of the first year without spot.

l Of which see for meat-offerings, ver. 3, 4, 9, 10. and for drink-offerings, Numb. 28. 7, 14.

19 And one kid of the goats for a sin-offering, beside the continual burnt-offering, and the meat-offering thereof, and their drink-offerings.

20 And on the third day, eleven bullocks, two rams, fourteen lambs of the first year without blemish.

21 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

22 And one goat for a sin-offering, beside the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

23 And on the fourth day ten bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the first year without blemish.

24 Their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner.

25 And one kid of the goats for a sin-offering, beside the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

26 And on the fifth day nine bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the first year without spot.

27 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

28 And one goat for a sin-offering, beside the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

29 And on the sixth day eight bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the first year without blemish:

30 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

31 And one goat for a sin-offering, beside the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

32 And on the seventh day seven bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the first year without blemish:

33 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

34 And one goat for a sin-offering, beside the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

35 On the eighth day ye shall have a * solemn * Lev. 23. 36.
assembly: ye shall do no servile work therein.

36 But ye shall offer a burnt-offering, a sacrifice made by fire of a sweet savour unto the LORD, one bullock, one ram, seven lambs m of the first year without blemish:

m This was the last and great day of the feast, as it is called, John 7. 37. and yet the sacrifices were fewer than any other day, to teach them not to trust to the multitude of their sacrifices, nor to expect remission of sins from them, but from the one and only sacrifice of Christ.

37 Their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings for the bullock, for the ram, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

38 And one goat for a sin-offering, beside the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

free-will-offerings n, for your burnt-offerings, and for your meat-offerings, and for your drink-offerings, and for your peace-offerings.

n Your ordinary sacrifices shall not be omitted because of the extraordinary, which ye offer on special occasions.

40 And Moses told the children of Israel according to all that the LORD commanded Moses.

CHAP. XXX.

1 AND Moſes ſpake unto the heads of the tribes a, concerning the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded.

a The chief Rulers of each Tribe, who were to communicate it to the reſt.

2 If a man b vow a vow c unto the LORD d, or ſwear an oath e to bind his ſoul with a bond f, he ſhall not † break his word g, he ſhall do according to all that proceedeth out of his own mouth h.

b Which notes both the Sex, as appears by v. 3. and the Age, that he be grown up, for none can be ſo weak as to think the vow of a young Child would bind it. c (i.e.) A ſimple vow to do ſomething poſſible and lawful. d To the honour and ſervice of God. e Confirm his Vow by an Oath. f To reſtrain himſelf from ſomething otherwiſe lawful, as ſuppoſe from ſuch a ſort of meat or drink; or to oblige himſelf to the performance of ſomething otherwiſe not neceſſary, as to obſerve a private day of faſting. g Heb. not pollute, or prophane his word, as the ſame phraſe is uſed, Pſal. 55. 20. & 89. 34. i.e. not render his Word, and conſequently himſelf prophane, or vile and contemptible in the eyes of others. h And that without delay, Deut. 23. 21. Eccleſ. 5. 4. provided the thing be not unlawful and forbidden by God, Acts 23. 14. for it is an idle conceit that a man can give away Gods right, or that he can make void Gods commands by his own vows, which was the dotage of the Phariſees, Mark 6. 23, 26.

3 If a woman i alſo vow a vow unto the LORD, and bind her ſelf by a bond, being in her fathers houſe k, in her youth l:

i Or a man in the ſame circumſtances, a ſon or a ſervant, as plainly appears from hence, becauſe the reaſon of this Law is perfectly the ſame in both Sexes, which is, that ſuch perſons have given away what was not their own, but anothers, even their ſuperiors right, which is againſt the Rule and Law of Natural Reaſon, and againſt the Word of God, which binds all perſons to give to every one their due. He inſtanceth only in the Woman, becauſe that Sex is both by creation and ſin put into a ſtate of ſubjection, but under the chief and moſt unqueſtionable kind all other Subjects in like circumſtances are comprehended, as is very uſual. k (i. e.) Under his care, power, and government which ſhe is, whilſt ſhe continues in her Fathers Houſe, being a Virgin, as appears by the oppoſition of a married Woman, v. 6. and of a Widow and divorced Woman, v. 9. and by this phraſe of being in her Fathers houſe, for when ſhe marries, ſhe is removed into her Husbands houſe, Ruth 1. 9. Or, being in, or of her Fathers Family, the word Houſe being commonly uſed for Family, for when ſhe marries, ſhe is tranſlated and removed into another Family. l When not only her Sex, but her Age diſ-enables her for vowing, and this clauſe is added not by way of reſtriction, as if Virgins in their riper years were freed from their Parents juriſdiction, and at their own diſpoſal, (which undoubtedly they are not) but by way of addition, or amplification, q. d. eſpecially (which particle is here to be underſtood, ſuch defects of particles being frequent in the Hebrew Tongue) in her youth, which is commonly reckoned about her Twelfth or Thirteenth year.

4 And her father m hear her vow, and her bond, wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, and her father ſhall hold his peace at her n: then all her vows ſhall ſtand, and every bond, wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand o:

m Under which Title ſeem to be comprehended, as in other places of Scripture, Maſters, Magiſtrates, and all other ſuperiors, in ſuch caſes wherein their right is given away by the inferior vow; as for inſtance, when a Servant vows to go a long journey for his Friend, and his Maſter will not permit him to do ſo, but not in other caſes; as if a Servant vows to do ſomething for another in that time which his Maſter alloweth to his own uſe and diſpoſal, in this caſe his vow binds him, but not in the former. n His ſilence being an interpretative conſent, and much more if he declares his approbation of it. o (i. e.) Be eſtabliſhed, or confirmed, or be in force.

5 But if her Father diſallow her in the day that he heareth p; not any of her vows, or of her bonds, wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand: and the LORD ſhall forgive her q: becauſe her Father diſallowed her.

p (i e.) Speedily, or without delay, allowing only neceſſary and convenient time for deliberation. And it is hereby intimated, that the day or time he had for diſallowing her vow, was not to be reckoned from her vowing, but from his hearing, or knowledge of her vow. q Or will forgive either her raſhneſs of making ſuch vows, or rather her not performing of it. But this is to be underſtood only of ſuch vows which could not be performed without invading the Fathers, or Superiors right; for if one ſhould vow to forbear ſuch, or ſuch a ſin, and all unneceſſary occaſions or means leading to it, and to perform ſuch, or ſuch duties, when he had opportunity, no Father nor Superior can diſcharge him from ſuch vows.

6 And if ſhe had at all an husband r when † ſhe vowed ſ, or uttered ought out of her lips t, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul;

r To whoſe will and authority ſhe was thereby made ſubject. ſ To wit, when ſhe was in her Fathers houſe, as is evident by comparing v. 16. and this clauſe ſeems to be added by way of exception to that which was ſaid v. 3, 4. to ſignifie, that tho ſhe were in her Fathers houſe, yet if ſhe were married, her Husband only, and not her Father, could diſoblige her from her vow. t Either 1. By way of vow, and ſo this clauſe explains and determines the former, i.e. if ſhe expreſs her vow in words. Or 2. By way of Oath, concerning which this ſame phraſe is uſed Lev. 5. 4. and ſo this clauſe is diſtinct from the former, which the diſjunctive particle or, implies.

7 And her husband heard it, and held his peace at her in the day that he heard it: then her vows ſhall ſtand, and her bonds, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand.

8 But if her husband diſallow her, on the day that he heard it, then he ſhall make her vow which ſhe vowed, and that which ſhe uttered with her lips, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul, of none effect, and the LORD ſhall forgive her.

9 But every vow of a widow, and of her that is divorced u, wherewith they have bound their ſouls, ſhall ſtand againſt her.

u Though ſhe be in her Fathers houſe, whither ſuch perſons oft returned: which limitation may be gathered both from the oppoſition of her being in her Husbands houſe, v. 10. and from hence, that this was the only doubtful caſe; for if ſuch a perſon was not in her Fathers houſe ſhe was unqueſtionably bound by it; but being now freed from her Husband, and returned to her Father, it was doubtful whether ſhe was not returned to the ſame ſtate of ſubjection in which ſhe was before, and conſequently unable to make or perform a vow without her Fathers conſent, as ſhe was before, which is here denied.

10 And if ſhe vowed in her husbands houſe x, or bound her ſoul by a bond with an oath;

x (i.e.) If ſhe that now is a Widow, or divorced, made that vow whileſt her Husband lived with her; as ſuppoſe ſhe then vowed, that if ſhe was left a Widow, ſhe would give ſuch a proportion of her eſtate to pious or charitable uſes, of which vow ſhe might repent when ſhe came to be a Widow, and might believe or pretend ſhe was free from it, becauſe that vow was made in her Husbands life-time, which is here granted, in caſe her Husband then diſallowed it, but denied, in caſe by ſilence, or otherwiſe he conſented to it. And thus this Law is ſufficiently diſtinguiſhed from that above, v. 6, 7, 8.

11 And her husband heard it, and held his peace at her, and diſallowed her not: then all her vows ſhall ſtand, and every bond, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand.

12 But if her husband hath utterly made them void on the day he heard them, then whatſoever proceeded out of her lips, concerning her vows, or concerning the bond of her ſoul, ſhall not ſtand, her husband hath made them void, and the LORD ſhall forgive her.

13 Every vow, and every binding oath to afflict the ſoul y, her husband may eſtabliſh it, or her husband may make it void.

y (i.e.) Her ſelf by faſting, which oft goes under that name, as Lev. 16. 29, 31. & 23. 27, 32. Iſa. 58. 5. by watching, or the like. And theſe words are added not for limitation, for it is manifeſt from v. 5, 8, 10, 12. that the power of Parents and Husbands was more general and large, but for amplification, to ſhew that the Husband had this power not only in thoſe vows which concerned himſelf or his eſtate, but alſo in thoſe which might ſeem only to concern her own perſon, or body. And the reaſon hereof is, becauſe the Wives perſon or body being the Husbands right, ſhe might not do any thing to the injury of her body without his conſent.

14 But if her Husband altogether hold his peace at her, from day to day, then he eſtabliſheth all her vows, or all her bonds which are upon her: he confirmeth them, becauſe he held his peace at her, in the day that he heard them.

15 But if he ſhall any ways make them void, after that he hath heard them z, then he ſhall bear her iniquity †.

z And approved them by his ſilence from day to day, if now after that time ſpent, he ſhall upon further thoughts diſlike and and hinder it, which he ought not to do. † Her non-performance of her vow ſhall be imputed to him, not to her.

16 Theſe are the ſtatutes which the LORD commanded Moſes, between a man and his wife, between the father and his daughter, being yet in her youth in her fathers houſe.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,
2 * Avenge the children of Iſrael of the Midianites: a afterwards ſhalt thou * be gathered unto thy people.

* chap.25.17.
* chap.27.13.

a For their malicious deſigns and practices againſt Iſrael, both by hiring Balaam to curſe them, and by ſending their Women to inſnare them. The Moabites alſo were guilty, but God out of his own good pleaſure, and in kindneſs to Lot, was pleaſed to ſpare them, the rather, becauſe the meaſure of their Iniquity was not yet full.

3 And Moſes ſpake unto the people, ſaying, Arm ſome of your ſelves unto the war, and let them go againſt the Midianites, and avenge the LORD b of Midian.

b For the affront and injury which they offered to God, partly by their own Idolatry and lewdneſs, and partly by ſeducing Gods people into Rebellion againſt him. Gods great care was to avenge the Iſraelites, v. 2. and Moſes his chief deſire was to avenge God rather than himſelf or the people. Withal he doth hereby inſinuate, that God and his people have the ſame cauſe, the ſame Friends and Enemies.

4 † Of every tribe a thouſand, throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, ſhall ye ſend to the war.

5 So there were delivered out of the thouſands of Iſrael, a thouſand of every tribe c, twelve thouſand armed for war.

c To prevent emulations or diviſions. d God would ſend no more, though it is apparent that the Midianites were numerous and ſtrong, becauſe he would try and exerciſe their truſt in him, and becauſe he would hereby give them an earneſt of their Cananitiſh Conqueſts.

6 And Moſes ſent them to the war, a thouſand of every tribe; them and Phinehas e the ſon of Eleazar the Prieſt to the war, with the holy inſtruments f, and the trumpets to blow g in his hand.

e Who had the charge not of the Army, as General, (an Office never committed to any Prieſt in all the Old Teſtament) but of the Holy Inſtruments, &c. as is here expreſſed, and was alſo ſent to encourage, and quicken, and confirm them in their good enterprize. It is not here mentioned who was the general, whether Joſua, as ſome think, becauſe he is not named amongſt thoſe who went out to meet the returning hoſt, tho that might be for other reaſons, or ſome other Prince, nor is it worth while to determine. f Either 1. the Ark, with the things belonging to it, which before the building of the Temple, they did ſometimes carry into the War for the encouragement of their Army. See Numb. 14.44. *Joſ.*6.9. 1 Sam. 4.4. & 14.18. But why then is it thus ambiguouſly expreſſed, ſeeing in all the other places it is called by its proper Name? Nor is the Ark ever ſo called in Scripture. Or 2. The Trumpets, as it here follows, the words being thus to be read, the Holy Inſtruments, that is, the Trumpets: for and is oft times put exegetically for that is, or to wit, as Gen. 13.15. 1 Chron. 21.12. compared with 2 *Sam.*24 13. *Zach.*1.4. & 9.9 &c. Or rather 3. The Holy Breaſt-plate, wherein was the Urim and Thummim, which was eaſily carried, and uſed, and very uſeful in War upon many emergent occaſions. See 1 *Sam.*23.9. & 30.7. g Which were to be uſed in War as well as in the ſervice of the Tabernacle. See Numb. 10.9. 2 Chron. 13.12.

7 And they warred againſt the Midianites, as the LORD commanded Moſes, and they ſlew * all the males h.

* See Judg. 6. 33.

h Namely all whom they took in that War; Or, all who lived in thoſe parts, for it is probable, and was then very uſual, ſome Colonies of them were ſent forth to remoter places, which therefore had no hand either in their former ſin, or in this preſent ruine, of whom we read after this, Judg. 6. And herein they did according to Gods own order concerning ſuch people, Deut. 20.13. only their fault was, that they did not conſider the ſpecial reaſon and great obligation which they had to involve the Women in the deſtruction, for which reaſon Moſes blames them afterward, v. 15, 16.

8 And they ſlew the Kings of Midian i, beſides the reſt of them that were ſlain; namely, * Evi, and Rekem, and Zur k, and Hur, and Reba, five Kings of Midian: Balaam alſo l the ſon of Beor, they ſlew with the ſword.

i Called Dukes or Princes of Sihon, Joſ. 13.21. becauſe they were ſubject to him while he lived, but upon his death they reſumed their Kingly power. k The Father of Cozbi, Numb. 25.15. l Obj. He was gone and returned to his own place, *Numb.*24.25. which was Aram or Meſopotamia, Numb. 23.7. Anſ. Either he did go thitherward, but in his journey made ſome ſtay in Midian, where he was overtaken by divine vengeance: or underſtanding the ſucceſs of his wicked counſel left with Balaam in the ſin and ſlaughter of the Iſraelites, he returned partly to enjoy the reputation and reward of his counſel which he had loſt before, and partly to employ his Helliſh Arts againſt Iſrael, now they were, as he thought, forſaken by their God, and expoſed to his malice. Here Balaam dies the death of the wicked, and not of the righteous, as he deſired, Numb. 23.10.

9 And the children of Iſrael took all the Women of Midian Captives, and their little ones, and took the ſpoil of all their cattel, and all their Flocks, and all their goods.

10 And they burnt all their cities m, wherein they dwelt, and all their goodly caſtles with fire:

m Partly to blot out the Name and Memory of ſo lewd and vile a people; partly leſt any of the Iſraelites ſhould be tempted to ſettle there, and ſo be diſcouraged in their progreſs to Canaan; and partly leſt they ſhould be poſſeſſed by other people who might prove as bad Neighbours to them as theſe would have been.

11 And they took all the ſpoil, and all the prey both of men and of beaſts.

12 And they brought the captives, and the prey and the ſpoil unto Moſes, and Eleazar the Prieſt, and unto the Congregation of the children of Iſrael, unto the camp at the plains of Moab, which are by Jordan near Jericho.

13 And Moſes, and Eleazar the Prieſt, and all the Princes of the congregation, went forth to meet them without the camp n.

n Partly to put reſpect upon them, and congratulate with them for their happy ſucceſs; and partly to prevent the pollution of the Camp by the untimely entrance of the Warriors into it.

14 And Moſes was wroth with the officers of the hoſt o, with the captains over thouſands, and captains over hundreds, which came from the † battel.

o Becauſe they had ſpared thoſe who were moſt criminal, and who by the law of God and of Nature were worthy of death.

15 And Moſes ſaid unto them, Have ye ſaved * all the women alive?

16 Behold, * theſe cauſed the children of Iſrael, through the * counſel of Balaam to commit treſpaſs againſt the LORD in the matter of Peor, and * there was a plague among the congregation of the LORD.

21 And Eleazar the Prieſt ſaid unto the men of war which went to the battel, This is the ordinance of the Law which the LORD commanded Moſes.

22 Only the gold, and the ſilver, the braſs, the iron, the tin, and the lead, 23 Every thing that may abide the fire, ye ſhall make it go thorow the fire, and it ſhall be clean: nevertheleſs, it ſhall be purified * with the water of ſeparation; and all that abideth not the fire, ye ſhall make go through the water.

* chap. 19. 9, 17.

24 And ye ſhall waſh your clothes on the ſeventh day, and ye ſhall be clean, and afterward ye ſhall come into the camp.

25 And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

26 Take the ſum of the prey † that was taken, both of man and of beaſt, thou and Eleazar the prieſt, and the chief fathers of the congregation;

† Heb. Of the captivity.

27 And * divide the prey into two parts between them that took the war upon them, who went out to battel, and between all the congregation y.

y The Congregation hath ſome ſhare, becauſe the Warriours went in the name of all, and becauſe all having been injured by the Midianites, all were to have ſome ſhare in the reparations: but the Warriours, who were but 12000, have a far greater ſhare than others of their brethren, becauſe they underwent greater pains and dangers.

28 And levy a tribute unto the LORD, of the men of war which went out to battel: one ſoul z of five hundred, both of the perſons, and of the beeves, and of the aſſes, and of the ſheep.

z (i. e.) One perſon, as it follows here and ver. 30.

29 Take it of their half, and give it unto Eleazar the prieſt for an heave-offering of the LORD a.

a In thankfulneſs to God for their preſervation and good ſucceſs.

30 And of the children of Iſraels half, thou ſhalt take one portion of fifty b, of the perſons, of the beeves, of the aſſes, and of the ‖ ſheep, of all manner of beaſts, and give them unto the Levites, * which keep the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD.

* chap. 3. 7, 8, 25, 31, 36.

b Whereas the former part was one of 500, the reaſon of the difference is partly becauſe this was taken out of the peoples portion, whoſe hazards being leſs than the others, their gains alſo in all reaſon were to be leſs; partly becauſe this was to be diſtributed into more hands, the Levites being now numerous, when the Prieſts were but few.

31 And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt did as the LORD commanded Moſes.

32 And the booty, being the reſt of the prey c which the men of war had caught, was ſix hundred thouſand, and ſeventy thouſand, and five thouſand ſheep.

c All which was now left of the prey. It is ſo expreſſed becauſe they took more, but ſome of the perſons were ſince killed, ver. 17. and ſome of the cattel was ſpent for the neceſſary proviſions of the Army.

33 And threeſcore and twelve thouſand beeves,

34 And threeſcore and one thouſand aſſes,

35 And thirty and two thouſand perſons in all, of women that had not known man, by lying with him.

36 And the half, which was the portion of them that went out to war, was in number three hundred thouſand, and ſeven and thirty thouſand, and five hundred ſheep.

37 And the LORDS tribute of the ſheep was ſix hundred and threeſcore and fifteen.

38 And the beeves were thirty and ſix thouſand, of which the LORDS tribute was threeſcore and twelve.

39 And the aſſes were thirty thouſand and five hundred, of which the LORDS tribute was threeſcore and one.

40 And the perſons were ſixteen thouſand, of which the LORDS tribute was thirty and two perſons.

41 And Moſes gave the tribute which was the LORDS heave offering unto Eleazar the prieſt, as the LORD commanded Moſes d.

d Either now upon his conſulting of God in the caſe, or formerly in general rules and laws for ſuch occaſions, ſuch as Numb. 18. 8.

42 And of the children of Iſraels half, which Moſes divided from the men that warred:

43 (Now the half that pertained unto the congregation, was three hundred thouſand and thirty thouſand, and ſeven thouſand and five hundred ſheep.

44 And thirty and ſix thouſand beeves:

45 And thirty thouſand aſſes, and five hundred,

46 And ſixteen thouſand perſons,)

47 Even of the children of Iſraels half, Moſes took one portion of fifty, both of man and of beaſt, and gave them unto the Levites, which kept the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

48 And the officers which were over thouſands of the hoſt: the captains of thouſands, and captains of hundreds came near unto Moſes.

49 And they ſaid unto Moſes, Thy ſervants have taken the ſum of the men of war which are under our † charge, and there lacketh not one man of us.

50 We have therefore brought an oblation for the LORD, what every man hath † gotten, of jewels of gold, chains and bracelets, rings, earrings, and tablets, to make an atonement for our ſouls e before the LORD.

e For their error noted ver. 14, 15, 16. and withal for a memorial, as it is ſaid ver. 54. or by way of gratitude for ſuch a ſtupendious aſſiſtance and deliverance, as appears from the word therefore in the beginning of this verſe, and from ver. 49.

51 And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt took the gold of them: even all wrought jewels.

52 And all the gold of the † offering that they offered up to the LORD, of the captains of thouſands, and of the captains of hundreds, was ſixteen thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty ſhekels.

53 (For the men of war had taken ſpoil, every man for himſelf.)

54 And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt took the gold of the captains of thouſands and of hundreds, and brought it into the tabernacle of the congregation; for a memorial for the children of Iſrael before the LORD.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 NOW the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad had a very great multitude of cattel: and when they ſaw the land of Jazer a, and the land of Gilead b, that behold, the place was a place for cattel, a A city and country taken from the Amorites, Numb 21. 32.

b A mountainous country, famous for paſturage, Jer. 50. 19. Mich. 7. 14.

2 The children of Gad, and the children of Reuben, came and ſpake unto Moſes, and to Eleazar the prieſt, and unto the princes of the congregation, ſaying,

3 Ataroth c, and Dibon, and Jazer, and Nimrah d, and Heſhbon, and Elealeh, and Shebam e, and Nebo, and Beon f, c Different from that Ataroth, Joſh. 16. 2, 7. which was on the other ſide of Jordan. d Called Beth-nimrah, ver. 36. & Joſ. 13. 27. and the waters of Nimrim, Iſa. 15. 6. e Which is thought to be the ſame place called Baal-meon, ver. 38. and Beth-meon, Jer. 48. 23.

4 Even the country * which the LORD ſmote before the congregation of Iſrael g, is a land for cattel, and thy ſervants have cattel.

* chap. 21. 24, 34.

g And

g And given to them for a poſſeſſion, in the ſame manner as he will give the land of Canaan.

5 Wherefore, ſaid they, if we have found grace in thy ſight, let this land be given unto thy ſervants for a poſſeſſion: and bring us not over Jordan h.

h To wit, to give us our poſſeſſion there, but let this land on this ſide Jordan be our whole poſſeſſion.

6 And Moſes ſaid unto the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, Shall your brethren go to war, and ſhall ye ſit here i?

i In eaſe and peace, whilſt your brethren are engaged in a bloody War. Their words were ambiguous, and Moſes thought this to be an act of unbelief, and ſloth, and ſelf-love, and policy.

† Heb. break. 7 And wherefore † diſcourage ye the heart of the children of Iſrael, from going over into the land which the LORD hath given them?

* chap. 13. 3. * Deut. 1. 22. 8 Thus did your fathers, when I * ſent them from Kadesh-barnea * to ſee the land.

* chap. 13. 24. 9 For * when they went up into the valley of Eſhcol, and ſaw the land, they diſcouraged the heart of the children of Iſrael, that they ſhould not go k into the land which the LORD had given them.

k That they ſhould not attempt to go, but rather return to Egypt, Numb. 14. 4.

10 And the LORDS anger was kindled the ſame time, and he ſware, ſaying, 11 Surely none of the men that came up out

* chap. 14. 28, 29. of Egypt, * from twenty years old and upward, ſhall ſee the land which I ſware unto Abraham,

* chap. 14. 24, 30. unto Iſaac, and unto Jacob, becauſe * they have

* Heb. fulfilled after me. not † wholly followed me:

12 Save Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, the Kenezite l, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun: for they have wholly followed the LORD.

l So called from Kenaz, his grand-father, or one of his eminent anceſtors, Joſ. 15. 17. 1 Chron. 4, 13, 14, 15.

13 And the LORDS anger was kindled againſt Iſrael, and he made them wander in the wilderneſs forty years, until all the generation that had done evil in the ſight of the LORD were conſumed.

14 And, behold, ye are riſen up in your fathers ſtead, an increaſe of ſinful men m, to augment yet the fierce anger of the LORD toward Iſrael.

m Succeeding your fathers as in their places and eſtates, ſo alſo in their ſins.

15 For if ye turn away from after him, he will yet again leave them in the wilderneſs, and ye ſhall deſtroy all this people n.

n Who being moved by your counſel and example will refuſe to go over Jordan, and to poſſeſs the land of Canaan.

16 And they came near unto him, and ſaid, We will build ſheep-folds here for our cattel, and cities for our little ones:

17 But we our ſelves o will go ready armed before the children of Iſrael, until we have brought them unto their place: and our little ones ſhall dwell in the fenced cities, becauſe of the inhabitants of the land p.

o Either all, or as many of us as ſhall be thought neceſſary, leaving only ſo many as may be neceſſary to provide for the ſuſtenance and defence of our Wives and Children here. See Joſ. 4. 12, 13. p The Moabites and Edomites or other bordering people.

* Joſh. 22, 2. 18 * We will not return unto our houſes, until the children of Iſrael have inherited every man his inheritance:

19 For we will not inherit with them on yonder ſide Jordan, or forward, becauſe our inheritance is fallen to us on this ſide Jordan eaſtward.

* Joſh. 1. 13. 20 And * Moſes ſaid unto them, If ye will do this thing, if ye will go armed before the LORD p to war, p Either 1. ſincerely and heartily, as in Gods preſence. Or rather 2. before the Ark, which was the token of Gods preſence. He alludes either to the order of the tribes in their march, whereby Reuben and Gad marched next and immediately before the ark, as appears from Numb. 2. 10, 14, 16, 17. Or to the manner of their paſſage over Jordan, wherein the ark went firſt into Jordan, and ſtood there whilſt all the tribes marched over Jordan by and before it, Joſ. 3. & 4. and theſe amongſt the reſt, as is expreſly noted in theſe very words, that they paſſed over before the Lord, Joſ. 4. 13.

21 And will go all of you armed over Jordan before the LORD, until he hath driven out his enemies from before him,

* Deut. 3. 20. 22 And * the land be ſubdued before the LORD q: then afterward ye ſhall return, and be guiltleſs before the LORD, and before Iſrael; and

* Deut. 3. 12, 15, 16. Joſh. 1. 15. & 13. 8. * this land ſhall be your poſſeſſion before the LORD.

q (i.e.) By his preſence and gracious and powerful aſſiſtance.

23 But if ye will not do ſo, behold, ye have ſinned againſt the LORD: and be ſure your ſin r will find you out.

r (i. e.) The puniſhment of your ſin, as that word is very oft uſed.

24 Build you cities for your little ones, and folds for your ſheep, and do that which hath proceeded out of your mouth ſ.

ſ Which you have uttered and promiſed to do. See this or the like phraſe, Numb. 30. 2. Mat. 15. 18.

25 And the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, Thy ſervants will do as my lord commandeth.

26 Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our cattel ſhall be there in the cities of Gilead t.

t Largely ſo called, as that word is oft uſed, for that whole country beyond Jordan, as in other places it is taken more ſtrictly for a part of it, as here below ver. 39, 40. and elſewhere.

* Joſh. 4. 12. 27 * But thy ſervants will paſs over, every man armed for war, before the LORD to battel, as my lord ſaith.

* Joſh. 1. 13. 28 So * concerning them, Moſes commanded Eleazar the prieſt, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and the chief fathers of the tribes of the children of Iſrael:

29 And Moſes ſaid unto them, If the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben will paſs with you over Jordan, every man armed to battel before the LORD, and the land ſhall be ſubdued before you, then ye ſhall give them the land of Gilead for your poſſeſſion:

30 But if they will not paſs over with you armed, they ſhall have poſſeſſion among you in the land of Canaan u.

u They ſhall forfeit and loſe their poſſeſſions in Gilead, and ſhall be conſtrained to go over Jordan, and to ſeek poſſeſſions there among their brethren.

31 And the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben anſwered, ſaying, As the LORD hath ſaid x unto thy ſervants, ſo will we do.

x Either at this time by thy mouth: or formerly, where he commandeth us as well as our brethren to go into Canaan and poſſeſs it.

32 We will paſs over armed before the LORD into the land of Canaan, that the poſſeſſion of our inheritance on this ſide Jordan may be ours.

* Deut. 3. 2. Joſh. 13. 8. & 22. 4. 33 And * Moſes gave unto them, even to the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, and unto half the tribe of Manaſſeh y the ſon of Joſeph, the * Kingdom of Sihon, king of the Amorite, and the kingdom of Og king of Baſhan, the land with the cities thereof, in the coaſts, even the cities of the country round about.

* chap. 21. 24, 33.

y Who are here added to the Tribes of Reuben and Gad, either becauſe upon the good ſucceſs of the two Tribes of Reuben and Gad, they were encouraged to make the ſame requeſt for themſelves, as having much cattel, as well as they: or becauſe upon further conſideration it was found that this portion of land was more than ſufficient for thoſe two Tribes, and it was given by Moſes to theſe rather than to any other, becauſe theſe fought againſt the Amorites with great courage and ſucceſs here, ver. 39. & Joſ. 17. 1.

34 And the children of Gad built z Dibon, and Ataroth, and Aroer.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land of Canaan (this is the land that shall fall unto you for an inheritance, even the land of Canaan with the coasts a thereof.)

a Or, limits or bounds, to wit, of the land beyond Jordan. Which are here particularly described, 1. To direct and bound them in their Wars and Conquests, that they might not seek the enlargement of their Empire, after the manner of other Nations, but be contented with their own portion. 2. To encourage them in their attempt upon Canaan, and assure them of their success. 3. To guide them in the approaching distribution of the land.

3 Then * your south-quarter b shall be from the wilderness of Zin, along by the coast of Edom c, and your south-border shall be the outmost coast of * the salt sea d eastward e. * Josh. 15. 1. * Gen. 14. 3.

b Which is here described from East to West by divers windings and turnings, by reason of the mountains, rivers, &c. c Bordering all along upon the Edomites. d So called from the salt and sulphureous taste of its Waters. e (i. e.) At the Eastern part of that Sea, where the Eastern and Southern borders meet.

4 And your border shall turn from the south to the ascent of Akrabbim f, and pass unto Zin: and the going forth thereof shall be from the south g to Kadesh-Barnea h, and shall go on to Hazar-addar i, and pass on to Azmon k.

f Called Maaleb-akrabbim, Jos. 15. 3 which was at the south end of the salt or dead sea. g Or, on the south, i. e. proceeding onward towards the South. h Which was on the Southern part of Canaan, Numb. 13. 17. i Which in Jos. 15. 3. may seem distinguished into two places, Hezron and Addar, which here are united because peradventure they were contiguous or joyned together. Or, the village of Addar, and so this is the same place called Addar, Jos. 15. 3. and for Hezron, that may be another place here omitted, and there supplied for more exactness. k Which is at the West end of the mount of Edom.

5 And the border shall fetch a compass from Azmon unto the river of Egypt l, and the goings out of it shall be at the sea m.

l Called Sihor, Jos. 13. 3. which divided Egypt from Canaan. See Gen. 15. 18. m The mid-land sea, called the sea emphatically, whereas the other seas there, as they are called, are indeed but lakes.

6 And as for the western border, ye shall even have the great n sea for a border: this shall be your west-border.

n The mid-land sea from the South to the North so far as runs parallel with mount Libanus.

7 And this shall be your north-border: from the great sea ye shall point out for you mount Hor o.

o Not that Hor where Aaron died, Numb. 20. 22. which was Southward, and bordering upon Edom, Numb. 33. 37, 38. and therefore could not be their Northern border, but another mountain, and, as it is conceived, the mountain of Libanus, which is elsewhere mentioned as the Northern border of the land, and which, in regard of divers parts, or by divers people, is called by divers names, as Sirion and Senir, Deut. 3. 9. and Sion, Deut. 4. 48. and Hermon, Jos. 13. 5. and here Hor, which signifies a mountain, and this may be called so by way of eminency. Certain it is, that as Hor here, so Hermon, Jos. 13. 5. is joyned with the entrance of Hamath, which makes it probable they are one and the same place.

8 From mount Hor, ye shall point out your border unto the entrance of Hamath p, and the goings forth of the border shall be to Zedad.

p Called Hamath the great, Amos 6. 2. which is among the Northern borders, Ezek. 47. 16, 17. See Gen. 10. 15, 18. Numb. 13. 21. Judg. 3. 3. 1 King. 8. 65.

9 And the border shall go unto Ziphron, and the goings out of it shall be at Hazar-enan: this shall be your north-border.

10 And ye shall point out your east-border, from Hazar-enan to Shepham.

11 And the coast shall go down from Shepham to Riblah, on the east side of Ain: and the border shall descend, and shall reach unto the † side of the sea of Chinnereth q eastward. †Heb. shoulder.

q Of this name we have a city, Jos. 19. 35. and a country, Jos. 11. 2. 1 King. 15. 20. and a Sea or Lake here, and Jos. 12. 3. and 13. 27. which in the New Testament is called the sea of Genesareth, Luk. 5. 1. and of Gallilee, and of Tiberias, John 6. 1.

12 And the border shall go down to Jordan r, and the goings out of it shall be at the salt sea: this shall be your land with the coasts thereof round about.

r (i. e.) All along the river of Jordan even to the end of it, which is the Eastern border.

13 And Moses commanded the children of Israel, saying, This is the land which they shall inherit by lot, which the LORD commanded to give unto the nine tribes, and to the half tribe.

* chap.32,33. Josh. 14. 2, 3.

14 * For the tribe of the children of Reuben, according to the house of their fathers, and the tribe of the children of Gad, according to the house of their fathers, have received their inheritance, and half the tribe of Manasseh have received their inheritance.

15 The two tribes, and the half tribe, have received their inheritance on this side Jordan near Jericho, eastward, toward the sun-rising.

16 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying,

17 These are the names of the men which shall divide the land unto you: * Eleazar the priest f, and Joshua the son of Nun.

* Josh. 14. 1. & 19. 51.

f Who was to act in Gods name, to cast lots, to prevent differences and contentions, to consult with God in cases of difficulty, to transact the whole business in a solemn and religious manner.

18 And ye shall take one prince of every tribe, to divide the land by inheritance.

19 And the names of the men are these: of the tribe of Judah t, Caleb the son of Jephunneh.

t The order of the Tribes is here differing from that Numb. 1. 7, 26. and in other places, being here, as also Jos. 16. and 17. and 18. and 19. conformed to the order of their several inheritances which afterwards fell to them by lot. Which is an evident demonstration of the infinite Wisdom of Gods providence, and of his exact and peculiar care over his people.

20 And of the tribe of the children of Simeon, Shemuel the son of Ammihud.

21 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad the son of Chisbon.

22 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Dan, Bukki the son of Jogli.

23 The prince of the children of Joseph, for the tribe of the children of Manasseh, Hanniel son of Ephod.

24 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Ephraim, Kemuel the son of Shiphtan.

25 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Zebulun, Elizaphan the son of Parnach.

26 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Issachar, Paltiel the son of Azzan.

27 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Asher, Ahihud the son of Shelomi.

28 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, Pedahel the son of Ammihud.

29 These are they whom the LORD commanded to divide the inheritance unto the children of Israel, in the land of Canaan.

CHAP. XXXV.

1 AND the LORD spake unto Moses in the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho, saying,

* Josh. 14. 3, 4. & 21. 2.

2 * Command the children of Israel, that they give unto the Levites of the inheritance of their possession, cities to dwell in: and ye shall give also unto the Levites, suburbs for the cities round about them.

3 And the cities shall they have to dwell in, and the suburbs of them shall be for their cattel a, and for their goods, and for all their beasts.

a For pasturage for their cattel: where they might not build houses, nor plant gardens, orchards or vineyards, no, nor sow corn, for which they were abundantly provided out of the first-fruits and tithes. And these suburbs did not belong to the Levites in common, but were distributed to them in convenient proportions, as may appear from Jos. 21. 18. 1 Chron. 6. 60.

4 And the suburbs of the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites, shall reach from the wall of the city and outward, a thousand cubits round about b.

b Obj. In the next verse it is two thousand. How do these agree? Ans. 1. The LXX Interpreters read both here and ver. 5. two thousand cubits, whence some suppose this to be an error in the Hebrew Text, which being in a matter neither concerning faith nor good manners, is not prejudicial to the authority of the holy Scriptures. Ans. 2. The one thousand cubits may be in length from the city, and the two thousand cubits in breadth on each side of the city, and so they well agree; for a line of a thousand cubits being drawn in length eastward, and another westward, and another northward, and another southward, a line drawn at a thousand cubits distance from the city, from East to West, must needs contain two thousand cubits, and so must the other line from North to South, and so on every side of the city there must be two thousand cubits. Ans. 3. This verse and the next do not speak to the same thing: this speaks of the space or place from whence the Suburbs shall be measured, the next verse speaks of the space unto which that measure shall be extended; and the words may very well be read thus, And the suburbs—shall be (so it is only an ellipsis of the verb substantive, which is most frequent, and the meaning is, shall be taken or accounted) from the wall of the city and from (that particle being supplied or understood from the foregoing words, which is very usual) without it, or, from the outward parts of it, (which being a general and indefinite expression, is limited and explained by the following words) even from a thousand cubits round about. Which are mentioned not as the thing measured, for as yet there is not a word of measuring, but as the term or space from which the measuring line should begin. And then it follows ver. 5. And ye shall measure from without the city, (not from the wall of the city, as was said before ver. 4. but from without it, i. e. from the said outward part or space of a thousand cubits without the Wall of the city round about) on the east-side two thousand cubits, &c. So in truth there were three thousand cubits from the Wall of the city, whereof one thousand probably were for out-houses, stalls for cattel, gardens, vineyards and olive-yards, and the like, and the other two thousand for pasture, which are therefore called the field of the suburbs, Lev. 25. 34. by way of distinction from the suburbs themselves, which consist of the first thousand cubits from the wall of the city.

5 And ye shall measure from without the city on the east-side two thousand cubits, and on the south-side two thousand cubits, and on the west-side two thousand cubits, and on the north-side two thousand cubits: and the city shall be in the midst: this shall be to them the suburbs of the cities.

6 And among the cities which ye shall give unto the Levites, there shall be * six cities for refuge c, which ye shall appoint for the man-slayer d, that he may flee thither: and † to them ye shall add forty and two cities.

* Deut. 4. 41. Josh 20. 2. & 21. 3, 21.

c Or, for receit, or escape, or resort, to wit, for man-slayers. And these cities are assigned among the Levites, partly because they might be presumed to be the most proper and impartial Judges between man-slayers, and wilful murderers; partly because their presence and counsel and authority would more effectually bridle the passions of the avenger of blood who might pursue him thither; and partly to signifie, that it is only in Christ (whom the Levitical Priests did represent) that sinners find refuge and safety from the destroyer. The names of these Cities we have Deut. 4. 41, 43. Jos. 20. 8.

d Such as is here described, ver. 11, 15, 22, 23.

7 So all the cities which ye shall give to the Levites, shall be forty and eight cities: them shall ye give with their suburbs.

8 And the cities which ye shall give, shall be of the possession of the children of Israel: * from them that have many, ye shall give many e; but from them that have few, ye shall give few. Every one shall give of his cities unto the Levites according to his inheritance which † he inheriteth.

* chap. 26. 54.

10 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, * When ye be come over Jordan, into the land of Canaan:

* Deut. 19. 2. Josh. 20. 2.

11 Then * ye shall appoint you cities, to be cities of refuge for you, that the slayer may flee thither, which killeth any person † at unawares f.

f (i. e.) Not wilfully, designedly or maliciously, but inconsiderately, through mistake, or indiscretion, or carelessness. See Lev. 4. 2.

12 And they shall be unto you cities for refuge, from the avenger g, that the man-slayer die not h, until he stand before the congregation i in judgment k.

g To wit, of the party slain, or, of blood, as it is fully expressed below, ver. 19. 21. Heb. from the redeemer, or, from the next kinsman, to whom by the law belonged the right of redemption of the lands of, and vindication of the injury done to, the person deceased. h (i. e.) Be not killed by the avenger meeting him in some other place. i (i. e.) Before the society or convention of Judges or Elders who were appointed in every City for the decision of criminal causes, who were 23, who were to examine the matter, and that publickly before the people, whether the murder was wilful or casual. Quest. In what City was this cauſe to be tried? Anſ. Some ſay, in the city of refuge; others ſay, in the city in or near which the fact was committed. It ſeems to me it was done in both; at firſt in the city of refuge, as is manifeſt from Joſ. 20. 4 but if that trial and ſentence did not ſatisfie the avenger of blood, it was fully and finally determined in the other city, as is ſufficiently evident both by comparing this place with ver. 25. and Joſ. 20. 6. and from the uſual and moſt reaſonable courſe of Juſtice, which is that facts ſhould be examined, as far as may be, in or near the places where they were committed, and where the Witneſſes and Evidences were at hand. k Or, for judgment, i. e. to receive ſentence there according to the nature of the fact.

13 And of theſe cities which ye ſhall give, ſix cities ſhall ye have for refuge.

14 Ye ſhall give three cities on this ſide Jordan l, and three cities ſhall ye give in the land of Canaan, which ſhall be cities of refuge:

l Becauſe that land was as long as Canaan, tho not ſo broad; and beſides, theſe might be convenient for many of them that lived in Canaan.

15 Theſe ſix cities ſhall be a refuge, both for the children of Iſrael, and for the ſtranger m, and for the ſojourner among them: that every one that killeth any perſon unawares, may flee thither.

m Not the proſelyte only, but all ſtrangers, this being no matter of religious priviledge, but of common right, and agreeable to the Law of nature, and practice of wiſe heathens.

* Ex. 21. 12, 14. 16 * And if he ſmite him with an inſtrument of iron n (ſo that he die o) he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death p.

n Wittingly and willfully, tho not with premeditated malice or deſign, as appears by comparing this with ver. 20, 21, 22, 23.
o To wit, ſuddenly; not ſo, if he walked abroad afterward, Exod. 21. 19, 20. p Yea tho he were fled into the city of refuge.

† Heb. with a ſtone of the hand. 17 And if he ſmite him † with throwing a ſtone q, (wherewith he may die) and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death.

q Heb. with the ſtone of the hand, i. e. caſt by the hand, and that knowingly, as appears by ver. 23.

18 Or if he ſmite him with an hand-weapon of wood (wherewith he may die) and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death.

19 The revenger of blood himſelf ſhall ſlay the murderer r: when he meeteth him, he ſhall ſlay him.

r Either 1. By himſelf, as the following words ſhew: ſo it is only a permiſſion, that he may do it without offence to God or danger to himſelf: Or 2. By the Magiſtrate, from whom he ſhall demand juſtice: ſo it is a command, as may appear by comparing this with ver. 31. & Deut. 19. 12, 13.

* Deut. 19. 11. 20 But * if he thruſt him of hatred, or hurl at him by laying of wait, that he die:

21 Or in enmity ſmite him with his hand that he die: he that ſmote him ſhall ſurely be put to death, for he is a murderer: the revenger of blood ſhall ſlay the murderer when he meeteth him.

* Exod. 21. 13. 22 But if he thruſt him ſuddenly ſ, * without enmity, or have caſt upon him any thing without laying of wait:

ſ Through ſudden paſſion or provocation. Or, by chance or unawares.

23 Or with any ſtone wherewith a man may die, ſeeing him not, and caſt it upon him that he die, and was not his enemy, neither ſought his harm:

24 Then u the congregation ſhall judge between the ſlayer, and the revenger of blood, according to theſe judgments.

u If the man-ſlayer flee to the city of refuge.

25 And the congregation ſhall deliver the ſlayer out of the hand of the revenger of blood, and the congregation ſhall reſtore him to the city of his refuge, whither he was fled: and he ſhall abide in it x, unto the death of the high prieſt y, * which was anointed with holy oyl.

* Exod. 29. 7. Lev. 4. 3. & 21. 10.

x Be confined to it, partly to ſhew the hatefulneſs of wilful murder in Gods account, by ſo ſevere a puniſhment as this in many caſes might prove, inflicted upon the very appearance of it; and partly for the ſecurity of the man-ſlayer, leſt the preſence of ſuch a perſon, and his converſation among the kindred of the deceaſed, might occaſion reproach and bloodſhed. y Partly becauſe the publick grief for the loſs of ſo publick a perſon, was likely to aſſwage the private griefs and paſſions of men, the rather, becauſe by this example they were minded of their own mortality, and thereby withheld from taking vengeance; and principally to ſhew, that the death of Chriſt (the true High-prieſt, whom the others did evidently and eminently repreſent and typifie) is the only mean whereby ſins are pardoned and ſinners are ſet at liberty.

26 But if the ſlayer ſhall at any time come without the border of his city of refuge, whither he was fled:

27 And the revenger of blood find him without the borders of the city of his refuge, and the revenger of blood kill the ſlayer: he † ſhall not be guilty of blood z:

z (i. e.) Not liable to puniſhment from men, tho not free from guilt before God, becauſe he kills an innocent perſon, as appears from Deut. 19. 10. This God ordained to oblige the man-ſlayer to abide in his city of refuge. See ver. 32.

28 Becauſe he ſhould have remained in the city of his refuge, until the death of the high prieſt: but after the death of the high prieſt, the ſlayer ſhall return into the land of his poſſeſſion.

29 So theſe things ſhall be for a ſtatute of judgment unto you, throughout your generations, in all your dwellings.

30 Whoſo killeth any perſon, the murderer ſhall be put to death, by the * mouth of witneſſes: but one witneſs ſhall not teſtifie againſt any perſon to cauſe him to die a.

* Deut. 17. 6. & 19. 15. Mat. 18. 16. 2 Cor. 13. 1. Heb. 10. 28.

a No Judge ſhall condemn any man to death upon a ſingle teſtimony.

31 Moreover, ye ſhall take no ſatisfaction for the life of a murderer b, which is † guilty of death, but he ſhall be ſurely put to death.

b No interceſſion, nor ranſome ſhall be accepted to ſave his life or procure him a pardon

32 And ye ſhall take no ſatisfaction for him that is fled to the city of his refuge, that he ſhould come again to dwell in the land, until the death of the prieſt c.

c Whereby God would ſignifie the abſolute and indiſpenſable neceſſity of Chriſts death to expiate ſin and to redeem the ſinner.

33 So ye ſhall not pollute the land wherein ye are: for blood, it * defileth the land: and † the land cannot be cleanſed of the blood that is ſhed therein, but by the blood of him that ſheddeth it d.

* Mic. 4. 11. † Heb. there can be no expiation for the land.

d Theſe words are added as a reaſon not of the laſt law, ver. 32. for in that caſe the land was cleanſed without the blood of the man ſlayer, but of the law next foregoing that, ver. 31. in which caſe it holds, and the ſenſe is, If you ſhall ſpare the murderer, or take any ſatisfaction for him, you do, together with your ſelves, involve your land and people in guilt, and will certainly bring down Gods vengeance upon your ſelves and them.

34 Defile not therefore the land which ye ſhall inherit e, wherein I dwell: for I the LORD dwell among the children of Iſrael.

e Be not cruel to your own land, by making it a den of murderers.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 AND the chief fathers of the families a of the children of Gilead the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, of the families of the ſons of Joſeph, came near, and ſpake before Moſes, and before the princes, the chief fathers of the children of Iſrael.

a Who had the care and management of the publick affairs of that Tribe committed to them.

2 And they ſaid, * The LORD commanded my lord to give the land for an inheritance by lot to the children of Iſrael: and * my lord was commanded by the LORD, to give the inheritance of Zelophehad our brother b unto his daughters.

* chap. 26. 55. * chap. 27. 1. Joſh. 17. 3.

b (i. e.) Our kinſman, one of our Tribe, Joſ. 17. 2, 3.

3 And if they be married to any of the ſons of the other tribes of the children of Iſrael, then ſhall their inheritance be taken from the inheritance of our fathers, and ſhall be put to the inheritance of the tribe † whereunto they are received c: ſo ſhall it be taken from the lot of our inheritance.

c For their inheritance will paſs to their children, who will be of another Tribe by their fathers ſide, which alone is conſidered in this place.

4 And

* Lev. 25. 10. 4 And when the * jubile of the children of Israel shall be d, then shall their inheritance be put unto the inheritance of the tribe whereunto they are received: so shall their inheritance be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers.

d VVhich God appointed principally for this end, to preserve the inheritances in the hands of the Tribes and Families to which they were first given.

5 And Moses commanded the children of Israel according to the word of the LORD, saying, The tribe of the sons of Joseph hath said well e.

e Their plea is just and reasonable. God did not take particular care about every occurrence that happened or might happen, but left divers things to be found out by humane prudence, which being his own gift, it was meet there should be opportunities left for the exercise of it, and God thought fit to approve and ratifie the prudent and profitable inventions of men by his own law or sanction, as in the case of Jethro, Exod. 18 of Zelophehads daughters, Num. 27. and here of their brethren. But it is observable, that God allowed this only in civil affairs, but never in the matters of his worship, where he utterly forbids it.

f They seem hereby to be confined not only to the same Tribe, but also to the family of their Tribe, as appears from the reason of the law, for God would have the inheritance of Families as well as Tribes, kept intire and unmixed: and this was one reason of that law of marrying the brothers wife, Deut. 25. And altho the next verse may seem to thwart this interpretation, the reason of this law being there given that inheritances might not go from tribe to tribe, yet ver. 8. confirms it, where the very same phrase is repeated, and that more emphatically, that such shall marry one of the family of the tribe of her father; and this further reason and restriction is added, that they may enjoy every man the inheritance (not only of his Tribe, but) of his fathers, to wit, belonging to his fathers family.

8 And every daughter that possesseth an inheritance g in any tribe of the children of Israel, shall be wife unto one of the family of the tribe of her father: that the children of Israel may enjoy every man the inheritance of his fathers.

g By which clause it seems this law was not general to forbid every woman to marry into another tribe, (as may be reasonably concluded from the practice of so many Patriarchs, Kings, Priests, and other holy men, who have married women of other tribes, yea, sometimes of other Nations, which it is not likely they would have done, if this had been a transgression of Gods law) but restrained to heiresses or such as were likely to be so. See 1 Chron. 23. 22. But if they had brethren, it is probable they were free to marry into any tribe, yet so that if their brethren died, their punishment was, that the inheritance went from them to the next akin of their fathers tribe and family. And the principal reason why God was sollicitous to preserve tribes and families unmixed was, that the tribe and family too, out of which the Messiah was to come, and by which he should be known, might be evident and unquestionable.

9 Neither shall the inheritance remove from one tribe to another tribe: but every one of the tribes of the children of Israel shall keep himself to his own inheritance.

10 Even as the LORD commanded Moses, so did the daughters of Zelophehad.

* chap. 27. 1. 11 * For Mahlah, Tirzah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Noah the daughters of Zelophehad, were married unto their fathers brothers sons h.

h It is uncertain whether brothers or sons be taken strictly and properly, or more large, as those words are oft used in scripture.

† Heb. to some that were of the families. 12 And they were married † into the families of the sons of Manasseh, the son of Joseph: and their inheritance remained in the tribe of the family of their father.

13 These are the commandments, and the judgments which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses, unto the children of Israel in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho.

DEUTERONOMIE.

The ARGUMENT.

Moses, in the two last Months of his life, rehearseth what God had done for them, and their frequent murmurings, rebellions, and constant ingratitude; he begs to enter into the land, but is permitted only to see it; he forbiddeth any communion with the Nations for several reasons. Chap. 7. He gives a short repetition of those sundry Laws, Moral, Ceremonial, Judicial and Military, which he had given them, from whence this Book is called Deuteronomy. Then, after many Exhortations, he propheseth of Christ; afterwards he shews how matters of War are to be managed, and, giving many other particular directions with reference to Duties, Conditions, and Persons of both Sexes, he pronounceth blessings on the obedient, and curses on the disobedient; he then gives a charge for the laying up, and reading of the Law at certain times, and every seven years to be solemnly read before all the people; he composeth a Song for common use, comprizing the wonderful things here mentioned; he propheseth of Christs coming, and the calling of the Gentiles, seeth the Land, and dieth, leaving Joshua, after he had consecrated him, to succeed.

CHAP. I.

|| Or, Zuph. 1 THese be the words which Moses spake a unto all Israel b, on this side Jordan, in the wilderness, in the plain c over against the || Red-sea, between Paran d, and Tophel, and Laban e, and Hazeroth f, and Dizahab.

a These are the Laws, Counsels and Admonitions delivered by Moses from God to Israel, which are here repeated for the instruction and obligation of those who by reason of their tender years were uncapable either of understanding them, or of entring into covenant with God. b To wit, by the Heads or Elders of the several Tribes or others, who were to communicate these discourses to all the people in several Assemblies. c Either 1. In the vast desert of Arabia. But that is no where called a plain. Or rather 2. In the plain of Moab, as may appear by comparing this with v. 5. & Numb. 22. 1. & Deut. 34. 8. Obj. That was far from the Red-sea here mentioned. Ans. The word Suph here used doth not signifie the Red sea, which is commonly called jam-suph, and which was at too great a distance, but some other place now unknown to us (as also most of the following places are) so called from the Reeds, or Flags, or Rushes (which that word signifies) that grew in or near it; which reason of the name being common to other places with the Red-sea, it is not strange if they got the same name. Compare Numb. 21. 14. d Not that Numb. 10 12. which there and elsewhere is called the Wilderness of Paran, and which was too remote; but some other place called by the same name, than which nothing more usual. e Places not mentioned elsewhere. f Of which see Numb. 11. 35. & 33. 17, 18. And these places seem to be the several bounds and limits not of the whole Country of Moab, but of the plain of Moab, where Moses now was, and spake these words.

2 (There are eleven days journey g from Horeb h, by the way of mount Seir i, unto Kadesh-barnea k.)

g This is added to shew that the reason why the Israelites in so many years were advanced no further from Horeb, than to these plains, was not the great distance of the places or length of the way, which was but a journey of eleven days at most, but because of their rebellions, as is mentioned before, and repeated in this book. h Or, Sinai, the place where the Law was given, which is promiscuously called by both those names. i Or Mount Edom, i. e. the mountainous Country of Seir, which was first first possessed by the Horims, and afterwards by the Edomites, Deut. 2. 12. k Which was not far from the borders of Canaan. See Gen. 16. 14. Numb. 13. 26.

3 And it came to pass in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month l, on the first day of the month, that Moses spake unto the children of Israel, according unto all that the LORD had given him in commandment unto them;

l Which was but a little before his death.

7 Turn ye, and take your journey, and go to the mount of the Amorite k, and unto † all the places nigh thereunto, in the plain, in the hills, and in the vale, and in the south, and by the sea-side, to the land of the Canaanite, and unto Lebanon, unto the great river the river † Euphrates.

† Heb. Of Euphrates.

k (i. e.) To the mountainous Country where the Amorites dwelt, which is opposed to the plain here following, where others of them dwelt. And this is first mentioned, because it was in the borders of the land; See belovv v. 19, 20. The divers parts or bounds of the land are here mentioned.

8 Behold, I have † set the land before you l: go in, and possess the land, which the LORD sware unto your fathers, * Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give unto them, and to their seed after them.

* Gen. 12. 7. & 15. 7. & 17. 7. 18. 18. & 26. 4. & 28. 13.

l Heb. before your faces, it is open to your view, and to your possession, there is no impediment in the way. See of this phrase, Gen. 13. 9. & 34. 10.

9 And I spake unto you at that time m, saying, I am not able to bear you my self alone:

m (i. e.) About that time, to wit, a little before their coming to Horeb, Exod. 18. 18.

10 The LORD your God hath multiplied you, and behold, ye are this day as the stars of heaven for multitude.

* 2 Sam. 24. 3.

11 * The LORD God of your fathers make you a thousand times so many moe as ye are, and bless you, * as he hath promised you.

* Gen. 15. 5. & 22. 17. & 26. 4. Exod. 32. 13.

12 How can I my self alone bear your cumbrance, and your burden n, and your strife o?

a Heb. Not know, or acknowledge faces, i. e. Not give sentence according to the outward qualities of the person, as he is poor or rich, your friend or enemy, but purely according to the merits of the cause. For which reason some of the Grecian Law-givers ordered that the Judges should give sentence in the dark, where they could not see mens faces. See the same or like phrase, Deut. 10. 17. 2 Chron. 19. 6, 7. Job 13. 8. Jam. 2. 1, 9. x Persons of the meanest rank. y (i. e.) It is passed in the name of God, and by commission from him, by you as representing his person, and doing his work, who therefore will own and defend you therein against all your enemies, and to whom you must give an exact account.

18 And I commanded you at that time all the things which ye should do z.

z I delivered unto you, and especially unto your Judges, all the Laws, Statutes, and Judgments revealed unto me by the Lord in Horeb.

‖ That is, of Paran, Numb. 10. 12.

19 And when we departed from Horeb, we went through all that great and terrible ‖ wilderness, which ye saw by the way of the mountain of the Amorite, as the LORD our God commanded us, and * we came to Kadesh-barnea.

* Num. 13. 26.

20 And I said unto you, Ye are come unto the mountain of the Amorite, which the LORD our God doth give unto us.

21 Behold, the LORD thy God hath set the land before thee: go up, and possess it, as the LORD God of thy fathers hath said unto thee: fear not, neither be discouraged.

22 And ye came near unto me every one of you, and said, We will send men before us, and they shall search us out the land, and bring us word again, by what way we must go up, and into what cities we shall come.

* Numb. 13. 3.

23 And the saying pleased me well b: and * I took twelve men of you, one of a tribe.

b For there seemed to be some prudence and good policy in it: but Moses could not see into their hearts, nor from what root this desire grew: but God saw it, and therefore in just judgment complied with their desire, and permitted them to do so for their trial and exercise, Numb. 13. 1, 2, 3.

* Num. 13. 24.

24 And * they turned and went up into the mountain, and came unto the valley c of Eshcol d, and searched it out.

c Or, the brook: the word signifies both, for brooks commonly run in valleys. d (i.e.) of grapes, so called from the goodly cluster of grapes which they brought from thence, Num. 13 23.

25 And they took of the fruit e of the land in their hand, and brought it down unto us, and brought us word again, and said, It is a good land f which the LORD our God doth give unto us.

e Grapes, Pomegranates and Figs, Numb. 13 23. f Which acknowledgment coming from its enemies, should have prevailed with you to go in, more than their discouraging words should have beat you off, because the Lord who had given you this land, was unquestionably able to settle you in it in spight of all opposition.

26 Notwithstanding ye would not go up, but rebelled against the commandment of the LORD our God.

27 And ye murmured in your tents, and said, Because the LORD hated us g, he hath brought us forth out of the land of Egypt, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorite, to destroy us.

g And therefore designed to destroy us.

28 Whither shall we go up? our brethren have † discouraged our heart, saying, * The people is greater h and taller than we, the cities are great, and walled up to Heaven i; and moreover, we have seen the sons of the * Anakims k there.

h In number and strength and valour. i (i. e.) To a great height. A common Hyperbole, as Gen. 11. 4. Psal. 107. 26. k The children of Anak or Enak. See Judg. 1. 10, 20.

29 Then I said unto you, Dread not, neither be afraid of them.

30 The LORD your God which goeth before you, he shall fight for you, according to all that he did for you in Egypt l before your eyes;

l Where you were weak, dispirited, divided, raw and unexperienced, and in a great measure unarmed, and able to do nothing against your numerous, potent, united Enemies, but to stand still, and see the salvation of God. And therefore now your your diſtruſt is highly unreaſonable, when you have been hardned and fitted for military ſervice by your travels, diſciplined and experienced in ſome degree as to martial affairs, encouraged by frequent and glorious miracles for 40 years together, and you are going into a Country divided into ſeveral Nations and Kingdoms.

31 And in the wilderneſs where thou haſt ſeen how that the LORD thy God * bare thee m, as a man doth bear his ſon, in all the way that ye went, until ye came into this place.

* Iſa. 63. 9. Hoſ. 11. 3.

m Or, carried thee, as a father carries his weak and tender child in his arms, as Iſa. 49. 22. or as upon Eagles Wings, as it is, Exod. 19. 4. through difficulties and dangers, gently leading you according as you were able to go, and ſuſtaining you by his power and goodneſs. t A common deſcription of the ſtate of childhood, as Jonah 4. 11.

40 But as for you, turn ye, and take your journey into the wilderneſs by the way of the Red-ſea.

41 Then ye anſwered and ſaid unto me, * We have ſinned againſt the LORD, we will go up and fight, according to all that the LORD our God commanded us. And when we have girded on every man his weapons of war, ye were ready u to go up into the hill.

* Num.14.40.

42 And the LORD ſaid unto me, Say unto them, Go not up, neither fight, for I am not among you x: leſt ye be ſmitten before your enemies.

x With my powerful preſence and aſſiſtance.

43 So I ſpake unto you, and ye would not hear, but rebelled againſt the commandment of the LORD, and † went preſumptuouſly up into the hill.

†Heb. ye were preſumptuous, and went up,

44 And the Amorite which dwelt in that mountain came out againſt you, and chaſed you, as bees do y, and deſtroyed you in Seir, even unto Hormah.

45 And ye returned, and wept before the LORD, but the LORD would not hearken to your voice, nor give ear unto you.

46 So ye abode in Kadeſh many days, according unto the days that ye abode there z.

z (i. e.) As you abode in Kadeſh many, even 40 days, until the ſpies which you ſent returned to give you an account, ſo you alſo abode there many days, or a long time after, and were not now permitted to make any further progreſs towards Canaan.

CHAP. II.

1 THen we turned, and took our journey into the wilderneſs, by the way of the Red-ſea, * as the LORD ſpake unto me: and we compaſſed mount Seir a many days b.

* Num.14.25. chap. 1. 40.

a The mountainous Country of Seir or Edom. b Or, Many years, even for 38 years.

2 And the LORD ſpake unto me, ſaying,

3 Ye have compaſſed this mountain long enough, turn ye northward c.

c Towards the land of the Amorites and Canaanites.

4 And command thou the people, ſaying, * Ye are to paſs through the coaſt d of your brethren, the children of Eſau, which dwell in Seir e, and they ſhall be afraid of you f: take ye good heed unto your ſelves therefore.

* Num.20.14.

d Or, by, or near the coaſt or border: for they did not paſs through their borders, as it is ſaid, Numb. 20. 21. And the particle Beth doth oft ſignifie by or near, as Gen. 37. 13. Joſ. 5. 13. Judg. 8. 5. Jer. 32. 7. Thus that difference may be reconciled, which others reconcile thus, that they at firſt denied it, but afterwards granted it. e Theſe words reſtrain the prohibition to theſe particular children of Eſau, for there were another ſort or branch of Eſau's children, which were to be medled with and deſtroyed, even the Amalekites, Exod. 17. 14. Deut. 25. 17. who were Eſaus poſterity, Gen. 36. 12. f But, I charge you take no advantage of their fears, which you will be very apt to do.

5 Meddle not with them f, for I will not give you of their land, † no, not ſo much as a foot-breadth, * becauſe I have given mount Seir unto Eſau for a poſſeſſion.

f To wit, in battel at this time.

* Gen. 36. 8. Joſh. 24. 4.

6 Ye ſhall buy meat of them g for money, that ye may eat, and ye ſhall alſo buy water of them h for money, that ye may drink.

g For tho the Manna did yet rain upon them, they were not forbidden to buy other meats when they had opportunity, but only were forbidden greedily to hunger after them when they could not obtain them. h For water in thoſe parts was ſcarce, and therefore private perſons did ſeverally dig pits for their particular uſe. See Gen. 26. 18. Numb. 21. 18.

7 For the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee i in all the works of thy hand; he knoweth k thy walking through this great wilderneſs: theſe forty years the LORD thy God hath been with thee, thou haſt lacked nothing.

i By Gods bleſſing thou art able to buy thy conveniencies, and therefore thy theft and rapine will be inexcuſable, becauſe without any pretence of neceſſity. k Heb. He hath known, i. e. obſerved, or regarded with care and kindneſs, which that word oft notes, as Pſal. 1. 6. & 31. 7. Which experience of Gods ſingular goodneſs to thee, ſhould make thee truſt him ſtill, and not uſe any indirect and unjuſt practices to procure what thou wanteſt or deſireſt.

8 And when we paſſed by from our brethren, the children of Eſau which dwelt in Seir, through the way of the plain from Elath, and from Ezion-Gaber l, we turned m and paſſed by the way of the wilderneſs of Moab.

l Of which ſee Numb. 33. 35. which may be either that place upon the Red-ſea, 1 King. 9. 26. or another of the ſame name. m To wit, from our direct road which lay through Edoms land.

9 And the LORD ſaid unto me, ‖ Diſtreſs not the Moabites, neither contend with them in battel: for I will not give thee of their land for a poſſeſſion, becauſe I have given Ar n unto the children of Lot o for a poſſeſſion.

n The chief City of the Moabites, Numb. 21. 15, 28. here put for the whole Country which depended upon it. o So called to ſignifie that this preſervation was not for their ſakes, for they were a wicked people; but for Lots ſake, whoſe memory God yet honours.

q Of whom ſee Gen. 14. 6. & 36. 20. r Obj. God had not yet given it unto them. Anſ. 1. The paſt tenſe is here put for the future, will give, after the manner of the Prophets. 2. * Num. 21. 12. ‖ Or, valley.

13 Now riſe up, ſaid I, and get ye over * the ‖ brook Zered: and we went over the brook Zered.

14 And the ſpace in which we came from Kadeſh-barnea, until we were come over the brook Zered, was thirty and eight years, until all the generation of the men of war were waſted out from among the hoſt, as the LORD ſware unto them.

15 For indeed the hand of the LORD was againſt them, to deſtroy them from among the hoſt, until they were conſumed.

16 So it came to paſs when all the men of war were conſumed and dead from among the people,

17 That the LORD ſpake unto me, ſaying,

18 Thou art to paſs over through Ar, the coaſt of Moab ſ, this day.

ſ Or, to paſs by the border of Moab, by Ar.

19 And when thou comeſt nigh over-againſt the children of Ammon, diſtreſs them not, nor meddle with them: for I will not give thee of the land of the children of Ammon any poſſeſſion, becauſe I have given it unto the children of Lot for a poſſeſſion.

20 (That alſo was accounted a land of giants: giants dwelt therein in old time, and the Ammonites call them * Zamzummims t; d Or, with my Foot-men, or with my company which are on foot: which is added ſignificantly, becauſe if their Army had conſiſted as much of Horſemen as many other Armies did, their paſſage through his land might have been more miſchievous and dangerous: but they were generally on foot.

29 (As the children of Eſau which dwell in Seir, and the Moabites which dwell in Ar, did unto me e) until I ſhall paſs over Jordan, into the land which the LORD our God giveth us.

e Obj. The King of Edom, i. e. of the children of Eſau, did not grant them paſſage, Numb. 20. Anſ. They did permit them to paſs quietly by the borders, tho not through the heart of their land; and in their paſſage the people ſold them meat and drink, being it ſeems more kind to them than their King would have had them; and therefore they here aſcribe this favour not to the King, tho they are now treating with a King, but to the people, the children of Eſau.

30 But Sihon King of Heſhbon would not let us paſs by him f: for * the LORD thy God hardened his ſpirit, and made his heart obſtinate g, that he might deliver him into thy hand, as appeareth this day.

k (i. e.) Beyond Jabbok: for that was the border of the Ammonites, Joſ. 12. 2. Obj. Half the land of the Ammonites is ſaid to be given to the tribe of Gad, Joſ. 13. 27. Anſ. This is true of that half of it which the Amorites had taken from them, but not not of the other half which yet was in the poſſeſſion of the Ammonites. l The mountainous Country of the Ammonites. m Heb. commanded us: commanding is put for forbidding here, as Gen. 2. 16. & 3. 11. Lev 4. 2. Deut. 4. 23. The words may be thus rendred, concerning which the Lord gave us command, or charge, to wit, that we ſhould not meddle with them, as was ſaid before. So it is only an Ellipſis of the prepoſition, which is very frequent.

CHAP. III.

1 THen we turned, and went up the way to Baſhan: and * Og the King of Baſhan came out againſt us, he, and all his people to battel at Edrei.

* Num. 21. 33, &c. chap. 29. 7.

2 And the LORD ſaid unto me, Fear him not a: for I will deliver him, and all his people, and his land into thy hand, and thou ſhalt do unto him, as thou didſt unto * Sihon King of the Amorite, which dwelt at Heſhbon.

* Num 21. 24.

a Tho he be of ſo frightful a look and ſtature, ver. 11.

3 So the LORD our God delivered into our hands * Og alſo the King of Baſhan, and all his people: and we ſmote him, until none was left to him remaining.

* Num. 21. 33.

4 And we took all his cities at that time, there was not a city which we took not from them; threeſcore cities, all the region of Argob b the kingdom of Og in Baſhan.

b A Province within Baſhan, or at leaſt ſubject and belonging to Baſhan, as appears from ver. 13. & 1 King. 4. 13. called Argob, poſſibly from the name of a man, its former Lord and Owner.

5 All theſe cities were fenced with high walls, gates, and bars c, beſides unwalled towns a great many.

c Which may encourage you in your attempt upon Canaan notwithſtanding the fenced cities which the ſpies told you of, and you muſt expect to find.

6 And we utterly deſtroyed them, as we did unto Sihon King of Heſhbon, utterly deſtroying the men, women, and children of every city.

7 But all the cattel, and the ſpoil of the cities, we took for a prey to our ſelves.

8 And we took at that time out of the hand of the two Kings of the Amorite, the land that was on this ſide Jordan d, from the river of Arnon, unto mount Hermon:

d So it was when Moſes wrote this book, but afterward when Iſrael paſſed over Jordan, it was called the land beyond Jordan.

9 (Which Hermon the Zidonians call Sirion e: and the Amorite call it Shenir.)

e Elſewhere called mount Gilead, and Libanus or Lebanon, and here Shenir, and Sirion, and, by abbreviation, Sion, Deut. 4. 48. Which ſeveral names are given to this one mountain, partly by ſeveral people, and partly in regard of ſeveral tops and parts of it, whence Schenir and Hermon are mentioned as diſtinct places, Cant. 4. 8.

10 All the cities of the plain, and all Gilead f, and * all Baſhan, unto Salchah and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Baſhan.

* Joſh. 12. 5. & 13. 11.

f Gilead is ſometimes taken largely for all the Iſraelites poſſeſſions beyond Jordan, and ſo it comprehends Baſhan, but here more ſtrictly for that part of it which lies in and near mount Gilead, and ſo it is diſtinguiſhed from Baſhan and Argob.

11 For only Og King of Baſhan remained of the remnant of giants g: behold, his bedſtead was a bedſtead of iron: is it not in * Rabbath of the children of Ammon i? nine cubits was the length thereof, and four cubits the breadth of it, after the cubit of a man k.

* 2 Sam. 12. 26. Jer. 49. 2.

g The other giants of Baſhan were deſtroyed before; and therefore when Og was killed, the Iſraelites work was done. i Where it might now be, either becauſe the Ammonites in ſome former battel with Og, had taken it as a ſpoil: or becauſe after Ogs death, the Ammonites deſired to have this monument of his greatneſs, and the Iſraelites permitted them to carry it away to their chief city. k To wit, of ordinary ſtature. So his bed was four yards and an half long, and two yards broad.

12 And this land which we poſſeſſed at that time from Aroer, which is by the river Arnon, and half mount Gilead, and * the cities thereof, gave I unto the Reubenite, and to the Gadite.

* Num. 32. 33. Joſh. 13. 8, &c.

13 And the reſt of Gilead, and all Baſhan, being the kingdom of Og, gave I unto the half tribe of Manaſſeh: all the Region of Argob, with all Baſhan, which was called the land of giants.

14 * Jair the ſon of Manaſſeh took all the country of Argob, unto the coaſts of Geſhuri l, and Maachathi m, and called them after his own name Baſhan-* Havoth-Jair unto this day n.

* 1 Chro. 2. 22. * Num 32. 41.

l Or, Geſhurites, a people towards the North of Canaan, 2 Sam. 3. 3. & 15. 8. See alſo Joſ. 13. 13. m Of whom ſee 2 Sam 3. 3. & 10. 6. n This muſt be put among thoſe other paſſages which were not written by Moſes, but added by thoſe holy men who digeſted the books of Moſes into this order, and inſerted ſome very few paſſages to accommodate things to their own time and people.

15 And * I gave Gilead o unto Machir p.

* Num 32. 39.

o (i. e.) The half part of Gilead, as appears from ver. 12, 13. See on Numb. 32. 40. p (i. e.) Unto the children of Machir, ſon of Manaſſeh, for Machir was now dead.

16 And unto the Reubenite, and unto the Gadite I gave from Gilead even unto the River Arnon, half the valley q, and the border, even unto the river Jabbok r, * which is the border of the children of Ammon ſ.

* Num. 21. 24. Joſh. 12. 2.

q Or rather to the middle of the River: for the word rendred half ſignifies commonly middle, and the ſame Hebrew word ſignifying both a valley and a brook or river, it ſeems more reaſonable to underſtand it of a River, as the ſame word is here rendred in the next foregoing clauſe of this verſe, than of a valley, which was not mentioned before, eſpecially ſeeing there is here an article added which ſeems to be emphatical, and to note that River, to wit, now mentioned. Add to this, that there was no ſuch valley, much leſs any half-valley, belonging both unto the Reubenites and Gadites. But according to the other tranſlation the ſenſe is plain and agreeable to the truth, that their land extended from Gilead unto Arnon, and, to ſpeak exactly, to the middle of that River; for as that River was the border between them and others, ſo one half of it belonged to them, as the other half did to others. And that this is no ſubtil device, as ſome may think it, but the truth of the things and the real meaning of the place, will appear by comparing this place with two others, 1. with Joſ. 12. 2. where the ſame thing is expreſſed in the ſame words in the Hebrew which are here, tho our tranſlators render the ſelf-ſame words there, from the middle of the River, which here they render, half of the valley; and where the bounds of Sihons Kingdom, which was the ſame portion here mentioned as given to Reuben and Gad, are thus deſcribed, from Aroer, which is upon the bank of the River of Arnon, and from the middle of the River, and from half Gilead, even unto the River Jabbock, which is the border of the children of Ammon. 2. With Deut. 2. 36. From Aroer, which is by the brink of the River of Arnon, and from the city that is by the River, or rather, as the Hebrew hath it, in the River, i. e. from Ar, which was the chief city of the Moabites, and therefore denied to the Iſraelites, as is here implied, and more fully expreſſed Deut. 2. 9. which city was ſeated in an Iſland in the middle of the River. So that here we have a juſt and full reaſon why the border of this land given to Reuben and Gad is ſo nicely and critically deſcribed here, even to the middle of a River, which altho in truth and ſtrictneſs it be the bound of thoſe lands which are divided by a River, yet is not uſually expreſſed in the deſcription of borders, either in Scripture or other Authors, becauſe here was an eminent city of the Moabites in the middle of this River, which by this curious and exact deſcription is excepted from their poſſeſſion, as God would have it to be. r The meaning ſeems to be this, And the border, to wit, of their land, was, which verb ſubſtantive is commonly underſtood, or went forth, (as the phraſe is Joſ. 15. 6, 7, &c.) from thence, to wit, from the River Arnon, even unto the River Jabbock, for ſo indeed their border did proceed. ſ Obj. This was the border between them and the Manaſſites, as is evident, and therefore not the border of the Ammonites. Anſ. It bordered upon the Manaſſites in one part, and upon the Ammonites in another part, to wit, in that part which is remoter from Jordan, and ſo both are true.

17 The plain t alſo, and Jordan, and the coaſt thereof from Chinnereth u, even unto the ſea of the plain x, even the ſalt ſea, ‖ under Aſhdoth Piſgah y eaſtward.

t The Low Country towards Jordan. u Of which ſee on Num. 34. 11. Joſ. 12. 3 x (i.e.) That ſalt Sea, as it here follows, which before that dreadful conflagration was a goodly plain, called the plain of Jordan, Gen. 13. 10. y The proper name of a City, of which Joſ. 13. 20.

18 And I commanded you z at that time, ſaying, The LORD your God hath given you this land to poſſeſs it: * ye ſhall paſſover armed before your brethren, the children of Iſrael, all that are † meet for the war a.

* Num. 32. 20. † Heb. ſons of power.

z To wit, the Reubenites and Gadites mentioned ver. 16. to whom he now turns his ſpeech by an Apoſtrophe. a In ſuch number as your brethren ſhall judge neceſſary. See Joſ. 1. 14. & 4. 13.

19 But your wives, and your little ones, and your cattle (for I know that ye have much cattle) ſhall abide in your cities, which I have given you;

20 Until the LORD have given reſt b unto your brethren, as well as unto you, and until they alſo poſſeſs the land which the LORD your God hath given them beyond Jordan: and then ſhall ye * return every man unto his poſſeſſion which I have given you.

* Joſh. 22. 4.

b A peaceable and fixed poſſeſſion.

21 And * I commanded Joſhua at that time, ſaying, Thine eyes have ſeen all that the LORD your God hath done unto theſe two Kings: ſo ſhall the LORD do unto all the Kingdoms whither thou paſſeſt.

* Num. 27. 18.

22 Ye ſhall not fear them: for the LORD your God he ſhall fight for you.

23 And I beſought the LORD at that time, ſaying,

24 O LORD God, thou haſt begun to ſhew thy ſervant thy greatneſs, and thy mighty hand: for * what God is there in heaven or in earth, that can do according to thy works, and according to thy might?

* Pſal. 86. 8. & 89. 6.

25 I pray thee let me go over c, and ſee the good land that is beyond Jordan, that goodly mountain d, and Lebanon e.

c For he ſuppoſed Gods threatning might be conditional and reverſible, as many others were. d Or, that bleſſed mountain, which the Jews not improbably underſtand of that mountain on which the Temple was to be built. For as Moſes deſired and determined to prepare an habitation for God, Exod. 15. 2. and knew very well that God would chuſe a certain place for his habitation, and to put his name there, Deut. 12. 5. So he alſo knew that it was the manner both of the true Worſhippers of God, and of Idolaters to worſhip their God in high-places, and particularly that Abraham did worſhip God in the mount of Moriah, Gen. 22. 2. and therefore did either reaſonably conjecture that God would chuſe ſome certain mountain for the place of his habitation, or poſſibly underſtood by revelation, that in that very mount of Moriah, where Abraham performed that eminent and glorious act of worſhip, there alſo the children of Abraham ſhould have their place of conſtant and ſettled worſhip. This he ſeems to call that mountain, emphatically and eminently, that which was much in Moſes his thoughts, tho not in his eye, and the bleſſed (as the Hebrew tob oft ſignifies) or the goodly mountain. Or, the mountain may be here put for the mountainous countries, as that word is oft uſed, as Gen. 36. 9. Numb. 13. 29. & 23. 7. Deut. 1. 7. Joſ. 10. 6. & 11. 16, 21, &c. And it is known that a great part of the glory, and beauty and profit of this country lay in its hills or mountains. See Deut. 11. 11. & 33. 15. And that goodly mountain may by an Enallage of the number be put for thoſe goodly mountains in Canaan, which were many. e Thus alſo he proceeds gradually in this deſire and deſcription, and prays that he may ſee in general the good land that is beyond Jordan, and then particularly, the goodly mountains of it, and eſpecially that famous mount of Lebanon, which was ſo celebrated for its tall and large Cedars, and other trees and excellent plants. See Pſal. 29. 5. & 104. 16. Iſa. 2. 13. & 14. 8.

26 But the LORD * was wroth with me for your ſakes f, and would not hear me: and the LORD ſaid unto me, Let it ſuffice thee g, ſpeak no more unto me of this matter.

* Num. 20. 12. & 27. 14. chap. 1. 37. & 32. 51.

f By occaſion of your ſins which provoked me to unadviſed words and carriages, Pſal. 106. 32, 33. See Numb. 20. 12. Deut. 31. 2. & 34. 4. g That this is my pleaſure and unalterable reſolution. Compare 2 Cor. 12. 8, 9.

27 * Get thee up into the top of ‖ Piſgah h, and lift up thine eyes i weſtward, and northward, and ſouthward, and eaſtward, and behold it with thine eyes: for thou ſhalt not go over this Jordan.

CHAP. IV.

1 NOW therefore hearken, O Iſrael, unto the ſtatutes a, and unto the judgments b which I teach you, for to do them, that ye may live, and go in, and poſſeſs the land which the LORD God of your fathers giveth you.

a The Laws which concern the worſhip and ſervice of God. b The Laws concerning your duties to men. So theſe two comprehend both Tables, and the whole Law of God.

2 * Ye ſhall not add unto the word which I command you c, neither ſhall ye diminiſh ought from it d, that ye may keep the commandments of the LORD your God, which I command you.

3 Your eyes have ſeen what the LORD did becauſe of * Baal-peor: for all the men that followed Baal-peor, the LORD thy God hath deſtroyed them from among you.

* Num. 25. 4, &c. Joſh. 22. 17.

4 But ye that did cleave unto the LORD your God, are alive every one of you this day.

5 Behold, I have taught you ſtatutes and judgments, even as the LORD my God commanded me, that ye ſhould do ſo in the land whither ye go to poſſeſs it.

6 Keep therefore, and do them, for this is * your wiſdom and your underſtanding in the ſight of the nations d, which ſhall hear all theſe ſtatutes, and ſay, ſurely this great nation is a wiſe and underſtanding people.

* Job 28. 28. Pſal. 111. 10. Prov. 1. 7.

d For tho the generality of heathen people in the later and degenerate ages of the World, did through inveterate prejudices, and for their own luſts and intereſts condemn the Laws of the Hebrews as fooliſh and abſurd, yet it is moſt certain, that divers of the wiſeſt heathens did highly approve of them, ſo far that they made uſe of divers of them, and tranſlated them into their own Laws and Conſtitutions; and Moſes, the giver of theſe Laws, hath been mentioned with great honour for his Wiſdom and Learning by many of them. And particularly the old Heathen Oracle expreſly ſaid, That the Chaldeans or Hebrews, who worſhipped the uncreated God, were the only wiſe men.

7 For * what nation is there ſo great, who hath † God * ſo nigh unto them e, as the LORD our God is in all things that we call upon him for?

* 2 Sam. 7. 23. † Heb. A God. So Gr. * Pſal. 46. 1. & 145, 18. & 148. 14. Iſa. 55. 6.

e By glorious miracles by the pledges of his ſpecial preſence, by the operations of his grace, and particularly, as it here follows, by his readineſs to hear our prayers, and to give us thoſe ſuccours which we call upon him for.

8 And what nation is there ſo great, that hath ſtatutes and judgments ſo righteous f, as all this law which I ſet before you this day?

f Whereby he implies that the true greatneſs of a nation doth not conſiſt in pomp or power, or largeneſs of Empire, as commonly men think, but in the righteouſneſs of its laws.

25 When thou ſhalt beget children, and childrens children, and ſhalt have remained long in the land, and ſhall corrupt your ſelves, and make a graven image, or the likeneſs of any thing, and ſhall do evil in the ſight of the LORD z thy God, to provoke him to anger:

z Which words are here added, either, 1. As a caution, Your Idolatry, tho poſſibly ſecretly and cunningly managed, will not be hid from him, he ſees it, and he will puniſh it. Or, 2. To aggravate their ſpiritual whoredom, as being committed in the ſight and preſence of their Lord and Husband, whoſe eye is more peculiarly upon them in all their ways, than it is upon other people. Or, 3. By way of oppoſition unto mens judgment. Idolatry oft-times ſeems good, and reaſonable, and religious in the eyes of men, but, ſaith he, it is evil in the eyes of the Lord, whoſe judgment is moſt conſiderable.

26 I call heaven and earth a to witneſs againſt you this day, that ye ſhall ſoon utterly periſh from off the land whereunto you go over Jordan to poſſeſs it; ye ſhall not prolong your days upon it; but ſhall utterly be deſtroyed.

a Either, 1. Figuratively, i. e. God, and Angels, and Men. Or rather, 2. Properly; it being uſual in Scripture to call in the ſenceleſs Creatures as witneſſes in ſuch caſes, as Deut. 32.1. Iſa. 1.2. Jer. 2.12.

27 And the LORD * ſhall ſcatter you among the nations, and ye ſhall be left † few in number among the heathen, whither the LORD ſhall lead you.

* Lev. 26.33. chap. 28.64. Neh. 1.8. † Heb. men of number.

28 And * there ye ſhall ſerve gods b, the work of mens hands, wood and ſtone, * which neither ſee, nor hear, nor eat, nor ſmell.

* ch. 28.36.64. Jer. 16.13. * Pſal. 115.4, 5. & 135.15. Iſa. 45.20. & 46.7.

b (i. e.) Idols. You ſhall be compelled by men, and given up by me to Idolatry. So that very thing which was your choice, ſhall be your puniſhment: it being juſt and uſual for God to puniſh one ſin by giving them up to another, as is manifeſt from Rom. 1.24, 25.

29 * But if from thence thou ſhalt ſeek the LORD thy God, thou ſhalt find him, if thou ſeek him c with all thy heart d, and with all thy ſoul.

* Lev. 26.40. chap. 30.1. Neh. 1.9.

c If thou deſireſt his help and favour. See Deut. 30.1. Iſa. 55.6. d (i. e.) ſincerely and fervently.

30 When thou art in tribulation, and all theſe things † are come upon thee, even in the latter days e, if thou turn to the LORD thy God, and ſhalt be obedient unto his voice:

e Either in general, in ſucceeding ages and generations: or particularly, in the days of the Meſſias, which are commonly called in Scripture the latter, or laſt days, as Iſa. 2.2. Hoſ. 3.5. Mich. 4.1. Dan. 2.44. Heb. 1.2. & 9.26. And ſo this may reſpect the converſion and redemption of the Jewiſh Nation, even in thoſe times when their caſe ſeems moſt deſperate, when they have forſaken their God, and rejected their Meſſias for many ages, to wit, towards the end of the World.

31 (For the LORD thy God is a merciful God) he will not forſake thee, neither deſtroy thee, nor forget the covenant of thy fathers f, which he ſware unto them.

f (i. e.) Made with thy fathers, including their poſterity, as Gen. 17. 7.

32 For ask now of the days that are paſt, which were before thee, ſince the day that God created man upon the earth, and ask from the one ſide of heaven g unto the other, whether there hath been any ſuch thing, as this great thing is or hath been heard like it:

g (i. e.) Of the earth under heaven. Ask all the inhabitants of the World. Compare Mat. 24. 31. with Mark 13. 27.

33 Did ever people hear the voice of God ſpeaking out of the midſt of the fire, as thou haſt heard, and live h?

(i. e.) And was not overwhelmed and conſumed by ſuch a glorious appearance. See Exod. 24. 11. & 33. 20.

34 Or hath God aſſayed to go and take him a nation from the midſt of another nation, * by temptations i, by ſigns, and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty hand, and by a ſtretched-out arm, and by great terrors k, according to all that the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes?

i By tribulations and perſecutions, which are commonly called temptations, which are here fitly mentioned as one great occaſion firſt of their cries unto God, and then of Gods coming for their reſcue. Or, temptations is the general title, which is explained by the following particulars, ſigns and wonders, &c. which are called temptations, becauſe they were trials both to the Egyptians and Iſraelites, whether thereby they would be induced to believe and obey God or no. k Raiſed in the minds of the Egyptians, as the Hiſtory ſheweth: compare Deut. 2. 25. & 34. 12. or, by terrible things done among them.

35 Unto thee it was ſhewed, that thou mighteſt know, that the LORD he is God, * there is none elſe beſides him.

36 * Out of heaven t he made thee to hear his voice, that he might inſtruct thee: and upon earth u he ſhewed thee his great fire, and thou heardeſt his words out of the midſt of the fire.

t (i. e.) Out of the air, above Mount Sinai. See Exod. 19. 9. & 20. 18, 22. u At the top of Mount Sinai.

37 And becauſe he loved thy fathers, therefore he choſe their ſeed after them, and brought thee out in his ſight x with his mighty power out of Egypt;

x Keeping his eye fixed upon him, as the Father doth on his beloved child. Or, with his preſence, i. e. He did not ſend them forth by Moſes, but he himſelf was preſent with them, and as it were, marched along with them in the pillar of cloud and fire.

38 To drive out nations from before thee, greater and mightier than thou art, to bring thee in, to give thee their land for an inheritance, as it is this day.

39 Know therefore this day, and conſider it in thine heart, that * the LORD he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath, there is none elſe.

* Joſh. 2. 11.

40 Thou ſhalt keep therefore his ſtatutes, and his commandments, which I command thee this day, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee: and that thou mayeſt prolong thy days upon the earth, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for ever.

41 Then Moſes ſevered three cities y on this ſide Jordan toward the ſun-riſing.

y As God had commanded him, Numb. 35. 6, 14.

42 That the ſlayer might flee thither, which ſhould kill his neighbour unawares, and hated him not in times paſt; and that fleeing unto one of theſe cities, he might live:

43 Namely, * Bezer in the wilderneſs, in the plain country of the Reubenite; and Ramoth in Gilead of the Gadite, and Golan in Baſhan of the Manaſſite.

* Joſh. 20. 8.

44 And this z is the law which Moſes ſet before the children of Iſrael:

z Which hath been generally intimated already, but is more particularly and punctually expreſſed in the following chapter, to which theſe words are a preface.

45 Theſe are the teſtimonies, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments which Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, after they came forth out of Egypt;

46 On this ſide Jordan, * in the valley over-againſt Beth-Peor, in the land of Sihon King of the Amorite, who dwelt at Heſhbon, whom Moſes and the children of Iſrael * ſmote, after they were come forth out of Egypt.

* chap. 3. 29.

* Num. 21. 24. 34. chap. 1. 4.

47 And they poſſeſſed his land, and the land of * Og king of Baſhan, two kings of the Amorite, which were on this ſide Jordan toward the ſun-riſing.

* Num. 21. 33. chap. 3. 3.

48 From Aroer, which is by the bank of the river Arnon, even unto Mount Sion, which is * Hermon;

* chap. 3. 9. Pſal. 133. 3.

49 And all the plain on this ſide Jordan, eaſtward, even unto the ſea of the plain under the * ſprings of Piſgah.

* chap. 3. 17.

CHAP. V.

1 AND Moſes called all Iſrael a, and ſaid unto them, Hear, O Iſrael, the ſtatutes and Judgments, which I ſpeak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and † keep, and do them.

a To wit, by their Elders, who were to impart it to the reſt.

2 * The LORD our God made a covenant with us in Horeb.

* Exod. 19. 5.

3 The LORD * made not the covenant with our fathers b, but with us: even us, who are all of us here alive this day c.

* See Mat. 13. 17. Heb. 8. 9.

b Either 1. Not only with them, the word only being here underſtood, as it is Gen. 32. 28. & 35. 10. 1 Sam. 8. 7. Jer. 7. 19. & 31. 34. Mat. 9. 13. Or, 2. Not at all with them. But then the word Covenant is not here to be taken for the Covenant of Grace in general, for ſo it was made with their fathers, Exod. 2. 24. but for this particular and mixed diſpenſation of the Covenant at Sinai, as appears both by the foregoing and following words. c He ſaith not, that all who made that Covenant at Sinai are now alive, for many of them were dead, but that this Covenant was made with all that are now alive, which is moſt true, for it was made with the elder ſort of them in their own perſons, and with the reſt in their Parents, who did covenant for them: for this phraſe with us, is put excluſively as to their fathers, but not as to their poſterity, as is evident from the nature of the Covenant, Acts 2. 39. and courſe of the ſtory.

4 * The LORD talked with you face to face d, in the mount out of the midſt of the fire.

* Ex. 19. 9. 19.

d Not in a viſible ſhape, which was utterly denied, Deut. 4. 12, 15. but perſonally and immediately, not by the mouth or miniſtry of Moſes; plainly and certainly, as when two men talk face to face; freely and familiarly, ſo as not to overwhelm and confound you. Compare Exod. 33. 11. Numb. 12. 8.

5 (I ſtood between the LORD and you e at that time, to ſhew you the word of the LORD f: for ye were afraid, by reaſon of the fire, and went not up into the mount) ſaying, e As a Mediator or Meſſenger between you, according to your deſire, below v. 27. Compare Exod. 19. 16, &c. & 20. 19. Gal. 3. 19. f Not the Ten Commandments, which God himſelf uttered, but the following ſtatutes and judgments.

6 * I am the LORD thy God h, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of † bondage,

* Ex. 20. 2, &c. Lev. 26. 1. Pſal. 81. 10.

h The Ten Commandments delivered Exod. 20. are here repeated with ſome ſmall difference of words, but the ſence is perfectly the ſame, and therefore the explication of them muſt be fetched thence.

7 Thou ſhalt have none other gods before me.

8 Thou ſhalt not make thee any graven image, or any likeneſs of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters beneath the earth.

9 Thou ſhalt not bow down thy ſelf unto them, nor ſerve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, * viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me;

* Exod. 34. 7.

10 * And ſhewing mercy unto thouſands, of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

* Jer. 32. 18.

11 Thou

11 Thou ſhalt not take the Name of the LORD thy God in vain: for the LORD will not hold him guiltleſs that taketh his Name in vain.

12 Keep i the ſabbath-day to ſanctifie it, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee k.

i To wit, in mind and memory, as it is Exod. 20. 8. k To wit, in Exod. 20. whither he directs them, and therefore he here omits the Argument of the Creation, which is urged there.

13 Six days thou ſhalt labour, and do all thy work.

* Gen. 2. 2. Heb. 4. 4. 14 But the ſeventh day is the * ſabbath of the LORD thy God, in it thou ſhalt not do any work, thou, nor thy ſon, nor thy daughter, nor thy man-ſervant, nor thy maid-ſervant, nor thine ox, nor thine aſs, nor any of thy cattel, nor thy ſtranger that is within thy gates; that thy man-ſervant, and thy maid-ſervant may reſt as well as thou.

15 And remember that thou waſt a ſervant l in the land of Egypt, and that the LORD thy God brought thee out thence through a mighty hand, and by a ſtretched-out arm: therefore the LORD thy God commanded thee to keep the ſabbath day.

l And therefore art highly obliged both to ſerve that God who redeemed thee, eſpecially upon his own day, and not to grudge thy ſervants their reſt upon that day.

* chap. 27. 16. Col. 3. 20. 16 * Honour thy father and thy mother, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee, that thy days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with thee, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

* Mat. 5. 21. 17 * Thou ſhalt not kill.

* Luke 18. 20. 18 * Neither ſhalt thou commit adultery.

* Rom. 13. 9. 19 * Neither ſhalt thou ſteal.

26 Neither ſhalt thou bear falſe witneſs againſt thy neighbour.

* Rom. 7. 7. 21 * Neither ſhalt thou deſire thy neighbours wife, neither ſhalt thou covet thy neighbours houſe m, his field, or his man-ſervant, or his maid-ſervant, his ox, or his aſs, or any thing that is thy neighbours.

m In Exod. 20. the order is contrary, and the neighbours houſe is put before his wife, whereby it is evident, that Moſes intended this but for one Commandment, wherein the order of the words was an inconſiderable circumſtance: for if this were two commandments, as ſome would have it, it would be altogether uncertain which is the Ninth, and which the Tenth Commandment, ſeeing the one is firſt, Exod. 20. and the other here.

22 Theſe words the LORD ſpake unto all your aſſembly in the mount, out of the midſt of the fire, of the cloud, and of the thick darkneſs, with a great voice, and he added no more n, and * he wrote them in two tables of ſtone, and delivered them unto me. *Exod. 24. 12.

n He ceaſed for that time to ſpeak immediately, and with that loud voice unto the people, for the reſt were delivered to Moſes, and by him communicated to the people. This he did to ſhew the preeminency of that Law above the reſt, and its Everlaſting Obligation.

*Exod. 20. 18. 23 * And it came to paſs, when ye heard the voice out of the midſt of the darkneſs (for the mountain did burn with fire) that ye came near unto me, even all the heads of your tribes, and your elders.

24 And ye ſaid, Behold, the LORD our God hath ſhewed us his glory and his greatneſs, and * we have heard his voice out of the midſt of the fire: we have ſeen this day that God doth talk with man, and * he liveth. *Exod. 19. 19. * chap. 4. 33.

† Heb. add to hear. 25 Now therefore why ſhould we die o? for this great fire will conſume us, If we † hear the voice of the LORD our God any more, then we ſhall die.

o For tho God hath for this ſeaſon kept us alive to our admiration, yet we ſhall never be able to endure any further diſcourſe from him in ſuch a terrible manner, but ſhall certainly ſink under the burden of it. Compare Gen. 16. 13. Judg. 6. 22.

26 For who is there of all fleſh p, that hath heard the voice of the living God, ſpeaking out of the midſt of the fire (as we have) and lived?

p Fleſh is here put for Man in his frail corruptible and mortal ſtate, as Mat. 16. 17. 1 Cor. 15. 50. Eph. 6. 12. Heb. 2. 14.

27 Go thou near, and hear all that the LORD our God ſhall ſay, and * ſpeak thou unto us all that the LORD our God ſhall ſpeak unto thee, and we will hear it, and do it. *Exod. 20. 19.

28 And the LORD heard the voice of your words, when ye ſpake unto me, and the LORD ſaid unto me, I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they have ſpoken unto thee: * they have well ſaid all that they have ſpoken. * Deut. 18. 17.

29 † * O that there were ſuch an heart in them q that they would fear me, and keep all my commandments always, that it might be well with them, and with their children for ever! † Heb. who will give their heart to be ſuch in them. * chap. 32. 29.

q Heb. Who will give them ſuch an heart? This is ſpoken of God after the manner of men, to ſhew that ſuch an heart is deſirable to him, and required by him: otherwiſe it is certain that God can give ſuch an heart, and hath promiſed to give it, Jer. 32. 40. Ezek. 36. 27. And if God will work, who can hinder him, Job 11. 10. Pſa. 81. 13. Iſa. 48. 18. Mat. 23. 37.

30 Go, ſay to them, Get ye into your tents again.

31 But as for thee, ſtand thou here by me, and I will ſpeak unto thee all the commandments, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments which thou ſhalt teach them, that they may do them in the land which I give them to poſſeſs it.

32 Ye ſhall obſerve to do therefore as the LORD your God hath commanded you: * ye ſhall not turn aſide to the right hand, or to the left r. * chap. 17. 20. & 28. 14. Joſh. 1. 7.

r Neither by ſuperſtitious additions to Gods Commands, nor by a bold or prophane rejection or contempt of any one of them.

33 Ye ſhall walk in all the ways which the LORD your God hath commanded you, that ye may live, and that it may be well with you, and that ye may prolong your days, in the land which ye ſhall poſſeſs.

CHAP. VI.

1 NOW theſe are the commandments, the ſtatutes, and the judgments which the LORD your God commanded to teach you, that ye might do them in the land whither ye † go to poſſeſs it. † Heb. paſs over.

2 That thou mightieſt fear the LORD a thy God, to keep all his ſtatutes; and his commandments which I command thee, thou and thy ſon, and thy ſons ſon, all the days of thy life: and that thy days may be prolonged.

a Which he hereby implies to be the firſt principle of true Obedience.

3 Hear therefore, O Iſrael, and obſerve to do it, that it may be well with thee, and that ye may increaſe mightily, as the LORD God of thy fathers hath promiſed thee, in the land that floweth with milk and honey.

4 * Hear O Iſrael, † the LORD our God is one LORD b. *Mark 12. 29. † Heb. the LORD our God, the LORD is one. So Gr.

b One in Eſſence, and the only Object of our Worſhip.

5 And * thou ſhalt love the LORD c thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul, and with all thy might. * chap. 10. 12. Mat. 22. 37. Mark 12. 30. Luke 10. 27.

c Now he ſhews another ſpring or principle of ſincere obedience to God, even hearty love to God, which will make his work and ſervice eaſie, and that the fear he mentioned before, v. 2. was ſuch as would conſiſt with love to God, and not that ſlaviſh fear and honour which produceth hatred.

6 And * theſe words which I command thee this day ſhall be in thine heart d. * chap. 11. 18. Pſal. 37. 31. & 40. 8. & 119. 98. Iſa. 51. 7.

d (i.e.) In thy mind to remember them, and meditate upon them, and in thy affection to love and purſue them.

7 And thou ſhalt * † teach them diligently unto thy children, and ſhalt talk of them when thou ſitteſt in thine houſe, and when thou walk- e * chap. 4. 9. † Heb. whet or sharpen.

eſt by the way, and when thou lieſt down, and when thou riſeſt up.

e Heb. Whet, or ſharpen them, ſo as they may pierce deep into their hearts. This Metaphor ſignifies the manner of inſtructing them, that it is to be done diligently, earneſtly, frequently, diſcreetly, and dexterouſly.

* chap. 11. 18. † Heb. for frontlets.

8 And thou ſhalt * bind them for a ſign upon thine hand, and they ſhall be † as frontlets between thine eyes f.

f Thou ſhalt give all diligence, and uſe all means to keep them in thy remembrance, as men oft-times bind ſomething upon their hands, or put it before their eyes to prevent forgetfulneſs of a thing which they much deſire to remember. Compare Prov. 3. 3. & 6. 21. & 7. 3. See the notes on Exod. 13. 16.

* chap. 11. 20. Iſa. 57. 8.

9 * And thou ſhalt write them upon the poſts of thy houſe, and on thy gates.

10 And it ſhall be, when the LORD thy God ſhall have brought thee into the land, which he ſware unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob, to give thee great and goodly cities * which thou buildeſt not;

* Pſal. 105 44.

11 And houſes full of all good things which thou filledſt not, and wells digged which thou diggedſt not, vineyards and olive-trees which thou plantedſt not, * when thou ſhalt have eaten, and be full;

* chap. 8. 10, &c.

12 Then beware leſt thou forget the LORD which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of † bondage.

† Heb. Bondmen or ſervants.

13 Thou ſhalt * fear the LORD thy God, and ſerve him, and ſhalt ſwear g by his name h.

* chap. 10. 12. 20. & 13. 4. Mat. 4. 10. Luke 4. 8.

g When thou haſt a call and juſt cauſe to ſwear. h Underſtand only, as Deut. 5. 2. not by Idols, or any Creatures.

14 Ye ſhall not go after other gods, of the gods of the people which are round about you:

15 (For the LORD thy God is a jealous God among you i) leſt the anger of the LORD thy God be kindled againſt thee, and deſtroy thee from off the face of the earth.

i Heb. in the midſt of you, to ſee and obſerve all your ways and your turnings aſide to other Gods.

* Mat. 4. 7. Luke 4. 12. * Exod. 17. 2. Num. 20. 4.

16 * Ye ſhall not tempt the LORD k your God * as ye tempted him in Maſſah.

k (i. e.) Not provoke him, as the following inſtance explains. Sinners, eſpecially preſumptuous ſinners, are oft ſaid to tempt God, i. e. to make a trial of God, whether he be what he pretends to be; ſo wiſe as to ſee their ſins, ſo juſt and true and powerful as to take vengeance on them for their ſins, concerning which they are very apt to doubt, becauſe of the preſent impunity and proſperity of many ſuch perſons. See Numb. 14. 22. Pſal. 78. 18. Mat. 4. 7. Acts 5. 9.

17 Ye ſhall diligently keep the commandments of the LORD your God, and his teſtimonies, and his ſtatutes which he hath commanded thee.

18 And thou ſhalt do that which is right and good in the ſight of the LORD l, that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayeſt go in, and poſſeſs the good land which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers:

l Not that which is right in thine own eyes, as many ſuperſtitious and ſinful practices ſeem right and good to evil-minded men. Let Gods will and word, and not thine own fancy or invention, be thy rule in Gods ſervice. Good actions are oft ſaid to be right in Gods ſight, as Jer. 34. 15. Acts 4. 19. and evil actions are oft ſaid to be right in our own eyes, as Deut. 12. 8. Judg. 17. 6.

* Num. 33. 52.

19 * To caſt out all thine enemies from before thee, as the LORD hath ſpoken.

† Heb. to morrow.

20 And when thy ſon asketh thee † in time to come, ſaying, What mean the teſtimonies, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments which the LORD our God hath commanded you?

21 Then thou ſhalt ſay unto thy ſon, we were Pharaohs bondmen in Egypt, and the LORD brought us out of Egypt * with a mighty hand.

* Exod. 3. 19. & 13. 3.

† Heb. evil.

22 And the LORD ſhewed ſigns and wonders, great and † ſore upon Egypt, upon Pharaoh, and upon all his houſhold before our eyes:

23 And he brought us out from thence, that he might bring us in, to give us the land which he ſware unto our fathers.

24 And the LORD commanded us to do all theſe ſtatutes, to fear the LORD our God for our good m always, that he might preſerve us alive as it is this day.

m The benefit of obedience is ours, not Gods, Job 35. 7. and therefore our obedience is highly reaſonable, and abſolutely neceſſary.

† Heb. and righteouſneſs ſhall be to us. Gr. mercy ſhall be to us. See chap. 24. 13. * Rom. 10. 5.

25 † And it * ſhall be our righteouſneſs n, if we obſerve to do all theſe commandments, before the LORD our God, as he hath commanded us.

n Heb. Righteouſneſs ſhall be to us. We ſhall be owned and pronounced by God to be truly righteous and holy perſons, if we ſincerely obey him, otherwiſe we ſhall be declared to be unrighteous and ungodly perſons, and all our profeſſion of Religion will appear to be in Hypocriſie. Or, mercy ſhall be to us or with us. For as the Hebrew word rendred righteouſneſs, is very oft put for mercy, as Pſal. 24. 5. & 36. 10. & 51. 14. Prov. 10. 2. & 11. 4. Dan. 9. 16, &c. ſo this ſence ſeems beſt to agree both with the Scripture uſe of this phraſe, in which righteouſneſs ſeldom or never, to my remembrance, but grace or mercy frequently is ſaid to be to us, or with us, as 2 Sam. 15. 20. Pſal. 89. 24. Prov. 14. 22. Gal. 6. 16. 2 John 3. and with the foregoing verſe and argument, God, ſaith he, v. 24. commanded theſe things for our good, that he might preſerve us alive, as it is this day. And, ſaith he in this verſe, this is not all, for as he hath done us good, ſo he will go on to do us more and more good, and Gods mercy ſhall be to us, or with us in the remainder of our lives, and for ever, if we obſerve, &c.

CHAP. VII.

* chap. 31. 3.

1 WHen the * LORD thy God ſhall bring thee into the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it, and hath caſt out many nations before thee, the Hittites, and the Girgaſhites, and the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, ſeven Nations a greater and mightier than thou:

a There were ten in Gen. 15. 19. But this being ſome hundreds of years after that, it is not ſtrange if three of them were either deſtroyed by foreign or domeſtick Wars, or by cohabitation and marriage, united with, and ſwallowed up in ſome of the reſt.

* Num. 33. 52. Joſh. 6. 17. & 8. 24. & 10. 28, 40. & 11. 11, 12. * Exod. 23. 32. & 34. 12, 15. † Heb. cut no covenant with them. See Joſh. 2. 14. & 9. 15. Judg. 1. 24.

2 And when the LORD thy God ſhall deliver them before thee, thou ſhalt ſmite them, and * utterly deſtroy them, * thou ſhalt † make no covenant with them b, nor ſhew mercy unto them.

b To ſpare them, or permit them to dwell with thee in the land. Other Nations had more favour, but theſe were, for their great wickedneſs, and for the good of Iſrael, devoted to utter deſtruction.

3 Neither ſhalt thou make marriages with them, thy daughter thou ſhalt not give unto his ſon, nor his daughter ſhalt thou not take unto thy ſon.

4 For they will turn away thy ſon from following me, that they may ſerve other gods c: ſo will the anger of the LORD be kindled againſt you, and deſtroy thee ſuddenly.

c (i. e.) There is manifeſt danger of Apoſtacy and Idolatry from ſuch matches. Which reaſon doth both limit the Law to ſuch of theſe as were unconverted, otherwiſe Salmon married Rahab, Mat. 1. 5. and enlarge it to other Idolatrous Nations, as appears from 1 Kings 11. 2. Ezra 9. 2. Neh. 13. 23.

* Exod. 23. 24. † Heb. ſtatues or pillars.

5 But thus ſhall ye deal with them; ye ſhall * deſtroy their altars, and break down their † images, and cut down their groves d, and burn their graven images with fire.

d Which Idolaters planted about the Temples and Altars of their Gods. Hereby God deſigned to take away whatſoever might bring their Idolatry to remembrance, or occaſion the reviving of it.

* chap 14. 2. & 26. 19. * Exod. 19. 5. Amos 3. 2. 1 Pet. 2. 9.

6 * For thou art a holy people unto the LORD thy God: * the LORD thy God hath choſen thee to be a ſpecial people unto himſelf, above all people that are upon the face of the earth.

7 The LORD did not ſet his love upon you, nor chooſe you, becauſe ye were moe in number than any people: (for ye were the feweſt of all people e.)

e To wit, at that time when God firſt declared his love to you, and choice of you for his peculiar people, which was done to Abraham. For Abraham had but one Son concerned in this choice and covenant, to wit, Iſaac, and that was in his hundredth year; and Iſaac was 60 years old ere he had a child, and then had only two children; and tho Jacob had 12 Sons, yet it was a long time ere they made any conſiderable increaſe. Nor do we read of any great multiplication of them till after Joſeph's death, Exod. 1. 6, 7.

8 But becauſe the LORD loved you f, and becauſe he would keep the oath which he had ſworn unto your fathers, hath the LORD brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the houſe of bondmen, from the hand of Pharaoh King of Egypt.

f (i.e.) Becauſe it pleaſed him to love you, it was his free choice, without any cauſe or motive on your part. Compare Deut. 10. 15. 1 Sam. 12. 22. Pſal. 44. 3.

* Exod. 20. 6. 9 Know therefore that the LORD thy God, he is God, the faithful God g, * which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him, and keep his commandments, to a thouſand generations:

g True to his word, and conſtant in performing all his promiſes.

h Not only thoſe who hate him directly and properly, (for ſo did few or none of the Iſraelites to whom he here ſpeaks,) but thoſe who hate him by conſtruction and conſequence, thoſe who hate and oppoſe his People, and Word, and Image, thoſe who preſumptuouſly and wilfully perſiſt in the breach of Gods Commandments, as appears from v. 9. where the love of God, to which this hatred is oppoſite, is deſcribed and expreſſed by the keeping of his commandments. i (i. e.) Openly, and ſo as they ſhall ſee it, and not be able to avoid it. k To wit, ſo as ſome men count ſlackneſs, 2 Pet. 3. 9. ſo as to delay it beyond the fit time or ſeaſon for vengeance, yet withal he is long-ſuffering, and ſlow to anger, as that and other places inform us.

11 Thou ſhalt therefore keep the commandments, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments which I command thee this day, to do them.

* Lev. 26. 3. chap. 28. 1. † Heb. becauſe. 12 * Wherefore it ſhall come to paſs, † if ye hearken to theſe judgments, and keep and do them, that the LORD thy God ſhall keep unto thee the covenant and the mercy l which he ſware unto thy fathers.

l (i.e.) The Covenant of Mercy or Grace, which he, out of his own meer grace, made with them. A figure called Hendiaduo.

13 And he will love thee m, and bleſs thee, and multiply thee: he will alſo bleſs the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy land, thy corn, and thy wine and thine oyl, the increaſe of thy kine, and the flocks of thy ſheep, in the land which he ſware unto thy fathers to give thee.

m He will continue to love thee, and to manifeſt his love to thee, he will not repent of his love to thee.

* Exod. 23. 26, &c. 14 Thou ſhalt be bleſſed above all people: * there ſhall not be male or female barren among you, or among your cattel.

* Exod. 9. 14. & 15. 26. 15 And the LORD will take away from thee all ſickneſs, and will put none of the * evil diſeaſes of Egypt n (which thou knoweſt) upon thee, but will lay them upon all them that hate thee.

n Such as the Egyptians were infeſted with, either commonly, as that botch, Deut. 28. 27. or miraculouſly and extraordinarily from the hand of the Lord, as Exod. 9. 10, 15. Compare Exod. 23. 25. Pſal. 105. 37.

† Heb. giveth thee. *Exod. 23. 33. 16 And thou ſhalt conſume all the people which the LORD thy God † ſhall deliver thee, thine eye ſhall have no pity upon them, neither ſhalt thou ſerve their Gods, for that will be a * ſnare o unto thee.

o An occaſion of ſin and utter deſtruction. See Exod. 23. 33. & 34. 12. Judg. 2. 3.

17 If thou ſhalt ſay in thine heart, Theſe nations are moe than I, how can I diſpoſſeſs them?

18 Thou ſhalt not be afraid of them: but ſhalt well remember p what the LORD thy God did unto Pharaoh, and unto all Egypt;

p Heb. Remembring, remember, i. e. remember it frequently, conſiderately, practically, and for thy encouragement, for men are ſaid to forget thoſe things which they do not remember to good purpoſe.

19 * The great temptations q which thine eyes ſaw, and the ſigns, and the wonders, and the mighty hand, and the ſtretched-out arm, whereby the LORD thy God brought thee out: ſo ſhall the LORD thy God do unto all the people of whom thou art afraid r. * chap. 4. 34. & 29. 3.

q The Trials and Exerciſes of thy Faith and Obedience to my call and commands. r So as he did to Pharaoh and his people, mentioned v. 18.

20 * Moreover, the LORD thy God will ſend the hornet ſ among them, until they that are left and hide themſelves from thee, be deſtroyed. *Exod. 23. 28. Joſh. 24. 12.

ſ Of which, ſee on Exod. 23. 28.

21 Thou ſhalt not be affrighted at them: for the LORD thy God is among you, a mighty God, and terrible.

22 And the LORD thy God will † put out thoſe nations before thee by little and little: thou mayeſt not conſume them at once t, leſt the beaſt of the field increaſe upon thee. † Heb. pluck off.

t Or, Thou ſhalt not be able to conſume them at once, i. e. in an inſtant. I will not aſſiſt thee with my Omnipotency, to cruſh them in a moment, but will bleſs thee in the uſe of ordinary means, and deſtroy them ſucceſſively by ſeveral battles.

23 But the LORD thy God ſhall deliver them † unto thee, and ſhall deſtroy them with a mighty deſtruction, until they be deſtroyed. † Heb. before thy face.

24 And * he ſhall deliver their Kings into thine hand, and thou ſhalt deſtroy their name from under heaven: there ſhall no man be able to ſtand before thee, until thou have deſtroyed them u. * Joſh. 12. 1.

u This promiſe is made upon condition of their performance of their duty, which they neglecting, they juſtly loſe the benefit of it, as we ſee, Judg. 2. 1, 2, 3.

25 The graven images of their gods * ſhall ye burn with fire: thou * ſhalt not deſire the ſilver or gold that is on them x, nor take it unto thee, leſt thou be * ſnared therein: for it is an abomination to the LORD thy God. * chap. 12. 3. Exod. 32. 20. * Joſh. 7. 1, 21. * Pſal. 106. 36.

x Wherewith the Idols are covered or adorned, nor conſequently any other of their Ornaments. This he commands, to ſhew his utter deteſtation of Idolatry, and to cut off all occaſions of it.

26 Neither ſhalt thou bring an abomination into thy houſe, leſt thou be a curſed thing y like it: but thou ſhalt utterly deteſt it, and thou ſhalt utterly abhor it: for * it is a curſed thing. * chap. 13. 17.

y (i.e.) Devoted to utter deſtruction, as that was. See Joſ. 7. 11, 21, 24, &c. Lev. 27. 28.

CHAP. VIII.

1 ALL the commandments which I command thee this day, ſhall ye obſerve to do, that ye may live a, and multiply, and go in, and poſſeſs the land which the LORD ſware unto your fathers.

a (i. e.) Live comfortably and happily, as life is oft taken, as Gen. 17. 18. Prov. 3. 2. as on the contrary troubles or afflictions are called Death. Exod. 10. 17. 2 Cor. 11. 23.

2 And thou ſhalt remember all the way b which the LORD thy God led thee theſe forty years in the wilderneſs, to humble thee, and to * prove thee, to know c what was in thine heart, whether thou wouldeſt keep his commandments or no. * chap. 13. 3.

b (i. e.) All the events which befel thee in the way, the miraculous protections, deliverances, proviſions, inſtructions which God gave thee, and withal the frequent and ſevere puniſhments of thy diſobedience. c (i. e.) That thou mighteſt diſcover to thy ſelf and others that infidelity, inconſtancy, hypocriſie, apoſtacy, rebellion and perverſeneſs, which lay hid in thy heart; the diſcovery whereof was of ſingular uſe both to them, and to the Church of God in all ſucceeding ages.

3 And he humbled thee, and * ſuffered thee to hunger, and fed thee with * Manna (which thou kneweſt not, neither did thy fathers know) that he might make thee know, that man doth * not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the LORD d doth man live. * Exod. 16. 3. *Exod. 16. 12, 14. * Mat. 4. 4. Luke 4. 4.

d (i. e.) By every or any thing which God appoints for this end, how unlikely soever it may seem to be for nourishment, as appears in the Manna; seeing it is not the Creature, but only Gods command and blessing upon it, that makes it sufficient for the support of life.

* chap. 29. 5. Neh. 9. 21. 4 * Thy raiment waxed not old upon thee e, neither did thy foot swell f these forty years.

e Did not wear away through age, which they must needs have done without a miracle. f Notwithstanding thy long and hard travels, which also was miraculous.

* 2Sam. 7. 14. Psal. 89. 32. Rev. 3. 19. 5 * Thou shalt also consider in thine heart, that as a man chasteneth his son g, so the LORD thy God chasteneth thee.

g (i. e.) Unwillingly, being constrained by thy necessity; moderately, in judgment remembring mercy; and for thy reformation, not for thy destruction. Compare Prov. 3. 11, 12. Heb. 12. 5, &c.

6 Therefore thou shalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, and to fear him.

7 For the LORD thy God bringeth thee into
* chap. 11. 10, 11. a good land, * a land of brooks of water, of fountains, and depths b that spring out of valleys, and hills.

b (i. e.) Deep Wells, or Springs, or Lakes, which were divers and large.

† Heb. of olive-tree of oil. 8 A land of wheat, and barley, and vines, and fig-trees, and pomegranates, a land of † oil olive i, and honey.

i Heb. Of the Olive-tree of oyl, i. e. Not of wild and barren, but of fruitful Olive-trees, which yield plenty of Oyl.

9 A land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarceness, thou shalt not lack any thing in it: a * chap. 33. 25. land * whose stones are iron k, and out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass l.

k Where are mines of iron, in a manner, as plentiful as stones, and upon which travellers must tread, as in other parts they do upon stones. l To wit, in great plenty. These are mentioned, because they had none such in Egypt whence they came.

* chap. 6. 11, 12. 10 * When thou hast eaten, and art full, then thou shalt bless the LORD thy God m, for the good land which he hath given thee.

m (i. e.) Solemnly praise him for thy food; which is a debt both of gratitude and justice, because it is from his providence and favour that thou receivest both thy food and refreshment and strength by it. The more unworthy and absurd is that too common profaneness of them, who, professing to believe a God and his Providence, from whom all their comforts come, grudge to own him at their meals, either by desiring his blessing before them, or by offering due praise to God after them.

11 Beware that thou forget not the LORD thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his judgments, and his statutes, which I command thee this day.

* chap. 28. 47. & 32. 15. Prov. 30. 9. Hos. 13. 6. 12 * Lest, when thou hast eaten, and art full, and hast built goodly houses, and dwelt therein:

13 And when thy herds, and thy flocks multiply, and thy silver and thy gold is multiplied, and all that thou hast is multiplied:

14 Then thine heart be lifted up n, and thou forget the LORD thy God (which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage;

n As if thou didst receive and enjoy these things either by thy own wisdom, and valour, and industry, v. 17. or for thy own merit, Deut. 9. 4. See Hos. 13. 6. 1 Cor. 4. 7.

* Num. 21. 6. Hos. 13. 5. 15 Who led thee through that great and terrible wilderness, * wherein were fiery serpents, and
* Num. 20. 11. scorpions, and drought, where there was no water, * who brought thee forth water out of the rock of flint;

* Exod. 16. 15. 16 Who fed thee in the wilderness with * manna, which thy fathers knew not, that he might humble thee o, and that he might prove thee, to do the good at thy latter end p.)

o By keeping thee in a constant dependance upon him for every days food, and convincing thee what an impotent, helpless, and beggarly Creature thou art in thy self, having nothing whereon to subsist, but from hand to mouth, and being supported wholly by the alms of divine goodness given to thee from day to day. The mercies of God, if duly considered, are as powerful an argument or mean to humble us as the greatest afflictions, because they increase our debts to God, and manifest our dependance upon him, and insufficiency without him, and by making God great, they make us little in our own eyes. Tho this clause, as well as that which follows, may have respect to their afflictions, mentioned, v. 15. p (i. e.) That after he hath purged and prepared thee by afflictions, he may give thee, and thou mayest receive and enjoy his blessings with less disadvantage, whilst by the remembrance of former afflictions thou art made thankful for them, and more cautious not to abuse and forfeit them again.

17 And thou say in thine heart, My power, and the might of mine hand hath gotten me this wealth.

18 But thou shalt remember the LORD thy God: for it is he that giveth thee power to get wealth q, that he may establish his covenant which he sware unto thy fathers, as it is this day.

q So this word is used, Numb. 24. 18. Job 24. 18. Prov. 31. 29.

19 And it shall be, if thou do at all forget the LORD thy God, and walk after other gods, and serve them, and worship them, I testifie against you this day, that ye shall surely perish.

20 As the nations which the LORD destroyeth before your face, so shall ye perish; because ye would not be obedient unto the voice of the LORD your God.

CHAP. IX.

1 HEar, O Israel, thou art to pass over Jordan this day a, to go in to possess nations b greater and mightier than thy self c, cities great and * fenced up to heaven d. * chap. 1. 28.

a (i. e.) Shortly, within a little time, the word day being oft put for time, as John 8. 56. 1 Cor. 4. 5. Rev. 16. 14. within two months: for Moses spake this on the first day of the eleventh month, Deut. 1. 3. and they passed over Jordan on the tenth day of the first month, Jos. 4. 19. b (i. e.) The land of those Nations; for that only they were to possess, but as for the Nations or people they were not to possess, but to destroy them. Thus they are said to inherit Gad, Jer. 49. 1. i. e. the Country and Cities of Gad, as it is there explained. c This he adds, partly that they might not be surprized when they find them to be such: partly that they might not trust to their own strength, but wholly rely upon Gods help for the destroying of them, and, after the work was done, might ascribe the praise and glory of it to God alone, and not to themselves. d As the Spies reported, Deut. 1. 28. See on Gen. 11. 4.

2 A people great and tall, the children of * the
* Num. 13. 28, 29. Anakims, whom thou knowest, and of whom thou hast heard say e, Who can stand before the children of Anak?

e Either from the spies, or rather from common fame, for this seems to be a proverb, used in those times.

3 Understand therefore this day, that the LORD thy God is he which goeth over before thee as a * consuming fire: he shall destroy them, * chap. 4. 24. Heb. 12. 29. and he shall bring them down before thy face; so shalt thou drive them out, and destroy them quickly f as the LORD hath said unto thee.

f Without great difficulty or long wars.

4 Speak not thou in thine heart, after that the LORD thy God hath cast them out from before thee, saying, * For my righteousness the LORD * Rom. 11. 6, 20. 1 Cor. 4. 7. hath brought me in to possess this land: but * for the wickedness of these nations the LORD doth drive them out from before thee. * Gen. 15. 16.

5 Not for thy righteousness, or for the uprightness of thine heart g, dost thou go to possess their land; but for the wickedness of these nations the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee, and that he may perform * the
* Gen. 12. 7. & 13. 15. & 15. 7. & 17. 8. & 26. 4. & 28. 13. word which the LORD sware unto thy fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob h.

g Neither for thy upright heart, nor holy life, which are the two things which God above all things regards, 1 Chron. 29. 17. Psal. 15. 1, 2. And consequently he excludes all merit. And surely they who did not deserve this earthly Canaan, could not merit the Kingdom of Glory. h To shew my faithfulness in accomplishing that promise which I graciously made and confirmed with my Oath. By which words it is implied, that this land was not given to them for the righteousness of their fathers, tho they were righteous and holy persons, and much less for their own righteousness, which they had not, as it follows.

9 Un-

6 Understand therefore, that the LORD thy God giveth thee not this good land to possess it for thy righteousness, for thou art a * stiff-necked people i.

* Exod. 32.9. & 34.9.

i Rebellious and perverse, and so destitute of all pretence of righteousness; such were the people, but there were divers particular persons amongst them truly righteous and holy, and yet even their righteousness is denyed to be the procuring cause of this land.

7 Remember, and forget not how thou provokedst the LORD thy God to wrath in the wilderness: * from the day that thou didst depart out of the land of Egypt, until ye came unto this place, ye have been rebellious against the LORD.

* Exod. 14.11. & 16.2. & 17.2. Num. 11.4. & 20.2. & 25.3.

8 Also * in Horeb k, ye provoked the LORD to wrath, so that the LORD was angry with you, to have destroyed you.

* Exod. 32.4. Ps. 106.19.

k When your miraculous deliverance out of Egypt was fresh in memory; when God had but newly manifested himself to you in so stupendious and dreadful a manner, and had taken you into covenant with himself, when God was actually conferring further mercies upon you.

9 * When I was gone up into the mount, to receive the tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant which the LORD made with you, then * I abode in the mount forty days and forty nights; I neither did eat bread, nor drink water l.

*Exod. 24.12. 15.

l (i. e.) I wholly abstained from all meat and drink. Compare 1 King. 13.8, 9, 13. 2 King. 6.22.

10 * And the LORD delivered unto me two tables of stone, written with the finger of God m, and on them was written according to all the words which the LORD spake with you in the mount, out of the midst of the fire, * in the day of the assembly n.

m Immediately and miraculously, which was done not onely to procure the greater reverence to the Law, but also to signifie, that it was the work of God alone to write this Law upon the Tables of mens hearts. See Jer. 31.33. 2 Cor. 3.3, 7.

n (i. e.) When the people were gathered together by Gods command to the bottom of Mount Sinai, to hear and receive Gods ten Commandments from his own mouth.

11 And it came to pass at the end of forty days, and forty nights, that the LORD gave me the two tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant.

12 And the LORD said unto me, * Arise, get thee down quickly from hence; for thy people which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt, have corrupted themselves: they are quickly turned aside out of the way which I commanded them; they have made them a molten image.

* Exod. 32.3.

13 Furthermore, the LORD spake unto me, saying, I have seen this people, and behold, it is a stiff-necked people.

14 Let me alone o, that I may destroy them, and blot out their name from under heaven: and I will make of thee a nation greater and mightier than they.

o Stop not the course of my fury by thy intercession.

15 So I turned and came down from the mount, and the mount burned with fire: and the two tables of the covenant were in my two hands.

16 And * I looked, and behold, ye had sinned against the LORD your God, and had made you a molten calf: ye had turned aside quickly out of the way which the LORD had commanded you.

*Exod. 32.19.

17 And I took the two tables, and cast them out of my two hands, and brake them before your eyes p.

p Not by an unbridled passion, but in zeal for Gods honour, and by the direction of Gods spirit, to signifie to the people, that the covenant between God and them contained in those tables was broken and made void, and they were now quite cast out of Gods favour, and could expect nothing from him but fiery indignation and severe justice. See on Exod. 32.19.

18 And * I fell down q before the LORD, as at the first, forty days, and forty nights; I did neither eat bread, nor drink water, because of all your sins, which ye sinned, in doing wickedly in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger.

q In way of humiliation and supplication, on your behalf.

19 (For I was afraid of the anger and hot displeasure wherewith the LORD was wroth against you, to destroy you) But the LORD hearkned unto me at that time also.

20 And the LORD was very angry with Aaron r, to have destroyed him: And I prayed for Aaron also the same time.

r Though he was only accessary, as being perswaded, and in a manner compelled to comply with your desire.

21 And * I took your sin s, the calf which ye had made, and burnt it with fire, and stamped it, and ground it very small, even until it was as small as dust: and I cast the dust thereof into the brook t that descended out of the mount.

*Exod. 32.20.

s (i. e.) The object and matter of your sin, as sin is taken Isa. 31.7. t That there might be no monument or remembrance of it left.

22 And at * Taberah, and at * Massa, and at * Kibroth-hattaavah, ye provoked the LORD to wrath.

*Num. 11.1, 3. * Exod. 17.7. *Num. 11.34.

23 Likewise * when the LORD sent you from Kadesh-barnea, saying, Go up, and possess the land which I have given you, then ye rebelled against the commandment of the LORD your God, and ye believed him not, nor hearkned to his voice.

* Num. 13.3.

24 Ye have been rebellious against the LORD, from the day that I knew you.

25 Thus I fell down before the LORD forty days, and forty nights u, as I fell down * at the first, because the LORD had said, he would destroy you.

u The same mentioned before v. 18. as appears, 1. By comparing this with Exodus, where this History is more fully related, and where this is said to be done twice only. 2. By the occasion and matter of Moses his prayer here following, which is the same with the former. 3. By the words here following, as I fell down at first, which shew that this was the second time of his so doing.

26 I prayed therefore unto the LORD and said, O LORD God, destroy not thy people, and thine inheritance, which thou hast redeemed through thy greatness x, which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt, with a mighty hand.

x (i. e.) Through the greatness of thy power, which appeared most eminently in that work, as is noted v. 29.

27 Remember thy servants y, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: look not unto the stubbornes of this people, nor to their wickedness, nor to their sin:

y (i. e.) The promise made and sworn to thy servants, which was mentioned above v. 5.

28 Lest the land whence thou broughtest us out, say, * Because the LORD was not able to bring them into the land which he promised them, and because he hated them, he hath brought them out to slay them in the wilderness.

*Num. 14.16.

29 Yet they are thy people z, and thine inheritance, which thou broughtest out by thy mighty power, and by thy stretched-out arm.

z Whom thou hast chosen to thy self out of all mankind, and publickly owned them for thine, and hast purchased and redeemed them from the Egyptians.

CHAP. X.

1 AT that time a the LORD said unto me, * Hew thee two tables of stone like unto the first, and come up unto me into the mount, and make thee an ark of wood b.

* Exod. 34.1.

a When God was newly appeased by my intercession. b Either a temporary Ark for this use, till the other was finished: or the famous Ark, as may seem by comparing this with v. 9. It is not evident in what order these things were done, nor is it strange if Moses in this short and general relation neglect the order of time, as being nothing to his present purpose.

2 And I will write on the tables, the words that were in the first tables which thou brakest, and thou shalt put them in the ark.

3 And I made an ark of * Shittim wood, and hewed two tables of stone like unto the first, and went up into the mount, having the two tables in mine hand.

* Exod. 25.5, 10.

*Exod.34.28. † Heb. words.

4 And * he wrote on the tables according to the first writing, the ten † commandments, which the LORD spake unto you in the mount, out of the midst of the fire, in the day of the assembly; and the LORD gave them unto me.

5 And I turned my self: and came down from the mount, and put the tables in the ark which I had made, and there they be, as the LORD commanded me.

6 And the children of Israel took their journey c from Beeroth of the children of Jaakan to

*Num.33.30. *Num.20.28. * Mosera d; * there Aaron died e, and there he was buryed, and Eleazer his son ministred in the priests office in his stead.

c This following History comes in manifestly by way of parenthesis, as may appear from *ver.*10. where he returns to his former discourse; and it seems to be here inserted, Either 1. Because the Priests and Levites here mentioned were the Guardians and Keepers of the Ark and Tables here mentioned. Or rather, 2. As an evidence of Gods gracious answer to Moses his prayers, and of his reconciliation to the people notwithstanding their late and great provocation. For, saith he, after this they proceeded by Gods guidance in their journeys, some eminent stages whereof he names for all: and though Aaron dyed in one of them, yet God made up that breach, and Eleazar came in his place and ministred as Priest, one branch of which office was to intercede for the people. Then, saith he, God brought them from the barren parts of the wilderness to a land of rivers of waters, v. 7. a pleasant and fruitful soil, Then, he adds, God separated the Levites, &c. v. 8. d Obj. This place seems directly contrary to that *Numb.*33.31. where their journey is quite contrary to this, even from Moseroth, to Benejaakan. This indeed is a great difficulty, and prophane wits take occasion to cavil. And if a satisfactory answer be not yet given to it by interpreters, it ought not therefore to be concluded unanswerable, because many things formerly thought unanswerable, have been since fully cleared, and therefore the like may be presumed concerning other doubts yet remaining. And it were much more reasonable to acknowledge here a transposition of the words through the Scribes mistake, than upon such a pretence to reject the divine Authority of those sacred books which hath been confirmed by such irresistable Arguments. But there is no need of these general pleas, seeing particular answers are and may be given to this difficulty sufficient to satisfie modest and impartial enquirers, Ans. 1. The places here mentioned are differing from those Numb. 33. it being very frequent in Scripture for divers persons and places to be called by the same names, and yet the names are not wholly the same; for there it is Bene-jaakan, and here Beeroth benejaakan, or Beeroth of the children of Jaakan; there Moseroth, here Moserah; there Hor-hagidgad, here, Gudgodah, there Jotbathah, here Jotbath. If the places were the same, it may justly seem strange why Moses should so industriously make a change in every one of the names. And therefore these may be other stations, which being omitted in Numb. 33. are supplyed here, it being usual in sacred Scripture to supply the defects of one place out of another. Answ. 2. Admitting these two places to be the same with those Numb. 33. 31. yet the journeys are divers. They went from Beeroth of the children of Jaacan to Mosera, which is omitted in Numbers, and therefore here supplyed; and then back again from Moserah or Moseroth, to Bene-jaakan, as is there said: for which return there might then be some sufficient reason, though now unknown to us, as the reasons of many such like things are: or God might order it so for his own pleasure, and, it is not impossible he might do it for this reason, that by this seeming contradiction, as well as some others, he might in just judgment do what he threatned to the *Jews. Jer.*6.21. even lay stumbling blocks before prophane and proud wits, and give them that occasion of deceiving and ruining themselves, which they so greedily seek and gladly embrace; which is the reason given by some of the antients why God hath left so many difficulties in Scripture. Ans. 3. The words may be otherwise rendred from Beeroth of the children of Jaakan, and from Moserah: where the order of the places is not observed, as was noted before of the order of time, v. 1. because it was nothing to the purpose here, and because that might be easily fetched from Numb. 33. where those journeys are more particularly and exactly described. For the conjunction and, that may be here wanting, and to be supplyed, as it is Ex. 6. 23. 1 Sam. 4.7. Ps. 133. 3. Isa. 63. 11. Hab. 3. 11. And the præposition, from, is easily supplyed from the foregoing words, as is most usual. Nor seems there to be any more reason to render it to Moserah, than, from Moserah, seeing the Hebrew letter He in the end is made a part of the proper name, and therefore is not local. e Qu. How it is true, when Aaron dyed not in Moserah, but in Mount Hor. *Numb.*33. 37. Ans. 8. Moserah may be a differing place from Moseroth, and that may be the name of a Town or Region in which Mount Hor was or to which it belonged. Or the same mountain in respect of divers parts and opposite sides of it might be called by divers names, here Moserah, and there Hor. And it is possible they might go several journeys, and pass to divers stations, and by fetching a compass (which they oft did in their Wilderness travels) come to the other side of the same Mountain. Ans. 2. The Hebrew particle, scham, may here note the time, and not the place of Aarons death, and may be rendred then, as it is taken, Gen. 49. 24. Ps. 14. 5. Eccles. 3.17. Zephan. 1.14. And then is not to be taken precisely, but with some latitude, as it is oft used in Scripture; that is, about that time, after a few removes more; as the words, at that time, v. 8. must necessarily be understood.

*Num.33.32, 34.

7 * From thence e they journeyed unto Gudgodah, and from Gudgodah to Jotbath, a land of rivers of waters.

e Either 1. From that place, and that either from Mosera, last mentioned: or from Bene-jaakan: for relatives many times in Scripture belong to the remoter antecedent. Or, 2. From that time: for this particle sometimes notes not place, but time, as 2 King. 2.21. Isa. 65. 20. So the meaning is, At, or about that time, as it is v. 8. which being considered, may serve to clear the great difficulty discoursed upon the last verse concerning the seeming contradiction of this place, and Numb. 33. 31, 32.

8 At that time f * the LORD separated the tribe of Levi to bear the ark of the covenant of the LORD, to stand before the LORD g to minister unto him, and to bless in his name h unto this day.

f About that time, i.e. when I was come down from the mount, as was said *v.*5. For these words manifestly look to that verse, the 6, and 7. verses being put in by way of parenthesis as was said before. Or, if it relate to the words immediately foregoing, this may be meant of a second separation of them upon Aarons Death, and having mentioned the separation of Eleazer to the Office of the high Priest in his Fathers stead, v. 6. he now repeats it, that the Levites who were his, as they had been his Fathers Servants, were separated as before, or were confirmed in their office. g A phrase used concerning the Prophets, 1 King. 17. 1. and 18. 15. this being the posture of Ministers. Hence the Angels are said to stand, 2 Chron. 18. 18. Luk. 1. 19. h Either 1. Particularly, to pronounce the solemn blessing of God upon the Congregation, which was done in Gods name, of which see Levit. 9. 23. Numb. 6. 23, &c. But that work was peculiar to the Priests, not common to all the Levites, or more generally, to bless. Either 1. God, i.e. to praise him, which being a considerable part of the Levites work, 1 *Chron.*16. it is not probable, it would be omitted here, where their Office is so particularly described. Or, 2. The people, whom they did bless by performance of those holy ministrations for the people, and giving those instructions to them, to which Gods blessing was promised, and usually given; and this they did in Gods name, i. e. by command, and commission from him.

9 * Wherefore Levi hath no part nor inheritance with his brethren: the LORD is his inheritance i, according as the LORD thy God promised him.

i (i.e.) The Lords portion, to wit, tithes and offerings which belong to God are given by him to the Levites for their subsistence from generation to generation, as inheritances run.

CHAP. XI.

1 THerefore thou shalt love the LORD thy God, and keep his charge, and his statutes, and his judgments, and his commandments alway.

2 And know a ye this day: for I speak not with your children, which have not known, and which have not seen the chastisement of the LORD your God, his greatness, his mighty hand, and his stretched-out arm:

a (i. e.) Acknowledge and consider it with diligence and thankfulness.

3 And his miracles, and his acts, which he did in the midst of Egypt, unto Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and unto all his land.

* Exod. 14. 27.

b The effect of which destruction continueth to this day, in their weakness and fear, and our safety from all their further attempts against us.

5 And what he did unto you in the wilderness, until ye came unto this place:

6 And * what he did unto Dathan and Abiram the sons of Eliab, the son of Reuben: how the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up, and their households, and their tents, and all the ‖ substance that † was in their possession c, in the midst of all Israel:

* Num. 16. 31. and 27. 3. Psal. 106. 17.

‖ Or, living substance which followed them
† Heb. was at their feet.

c Heb. At their feet i. e. under their power, Psal. 8. 6. which followed them or belonged to them.

7 But your eyes have seen all the great acts of the LORD d, which he did.

d All of them had seen some, and some of them had seen all the great things done in Egypt and at the Red-sea, and in the Wilderness.

8 Therefore shall ye keep all the commandments which I command you this day, that ye may be strong, and go in, and possess the land whither ye go to possess it:

9 And that ye may prolong your dayes in the land which the LORD sware unto your fathers to give unto them, and to their seed, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

10 For the land whither thou goest in to possess it, is not as the land of Egypt, from whence ye came out, where thou sowedst thy seed, and watered*st* it with thy foot e as a garden of herbs:

e (i. e.) With great pains and labour of thy feet, partly by going up and down to fetch water and dispersе it, and partly by digging furrows with thy foot, and using engines for distributing the water which engines they thrust with their feet. For tho' the River Nilus did once in a year overflow the grounds and made them fruitful, yet oft times it failed or scanted them, and then they were put to great pains about their ground; and when it did overflow sufficiently & left its Mud upon the earth yet that Mud was in little time hardned, and needed another watering and much digging and labour both of the hand and feet, especially in places something higher or more remote from that river. Which inconvenience Canaan was free from.

11 But the land whither ye go to possess it, is a land of hills and vallies f, and drinketh water of the rain of heaven g:

f And therefore much more healthful than Egypt was, which as it was inriched, so it was annoyed, with Nilus, which overflowed the land in summer time, and thereby made the country both unpleasant, and, which is much worse, unhealthful. And health being the greatest of all outward blessings, Canaan must therefore needs be a more desirable habitation than Egypt, which is the thing here implyed. g Which is more honourable, because this comes not from mans art or industry; but immediately from Gods power and goodness; more easie, being given thee without thy charge or pains; more sweet and pleasant, not hindering thy going abroad upon thy occasions, as the overflow of Nilus did, whereby the Egyptians were confined in a great measure to their several houses; more safe and healthful, being free from that Mud which attends upon the waters of Nilus; and more certain too, the former and the latter rain being promised and to be given to them in their several seasons, upon condition of their obedience, which condition, though it may seem a clog and inconvenience, yet indeed was a great benefit, that by their own necessities and worldly interest they should be obliged to that obedience, upon which their happiness depended both for this life and for the next.

12 A land which the LORD thy God † careth for h: * the eyes of the LORD thy God are always upon it from the beginning of the year, even unto the end of the year i.

h To wit, in a special manner, watering it immediately as it were by his own hand without mans help, and giving peculiar blessings to it, which Egypt enjoys not. i To give it the rain and other blessings proper to the several seasons. But all these mercies and the fruitfulness of the land consequent upon them were suspended upon their disobedience, as it here follows. And therefore it is not at all strange that some later writers decry the land of Canaan as in great part a barren soyl, which is so far from affording any ground to question the divine authority of the holy Scriptures in which it's fruitfulness is declared, that it doth much more confirm it, this being but at effect of that threatning that God would turn a fruitful land into barrenness for the wickedness of those that dwell in it, Psal. 107. 34. and elsewhere, and the wickedness of the Israelites in succeeding ages being notorious, it is but just and fit that the barrenness of their land should be as evident and infamous.

13 And it shall come to pass, if ye shall hearken diligently unto my commandments, which I command you this day, to love the LORD your God, and to serve him with all your heart, and with all your soul;

14 That I will give you the rain of your land k in his due season, the first rain, and the latter rain l, that thou mayest gather in thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oyl.

k (i. e.) Which is needful and sufficient for your land; or which is proper to your land, not comon to Egypt, where, as all authors agree, there is little or no rain. l That fell in seed time to make the corn spring, the other a little before harvest to ripen it. See Jer. 5. 24. Joel 2. 23. Amos 4. 7. Jam. 5. 7.

15 And I will † ſend graſs in thy fields for thy cattle, that thou mayeſt eat and be full.

16 Take heed to your ſelves, that your heart be not deceived m, and ye turn aſide, and ſerve other gods, and worſhip them:

m By the ſpecious pretences of Idolaters, who will plead the general conſent of all nations except yours in the worſhip of creatures, and that they worſhip the creatures only for Gods ſake and as they are glorious works of God, whom they worſhip in and by them. Which and the like arguments being commonly alledged by Heathens for their Idolatries, as their own writers declare, might poſſibly ſeduce an unwary Iſraelite: and therefore they are here cautioned againſt ſuch deceit, and withal it is implyed, that if a mans mind be corrupted and deceived, ſo as he believes Idolatry to be lawful, this will not excuſe him in the ſight of God.

17 And then the LORDS wrath be kindled againſt you, and he ſhut up the heaven n, that there be no rain, and that the land yield not her fruit, and leſt ye periſh quickly from off the good land which the LORD giveth you.

n Which is compared ſometimes to a bottle, Job. 38. 37. which may be either ſtopped or opened; ſometimes to a great ſtore-houſe wherein God lays up his treaſures of rain, Job 38. 22. Pſal. 33. 7. the doors whereof God is ſaid to open when he gives rain, and to ſhut, when he with-holds it. * Lev. 17. 3.

6 And * thither ye ſhall bring your burnt-offerings, and your ſacrifices g, and your tithes h, and heave-offerings i of your hand, and your vows, and your free-will-offerings k, and the firſtlings of your herds, and of your flocks l.

g Which were wiſely appropriated to that one and publick place, partly for the ſecurity of the true religion, and for the prevention of Idolatry and ſuperſtition, which otherwiſe might more eaſily have crept in: and partly to ſignify that their ſacrifices were not accepted for their own worth, but by Gods gracious appointment and for the ſake of Gods altar by which they were ſanctified, and for the ſake of Chriſt, whom the Altar did manifeſtly repreſent. h Of which ſee below on ver. 17. i (i. e.) Your firſt-fruits, to wit, of the earth, as of corn and wine and oyl and other fruits, as plainly appears by comparing this place with Deut. 18. 4. and 26. 2. where theſe are commanded to be brought thither, and ſeeing here is an exact and particular enumeration of all ſuch things, and theſe cannot be put under any of the other branches, theſe muſt needs be intended here, the rather, becauſe the other kind of firſt-fruits, to wit, of the herds and flocks, are here expreſly mentioned. And theſe are called here the heave-offerings of their hand, becauſe the offerer was firſt to take theſe into his own hands, and to heave them before the Lord (as other places tell us) and then to give them to the Prieſt, as appears from, Deut. 18. 3, 4. and 26. 4. k Even for your voluntary oblations, which were not due by my preſcription but only by your own choice and voluntary ingagement: you may chuſe what kind of the offering ing you please to vow and offer, but not the place where you shall offer them. l Either 1. the holy firstlings or first-born, as appears by Numb. 18. where they are commanded to be brought to this one place here designed, and to be offered upon Gods altar, ver. 17. It is objected by some that those were given to the priests, Numb. 18. 18. but these were to be eaten by the people here ver. 7. But that the next verse doth not say, but onely in general, there shall ye eat, to wit, such of the offerings mentioned ver. 6. as they were allowed to eat, but not such as were the Priests peculiar, for these they might not eat, nor all there expressed, for it is evident they might not eat any of the burnt-offerings, nor some parts of the other sacrifices, which are here mentioned. Or 2. the second births, which were the peoples first-born, or the first which they could eat of which they were to eat before the Lord by way of acknowledgement of his favour in giving them to them and all their succeeding births. See more on ver. 17.

7 And there m ye shall eat n before the LORD o your God, and ye shall rejoyce in all that ye put your hand unto p, ye and your households, wherein the LORD thy God hath blessed thee.

m Not in the most holy place, wherein only the Priests might eat, Numb. 18. 10. but more generally in places allowed to the people for this end, in the holy city. n To wit, your part of the things mentioned ver. 6. o (i. e.) In the place of Gods presence, where Gods Sanctuary shall be. p Either to bestow your pains and labour upon it: or, to take and use or enjoy it. The sence is, You thus doing shall be blessed and enabled to rejoyce or to take comfort in all your labours and enjoyments, which otherwise would be accursed to you. We have the same phrase below ver. 18. and Deut. 15. 10.

q Where the inconveniency of the place and the uncertainty of our abode in and removal from several places would not permit exact order in sacrifices and feasts and ceremonies, which therefore God was pleased then to dispense, but, saith he, he will not do so there. ‖ Not that universal liberty was given to all persons to worship whom and how they lifted, but that in many things their unsettled condition gave every one opportunity to do so, if he thought good.

9 For ye are not as yet come to the rest, and to the inheritance which the LORD your God giveth you.

10 But when ye go over Jordan, and dwell in the land which the LORD your God giveth you to inherit, and when he giveth you rest from all your enemies round about, so that ye dwell in safety,

11 Then there shall be * a place which the LORD your God shall chuse to cause his Name r to dwell there, thither shall ye bring all that I command you: your burnt-offerings, and your sacrifices, your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand, and all † your choice vows s, which ye vow unto the LORD.

* 1 King. 8. 29. Psal. 78. 68.

r (i. e.) His Majesty and glory, his worship and service, his special and gracious presence, and the tokens of it. s Heb. the choice of your vows, i. e. your select or chosen vows, so called, because things offered for vows were to be perfect, whereas superfluous or defective creatures were accepted in free-will offering, as appears from Levit. 22. 21, 22, 23.

12 And ye shall rejoyce before the LORD your God, ye, and your sons, and your daughters t, and your men-servants, and your maid-servants, and the Levite that is within your gates, forasmuch as * he hath no part nor inheritance with you.

t Hence it appears, that though the males onely were obliged to appear before God in their solemn feasts, Exod. 23. 17. yet the women also were permitted to come, as they did. See Judg. 21. 19, 21. 1 Sam. 1. 3, 7, 21, 22, 23.

13 Take heed to thy self, that thou offer not thy burnt-offerings u in every place that thou seest x:

u Nor the other things mentioned above, this one and most eminent kind being put for all the rest, as is usual: for being all expressed before, it was needless to repeat them again. x To wit, with complacency and approbation, which thou thinkest very fit and proper for such a work, as one might possibly judge of some high-places or groves or gardens.

14 But in the place which the LORD shall chuse in one of thy tribes, there thou shalt offer thy burnt-offerings, and there thou shalt do all that I command thee.

15 Notwithstanding thou mayest kill and eat flesh y in all thy gates z, whatsoever thy soul lusteth after a, according to the blessing of the LORD thy God, which he hath given thee b: the * unclean c and the clean may eat thereof d, as of the roe-buck, and as of the hart.

y To wit, for thy common use and food. z (i. e.) Thy cities or dwellings. a What you shall desire either for quantity or quality, provided always you observe the laws given you elsewhere about avoiding excess and uncleanness in the things you eat. b. 16 * Only ye shall not eat the bloud, ye shall pour it out upon the earth as water.

* Gen. 9. 4. Lev. 7. 2. chap. 15. 23.

17 Thou e † mayest not eat within thy gates f the tithe of thy corn, or of thy wine, or of thy oyl g, or the firstlings of thy herds, or of thy flock h, nor any of thy vows which thou vowest, nor thy free-will-offerings, or heave-offering of thine hand.

† Heb. canst not See chap. 16. 5.

e Either 1. thou, O Levite: or rather 2. thou O Israelite, whom he distinguisheth from the Levite ver 18, accordingly as the following particulars agree to the one or to the other of you. f (i. e.) In your private habitations, here opposed to the place of Gods worship, ver. 18. g Here seems to be a great difficulty, not yet sufficiently observed nor cleared by Interpreters. There were divers kinds of tithes, 1. The tithes given to the Levites out of all, of which Numb. 18. 21, 24. Deut. 14. 22. Neh. 10. 37. 2. The tithe of those tithes, which were to be given by the Levites to the Priests, of which Numb. 18. 26, 28. Neh. 10. 38. 3. The third years tithe of which Deut. 14. 28. To which some add another tithe, which they call the second tithe, which they say was taken after the Levites tithe was laid by: Now each of these hath its difficulty. It seems this place cannot be understood 1. Of the Levites tithe, partly because it might seem a great and wholly superfluous trouble to carry all their tithes up to Jerusalem, and to carry them back to their several habitations for their use; partly because those were holy to the Lord, Lev. 27. 30. and not to be eaten by the people, ver. 31. whereas these belonged principally to the people, the Levites being only taken in as accessories to eat with them, as it is here ver. 18. and partly because those might be eaten in every place, as is expressly affirmed, Numb. 18. 31. Nor 2. of the tithe which was the Priests, and neither Levites nor others might eat of it, except they were of or in the Priests household. Nor 3. of the third years tithe, because that was to be eaten within their gates, Deut. 14. 28, 29. as this was not. I do therefore humbly conceive, that this is meant of the second tithe, spoken of Deut. 14. 22. and that this was the very same tithe with that third years tithe, with this only difference, that in the third year they were to eat them, together with the Levites within their gates, Deut. 14. 28, 29. but in the two first years they were to eat them, together with the Levites also, in the place of Gods worship, as it is prescribed here and Deut. 14. 23. And that it is one and the same tithe which is spoken of Deut. 14. 22. and ver. 28. seems more than probable both because they are called by the same name all the tithe of their increase, and because that ver. 28. manifestly looks back to that ver. 22. and because otherwise every third year the Israelites were to pay three several tithes one after another, which Scripture no where affirms, and it seems to make the peoples burdens and the Levites provisions too great. For the objection taken from Deut. 26. 12, 13. it shall be considered in its place. And the reason of that difference of place, and why the same tithes were eaten for two years together in Jerusalem, and the third year in their own gates, seems to be this, that in the two first years there was a more special regard had to the Levites, who were very much conversant in Jerusalem, where these tithes were then eaten, and in the third year there is a respect had to the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, who are mentioned as joynt-sharers with the Levites, in this third years tithe, whose occasions and obligations of coming to Jerusalem were not so many nor strong as those of the Levites, and therefore they were to be found generally within their gates, where these were to be eaten. And whereas the objection made before against the chargeable and useless carrying of the first tithes to Jerusalem might be applyed here, it is answered there, and it is provided, that when they lived at a great distance from Jerusalem they might turn it into money and bestow it there, Deut. 14. 24, 25, 26. which both confirms the objection as to the first tithe, for which no such provisions was made, and answers it as to this, where such a remedy is expressed. And whereas it may be pleaded on the behalf of the first or the Levitical tithe, that those tithes were brought to Jerusalem, and that there were store-houses or chambers in the Temple appointed for the receiving of the tithes, 2 Chro. 31. 5, 6, 11, 12. Neh. 10. 37, 38. and 12. 44. it may be answered. that those chambers, being only 38 in number and each of them, except two, but 6 cubits broad and 12 cubits long, were altogether uncapable of all those tithes, and seem principally, if not solely appointed for the Priests tithes, and not for all them neither, but only for so much of them as might serve for the use and necessity of those Priests and Levites too that were in the actual ministration. b As the tithes now mentioned were not the Levitical, but second, tithes, as hath been discoursed, so these firstlings do not seem to be the first firstlings, which being appropriated to the Levites were not to be eaten by any of the people, except those of or in the Levites families, but the second firstlings, which were the first which the owner could dispose of, and which, in conformity to the second tithes, he is required to set apart for this use.

18 But thou must eat them before the LORD thy God, in the place which the LORD thy God shall chuse, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite that h within thy gates: and thou shalt rejoyce before the LORD thy God, in all that thou puttest thine hands unto.

19 * Take heed to thy self i, that thou forsake not the Levite, † as long as thou livest upon the earth.

* chap. 14. 27. † Heb. all thy days upon thy land.

k Which will make it inconvenient and impossible to do what now thou dost and because of the narrow bounds of thy camp canst conveniently do, to wit, to bring all the cattel thou usest to the Tabernacle, which it seems probable they did to prevent their eating of blood. Compare Levit. 17. 3. 1 Sam. 14. 34.

21 If the place which the LORD thy God hath chosen to put his name there, be too far from thee ‖, then thou shalt kill of thy herd, and of thy flock, which the LORD hath given thee, as I have commanded thee l, and thou shalt eat in thy gates whatsoever thy soul lusteth after.

‖ In which case being obliged to carry their sacrifices to the place of worship, that the blood might be there poured forth, &c. they might think themselves obliged, for the same reason to carry their other cattel thither to be killed. They are therefore released from all such obligations, and left at liberty to kill them at home, whether they lived nearer to that place or further from it, only the latter is here mentioned as being the matter of the scruple, and as containing the former in it. l In such manner as the blood may be poured forth, as above ver. 16. and below ver. 24.

22 * Even as the roe-buck and the hart m is eaten, so thou shalt eat them: the unclean and the clean shall eat of them alike n.

CHAP. XIII.

1 IF there arise among you a a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams b, and giveth thee a sign or a wonder c.

a (i. e.) One of your nation, for such might be both seduced and afterward seducers. b One that pretends himself to be one to whom God hath revealed himself either by visions or dreams. See Numb. 12. 6. c (i. e.) Shall foretell some strange and wonderful thing to come, as appears from ver. 2. as the true prophets used to do, as 1 Sam. 10.

2 And * the sign or the wonder come to pass d, whereof he spake unto thee, saying e, Let us go after other gods, (which thou hast not known) and let us serve them:

* See chap. 18. 22. Jer. 28. 9. Mat. 7. 22.

d Which God may suffer for the reason after mentioned. e This word is to be joyned with the beginning of verse 1. If there arise among you a prophet, or dreamer of dreams, saying, what here follows, and giveth thee a sign, &c. to confirm his doctrine, such transpositions are frequent.

3 Thou shalt not hearken to the words of that prophet e, or that dreamer of dreams; for the LORD your God * proveth you f, to know g whether ye love the LORD your God with all your heart, and with all your soul.

* 1 Cor. 11. 19.

e Not receive his doctrine though the sign come to pass. For although when such a sign or wonder foretold did not follow or come to pass, it was a sign of a false prophet, as is said Deut. 18. 22. yet when it did come to pass, it was no sufficient or infallible sign of a true one especially in such a case when he brings in new Gods. The reason of the difference is, because many causes must concurr to make a thing good and true, but any one failure is sufficient to make a thing bad or false. And particularly there are many signs yea such as men may think to be wonders which may be wrought by evil spirits, God so permitting it for divers wise and just reasons, not only for the trial of the good as it here follows, but also for the punishment of ungodly men who would not receive Divine Truths though attested by many evident and unquestionable miracles and therefore are most justly exposed to these temptations to believe lies. f (i. e.) Tryeth your faith and love and obedience, examineth your sincerity by your constancy. See Mat. 24. 24. 2 Thes. 2. 11. Rev. 13. 14. See on Gen. 22. 1. Deut. 8. 2, 7. g That he may know it, to wit, judicially, or in a publick manner so as both you and others may know and see it, that so the justice of his judgments upon you may be more evident and glorious.

* chap. 10. 20.

h To wit, only, as appears from the opposition. Compare Deut. 6. 13. with Mat. 4. 10.

bondage, to thrust thee out of the way l which
* chap. 22. 21. 24. 1 Cor. 5. 13. the LORD thy God commanded to walk in,)* so shalt thou put the evil m away from the midst of thee.

l (i. e.) Taught or perswaded you. k To forsake God and his worship. He shews that the chiefest and most certain character of a true Prophet, is to be taken from his doctrine rather than from his miracles. l This phrase notes the great force and power of seducers to corrupt mens minds. Compare Deut. 4. 19. 2 King. 17. 21. Mat. 24. 24. m Either 1. that evil thing, that wicked doctrine and practise. Or 2. that wicked and scandalous man, that Idolater and seducer.

* chap. 17. 2. 6 * If thy brother, the son of thy mother n, or thy son, or thy daughter o, or the wife of thy bosom p, or thy friend, which is as thine own soul q, intice thee r secretly, saying, Let us go and serve other s gods, (which thou hast not known, thou, nor thy fathers,) n This is added, to restrain the signification of the word brother, which is oft used generally for one near akin, and to express the nearness of the relation, the mothers side being the surest, and usually the ground of the truest and most fervent affection. See Gen. 20. 12. o Thy piety must overcome both thy affection to thy neerest relation, and thy compassion to the weaker Sex. p Either 1. that is near to thy heart, that hath thy dearest love. Or rather 2. that lyeth in thy bosom, as it is expressed, Mic. 7. 5. Compare Gen. 16. 5. Prov. 5. 20. Deut. 28. 54. So we read of the husband of her bosom, Deut. 28. 56. q As dear to thee as thy self. The father and mother are here omitted not, as some fancy, because children might not in this nor in any case accuse their parents, for certainly they owe more reverence and duty to God, who is injured in this case, than to their parents, and Levi is commended for neglecting his father and mother in this case, but because they are sufficiently contained in the former examples, for since mens love doth usually descend more strongly than it ascends, and the relation of a wife is and ought to be nearer and dearer than of a parent, that favour which is denied to wives and children cannot be thought fit to be allowed to parents. r Though it be without success, because the very attempt of such an abominable crime deserved death, as it is judged in case of treason. s Unknown and obscure and new Gods, which greatly aggravates the crime, to forsake a God whom thou and thy fathers have long known and had great and good experience of for such upstarts.

7 Namely, of the gods of the people which are round about you, nigh unto thee, or far off from thee, from the one end of the earth, even unto the other end of the earth t.

t He armes against the pretence of the universality of this Idol-worship, wherewith they were like to be oft assaulted.

x Not privately, which pretence would have opened the door to innumerable murders, but by procuring his death by the sentence of the Magistrate. y Thou shalt cast the first stone at him, as the witness was to do. See Deut. 17. 7. Act. 7. 58.

10 And thou shalt stone him with stones that he die: because he hath sought to thrust thee away from the LORD thy God which brought thee from the land of Egypt, from the house of † bondage.

CHAP. XIV.

1 YE are the children of the LORD your God a: * ye shall not cut your selves, nor make any baldness between your eyes b for the dead c. * Lev. 19. 28

a Whom therefore you must not disparage by unworthy or unbecoming practises, such as here follow, and whom you must not disobey. b Which were the practises of Idolaters both in the worship of their Idols, as 1 King. 18. 28. or in their funerals, as here and Jer. 16. 6. or upon occasion of publick calamities, as Jer. 41. 5. and 47. 5. See more on Levit. 19. 27, 28. and 21. 5. and 47. 5. See more on Levit. 19. 27, 28. and 21. 5. c Through excessive sorrow for your dead friends, as if you had no hope of their happiness after death, 1 Thess. 4. 13.

2 * For thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God, and the LORD hath chosen thee to be a peculiar people unto himself, above all the nations that are upon the earth. * chap. 7. 6. and 26. 18.

3 Thou shalt not eat any abominable d thing.

d (i. e.) Unclean and forbidden by me, which therefore should be abominable to you.

4 * These are the beasts e, which ye shall eat, the ox, the sheep, and the goat, * Lev. 11. 2, &c.

e Of which see on Levit. 11. The small differences between some of their names here and there are not proper for this work. The learned reader may find them cleared in my Latin Synopsis. For others they may well enough want the knowledge of them, both because these are the smaller matters of the Law, and because this distinction of clean and unclean beasts is now out of date.

5 The hart, and the roe-buck, and the fallow deer, and the wild goat, and the ‖ † pygarg, and the wild ox, and the chamois: ‖ Or, bison. † Heb. dishon.

6 And every beast that parteth the hoof, and cleaveth the cleft into two claws, and cheweth the cud amongst the beasts: that ye shall eat.

7 Nevertheless, these ye shall not eat, of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the cloven hoof, as the camel, and the hare, and the coney: for they chew the cud, but divide not the hoof, therefore they are unclean unto you.

8 And the swine, because it divideth the hoof,

yet cheweth not the cud, it is unclean unto you:
* Lev. 11. 27. ye shall not eat of their flesh *, nor touch their dead carcase.
* Lev. 11. 9. 9 * These ye shall eat, of all that are in the waters: all that hath fins and scales shall ye eat.
10 And whatsoever hath not fins and scales, ye may not eat: it is unclean unto you.
11 Of all clean birds ye shall eat.
12 But these are they of which ye shall not eat: the eagle, and the ossifrage, and the osprey, 13 And the glede, and the kite, and the vulture after his kind,
14 And every raven after his kind,
15 And the owl, and the night-hawk, and the cuckow, and the hawk after his kind,
16 The little owl, and the great owl, and the swan, 17 And the pelican, and the gier-eagle, and the cormorant,
* Lev. 11. 19. 18 And the stork, and the heron after her kind, and the lapwing, and the * bat.
19 And every creeping thing that flyeth is unclean unto you: they shall not be eaten.
20 But of all clean fowls ye may eat.
21 Ye shall not eat of any thing that dieth of it self: thou shalt give it unto the stranger f that is in thy gates, that he may eat it: or thou mayest sell it unto an alien: for thou art an holy people
* Exod. 23. 19. and 34. 26. unto the LORD thy God. * Thou shalt not seethe a kid in his mothers milk.

f Not to the proselyte, for such were obliged by this Law, Levit. 17. 15. but to such as were strangers in Religion as well as in nation, * chap. 12. 6, 17. 22 * Thou shalt truly tithe all the encrease of thy seed g, that the field bringeth forth year by year.

g This is to be understood of the second tithes, which seem to be the same with the tithes of the third year, mentioned here below ver. 28. and Deut. 26. 12. of which see above on ver. 17. And to confirm this opinion, though I would not lay too great a stress upon criticismes. Yet I cannot but observe that this tithing is spoken of only as the peoples act here, and Deut. 26. 12. and the Levites are not at all mentioned in either place as receivers or takers of them, but only as partakers of them together with the owners, and therefore they are so severely charged here upon their consciences, thou shalt truly tithe all thine increase, because the execution of this was left wholly to themselves, whereas the first tithes were received by the Levites, who therefore are said to take or receive those tithes, Numb. 18. 26. Neh. 10. 38. Heb. 7. 5.

23 And thou shalt eat before the LORD h thy God, in the place which he shall chuse to place his Name there, the tithe of thy corn, of thy wine,
* chap. 15. 19, 20. and of thine oil, and * the firstlings of thy herds, and of thy flocks, that thou mayest learn to fear the LORD thy God alwayes.

h See on Deut. 12. 6, 17.

24 And if the way be too long for thee, so that thou art not able to carry it, or if the place be too far from thee, which the LORD thy God shall chuse to set his Name there, when the LORD thy God hath blessed thee:
25 Then shalt thou turn it into money, and bind up the money in thine hand i, and shalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God shall chuse.

i (i. e.) In a bag to be taken into thy hand and carried with thee.

26 And thou shalt bestow that money for whatsoever thy soul lusteth after, for oxen, or for sheep, or for wine, or for strong drink, or for † Heb. asketh of thee. whatsoever thy soul † desireth: and thou shalt eat there before the LORD thy God and thou shalt rejoyce, thou and thine household.
* chap. 12. 19. *Num. 18. 20. 27 And * the Levite that is within thy gates, thou shalt not forsake him k: for * he hath no part nor inheritance with thee.

k Thou shalt give him a share in such tithes or in the product of them.

28 At the end of three years l though shalt bring forth all the tithe of thine increase m the same year n, and shalt lay it up within thy gates, l (i. e.) In the third year, as it is expressed, Deut. 26. 12. So, in the end of three years or of seven years is the same with in the third or seventh year, as appears by comparing Deut. 31. 10. Jos. 9. 16, 17. 2 King. 18. 9, 10. and 17. 6. m I joyn with those Expositors who make this same tithe with the former ver. 22. as being called by the same title without any distinction between them save only as to the place of eating them. See above on ver. 22. and Deut. 12. 17. n This is added to shew that he speaks of the third year, and not of the fourth year, as some might conjecture from the phrase, at the end of three years.

29 And the Levite (because he hath no part nor inheritance with thee) and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow which are within thy gates shall come, and shall eat, and be satisfied, that * the LORD thy God may bless thee in all *SeeMal. 3. 10. the work of thine hand which thou doest.

CHAP. XV.

1 AT the end of * every seven years a thou * Lev. 25. 24. shalt make a release.

a (i. e.) In the last year of the seven, as is most evident from ver. 9. Exod. 21. 2. Jer. 34. 14. So the like phrase is oft used, as Deut. 14. 28. Jos. 3. 2. Jer. 25. 12. Luk. 2. 21. Act. 2. 1, And this year of release, as it is called below ver. 9. is the same with the Sabbatical year, Exod. 23. 11. Levit. 25. 4.

2 And this is the manner of the release. Every † creditor that lendeth ought unto his neigh- † Heb. master of the lending of his hand. bour, shall release it b: he shall not exact it of his neighbour, or of his brother c, because it is called the LORDS release d.

b Not absolutely and finally forgive it, but forbear it for that year, as may appear, 1. because the word doth not signifie a total dismission or acquitting, but an intermission for a time, as Exod. 23. 11. He shall not exact it, as it here follows, i. e. force it from him by course of Law or otherwise, to wit, that year, which is easily understood out of the whole context. 2. Because the person releasing is called a creditor, and his communicating to him what he desires and needs is called lending here and ver. 8. whereas it were giving, and the person giving it were no creditor but a donor, if it were to be wholly forgiven to him 3. Because the reason of this Law is temporary and peculiar to that year, wherein there being no sowing, nor reaping, they were not in a capacity to pay their debts. 4. Because it seems unjust and unreasonable, and contrary to other Scriptures, which require men to pay what they borrow, as Ps. 37. 21. Yet I deny not that in case of poverty the debt was to be forgiven, but that was not by vertue of this law, but of other commands, of God. c This is added to explain and limit the word neighbour, which is more general unto a brother, to wit, in Nation and Religion, to an Israelite, who is opposed to a forreigner, ver. 3. Heb. and a brother, for that is a brother, the particle and being oft so used, as Gen. 13. 15. &c. d Or, a release to or for the Lord, in obedience to his command, for his honour, and as an acknowledgment of his right in your estates and of his kindness in giving and continuing them to you. If you are unwilling to release this for your brothers sake, yet do it for Gods sake your Lord and the chief creditor.

3 Of a forreigner e thou mayest exact it again but that which is thine f with thy brother, thine hand shall release.

e Or stranger, yea though a proselyte, for 1. They are oft called by this name, as Gen. 17. 12. Ruth 2. 10. 2. Though proselytes were admitted to the Church-priviledges of the Israelites, yet they were not admitted to all their civil immunities or priviledges. See 1 Chron. 22. 2. and 2 Chron. 2. 17. 3. Such were not then freed from their personal debt, to wit, of their service, Levit. 25. 44. Deut. 15. 12. Jer. 34. 14. therefore not from their real debt. f To wit, by right though lent to him.

4 ‖ Save when there shall be no poor among you ‖ Or, to the end that there be no poor among you. g: for the LORD shall greatly bless thee h in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to possess it:

g So the words are an exception to the foregoing clause, which they restrain to the poor, and imply that if his brother was rich, he might exact his debt of him, in that year. And indeed this Law seems to be chiefly if not wholly designed and given in favour to the poor and to the borrower, as is manifest from ver. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. But the words are and may be rendred thus, as in the margent of our Bibles, To the end that there be no poor among you. And so they contain a reason of this Law, to wit, that none be impoverished and ruined by a rigid and unseasonable exaction of debts. They may also be translated thus, Nevertheless of a truth or, assuredly (as the particle chi is oft used) there shall be no poor among you, and the sense may be this, Though I impose this Law upon you, which may seem hard and grievous, yet the truth is, supposing your performance formance of the conditions of God's Covenant, you shall not have any great occasion to exercise your charity and kindness in this matter, for God will greatly bless you, &c. so as you shall be in a capacity of lending, and few or none of you will have any need to borrow and thereby to expose his brethren to the inconvenience and burden of this Law. Thus the connexion is plain and easie both with the foregoing and following words. Object. It is said, the poor should never cease, ver. 11. Answ. That also is true and affirmed by God, because he foresaw they would not perform their duty, and therefore would bereave themselves of the promised blessing. b And therefore this will be no great inconvenience nor burden to thee.

5 Only if thou carefully hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God to observe to do all these commandments which I command thee this day.

6 For the LORD thy God blesseth thee, as he promised thee, and * thou shalt lend unto many nations i, but thou shalt not borrow; and thou shalt reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over thee.

* chap. 28. 12, 44.

i Thou shalt be rich and able to lend not only to thy poor brother, but even to strangers of other nations, yea to many of them.

7 If there be among you a poor man, of one of thy brethren, within any of thy gates, in thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee thou shalt not harden thy heart, nor shut thine hand from thy poor brother:

8 * But thou shalt open thine hand wide unto him k, and shalt surely lend him sufficient for his need, in that which he wanteth.

* Mat. 5. 42. Luk. 6. 34, 35.

k (i. e.) Deal bountifully and liberally with him, giving him as it were by handfuls.

9 Beware that there be not a † thought in thy † wicked heart l, saying, The seventh year, the year of release is at hand, and thine eye be evil m against thy poor brother, and thou givest him nought, and he cry unto the LORD against thee, and it be sin n unto thee.

l Suppress the first risings and inward motions of such uncharitableness. m (i. e.) Envious, unmerciful, unkind, as this phrase is used Prov. 23. 6. Matth. 20. 15. as a good eye notes the contrary disposition Prov. 22. 9. n (i. e.) It be charged upon thee as a sin, and as a great sin, as the word sin sometimes signifies, as Prov. 24. 9. John 15. 24. Jam. 4. 17.

10 Thou shalt surely give him, and thine heart shall not be grieved when thou givest unto him o: because that for this thing the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all thy works, and in all that thou puttest thine hand unto p.

o (i. e.) Thou shalt give not only with an open hand, but with a willing and chearful mind and heart, Rom. 12. 8. 2 Cor. 9. 7. without which thy very charity is uncharitable and not accepted by God, who requires the heart in all his services. p (i. e.) In all thy works, as before, for the hand is the great instrument of action.

11 For * the poor shall never cease out of the land q: therefore I command thee, saying, Thou shalt open thine hand wide unto thy brother, to thy poor, and to thy needy in the land.

* Mat. 26. 11. John. 12. 8.

q God by his providence will so order it, partly for the punishment of your disobedience, and partly for the trial and exercise of your obedience to me, and charity to your brother, both which are best discovered by your performance of costly duties.

12 And * if thy brother, an Hebrew man, or an Hebrew woman be sold unto thee r, and serve thee six years s, then in the seventh year thou shalt let him go free from thee.

* Exod. 21. 2. Jer. 34. 14.

r See on Exod. 22. 3. s To be computed, either 1. From the year of Release, as they gather from hence that personal and real Debts were both released together. But that seems to be supposed rather than proved, nay there is a manifest difference between them, for the release of real debts is expresly mentioned and required in the year of release, but so is not the release of the personal debt of servitude, either here or elsewhere. Or rather 2. From the beginning of this servitude, which is every where limited unto the space of six years, as here and below ver. 18. and Exod. 21. 2. Jer. 34. 14. And it seems a strange and forced exposition, to take these six years, for so much of the six years as remains until the year of release, which possibly might not be one quarter of a year, whereas an hired servant serves for a far longer time, and this is said to be worth a double hired servant, in regard of the longer time of his service, ver. 18. Add to this, that it is mentioned as the peculiar priviledge of the year of Jubilee, that that such servants were then freed though their six years of service were not expired.

13 And when thou sendest him out free from thee, thou shalt not let him go away empty.

14 Thou shalt furnish him liberally out of thy flock and out of thy floor, and out of thy winepress, of that wherewith the LORD thy God hath blessed thee, thou shalt give unto him.

15 And thou shalt remember that thou wast a bondman in the land of Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee t: therefore I command thee this thing to day.

t And brought thee out with triumph and with riches, which because they would not, God did give to thee as a just recompence for thy service, and therefore thou shalt follow his example, and send out thy servant furnished with all convenient provisions.

16 And it shall be if he say unto thee, I will not go away from thee (because he loveth thee, and thine house, because he is well with thee) u.

u Because he is sensible that he fares well with thee. Or, because it is good, i. e. acceptable in his eyes or pleasing to him, to be with thee.

17 * Then thou shalt take an awl, and thrust it through his ear unto the door, and he shall be thy servant for ever x: and also unto thy maidservant thou shalt do likewise y.

* Exod. 21. 6.

x (i. e.) All the time of his Life, or at least, till the year of Jubile. See on Exod. 21. 6. y (i. e.) Either dismiss her honourably and with plenty of provision: or engage her to perpetual servitude in the same manner and by the same Rites. Whence it appears, that this case differs from that Exod. 21. 7. and that the maid-servant there was taken in upon other and better terms than this here.

18 It shall not seem hard unto thee, when thou sendest him away free from thee: for he hath been worth a double * hired servant to thee z, in serving thee six years, and the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all that thou doest.

* See Isa. 16. 14.

z Or, he deserves double wages to an hired servant, because he served thee upon better terms, both without wages, which hired servants require, and for a longer time, even for six years, as it here follows, whereas servants were ordinarily hired but from year to year, Levit. 25. 53. or at most but for three years, as they gather from this place and Isa. 16. 14.

19 * All the firstlings males that come of thy herd, and of thy flock, thou shalt sanctifie unto the LORD thy God: thou shalt do no work with the firstling a of thy bullock, nor shear the firstling of thy sheep.

* Exod. 34. 19 Lev. 27. 26. Num. 3. 13.

a This is meant, either 1. Of the male firstlings; which, they say, is forbidden here, because some did plow with the firstlings of their Oxen, and shear the firstlings of their sheep before they were offered. But this seems absurd and incredible, because they were to be offered upon the eighth day, Exod. 22. 30. when they were very unfit for such uses. Or rather 2. The second firstlings, of which see on Deut. 12. 17.

20 Thou b shalt eat it c before the LORD thy God year by year d, in the place which the LORD shall chuse, thou and thy household.

b Either 1. Thou, O Priest. Or rather 2. Thou, O Israelite, for it is evident that the same person who was forbidden to work with these, verse 19. is here commanded to eat them, &c. c Together with the Levites as is to be understood from Deut. 12. 18. and 14. 27, 29. where that is expressed in like cases. d To wit, in the solemn feasts which returned upon them every year. See Deut. 16. 11, 14.

21 * And if there be any blemish therein, as if it be lame, or blind, or have any ill blemish, thou shalt not sacrifice it unto the LORD thy God.

* Lev. 22. 20. chap. 17. 1.

22 Thou shalt eat it within thy gates: the * unclean and the clean person shall eat it alike, as the ro-buck, and as the hart.

* chap. 12. 15.

23 * Only thou shalt not eat the blood thereof thou shalt pour it upon the ground as water.

* chap. 12. 16, 23.

CHAP. XVI.

1 OBserve the * month of Abib, and keep the passeover unto the LORD thy God: for * in the month of Abib the LORD thy God brought thee forth out of Egypt by * night a.

* Exod. 12. 2. &c. * Exod. 13. 4. * Exod. 12. 29, 42.

a Object. They came out of Egypt by day, and in the morning, as appears from Exod. 12. 22. and 13. 3. Numb. 33. 3. Answ.

They are said to be brought out by night, because in the night Pharoah was forced to give them leave to depart and accordingly they made preparation for their departure, and in the morning they perfected the work.

2 Thou shalt therefore sacrifice the passeover b unto the LORD thy God, of the flock, and the
* chap. 12. 5. herd, in the * place which the LORD shall chuse to place his Name there.

b (i. e.) Either 1. properly and strictly so called, which was the Paschal Lamb, and so the Sheep and Oxen, which here follow, are mentioned only as additional sacrifices, which were to be offered in the seven days of the Paschal solemnity, Numb. 28. 18, 19, &c. Or 2. Largely, to wit, for the Passeover-offerings, to wit, which were offered after the Lamb in the seven days, and so this very word is used 2 Chron. 35. 8, 9. And this signification seems necessary here, partly because it is here said to consist of the flock and of the herd, or, of Sheep and Oxen, and partly because it follows, ver. 3. Thou shalt eat no leavened bread with it, seven days shalt thou eat unleavened bread therewith, i.e. with the Passeover, which could not be done with the Passeover strictly so called, which was to be wholly spent in one day. Or 3. The Feast of the Passeover, and so the place may be rendred, Thou shalt therefore observe or keep the Feast of the Passeover (as those same Hebrew words are taken, Numb. 9. 5. Jos. 5. 10. 2 Chron. 35. 1, 17, 18, 19.) unto the Lord thy God, with Sheep, and with Oxen, as is prescribed Numb. 28. 18, &c.

*Exod. 12. 15. 3 * Thou shalt eat no leavened bread with it c, seven days shalt thou eat unleavened bread therewith, even the bread of affliction d (for thou camest fourth out of the land of Egypt in haste) that thou mayest remember the day when thou camest forth out of the land of Egypt, all the days of thy life.

c To wit, with the Passeover, in the sense delivered: Or, in it, i. e. during the time of the feast of the Passeover. d (i.e.) Bread which is not usual nor pleasant, but unsavoury and unwholesome, to put thee in mind both of thy miseries endured in Egypt and of thy hasty coming out of it, which allowed thee no time to leaven or to prepare thy Bread.

*Exod. 34. 25. † Heb. leaven. * Exod. 12. 10 4 * And there shall be no † leavened bread seen with thee in all thy coasts seven days, * neither shall there any thing of the flesh which thou sacrificedst the first day at even e remain all night until the morning.

e (i. e.) Of the Passeover properly so called and by these words plainly described, which circumlocution may seem to insinuate that the word Passeover ver. 1. was improperly used and therefore he chose rather to describe it, then to name it, lest the ambiguity of the word should occasion some mistake.

† Heb. may'st not. chap. 12. 17. ‖ Or, kill. 5 Thou † mayest not ‖ sacrifice the passeover within any of thy gates f which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

f (i. e.) Of thy cities, as that word is oft used, as Gen. 22. 17. and 24. 60. Deut. 17. 2. Ruth. 4. 10.

6 But at the place which the LORD thy God shall chuse to place his name in, there thou shalt sacrifice the passeover g, at even, at the going down of the sun, at the season h that thou camest fourth out of Egypt.

g To wit, in the Court of the Tabernacle or Temple. This he prescribed, partly that this great work might be done with more solemnity and care, in such manner as God required; partly because it was not onely a Sacrament, but also a sacrifice, as appears because it is so called, Exod. 12. 27. and 23. 18. and 34. 25. Numb. 9. 7. and because here was the sprinkling of blood, which is the essential part and character of a sacrifice: and partly to design the place where Christ, the true Passeover or Lamb of God, was to be slain. h Understand this with some latitude, as such phrases are commonly taken, about that season, when you had received command from me to go out of Egypt, and were preparing your selves for the journey.

7 And thou shalt roast i, and eat it in the place which the LORD thy God shall chuse, and thou shalt turn in the morning k and go unto thy tents l.

i So that word is used also 2 Chron. 35. 13. k Either 1. The morning after the seventh day, as appears, partly by the following verse, which is added to explain and limit this ambiguous word; partly by the express command of God that the people should come to Jerusalem to keep this Feast, which by Gods appointment lasted for seven days; partly from the examples of the people staying there the whole time of the feast. 2 Chron. 30. 21. and 35. 17. and partly from the nature and business of this feast, wherein there being so many extraordinary sacrifices to be offered, and feasts made by the people upon the sacrifices and two days of solemn assemblies, it is not probable, that they would absent themselves from these solemn services, for the performance whereof they came purposely to Jerusalem. Or 2. The morning after the first day, and so they were permitted to go then, and possibly some that lived near Jerusalem might go and return again to the last day of solemn assembly. But the former seems more probable. l (i. e.) Thy dwellings, which he calls Tents, as respecting their present state, and withal to put them in mind afterwards when they were setled in better habitations, that there was a time when they dwelt in Tents.

8 Six days m thou shalt eat unleavened bread, and on the seventh day shall be a † solemn assembly to the LORD thy God thou shalt do no work therein. † Heb. restraint.

m To wit, besides the first day, on which the passeover was killed: or rather besides the seventh and the last day, which is here mentioned apart, not as if leavened bread might be eaten then, for the contrary was evident from many places, but because there was something more to be done, to wit a solemn assembly to be kept. So in all there were seven days, as it is said Exod. 12. 15. Levit. 23. 6. Numb. 28. 17.

9 * Seven weeks n thou shalt number unto thee: begin to number the seven weeks from such time as thou beginnest to put the sickle to the corn o. *Exod. 23. 16. Lev. 23. 15. Num. 28. 26.

n Of which see on Exod. 34. 22. Levit. 23. 10, 15. o (i. e.) To reap thy corn, thy Barly, when the first-fruits were offered, Levit. 23. 10, 11.

10 And thou shalt keep the feast of weeks p unto the LORD thy God, with a ‖ tribute of a freewill-offering of thine hand, which thou shalt give q unto the LORD thy God, according as the LORD thy God hath blessed thee: ‖ Or, sufficiency.

p (i. e.) Of Pentecost, Act. 2. 1. q Over and besides what was appointed Levit. 23. 17, 20. Numb. 28. 27, 31.

11 And thou shalt rejoyce before the LORD thy God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite that is within thy gates, and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow that are among you, in the place which the LORD thy God hath chosen, to place his Name there.

12 And thou shalt remember that thou wast a bond-man in Egypt; and thou shalt observe and do these statutes.

13 Thou shalt observe the feast of tabernacles r seven days, after that thou hast gathered in thy † corn, and thy wine. †Heb. floor, and thy winepress.

r Of which see on Exod. 23. 16. Levit. 23. 34. Numb. 29. 12.

14 And thou shalt rejoyce in thy feast, thou and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are within thy gates.

15 Seven days shalt thou keep a solemn feast unto the LORD thy God, in the place which the LORD shall chuse: because the LORD thy God shall bless thee in all thy increase, and in all the works of thine hands, therefore thou shalt surely rejoyce s.

s To wit, in God and the effects of his favour, praising him with glad heart.

16 * Three times in a year shall all thy males t appear before the LORD thy God, in the place which he shall chuse: in the feast of unleavened bread, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of tabernacles: * they shall not appear before the LORD empty. * Exod. 23. 14. 17. and 34. 23. * Exod. 34. 20.

k Either laid upon his head to design the person, or stretched out to throw the first stone at him. God thus ordered it, partly for the caution of witnesses, that if they had through malice or wrath accused him falsely, they might now be afraid to imbrue their hands in innocent blood; partly for the security and satisfaction of the people in the execution of this punishment. c Who being all highly and particularly obliged to God, are bound to express their zeal for his honour and service, and their detestation of all persons and things so highly dishonourable and abominable to him.

m He speaks to the inferior Magistrates, who were erected in several Cities, as appears by the opposition of these to them at Jerusalem. If, saith he, that thou hast not skill or confidence to determine so weighty and difficult a cause. n (i. e.) In capital causes in matter of bloodshed, whether it be wilful or casual murder, whether punishable or pardonable by those laws, Exod. 21. 13, 20, 22, 28. and 22. 2. Numb. 35. 11, 16, 19. Deut. 19. 4, 10. o In civil causes or suits betwen plaintifs and defendants about words or Estates. p (i.e.) Either 1. In Ceremonial causes, between plague and plague, between the true leprosie, which is oft times called the plague, and the seeming and counterfeit leprosie; which was oft times hard to determine. And under this, as the most eminent of the kind, may seem to be contained all ceremonial uncleannesses. But this seems not probable. 1. Because the final determination of the matter of leprosie is manifestly left to any particular Priest, Levit. 13. and 14. 2. because the person suspected of leprosie was not to be brought to Jerusalem, to be tryed there, but was to be shut up in his own city and house, Levit. 13. 4, 5. and the Judges at Jerusalem neither could nor would determine his case without once seeing the person. 3. Because the case of leprosy was not hard or difficult, as those causes are said to be, but plain and evident, and so particularly and punctually described, that the Priest needed only eyes to decide it. Or rather, 2. In Criminal Causes, concerning blows, or wounds inflicted by one man upon another, and to be requited to him by the sentence of the Magistrate according to that law, Exod. 21. 23, 24, 25. wherein there might be many cases of great difficulty and doubt, about which see the Annotations there. q (i.e.) Such things or matters, of blood and pleas and strokes being doubtful, and the Magistrates divided in their opinions about it, for if it was a clear cause, this was not to be done. Some make this an additional clause to comprehend these and all other things thus, as if he had said, and in general, any words or matters of strife or contentions. r To wit, to set up his Worship and Tabernacle, or Temple there; because there was the abode, both of their Sanhedrim, or chief Councel, which was constituted of Priests and civil Magistrates, who were most able to determine all controversies, and of the High-Priests, who were to consult God by Urim, Numb. 27. 21. in great matters, which could not be decided otherwise.

9 And thou shalt come unto the priests the Levites s, and unto the judge t that shall be in those days, and enquire, and they shall shew thee the sentence of judgment u.

s (i.e.) Unto the great councel, which it is here denominated from, because consisted chiefly of the Priests and Levites, as being the best Expositors of the Laws of Gods, by which all those Controversies mentioned v. 8. were to be decided. And the High-Priest was commonly one of that number, and may seem to be understood here under the Priests whereof he was the chief. t This Judge here is, either 1. The supream civil Magistrate, who was made by God the keeper of both Tables, and was by his Office to take care for the right administration both of justice, and of Religion, who was to determine causes and suits by his own skill and authority in civil matters, and by the Priests direction in spiritual or sacred causes. But this seems obnoxious to some difficulties, because this Judge was obliged to dwell in the place of Gods Worship, which the civil Magistrate was not, and oft times did not: 2 This Judge is one whose Office it was to expound and teach others the Law of God, as it here follows, v. 11. therefore not the civil Magistrate. Or 2. The High-Priest, who was obliged to live in this place to whom it belonged to determine some at least of those controversies mentioned v. 8. and to teach and expound the Law of God. And he may be distinctly named, though he be one of the Priests, partly because of his eminency and superiority over the rest of them, as after all David's enemies; Saul is particularly mentioned. Isa. 18. title. and partly to shew that amongst the Priests he especially was to be consulted in such cases. But this also seems liable to objections. 1. That he seems to be included under that general expression of the Priests and Levites. 2. That the Priest is never in all the Scripture called simply the Judge, but generally called the Priest, or the High-Priests, or cheif-Priest, or the like; and it is most probable if Moses had meant him here, he would have expressed him by some of his usual Names and Titles, and not by a strange Title which was not likely to be understood. 3. That divers controversies, between blood and blood, plea and plea, stroke and stroke, were not to be determined by the High-Priest, but by other Persons, as appears by Exod. 18. 22. Deut. 1. 16, 17. Or, 3. The Sanhedrim or Supreme Councel, which as was said before, consisted partly of Priests, and partly of wise and learned persons of other tribes, as is confessed by all the Jewish and most other writers. And so this is added by way of explication, partly to shew that the Priests and Levites here mentioned, as the persons to whom all hard controversies are to be referred are not all the Priests and Levites which should reside in Jerusalem, but only such of them as were or should be Members of that great Councel, by whom, together with their fellow-Members of other Tribes these causes were to be decided, partly to intimate, that that great Councel which had the chief and final determination of all the aboveaid controversies, was a mixed assembly consisting of wise and good men, some Ecclesiastical, and some Secular; as it was most meet it should be, because many of the causes which were brought unto them were mixed causes. As for the Conjunctive particle, and, that may be taken either disjunctively for or, as it is Exod. 21.15,17. compared with Mat. 15.4. and Num. 30. 5, 6. compared with Mat. 12. 37. and Levit. 6.3,5. 2 Sam. 2. 19. 21. or exegetically, for, that is, or, to wit, as Judg. 7. 24. 2 Sam. 17. 40. and 28. 3. 2 Chron. 35. 14. and so the sence may be, the Priests, the Levites, or the Judge, as it is, v. 12. or, the Priests, the Levites, that is, the Judge, or the Judges appointed for this work. And though the word Judge be of a singular number, and may seem to denote one person, yet it is only an Enallage, or change of the number, the singular for the plural, Judges which is most frequent, as Gen. 3. 2, 7. and 49. 6. 1 Sam. 31. 1. 1 King. 10. 22. and 2 King. 11.10. compared with 2 Chron. 9. 21. and 23.9. and in the Hebrew, 1 Chron. 4. 42. where divers Officers are called one Head. And so it is most probably here. 1. Because the following words which belong to this, run altogether in the plural number, they, they, they, &c. here and v. 10, 11. 2. Because here is the same Enallage in the other branch, the same person or persons being called the Priests here, and the Priest. v. 12. 3. Because for the judge here is put the Judges, Deut. 19.17. where we have the same phrase used upon the same or a like occasion, the men between whom the controversie is shall stand before the Lord, before the Priests and the Judges, which shall be in those days. Nor is it strange, but very fit and reasonable, that so many persons being all united in one body, and to give judgment or sentence by the consent of all, or the greatest part should be here called by the name of one Judge, as indeed they were; and for that reason, the Priests are spoken of in the plural number, because they were many as also the other members of that Assembly were, and the Judge in the singular number, because they all constitut d but one Judge. u Heb. The word, or matter of judgment, i. e. the true state and right of the cause, and what judgment or sentence ought to be given in it.

10 And thou shalt x do according to the sentence, which they of that place (which the LORD shall chuse) shall shew thee, and thou shalt observe to do y according to all that they inform thee:

x (i. e.) Thou shalt pass sentence: for he speaks to the inferior Magistrates; as was before noted, who were to give sentence, and came hither to be advised about it. y It is very observable that this place doth not speak of all controversies of faith; as if they were to believe every thing which they should teach, but only of some particular matters of practise and strife between man and man, to which it is plainly limited, v. 8. And they are not here commanded to believe, but only to do, which is thrice repeated.

z These words are a manifest limitation of the foregoing assertion, that they were to do according to all that the Judge or Judges informed him. And they seem to limit and regulate 1. The Judges in their sentence, that they shall not upon pretence of this supreme Authority, put into their hands, presume to teach or direct otherwise than the Law prescribes: 2. The people in their obedience: that they shall not simply obey them in all things but so far forth as their sentence is according to the Law and Word of God, but not when their commands are evidently contrary to Gods Law, for then, say even Popish Commentators on this place, they must obey God rather than Man. And this cannot be denyed by any man of sence, upon supposition that this place speaks of, and this power given to the Priest or Judge reacheth to all controversies or questions of Faith and Manners, as the Papists would extend it: for put case these Priests or Judges should give a sentence directly contrary to the express words of Gods Law, thou shalt worship a graven Image, as Aaron did in the case of the calf; thou shalt prophane the Sabbath, thou shalt dishonour thy Father and Mother, thou shalt Murder, Steal, commit Adultery, &c. I ask, were the people in this case bound to do as the Judge determined, or not? If any say they were, such a bold and wicked assertion must needs strike all sober Christians with horror; and if they say they were not, then this must needs be taken for a limitation. But if this place speak only of particular suits between man and man, as is apparent from the notes on v. 8. And in all such cases although the Judge be hereby confined and tied to his rule in giving the sentence, yet it seems but fit and reasonable that people should be bound simply to acquiesce in the sentence of their last and highest Judge, or else there would have been no end of strife.

12 And * the man that will do presumptuously a, † and will not hearken unto the priest (that standeth to minister there before the LORD thy God) or unto the judge, even that man shall die, and thou shalt put away the evil b from Israel.

* Hos. 4. 4. † Heb. not to hearken.

a (i. e.) That will proudly and obstinately oppose the sentence given against him. This is opposite to ignorance and error, Exod. 21. 13, 14. b Either 1. The evil thing, that scandal, that pernicious example. Or, 2. That evil, refractory, pernicious person, whose practise herein tends to the dissolution of all Government, and the ruine of the Commonwealth of Israel.

13 And all the people shall hear, and fear, and do no more presumptuously.

14 When thou art come unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, and shalt possess it, and shalt dwell therein, and shalt say, I will set a King over me c, like as all the nations that are about me:

c He only foresees and foretells what they would do, but doth not seem to approve of it, because when they did this thing for this very reason here alledged, he declares his utter dislike of it, 1 Sam. 8. 7.

15 Thou shalt in any wise set d him king over thee, whom the LORD thy God shall chuse e. One * from among thy brethren f shalt thou set king over thee: thou mayst not set a stranger over thee g, which is not thy brother.

* Jer. 30. 21.

d (i. e.) Appoint, or instal. If you will chuse a King, which I shall suffer you to do, I command you to observe this in your choice. e Approve of, or appoint. So it was in Saul, and in David. God reserved to himself the nomination both of the Family, and of the person. See 1 Sam. 9. 15. & 10. 24. and 16.12. 1 Chron. 28. 4,5. f Of the same nation and Religion; partly because such a person was most likely to maintain true Religion, and to rule with righteousness, gentleness, and kindness to his subjects; and partly that he might be a fit type of Christ their supream King, who was to be one of their brethren. g To wit, by thy own choice and consent; but if God by his providence and for their sins should set a stranger over them, they might submit to him, as appears from Jer. 38.17. Ezek. 17. 12. Mat. 22. 17.

16 But he shall not multiply horses to himself g, nor cause the people to return to Egypt h, to the end that he should multiply horses: forasmuch as the LORD hath said i unto you, * ye shall henceforth no more return that way k.

* chap. 28.68. Hos. 11. 5.

g To wit, excessively, beyond what the State and Majesty of his place required, Hereby God would prevent many sins and mischiefs, as 1. Pride of heart, and contempt of his people. 2. Oppression and Tyranny, and the Imposition of unnecessary burdens upon his people. 3. Carnal confidence, which by this means would be promoted. See Psal. 33. 17. Prov. 21. 31. 4. Much commerce with Egypt, as it here follows, which was famous for Horses, as appears from Exod. 14. 23. 1 King. 10. 26, 28. 2 Chron. 1.16. and. 9. 28. Isa. 31. 1, 3. Ezek. 17. 5. h Either for habitation; or for trade. This God forbad to prevent, 1. Their unthankfulness for their deliverance out of Egypt; 2. Their confederacies with the Egyptians, their trusting to them for aid, which they were very prone to, and their infection by the Idolatry and other manifold wickednesses, for which Egypt was infamous. 3. Their multiplication of Horses, as it here follows. i When or where? Ans. Either implicitely, when he shewed his dislike of their return to Egypt, as Exod. 13. 17. Numb. 14. 3, 4. or expressly at this time, The Lord hath now said it to me, and I in his name, and by his command declare it to you. k In the way that leads to that place.

17 Neither shall he multiply wives to himself l, that his heart turn not away m: neither shall he greatly multiply to himself n silver and gold.

l As the manner of other Kings was. m To wit, from God and his law, Either 1. To Idolatry and Superstition, to which women are oft times prone, and especially such women as he was likely to chuse, even the Daughters of Neighbouring and Idolatrous Idolatrous Kings and Princes, as Solomon did: Or. 2. To other manifold sins and violations of his duty to his people, either by neglect and contempt of his business through effeminacy and sloath, or by oppressing his people, and perverting justice to comply with the vast and exorbitant desires of his Wives. m Least this should lift up his heart in confidence and pride, which God abhors, and beget in him a contempt of his people; and least it should encline or engage, or enable him to burden his people with immoderate exactions. They are not simply forbidden to be rich, if God made them so either by the voluntary gifts of their subjects, or by the spoils of their enemies, which was the case of David and Solomon, and Jehoshaphat, &c. but they are forbidden either inordinately to desire, or irregularly, to procure great riches by grinding the faces of their poor people, or by other wicked arts and courses, as the manner of their neighbouring Kings was.

18 And it shall be when he sitteth upon the throne of his kingdom, that he shall write o him † a copy of this law in a book, out of that which is before the Priests the Levites p.

o Either with his own hand, as the Jews say, or, at least by his command and procurement. p (i. e.) Out of the true Original, which was carefully kept by the Priests in the Sanctuary; Deut. 31. 26. 2 King. 22. 8. partly that it might be a true and perfect copy, and partly that it might have the greater authority and influence upon him, coming to him, as from the hand and presence of God.

* Jos. 1. 8. 19 And * it shall be with him, and he shall read therein all the days of his life q, that he may learn to fear the LORD his God, to keep all the words of this law, and these statutes, to do them.

q (i. e.) Diligently and constantly, neither the greatness of his place, nor the weight and multitude of his business shall excuse or hinder him.

20 That his heart be not lifted up above his brethren r, and that he turn not aside from the commandment, to the right hand, or to the left: to the end that he may prolong his days in his kingdom, he, and his children in the midst of Israel.

r He intimates, that the Scriptures diligently read and studied, are a powerful and probable means to keep him humble, because they shew him that, though a king, he is subject to an higher Monarch, to whom he must give an account of all his administrations and actions, and receive from him his sentence and doom agreeable to their quality, which is sufficient to abate the pride of the haughtiest person in the world, if he duly consider it.

CHAP. XVIII.

* Num. 18. 20. Chap. 10. 9. * 1 Cor. 9. 13. 1 THE Priests, the Levites, and all the tribe of Levi, * shall have no part nor inheritance with Israel: they * shall eat the offerings of the LORD made by fire a, and his inheritance b.

a By which phrase we here manifestly see that he means not burnt-offerings, which were wholly consumed by fire, and no part of them eaten by the Priests, but other Sacrifices, whereof part was offered to the Lord by fire, and part was allotted to the Priests for their food. b (i. e.) The Lords portion or inheritance, which God had reserved to himself, as Tithes and first Fruits, and other oblations distinct from those which were made by fire, and so these two branches make up the whole of that which belonged to God, and was by him given to the Levites.

2 Therefore shall they have no inheritance among their brethren: the LORD c is their inheritance, as he hath said unto them.

c (i. e.) The Lords part and right, as was now said.

3 And this shall be the priests due from the people, from them that offer a sacrifice d, whether it be ox or sheep, and they shall give unto the priest the shoulder, and the two cheeks, and the maw e.

d To wit, a Sacrifice of Thanksgiving, or a Peace-offering, as appears from Levit. 7. 31, 33. which is oft times called simply a Sacrifice, as Exod. 18. 12. Levit. 17. 5, 8. Numb. 15. 3. Deut. 12. 27. e Qu. How doth this agree with other Texts, in which the shoulder and the breast, and those parts only are the Priests due, not the cheeks and maw? Answ. 1. Who shall tie Gods hands: what if he now makes an addition, and enlargeth the Priests commons? Nothing more usual than for one Scripture to supply what is lacking in another, and for a latter Law of God to add to a former. 2. The Breast may be here omitted, because it is comprehended under the Shoulder, to which it is commonly joyned, and with which it was waved before the Lord. 3. The Hebrew word here rendred Maw or Stomach, which was reckoned among dainties by the Antients, is not to my remembrance used elsewhere, and therefore it may have another signification, and some render it the breast, others take it for the uppermost part of the stomach, which lies under the breast.

4 The * first fruit also of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thy oil, and the first of the fleece of thy sheep shalt thou give him. * Num. 18. 12, 24.

5 For * the LORD thy God hath chosen him out of all thy tribes, to stand to minister in the Name of the LORD f, him, and his sons for ever. * Exod. 28. 1. Num. 3. 10.

f (i. e.) Either by Authority and Commission from him, or for his Honour, Worship or Service.

6 And if a Levite come from any of thy gates out of all Israel, where he sojourned, and come with all the desire of his mind unto the place which the LORD shall chuse g;

g Either for any private occasions, or to sojourn there for a season, or rather with full purpose to fix his abode, and to spend his whole time and strength in the service of God as appears by the sale of his patrimony mentioned, v. 8. It seems probable that the several Priests were to come from their Cities to the Temple by turns, before Davids time, and it is certain they did so after it. But if any of them were not contented, with this seldom attendance upon God in his Tabernacle, or Temple, and desired more intirely and constantly to devote himself to Gods service there, he was permitted so to do, because this was an eminent act of piety joyned with self-denyal to part with those great conveniencies which he could and did enjoy in the City of his possession, and to oblige himself to more constant and laborious work about the Sacrifices, &c.

7 Then he shall minister in the Name of the LORD his God, as all his brethren the Levites do, which stand there before the LORD.

h To wit, with their Brethren who were in actual ministration as they share with them in the work, so shall they also in the incouragements. i Though he have an estate whereby he may subsist raised by the sale of his House in his City, and his Cattel, and other moveables, yet you shall not upon this ground either deny of diminish their part of your maintenance. The reason of this Law was partly because he that waited on the Altar, ought to live by the Altar: & partly because it was fit he should keep his money, wherewith he might redeem what he sold, if afterwards he saw occation for it. Heb. Besides his sales by the fathers, i. e. Of that which came to him by his Fathers, or, according to his Fathers, or, his Fathers house, and these words may be joyned not with the word immediately foregoing, but with the former part of the verse, the next word coming in by a kind of parenthesis, in this manner, and order, Besides that which cometh by the sale of their goods, they shall have like portions to eat to what their Brethren have, each of them eating according to his Fathers house, i. e. A Gershonite shall eat with his Brethren the Gershonites, who are then ministring, and a Merarite with the Merarites, &c. and so there shall be no disturbance nor change in the appointed courses by their accession to the number.

9 When thou art come into the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not learn to do after the abominations of those nations.

y (i. e.) Will produce and ſend into the world in due time. z Thoſe words may be underſtood ſecundarily concerning the ſucceſſion of Prophets which God would raiſe for the inſtruction of his Church, both becauſe this is alledged as an argument why they need not conſult with diviners, &c. becauſe they ſhould have Prophets at hand whenſoever it was needful, to adviſe them, and becauſe this Prophet is oppoſed to the falſe prophets, and a general rule is hereupon given for the diſcovery of all ſucceeding Prophets whether they be true or falſe. ver. 20, 21, 22. but they are chiefly to be underſtood of Chriſt, as the following words ſhew which do not truly and fully agree to any other, particularly where he is ſaid to be like unto Moſes, which is ſimply denied concerning all other Prophets, Deut. 34. 10. and therefore it is not probable that it ſhould be ſimply affirmed concerning all true Prophets ſucceeding him. But Chriſt was truly, and in all commendable parts like him, in being both a Prophet and a King and a Prieſt and Mediatour, as Moſes was, in the excellency of his Miniſtery and work, in the glory of his miracles, in his familiar and intimate converſe with God, &c. CHAP. XIX.

1 WHen the LORD thy God * hath cut off the nations, whoſe land the LORD thy God giveth thee, and thou † ſucceedeſt them, and dwelleſt in their cities, and in their houſes:

† Heb. inheriteſt, or, poſſeſſeſt.

*Exod. 21. 13. Num. 35. 10, 11 Joſh. 20. 2.

2 * Thou ſhalt ſeparate three cities for thee in the midſt of thy land a, which the LORD thy God giveth thee to poſſeſs it.

a To wit beyond Jordan, as there were three already appointed on this ſide Jordan, Numb. 35. 14. He ſaith, in the midſt of the land, either for, in the land, as in the midſt of the city, Jer. 52. 25. is the ſame with that, in the city, 2 King. 25. 19. or to deſign the places, that they ſhould be ſituated in the midſt of the ſeveral parts of their land, to which they might conveniently and ſpeedily flee from all the parts of the land.

3 Thou ſhalt prepare thee a way b, and divide the coaſts of thy land (which the LORD thy God giveth thee to inherit) into three parts c, that every ſlayer may flee thither.

b Diſtinguiſh it by evident marks, and make it plain and convenient, to prevent miſtakes and delays. c Not into more, becauſe it was fit that theſe places ſhould, as far as it was poſſible, be at ſome conſiderable diſtance from the friends of the ſlain perſon, leaſt the ſight of the manſlayer might have provoked their paſſion and occaſioned his ruine.

4 And this is the caſe of the ſlayer which ſhall flee thither, that he may live, whoſo killeth his neighbour ignorantly, whom he hated not † in time paſt.

5 As when a man goeth into the wood with his neighbour to hew wood, and his hand fetcheth a ſtroke with the ax to cut down the tree: and the † head ſlippeth from the † helve, and † lighteth upon his neighbour that he die, he ſhall flee unto one of thoſe cities, and live:

6 Leſt the avenger of blood purſue the ſlayer d, while his heart is hot, and overtake him, becauſe the way is long, and † ſlay him e, whereas he was not worthy of death, inaſmuch as he hated him not † in time paſt.

d This verſe is to be joyned with ver. 3. as is evident, the 4th. and 5th. verſes, coming in as a parentheſis, which is uſual, in Scripture and other authors. e Which is ſuppoſed, but not allowed, as appears from the following words. But the avenger of blood is not to be puniſhed with death for killing the manſlayer in caſe he found him without the borders of the city of refuge after he had been received there, Numb. 35. 26, 27. becauſe then he was guilty of a new crime, to wit, a contempt of Gods ordinance, and a groſs neglect of the duty of ſelf-preſervation, and therefore deſerved death from God, who might permit it to be inflicted by the avenger of blood.

7 Wherefore I command thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt ſeparate three cities for thee.

* chap. 12. 20.

8 And if the LORD thy God * enlarge thy coaſt f (as he hath ſworn unto thy fathers) and give thee all the land which he promiſed to give unto thy fathers:

f As far as Euphrates. See Gen. 15. 18. Exod. 23. 31. Deut. 1. 7.

9 (If thou ſhalt keep all theſe commandments to do them, which I command thee this day, to love the LORD thy God, and to walk ever in his

* Josh. 20. 7. his wayes) * then shalt thou add three cities more for thee, beside these three:

10 That innocent blood be not shed in thy land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and so blood be upon thee.

11 But if any man hate his neighbour, and lie in wait for him, and rise up against him, and smite him † mortally, that he die, and fleeth into one of these cities:

12 Then the elders of his city g shall send and fetch him thence h, and deliver him into the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die.

g Either of the slain person, who were most likely to prosecute the murderer: or, of the murderer, because God would oblige even his own fellow citizens to prosecute him to death, that it might appear how hateful murder and the murderer is to God and ought to be to all men. h Demand him of the Elders of the city of refuge, who upon the hearing of the cause and the evidence of the murder were obliged to deliver the offender to justice.

13 Thine eye shall not pity him, but thou shalt put away the guilt of innocent blood from Israel, that it may go well with thee.

* chap. 27. 17. † Heb. bound.

14 * Thou shalt not remove thy neighbours † land-mark i, which they of old time have set in thine inheritance, which thou shalt inherit, in the land that the LORD thy God giveth thee to possess it.

i By which the several portions of lands distributed to several families were distinguished one from another. See Job. 24. 2. Prov. 22. 28. Hos. 5. 10.

* Num. 35. 30. chap. 17, 6. Mat. 18. 16. Joh. 8. 17. 2 Cor. 13. 1. Heb. 10. 28.

15 * One witness shall not rise up k against a man for iniquity, or for any sin, in any sin that he sinneth: at the month of two witnesses, or at the mouth of three witnesses shall the matter be established.

k Or, not stand, or, not be established, accepted, owned as sufficient, it is the same word which in the end of the verse is rendred, be established.

16 If a false witness l rise up against any man to testifie against him ‖ that which is wrong:

l A single witness, though he speak truth, is not to be accepted for the condemnation of another man, but if he be convicted of false witness, this is sufficient for his own condemnation.

17 Then both the men between whom the controversie is, shall stand before the LORD, before the priests, and the judges m, which shall be in those days:

m See on Deut. 17. 9, 12. and observe that the controversies both here and there referred to and to be determined by the Priests and Judges, are onely between man and man, and not doctrines of faith and manners, as the Papists for their own advantage pretend.

18 And the judges shall make diligent inquisition: and behold, if the witness be a false witness, and hath testified falsly against his brother:

* Prov. 19. 5, 9. * chap. 13. 5. and 17. 7.

19 * Then shall ye do unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother: * so shalt thou put the evil away from among you.

20 And those which remain n shall hear and fear, and shall henceforth commit no more any such evil among you.

n (i. e.) The rest of the people. See Deut. 13. 11. and 17. 13.

* Exod. 21. 23, Lev. 24. 20. Mat. 5. 38.

21 And thine eye shall not pity, but * life shall go for life, eye for eye o, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

o What punishment he intended or the law allotted to the accused, if he had been convicted, the same shall the false accuser bear. Of this law see on Exod. 21. 24. Lev. 24. 20.

CHAP. XX.

* Psal. 20. 7. Isa. 31. 1.

1 WHen thou goest out to battel a against thine enemies, and seest * horses, and chariots, and a people more than thou, be not afraid of them: for the LORD thy God is with thee, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

a Upon a just and necessary cause, as upon great provocation, or for thy own defence.

2 And it shall be when ye are come nigh unto the battel, that the priest b shall approach, and speak unto the people c.

b An eminent Priest appointed for this work, and to blow with the holy trumpets, Numb. 10. 9. and 31. 6. c Either successively to one regiment of the army after another, or to some by himself, to others by his brethren or deputies, which accompanied him for that end.

3 And shall say unto them, Hear, O Israel, ye approach this day unto battel against your enemies: let not your heart † faint d, fear not, and do not † tremble, neither be ye terrified because of them.

† Heb. Le tender † Heb. make haste.

d Heb. be soft or tender. Softness or tenderness of heart towards God is commended, 2 King. 22. 19. but towards enemies it is condemned, here and ver. 8. Levit. 26. 36. 2 Chron. 13. 7. Isa. 7. 4.

4 For the LORD your God is he that goeth with you, to fight for you against your enemies, to save you.

5 And the officers shall speak unto the people, saying, What man is there that hath built a new house, and hath not dedicated it e? let him go and return to his house f, lest he die in the battel, and another man dedicate it g.

e Which was done by feasting and thanksgiving to God. See the title of Psal. 30. and Nethem. 12. 27. Heb. hath initiated it, i. e. entred upon it, taken possession of it, dwelt in it. f Least his heart be set upon it, and thereby he be negligent or timerous in the battel to the scandal and prejudice of others. g And so he should lose and another get the fruit of his labours, which might seem unjust or hard. And God provides even for mens infirmities. But this and the following exceptions are to be understood only of a War allowed by God, not in a War commanded by God, not in the approaching war with the Canaanites, from which even the Bridegroom was not exempted, as the Jewish writers note.

6 And what man is he that hath planted a vineyard h, and hath not yet † eaten of it? let him also go and return unto his house, lest he die in the battel, and another man eat of it.

† Heb. made it common. See Lev. 19, 23, 24

h This and the former dispensation were generally convenient, but more necessary in the beginning of their settlement in Canaan, for the encouragement of those who should build houses or plant vineyards, which was chargeable to them, and beneficial to the commonwealth. i Heb. made it common, to wit, for the use of himself and family and friends, which it was not till the fifth year, Levit. 19. 23, &c. Jer. 31. 5.

* chap. 24. 5.

7 * And what man is there that hath betrothed k a wife, and hath not taken her? let him go and return unto his house, lest he die in the battel, and another man take her.

k Which was done by a solemn and mutual promise, but not by an actual contract. See Gen. 19. 14. Deut. 22. 23.

* Judg. 7. 3.

8 And the officers shall speak further unto the people: and they shall say, * What man is there that is fearful and faint-hearted? let him go and return unto his house, lest his brethrens heart † faint as well as his heart.

† Heb. melt.

9 And it shall be when the officers have made an end of speaking unto the people, that they shall make captains of the armies † to lead the people l.

† Heb. to be in the head of the people.

l Or rather, as the Hebrew hath it, they shall set or place the captains of the armies in the head or front of the people under their charge, that they may conduct and manage them, and by their example incourage their souldiers. But it is not likely they had their captains to make or chuse when they were just going to battel.

* 2 Sam. 20. 18.

10 When thou comest nigh unto a city to fight against it, then * proclaim peace unto it m.

m This seems to be understood not of the cities of the Canaanites, as is manifest from ver. 16, 17, 18. who were under an absolute sentence of utter destruction, Exod. 23. 32, 33. Deut. 7. 1, 2. whence they are blamed that made any league or peace with them, Judg. 2. 2. but of the cities either of other nations who injured or disturbed them, or commenced war against them, or aided their enemies, or oppressed their friends and allies; or of the Hebrews themselves, if they were guilty or abettors of Idolatry or Apostacy from God, or of sedition or rebellion against authority, or of giving protection and defence to capital offenders. See Gen. 14. Judg. 20. 2 Sam. 20. &c.

11 And it shall be, if it make thee answer of peace peace, and open unto thee, then it shall be, that all the people that is found therein, shall be tributaries unto thee, and they shall serve thee n.

n By their purses, and by their labours too, as appears from 1 King. 9. 15. 2 Chron. 8. 7.

12 And if it will make no peace with thee, but will make war against thee, then thou shalt besiege it.

13 And when the LORD thy God hath delivered it into thine hand, thou shalt smite every male thereof with the edg of the sword o.

o A just punishment of their obstinate refusal of peace offered.

14 But the women, and the little ones p, and * the cattel, and all that is in the city, even all the spoil thereof, shalt thou † take unto thy self, and thou shalt eat the spoil of thine enemies, which the LORD thy God hath given thee.

* Josh. 8. 2.

p Excused by their sex or age, as not involved in the guilt, nor being likely to revenge their quarrel.

15 Thus shalt thou do unto all the cities which are very far off from thee, which are not of the cities of these nations.

16 But * of the cities of these people which the LORD thy God doth give thee for an inheritance, thou shalt save alive nothing that breatheth q:

* Num. 33 52. chap. 7. 1, 2.

q Heb. no soul. i. e. no man, as that word is oft used. Compare Jos. 10. 40. with 11. 14. For the beasts, some few excepted as being under a special curse, were given them for a prey.

17 But thou shalt utterly destroy them, namely, the Hittites, and the Amorites, the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee:

18 That they teach you not to do after all their abominations which they have done unto their gods: so should ye sin against the LORD your God.

19 When thou shalt besiege a city a long time in making war against it, to take it, thou shalt not destroy the trees thereof r, by forcing an ax against them, for thou mayest eat of them, and thou shalt not cut them down (‖ for the tree of the field is mans life s, † to imploy them in the siege.

r To wit, the fruit trees, as appears from the following words. Which is to be understood of a general destruction of them, not of the cutting down of some few of them, as the conveniency of the siege might require. s (i. e.) The sustenance or support of his life, as life is taken Deut. 24. 6. But this place may be otherwise translated, as it is in the Margent of our English Bibles: For, O man (the Hebrew letter He being here the note of a vocative case, as it is Psal. 9. 7.) the tree (or, trees, the singular number for the plural, as is common) of the field is (or ought, as the Hebrew Lamed is used Esth. 9. 1. Psal. 62. 10.) to be employed in the siege, or, as it is in the Hebrew, to go before thy face, i. e. to make fences for thy security, in the siege. The trees of the field, I here understand not in its general signification of all trees including fruit-bearing trees, as that phrase is commonly used, but in its more special and distinct signification, for unfruitful trees, as it is taken Isa. 55. 12. or such as grow only in open fields, such as are elsewhere called the trees of the wood, 1 Chron. 16. 33. Isa. 7. 2. or the trees of the forest, Cant. 2. 3. Isa. 10. 19. which are opposed to the trees of the gardens, Gen. 3. 2, 8. Eccl. 2. 5. Ezek. 31. 9. as the flower of the field, Psal. 103. 15. Isa. 40. 6. and the lilies of the field, Mat. 6. 28. are opposed to those that grow in Gardens, and are preserved and cultivated by the gardeners art and care. And so it is a very proper argument to dissuade from the destroying of fruit-trees, because the wild and unfruitful trees were sufficient for the use of the siege. And this sence fitly agrees with the following words, where the concession or grant which here is delivered in more ambiguous terms of the tree of the filed is repeated and explained concerning the trees which thou knowest that they be not trees for meat.

20 Only the trees which thou knowest that they be not trees for meat, thou shalt destroy, and cut them down, and thou shalt build bulwarks against the city that maketh war with thee, until † it be subdued.

CHAP. XXI.

1 IF one be found slain in the land, which the LORD thy God giveth thee to possess it, lying in the field a, and it be not known who hath slain him:

a Or, in the city, or any place: only the field is named, as the place where such murders are most commonly committed and most easily concealed.

2 Then thy elders and thy judges b shall come forth, and they shall measure c unto the cities which are round about him that is slain.

b Those of thy Elders who are Judges: for the latter word explains and restrains the former, the Judges or rulers of all the neighbouring cities, who were all concerned in this enquiry. c Unless it be evident and confessed which city is neareſt, for then measuring was superfluous.

3 And it shall be that the city which is next unto the slain man, even the elders of that city shall take an heifer which hath not been wrought with, and which hath not drawn in the yoke d.

d A fit vicegerent and representative of the murderer, in whose stead it was kil'd, who by this act hath shewn himself to be a son of Belial, who would not bear the yoke of Gods law. A type also of Christ, who was obliged to no work and under no yoke, but what he had voluntarily taken upon himself.

4 And the elders of that city shall bring down the heifer unto a rough valley, which is neither eared nor sowen e, and shall strike off the heifers neck f there in the valley.

e Partly to represent the hard and unprofitable and untutoured heart of the murderer; and partly that such a desert and horrid place might beget an horrour of murder and of the murderer. f To shew what they would and should have done to the murderer if they had found him.

5 And the priests the sons of Levi shall come near g (for * them the LORD thy God hath chosen to minister unto him, and to bless in the Name of the LORD) and * by their † word shall every controversie h, and every stroke be tried.

* chap. 10. 8.
* chap. 17. 8, 9.

g Both to direct them in all the circumstances of action and to see that the law was observed, and to bless them in Gods name, by praying for them, and absolving or pronouncing them guiltless in this matter. h Not absolutely all manner of controversies that could possibly arise, as if their word were to determine whether there were a God or providence or no, whether God should be worshipped, and his commands observed or no, whether Moses was a true Prophet or an impostour, whether Apostate and Idolatrous Israelites should be punished or no; which is apparently absurd and ridiculous, but every such controversie as might arise about the matter here spoken of, nothing being more usual than to understand universal expressions in a limited sence, and indeed this is limited and explained by the following words, and every stroke, the particle and being put expositively, of which instances have been formerly given, i. e. every controversie which shall arise about any stroke, whether such a mortal stroke as is here spoken of, a murder, which may well be called a stroke, as to smite is oft used for to kill, as Gen. 4. 15. Levit. 24. 17. &c. or any other stroke or wound given by one man to another.

6 And all the elders of that city that are next unto the slain man, * shall wash their hands i over the heifer that is beheaded in the valley.

* See Ps. 19. 12.

i In testimony of their innocency. See on Mat. 27. 24.

7 And they shall answer k, and say, Our hands have not shed this blood l, neither have our eyes seen it m.

k To wit, to the Priests who shall examine them and determine this controversie. l This about which the present enquiry is made: or this which is here present: for it is thought the Corps of the slain man was brought into the same place where the heifer was slain. m Nor have we seen or understood how or by whom this was done.

8 Be merciful, O LORD, unto thy people Israel whom thou hast redeemed, and * lay not innocent blood † unto thy people of Israels charge: and the blood shall be forgiven them n.

* Judg. 9. 24.

n (i. e.) Not imputed to them nor punished in them: for God is sometimes said to forgive, when he doth not punish, Psal. 78. 38. Besides though there was no moral guilt in this people, yet there was a ceremonial uncleanness in the land, which was to be expiated and forgiven.

9 So shalt thou put away the guilt of innocent blood from among you, when thou shalt do that which is right in the sight of the LORD.

10 When thou goest forth to war against thine enemies o, and the LORD thy God hath delivered them into thine hand, and thou hast taken them captive;

o Of other nations, but not of the Canaanites, for they might not spare their women, and much less marry them, Exod. 34. 16. Deut. 7. 3.

11 And seest among the captives a beautiful woman, and hast a desire unto her p, that thou wouldest have her to thy wife:

p Or, hast cleaved to her, to wit, in love: or hast taken delight in her. Which may be a modest expression for lying with her, and seems probable, because it is said v. 14. that he had humbled her, to wit, by military insolence when he took her captive, not after he had married her, for then he would have expressed it thus, because thou hast married her, which had been more emphatical than to say, because thou hast humbled her. And here seem to be two cases supposed, and direction given what to do in both of them, 1. that he did desire to marry her, of which he speaks ver. 11, 12, 13. 2. that he did not desire this, or not delight in her, of which he speaks, ver. 14.

12 Then thou shalt bring her home to thine house, and she shall shave her head, and ‖ † pare her nails q.

q Either 1. to take off his affections from her by rendring her uncomely and deformed, but then the last words must not be rendred, shall pare her nails, but shall nourish them or suffer them to grow, as the Chaldee, Arabick and divers of the learned Jews and other Interpreters render it. Or 2. to express her sorrow for the loss of her father and mother, as it follows ver. 13. it being the antient custom of mourners in most nations to shave themselves and in some to pare their nails, in others to suffer them to grow. Or rather 3. in token of her renouncing her heathenish Idolatry and superstition, and of her becoming a new woman, and embracing the true religion. Which her captive condition and subjection to his will would make her inclinable to do in profession.

r (i.e.) Either 1. those goodly raiments in which she was when she was taken captive, in stead of which she now must put on a servile habit. as this is generally understood, or rather 2. those servile and sordid raiments which were put upon her when she was taken captive, as the manner was to do with captives, as the phrase it self seems to intimate, as prison-garments, Jer. 52. 33. are such garments as prisoners use to wear; and garments of praise are praise-worthy or glorious garments, and it seems harsh to call those garments of captivity, which are made for and generally worn by free persons only, and which are usually taken away from persons when they come into captivity; Add, that this doth not seem to be any part or token of her sorrow, but rather a mending of her condition, and exchanging her servile habit for a better and more decent one, which might be though this were a mourning habit. s Either their death, or, which was in effect the same, her final separation from them. Withal this signified her alienation from them or from their superstitious and Idolatrous courses, and her translation of her love from all other persons to her husband and to the true religion. Compare Psal. 45. 11. t Supposing what might very rationally be supposed of one in her circumstances, and what she signified by the foregoing rites, that she should submit to her husbands Religion, in which case the marriage might be tolerable. Or this was a permission and indulgence given to them for the hardness of their hearts, as in the case of Divorce, Deut. 24. 1. Mat. 19. 8.

14 And it shall be, if thou have no delight in her u, then thou shalt let her go whither she will, but thou shalt not sell her at all for mony, thou shalt not make merchandise of her x, because thou hast humbled her y.

u Either 1. after thou hast married her, and so this is a permission of a Divorce, which being indulged towards an Israelitish woman, was not likely to be denied towards a stranger. Or rather 2. before thy marriage: for it is not probable, that God having given him competent time for the trial of his affections to her before he was permitted to marry her would suffer him upon so sleight an occasion within a day or two after so solemn a contract to send her away: nor is there a word spoken here of any Divorce. x (i.e.) Make gain of her, either by using her to thy own servile works, or by prostituting her to the lusts or to the service of others. y (i.e.) Lain with her as this phrase is oft used, as Gen. 34. 2. Deut. 22. 24, 29. Judg. 19. 24. Ezek. 22. 10, 11.

15 If a man have two wives z, one beloved, and another hated a, and they have born him children, both the beloved, and the hated: and if the first-born son be hers that was hated:

z Either 1. both together: which practise, though tolerated, is not hereby made lawful, but only provision is made for the children in that case. Or 2. one after another. a Comparatively, i. e. less loved, as Gen. 29. 31. Mat. 6. 24. Luk. 14. 26.

16 Then it shall be, when he * maketh his sons to inherit that which he hath, that he may not b make the son of the beloved, first-born, before the son c of the hated, which is indeed the first-born.

* 2 Chro. 11. 19, 22.

b It is not lawful, because contrary to the rights and law of nature. c Or, before the face of the son, i.e. in his life time, as this phrase is understood Gen. 11. 28. and 16. 12. and 25. 18. And when this phrase is rendred before another it signifies only in the presence of another, but never notes the preference of one person to another, which the Hebrews express in another manner. And this may be added to intimate, that if the eldest son were dead and had left a child, the father was free to give the right of his first-born unto his second son rather than to the child of the eldest. Or this phrase may be an aggravation of the fact, whereby his father did in a manner spit in his face, and fasten a reproach upon him in his very sight and presence.

17 But he shall acknowledge d the son of the hated for the first-born, by giving him a double portion e of all † that he hath: for he is the * beginning of his strength f; the right of the first-born is his.

d (i.e.) Make it appear that he owns him. e For the phrase see 2 King. 2. 9. Zach. 13. 8. and for the thing see Gen. 25. 31. 1 Chron. 5. 1. f (i. e.) The first evidence of his manly strength and ability for procreation.

18 If a man have a stubborn and rebellious son, which will not obey the voice of his father, or the voice of his mother, and that when they have chastened him, will not hearken unto them:

19 Then shall his Father and his mother g lay hold of him, and bring him out unto the elders of his city h, and unto the gate of his place.

g The consent of both is required to prevent the abuse of this Law to cruelty. And it cannot reasonably be supposed that both would agree without manifest necessity and the sons abominable and incorrigible wickedness, in which case it seems a fit and righteous law, because the crime of Rebellion against his own Parents was so high in it self, and did so fully signifie what a pernicious Member, and son of Belial he would be in the Commonwealth of Israel, who had dissolved all his Natural Obligations. Yet the Jews say this Law was never put in practice, and therefore it might be made for terror and prevention, and to render the authority of Parents more sacred and powerful. h Which was a sufficient caution to preserve Children from the malice of any hard-hearted Parents, because these Elders were first to examine the cause with all exactness, and then to pronounce the sentence.

20 And they shall say unto the elders of his city, This our son is stubborn and rebellious i, he will not obey our voice: he is a glutton, and a drunkard k.

i Adds incorrigibleness to all his wickedness. k Under which two offences others of a like or worse nature are comprehended by a Synecdoche.

21 And all the men of his city shall stone him l with stones that he die: so shalt thou put evil away from among you, and all Israel shall hear, and fear.

l Which was the punishment appointed for blasphemers and Idolaters, which if it seem severe, it is to be considered that Parents are in Gods stead, and entrusted in good measure with his authority over their Children, and that Families are the matter and foundation of the Church and Commonwealth, and they who are naughty Members and Rebellious children in them do commonly prove the bane and plague of these, and therefore no wonder if they are nipped in the bud.

22 And if a man have committed a sin worthy of death, and he be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree m:

m Which was done after the Malefactor was put to death some other way this publick shame being added to his former punishment. See Jos. 7. 25. and 8. 29. and 10. 26. 2 Sam. 4. 12.

23 His body shall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou shalt in any wise bury him that day (for * he that is hanged, is † accursed of God n) that thy land be not defiled o, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

* Gal. 3. 13. † Heb. the curse of God.

n (i. e.) He is in a singular manner cursed and punished by Gods appointment with a most shameful kind of punishment as this was held among the Jews and all Nations; and therefore this punishment may suffice for him, and there shall not be added to it that of lying unburied, which was another great calamity, Jer. 16. 4. And this curse is here appropriated to those that are hanged, partly because this punishment was inflicted only upon the most notorious and publick Offenders, and such as brought the curse of God upon the community, as Numb. 25. 4. 2 Sam. 21. 6. and principally to foresignifie that Christ should undergo this execrable punishment, and be made a curse for us, Gal. 3. 13. which though it was yet to come in respect to men, yet was present unto God, and in his eye at this time. And so this is delivered with respect unto Christ, as many other passages of Scripture manifestly are. o To wit, morally, either by inhumanity towards the dead: or rather by suffering the monument or memorial of the mans great wickedness, and of Gods curse to remain publick and visible a longer time than God would have it, whereas it should be put out of sight, and buried in oblivion.

CHAP. XXII.

* Exod. 23. 4. THou * shalt not see thy brothers a ox, or his sheep go astray, and hide thy self from them b: thou shalt in any case bring them again unto thy brother.

a So called by communion not of Religion, but of nature, as having one Father, even God, Mal. 2. 10. as appears 1. Because the same Law is given about their Enemies ox, &c. Exod. 23. 4. 2. Because else the obligation of this law had been uncertain, seeing men could not ordinarily tell whether the straying Ox or Sheep belonged to a Jew or to a stranger. 3. Because this was a duty of common justice and charity, which the Law of Nature taught even Heathens, and it is absurd to think that the Law of God delivered to the Jews should have less charity in it than the law of nature given to the Gentiles. b (i. e.) Dissemble or pretend that thou dost not see them, or neglect and pass them by as if thou hadst not seen them.

2 And if thy brother be not nigh unto thee c, or if thou know him not d, then thou shalt bring it unto thine own house e, and it shall be with thee until thy brother seek after it and thou shalt restore it to him again f.

c Which may make the duty more troublesome or chargeable. d Which implies, that if they did know the owner, they should restore it to him. e To be used like thine own Cattel. f The owner, as it may be presumed, paying the charges.

3 In like manner shalt thou do with his ass, and so shalt thou do with his raiment, and with all lost things of thy brothers, which he hath lost, and thou hast found, shalt thou do likewise; thou mayest not hide thy self g.

g (i. e.) Dissemble that thou hast found it. Or, hide it, i.e. conceal the thing lost.

4 Thou shalt not see thy brothers ass, or his ox fall down by the way, and hide thy self from them: thou shalt surely help him h to lift them up again.

h (i. e.) Thy Brother, the owner. Compare Exod. 23. 5.

5 The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a womans garment i: for all that do so, are abomination unto the LORD thy God.

i To wit, ordinarily or unnecessarily, for in some cases this may be lawful, as to make an escape for ones life. Now this is forbidden, partly for decency sake, that men might not confound, nor seem to confound those Sexes which God hath distinguished, that all appearance of evil might be avoided, such change of garments carrying a manifest umbrage or sign of softness and effeminacy in the man, of arrogance and impudency in the woman, of lightness and petulancy in both; and partly to cut off all suspicions and occasions of evil, which this practice opens a wide door unto.

6 If a birds nest chance to be before thee in the way, in any tree, or on the ground, whether they be young ones, or eggs, and the dam sitting upon the young, or upon the eggs, thou shalt not take the dam with the young.

7 But thou shalt in any wise let the dam go k, and take the young to thee, that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days.

k Partly for the Birds sake, which suffered enough by the loss of its young; for God would not have cruelty exercised towards the brute Creatures: and partly for mens sake to restrain their greediness and covetousness that they should not monopolize all to themselves, but might leave the hopes of a future seed for others.

8 When thou buildest a new house, then thou shalt make a battlement l for thy roof, that thou bring not blood m upon thine house, if any man fall from thence.

l (i. e.) A fence or breastwork, because the roofs of their houses were made flat or plain, that men might walk on them See Judg. 16. 27. 1 Sam. 9. 25. 2 Sam. 11. 2. Neh. 8. 16. Mat. 10. 27. m (i. e.) The guilt of blood, by a mans fall from the top of thy house, through thy neglect of this necessary provision.

9 * Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with divers seeds n: lest the † fruit of thy seed o which thou hast sown, and the fruit of thy vineyard be defiled p.

* Lev. 19. 19. † Heb. fulness of thy seed.

n Either 1. With divers kinds of seeds mixed and sowed together between the rows of Vines in thy Vineyard: which was forbidden to be done in the Field, Levit. 19. 19. and here, in the Vineyard. Or 2. With any kind of seed differing from that of the Vine, which would produce either Herbs, or Corn, or Fruit-bearing-Trees, whose Fruit might be mingled with the Fruit of the Vines. Now this and the two following precepts, though in themselves small and trivial, are given, according to that time and state of the Church, for documents or instructions in greater matters, and particularly to commend to them simplicity and sincerity in all their carriages towards God and Men, and to forbid all mixture of their Inventions with Gods Institutions in Doctrine or Worship. o Heb. The fulness of thy seed, i. e. that seed when it is ripe and full. See Exod. 22. 29. Numb. 18. 27. p Either 1. Naturally, corrupted or marred, whilest one seed draws away the fat and nourishment of the Earth from the other, and so both are starved and spoiled. Or rather 2. Legally and Morally, as being prohibited by God's Law, and thereby made unclean; as on the contrary, things are sanctified by God's word, allowing and approving them, 1 Tim. 4. 5. Heb. be sanctified, or, be as a sanctified thing, by an Ellipsis of the particle, as, i. e. unlawful for the owners use, as things sanctified were. Or, sanctifying is put for polluting, by a figure called Euphemismus, which is frequent in Scripture, as when blessing is put for cursing, as Job 2. 9. and in other Authors, as when they use sacred for execrable.

10 Thou shalt not plow with an ox and an ass together q.

q Either 1. Because the one was a clean beast, the other unclean; whereby God would teach men to avoid polluting themselves by the touch of unclean persons or things, 2 Cor. 6. 14. Or, 2. Because of their unequal strength, whereby the weaker, the ass, would be oppressed and over-wrought. Or 3. For mystical reasons, of which see on v. 8. and Levit. 19. 19.

11 * Thou shalt not wear a garment of divers sorts, as of woolen and linnen together.

* Lev. 19. 19. * Num. 15. 38.

12 Thou shalt make thee * fringes r upon the four † quarters of thy vesture, wherewith thou covereſt thy self s.

r Or Laces, or Strings, partly to bring the commands of God to their remembrance, as it is expressed, Numb. 15. 38. and partly as a publick profession of their Nation and Religion, whereby they might be discerned and distinguished from strangers, that so they might be more circumspect to behave themselves as became the people of God, and that they should not be ashamed to own their God and Religion before all the World. s These words are either restrictive to the upper Garment wherewith the rest were covered; or argumentative, why they should use these things, because herewith they might possibly fasten their Garments, and prevent the uncovering themselves, as might easily happen, when they wore no breeches, but only loose Garments.

13 If any man take a wife, and go in unto her t, and hate her, t (i. e.) Hath had carnal knowledge of her.

14 And give occasions of speech u against her, and bring up an evil name upon her, and say, I took this woman, and when I came to her, I found her not a maid;

u Heb. of words, i. e. of discourses or diffamations.

15 Then shall the father of the damsel, and her mother, take and bring forth the tokens of the damsels virginity x, unto the elders of the city, in the gate.

x (i. e.) The linnen cloth or sheet, as is expressed v. 17. which in the first congress was infected with blood, as is natural and usual. But because this is not now constant, the enemies of Scripture take occasion to quarrel with his Law, as unreasonable and unjust, and such as might oppress the innocent, and hence take occasion to reject the Holy Scriptures. It were much more reasonable for these men either to expound this place metaphorically of producing those proofs and testimonies of her virginity which should be as satisfactory as if that cloth were produced, as some of the Jews understand it, or modestly to acknowledge their own Ignorance in this, as they are forced to do in many other things, and not impudently to conclude it is insoluble, because they cannot resolve it. But there is no need of such general answers, many things may be particularly said for the vindication of this law. 1. That it was necessary for that people, because of their hard-heartedness towards their Wives, and their levity and desire of change of Wives. 2. That either this tryal, or at least the proof of her Virginity, was to be taken presently after the day of marriage, and that proof was to be admitted afterwards upon occasion. 3. That this Law was seldom or never put in execution, as the Jews note, and seems to be made for terror and caution to Husbands and Wives, as many other Laws have been in like cases, 4. That that God who gave this Law, did by his Providence govern all Affairs, and rule the Tongues and Hearts of Men, and therefore would doubtless take care so to order matters that the innocent should not suffer by this means, which he could prevent many ways. 5. That there is a great difference in times and climates. Who knows not that there are many things now by our Moderns thought uncertain or false, which by the Antient Physitians were thought and affirmed to be true and certain in their times and Countrys, and that many signs of Diseases and other things do generally hold true in those more Southernly and warmer parts of the World which are many times deceitful in our Northern and colder Climates? 6. That this very way of tryal of Virginity hath been used not only by the Jews, but also by the Arabians and Egyptians, as is affirmed by divers Learned Writers, among whom yet it was more doubtful and hazardous than among the Jews, who might promise to themselves that God would guide the execution of his own Law to a just and good issue. 7. That this sign if it were uncertain in persons of riper years, yet it may be reasonably thought certain and constant in Virgins of young and tender age, and that the Jews did ordinarily marry their Daughters when they were about 12 or 13 years old, as is confessed, as making haste to roll away that reproach which they thought to be in an unmarried state.

16 And the damsels father shall say unto the elders, I gave my daughter unto this man to wife, and he hateth her:

17 And lo, he hath given occasions of speech against her, saying I found not thy daughter a maid: and yet these are the tokens of my daughters virginity: and they shall spread the cloth before the elders of the city.

18 And the elders of that city shall take that man and chastise him x.

x Either 1. By the following mulct. Or. 2. By severe reproofs, which that word oft signifies. Or, 3. By stripes, as is expressed, Deut. 25. 2, 3. Which is not strange, considering how pretious a thing ones good Name is, of which he endeavoured to deprive his Wife.

19 And they shall amerce him in an hundred shekels of silver, and give them unto the father of the damsel y because he hath brought up an evil name upon a virgin of Israel: and she shall be his wife, he may not put her away all his days z.

y Because this was a reproach to his family, and to himself, because such a miscarriage of his Daughters would have been ascribed to his evil education. z Which seems to have been his design in this false accusation, and therefore that liberty of a divorce which is permitted to others, Deut. 24. 1. shall be denied to him.

20 But if this thing be true, and the tokens of virginity be not found for the damsel:

21 Then they shall bring out the damsel to the door of her fathers house, and the men of her city shall stone her with stones, that she die a, because she hath wrought folly in Israel, to play the whore in her fathers house: so * shall thou put evil away from among you. * Chap. 13.5.

a Qu. Why should she die when her crime was only Fornication, which was not punished in a woman with death, Exod. 22. 16, 17? Answ. Because there was not only Fornication in this case, as Exod. 22. but this was accompanied with deep dissimulation and injury to her Husband in the false profession of Virginity, and it might be presumed that she committed this folly after she was betrothed to him, and therefore so obstinately denyed it, as knowing the danger of it in that case; Or God ordered it thus for the honour and custody of the matrimonial bed from all defilement, that she, who being defiled before she was married or betrothed, and therefore not punishable by death, yet if she should presume to carry her defilement into the married estate with a pretence of Virginity, she should then be put to death.

22 * If a man be found lying with a woman married b to an husband, then they shall both of them die: both the man that lay with the woman, and the woman: so shalt thou put away evil from Israel. * Lev. 20.10.

b If he be convicted of this fault, though not taken in the very act.

23 If a damsel that is a virgin be betrothed unto an husband c, and a man find her in the city, and lie with her:

c For by this betrothing she had actually engaged her self to another man, and was in some sort his Wife, and therefore is sometimes so called, as Gen. 29.21. Mat. 1.20.

24 Then ye shall bring them both out unto the gate of that city, and ye shall stone them with stones, that they die: the damsel because she cried not d, being in the city: and the Man because he hath humbled his neighbors Wife: so thou shalt put away evil from among you.

d And therefore is justly presumed to have consented to it.

e Which was to be examined and determined by the consideration of all the circumstances.

26 But unto the damsel thou shalt do nothing, there is in the damsel no sin worthy of death: for as when a man riseth against his neighbour and slayeth him, even so is this matter f.

f Not an act of choice, but of force and constraint.

27 For he found her in the field, and the betrothed damsel cried g, and there was none to save her.

g Which is in that case to be presumed, charity obliging us to believe the best till the contrary be manifest.

28 * If a man h find a damsel that is a virgin, which is not betrothed, and lay hold on her i, and lie with her, and they be found: * Exod. 22.16.

h (i. e.) An unmarried man, as appears, 1. From his obligation to marry the person he abused, which it is not probable would have been imposed upon him. 2. Because if the man had been married, this had been adultery, and so had been punished with death. i Which notes some kind of force or artifice whereby she was overpowered, whereas Exod. 22.16. she was enticed, which implies consent, and therefore the man doth here receive a greater punishment, because he used hostile violence towards her, which was the greater sin.

29 Then the man that lay with her shall give unto the damsels father fifty shekels of silver k, and she shall be his wife l, because he hath humbled her: he may not put her away all his days m.

k Besides the dowry, as Philo the Learned Jew notes, which is here omitted, because that was common and customary, and because it might easily be gathered out of Exod. 22. 16. it being sufficient here to mention what was peculiar to this case. l To wit, if her Father consent to it, which is to be supposed out of Exod. 22. 16. it being not likely that the Father should lose his paternal right of disposing his Child when she was in some sort forced, rather than when she was inticed. m Which others were suffered to do, Deut. 24. 1. and he who inticed the maid, Exod. 22. 16. was not prohibited to do.

30 * A man shall not take n his fathers wife o, nor discover his fathers skirt p. * Lev. 18. 8.

n To Wife. So this respects the state, and the next branch speaks of the act only. o His Mother in Law. See Levit. 18.8. and 20. 11. 1 Cor. 5. 1. p (i. e.) The skirt of the Mothers Garment, i. e. the nakedness, which is here called his fathers skirt, because his Father and Mother were one flesh, or because his Father alone had the right to uncover it. The phrase is taken from the ancient custom or ceremony of the Bridegrooms spreading the skirt of his Garment over the bride, to signifie his right to her, and authority over her, and his obligation to the marriage duty. CHAP. XXIII.

1 HE that is wounded in the ſtones a, or hath his privy members cut off, ſhall not enter into the Congregation of the LORD b.

a Heb. wounded by compreſſion or attrition or contuſion, to wit, of the ſtones, which was the courſe the Gentiles took with Infants to make them Eunuchs. And theſe Eunuchs and Baſtards v. 2. ſeem to be not only thoſe of other Nations, as ſome underſtand it, without any foundation for ſuch reſtriction, but alſo of the Iſraelites, the reaſon of this law being the ſame in all, to wit, that God would bring into diſgrace thoſe heatheniſh practices of making Eunuchs, and getting Baſtards, which doubtleſs he would eſpecially do among his own people. b Which phraſe cannot be underſtood ſo that they might come into the Church or Holy Aſſemblies to worſhip God, to pray, or hear, &c. becauſe Proſelytes of any Nation were admitted to common Church-priviledges no leſs than the Jews, as is evident from Exod. 12. 48. Levit. 22. 18. Numb. 9. 14. and 15. 15. It were abſurd to think that any of the Iſraelites for ſuch a natural or involuntary defect ſhould be ſhut out from all Gods ordinances; nor ſo that they were to be put out of the muſter-roll of Gods people, or to loſe the Priviledges common to all Iſraelites, to wit, the benefit of the year of releaſe or Jubile, which it is not probable the Iſraelites were to forfeit meerly for this unculpable imperfection; but either 1. That they ſhould not be incorporated into the Body of Iſrael by marriage, for ſo this phraſe may ſeem to have been underſtood by the whole Congregation of Iſrael, Nehem. 13. 1, 2, 3, 23, 24, 25. Although at that time the Government was in part in the hands of ſuch perſons as are here mentioned, v. 3. or of their children, ſeeing it is apparent from Ezra 10. that many Prieſts and Levites and other Officers and Rulers of Iſrael were married to ſtrange Women, whoſe iſſue are by this Law excluded from all ſhare in the Government, and for that among other reaſons Nehemiah ſeparated them from Iſrael by vertue of the Law here following. Or 2. That they ſhould not be admitted to Honours and Offices either in the Church or Commonwealth of Iſrael, and ſo the congregation of the Lord doth not here ſignifie, as commonly it doth, the body of the people, but the ſociety of the Elders or Rulers of the people, who, as they repreſent the whole Congregation, and act in their name, and for their ſervice and good, ſo they are ſometimes called by the name of the Congregation, as Numb. 35. 12, 24, 25. Joſ. 20. 6, 9. 1 King. 8. 5. compared with v. 1, 2, 3. and 1 Chron. 13. 1, 2, 4. and 29. 1, 10, 20. compared with 1 Chron. 28. 1. and 29. 6. and of the congregation of God, as it is in the Hebrew of Pſal. 82. 1. Howſoever, ſeeing they are oft called the congregation, they may very well be called in a ſpecial manner the congregation of the Lord, becauſe they were appointed by God, and act in his name and ſtead, and for his work and ſervice, and did alſo oft aſſemble near the Tabernacle where God was eminently preſent. Add to this, that this Hebrew word, Kahal, generally ſignifies a Congregation or Company of men met together, and therefore this cannot ſo conveniently be meant of all the body of the people which could never meet in one place, but of the chief Rulers, which frequently did ſo. Nor is it ſtrange that Eunuchs are excluded from government, partly becauſe ſuch perſons are commonly obſerved to want that courage which is neceſſary for a Governor, Exod. 18. 21. and partly becauſe as ſuch perſons ordinarily were diſpicable, ſo the Office and Authority in their hands was likely to be expoſed to the ſame contempt.

2 A baſtard c ſhall not enter into the congregation of the LORD: even to his tenth generation d ſhall he not enter into the congregation of the LORD.

c So the word is commonly rendred, and ſo it notes a perſon baſe-born, or born in Fornication or Adultery, or by inceſtuous or any prohibited mixtures of man and woman. Obj. 1. This Law ſeems harſh, and too ſevere for the innocent Baſtard. Anſ. 1. It was only an excluſion from Government, which was a tolerable burden. 2. It was a neceſſary caution to prevent and brand the ſin of uncleanneſs, to which the Jews were more than ordinarily prone. Obj. 2. Pharez and Jephthe were both Baſtards, yet advanced to great Honour and Authority. Anſw. God gives laws to us, and not to himſelf, and therefore he might, when he ſaw fit, confer what favour or power he pleaſed upon any ſuch perſon, as he did to theſe. But ſome add, that the Hebrew word mamzer ſignifies not every Baſtard, but a Baſtard born of any ſtrange Woman, as the word may ſeem to intimate; and as ſuch perſons generally ſeem to have been, becauſe of that ſpecial proviſion that there ſhould be no whore of the daughters of Iſrael, as it is here below, v. 17. d Or, his tenth generation, as it is in the Hebrew, and ſo in the following verſes.

* Neh. 13. 1. 3 * An Ammonite, or Moabite e ſhall not enter into the congregation of the LORD, even to their tenth generation ſhall they not enter into the congregation of the LORD for ever f.

e This may be underſtood either 1. Of the Males only, or the children of ſuch fathers, as Interpreters commonly take it. Or rather 2. Of Females alſo, or of all that were born either of ſuch Fathers or Mothers, as may be gathered from Ezra. 10. and Nehem. 13. where the Children of ſtrange Wives were ſeparated from Iſrael no leſs than the Children of ſtrange fathers. And it is an allowed maxime, that the birth ſollows the belly. And whereas the Children of Rahab and Ruth are produced to the contrary, it may be ſaid as it was before, that theſe were extraordinary inſtances, and that God when he pleaſed might exempt any particular perſon of them from this curſe, though the Iſraelites might not do ſo. f So it ſeems to note the Immutability and perpetuity of this Law, that it ſhould be inviolably obſerved in all ſucceeding ages, and not diſpenſed with for any merit in the perſons, or any pretence whatſoever. But why then ſhould this clauſe be added only here, ſeeing the foregoing laws are as inviolable as this? It ſeems therefore to extend the duration of this excluſion of them from the Congregation of the Lord beyond what was ſaid at firſt, and to be added by way of aggravation, even to their tenth generation ſhall they not enter. —— yea, even for ever; i. e. they ſhall never enter, as it is expreſſed; without any mention of the tenth Generation, Neh. 13. 1. that they ſhould not come into the Congregation of God for ever.

4 Becauſe they met you not with bread and with water in the way g when ye came forth out of Egypt, and * becauſe they hired againſt thee Balaam the ſon of Beor of Pethor of Meſopotamia, to curſe thee. * Num. 22. 5, 6.

g As the manner of thoſe times was to waite and provide for Strangers and Travellers, See Gen. 14. 18. and 18. 2, 3. and 19. 1, 2. Judg. 19. 18, 19, 20, 21. which was the more neceſſary, becauſe in thoſe times and Countries there were no ſuch publick houſes of entertainment, as now there are among us. Their fault then was unmercifulneſs to Strangers and Pilgrims, and Afflicted Perſons, which was aggravated both by their relation to the Iſraelites as being the children of Lot, and by the ſpecial kindneſs of God, and of the Iſraelites to them in not fighting againſt them as they had juſt occaſion to do, and as they did by others Deut. 2. Obj. Qu. How doth this agree with Deut. 2. 28, 29. where the Moabites which dwell in Ar are ſaid to have ſold them meat and drink? Anſw. 1. It is one thing voluntarily to meet them, and kindly to relieve them with bread and Water, which they are here denied to have done, and a quite differing thing to ſell them bread and water when they are upon their very borders, and their own intereſt forced them to do ſo. 2. It may ſeem that it was only theſe Moabites that dwelt in Ar did ſo, as is ſaid Deut. 2. 29. and that all the reſt of the people neglected or refuſed to do it, and therefore, the ſin being ſo general and national, no wonder if the puniſhment be ſo too. 3. Theſe and the following words both here and Nehem. 13. 1. are to be taken diſtributively, and this firſt member of the verſe belongs to the Ammonites, who did not meet them with bread, &c. and the latter part to the Moabites, who, together with the Midianites, but not with the Ammonites, hired Balaam, &c.

5 Nevertheleſs the LORD thy God would not hearken unto Balaam; but the LORD thy God turned the curſe into a bleſſing unto thee h becauſe the LORD thy God loved thee.

h (i. e.) Forced Balaam to bleſs thee, who was hired and inclined to curſe thee, if poſſibly he could.

6 Thou ſhalt not ſeek their peace i, nor their † proſperity all thy days for ever. † Heb. good.

i (i.e.) Make no Contracts either by Marriages or Leagues, or commerce with them, but rather ſhalt conſtantly keep a jealous eye over them, as enemies who will watch every opportunity to enſnare or diſturb thee. This counſel was now the more neceſſary, becauſe a great part of the Iſraelites lived beyond Jordan in the borders of thoſe people, and therefore God ſets up this wall of partition betwixt them, as well knowing the miſchief of bad Neighbours, and Iſraels proneneſs to receive infection from them. Each particular Iſraelite is not hereby forbidden to perform any Office of humanity to them, but the body of the Nation are forbidden all friendly and familiar converſation with them.

7 Thou ſhalt not abhor an Edomite k, for he is thy brother l: thou ſhalt not abhor an Egyptian, becauſe thou waſt a ſtranger in his land m.

k The children of Edom, only the Amalekites are excepted by Gods particular order, and upon ſpecial reaſon, Deut. 25. 17, 18, 19. l By Eſau, Jacobs brother. m And didſt receive habitation, protection and proviſion from them a long time which kindneſs thou muſt not forget for their following perſecution. It is ordinary with great men and others, that one injury or offence blots out the remembrance of twenty courteſies, but God doth not deal ſo with us, nor will he have us to deal ſo with others, but commands us to overlook and forget injuries, and to remember kindneſſes.

8 The children that are begotten of them, shall enter into the congregation of the LORD in their third generation n.

n Supposing their Grand-father, or great Grand-father turned Proselyte, and the Children continue in that faith received by such Ancestors.

9 When the host goeth forth against thine enemies then keep thee from every wicked thing o.

o Then especially take heed, because that is a time and state of confusion and licentiousness, when, as one said, the Laws of God and Man cannot be heard for the noise of arms; and because the success of thy arms and enterprizes depends upon Gods blessing, which wicked men have no reason to expect; and because thou dost then carry thy life in thy hand, and therefore hast need to be well prepared for Death and Judgment.

p Of which see Levit. 17. 4, 16, 17. or by uncleanness of any like kind. one kind being here, as oft put for all. q Qu. Why doth this uncleanness oblige a man to go out of the Camp, when it did not oblige him to such a removal, Levit. 15? Ans. 1. It is not unreasonable if they were obliged to greater strictness and purity when they were undertaking so difficult and dangerous a work. 2. There is a manifest reason of the difference, because in their houses they had private Chambers, where they could in such cases keep themselves from converse with others, whereas in the Camp their conveniencies were so small, and their occasions of action so many, that it was very hard for his fellow-Souldiers that continued with him in the same Tent or part of the Camp to avoid the touching of him, which yet was infectious, Levit. 15. 7, 22.

11 But it shall be when evening † cometh on, he shall wash himself with water: and when the sun is down, he shall come into the camp again.

12 Thou shalt have a place also without the camp: whither thou shalt go forth abroad q.

q To wit, to ease thy self, as it follows, v. 13.

13 And thou shalt have a paddle r upon thy weapon: and it shall be when thou † wilt ease thy self abroad, thou shalt dig therewith, and shalt turn back, and cover that which cometh from thee s.

r The nature of which may be known from the use, which here follows. s Partly to prevent the annoyance of our selves or others; partly to preserve and exercise Modesty and Natural honesty; and principally that by such outward rites they might be inured to the greater reverence of the Divine Majesty, and the greater caution to avoid all real and moral uncleanness, especially now when it was most necessary so to do.

14 For the LORD thy God walketh in the midst of thy camp t to deliver thee, and to give up thine enemies before thee: therefore shall thy camp be holy, that he see no † unclean thing in thee, and turn away from thee.

t Either because the Ark was commonly present with them, or at least some of the Holy Instruments, which were pledges of Gods presence: or, because God had promised to go forth with them, when they ingaged in a just and necessary war.

*1 Sam. 30. 15.

15 * Thou shalt not deliver unto his master the servant which is escaped from his master unto thee u.

u This is not to be understood universally, as if all servants that flee from their masters, though without any sufficient cause or colour of justice might be detained from them by any person to whom they fled for refuge, for this is apparently contrary to all the Laws of Religion, and Justice, and Charity and would open a door to infinite disorders and mischiefs, but it is to be understood, 1. Of the Servants of Strangers, because it follows v. 16. he shall dwell with thee, even among you, which shews that he had dwelt with, and belonged to another people. 2. Of such as belonged to the Canaanites, or other neigbouring Nations, because if he had lived in remote Countries, it is not probable that he would flee so far to avoid his Master, or that his Master would follow him so far to recover him. And for the Canaanites this sentence was most just, because both they and theirs were all forfeited to God and to Israel, and whatsoever they enjoyed was by special indulgence. And for the other Neighbours it may seem just also, partly, because some of them were within the larger limits of the land belonging to Israel by Gods grant or deed of gift, Gen. 15. 18. Jos. 1. 4. partly because by their hostile carriages they had given Israel a right to much more of theirs, than a few Servants that might possibly run away from their Masters: and especially because both Masters and Servants of these and other Nations are unquestionably at the disposal of the Lord their Maker and Soveraign Ruler. 3. Of such as upon enquiry appear to have been unjustly oppressed by their Masters, as is implyed by that phrase of his making an escape, which supposeth a deliverance from danger or vexation. Now it is not strange nor unjust, if the great God, who hates all Tyranny, and stiles himself the refuge of the Oppressed, doth interpose his authority and help to rescue such persons from their cruel Masters, who otherwise would be too strong for them. 4. Of such as came to them out of a desire to embrace the true Religion, which possibly his Master perceiving indeavoured by force to restrain him from, as it may be probably thought from his chusing and liking to live among the Israelites, expressed v. 16. Now if this great and supreme Master, to whom all other Masters are but Servants and they and theirs are absolutely in his power, shall receive and protect one that gives up himself to his service against the will of the under-Master, who in this case rebels against his Soveraign Lord, what shadow is there of injustice in the case?

16 He shall dwell with you, even among you in that place which he shall chuse, in one of thy gates where it † liketh him best: thou shalt not oppress him e.

e Taking advantage from his low and afflicted condition to be unreasonable or injurious to him.

‖ Or, Sodomitess.

17 There shall be no ‖ whore f of the daughters of Israel g, nor a Sodomite h of the sons of Israel.

f No common prostitute, such as were tolerated and encouraged by the Gentiles, and used even in their Religious worship. g Not that such practises were allowed to the strangers among them, as is evident from many Scriptures and reasons, but that it was in a peculiar manner, and upon special reasons forbidden to them, as being much more odious in them than in strangers. Though the words may be rendred, among the Daughters, and so, in the following clause, among the sons, for the Hebrew Men is sometimes used in that sence, as Numb. 32. 22. Psal. 31. 12. and so it notes that none of that sort should be permitted among them, whether Jews or Strangers? h Or, buggerer, who defileth or suffereth himself to be defiled with mankind. See Gen. 19. 5. Levit. 18. 12. 1 King. 14. 24. and 22. 47. Rom. 1. 27.

18 Thou shalt not bring the hire of a whore g, or the price of a dog h into the house of the LORD thy God for any vow i: for even both these are a abomination unto the LORD thy God.

g This is opposed to the practise of the Gentiles, who allowed both such persons and their oblations they made out of their wicked and infamous gains, and some of them kept lewd Women, who prostituted themselves in the Temples, and to the honour of their false Gods, and offered part of their profit to them. See Mich. 1. 7. Baruch 6. 43. Herod. in the end of his first book, and Strabo in his eighth book. h Either 1. Properly; the dog being a vile and contemptible creature in those Eastern parts. 1 Sam. 17. 43. and 24. 15. and 2 Sam. 3. 8. Eccles. 9. 4. and unclean by Gods designation, which yet should have been redeemed by virtue of that law, Numb. 18. 15. had it not been for this prohibition. And this may be here prohibited, either. 1. That by this one instance put for all others of the like kind they might be taught not to offer to God what cost them nothing, or was worth nothing: Or 2. To bring contempt upon that Creature, which divers of the Gentiles offered up to their Gods, and the Egyptians worshipped as Gods. Or, 3. That by comparing Whores and Dogs together, and equalling the prices of them, he might expose Whores to the highest disgrace and infamy. Or, 2. Metaphorically, as that word is oft used in Scriptures, as 1 Sam. 24. 14. Psal. 22. 16, 20. Isa. 56. 10, 11. Mat. 7. 6. Phil. 3. 2. and particularly it is used for unclean or filthy persons, 2 Pet. 2. 22. Revel. 22. 15. as Horace also calls Whores Bitches. Which name doth most properly agree to them in respect of that impudence and filthiness, and insatiableness, for which both of them are branded. And this sence may seem most proper in this place, because it agrees with all the other expressions, and as the hire of a whore answers to the whore, v. 17. so the price of a dog may seem to answer to the Sodomite, v. 17. and so all concern the same thing, whereas the price of a dog, properly so called, may seem to be quite incongruous and foreign to the place. It is true which is objected, that Law-givers use to deliver their Laws in proper, and not in metaphorical terms to prevent mistake and ambiguity. But there seems to be no great danger of mistake here where the metaphor is so clearly explained and determined by so many words joyned with it. i And much less in other sacrifices, which being of an higher Nature, and prescribed by God, must needs require more exactness actneſs than thoſe which depended much upon a mans Will and choice, as vows and free-will-offerings did. k (i. e.) The Whore and the Dog, and therefore the price of either of them cannot be acceptable. And this may ſeem to favour the latter opinion, that the Dog is here taken metaphorically rather than properly, becauſe there is no mention in the Law (ſave in this place which is in queſtion) of any abominableneſs of a Dog unto God more than of an Aſs or any other unclean creature; but how abominable Sodomites are to God is ſufficiently evident from other Scriptures and from undeniable reaſons.

19 * Thou ſhalt not lend upon uſury l to thy brother, uſury of money, uſury of victuals, uſury of any thing that is lent upon uſury.

l (i. e.) So as to receive thy principal mony or thing lent with ſuch increaſe or improvement of it, as was uſual and allowed among the Gentiles. But whether all uſury be unlawful to Chriſtians is too great a queſtion to be determined in a work of this nature. See Exod. 22. 25. Deut. 15. 3. Pſal. 15. 5. Nehem. 5. 2. Luke 6. 34.

20 Unto a ſtranger m thou mayeſt lend upon uſury, but unto thy brother thou ſhalt not lend upon Uſury: that the LORD thy God may bleſs thee in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand to, in the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it.

m (i. e.) To a perſon of any other nation, for ſo that word is generally uſed, and therefore they who reſtrain it to the curſed Canaanitiſh Nations ſeem to do ſo without any ſolid or ſufficient grounds. And though the word brother is ofttimes uſed in a general ſenſe for every man, yet, I think I may affirm that whereſoever the words brother and ſtranger are oppoſed in the Jewiſh Law, the Brother ſignifies the Iſraelite only, and the ſtranger ſignifies any perſon of what nation or Religion ſoever, whether proſelyted to the Jewiſh Religion or not, and ſo it ſeems to be meant here. And the reaſon why uſury is permitted to a a ſtranger, not to an Iſraelite, may ſeem to be this, becauſe the Iſraelites generally imployed themſelves in the management of Land and Cattle, and therefore could not make any advantage of borrowed money to ballance the uſe they ſhould pay for it, and conſequently it may be preſumed that they would not borrow mony upon uſe but for want and poverty, and in that caſe, and principally for that reaſon, uſury ſeems to be forbidden to them, as may be thought from Levit. 25. 35, 36. But the ſtrangers made uſe of their money in way of Trade and Traffick with the Iſraelites, which was more gainful and could much better bear the burden of uſury, and reap advantage from mony ſo borrowed, and theſe ſtrangers here ſpoken of are ſuppoſed to be competently rich and not poor, as may plainly appear by comparing this place with Levit. 25. 35, 36. where they are no leſs forbidden to take uſury of a ſtranger than of a brother, in caſe of poverty.

21 * When thou ſhalt vow a vow unto the LORD thy God, thou ſhalt not ſlack to pay it n: for the LORD thy God will ſurely require it of thee: and it would be ſin in thee o.

n To wit, if the matter of it be lawful and in thy power. See Numb. 30. 2. Not ſlack, or delay, becauſe delays may make thee both unable to pay it, and unwilling too, the ſenſe of one's obligation growing every day weaker than other, &c. o (i. e.) It would be laid to thy charge as a ſin and bring judgment upon thee.

22 But if thou ſhalt forbear to vow, it ſhall be no ſin in thee.

23 That which is gone out of thy lips, thou ſhalt keep and perform; even a free-will offering p, according as thou haſt vowed unto the LORD thy God, which thou haſt promiſed with thy mouth.

p Which though thou didſt freely make, yet being made thou art no longer free, but obliged to perform it.

24 When thou comeſt into thy neighbours, vineyard, then thou mayeſt eat grapes thy fill, at thine own pleaſure q: but thou ſhalt not put any in thy veſſel.

q Which was allowed in thoſe parts becauſe of the great plenty and fruitfulneſs of Vines there.

25 When thou comeſt into the ſtanding corn of thy neighbours, * then thou mayeſt pluck the ears with thine hand: but thou ſhalt not move a ſickle unto thy neighbours ſtanding corn.

But alſo from the old Teſtament, Gen. 2. 24. Mal. 2. 16. but meerly a permiſſion or toleration of that practiſe for prevention of greater miſchiefs and cruelties of that hard hearted people towards their Wives, and this only for a ſeaſon, even until the time of reformation, as it is called Heb. 9. 10. i. e. till the coming of the Meſſias, when things were to return to their firſt inſtitution and pureſt condition. And though it be true, as our Saviour obſerves, that Moſes did ſuffer theſe divorces, to wit, without puniſhing them, which alſo is here implyed, yet it muſt be acknowledged, that if we conſult the Hebrew words, thoſe three firſt verſes may ſeem to be only a ſuppoſition, and the words rendred, then let him write her, in the Hebrew run thus, and hath written her, and ſo it follows ver. 2. And ſhe be departed out of his houſe, and be gone and become another mans wife; Then follows ver. 3. which, even according to our tranſlation, carries on the ſuppoſition, And if the latter husband hate her, &c. Then follows the poſition or prohibition ver. 4.

2 And when ſhe is departed out of his houſe, ſhe may go and be another mans wife d.

d For although he could not cauſeleſſly put her away without ſin, yet ſhe being put away and forſaken by her husband might marry another without ſin, as is determined in the ſame or a like caſe, 1 Cor. 7. 15.

3 And if the latter husband hate her, and write her a bill of divorcement, and giveth it her in her hand, and ſendeth her out of his houſe: or if the later husband die, which took her to be his wife:

4 * Her former husband, which ſent her away may not take her again e to be his wife after that ſhe is defiled f: for that is abomination before the LORD, and ‖ thou ſhalt not cauſe the land to ſin g, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

*Lev.13.&14. 8 Take heed in * the plague of leproſie, that thou obſerve diligently, and do according to all that the prieſts the Levites ſhall teach you: as I commanded them m, ſo ye ſhall obſerve to do.

m By which words he plainly intimates, that they were not only to have an eye to the Levites inſtructions, but alſo and eſpecially unto the word and command of God, and that if the Levites ſentence were manifeſtly contrary to the command of God, it were not to be obeyed. As now if a Levite or Prieſt ſhould for fear or favour or gain pronounce a perſon to be clean who were really and manifeſtly unclean, and had the unqueſtionable marks of leproſie upon him, I ſuppoſe no man in his wits will queſtion, but every man that ſaw and knew this were bound to avoid the touching of him, and that if he did touch him he ſhould be defiled by it.

*Num.12.10. 9 Remember what the LORD thy God did * unto Miriam n by the way after that ye were come forth out of Egypt.

† Heb. lend the loan of any thing to, &c. 10 When thou doeſt † lend thy brother any thing, thou ſhalt not go into his houſe to fetch his pledge o.

o To prevent both the poor mans reproach by having his wants expoſed to view, and the creditors inſolence and greedineſs which might be occaſioned by the ſight of ſomething which he deſired and the debtour could not ſpare.

11 Thou ſhalt ſtand abroad, and the man to whom thou doeſt lend, ſhall bring out the pledg p abroad unto thee.

p He ſhall chuſe what pledge he pleaſe, provided only it be ſufficient for the purpoſe.

12 And if the man be poor, thou ſhalt not ſleep with his pledg q:

q But reſtore it before night, which intimates that he ſhould take no ſuch thing for pledge without which a man cannot ſleep, ſince it were an idle thing to fetch it and carry it every day. See on Exod. 22. 26, 27.

*Exod. 22.26. 13 * In any caſe thou ſhalt deliver him the pledg again, when the ſun goeth down, that he r Inſtrumentally, as miniſters are ſaid to convert and ſave ſinners, to wit, bring down the bleſſing of God upon thee by his prayers; for though his prayers, if he be not a good man, ſhall not avail for his own behalf, yet they ſhall avail for thy benefit. s (i. e.) Eſteemed and accepted by God as a work of righteouſneſs, or holineſs, or goodneſs and mercy, which oft is called righteouſneſs, as Pſal. 112. 9. Prov. 10. 2. Dan. 4. 27.

14 Thou ſhalt not oppreſs an hired ſervant t that is poor and needy, whether he be of thy brethren, or of thy ſtrangers that are in thy land within thy gates.

t Either by laying too grievous burdens of work upon him, or by with-holding his wages from him, as it follows.

*Lev. 19.13. Jer. 22. 13. † Heb. he liftеth his ſoul unto it. 15 At his day u * thou ſhalt give him his hire, neither ſhall the ſun go down upon it x, for he is poor, and † ſetteth his heart upon it u, leſt he cry againſt thee unto the LORD, and it be ſin unto thee.

u At the time appointed, weekly or daily. x To wit, after the day upon which it is due, and deſired or demanded by him, for juſtice muſt not be denied nor delayed. y Heb. lifteth up his ſoul to it, which notes his great deſire and hope of it, and his dependance upon it: See Pſal. 24. 4. Jer. 22. 27.

*2King.14.6. 2 Chron.25.4. Jer. 31.29,30. Ezek. 18. 20. 16 * The fathers ſhall not be put to death for the children, neither ſhall the children be put to death for the fathers z: every man ſhall be put to death for his own ſin a.

z Underſtand it thus, if the one be free from the guilt of the others ſin, and except in thoſe caſes where the ſoveraign Lord of Life and Death, before whom none is innocent, hath commanded it, as Deut. 13. Joſ. 7. 24. For this law is given to men, not to God, and though God do viſit the fathers ſin upon the children, Exod. 20. yet he will not ſuffer men to do ſo. a Underſtand only, and not for any other mans ſin.

*Exod.22.21, 2. Prov. 22. 22. Jer. 22.3. Ezek. 22. 29. *Exod.22.26. 17 * Thou ſhalt not pervert the judgment of the ſtranger, nor of the fatherleſs b, * nor take a widows raiment c to pledg.

b Nor of the widow, which is to be ſupplied out of the laſt member; nor indeed of any other perſon, but he particularly mentions theſe, partly becauſe men are moſt apt to wrong ſuch helpleſs perſons, and partly becauſe God is pleaſed eſpecially to charge himſelf, and ſo to charge others, with the care of thoſe who have no other refuge. See Iſa. 1. 23. Jer. 5. 28. c To wit, ſuch an one as ſhe hath daily and neceſſary uſe of, as being poor, as may appear by comparing this with ver. 12, 13. and with other places. But this concerns not rich perſons, nor ſuperfluous raiment.

18 But thou ſhalt remember d that thou waſt a bond-man in Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee thence: therefore I command thee to do this thing e.

d To wit, affectionately and practically, and by thy compaſſionate ſence of others miſeries thou ſhalt make it evident that thou haſt not forgotten thy own diſtreſſes and deliverances; e and I having thereby authority to command thee, and and thou having obligations on that account both to obey me and to pity others in the ſame calamities which thou haſt felt.

19 * When thou cutteſt down thine harveſt in thy field, and haſt forgot a ſheaf in the field, thou ſhalt not go again to fetch it: it ſhall be for the ſtranger, for the fatherleſs, and for the widow: that the LORD thy God may bleſs thee in all the work of thine hands. * Lev. 19. 9. and 23. 22.

21 When thou gathereſt the grapes of thy vineyard; thou ſhalt not glean it † afterward: it ſhall be for the ſtranger, for the fatherleſs, and for the widow. † Heb. after thee.

22 And thou ſhalt remember that thou waſt a bond-man in the land of Egypt: therefore I command thee to do this thing.

CHAP. XXV.

1 IF there be a controverſie between men a, and they come unto judgment, that the judges may judge them, then they ſhall juſtify b the righteous, and condemn c the wicked.

a About criminal matters, as it follows. b (i. e.) Acquit him from guilt and falſe accuſations, and free him from puniſhment. c Declare him guilty, and paſs ſentence of condemnation to ſuitable puniſhments upon him.

2 And it ſhall be, if the wicked man be ‖ worthy to be beaten d: that the judge ſhall cauſe him to lie down, and to be beaten before his face e, according to his fault by a certain number. ‖ Heb. beating, 1 Sam. 25. 16.

d Which the Jews ſay was the caſe of all thoſe crimes which the law commands to be puniſhed, without expreſſing the kind or degree of the puniſhment. e That the puniſhment may be duly inflicted, without exceſs or defect, which otherwiſe might eaſily happen through the executioners paſſion or partiality.

3 * Forty ſtripes he may give him, and not exceed f: leſt if he ſhould exceed, and beat him above theſe, with many ſtripes, then thy brother g ſhould ſeem vile unto thee. *2Cor.11.24.

5 * If brethren k dwell together, and one of them m die, and have no child n, the wife of the dead ſhall not marry without, unto a ſtranger o: her ‖ husbands brother ſhall go in unto her p, and take her to him to wife, and perform the duty of an husbands brother unto her.

k Strictly ſo called, as is evident from ver. 7. Gen. 38. 8. Ruth. 1. 15. Mat. 22. 24, 25. l Either 1. ſtrictly, in the ſame houſe or family: which is not probable, becauſe the married brother may be preſumed to have left his fathers houſe and ſet up a family of his own. Or 2. more largely, in the ſame town or city, or, at leaſt, countrey. This is added for a relief of their conſciences, that if the next brother had removed his habitation into remote parts, or were carried thither into captivity, which God foreſaw, would be their caſe, then the wife of the dead had her liberty to marry to the next kinſman that lived in the ſame place with her. m Either 1. the firſt and eldeſt of them, as it was practiſed Gen. 38. 6, &c. and expounded Mat. 22. 25. one being oft put for the firſt, as Gen. 1. 5. and 2. 11. Hag. 1. 1. Mark 16. 2. And the chief care was about the firſt-born, who were inveſted with ſingular priviledges and were types of Chriſt. Or 2. any of them, for the words are general, and ſo the practiſe may ſeem to have been Ruth 3. and the reaſon of the law may ſeem to be in a great meaſure the ſame, which was to keep up the diſtinction as of tribes and families, that ſo the Meſſias might be diſcovered by the family from which he was appointed to proceed, ſo alſo of inheritances which were divided among all the brethren, the firſt-born having only a double portion. n Heb. no ſon. But ſon is oft put for any child, male or female, both in Scripture and other authors, and therefore the Hebrew no ſon is rendred no child here, as it is in effect Mat. 22. 24. Mark 12. 19. Luk. 20. 28. And indeed this caution was not neceſſary, when there was a daughter, whoſe child might be adopted into the name and family, of its grandfather. o (i. e.) To one of another family, as that word is oft uſed. p Except he was married himſelf, as may appear by other Scriptures, and by the reaſon of the thing, and, as ſome add, from the phraſe of dwelling together, to wit, in their fathers family.

6 And it ſhall be that the firſt-born which ſhe beareth, ſhall ſucceed in the name of his brother q which is dead, that his name be not put out of Iſrael r.

q Shall be called and reputed his ſon. See Ruth 4. 17. r That a family be not loſt. So this was a proviſion that the number of their families might not be diminiſhed.

‖ Or, next kinſmans wife. * Ruth. 4. 7.

7 And if the man like not to take his ‖ brothers wife, then let his brothers wife go up to the gate, unto the elders, and ſay, * My husbands brother refuſeth to raiſe up unto his brother a name s in Iſrael: he will not perform the duty of my husbands brother.

s To revive his brothers name and memory.

8 Then the elders of his city ſhall call him, and ſpeak unto him t; and if he ſtand to it u, and ſay, I like not to take her:

t To convince him of the duty and perſwade him to it. u If he obſtinately refuſe it.

9 Then ſhall his brothers wife come unto him in the preſence of the elders, and looſe his ſhoe from off his foot x, and ſpit in his face y, and ſhall anſwer, and ſay, So ſhall it be done unto that man, that will not build up z his brothers houſe.

x Partly as a ſign of his reſignation of all his right to the woman and to her husbands inheritance; for as the ſhoe was a ſign of ones power and right, Pſal. 60. 8. and 108. 9. ſo the parting with the ſhoe was a token of the alienation of ſuch right, and that he would not, and henceforth might not enter upon his brothers land; and partly as a note of infamy, to ſignify that by this unnatural and diſingenuous action he was unworthy to be amongſt free-men, and fit to be reduced to the condition of the meaneſt ſervants or captives, who uſed to go barefoot, Iſa. 20. 2, 4. y As a return of his contempt upon himſelf. See Numb. 12. 14. Iſa. 50. 6. Mat. 26. 67. and 27. 30. This was not done Ruth 4. either becauſe he was not a brother, but a remoter kinſman, and ſo deſerved leſs ſhame; or becauſe Ruth did not proſecute him to the utmoſt, but freely conſented to this exchange. z A phraſe oft uſed for the procreation of children and the increaſe of a family. See Gen. 16. 2. Exod. 1. 21. 1 King. 11. 38. 1 Chron. 17. 25.

10 And his name a ſhall be called in Iſrael, The houſe of him that hath his ſhoe looſed.

a (i. e.) His perſon, names being oft put for perſons, and his poſterity alſo. So it was a laſting blot.

11 When men ſtrive together one with another, and the wife of the one draweth near for to deliver her husband out of the hand of him that ſmiteth him, and putteth forth her hand, and taketh him by the ſecrets:

12 Then thou ſhalt cut off her hand b, thine eye ſhall not pity her. c.

b Partly becauſe of the great miſchief ſhe did to him both to his perſon and poſterity, and partly to deter all women from all immodeſt and impudent carriages, and to ſecure that modeſty, which is indeed the guardian of all the vertues, as immodeſty is an inlet to all vices, as the ſad experience of this degenerate age ſhews: and therefore it is not ſtrange that it is not ſo ſeverely reſtrained and puniſhed. c Which thou wilſt be very apt to do becauſe of the infirmity of her ſex and the urgency of the occaſion, this being done for the neceſſary preſervation of her huſband.

* Lev. 19. 35, 36. † Heb. a ſtone and a ſtone.

13 * Thou ſhalt not have in thy bag † divers weights, a great and a ſmall.

d The great, either to buy with, or openly to make ſhew of: the ſmall, for their private uſe in ſelling.

† Heb. an E. pbah and an E. pbah.

14 Thou ſhalt not have in thine houſe † divers meaſures, a great and a ſmall.

15 But thou ſhalt have a perfect and juſt weight, a perfect and juſt meaſure ſhalt thou have: that thy dayes may be lengthened in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

* Prov. 11. 1.

16 For * all that do ſuch things, and all that do unrighteouſly, are an abomination unto the LORD thy God.

* Exod. 17. 8.

17 * Remember what Amalek did unto thee by the way, when ye were come forth out of Egypt. e.

e Which circumſtance greatly aggravates their ſin, that they ſhould do thus to a people who had been long exerciſed with ſore afflictions, to whom pity and help was due by the laws of nature and humanity, and whom God had in ſo glorious a manner appeared for their reſcue, which they could not be ignorant of. So this was barbarouſneſs to Iſrael, and ſetting the great Jehovah at defiance.

18 How he met thee by the way, and ſmote the hindmoſt of thee f, even all that were feeble behind thee, when thou waſt faint and weary: and he feared not God.

f Which God permitted both for the puniſhment of Iſraels ſins, and to harden and prepare them for the difficulties of their expedition.

* 1 Sam. 15. 3.

19 Therefore it ſhall be, * when the LORD thy God hath given thee reſt from all thine enemies round about, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to poſſeſs it; that thou ſhalt blot out the remembrance of Amalek g from under heaven; thou ſhalt not forget it.

g Which was in great meaſure done afterward. See 1 Sam. 15. and 27. 8. and 30. 1, 17. 1 Chron. 4. 43. Eſth. 9. 12, 13.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 AND it ſhall be when thou art come in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and poſſeſſeſt it, and dwelleſt therein.

* Exod. 23. 19. chap. 16. 10.

2 * That thou ſhalt take a of the firſt of all the fruit of the earth b, which thou ſhalt bring of thy land that the LORD thy God giveth thee, and thou ſhalt put it in a basket, and ſhalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chuſe, to place his Name there.

a This ſeems to be required of each particular maſter of a family, either upon his firſt ſettlement, or once every year at one of their three feaſts, when they were obliged to go up to Jeruſalem, as here they are. b Either of their corn, or of the fruits of trees.

3 And thou ſhalt go unto the prieſt c that ſhall be in thoſe dayes, and ſay unto him, I profeſs this day unto the LORD thy God, that I am come unto the countrey which the LORD ſware unto our fathers for to give us.

c (i. c.) To any of the Prieſts, who ſhall be appointed in Gods Gods ſtead to receive theſe oblations and acknowledgments.

4 And the prieſt ſhall take the basket out of thine hand, and ſet it down before the altar of the LORD thy God.

5 And thou ſhalt ſpeak, and ſay before the LORD thy God, A Syrian d ready to periſh e was my father, and * he went down into Egypt, and ſojourned there with a few, and became there a nation, great, mighty, and populous.

* Gen. 46. 1.

d So Jacob was, partly by his original, as being born of Syrian Parents, as were Abraham and Rebecca, both of Chaldea or Meſopotamia, which was a part of Syria largely ſo called, as is confeſſed by Strabo, b. 16. and by Pliny, b. 5. c. 12. partly by his education and converſation, for which reaſon Chriſt is called a Nazarite, and a Capernaite, and partly by his relations, his wives being ſuch, and his children too by their mothers. e Either through want and poverty; ſee Gen. 28. 11. 20. and 32. 10. or through the rage of my brother Eſau, and the treachery and cruelty of my father in law Laban.

* Exod. 1. 11. 6 And * the Egyptians evil intreated us, and afflicted us, and laid upon us hard bondage.

* Exod. 2. 23. 7 And * when we cried unto the LORD God of our fathers, the LORD heard our voice, and looked on our affliction, and our labour, and our oppreſſion.

* Exod. 12. 36, 37. 8 And * the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand, and with an outſtretched-arm, and with great terribleneſs, and with ſigns, and with wonders.

9 And he hath brought us into this place, and hath given us this land, even a land that floweth with milk and honey.

10 And now, behold, I have brought the firſt-fruits of the land, which thou, O LORD, haſt given me: and thou ſhalt ſet e it f before the LORD thy God, and worſhip before the LORD thy God.

e To wit, mediately, by the Prieſt who was to ſet it there, ver. 4. f (i. e.) the basket of firſt-fruits, ver. 2.

11 And thou ſhalt rejoyce g in every good thing which the LORD thy God hath given unto thee, and unto thine houſe, thou, and the Levite, and the ſtranger that is among you.

g (i. e.) Either 1. thou ſhalt hereby be enabled to rejoyce and take comfort in a thy enjoyments, when thou haſt ſanctified them by giving God his portion. Or 2. thou ſhalt feaſt (which is oft expreſſed by rejoycing) with the Levites and ſtrangers upon the oblations which at theſe ſolemn times were offered. Which expoſition is confirmed by comparing Deut. 16. 10, 11, 14, 15.

* chap. 14. 28. 12 When thou haſt made an end of tithing all the tithes h of thine increaſe, the third year, which is * the year of tithing i, and haſt given it unto the Levite, the ſtranger, the fatherleſs, and the widow, that they may eat within thy gates, and be filled:

h Of which ſee on Deut. 14. 28. i Heb. the year of that tithe, ſo called either 1. becauſe theſe tithes were gathered only in that year. Or rather 2. becauſe then only they were ſo beſtowed or uſed; and whereas theſe ſecond tithes for two years together were eaten only by the owners and Levites, and that in Jeruſalem in the third year they were eaten alſo by the ſtrangers, fatherleſs and widows, and that in their own dwellings. The ſeventy joyn theſe words with the following, and for Shenath, the year, read Shenith, the ſecond, and take Vau for redundant, as ſometimes it is, and read the place thus, The ſecond tithe thou ſhalt give to the Levite, &c.

13 Then thou ſhalt ſay before the LORD thy God k, I have brought away l the hallowed things m out of mine houſe, and alſo have given them unto the Levite, and unto the ſtranger, to the fatherleſs, and to the widow, according to all thy commandments which thou haſt commanded me: I have not tranſgreſſed thy commandments, neither have I forgotten them.

k (i. e.) Either before the Tabernacle or Temple: or rather, in thy private and domeſtick addreſſes to God; for this is to be ſaid preſently upon the diſtribution of theſe tithes, which was not done at Jeruſalem, but in their own private gates or dwellings, except we will ſuppoſe that after he had given away theſe tithes at home he ſhould go up to Jeruſalem meerly to make this acknowledgment, which ſeems improbable. And this is to be ſpoken before the Lord, i. e. ſolemnly, ſeriouſly, and in a religious manner, with due reſpect to Gods preſence and will and glory, which is a ſufficient ground for that phraſe. l Or, ſeparated or removed, to wit, from my own proper and private fruits. m (i. e.) The tithes which hath been ſanctified and ſet a part for theſe uſes.

14 I have not eaten thereof in my mourning n, neither have I taken away ought thereof for any unclean uſe o, nor given ought thereof for the dead p: but I have hearkened to the voice of the LORD my God, and have done according to all that thou haſt commanded me.

n (i. e.) Either 1. in my funeral ſolemnities for the dead. But this falls in with the laſt branch. Or 2. in my diſtreſs or poverty, or upon pretence of my own want, in which caſe men are tempted and inclined to fall upon ſacred or forbidden things. Or 3. in ſorrow, or grieving that I was to give away ſo much of my profits to the poor, but I have chearfully eaten and feaſted with them, as I was obliged to do. For though it be taken for granted by ſome learned Expoſitors from Deut. 14. 28, 29. that the owner was not to eat any part of the third years tithe; but to give it all away to the ſtranger and fatherleſs, &c. the contrary ſeems to me more probable from that very place, where it is ſaid, thou ſhalt lay it up within thy gates, and then it follows, that the Levite, ſtranger, &c. ſhall come to wit, to thy gates, and ſhall eat, to wit, there, as is expreſſed Deut. 26. 12. that they may eat within thy gates, and be filled. Which implies, that theſe tithes, or ſome part of them were eaten in the owners gates or dwelling, with holy rejoycing and feaſting, wherein it is moſt probable the owner had his ſhare, though it be not there expreſſed; becauſe it was evident in it ſelf from the foregoing paſſage Deut. 14. 23, &c. where the owner is allowed and commanded to eat thoſe tithes together with the Levites. And howſoever ſome think the third years tithes ver. 28. were not the ſame with thoſe ver. 23. yet it cannot with any colour of reaſon be thought that thoſe tithes which were to be eaten not only by the Levites, but alſo by the ſtrangers ver. 29. were more ſacred than thoſe that were to be eaten by none but the Levites and the owners, ver. 23, 27. or that the owner might eat of the one, and not of the other. o (i. e.) For any common uſe, the words common and unclean being oft indifferently uſed one for the other, or for any other uſe than that which thou haſt appointed, which would have been a pollution of them, p (i. e.) For any funeral pomp or ſervice or feaſt, for the Jews uſed to ſend in proviſions to feaſt with the neareſt relations of the party deceaſed of which ſee Jer. 16. 7. Ezek. 24. 17. Hoſ. 9. 4. and in that caſe both the gueſts and food were legally polluted, Numb. 19. 11. 14. and therefore the uſe of theſe tithes in ſuch caſes had been a double fault, both the defiling of ſacred food, and the imploying of thoſe proviſions upon ſorrowful occaſions which by Gods expreſs command were to be eaten with rejoycing, Deut. 14. 26. and 26. 11.

15 * Look down q from thy holy habitation, from heaven, and bleſs thy people Iſrael, and the land which thou haſt given us, as thou ſwareſt unto our fathers, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

* Iſa. 63. 15. Zech. 2. 13.

q After that ſolemn profeſſion of their obedience to Gods commands, they are taught to pray for Gods bleſſing upon their land, whereby they are inſtructed how vain and ineffectual the prayers of unrighteous or diſobedient perſons are.

16 This day the LORD thy God hath commanded thee to do theſe ſtatutes and judgments: thou ſhalt therefore keep and do them with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul.

17 Thou haſt avouched r the LORD this day s to be thy God, and to walk in his wayes, and to keep his ſtatutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and to hearken unto his voice.

r Or declared, or, profeſſed, or, owned. s (i. e.) At this time in this wilderneſs, where thou haſt accepted and ratified Gods covenant.

18 And * the LORD hath avouched thee t this day to be his peculiar people, as he hath promiſed thee, and that thou ſhouldeſt keep all his commandments e.

* chap. 7. 6. and 14. 2.

t Hath owned thee for ſuch before all the world by eminent and glorious communications and manifeſtations of his power and grace and favour in thee and for thee, by a ſolemn entring into covenant with thee and giving peculiar laws promiſes and priviledges to thee above all mankind. u Which is here mentioned as an act of Gods, becauſe though this be mans duty, yet it is the work of Gods grace that he will vouchſafe to give us ſuch commands, that he doth require and will accept of our obedience to them, and that we have any power or will to obey them, Ezek. 36. 26, 27.

19 And to make thee high above all nations, which he hath made, in praiſe, and in name, and in honour, and that thou mayeſt be an holy people unto the LORD thy God, as he hath ſpoken.

CHAP. XXVII.

1 AND Moſes with the elders of Iſrael commanded the people, ſaying, Keep all the commandments which I command you this day.

* Joſh. 4. 1. 2 And it ſhall be on that day a * when ye ſhall paſs over Jordan, unto the land which the * Joſh. 8. 32. LORD thy God giveth thee, that * thou ſhalt ſet thee up great ſtones, and plaiſter them with plaiſter b.

a (i. e.) About that time, for it was not done till ſome days after their paſſing over. Day is oft put for time, as hath been noted before. b For conveniency of writing upon them.

3 And thou ſhalt write upon them all the words of this law c, when thou art paſſed over that thou mayeſt go in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, a land that floweth with milk and honey, as the LORD God of thy fathers hath promiſed thee.

c Either 1. all the words of this book of Duteronomy. But that ſeems too large for this place. Or 2. the bleſſings and curſes here following. But they are mentioned as a different thing. Or 3. the law properly ſo called, i. e. the ſum and ſubſtance of the precepts or laws of Moſes, eſpecially ſuch as were moral and general, as may be gueſſed from the following part of the chapter, where the curſes pronounced againſt all that confirm not all the words of this law to do them are particularly applied unto the tranſgreſſours of moral laws only, ver. 15, 16, &c. And eſpecially the Decalogue, which oft goes under that name. Compare Joſ. 8. 22. &c.

4 Therefore it ſhall be when ye are gone over Jordan, that ye ſhall ſet up theſe ſtones, which I command you this day, in mount Ebal ‖, and thou ſhalt plaiſter them with plaiſter.

‖ The mount of curſing. Here the law is written, to ſignify that a curſe was due to the violatours of it, and that no man could expect juſtification or bleſſing from the works of the law, by the ſentence whereof all men are juſtly accurſed, as being all guilty of the tranſgreſſion of it in one kind and degree or other. Here the ſacrifices are to be offered to ſhew that there is no way to be delivered from this curſe, but by the blood of Chriſt, which all theſe ſacrifices did typifie, and by Chriſts being made a curſe for us, Gal. 3. 13.

5 And there thou ſhalt build an altar unto the *Exod. 20. 25. LORD thy God, an altar of ſtones: * thou Joſh 8. 31. ſhalt not lift up any iron tool upon them.

6 Thou ſhalt build the altar of the LORD thy God of whole ſtones d: and thou ſhalt offer burnt-offerings thereon unto the LORD thy God.

d (i. e.) Rough, not hewed nor poliſhed.

7 And thou ſhalt offer peace-offerings, and ſhalt eat there, and rejoyce before the LORD thy God.

8 And thou ſhalt write upon the ſtones all the words of this law very plainly e.

e So as to be eaſily read by all.

9 And Moſes, and the prieſts the Levites ſpake unto all Iſrael, ſaying, Take heed, and hearken, O Iſrael, this day thou art become the people of the LORD f thy God.

f By thy ſolemn renewing of thy convenant with me.

10 Thou ſhalt therefore obey the voice of the LORD thy God, and do his commandments, and his ſtatutes which I command thee this day.

11 And Moſes charged the people the ſame day, ſaying, 12 Theſe ſhall ſtand upon mount Gerizzim g, to bleſs the people h, when ye are come over Jordan; Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Iſſachar, and Joſeph, and Benjamin i.

g Obj. In Joſ. 8. 33. they ſtood over againſt mount Gerizzim. Anſ. 1. Both are true: they who ſtood upon the one mount ſtood over againſt the other. 2. Theſe words may be rendered, beſide or near to (as the Hebrew al oft ſignifies) mount Gerizzim, which might be over againſt it. h Whence it appears that the bleſſings alſo were pronounced as well as the curſes though they be not here mentioned. See Joſ. 8. 33. i All theſe were the children of the free-women, Leah and Rachel, to ſhew both the dignity of the bleſſings above the curſes, and that the bleſſings belong only to thoſe that are Evangelically ſuch, as this is expounded and applied, Gal. 4. 22, &c. even to thoſe that receive the Spirit of adoption and liberty. Joſeph is here put for both his ſons and tribes Manaſſeh and Ephraim, which are here reckoned as one tribe, becauſe Levi is here numbred, but when Levi is omitted, as it is where the diviſion of the land is made, there Manaſſeh and Ephraim paſs for two tribes.

k He ſaith to bleſs the people, ver. 12. but here only to curſe, not expreſſing whom, either becauſe he was loath to mention the people as objects of the curſe; or becauſe he preſumed and hoped that though ſome particular perſons might deſerve the curſe, yet the generality of the people would keep out of the reach of it, or to intimate, that though the bleſſing was peculiar to the people of Iſrael, yet the curſe was indefinite and common to all nations, as may appear from the particular ſins here numbred which are ſuch as made the Gentiles guilty and abominable to God, as is elſewhere affirmed. See Lev. 18. 28. l Four of theſe are the children of the bondwomen, to ſhew that the curſe belongs to thoſe of ſervile and diſingenuous ſpirits and carriages to God. With theſe are joyned Reuben, who by his ſhameful ſin fell from his dignity, Gen. 49. 4. and Zebulon, as the youngeſt of Leahs children, who was neceſſarily to be joyned with thoſe that the numbers might be equal.

m (i. e.) Some of the Levites, to wit, the Prieſts, which bare the Ark, as it is expreſſed Joſ. 8. 33. for the body of the Levites ſtood upon mount Gerizzim, v. 12. But theſe ſtood in the valley between Gerizzim and Ebal, looking towards the one or the other mountain as they pronounced either the bleſſings or the curſes, as may be gathered from Joſ. 8. 33. n So as they might be heard by a great number of the people, by whom the reſt were informed and directed by ſome ſignal when they ſhould anſwer.

15 * Curſed be the man that maketh any graven * Exod. 20. 4, or molten image o, an abomination unto the 23. and 34. 17. LORD, the work of the hands of the craftſmen, Lev. 19. 4. and p putteth it in a ſecret place q: and all the people ſhall anſwer and ſay, * Amen r. * 1 Cor. 14. 16.

o Under this particular he underſtands all the groſs violations of the firſt Table, as under the following branches he comprehends all other ſins againſt the ſecond Table, as is manifeſt from hence, that there are other ſins not here mentioned which are as ſinful as theſe and will as certainly expoſe a man to the curſe, as any of the reſt. p Or, although, as that particle ſometimes ſignifies. q He takes ſpecial notice of ſuch partly to ſhew the folly of thoſe men who think to hide their ſins by this means; and partly to deter men from ſuch practiſes which men could not ſee nor puniſh, by making them their own condemners and executioners. r (i. e.) So let it be: I wiſh this curſe may befal me if I be guilty of this crime. See Num. 5. 22. Jer. 11. 5.

16 * Curſed be he that ſetteth light s by his * Exod. 20. 12. father or his mother: and all the people ſhall & 21. 17. ſay, Amen.

s Or, diſpiſeth in his heart: or reproacheth or curſeth, to wit, ſecretly, as before: for if the fact was notorious it was puniſhed with death, Levit. 20. 9.

17 * Curſed be he that removeth his neigh- * chap. 19. 14. bours land-mark t: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

t To wit, deſignedly, to defraud his neighbour, or enlarge his own portion.

18 * Curſed be he that maketh the blind to * Lev. 19. 14. wander out of the way u: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

u That miſleadeth ſimple ſouls giving them pernicious counſel either for this life or for the next.

19 * Curſed be he that perverteth the judgment * Exod. 22. 21, of the ſtranger, fatherleſs, and widow: and all 22. the people ſhall ſay, Amen, chap. 10. 18.

20 * Curſed be he that lieth with his fathers * Lev. 18. 8. wife, becauſe he uncovereth his fathers skirt x: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

22 * Curſed be he that lieth with his ſiſter, * Lev. 18. 9. the daughter of his father, or the daughter of * Lev. 18. 17. his mother: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen. and 20. 14.

bour ſecretly; and all the People ſhall ſay Amen.

25 * Curſed be he that taketh reward to ſlay an innocent perſon: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

26 * Curſed be he that confirmeth not z all the words of this law to do them: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

z (i.e.) Performeth not: for he that tranſgreſſeth doth in ſome ſort deſtroy and make void the law of God, as to the main end for which it was given, even to the regulation of his life and actions, and as far as lies in him diſanuls the authority and force of Gods law.

CHAP. XXVIII.

* Lev. 26. 3.

1 AND it ſhall come to paſs, * If thou ſhalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to obſerve, and to do all his commandments which I command thee this day, that the LORD thy God will ſet thee on high a, above all nations of the earth.

a (i.e.) Advance and honour thee with divers priviledges and bleſſings, as it here follows.

2 And all theſe bleſſings ſhall come on thee, and overtake thee b, if thou ſhalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God.

b Thoſe bleſſings which others greedily follow after and oft times never overtake, they ſhall follow after thee and ſhall be thrown into thy lap by my ſpecial kindneſs.

3 Bleſſed ſhalt thou be in the city, and bleſſed ſhalt thou be in the field.

* Gen. 49. 25 Pſal. 127. 3. ‖ Heb. belly.

4 Bleſſed ſhall be * the fruit of thy † body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattel, the increaſe of thy kine, and the flocks of thy ſheep.

‖ Or, dough, or kneading-trough

5 Bleſſed ſhall be thy basket, and thy ‖ ſtore c.

c (i.e.) It ſhall always be well repleniſhed, and the proviſion thou haſt there ſhall be preſerved for and in due time brought forth to thy uſe and ſervice. See Deut. 26. 2, 10.

* Pſal. 121. 8.

6 * Bleſſed ſhalt thou be when thou comeſt in d, and bleſſed ſhalt thou be when thou goeſt out d.

d (i.e.) In all thy affairs and adminiſtrations, which are oft expreſſed by this phraſe, as Numb. 27. 17. Deut. 31. 2. 2 Sam. 3. 25. 2 Chron. 1. 10. Act. 1. 21. and 9. 28.

7 The LORD ſhall cauſe thine enemies that riſe up againſt thee, to be ſmitten before thy face: they ſhall come out againſt thee one way, and flee before thee ſeven ways e.

e (i.e.) Many ways, as is uſual when an army is totally overthrown and diſſipated.

8 The LORD ſhall command f the bleſſing upon thee in thy ‖ ſtore-houſes, and in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand unto, and he ſhall bleſs thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

f (i.e.) Shall by his ſoveraign and powerful providence give it, even when it ſeems furtheſt from thee and not likely to come to thee without a word of command from God himſelf.

* Exod. 19. 5, 6.

9 * The LORD ſhall eſtabliſh thee an holy people unto himſelf g, as he hath ſworn unto thee: if thou ſhalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, and walk in his ways.

g (i.e.) Shall confirm and eſtabliſh his covenant with thee by which he ſeparated thee to himſelf as an holy and peculiar people, and ſhall publickly own thee for ſuch, as it follows, ver. 10.

10 And all people of the earth ſhall ſee that thou art called by the Name of the LORD h, * and they ſhall be afraid of thee.

* Gen. 21. 22, 23. and 26. 28.

h (i.e.) That you are in deed and truth his people and children: See Deut. 14. 1. and 26. 18. For to be called oft-times ſignifies to be as Iſa. 47. 1, 5. and 56. 7. Mat. 5. 9, 19. and 21. 13.

* chap. 30. 9. &c. ‖ Or, for good. † Heb. belly.

11 And * the LORD ſhall make thee plenteous ‖ in goods, in the fruit of thy † body, and in the fruit of thy cattel, and in the fruit of thy ground i, in the land which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers, to give thee.

i The ſame things which were ſaid before are repeated to ſhew that God would repeat and multiply his bleſſings upon them.

12 The LORD ſhall open unto thee his good treaſure k, the heaven to give thee rain unto thy land in his ſeaſon, and to bleſs all the work of thine hand: and * thou ſhalt lend unto many nations, and thou ſhalt not borrow.

* chap. 15. 6.

k To wit, the heaven or the air, as it here follows, which is Gods ſtorehouſe, where he treaſures up rain or wind or other things for mans uſe. See Job. 38. 22. Pſal. 33. 7.

13 And the LORD ſhall make thee the head l, and not the tail, and thou ſhalt be above only, and thou ſhalt not be beneath: if that thou hearken unto the commandments of the LORD thy God, which I command thee this day, to obſerve and to do them:

l The chief of all people in power, or at leaſt in dignity and priviledges, ſo that even they that are not under thine authority ſhall reverence thy greatneſs and excellency. So it was in Davids and Solomons time, and ſo it ſhould have been much oftner and much more, if they had performed the conditions here required. For the phraſe ſee Iſa. 9. 13, 14. and 19. 15.

14 And thou ſhalt not go aſide from any of the words which I command thee this day, to the right hand or to the left, to go after other gods to ſerve them.

* Lev. 26. 14. Lam. 2. 17. Dan. 9. 11, 15. Mal. 2. 2.

15 But it ſhall come to paſs, * if thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to obſerve to do all his commandments, and his ſtatutes, which I command thee this day, that all theſe curſes ſhall come upon thee, and overtake thee m.

m So as thou ſhalt not be able to eſcape them, as thou ſhalt vainly hope and endeavour to do.

16 Curſed ſhalt thou be in the city, and curſed ſhalt thou be in the field.

17 Curſed ſhall be thy basket and thy ſtore.

18 Curſed ſhall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy land, the increaſe of thy kine, and the flocks of thy ſheep.

19 Curſed ſhalt thou be when thou comeſt in, and curſed ſhalt thou be when thou goeſt out.

20 The LORD ſhall ſend upon thee curſing, vexation, and rebuke o, in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand unto † for to do, until thou be deſtroyed, and until thou periſh quickly, becauſe of the wickedneſs of thy doings, whereby thou haſt forſaken me.

n Or, diſturbance. This ſeems chiefly to concern the mind, and its torment ariſing from the diſappointment of hopes and the preſages of its approaching miſeries. o To wit, from God not ſo much in words as by his actions, by croſs providences, by ſharp and ſore afflictions, which are oft called rebukes, as 2 King. 19. 3. Pſal. 18. 15. and 39. 11. and 80. 17. Iſa. 51. 20. and 66. 15. Ezek. 5. 15. and 25. 17.

21 The LORD ſhall make the peſtilence cleave unto thee, until he have conſumed thee from off the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it.

22 * The LORD ſhall ſmite thee with a conſumption, and with a fever, and with an inflammation, and with an extream burning and with the ‖ ſword, and with blaſting, and with mildew p: and they ſhall purſue thee until thou periſh.

p Two plagues or evil affections of corn. See 1 King. 8. 37. 2 Chron. 6. 28. Amos 4. 9. Hag. 2. 17.

23 And the heaven that is over thy head ſhall be braſs q, and the earth that is under thee ſhall be iron r.

q (i.e.) Like braſs, hard and dry and ſhut up from giving rain. See Levit. 26. 19. r Hard and chapt and barren.

24 The LORD ſhall make the rain of thy land powder and duſt r: from heaven ſhall it come down upon thee, until thou be deſtroyed s.

r Either 1. thy rain ſhall be as unprofitable to thy ground and ſeed as if it were only ſo much duſt. Or 2. Inſtead of rain ſhall come nothing but duſt from heaven, which being raiſed and carried up by the wind in great abundance doth return and fall upon the earth as it were in clouds or ſhowrs. s To wit, by famine following theſe great droughts.

* chap. 32. 30. Isa. 30. 17.

28 The LORD shall smite thee with madness, and blindness u, and astonishment of heart x:

u To wit, of mind, so that they shall not know what to do; see Job 5. 13, 14. so as they shall commonly chuse and follow the worst counsels and courses to their own ruine. x They shall be filled with wonder and horrour because of the strangeness and soreness of their calamities.

* Job 5. 14. Isa. 59. 10.

31 Thine ox shall be slain before thine eyes, and thou shalt not eat thereof: thine ass shall be violently taken away from before thy face, and † shall not be restored to thee: thy sheep shall be given unto thine enemies, and thou shalt have none to rescue them.

32 Thy sons and thy daughters shall be given unto another people b, and thine eyes shall look and fail c with longing for them all the day long: and there shall be no might d in thine hand.

b By those who have conquered them and taken them captives, who shall give or sell them to other persons, as the manner was. c Or, be consumed. partly with grief and plentiful tears shed for them; and partly with earnest desire and vain and long expectation of their return. See Psal. 119. 82. d (i. e.) No power to rescue them nor money to ransom them.

33 The fruit of thy land and all thy labours, shall a nation which thou knowest not e, eat up: and thou shalt be only oppressed and crushed always f.

e Which shall come from a far country, which thou didst not at all expect or fear, and therefore will be the more dreadful when they come, a nation whose language thou understandest not, and therefore canst not plead with them for mercy, nor expect any favour from them. f Not sometime conquered, and sometimes conquering, as the course of war commonly is, but in all times and in all thy actions and attempts foiled and worsted.

34 So that thou shalt be mad, for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

35 The LORD shall smite thee in the knees, and in the legs, with a sore botch that cannot be healed, from the sole of thy foot unto the top of thy head.

36 The LORD shall bring thee, and * thy king g which thou shalt set over thee, unto a nation which neither thou nor thy fathers have known, and * there shalt thou serve other gods h, wood and stone.

f The calamity shall be both universal, which even thy King shall not be able to avoid, much less the Subjects who have far less advantage and opportunity for escape; and irrecoverable, because he who should protect or rescue them is lost with them. See Lam. 4. 20. g Either being corrupted by their examples and counsels, or compelled to it by their tyranny. So what formerly was their choice and delight now becomes their plague and misery. And this doubtless was the condition of many Israelites under the Assyrian and Babylonish captivities, as we may gather from Jer. 44. 17, 18, 19. and other places, though many of them kept themselves free from that infection.

37 And thou shalt become * an astonishment, a proverb, and a by-word, among all nations b whither the LORD shall lead thee.

b All other nations shall wonder to see such calamities befall such a people, and when they would express any dreadful affliction in a proverbial way, they shall make use of thy example, they shall also sport themselves in thy miseries and say, these are the people of the Lord, the only Saints upon earth, &c.

* Mic. 6. 15. Hag. 1. 6.

39 Thou shalt plant vineyards, and dress them, but shalt neither drink of the wine, nor gather the grapes: for the worms shall eat them.

40 Thou shalt have olive-trees throughout all thy coasts, but thou shalt not anoint thy self with the oil: for thine olive shall cast his fruit.

41 Thou shalt beget sons and daughters, but † thou shalt not enjoy them: for they shall go into captivity.

45 Moreover, all these curses shall come upon thee, and shall pursue thee, and overtake thee, till thou be destroyed, because thou hearkenedst not unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments, and his statutes which he commanded thee.

46 And they k shall be upon thee for a sign, and for a wonder l, and upon thy seed for ever:

k (i. e.) These curses now mentioned. l (i. e.) Signal and wonderful to all that hear of them.

Possibly this may be understood of the Romans who did come from far, from the end of the earth, more truly and literally than the Chaldeans, whose Countrey was not far from Judea, and this may allude to the Eagle, which was in their ensignes.

56 The tender and delicate woman among you, which would not adventure to set the sole of her foot upon the ground, for delicateness and tenderness her eye shall be evil r towards the husband of her bosom, and towards her son, and towards her daughter,

58 If thou wilt not observe to do all the words of this law, that are written in this book, that thou mayest fear this glorious and fearful Name u, THE LORD THY GOD:

* Chap. 4. 27. * Chap. 10. 22.

62 And ye * shall be left few in number, whereas ye were * as the stars of heaven for multitude: because thou wouldest not obey the voice of the LORD thy God.

63 And it shall come to pass, that as the LORD rejoyced over you to do you good, and to multiply you: so the LORD * will rejoyce over you to destroy you x, and to bring you to nought, and ye shall be plucked from off the land whither thou goest to possess it y.

64 And the LORD * shall scatter thee among

* Lev. 26. 33. Neh. 1. 8. Jer. 16. 13.

all people, from the one end of the earth, even to the other end of the earth; and there thou shalt serve other gods, which neither thou nor thy fathers have known, even wood, and stone.

65 And * among these nations shalt thou find no ease, neither shall the sole of thy foot have rest z, but the LORD shall give thee there a trembling heart, and failing of eyes, and sorrow of mind.

* Amo. 9. 4.

z Ye shall have no settlement in the land whither you are banished, but there you shall be tossed about from place to place, and sold from person to person, or Cain-like, wander about like a Vagabond.

66 And thy life shall hang in doubt before thee a, and thou shalt fear day and night: and shalt have none assurance of thy life, a Either because thou art in the hands of thy enemies that have power and want not will, to destroy thee: or because of the terrors of thy own mind, and the guilt of thy conscience making thee to fear, even where no great cause to fear is.

67 * In the morning thou shalt say, Would God it were even: and at even thou shalt say, Would God it were morning: for the fear of thine heart wherewith thou shalt fear, and for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

* Job 7. 4.

68 And the LORD * shall bring thee into Egypt again b with ships c by the way d whereof I spake unto thee, * Thou shalt see it no more again: and there ye shall be sold unto your enemies for bond-men, and bond-women, and no man shall buy you e.

* Jer. 44. 7. Hos. 8. 13. and 9. 3. * Chap. 17. 16.

b Whence he hath now so gloriously delivered thee, as repenting of all his kindness to thee, and resolved to undo what he hath done for thee. And the remembrance of what they endured in Egypt could not but make the thoughts of returning thither again very terrible to them. c Which was literally fulfilled under Titus, when multitudes of them were carryed thither in Ships, and sold there for Slaves, as Josephus relates. And this expression seems to mind them of that time when they went over the Sea without ships, God miraculously drying up the Sea before them, &c. which now they would have occasion sadly to remember. d Or, to the way: the Hebrew Beth here signifying to, as it doth Gen. 11. 4. Levit. 16. 22. Psal. 19. 5. and 91. 12. Isa. 9. 8. And the way seems not to be meant here of the usual road-way from Canaan to Egypt, which was wholly by land, but to be put for the end of the way or journey, even the land of Egypt, for to this, and not to the road-way between Canaan and Egypt, agree the words here following, whereof I spake unto thee, thou shalt see it, (i. e. Egypt) no more again. And so that way is put for to that land in a place parallel to this, where the very same words are used, Deut. 17. 16. to which this place palpably alludes. e Either because the number of you captives shall be so great that the market shall be glutted with you; or because you shall be so loathsom and contemptible that men shall not be willing to have you for slaves. And this was the condition of the Jews after the destruction of Jerusalem, as Josephus the Jew hath left upon record.

CHAP. XXIX.

1 THese are the words of the covenant a, which the LORD commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, * beside the covenant b which he made with them in Horeb.

* Chap. 6. 2, 3.

a These are the terms or conditions upon which God hath made, i. e. renewed Covenant with you. b (i. e.) That entring into or striking of covenant. The covenant was but one in substance, but various in the time and manner of its dispensation.

2 And Moses called unto all Israel, and said unto them, * Ye have seen all that the LORD did before your eyes in the land of Egypt, unto Pharaoh, and unto all his servants, and unto all his land:

* Exod. 19. 4.

3 * The great temptations which thine eyes have seen, the signs, and those great miracles:

* Chap. 4. 34. & 7. 19.

4 Yet the LORD hath not given you an heart to perceive, and eyes to see, and ears to hear, unto this day c.

c This verse comes in by way of correction or exception to the foregoing clause in this manner, I said indeed, ye have seen, &c. v. 2. and thine eyes have seen, &c. but I must recal my words, for in truth you have not seen them, in seeing you have not seen, and perceiving you have not perceived them; you have perceived and seen them with the eyes of your body, but not with your minds and hearts, you have not seen them to any purpose purpose; you have not yet learned rightly to understand the word and works of God, so as to know them for your good, and to make a right use of them, and to comply with them: Which he expresseth thus, the Lord hath not given you, &c. not to excuse their wickedness, but partly to direct them what course to take, and to whom they must have recourse for the amending of their former errors, and for a good understanding and improvement of Gods works, and partly to aggravate their sin and to intimate that although the hearing ear, and the seeing eye, and the understanding heart be the workmanship of God, Prov. 20. 12. and the effects of his special grace, Deut. 30. 6. Jer. 31. 33. and 32. 39, &c. yet their want of this grace was their own fault, and the just punishment of their former sins; their present case being like theirs in Isays time, who first shut their eyes and ears that they might not see and hear, and would not understand, and then by the tremendous, but righteous judgment of God had their hearts made fat, and their eyes and ears closed that they should not be able to see and hear, and understand, as is manifest from the history of their carriage in the wilderness.

5 And I have led you forty years in the wilderness, your cloths are not waxen old upon you, and thy shoe is not waxen old upon thy foot d.

d So far, that it was necessary for you to throw them away, and to get new ones. See on Deut. 8. 4.

6 Ye have not eaten bread e neither have ye drunk wine or strong drink f, that ye might know that I am the LORD your God g.

e (i. e.) Common bread purchased by your own mony, or made by your own hands, but Heavenly and Angelical bread, Deut. 8. 3. Ps. 78. 24, 25. You have subsisted without bread the staff of life. f But only water out of the rock. g The Lord Omnipotent and All-sufficient for your provision without the help of any Creatures, and your God in covenant with you who hath a true affection to you, and fatherly care of you even when ordinary means fail.

7 And when ye came unto this place, * Sihon the King of Heshbon, and Og the King of Bashan came out against us unto battel, and we smote them,

8 And we took their land, and * gave it for an inheritance unto the Reubenite, and to the Gadite, and to the half tribe of Manasseh.

* Num. 32. 33.

10 Ye stand this day all of you before the LORD your God h: your captains of your tribes, your elders, and your officers, with all the men of Israel.

h In his presence, who sees your hearts and carriages, and before his Tabernacle, where it is probable they were now called together, and assembled for this work. See v. 2.

11 Your little ones, your wives, and thy stranger i that is in thy camp, from the hewer of thy wood, unto the drawer of thy water k.

i Such strangers as had embraced their Religion. k All sorts of persons, yea, even the meanest of them, such as these were, Jos. 9. 27. all sorts and ranks of servants.

12 That thou shouldest † enter into covenant l with the LORD thy God, and into his oath l, which the LORD thy God maketh with thee this day:

l (i. e.) Into covenant or agreement confirmed by a solemn oath.

13 That he may establish thee to day for a people unto himself, and that he may be unto thee a God, as he hath said unto thee, and as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.

14 Neither with you only do I make this covenant, and this oath:

15 But with him that standeth here with us this day, before the LORD our God, * and also with him that is not here with us this day m:

* See Act. 2. 39. 1 Cor. 7. 14.

m (i. e.) With your posterity. For so the covenant was made at first with Abraham and his seed, by which as God engaged himself to continue the blessing of Abraham upon his posterity, so he also engaged them to the same duties and conditions which were required of Abraham. So it is even among men where a King confers an estate upon a Subject and his Heirs for ever, upon some certain conditions all his Heirs who enjoy that benefit, are obliged to the same conditions. But whatsoever becomes of mans right, God the Creator and Soveraign Lord of all men and things hath an unquestionable right and power to oblige all persons that are or shall be to such conditions as he pleaseth, and especially to such conditions as are for their own benefit, which is the present case.

16 (For ye know how we have dwelt in the land of Egypt n, and how we came through the nations o which ye passed by.

n Where you have seen their Idolatries, and learned too much of them, as the Golden Calf shewed, and therefore need to renew your covenant with God; where also we were in dreadful bondage whence God alone hath delivered us, to whom therefore we are deeply obliged, and have all reason to renew our covenant with him. o (i. e.) With what hazards, if God had not appeared for us.

17 And ye have seen their abominations, and their † idols p, wood and stone, silver and gold, which were among them.)

p What sorry tools they are, what senceless and ridiculous deities; so that you have great reason to value your God, and to cleave to him in covenant, and to take heed of such abominable Idolatries.

18 Lest there should be q among you, man or woman, or family, or tribe, whose heart turneth away r this day from the LORD our God, to go, and serve the gods of these nations: * lest there should be among you a root s that beareth ‖ gall and wormwood t.

* Heb. 12. 15.

q Or take heed or beware lest there be. For it seems to be an Ellipsis, or defect of a verb which is usual in Scripture, and which we have in a case parallel to this, Gen. 3. 22. And now we must take care lest he put forth, &c. Or this particle, lest, may be joyned with v. 14, 15. to this purpose, I now renew the covenant with you, and with your posterity, lest any of you or yours should be tempted to depart from God, &c. r (i. e.) Who turneth away from God to Idols not by constraint, but by choice, and the inclination of his own heart. By this phrase he leads them to the spring of their sin and ruine, even their own hearts, which he admonisheth them hereby to look to above all things. s Either 1. An evil heart enclining you to such cursed Idolatry, and bringing forth bitter fruits. Or, rather 2. Some secret and subtil Apostate who lurks and works like a root under ground, and slyly conveighs his poison to the infection of others, for both the foregoing and following words speak of some particular person. t (i. e.) Which though for the present it may please your fancy, yet in the end, assure your selves, will produce bitter fruits, not only distasteful to God, but also poisonful and destructive to your selves.

19 And it come to pass when he u heareth the words of this curse x, that he bless himself in his heart y, saying, I shall have peace z, though I walk in the ‖ imagination of mine heart a, to add † drunkenness to thirst b:

u (i. e.) That root, or that man mentioned, v. 18. x (i. e.) of that oath mentioned v. 12. wherein he swore that he would keep covenant with God, and that with a curse pronounced against himself if he did not perform it. Now if when he reads this again, or hears of it from others. y (i. e.) Flatter himself in his own eyes, as Psal. 36. 2. with vain conceits and hopes, as if God did not mind such things, and either could not, or would not punish them. Compare Psal. 49. 18. Jer. 2. 20. Zech. 11. 5. z (i. e.) Safety and prosperity. a Though in my practices and worship I do not follow Gods command, but my own devices, and whatsoever my fancy best liketh, minding nothing but the gratifying of mine own fancy and humour. b (i. e.) Not only to satisfie his thirst, i. e. his concupiscence and inclination to wickedness, but even to exceed it, as Drunkards oft times take more than their appetite desires, drink out of meer wantonness, or from a desire to be drunk; and as filthy persons commit lewdness with others more than their natural inclinations desire, or their strength can well bear, meerly from a wicked mind, and from contempt of God, and because they will do so. The words may be rendred, to add thirst to drunkenness, the particle eth, which is a note of the Accusative Case, being joyned with thirst, and not with drunkenness, and so the Sence may be this, that when he hath multiplied his Sins and made himself as it were drunk with them yet he is not satisfyed therewith, but still whets his Appetite, and provokes his thirst after more; as Drunkards commonly will use means and temptations to make themselves thirst after more drink, that they may drink more abundantly. Or thus, to add the moist or moistening to the thirsty, (i. e.) in stead of restraining and mortifying, as he ought to do, fully and greedily to satisfie, his idolatrous or wicked inclinations, and resolvedly to give up himself to all the desires of his own heart. Compare Job 34. 7. Prov. 23. 35. Isa. 30. 1. and 56. 12. 4. 19.

20 * The LORD will not spare him, but then the anger of the LORD, and his jealousie shall smoke c against that man, and all the curses that are written in this book shall lie upon him: and the

* Ezek. 14. 7, 8.

c (i. e.) Shall burn and break forth with flame and smoak as it were from a furnace. Compare Psal. 18. 8. d (i. e.) destroy his person and memory from amongst men.

21 And the LORD shall separate him unto evil e, out of all the tribes of Israel, according to all the curses of the covenant f, that † are written in this book of the law:

e (i. e.) Unto some peculiar and exemplary plague, he will make him a monument of his displeasure to the whole land. f He intimates that the covenant of grace, which God made with them, hath not only blessings belonging to it, as this foolish person imagined, but curses also to the transgressors of it.

22 So that the generation to come of your children that shall rise up after you, and the stranger that shall come from a far land, shall say g, when they see the plagues of that land, and the sicknesses † which the LORD hath laid upon it:

† Heb. wherewith the LORD hath made it sick

g The words following, v. 24, 25, &c.

23 And that the whole land thereof is brimstone, and salt, and burning h, that it is not sowen, nor beareth, nor any grass groweth therein, * like the overthrow of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboim, which the LORD overthrew in his anger, and in his wrath.

* Gen. 19. 24, 25.

h (i. e.) Is burnt up and made barren, as with brimstone and salt. See Judg. 9. 45. Psal. 107. 34. Jer. 17. 6. Ezek. 47. 11.

24 Even all nations shall say, * Wherefore hath the LORD done thus unto this land? what meaneth the heat of this great anger?

* 1 King. 9. 8. Jer. 22. 8.

25 Then men shall say, Because they have forsaken the covenant of the LORD God of their fathers, which he made with them, when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt.

26 For they went and served other gods, and worshipped them; gods whom they knew not, and ‖ whom he had not † given unto them i.

i (i. e.) Whom God had not given or divided to them, as their portion, or for their worship, but hath divided them unto all Nations, as it is said, Deut. 4. 19. not for their worship, but for their use and service. So he speaks here of the Sun and Moon and Stars, which were the principal Gods worshipped by the neighbouring Nations. Or, to whom none hath given this, i. e. that they should be worshipped, or, to whom no worship belongs. So this is an argument against Idolatry. Or who had not given unto them, to wit, any thing: It is an Ellipsis of the Accusative, which is very frequent: gods known to them by no benefits received from them, as they had from their God, whom therefore it was the greater folly and ingratitnde to forsake.

27 And the anger of the LORD was kindled against this land, to bring upon it all the curses that are written in this book.

28 And the LORD rooted them out of their land in anger, and in wrath, and in great indignation, and cast them into another land, as it is this day.

29 The secret things belong unto the LORD our God k: but those things which are revealed, belong unto us, and to our children l for ever, that we may do all the words of this law.

k Having now mentioned the dreadful and amazing judgments of God upon the whole land and people of Israel, and foreseeing by the spirit of prophecy the utter extirpation and destruction which would come upon them for their wickedness, he breaks out into this pathetical exclamation either to bridle their curiosity, who hearing this, would be apt to enquire into the time and manner of so great an event, or to quiet his own mind, and satisfie the scruples of others, who perceiving God to deal so severely with his own people, when in the mean time he suffered those Nations which were guilty of grosser Atheism and Idolatry and Impiety than the generality of the Jewish people were to live and prosper in the world, might thence take occasion to deny or reproach his providence, or question the equity of his proceedings. To this he answers, that the ways and judgments of God, though never unjust, are oft-times secret and hidden from us, and unsearchable by our shallow capacities, and are matter for our admiration, not for our enquiry. l But the things which are revealed by God and his word, these are the proper object of our enquiries and studies, that thereby we may come to the knowledge of our duty by the practise whereof we may be kept from such terrible punishments and calamities as these now mentioned.

CHAP. XXX.

2 And shalt return unto the LORD thy God, and shalt obey his voice, according to all that I command thee this day, thou and thy children, with all thine heart, and with all thy soul:

f Or, For the Lord will circumcise thine heart, i. e. will by his Word and Spirit change and purge thy heart from all thine Idolatry and Superstition and Wickedness, and encline thy heart to love him, as it here follows. See Deut. 10. 16. And so this is produced to shew why and how those great things should be accomplished, God would first convert and sanctifie them, the fruit whereof should be this, that they should return and obey Gods commandments, and v. 8. and then should prosper in all things, v. 9. The Hebrew Vau is oft rendred for, and notes the reason of a thing, as 1 King. 1. 21. and 18. 3, 4. Psal. 1. 3. and 5. 12. Isa. 16. 2. and 64. 5. And this promise principally respects the times of the Gospel, and the Grace which was to be then imparted to all Gods Israel by Christ, by whom alone this circumcision is obtained, Col. 2. 11. And so having fully described to them the Law of God, the Rule of their obedience here, and in the foregoing chapters, and considering their great instability in the performance of their obedience to it, he now seasonably adds a glorious Gospel promise, and directs their faith to the Messias by whom alone they could expect or receive the establishment of their hearts in the ways of God against Apostacy.

7 And the LORD thy God will put all these curses upon thine enemies, and on them that hate thee, which persecuted thee.

8 And thou shalt return, and obey the voice of the LORD, and do all his commandments which I command thee this day.

9 * And the LORD thy God will make thee plenteous in every work of thine hand, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattel, and in the fruit of thy land for good g, for the LORD will again rejoyce over thee for good h, as he rejoyced over thy fathers:

* chap. 28. 11.

g Whereas thou didst formerly receive and enjoy these mercies for thy hurt, through thy own wicked and foolish heart, when thou wast full and fat, forgetting God, and kicking against him, Deut. 31. 20. and 32. 15. now thou shalt have them for thy good, thy heart shall be so changed by the grace of the Gospel that thou shalt not now abuse them, but imploy them to the more chearful and faithful service of God the giver of them. h (i. e.) To do thee good; as he did rejoyce to destroy thee, Deut. 28. 63.

10 If thou ſhalt hearken i unto the voice of the LORD thy God to keep his commandments and his ſtatutes which are written in this book of the law, and if thou turn unto the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul.

i This caution and condition is added to warn them that they ſhould not receive the Grace of God in vain, and to teach them, that the Grace of God doth not diſcharge mans obligation to his duty, nor excuſe him for the neglect of it, and that Converſion and Sanctification, though it be Gods work, yet it is mans duty.

11 For this commandment which I command thee this day k, it * is not hidden from thee l, neither is it far off m.

* chap. 27. 8. Ja. 45. 19.

i He ſeems to ſpeak of the law, or of that great command of loving and obeying God, mentioned here v. 2, 6, 10, 16. which is the ſum of the Law, of which yet he doth not here ſpeak ſimply, or as it is in it ſelf, but as it is mollified and accompanied with the Grace of the Goſpel, whereby God circumciſeth mens hearts to do this, as is expreſſed, v. 6. The meaning is, that although the practiſe of Gods Law ſtrictly and ſeverely be now far from us, and above our ſtrength, yet, conſidering the advantage of Goſpel Grace, whereby God enables us in ſome meaſure to our duty, and accepts of our ſincere endeavours inſtead of perfection, and imputes Chriſts perfect righteouſneſs unto us that believe, now it is near and eaſie to us. And ſo this place well agrees with Rom. 10. 6, &c. where St. Paul expounds or applies this place to the righteouſneſs of faith; by which alone the Law is ſuch as it is here deſcribed. l Heb. Is not too wonderful for thee, as Deut. 17. 8. Prov. 30. 18. Jer. 32. 17. i. e. not to hard for thee to know and do: the Will of God, which is but darkly manifeſted to other nations, Act. 17. 27. is clearly and fully revealed unto thee: thou canſt not pretend ignorance or invincible difficulty. m (i. e.) Out of thy reach.

12 * It is not in heaven n that thou ſhouldeſt ſay, Who ſhall go up for us to heaven, and bring it unto us that we may hear it, and do it?

* Rom. 10. 6. &c.

n (i. e.) Shut up there, but it hath been thence delivered and publiſhed by thy hearing.

13 Neither is it beyond the ſea o, that thou ſhouldeſt ſay, Who ſhall go over the ſea for us, and bring it unto us that we may hear it, and do it?

o The knowledg of this commandment is not to be fetched from far diſtant places, to which divers of the wiſe Heathens travelled for their wiſdom, but it was brought to thy very doors and ears, and declared to thee in this Wilderneſs.

14 But the word is very nigh unto thee, in thy mouth p, and in thy heart q that thou mayeſt do it.

p Thou knoweſt it ſo well, that it is the matter of thy common diſcourſe, thou profeſſeſt thy knowledg and belief of it: or, in the mouths of thy Prieſts and Levites, who are dayly preaching of it, and inſtructing thee in it. q (i. e.) In thy mind, as the heart is very commonly taken, to underſtand and believe it.

15 * See, I have ſet before thee this day, life and good r and death an evil.

Chap. 11. 26. ver. 19.

r (i. e.) A good or an happy life. A figure called, Hendiaduo, Or, life, and all the bleſſings of life, as good is oft uſed, as Job 7. 7. Pſal. 4. 6. and 128. 5. Eccleſ. 2. 24. and 4. 8. and 6. 3.

16 In that I command thee this day, to love the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments, and his ſtatutes, and his judgments, that thou mayeſt live and multiply; and the LORD thy God ſhall bleſs thee in the land, whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it.

17 But if thine heart turn away, ſo that thou wilt not hear, but ſhalt be drawn away s, and worſhip other gods, and ſerve them:

s Either by thy own evil mind, or by the examples or perſwaſions of others.

18 I denounce unto you this day, that ye ſhall ſurely periſh, and that ye ſhall not prolong your days upon the land whither thou paſſeſt over Jordan to go to poſſeſs it.

19 * I call heaven and earth to record this day againſt you t, that I have ſet before you life and death, bleſſing and curſing: therefore chuſe life, that both thou and thy ſeed may live.

1 AND Moſes went and ſpake a theſe words unto all Iſrael.

a (i. e.) Proceeded or continued to ſpeak, An uſual Hebrew phraſe. Or, went to the place where he had aſſembled the people that he might ſpeak to them.

2 And he ſaid unto them, * I am an hundred and twenty years old this day: I can no more go out and come in b: alſo the LORD hath ſaid unto me, * Thou ſhalt not go over this Jordan.

* Joſh. 1. 5. Heb. 13. 5.

7 And Moſes called unto Joſhua, and ſaid unto him in the ſight of all Iſrael, Be ſtrong, and of a good courage; for thou muſt go with this people unto the land which the LORD hath ſworn unto their fathers to give them, and thou ſhalt cauſe them to inherit it.

8 And the LORD he it is that doth go before thee, he will be with thee, he will not fail thee, neither forſake thee: * fear not, neither be diſmayed.

* Joſh. 1. 9.

9 And Moſes wrote this law e, and delivered it unto the prieſts the ſons of Levi f, which bare the ark g of the covenant of the LORD, and unto all the elders of Iſrael h.

e Largly ſo called, the whole Law or Doctrine delivered unto Moſes contained in theſe five books. f That they might keep it carefully and religiouſly, and bring it forth upon occaſion; and read it, and inſtruct the people out of it. g To wit, ſometimes in great ſolemnities, as Joſ. 3. 13, 17. and 6. 12. 1 King. 8. 3. though the Levites alſo might bear it, as appears from Numb. 3. and 4. and 10. 1 Chron. 15. 2. h Who were Aſſiſtants to the Prieſts, and overſeers to take care that the Law ſhould be kept, and read, and obſerved.

10 And Moſes commanded them, ſaying, At the end of every ſeven years, in the ſolemnity of the * year of releaſe i, in the feaſt of tabernacles.

* Chap. 15. 1.

i When they were freed from debts and troubles, and cares of worldly matters, and thereby fitter to attend upon God and his ſervice.

11 When all Iſrael is come to appear before the LORD thy God, in the place which he ſhall chuſe, * thou ſhalt read k this law before all Iſrael in their hearing.

* Joſh. 8. 34, 35

k Thy ſelf in part, for the Jews tell us that the King was in perſon to read ſome part of it, or at leaſt, thou ſhalt cauſe it to be read by the Prieſts or Levites, for he could not read it himſelf in the hearing of all Iſrael, but this was to be done by ſeveral perſons, and to the people met in ſeveral congregations. See Nehem. 8. 1, &c.

12 Gather the people together l, men, and women m, and children n, and thy ſtranger o that is within within thy gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn p, and fear the LORD your God, and observe to do all the words of this law:

l Not into one place, where all could not hear, but into divers Assemblies or Synagogues m Who hereby are required to go to Jerusalem at this solemnity, as they were permitted to do in other solemnities, when the Males only were enjoyned to go, Exod. 23. 17. n To wit, such of them as could understand, as appears from Neh. 8. 2, 3. o (i. e.) The Proselytes, though others also were admitted. p That they may then certainly and constantly do so, though they had also other opportunities to do so, as upon the Sabbath-days, Act. 15. 21. and other solemn feasts, yea even in their private houses.

13 And that their children which have not known any thing, may hear and learn to fear the LORD your God, as long as ye live in the land, whither ye go over Jordan to possess it.

14 And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold, thy days approach that thou must die: call Joshua, and present your selves in the tabernacle q of the congregation, that * I may give him a charge r. And Moses and Joshua went and presented themselves in the tabernacle of the congregation.

* Num. 27. 19.

q Either properly so called, for though the Priests only might ordinarily enter there, yet others might go in upon a call and command from God, which here they had: or in the court of the Tabernacle, at the door of which God stood in the cloudy pillar, v. 15. the Court coming here under the name of the Tabernacle, as elsewhere it comes under the name of the Temple. r Immediately from my self for his greater encouragement, and to gain him more authority with the people.

15 And * the LORD appeared in the tabernacle, in a pillar of a cloud: and the pillar of the cloud, stood over the door of the tabernacle.

* Exod. 33. 9.

16 And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold, thou shalt † sleep s with thy fathers, and this people will rise up, and go a whoring t after the gods of the strangers of the land u, whither they go to be amongst them, and will forsake me, and break my covenant which I have made with them.

s The death of men, both good and bad, is oft called a sleep, because they shall certainly awake out of it by resurrection. See Psal. 76. 5. Dan. 12. 2. 1 Thess. 4. 13, &c. 2 Pet. 3. 4. t God certainly foresees all things to come, yea even those which depend upon the wills of men, or contingencies of the things, as this unquestionably did. u (i. e.) Of the Canaanites, who now are possessours, but shortly will be turned out of their possessions, and become as strangers in their own land. This aggravates their folly to worship such Gods as could neither preserve their friends, nor annoy their enemies.

17 Then my anger shall be kindled against them in that day, and I will forsake them, and I will * hide my face x from them, and they shall be devoured, and many evils and troubles shall † befall them, so that they will say in that day, Are not these evils come upon us, because our God is not among us?

*Psal. 104. 29.

x (i. e.) Withdraw my favour and help.

18 And I will surely hide my face in that day, for all the evils which they shall have wrought, in that they are turned unto other gods.

19 Now therefore write ye this song y for you, and teach it the children of Israel, put it in their mouths z, that this song may be a witness for me a against the children of Israel.

y Which is contained Deut. 32. and is put into a song that it be better learned, and more fixed in their minds and memories. z Cause them to learn it, and sing it one to another, to oblige them to more circumspection and watchfulness. a Of my kindness in giving them so many blessings, of my patience in bearing so long with them, of my clemency in giving them such fair and plain warnings, and my justice in punishing such an unthankful perverse and incorrigible people.

20 For when I shall have brought them into the land which I sware unto their fathers, that floweth with milk and honey, and they shall have eaten and filled themselves, and waxen fat: * then will they turn unto other gods, and serve them, and provoke me, and break my covenant.

* chap. 6. 10. &c. and 8. 10. and 32. 15.

21 And it shall come to pass, when many evils and troubles are befallen them, that this song shall † testifie against them as a witness: for it shall not be forgotten b out of the mouths of their seed: for I know their imagination, which they † go about even now c, before I have brought them into the land which I sware.

b This seems not to be a precept that they should remember it, but a prediction, that God would give them sad occasion to remember it, by bringing upon them the dreadful calamities mentioned in it. c Either their inward inclinations to Idolatry, which they do not check, as they ought, but rather entertain with delight, and some of them do not only cherish it in their hearts, but as far as they can and dare, secretly practise it, as may be gathered from Amos 5. 25. Act. 7. 43. or their secret purposes to allow themselves therein, when they are settled in their land, which were clearly known to God, though it may be not fully evident to themselves.

22 Moses therefore wrote this song the same day, and taught it the children of Israel.

23 And he gave Joshua the son of Nun a charge and said, * Be strong and of a good courage: for thou shalt bring the children of Israel into the land which I sware unto them d: and I will be with thee.

* Josh. 1. 6.

d This wickedness of theirs which I now foresee and foretel shall not hinder me from bringing them into Canaan.

24 And it came to pass, when Moses had made an end of writing the words of this law in a book, until they were finished;

25 That Moses commanded the Levites e which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, saying, e (i. e.) the Priests ver. 9. who also were Levites.

26 Take this book of the law, and put it in the side f of the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may be there for a witness against thee g:

f (i. e.) In the outside, in a little chest fixed to it, for nothing but the Tables of stone were contained in the Ark, 1 King. 8. 9. Here it was kept for greater security and reverence. g (i. e.) Against thy people, to whom he here turns his speech that they might be more affected with it.

27 For I know thy rebellion, and thy stiff neck; behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, ye have been rebellious against the LORD, and how much more after my death?

28 Gather unto me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may speak these words in their ears, and call heaven and earth to record against them.

29 For I know that after my death ye will utterly corrupt your selves, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you: and evil will befall you in the later dayes, because ye will do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger through the work of your hands.

30 And Moses spake in the ears of all the congregation of Israel the words of this song until they were ended.

a Either 1. Angels and men. Or 2. You lifeless and senceless creatures, heaven and earth, which he calls upon partly to accuse the stupidity of Israel, that were more dull of hearing than these: and partly as witnesses of the truth of his sayings and the justice of Gods proceedings against them.

2 * My doctrine shall drop as the rain b, my speech shall distill as the dew, as the small rain upon the tender herb, and as the showers upon the grass.

* Isa. 55. 10, 11. 1 Cor. 3. 6, 7, 8.

b Look what effect rain and dew have upon herbs and grass which they make fresh and fragrant and growing, the same effect I may justly expect and hope that my discourse will have upon your hearts, i. e. to make them soft and pliable and fruitful. Or this may be a prayer, Let my doctrine drop, &c. O that it might do so, that my discourse might not be lost upon you, but be profitable to you; the future tense of the indicative mood being put for the imperative mood, as is usual.

3 Because I will publish the Name of the LORD c: ascribe ye greatness unto our God. d.

c (i. e.) His glorious excellencies and righteous and worthy actions, by which he hath made himself known as a man is known by his name, and by which it will appear both that there is no blame to be laid upon him whatsoever befals you, and that it is groſs madneſs to forſake ſuch a God for dumb Idols and meer vanities. d As I am about to publiſh the great power and Majeſty and glory of God, ſo do you alſo own and acknowledge it, as you have reaſon to do; or do you attend to the words which God hath commanded me to ſpeak to you in his Name with that diligence, reverence and godly fear which the preſence of ſo great and glorious a Majeſty calls for.

4 He is the rock e, his work is perfect f: for all his wayes are judgment g: a God of truth h, and without iniquity, juſt and right is he.

e Or, a rock, as for the ſtability and everlaſtingneſs of his nature, and invincibleneſs of his power, ſo alſo for his fixedneſs and immutability in his counſels and promiſes and wayes; ſo that if there ſhall be a ſad change in your affairs from an high and proſperous, to a calamitous and deplorable condition, as there will be, remember this proceeds from your ſelves and from the change of your ways and carriages towards God, and not from God, in whom there is no variableneſs nor ſhadow of change, Jam. 1. 17. f All his works and actions are unblameable, as being perfectly wiſe and righteous, as it follows. g All his adminiſtrations in the world and particularly all his dealings with you are managed with judgment and juſtice. h Conſtant to his promiſes: you cannot accuſe him of any levity or unfaithfulneſs towards you to this day.

* Iſa. 43. 12.

f. (i. e.) When they were ſhut up in Egypt as in their neſt whence they durſt not venture to fly nor ſtir, he taught and incouraged and enabled them to flie out and free themſelves from that bondage, and brought them into a ſtate of liberty and ſafety, he dealt tenderly with them, bearing with their infirmities, keeping them from all harms. g To wit, to aſſiſt him in that work or to deliver them. The more unworthy they in giving to Idols a ſhare in that worſhip and ſervice which they owe to God only.

13 He made him ride on the high places of the earth h, that he might eat the increaſe of the fields, and he made him to ſuck * honey out of the rock i, and oil out of the flinty rock k.

* Pſal. 81. 16.

h (i. e.) To conquer their ſtrongeſt holds, which oft-times are in the mountains, and their cities fenced with walls of greateſt height and ſtrength, Deut. 1. 28. and 2. 36. and 33. 29. Iſa. 58. 14. To ride upon in Scripture phraſe is to ſubdue or conquer, as Pſal. 45. 4. and 66. 12. Rev. 6. 2. and 19. 11, 14. i This being a land flowing with hony, Exod. 3. 8, 17. where the bees made hony even in woods, as 1 Sam. 14 or in the holes of rocks, or in the trees that grew upon or among rocks. k The olive trees grow and fructifie moſt in rocky or hilly places.

l For though the fat wherewith the inward parts were covered was not to be eaten by them but offered to God, Lev. 3. 9, 10. yet that fat which was faſt joyned to and mixed with the fleſh they might eat, as the Jewiſh Doctors note. m A place famous for excellent cattel, Numb. 32. 4, 33. n (i. e.) With the fineſt of the grains or kernels of wheat compared to kidneys for their ſhape and plumpneſs and largeneſs. Compare Pſal. 81. 16. and 147. 14. o Wine not mixed with water, but pure as it comes from the grape, which was of a red or bloody colour. See Pſal. 75. 8. Iſa. 27. 2.

15 But * Jeſurun p waxed fat and kicked q: * thou art waxen fat, thou art grown thick, thou art covered with fatneſs r: then he forſook God which made him, and lightly eſteemed the Rock of his ſalvation.

* Iſa. 44. 2. * Neh. 9. 25. Jer. 2. 7. and 5. 7. Hoſ. 13. 6.

p (i. e.) Iſrael, as is agreed by Chriſtian, and Jewiſh Interpreters, whom he calls right, or upright or righteous, (as the word ſignifies) not that they were ſo indeed, but partly by way of inſtruction to mind them that they profeſſed and promiſed and ought to be, and partly by way of exprobation, to ſhew them how unlike they were to the people of God which they pretended to be, and what a ſhame it was to them to degenerate ſo much from their name and profeſſion. q As well fed and and wanton cattel uſe do: he grew inſolent and rebellious againſt God and againſt his word and ſpirit. r Which is here rightly underſtood and ſupplied, by comparing this place with Job. 15.27. Pſal. 17.10.

16 They provoked him to jealouſie s with ſtrange gods, with abominations provoked they him to anger.

s (i. e.) To anger and fury, for jealouſie is the rage of a man Prov. 6 34. And withall it implies the ground of this anger, to wit, their falſeneſs to God whom they had owned and accepted as their husband, and their ſpiritual whoredom with other Gods.

* Lev. 17. 7. Pſal. 106. 37. 1 Cor 10. 20. Rev. 9. 20. ‖ Or, which were not God.

17 * They ſacrificed unto devils t, ‖ not to God u: to gods whom they knew not x, to new gods, that came newly up y, whom your fathers feared not z.

t (i. e.) Unto Idols, which the Devils brought into the World in oppoſition to God, in and by which the Devils oftimes manifeſted themſelves unto men and gave them anſwers, and received their worſhip. Compare 1 Cor. 10. 20. The Gentiles pretended to worſhip God in theſe Idols, and the Devils which inſpired them deluded the nations with falſe pretences that they were a ſort of lower Gods. Moſes therefore takes off this maſk, and ſhews the Iſraelites that theſe pretended Gods were really Devils, thoſe great enemies of mankind, and therefore that it was the height of madneſs to honour or worſhip them. u This he ſaith, either becauſe though at firſt they joyned God and Idols together in worſhip, yet at laſt they quite forſook God and adhered to Idols only: or becauſe God utterly rejected thoſe ſacrifices which they offered to him together with Idols, and took them for no ſacrifices. See 1 Cor. 10. 21. x Or, who never knew them, i. e. never ſhewed any kindneſs to them, or did them any good: for ſo words of knowledg are oft uſed, as Pſal. 1. 6. Hoſ. 13. 5. y Not ſimply or abſolutely, for ſome of theſe Gods had been worſhipped for many generations and had a fair pretence of long antiquity, but comparatively to the true God, who is the antient of dayes, Dan. 7. 9. and who was worſhipped from the beginning of the world. To this original and firſt antiquity Moſes recals them; as alſo our Saviour doth recal the Jews to the firſt inſtitution, Mat. 19. 8. And therefore we may ſafely follow both their patterns in deſpiſing all pretences of antiquity which are contrary to Gods firſt inſtitutions contained (as all confeſs) in the holy Scriptures. z (i. e.) Served not, worſhipped not, but juſtly deſpiſed and abhorred them.

18 Of the Rock a that begat thee b thou art unmindful, and haſt forgotten God that formed thee.

a (i. e.) Of God, one of whoſe titles this is, above ver. 4. Iſa. 44. 8. or of Chriſt, who is called the rock, 1 Cor. 10. 4. whom the Iſraelites are ſaid to have tempted, there ver. 9. b (i. e.) Who hath adopted you to be his people, and hath ſhewed as much care and kindneſs to you, as if he had begotten you.

19 And when the LORD ſaw it, he ‖ abhorred them, becauſe of the provoking of his ſons, and of his daughters c.

c Becauſe of their ſins whereby they provoked him to anger. Or, by reaſon of his great and juſt anger againſt them he abhorred or reprobated or caſt off his ſons and his daughters, for ſuch they were by calling and profeſſion, but not in truth and reality, ver. 5.

20 And he ſaid, I will hide my face from them, I will ſee what their end ſhall be d: for they are a very froward generation, * children in whom there is no faith e.

* Iſa. 30. 9.

d I will ſee and obſerve what will be the iſſue of all this, what will become of them at laſt: but this God doth not ſee only by way of ſpeculation but practically, i. e. conſiders with himſelf what he ſhall do with them, and how he ſhall puniſh them, and ſees what he will or purpoſes to do. A ſpeech after the manner of men. Or I will ſee is put for I will make them and others to ſee, what the fruit of ſuch actions ſhall be. Hebrew verbs in Cal do oft-times take the ſignification of Hiphil. e Perfidious, that have broken their covenant ſo ſolemnly made with me.

21 They have moved me to jealouſie with that which is not god, they have provoked me to anger with their vanities: and * I will move them to jealouſie with thoſe which are not a people f, I will provoke them to anger with a fooliſh nation g.

* Hoſ. 1. 9. Rom. 10. 19.

f (i. e.) With the Gentile or Heatheniſh nations, who are none of my people, who ſcarce deſerve the name of a people, as being without yoke, without the knowledge and fear of God which is the foundation of all true policy and government, and without righteous and neceſſary laws; and many of them are deſtitute of all government and laws and order, barbarous and rude and ſavage and brutiſh in their manners. And yet theſe people I will prefer before you and take into your ſtead, receive them and reject you; which when it came to paſs how deſperately it provoked the Jews to jealouſie, may be gathered from Mat. 21. 43, &c. Act. 11. 2,3. and 22.21, 22, 23. 1 Theſ. 2. 15, 16. g So the Gentiles were both in the opinion of the Jews, and in truth and reality, notwithſtanding all their pretences to wiſdom, Rom. 1. 22. there being nothing more fooliſh or brutiſh than the worſhip of Idols. See Jer. 10. 8. 1 Cor. 12. 2.

22 For * a fire is kindled h in mine anger, and ‖ ſhall burn unto the loweſt hell i, and ‖ ſhall conſume the earth with her increaſe, and ſet on fire the foundations of the mountains.

* Jer. 15. 14. Lam. 4. 11. ‖ Or, hath burned. ‖ Or, hath conſumed.

h (i. e.) Great and grievous judgments ſhall be inflicted, which oft come under the name of fire, &c. See Deut. 4. 24. Ezek. 30. 8. Amos 2. 2, 5. i Or, unto hell or the graves beneath. The ſence is, it ſhall not only burn up all the corn and fruits and buildings which appear above ground but it ſhall reach to the inwards and depth of the earth and burn up the very roots and hopes of future increaſe.

23 I will * heap miſchiefs upon them, I will * ſpend mine arrows k upon them.

* Iſa. 26. 14, 15 * Pſal. 7. 12, 13 Ezek. 5. 16.

k (i. e.) Even empty my quiver, and ſend upon them all my plagues, which, like arrows ſhot by a skilful and ſtrong hand ſhall ſpeedily reach and certainly hit and mortally wound them, Compare Zech. 9. 14.

24 They ſhall be burnt with hunger l, and devoured with † burning heat m, and with bitter deſtruction: I will alſo ſend * the teeth of beaſts upon them, with the poyſon of ſerpents of the duſt n.

† Heb. burning coals. Hab. 3. 5. * Lev. 26. 22.

l With famine, which burneth and parcheth the inward parts, and makes the face black as a coal, Lam. 4. 8. m From fevers or carbuncles, or other inflaming diſtempers. n Who feed upon the duſt, Gen. 3. 14. and lurk in it that they may ſurprize unwary paſſengers, Gen. 49. 17.

25 * The ſword without, and terror † within ſhall † deſtroy, both the young man and the virgin, the ſuckling alſo, with the man of gray hairs.

* Lam. 1. 20. Ezek. 7. 15. † Heb. from the chambers. † Heb. bereave.

26 I ſaid, I would ſcatter them into corners, I would make the remembrance of them to ceaſe from among men:

27 Were it not that I feared the wrath of the enemy o, leſt their adverſaries ſhould behave themſelves ſtrangely p, and leſt they ſhould ſay, ‖ Our hand is high, and the LORD hath not done all this.

‖ Or, our high hand, and not the LORD hath done all this.

o (i. e.) Their rage againſt me, as it is expreſſed Iſa. 37. 28, 29. their inſolent and furious reproaches againſt my name, as if I were unnatural and cruel to my people or unable to deliver them. Compare Exod. 32. 12. Numb. 14. 13. Deut. 9. 28. Joſ. 7. 9. The fear hereof is aſcribed to God after the manner of men. p (i. e.) Inſolently and arrogantly above what they uſed to do. Or, make themſelves ſtrangers, i. e. either really not acknowledge or pretend they did not know that which I had publickly declared and they either did or eaſily might have known, to wit, that this judgment was inflicted upon them by my hand for their ſins.

28 For they q are a nation void of counſel r, neither is there any underſtanding in them.

q Either 1. the enemies laſt mentioned, who are fooliſh people, and therefore make ſo falſe and fooliſh a judgment upon things. Or rather 2. the Iſraelites themſelves, of whom he ſpeaks both in the foregoing ver. 26. and in the whole foregoing chapter, and in the next v. 29. and afterwards. r That have not wiſdom to direct themſelves, nor diſcretion to deſire and receive counſel from others, but raſhly and madly go on in thoſe courſes which will certainly ruine them.

29 * O that they were wiſe, that they underſtood this, * that they would conſider their latter end s.

* Pſal. 94. 8. * Lam. 1. 9.

s What their end will be, and that although God ſpare them long, yet at laſt judgment will certainly overtake them.

30 How ſhould * one chaſe a thouſand t, and two put ten thouſand to flight, except their Rock u * had ſold them x, and the LORD had ſhut them up y?

* Joſh. 23. 10. 2 Chro. 24. 24. Iſa. 30. 17. * Iſa. 44. 12. Iſa. 50. 1. and 52. 3.

t Whence ſhould this miraculous change come, that whereas God had promiſed that five Iſraelites ſhould chaſe an hundred of their enemies, &c. Levit. 26. 8. now on the contrary one enemy ſhould chaſe a thouſand Iſraelites. u (i. e.) Their God, as before ver. 4. 18. who was their only refuge and defence. x To wit, for bondſlaves, had quitted his right and relation to them, and given them up into their enemies hands. y As it were in the net which their enemies had laid for them.

31 For their Rock is not as our Rock, even our Enemies themſelves being judges z.

? Who by their dear bought experience have been forced to acknowledge that our God was far ſtronger than they and their falſe Gods together. See Exod. 14. 25. Num. 23. 1 Sam. 4. 8. Jer. 43. 3.

32 For a their vine ‖ is of the vine of Sodom b, and of the fields of Gomorrah: their grapes are grapes of gall, their cluſters are bitter c.

a Or, But; for theſe words ſeem to contain an anſwer to that queſtion, ver. 30. how ſhould, &c. To this he anſwers, 1. Negatively it was not from impotency in God, for if he had not forſaken and delivered them up, they could not have been ſo eaſily chaſed. 2. Poſitively, But, ſaith he, the true reaſon was this, their vine, &c. b The people of Iſrael, which I planted and brought up as a choice vine, are now degenerated and become like the vine of Sodom, their principles and practiſes are all corrupt and abominable. Compare Iſa. 1. 10. c Their fruits or actions are moſt loathſom to me, malicious and miſchievous to others, and at laſt will be pernicious to themſelves.

33 Their wine is the poiſon of dragons d, and the cruel venom of aſps e.

d For although ſome write that the Dragons of Greece have no poiſon in them, yet that the African and Arabian Dragons, of which Moſes here writes, have poiſon in them, is confeſſed by ancient heathen authors. e Whoſe poiſons kills certainly and ſpeedily, as Ariſtotle and others write.

* Jer. 2. 22. Hoſ. 13. 12.

34 Is not this f * laid up in ſtore with me, and ſealed up among my treaſures?

f (i. e.) All their wickedneſs mentioned before. My long-ſuffering towards them may make them and others think that I have forgotten their ſins, but I remember them punctually, they are ſealed up as in a bag, Job 14. 17. and as men ſeal up their treaſures, that nothing be loſt, and I ſhall bring them to their remembrance alſo.

* Rom. 12. 19. Heb. 10. 30. * 2 Pet. 2. 3.

35 To me belongeth * vengeance g and recompence, their feet ſhall ſlide h in due time i: for * the day of their calamity is at hand k, and the things that ſhall come upon them, make haſte.

g It is my office to puniſh ſin, and therefore as I know their ſins ſo I will aſſuredly puniſh them. h They who now think they ſtand faſt and unmoveable they ſhall fall into utter deſtruction. i Though not ſo ſoon as ſome may expect it, yet in that time when it ſhall be moſt proper and ſeaſonable, when they have filled up the meaſure of their ſins. This due time may be the ſame with that fulneſs of time. Gal. 4. 4. when Chriſt came into the world, whom this people by wicked hands crucified and ſlew, Act. 2. 23. for which wrath came upon them to the uttermoſt, 1 Theſ. 2. 15, 16. k Heb. is near. So the Scripture oft ſpeaks of thoſe things which are at many hundred years diſtance, to meet with objections ariſing in mens minds from the delays of them, and to ſignifie, that though they may be afar off as to our meaſures of time and expectation of the things, yet in Gods account they are near, they are as near as may be, as ſoon as ever the fit and the full time is come, they come inſtantly, they are nearer than ſinners would have them, when the meaſure of their ſins is once full, the judgment ſhall not be deferred.

* Pſal. 106. 45. Jer. 31. 20. † Heb. hand.

36 For l the LORD ſhall judge his people m, and * repent himſelf for his ſervants n, when he ſeeth that their † power is gone, and there is none ſhut up, or left o.

l Or, Nevertheleſs, or But yet, as the particle, chi, is ſometimes uſed, as Job. 5. 7. Iſa. 9. 1. and 49. 25. Having now ſpoken of the dreadful calamity which would come upon his people, he now turns his diſcourſe into a more comfortable ſtrain, according to the uſual method of the Prophets, and here begins to ſhew that after God had humbled and ſorely chaſtiſed his people, yet at laſt he would have mercy upon them and turn their captivity, as it here follows. m (i. e.) Shall plead their cauſe, ſhall protect and deliver them, as that phraſe is oft uſed. See Pſal. 7. 8. and 10. 18. Iſa. 1. 17. and 11. 4. Jer. 5. 28. and 22. 16. n (i. e.) Repent of the evils he hath brought upon them, will change his courſe and carriage towards them. o None ſhut up, either in their ſtrong cities or caſtles or other hiding places, or in the enemies hands or priſons, whence there might be ſome hope or poſſibility of redemption; and none left, as the poor and contemptible people are neglected and uſually left by the conquerors in the conquered land, as 2 King. 25. 12. but all ſeem to be cut off and the people quite deſtroyed. So this phraſe is uſed 1 King. 14. 10. and 21. 21. and 2 King. 9. 8. and 14. 26.

* Judg. 10. 14.

37 And he ſhall ſay p, * where are their gods, their rock in whom they truſted?

p The Lord, before he deliver his people, will firſt convince them of their former folly in forſaking him and following Idols: he will find an occaſion from that miſerable and and hopeleſs condition into which their Idols have brought them, to upbraid them with it.

38 Which did eat the fat of their ſacrifices, and drank the wine of their drink-offerings q? let them riſe up, and help you r, and be † your protection.

* Pſal. 102. 27. * chap. 4. 35. * 1 Sam. 2. 6. Job 5. 18. Hoſ. 6. 1.

39 See now ſ, that * I even I am he t, and * there is no god with me; * I kill, and I make alive: I wound, and I heal: neither is there any that can deliver out of my hand.

ſ Learn now by your own ſad experience what vain and impotent things Idols are, and what a ſilly thing it was in you to put your truſt in them, as they did ver. 37. t (i. e.) The only true and omnipotent and irreſiſtible God, as it here follows.

40 For I lift up my hand to heaven u, and ſay, I live for ever x.

u (i. e.) I ſolemnly ſwear, that I will do what here follows. that, as I will deliver my people, ſo I will fully avenge my ſelf upon all mine enemies, whom I have uſed as rods to ſcourge my people. x (i. e.) As ſure as I live. Compare Jer. 4. 2. Heb. 6. 13. Rev. 10. 5, 6.

* Iſa. 27. 1. & 34. 5. & 66. 16. Ezek. 21. 14, 20.

y If once I begin to prepare for war and for the execution of my ſentence. z (i. e.) Of the inſtruments of judgment, of the weapons of war. A metaphor from warriours, that take their weapons into their hand, when they intend to fight.

* Job 13. 24. Jer. 30. 14. Lam. 2. 5.

42 I will make mine arrows drunk with blood (and my ſword ſhall devour fleſh) and that with the blood of the ſlain, and of the captives a, from the beginning of * revenges upon the enemy b.

a Whom my ſword hath ſorely wounded, though not utterly killed. b (i. e.) When once I begin to revenge my ſelf and my people upon mine and their enemies, I will go on and make a full end. Or, with the head, or with the blood of the head, i. e. of the chief or chiefs, of the revenges of the enemy, i. e. of the revengeful or malicious enemy of God and of his people. The noun ſubſtantive is oft put for the adjective, as Gen. 17. 5. a multitude of nations is put for many nations, Rom. 4. 17. and Gen. 45. 22. changes of raiment, i. e. changeable raiment; and Pſal. 99. 4. the kings ſtrength. i. e. the ſtrong and mighty king. And ſo here, the revenges of the enemy. i. e. the revengeful enemy. And by the head may be here underſtood either the Devil, or the heads and rulers of thoſe Empires which were enemies to Gods people. Or, of the head ſhall be the revenges upon the enemies, i. e. I will take vengeance upon all mine enemies, yea upon the head or heads of them.

43 ‖ * Rejoyce, O ye nations, with his people c, for he will avenge the blood of his ſervants, and will render vengeance to his adverſaries, and will be merciful unto his land, and to his people.

c This tranſlation is juſtified by St. Paul, Rom. 15. 10. the particle with, being oft underſtood, as Lev. 26. 42. He calls upon the nations to rejoyce and bleſs God for his favours and eſpecially for the laſt wonderful deliverance which ſhall be given to the Jews when they ſhall be converted unto the Goſpel in the laſt days, which they have all reaſon to do not only from that duty of ſympathy which they owe to all people, and eſpecially to Gods anicent people, whereby they are to rejoyce with them that rejoyce, but becauſe of that ſingular advantage and happineſs which all nations will have at that time and upon that occaſion. Or, rejoyce, O ye Gentiles, his people, i. e. O you Genties, who once were not Gods people, but now are his people, do you rejoyce for Gods mercies to the Jews his antient people, bleſs God for their converſion and ſalvation.

44 And Moſes came, and ſpake all the words of this ſong in the ears of the people, he, and ‖ Hoſhea d the ſon of Nun.

d Or Joſhua: who is here joyned with Moſes in this action, becauſe though Moſes only ſpake the words, yet Joſhua conſented to them, and, it may be, afterwards repeated them; this being not a ſong to be ſung once for all, but a ſtanding monument which was written and kept for future uſe, Deut. 31. 22, &c. and to be repeated again and again upon ſolemn occaſions, which Joſhua and other ſucceeding Magiſtrates were to take care of.

45 And Moſes made an end of ſpeaking all theſe words to all Iſrael.

46 And he ſaid unto them, * Set your hearts unto all the words which I teſtifie among you this day, which ye ſhall command your children to obſerve to do, all the words of this law.

47 For

47 For it is not a vain thing for you e, because it is your life, and through this thing ye shall prolong your days, in the land whither ye go over Jordan to possess it.

e It is not an unprofitable or contemptible work I advise you to, but well worthy of your most serious care oft to remember and diligently to consider it.

*Num.27.12. 48 * And the LORD spake unto Moses that self-same day, saying,

CHAP. XXXIII.

1 AND this is the blessing, wherewith Moses the man of God blessed a the children of Israel b before his death.

a He is said to bless them ministerially partly by praying to God with faith for his blessing upon them, partly by foretelling the blessings which God would confer upon them: for the Prophets are oft said to do what they foretel should be done, as Gen. 49. 7. Jer. 1. 10. Ezek. 43. 3. Hos. 6. 5. And Moses calls himself here the man of God, i. e. the servant or prophet or minister of God, as this phrase signifies, 1 Sam. 9. 6, 7. 1 Tim. 6. 11. to acquaint them that the following prophecies were not his own inventions, but divine inspirations. b (i. e.) The several tribes: only Simeon is omitted, either 1. in detestation of their parent Simeon his bloody and wicked carriage, for which Jacob also gives that tribe a curse rather than a blessing, in Gen. 49. But as for Levi, who is joyned with him in that censure and curse, Gen. 49. 5, 6, 7. he is here separated from him and exempted from that curse and blessed with an eminent blessing for a singular and valuable reason expressed here v. 8, 9. whereas Simeons tribe had been so far from expiating their fathers crime that they added new ones their Prince being guilty of another notorious crime, Numb. 25. 6. 14. and his tribe too much concurring with him in such actions, as Interpreters gathered from the great diminution of the numbers of that tribe, which were 59300 in Num. 1. 23. and but 22200 in Num. 26. 14. which was near 40 years after. Or 2. because that Tribe had no distinct inheritance but was to have his portion in the Tribe of Judah, as he had Jos. 19. 1. and therefore he must needs partake with them in their blessing.

2 And he said, The LORD came c from Sinai d, and rose up e from Seir f unto them i he shined forth from mount Paran g, and he came with † ten thousands of Saints h: from his right hand i went † a fiery law k for them.

† Heb. holy myriads, or, ten thousands. So Gr. See Jude v. 14.

c To wit, to the Israelites, i. e. manifested himself graciously and gloriously among them. d (i. e.) Beginning at Sinai, where the first and most glorious appearance of God was, and so going on with them to Seir and Paran. Or, to Sinai, the particle, mem, oft signifying, to, as is evident by comparing Isa. 59. 20. with Rom. 11. 26. 1 King. 8. 30. with 2 Chron. 6. 21. and 2 Sam. 6. 2. with 1 Chron. 13. 6. See also Gen. 2. 8. and 11. 2. and 13. 11. 1 Sam. 14. 15. Or, in Sinai, mem being oft put for beth in, as Exod. 25. 18. Deut. 15. 1. Job 19. 26. Psal. 68. 29. and 72 16. e He appeared or shewed himself, as the Sun doth when it riseth. f (i. e.) From the mountain or land of Edom, which is called Seir, Gen. 32. 3. and 36. 8. Deut. 2. 4. to which place the Israelites came Num. 20. 14. &c. and from thence God led them on towards the land of promise, and then gloriously appeared for them in subduing Sihon and Og before them and giving their countries unto them. Which glorious work of Gods is particularly celebrated, Judg. 5. 4. But because the land of Seir or Edom is sometimes taken more largely, and so reacheth even to the Red-sea, as appears from 1 King. 9. 26. and therefore mount Sinai was near to it, and because Paran, which here follows, was also near Sinai, as being the next station into which they came from the wilderness of Sinai, Numb. 10. 12. all this verse may belong to Gods appearance in mount Sinai, where that glorious light which shone upon mount Sinai directly did in all probability scatter its beams into the adjacent parts, such as Seir and Paran were, and so this is only a Poetical and Prophetical variation of the phrase and expression of the same thing in diverse words, and Gods coming or rising or shining from or to or in Sinai and Seir and Paran note one and the same illustrious action of God appearing there with ten thousands of his Saints or holy Angels, and there giving a fiery law to them, as it here follows. And this interpretation may receive some strength from Hab. 3. 3. where this glorious march of God, before his people is remembred, only Teman, which signifies the South is put for Seir, which is here, possibly to signify, that that Seir which is here mentioned was to be understood of the Southern part of the country of Seir or Edom, which was that part adjoyning to the Red Sea. Others refer this of Seir to the brasen Serpent, that eminent type of Christ, which was erected in this place. g A place where God eminently manifested his presence and goodness both in giving the people flesh which they desired, and in appointing the 70 Elders and pouring forth his Spirit upon them, Num. 11. Though the exposition mentioned in the foregoing branch may seem more probable. h (i. e.) With a great company of holy Angels, Psal. 68. 17. Dan. 7. 10. which attended upon him in this great and glorious work of giving the law, as may be gathered from Act. 7. 53. Gal. 3. 19. Heb. 2. 2. and 12. 22. i Which both wrote the law and gave it to men. An allusion to men who ordinarily write and give gifts with their right, and not with their left, hand. k The law is called fiery, partly because it is of a fiery nature, purging and searching and inflaming, for which reasons Gods word is compared to fire, Jer. 23. 29. partly to signify that fiery wrath and curse which it inflicteth upon sinners for the violation of it, 2 Cor. 3. 7, 9. and principally because it was delivered out of the midst of the fire, Exod. 19. 16, 18. Deut. 4. 11. and 5. 22, 23.

3 Yea, he loved the people l: all his saints m are in thy hand n, and they sat down at thy feet o: every one shall receive of thy words p.

l (i. e.) The tribes of Israel, which are called People, Gen. 48. 19. Judges 5. 14. Act. 4. 27. The sense is, This Law, though delivered with Fire and Smoke and Thunder, which might seem to portend nothing but hatred and terrour, yet in truth it was given to Israel in great love as being the great mean of their temporal and eternal Salvation. And although God shews a general and common kindness to all men, yet he loved this people in a singular and peculiar manner. m All Gods Saints or holy ones, i. e. his People, as they are now called, the people of Israel, who are all called holy, Exod. 19. 6. Num. 16. 3. Deut. 7. 6. Dan. 7. 25, and 8. 24. and 12. 7. because they all professed to be so and were obliged to be so and many of them were such. Though some appropriate this to the true Saints in Israel. n Or, were in thy hand, i. e. under God's care to protect and direct and govern them, as that phrase signifies, Numb. 4. 28, 33. Job. 10. 28, 29. These words are spoken to God, and for the change of persons, his and thy, that is most frequent in the Hebrew tongue. See Dan. 9. 4. This clause may further note Gods kindness to Israel in upholding and preserving them when the fiery law was delivered, which was done with so much dread and terrour, that not only the people trembled and were ready to sink under it, Exod. 20. 18, 19. but even Moses himself did exceedingly fear and quake, Heb. 12. 21. But in this fright God sustained both Moses and the people in or by his hand, whereby he in a manner hid and covered them that no harm might come to them by this terrible apparition. o Like Scholars to receive instructions and counsels from thee. He alludes either 1. To the manner of disciples among the Jews who used to sit at their masters feet, Luk. 10. 39. Acts 22. 3. See also Gen. 49. 10. 2 King. 4. 38. But it is doubtful whether this custom was so ancient as Moses. Or 2. To the place where the people waited when the Law was delivered, which was at the foot of the mount. p The people, easily understood from the foregoing words, did or will receive or submit to thy instructions and commands. This may respect either 1. The peoples promise when they heard the Law, that they would hear and do all that was commanded, Deut. 5. 27. Or. 2. The peoples duty to do so. 3. The peoples priviledge that they were admitted to receive so great a priviledge as the words and Laws of God were.

4 Moses commanded us a law q, even the inheritance of the congregation of Jacob r.

q Moses speaks this of himself in the third person, which is very usual in the Hebrew language. r The Law is called their Inheritance, partly because the obligation of it was hereditary passing from Parents to their Children, and partly because this was the best part of all their inheritance and possessions, the greatest of all those gifts and favours which God bestowed upon them.

5 And he was * king s in Jeshrun t, when the heads of the People, and the tribes of Israel were gathered together u.

* See Gen. 36. 31. chap. 32. 15

s Moses was their King, not in Title, but in reality, being under God, their supream and uncontroulable Governour, and Lawgiver. Though the word oft signifies only a Prince or chief Ruler, as Judg. 19. 1. Jer. 19, 3. and 46. 25. t (i. e.)

In

In Israel so called Deut. 32. 15. u When the Princes and People met together for the management of publick affairs, Moses was owned by them as their King and Law-giver, and he directed and ruled them as their superiour. This he saith to shew that the people approved of and consented to the Authority and Laws of Moses.

6 Let Reuben live, and not die, and let not his men be few x.

x Though Reuben deserve to be cut off or greatly diminished and obscured, according to Jacobs prediction, Gen. 49. 4. Yet God will spare them and give them a name and portion among the Tribes of Israel, and bless them with increase of their numbers.

7 And this is the blessing of Judah: and he said, Hear, LORD, the voice of Judah y, and bring him unto his people z: let his hands be sufficient for him a, and be thou an help to him from his enemies b.

y (i. e.) God will hear his prayer for the accomplishment of those great things promised to that Tribe, Gen. 49. 8, 9, 10, 11. This implies the delays and difficulties Judah would meet with herein, which would drive him to his prayers, and that those prayers should be crowned with success. z Either 1. When he shall go forth to Battel against Gods and his Enemies and shall fall fiercely upon them, as was foretold, Gen. 49. 8, 9. bring him back with honour and victory and safety to his people, i. e. either to the rest of his Tribe who were left at home when their brethren went to Battel: or to his brethren the other Tribes of Israel. Or 2. When that Tribe shall go into captivity, let them not be always kept in captivity as the ten Tribes are like to be, but do thou bring him again to his people. Or 3. As thou hast promised the gathering of the people to him, even to the Shiloh, who was to come out of his loyns, Gen. 49. 10. so do thou bring him, i. e. the Messias, who may be understood out of that parallel prophesie, and who may be here called Judah, because he was come from him, as he is for that reason called David in divers places, to his people, i. e. to that people which thou hast given to him. Or 4. Bring him in, to wit, as Prince and Governour, as thou hast promised Gen. 49. to his people, i. e. to thy people of Israel now to be reckoned as his people, because of their subjection to him. Or rather 5. Bring him in to his people, to that people which thou hast promised and given to him, i. e. to that portion of Land which thou hast allotted to him, settle him in his possession: the people or inhabitants being here put for the Land inhabited by them, as the Israelites are told they should possess the Nations or people of Canaan, Deut. 11. 23. and 12. 2. i. e. their Land, as it is explained, Deut. 17. 14. and 30. 18. for the people they were not to possess but to dispossess and to root out. a This Tribe shall be so numerous and potent and valiant that it shall suffice to defend it self without any aid either from forreign Nations or from other Tribes; as appeared when this Tribe alone was able to grapple with nine or ten of the other Tribes. b Thou wilt preserve this Tribe in a special manner, so as his enemies shall not be able to ruine it, as they will do other Tribes, and that for the sake of the Messias who shall spring out of it.

*Exod. 28. 30. *Num. 20. 13. 8 And of Levi he said, * Let thy Thummim and thy Urim be with thy holy one c, * whom thou didst prove d at Massah e, and with whom thou didst strive f at the waters of Meribah;

c The Thummim and the Urim, which are thine, O Lord by special institution and consecration, by which he understands the Ephod in which they were put, Exod. 28. 30. by a synecdoche and the High Priesthood, to which they were appropriated, by a Metonymie, and withal the gifts and grace signified by the Urim and Thummim, and necessary for the discharge of that high-office, shall be with thy holy one, i. e. with that Levite, that Priest, which thou hast consecrated to thy self, and which is holy in a more peculiar manner than all the people were, i. e. The Priesthood shall be confined to and continued in Aarons Family. d This seems added by way of anticipation, Although thou didst try him, and rebuke him, and shut him out of Canaan, for his miscarriage about fetching water out of the rock, yet thou didst not therefore take away the Priesthood from him. e Not at that Massah mentioned Exod. 17. which is also called Meribah, where neither Moses nor Aaron are reproved, nor is Aaron so much as named, but at that other Meribah, Num. 20. where this is expressed, which as it is called by one of the names of that place, Exod. 17. to wit, Meribah, Num. 20. so it may be here called by its other name, Massah; and well may the same names be given to those two places, because the occasion of them was in a great measure one and the same. Though this place may be otherwise rendred, whom thou didst try in trying or with tryal, i. e. whom thou didst exactly and throughly try, such repetitions being very frequent and elegant in the Hebrew language. And it may be observed, that in the Hebrew text here are two several prepositions, though the English translation render them both by at, here, beth, in or with, and in the next branch, al, at or near or concerning the waters of Meribah; which may seem to intimate that the former is not the name of the place as the latter is: why else should they not have been expressed by the same preposition? f Or, contend, i. e., whom thou didst reprove and chastise, as that phrase signifies, Isa. 49. 25. Jer. 2. 9.

9 Who said unto his father, and to his mother, I have not seen him g, neither did he acknowledge his brethren, nor knew his own children: * for they have observed thy word, and kept thy covenant h. * Mal. 2. 5.

g (i. e.) I have no respect unto them, for so knowledg is oft used, as Job. 9. 21. Prov. 12. 10, 11. 1 Thess. 5. 12. The sense is, who followed God and his command fully, and executed the judgment enjoyned by God without any respect of persons, Exod. 32. 26, 27. This seems better than to refer it, either to their not mourning for their next kindred, for that was allowed to all but the High-Priest in case of the Death of Father or Mother, and that was only a ceremonial rite and no matter of great commendation; or to their impartiality in executing the judgments committed to them, Deuteronomy 17. 9. of which they had as yet given no considerable proof. h (i. e.) When the rest broke their covenant with God by that foul sin of Idolatry with the calf, that Tribe kept themselves more pure from that infection, and adhered to God and his Worship and Service, as appears from Exod. 32. 26, 28. Compare Mal. 2. 6, 7.

10 ‖ They i shall teach Jacob thy judgments, and Israel thy law: ‖ they shall put incense † before thee k, and whole burnt-sacrifice upon thine altar. ‖ Or let them teach, &c. ‖ Or, let them put incense. † Heb. at thy nose.

11 Bless, LORD his substance l, and accept the work of his hands m, smite through the loins of them that rise against him n, and of them that hate him, that they rise not again.

l (i. e.) His outward estate, as Deut. 8. 18. because he hath no inheritance of his own and therefore wholly depends upon thy blessing. Or, His Host or Army, as the word is used Ezek. 37. 10. The Priests that attended upon Gods service in the Tabernacle or Temple are oft compared to an host or army in regard of their exquisite order and courses and constant watches there. See Num. 4. 3. m (i. e.) All his holy administrations which he fitly calls the works of his hands, either more largly, the hand, one great instrument of action being put for all the rest: Or because a great part of the service of the Levites and Priests was done by the labour of their hand and body, whereas the service of Evangelical Ministers is more spiritual and heavenly. n He prays thus earnestly for them, partly because he foresaw they who were to teach and admonish, and reprove, and chastise others would have many enemies. Jer. 15. 10. Amos 5. 10. and partly because they were under God, the great preservers and upholders of Religion, and their Enemies were the Enemies of Religion it self, as is evident from the history of the Old Testament.

12 And of Benjamin he said, The beloved of the LORD o shall dwell in safety by him p, and the LORD q shall cover him all the day long r, and he shall dwell between his shoulders s.

o (i. e.) This beloved Tribe, so called partly in allusion to their Father Benjamin who was the beloved of his Father Jacob: and partly because of the love and kindness of God towards this Tribe appeared both in this, that they dwelt in the fattest and best part of the Land, as Josephus affirms, and especially in the following priviledge p i. e. Shall have his lot nigh unto Gods Temple, which was both a singular comfort and safeguard to him. q Who may well be understood here because he was expressed in the former member. r Shall protect that Tribe continually while they cleave to him. s The Lord shall dwell, i. e. his Temple shall be placed, between his shoulders, i. e. in his portion, or between his borders, or sides as the word Shoulder is oft used, as Exod. 28. 7. Numb. 34. 11. Jos. 15. 8, 10. Ezek. 47. 1, 2. And this was truly the situation of the Temple, on both sides whereof was Benjamins portion, and though mount Sion was in the Tribe of Judah, yet mount Moriah, on which The Temple was built, was in the Tribe of Benjamin.

18 And of Zebulun he ſaid, Rejoyce l Zebulun, in thy going out m, and Iſſachar n in thy tents o.

l Thou ſhalt proſper and have cauſe of rejoycing. m Either 1. To war as this phraſe is oft uſed, as Gen. 14. 18. which was in part verified, Judg. 5.18. or 2. To Sea, in way of Traffick, becauſe their portion lay near the Sea. Or both may be joyned, and in both reſpects his courſe is oppoſite to that of Iſſachar, who was a lover of peace and paſturage. See Gen. 49. 14. 15. n Who is here joyned with Zebulun, both becauſe they were brethren by Father and Mother too, and becauſe their poſſeſſions lay near together. o (i. e.) Thou ſhalt give thy ſelf to the management of Land and Cattle, living quietly in thy own poſſeſſions, diſliking the troubles of war and of merchandiſe. 19 They p ſhall call the people q unto the mountain r, there they ſhall offer ſacrifices of righteouſneſs s: for they ſhall ſuck of the abundance of the ſea t, and of treaſures hid in the ſand u.

p Either 1. Zebulun and Iſſachar. Or rather 2. Zebulun only, as the following matter ſhews, and it was Zebulun that Moſes takes more ſpecial notice of ver. 18. bringing in Iſſachar only by the by in conjunction with him or in oppoſition to him. And ſo having diſpatched Iſſachar in two words, he returns to Zebulun, a more active Tribe. q (i. e.) The Gentiles, either thoſe of Galilee, which was called Galilee of the Gentiles, who were their Neighbours, or people of other nations, with whom they had commerce, which they endeavoured to improve in perſwading them to the true God and his Worſhip and Service. r (i. e.) To the Temple which Moſes knew was to be ſeated upon a mountain. s (i. e.) Such as God requires and Righteouſneſs obligeth them to offer. Their trafficking abroad with Heathen nations ſhall not make them forget or neglect their duty at home, nor ſhall their diſtance from the place of ſacrifices hinder them from coming to it to diſcharge that duty. t They ſhall grow rich by the traffick of the ſea, and their riches ſhall not make them the worſe as they do others, but they ſhall conſecrate themſelves and their riches to the ſervice of God. u Such pretious things as either 1. Are contained in the Sand of the Sea and Rivers, in which ſometimes there is mixed a conſiderable quantity of Gold and Silver. Or 2. Such as grow in the Sea or are fetched from the ſandy bottom of it, as pearls, coral, ambergreaſe, &c. Or 3. 20 And of Gad he ſaid, Bleſſed be he that * enlargeth Gad x: he dwelleth as a lion y, and teareth the arm with the crown of the head z.

x By praiſing God for enlarging Gad he ſuppoſeth the ground of theſe praiſes, that God would enlarge Gad, i.e. either 1. enlarge his Territories: which ſeems needleſs, becauſe they had a very large portion now when Moſes uttered theſe words. Or 2. bring him out of his ſtraits and troubles, which he was likely to be oft engaged in, becauſe he was encompaſſed with potent Enemies. And in this ſenſe the phraſe is uſed Pſal. 4. 2. compare Pſal. 31. 8. and 118. 5. † Heb. ſieled.

a The firſt-fruits of the Land of promiſe, the country of Sihon, which was firſt conquered, which he is ſaid to provide for himſelf, becauſe he deſired and ſo obtained it of Moſes, Numb. 32. b (i. e.) Of Moſes whoſe portion this is called, either becauſe this part of the Land beyond Jordan was the only part of the Land which Moſes was permitted to enter upon: or becauſe it was given to him by Moſes, whereas the portions beyond Jordan were given to the ſeveral Tribes by Joſhua according to the direction of the lot. c Heb. hid or protected: for their Wives and Children were ſecured in their Cities, whileſt many of their men went over to the war in Canaan. d (i. e.) He went, or he will go (the preter tenſe being put for the future after the manner of the Prophets) to wit, to the war in Canaan, with the Princes, or Captains, or Rulers of the People of Iſrael, i. e. under their command and conduct, as indeed they did, or with the firſt of the people, or, in the front of the people, as the Syriack renders it, for this tribe and their brethren whoſe lot fell beyond Jordan, were to march and did march into Canaan before their brethren, as it is expreſſed Joſ. 1. 14. And the Hebrew word roſch oft ſignifies the beginning or firſt of a thing. e (i. e.) He did or will execute the juſt judgment of God againſt the Canaanites, as the reſt of the Iſraelites did, he will joyn in the war againſt them, as he promiſed to do Numb. 32. 27, &c. and actually did, Joſ. 1. 14.

22 And of Dan he ſaid, Dan is a lions whelp f: he ſhall leap from Baſhan g.

f (i. e.) Couragious and generous and ſtrong and ſucceſsful againſt his Enemies. g Or, which leapeth from Baſhan: for this clauſe ſeems not to belong to the Tribe of Dan, which was at a great diſtance from Baſhan, even at the other end of the Land, and therefore this ſeems too great a leap for him, and if he did leap ſo far he ſhould rather be ſaid to take his leap from his own lot in the South of Canaan, and thence to leap not from Baſhan, but to Baſhan, to fall upon his Enemies there: but it rather is a continuation of the Metaphor, and belongs to the Lion, which is ſaid to leap from Baſhan, becauſe there were many and fierce Lions in thoſe parts, ſee Judg. 14. 5. whence they uſed to come forth to prey, and their manner was to leap upon the prey.

23 And of Naptali he ſaid, O Naptali ſatisfied with favour g, and full with the bleſſing of the LORD h: poſſeſs thou the weſt and the ſouth i.

g Either 1. With Gods favour, as it follows: Or 2. With mens favour or good will, his carriage being peaceable, courteous and obliging, as is intimated, Gen. 49. 21. according to the common Tranſlation, ſee the notes there. h (i. e.) Seated in a pleaſant and fertile and happy ſoil, ſuch as Galilee, (in which their ſhare lay) eminently was, as Joſephus and others report. i Or, the Sea and the South. This is to be underſtood of the places, that his lot ſhould fall there, for he was rather in the Eaſt and North of the Land, but of the pleaſures and commodities of the Weſt or of the Sea, which were conveyed to him from his neighbour Zebulun, and of the South, i.e. from the ſouthern tribes and parts of Canaan, which were brought to him down the River Jordan, and both ſorts of commodities were given him in exchange for the fruits of his rich ſoil which he had in great abundance.

24 And of Aſher he ſaid, Let Aſher be bleſſed with children k, let him be acceptable to his brethren l, and let him dip his foot in oil m.

k He ſhall have numerous and thoſe ſtrong and healthful and comely Children. Or, ſhall be bleſſed or praiſed of or above the ſons, i. e. the other Sons of Iſrael, or his brethren, as it here follows, i. e. His portion ſhall fall in an excellent part, where he may have the benefits both of his own fat ſoil, and of the Sea, by his neighbours, Tyrus and Sidon. l By his ſweet diſpoſition and winning carriage and communication of his excellent commodities to his brethren he ſhall gain their affections. m He ſhall have ſuch plenty of Oil that he may not only waſh his face but his feet alſo in it. Or, the fatneſs and fertility of his Countrey may be expreſſed by oil, as Job 29. 6. And ſo it agrees with Jacobs bleſſing of him, Gen. 49. 20.

25 ‖ Thy ſhoes ſhall be iron and braſs n, and as thy days, ſo ſhall thy ſtrength be o.

n This may note, either 1. Their great ſtrength by which they ſhould be able to tread down and cruſh their Enemies, as Chriſts feet for this very reaſon are ſaid to be of braſs, Revel. 1. 15. Or 2. The mines of Iron and Copper, which were in their portion, whence Sidon their neighbour was famous among the heathens for its plenty of braſs, and Sarepta is thought to have its name from the braſs and iron, which were melted melted there in great quantity. Compare Deut. 8.9. Or 3. The ſtrength of its ſcituation, and ſo ſome antients and moderns render the words, thy habitation or thy enclosure ſhall be iron and braſs, i. e. fortified as it were with walls and gates of iron and braſs, being defended by the Sea on one ſide, by their brethren on other ſides, as alſo by mountains and rivers. o (i. e.) Thy ſtrength ſhall not be diminiſhed with thine age, but thou ſhalt have the vigour of youth even in thy old age: thy Tribe ſhall grow ſtronger and ſtronger, 26 There is none like unto the God of Jeſurun, who rideth upon the heaven p in thy help, and in his excellency q on the skie.

p (i. e.) Upon the clouds to ſuccour thee from thence by ſending thunder and lightning upon thine enemies. See Pſal. 18 7, &c. and 68. 34, &c. q Or, in his magnificence, i. e. magnificently glorioully and with great Majeſty as well as power.

27 The eternal God is thy refuge r, and underneath s are the everlaſting arms: and he ſhall thruſt out the enemy from before thee, and ſhall ſay, Deſtroy them t.

r Or, thy dwelling-place. Compare Pſal. 91. 1. s (i. e.) Under thy arms to hold thee up, as my hands were once held up by Aaron and Hur. He will ſupport and defend thee. Or the meaning is, Though he dwelleth on high, yet he comes down to earth beneath to aſſiſt and deliver thee t (i. e.) Shall give thee not only command and commiſſion, but alſo power to deſtroy them. for Gods ſaying is doing, his word comes with power.

* Jer. 23. 6. 28 * Iſrael then ſhall dwell in ſafety alone u; the fountain of Jacob x ſhall be upon a land of corn and wine: alſo his heavens y ſhall drop down dew.

u Either 1. Though they be alone, and have no confederates to defend them, but have all the world againſt them, yet my ſingle protection ſhall be ſufficient for them. Or 2. Diſtinct and ſeparated from all other nations, with whom I will not have them to mingle themſelves. See Num. 23. 9. Ezra 9. 1, 2. x (i. e.) The poſterity of Jacob, which flowed from him as waters from a Fountain, in great abundance. Compare Pſal. 68. 26. Iſa. 48. 1. The fountain is here put for the River or Streams which flow from it, as Pſal. 104. 10. as the Root is put for the branch. 2 Chron. 22. 10. Iſa. 11. 10. Revel. 5. 5. and as Jacob or Iſrael who is the fountain, is oft put for the children of Iſrael. Or the eye (for ſo the Hebrew word oft ſignifies) of Jacob, i. e. of the people of Iſrael, and ſo the ſenſe is, They who now only hear of the Land of promiſe ſhall ſhortly ſee it, which I am not ſuffered to do, and ſhall enjoy it, which is oft ſignified by ſeeing, as Pſal. 4. 6. 27. 13. and 34. 13. Eccleſ. 2. 1. and 3. 13. y (i. e.) Thoſe Heavens or that Air which hangs over his Land.

29 Happy art thou, O Iſrael; who is like unto thee, O people, ſaved by the LORD, the ſhield of thy help, and who is the ſword of thy excellency! and thine enemies ‖ ſhall be found liars unto thee ‖, and thou ſhalt tread upon their high places †.

z The giver and preſerver of all that excellency, that glory, ſafety and happineſs, which thou haſt above all other people, which thou doeſt not obtain either by or for thy own wiſdom or ſtrength or goodneſs. Or, Thy moſt excellent ſword, i. e. Thy ſtrength and the author of all thy paſt or approaching victories. ‖ (i. e.) Shall be deceived as to all their vain hopes and confidences of deſtroying thee or ſaving themſelves, whether grounded upon their own numbers and valour and ſtrong holds, or upon old Prophecies and Predictions of ſucceſs, or upon their Idols. Or, ſhall lie unto thee, i. e. ſhall ſubmit themſelves to thee, though it be done but feignedly and by conſtraint, as this phraſe is uſed Pſal. 18. 44. & 66. 3. & 81. 15. Poſſibly this may deſign the lies and frauds which the Gibeonites would uſe to deceive them. Joſ. 9. 4. † i. e. Thou ſhalt ſubdue their greateſt princes, and their ſtrongeſt holds, Deut. 32. 13. and their idols Temples and Worſhip.

CHAP. XXXIV.

1 AND Moſes went up a from the plains of Moab, unto the mountain of Nebo b to the top of ‖ Piſgah, that is over againſt Jericho: and the LORD ſhewed him * all the land of Gilead c unto Dan d.

‖ Or, the hill.
* chap. 3. 27.

a In compliance with Gods will that he ſhould then and there reſign up his ſoul to God. b Of which ſee Num. 27. 12. and 32. 38. & Deut. 32. 49. c Whereof Moſes had as yet ſeen and enjoyed but a ſmall part. Of this Land ſee Gen. 31. 21. Numb. 32. 1, 19, &c. d To that City which after Moſes his death was called Dan, Joſ. 19. 47. Judg. 18. 29. So that here is an anticipation. But it ſeems moſt probable and is commonly believed that this chapter was not written by Moſes but by Eleazer or Joſhua or Ezra or ſome other man of God directed herein by the Holy Ghoſt; this being no more impeachment to the divine authority of this chapter, that the penman is unknown, which alſo is the lot of ſome other Books of Scripture, than it is to the authority of the Acts of the King or Parliament, that they are Written or Printed by ſome unknown perſon.

2 And all Naphtali e, and the land of Ephraim, and Manaſſeh, and all the land of Judah, unto the utmoſt ſea f.

e (i. e.) The land of Naphtali, which together with Dan, was in the North of Canaan, as Ephraim and Manaſſeh were in the midland parts, and Judah on the South, and the Sea on the Weſt. So theſe parts lying in the ſeveral quarters are put for all the reſt. He ſtood in the Eaſt and ſaw alſo Gilead, which was in the Eaſtern part of the land, and thence he ſaw the North and South and Weſt. f (i. e.) The midland Sea which was the utmoſt bound of the land of promiſe on the Weſt.

3 And the ſouth g, and the plain of the valley of Jericho h, the city of palm-trees i, unto Zoar.

g (i. e.) The fourth quarter of the land of Judah, which is towards the ſalt ſea, which is deſcribed Num. 34. 3, 4, 5. Joſ. 15. 1, 2, 3, 4. as the weſtern quarter of Judah was deſcribed in the words next foregoing. h Or, in which lies Jericho: which was in the Tribe of Benjamin. i (i. e.) Jericho, ſo called both here and Judg. 1. 16. and 3. 13. 2 Chron. 28. 15. from the multitude of Palm-trees which were in thoſe parts, as Joſephus and Strabo write. From whence and the balm there growing it was called Jericho, which ſignifies, odoriferous or ſweet ſmelling.

4 And the LORD ſaid unto him, * This is the land which I ſware unto Abraham, unto Iſaac, and unto Jacob, ſaying, I will give it unto thy ſeed: I have cauſed thee to ſee it with thine eyes k, but thou ſhalt not go over thither.

* Gen. 12. and 13. 15

k To wit, by a miraculous power ſtrengthening thy ſight or making a clear repreſentation of all theſe parts to thy view.

5 So Moſes the ſervant of the LORD died there in the land of Moab l, according to the word of the LORD.

l (i. e.) In the land which Iſrael took from the Amorites which antiently was the land of Moab.

6 And he m buryed him in a valley in the land of Moab, over-againſt Beth-Peor: but no man knoweth of his ſepulchre n unto this day.

m (i. e.) The Lord, laſt mentioned, buried him either immediately or by the miniſtery of Angels, whereof Michael was the Chief or Prince, Jude ver. 9. n i. e. Of the particular place of the Valley where he was buried; which God hid from the Iſraelites, to prevent their Superſtition and Idolatry, to which he knew their great proneneſs. And for this very reaſon the Devil endeavoured to have it known and contended with Michael about it, Jude ver. 9. And ſeeing God would not endure the worſhip of the Relicks, or Tomb of ſo eminent a perſon as Moſes was, it is ridiculous to think God would permit this honour to be given to any of the ſucceeding Saints who were ſo far inferiour to him.

o By a miraculous work of God in mercy to his Church and people.

8 And the children of Iſrael wept for Moſes in the plains of Moab thirty days p: ſo the days of weeping and mourning for Moſes were ended.

p Which was the uſual time of mourning for perſons of high place and eminency. See Gen. 50. 3, 10. Num. 20. 29. For others ſeven days ſufficed.

9 And Joſhua the ſon of Nun was full of the ſpirit of wiſdom q: for Moſes had laid his hands upon him r, and the children of Iſrael hearkened unto him, and did as the LORD commanded Moſes.

q And other gifts and graces too, as appears from the Hiſtory, but Wiſdom is mentioned as being moſt neceſſary for the Government to which he was now called, r Which God had appointed as a ſign to Moſes and Joſhua and the Iſraelites that this was the perſon whom he had appointed and qualified for his great work. See Numb. 27. 18, &c. compare Gen. 48. 10. Numb. 8. 10.

10 And there aroſe not a prophet ſince in Iſrael like unto Moſes s, whom the LORD knew face to face t:

s In the priviledges here following. t (i. e.) Whom God did ſo freely and familiarly and frequently converſe with. See on Exod. 33. 11. Numb. 12. 8. Deut. 5. 4.

11 In all the ſigns u, and the wonders which the LORD ſent him to do in the land of Egypt, to Pharaoh, and to all his ſervants, and to all his land.

u This is to be joyned either 1. with the words immediately foregoing, as an eminent inſtance wherein God did know or acknowledge and own or converſe ſo familiarly with Moſes, namely in the working of all his ſigns and wonders in Egypt, where God ſpake to him ſo oft, and ſometimes even in Pharoahs preſence, and anſwered his requeſts, ſo particularly and punctually whether he called for vengeance or for deliverance. Or 2. With the more remote words, there was none like unto Moſes in regard of all the ſigns, &c. the words, whom the Lord knew face to face, coming in by way of parentheſis.

12 And in all that mighty hand, and in all the great terror which Moſes ſhewed in the ſight of all Iſrael:

JOSHUA.

The ARGUMENT.

IT is not material to know who was the Pen-man of this Book, whether Joshua, as seems most probable from Chap. 24. 26. or some other holy Prophet. It is sufficient, that this Book was a part of the Holy Scriptures or Oracles of God committed to, and carefully kept by, the Jews, and by them faithfully delivered to us; as appears by the concurring Testimony of Christ and his Apostles, who owned and approved of the same Holy Scriptures which the Church of the Jews did. But this is certain, that divers Passages in this Book, were put into it after Joshua's death, as Josh. 10. 13. compared with 2 Sam. 1. 18. and Josh. 19. 47. compared with Judg. 18. 1. and Josh. 24. 29, 30. And such like Insertions have been observed in the five Books of Moses.

CHAP. I.

NOW after the death of Moses a, the servant of the LORD b, it came to pass, that the LORD spake c unto Joshua the son of Nun Moses *Deut. 1. 38. * minister d, saying,

a Either immediately after it, or when the days of mourning for Moses were expired. Joshua was appointed and declared Moses his Successor in the Government before this time; and therefore doubtless entred upon the Government instantly after his death; and here he receives confirmation from God therein. b This title is given to Moses here and v. 2. as also Deut. 34. 5. and is oft repeated not without cause, partly to reflect Honour upon him, partly to give Authority to his Laws and Writings, in publishing whereof he only acted as Gods Servant in his name and stead: and partly that the Israelites might not think of Moses above what was meet, remembring that he was not the Lord himself, but only the Lords Servant; and therefore not to be worshipped, nor yet to be too pertinaciously followed in all his Institutions, when the Lord himself should come and abolish part of the Mosaical Dispensation; it being but reasonable that he who was only a Servant in Gods house, should give place to him who was the Son, and Heir, and Lord of it, as Christ was. See Heb. 3. 3. 5. 6. c Either in a Dream or Vision, or by Urim, Numb. 27. 21. d i. e. Who had waited upon Moses in his great Employments, and thereby been privy to his Managery of the Government, and so fitted and prepared for it.

2 Moses my servant is dead: now therefore arise, go over this Jordan e, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give f to them, even to the children of Israel.

e This which is now near thee, which is the only obstacle in thy way to Canaan. f i. e. Am now about to give the actual Possession of it, as I formerly gave a right to it by promise.

*Deut. 11. 24. Chap. 14. 9. 3 * Every place g that the sole of your foot shall tread upon, that have I given unto you, as I said unto Moses.

g To wit, Within the following bounds.

*Exod. 23. 31. Numb. 34. 3. 4 * From the wilderness, and this Lebanon h, even unto the great river, the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites i, and unto the great sea k, toward the going down of the sun, shall be your coast l.

h This emphatically, as being the most eminent Mountain in Syria, and the Northern border of the Land: or this which is within thy view; as if the Lord appeared to him in the form of a man, and pointed to it. i i. e. Of the Canaanites, who elsewhere are all called Amorites; as Gen. 15. 16. and here Hittites by a Synecdoche: the Hittites being the most considerable and formidable of all, as may appear from Numb. 13. 33. and 14. 1. 2 King. 7. 6. and many of them being of the race of the Giants, dwelling about Hebron: See Gen. 25. 9, 10. and 26. 34. and 27. 46. k The Midland Sea, great in it self, and especially with those lesser Collections of waters, which the Jews called Seas. l Obj. The Israelites never possessed all this Land. Ans. 1. That was from their own sloth and cowardize, and disobedience to God, and breach of those Conditions upon which this Promise was suspended: See Judg. 2. 20. 2. This Land was not all to be possessed by them at once, but by degrees, as their numbers and necessities increased; but Canaan being fully sufficient for them, and many of the Israelites being from time to time either cut off, or carried captive for their sins, there was never any need of enlarging their Possessions. 3. Though their Possessions extended not to Euphrates, yet their Dominion did, and all those Lands were tributary to them in David's and Solomon's time.

5 There shall not any man be able to stand before thee all the days of thy life: as I was with Moses, m so I will be with thee; * I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee n.
*Heb. 13. 5. Deut. 31. 6, 18.

m To assist him against all his enemies, and in all the difficulties of governing this stiff-necked people, which Joshua might justly fear no less than the Canaanites. n I will not leave thee destitute neither of inward support or of outward assistance.

6 * Be strong, and of a good courage o: for † unto this people shalt thou divide for an Inheritance, the land p which I sware unto their fathers to give them.
*Deut. 31. 7. † Or, thou shalt cause this people to inherit the land, &c.

o Joshua, though a person of great Courage and Resolution, whereof he had given sufficient Proof, yet needs these Exhortations, partly because his work was great, and difficult, and long, and in a great measure new; partly because he had a very mean opinion of himself, especially if compared with Moses; and remembring how perverse and ungovernable that people were, even under Moses, he might very well suspect the burden of ruling them would be too heavy for his shoulders. p Which supposeth the full Conquest of the land. That Honour and Assistance which I denied to Moses, I will give to thee.

7 Only be thou strong, and very couragious, that thou mayest observe to do according to all the Law * which Moses my servant commanded thee q: * turn not from it to the right hand or to the left r, that thou mayest † prosper s whithersoever thou goest t.
* Deut. 31. 7. * Deut. 5. 32. & 28. 14. † Or, do wisely.

q Remember, that though thou art the Captain and Commander of my people, yet thou art my Subject, and obliged to observe all my commands. r i. e. In any kind, or upon any pretence. s Which plainly shews, That Gods assistance promised to him and to the Israelites, was conditional, and might justly be withdrawn upon their breach of the Conditions. t Or, That thou mayest do wisely. Whereby he instructs him in the true Art of Government; and that his greatest Wisdom will lie in the observation of all Gods Commands, and not in that pretended reason of State which other Princes govern all their Affairs by. t i. e. Whatsoever thou doest. Mens actions are oft compared to ways, or journeys, or steps by which they come to the end, they aim at.

8 * This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth u, but * thou shalt † meditate therein day and night x, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein y: for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt † have good success.
* Deut. 17. 18, 19. * Psal. 1. 2. † Or, discourse of it. See Psal. 28. 35. † Or, do wisely.

u i. e. Thou shalt constantly read it, and upon occasion discourse of it, and the sentence which shall come out of thy mouth, shall in all things be given according to this Rule. x i. e. Diligently study, and frequently and upon all occasions consider what is Gods Will and thy Duty. The greatness of thy place and employments shall not hinder thee from this Work, because this is the only Rule of all thy private Actions and publick Administrations. y Whereby he teacheth him, that it is his Duty to see with his own eyes, and to understand the Mind and Law of God himself, and not blindly to follow what any other should advise him to.

* Deut. 31. 7, 8. 9 * Have not I commanded thee ? Be strong, and of a good courage, be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed; for the LORD thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest.

? I whom thou art obliged to obey: I who can carry thee through every thing I put thee upon: I of whose Faithfulness and Almightiness thou hast had large experience?

10 Then Joshua commanded the officers of the people, saying,

11 Pass through the host, and command the people, saying, Prepare you victuals a: for within three days b ye shall pass over this Jordan, to go in to possess the land which the LORD your God giveth you to possess it.

a For although Manna was given them to supply their want of ordinary Provisions in the Wilderness; yet they were allowed, when they had opportunity, to purchase other Provisions, and did so, Deut. 2. 6, 28. And now having been some time in the land of the Amorites, and together with Manna used themselves to other food which that Country plentifully supplied them with; they are warned to furnish themselves therewith for their approaching march. b Qu. How can this be, when the Spies, who were not yet sent away, continued three days hid in the Mountains, Josh. 2. 22. and the people passed not over till three days after the Spies returned? Josh. 3. 2. Ans. These words, though placed here, seem not to have been delivered by Joshua till after the return of the Spies; such Transpositions being so frequent in Scripture, that Interpreters have formed this general Rule, That there is no certain Order, no former nor latter in the Histories of the Scripture. And hence it comes, that these three days mentioned here, after the History of the Spies, are again repeated, Josh. 3. 2. Besides, the Septuagint render the words, Yet three days; and the Chaldee, In the end of three days; others, After three days, as it is, Josh. 3. 2. Or, these three days may be the same with those, Josh. 2. 22. and the matter may be conceived thus, Joshua gives the people notice of their passage over Jordan within three days, here, and at the same time sends away the Spies, who return ere those three days be ended. For the three days, Josh. 2. 22. may be understood of one whole day, and part of two other days, as it is in that famous instance, Matth. 27. 63, of which see more on that place, and on, Matth. 12. 40. The Spies came to Jericho in the Even of the first day, and intended to lye there, Josh. 2. 8. but being disturbed and affrighted by the search made after them, they go away that night into the Mountains, and there abide the time mentioned. Joshua having delivered this message from God to the Israelites, and sent away the Spies, removes from Shittim to Jordan, Josh. 3. 1. being sufficiently assured of his safe passage over Jordan, whatsoever became of the Spies; and after those three days mentioned here were past, Josh. 3. 2. he sends the Officers to the people with a second message about the manner of their actual passing over.

12 And to the Reubenite, and to the Gadite, and to half the tribe of Manasseh, spake Joshua, saying,

* Numb. 32. 23. Deut. 3. 18. 13 Remember * the words which Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you c, saying, The LORD your God hath given you rest d, and hath given you this land.

c His charge to you, and your promise to him, which they were obliged to keep; and Joshua was to see that they did so. d i. e. A place of rest, as that word signifies; See on Gen. 49. 15.

14 Your wives, your little ones, and your cattel shall remain in the land which Moses gave you on this side Jordan: but ye shall pass e before your

e To wit, over Jordan. f Either, 1. in their presence. Or, 2. In the front of all of them; which was but reasonable: partly, because they had the advantage of their brethren, having actually received their Portion, which their Brethren had only in hope, and therefore were obliged to more service, the rather to prevent the envy of the other Tribes; partly because they were freed from those Impediments which the rest were exposed to, their Wives, and Children, and Estates being safely lodged; and partly to prevent their retreat and withdrawing themselves from the present service, which they otherwise should have had opportunity and temptation to do, because of the nearness of their Habitations. g For by this time they were well furnished with Arms, which they had either from the Egyptians, or Amalekites, or Amorites, from whom they had taken them; or by purchase from those people by whose borders they passed. Or, in military order: See on Exod. 13. 18. h All such were obliged to go over if occasion required it, but Joshua took only some of them, partly because they were sufficient for his purpose, and partly because some were fit to be left, both to secure their own Wives, Children, and Possessions, and to prevent their enemies on that side from giving them disturbance or hinderance ~~in their enterprize upon Canaan~~.

15 Until the LORD have given your brethren rest, as he hath given you, and they also have possessed the land which the LORD your God giveth them: then ye shall return unto the land of your possession, and enjoy it, which Moses the LORD's servant gave you on this side Jordan, toward the sun-rising.

16 And they answered h Joshua, saying, All that thou commandest us, we will do, and whithersoever thou sendest us, we will go.

h i. e. The Reubenites, &c. mentioned v. 12. to whom Joshua's Discourse is confined v. 13, 14, 15. No doubt the other Tribes expressed the same thing; but this is only recorded concerning these, because that might seem most doubtful, and the obedience of the rest was unquestionable.

17 According as we hearkned unto Moses in all things, so will we hearken unto thee i: only the LORD thy God be with thee, as he was with Moses k.

i The same obedience which we owed, and those of us who are now alive generally performed to Moses, we promise unto thee. k This is not a limitation of their obedience, as if they would not obey him any further or longer than he was prosperous or successful; but an additional Prayer for him, As we have hereby promised thee our obedience, so our Prayer shall be, That God would bless and prosper thee, as he did Moses.

18 Whosoever he be that doth rebel against thy commandment, and will not hearken unto thy words in all that thou commandest him l, he shall be put to death: only be strong, and of a good courage.

l Not repugnant to Gods commands; for none can be so foolish to think, that if he had commanded the people to blaspheme God, or worship Idols, the people were obliged to obey him therein.

CHAP. II.

AND Joshua the son of Nun sent a out of Shittim b two men c, to spy d † secretly e, saying, Go view the land, even Jericho f: and they went, and * came into an harlots g house, named * Rahab, and † lodged h there.

a Or, had sent, as that Tense is oft used: See on Josh. 1. 11. b Called also Abel-shittim, Num. 33. 49. c Not twelve, as Moses did, partly because the people of Canaan were now more alarm'd than in Moses his time, and more suspicious of all strangers; and partly because those were to view the whole land, these but a small parcel of it. d i. e. To learn the state of the land and people, and what way and method they should proceed in. It is evident enough, That Joshua did not this out of distrust, as the people did, Deut. 1. and it is most probable, he had Gods Command and Direction in it for the encouragement of himself and his Army in their present Enterprize. e With reference not to his Enemies, which being the constant and necessary practice of all Spies, was needless to be mentioned; but to the Israelites, without their knowledge or desire. And this seems added by way of opposition unto the like Action, Deut. 1. where it was done with the peoples privity, and upon their motion; and therefore an Account was given not only to Moses, but also to the Congregation; whereas here it was given to Joshua only, v. 23. which was a good Caution to prevent the Inconveniency which possibly might have arisen, if their Report had been doubtful or discouraging. f i. e. The land about Jericho together with the City. Heb. The land and Jericho, i. e. especially Jericho. So and is used, 2 Sam. 2. 30. 1 King. 11. 1. Psal. 18. 1. They obeyed Joshua's Command, even with the hazard of their own lives, considering that they were under the protection of divine Providence, which could very easily many ways secure them; or being willing to sacrifice their lives in their Countreys service. g So the Hebrew word is used, Judg. 11. 1. 16. 1. 1 King. 3. 16. Ezek. 23. 44. and so it is rendred by two Apostles, Heb. 11. 31. Jam. 2. 25. such she either now was, or formerly had been; and such a persons house they might come to with less observation than to an Hostess, as some render it, or to a publick Victualling-House. And such a course of life was very common among the Gentiles, who esteemed Fornication to be either no sin, or a very small and trivial one. Or, lay down; as the same word is rendred, v. 8. intended and composed themselves to rest; but they were disturbed and hindred from their Intentions upon the following Discovery.

2 And

2 And it was told the King of Jericho, saying, Behold, there came in men hither to night i, of the children of Israel, to search out the Country.

i This evening, by comparing this with v. 5.

3 And the King of Jericho sent unto Rahab, saying, Bring forth the men that are come to thee; which are entred into thine house: for they be come to search out all the country.

4 And the woman took the two men, and hid them k, and said thus, There came men unto me, but I wist not whence they were l:

k Or, But the Woman had taken —— and had hid them, to wit, before the Messengers came from the King; as soon as she understood from her Neighbours or common Rumor, that there was a suspicion of the matter, and guessed that search would be made. And this is justly mentioned as a great and generous act of Faith, Heb. 11. 31. for she did apparently venture her life upon a stedfast perswasion of the Truth of Gods Word and Promise given to the Israelites. l Her Answer contained in these and the following words, was palpably false, and therefore unquestionably sinful; howsoever, her intention was good therein: See Rom. 3. 8. But it is very probable, she being an Heathen, might think, what some Christians have thought and said, That an officious Lie is not unlawful. Or at worst, this was her Infirmity, which was graciously pardoned by God, and her Faith was amply rewarded.

5 And it came to pass about the time of shutting of the gate m, when it was dark, that the men went out: whither the men went, I wot not: pursue after them quickly, for ye shall overtake them.

m Either of her house, or rather of the City which was shut at a certain time.

6 But * she had brought them up to the roof n of the house, and hid them with the stalks of flax, which she had laid in order upon the roof o.

* See 2 Sam. 17. 19.

n Which was plain after the manner: See Deut. 22. 8. Mat. 10. 27. Act. 10. 9. Mark 2. 4. o That they may be dried by the heat of the Sun.

7 And the men pursued after them the way to Jordan unto the fords p: and assoon as they which pursued after them were gone out, they shut the gate q.

p Or passages, i. e. The usual places where people used to pass over Jordan, whether by Boats or Bridges; or rather, because of the shallowness of the River, which a little after this, swelled higher, as the History will tell us; and as it is very usual for Rivers to do. q Of the City, partly for their security against their approaching Enemies; and partly to prevent the escape of the Spies, if peradventure Rahab was mistaken, and they yet lurked in the City.

8 And before they were laid down r, she came up unto them upon the roof, r To rest or sleep, as they intended, being now, after the departure of the Searchers come from their hiding-place to their resting place.

9 And she said unto the men s, I know that the LORD hath given you the land, and that * your terror t is fallen upon us, and that all the inhabitants of the land † faint because of you.

* Gen. 35. 5. † Heb. melt.

s Qu. How could they understand one the other? Ans. 1. The Hebrew and the Canaan or Phœnician Languages have a very great resemblance, and are thought to be but differing Dialects of one and the same Tongue, as the learned prove by a multitude of words which are common to both of them. Or, 2. some of the Hebrews had either out of curiosity, or by Joshua's order and direction, learnt that Language for this or other such like Occasions. t i. e. The dread of you: See Exod. 23. 27. and 34. 24. Deut. 11. 25. and 28. 7.

10 For we have heard how the LORD * dried up the water of the Red-sea for you, when ye came out of Egypt, and what ye did unto the two Kings of the Amorites, that were on the other side Jordan, * Sihon and Og whom ye utterly destroyed.

*Exod. 14. 21. Chap. 4. 23.

* Numb. 21. 24, 34.

11 And assoon as we had heard these things, * our hearts did melt u, neither † did there remain any more courage in any man, because of you: for * the LORD your God, he is God in heaven above, and in the earth beneath x. *

*Exod. 15. 14. † Heb. rose there up any more spirit in any man. * Chap. 5. 1. * Deut. 4. 39.

u i. e. Was dissolved, lost all consistency and courage. This Phrase is oft used, as Deut. 1. 28. and 20. 8. Josh. 5. 1. and 7. 5. x He can do whatsoever he pleaseth in Heaven and Earth; whereas our Gods are inclosed in Heaven, and can do nothing to us upon Earth.

12 Now therefore, I pray you, swear unto me by the LORD y, since I have shewed you kindness, that ye will also shew kindness unto * my fathers house z, and give me a true token a:

* See 1 Tim. 5. 8.

y By your God who is the only true God; so she shews her Conversion to God, and owns his Worship, one eminent Act whereof is swearing by his Name. z My near Kindred, which she particularly names, v. 13. Husband and Children it seems she had none. And for her self, it was needless to speak, it being a plain and undeniable Duty to save their Preserver. a Either an assurance that you will preserve me and mine from the common Ruine: or a Token which I may produce as a Witness of this agreement, and a mean of my security.

13 And that ye will save alive my father, and my mother, and my brethren, and my sisters, and all that they have b, and deliver our lives from death.

b i. e. Their Children, as appears from Josh. 6. 23.

14 And the men answered her, Our life † for yours c, if ye utter not this our business d. And it shall be when the LORD hath given us the land, that * we will deal kindly and truly with thee.

c We pawn and will venture our lives for the security of yours. Or, may we perish, if you be not preserved. d i. e. This Agreement of ours, and the way and condition of it, lest others under this pretence, secure themselves. By which they shew both their Piety and Prudence in managing their Oath with so much Circumspection and Caution, that neither their own Consciences might be ensnared, nor the publick Justice obstructed.

15 Then she let them down by a cord through the window: for her house was upon the Town-wall e, and she dwelt upon the wall f.

e Which gave her the opportunity of dismissing them when the gates were shut. f Her particular dwelling was there: which may possibly be added, because the other part of her House was reserved for the entertainment of Strangers.

16 And she said unto them, Get ye to the mountain g, lest the Pursuers meet you: and hide your selves there three days h, until the Pursuers be returned, and afterward may ye go your way.

g i. e. To some of the Mountains wherewith Jericho was encompassed, in which also there were many Caves where they might lurk. h Not three whole days, but one whole day, and parts of two days: See on Josh. 1. 11.

17 And the men said i unto her, We will be blameless k of this thine oath, which thou hast made us swear:

i Or, had said; namely, before she let them down; it being very improbable, either that she would dismiss them before the Condition was expressed and agreed; or that she would discourse with them, or they with her, about such secret and weighty things after they were let down, when others might over-hear them; or that she should begin her discourse in her Chamber, and not finish it till they were gone out of her House. Obj. They spoke this after they were let down; for it follows, v. 18. this--thred--which thou didst let us down by. Ans. Those words may be thus rendred, which thou dost let us down by; i. e. art about to do it: it being frequent for the Preter Tense to be used of a thing about to be done, by an Enallage of Tenses, as Josh. 10. 15. k i. e. Free from guilt or reproach if it be violated, namely, if the following Condition be not observed.

18 Behold, when we come into the land l, thou shalt bind this line of scarlet thread in the window m, which thou didst let us down by; and thou shalt † bring thy Father, and thy Mother, and thy Brethren, and all thy Fathers Houshold home unto thee.

l i. e. Over Jordan, and near the City. m That it may be easily discerned by our Souldiers.

19 And it shall be, that whosoever shall go out of the doors of thy house into the street, his blood shall be upon his head n, and we will be guiltless: and whosoever shall be with thee in the house, his blood shall be upon our head o, if any hand be upon him p.

n The blame of his death shall rest wholly upon himself, as being occasioned by his own neglect or contempt of the means of safety. o We are willing to bear the sin, and shame, and punishment of it. p To wit, so as to kill him, as this Phrase is used, Esth. 6. 2. Job 1. 12.

20 And if thou utter this our business, then we will be quit of thine oath, which thou hast made us to swear.

21 And she said, According unto your words, so be it. And she sent them away, and they departed: and she bound the scarlet line in the window q.

q Forthwith, partly that the Spies might see it hung out before their departure, and so the better know it at some distance; partly lest some accident might occasion a mistake or neglect about it; and partly for her own comfort, it being pleasant and encouraging to her to have in her eye the pledg of her deliverance.

22 And they went, and came unto the mountain, and abode there three days r, until the Pursuers were returned. And the Pursuers sought them throughout all the way s, but found them not.

r Supporting themselves there with the Provisions which after the manner of those times and places they carried with them, which Rahab furnished them with. s i.e. In the Road to Jordan, and the places near it, but not in the Mountains.

23 So the two men returned, and descended from the mountain, and passed over t, and came to Joshua the son of Nun, and told him u all things that befel them.

t To wit, Jordan unto Joshua. u Him alone, not the people, as they did, Numb. 13.

24 And they said unto Joshua, Truly the LORD hath delivered into our hand all the land: for even all the Inhabitants of the country do † faint because of us.

† Heb. melt.

CHAP. III.

AND Joshua rose early in the morning a, and they removed from Shittim, and came to Jordan, he, and all the children of Israel, and lodged there b before they passed over.

a Not after the return of the Spies, as may seem at first view; but after the three days, as it follows v. 2. b That night, that they might go over in the day time, partly that the Miracle might be more evident and unquestionable; and partly to strike the greater terror into their Enemies.

2 And it came to pass after three days c, that the Officers went through the host d; c Either, 1. at the end of the three days mentioned, Josh. 1. 11. or upon the last of them, as this Phrase is used: See on Deut. 15. 1. Or, 2. after those days were expired: See on Josh. 1. 11. d The second time to give them more particular Directions, as they had given them a general notice, Josh. 1. 10, 11.

3 And they commanded the people e, saying, When ye see the ark of the Covenant of the LORD your God, and the Priests the Levites f bearing it, then ye shall remove from your place, and go after it g.

e In Joshua's name, and by his Authority. f Who were not only Levites, but Priests also. For although the Levites were to carry the Ark, Numb. 4. yet the Priests might perform that Office, and did so upon some solemn occasions, as here, and Josh. 6. 6. Chap. 3. 3. g Towards Jordan, to go over it in such manner as I am about to describe. Till this time the Ark went in the middle of the cloudy Pillar, probably being now vanished; now it goes in the Front.

4 Yet there shall be a space between you and it, about two thousand cubits h by measure: come not near unto it i, that ye may know the way by which ye must go k: for ye have not passed this way † heretofore.

† Heb. since yesterday and the third day.

h Which make a thousand yards, and at which distance from it the Israelites seem to have been encamped in the Wilderness. And because they generally went from their Tents to the Ark to worship God, especially on the Sabbath-days; hence it hath been conceived, that a Sabbath days journey reached only to 2000. Cubits. But that may be doubted; for those who encamped neareſt the Ark, were at that distance from it, and came so far; but the most were further from it, and their Sabbath-days journey was considerably longer. i Partly from the reverent respect they should bear to the Ark; and partly for the following reason. k That the Ark marching so far before you into the River, and standing still there till you pass over, may give you the greater assurance of your safe passage.

5 And Joshua said l unto the people, * sanctifie your selves m: for to morrow the LORD will do wonders among you.

* Exod. 19. 14, 15. Lev. 20. 7. Num. 11. 18. Chap. 7. 13. 1 Sam. 16. 5. Joel 2. 16.

l Or rather, had said, to wit, the day before their passage; for it follows, to morrow, &c. m Both in Soul and Body, that you may be meet to receive such a favour, and with more Attention and Reverence observe and ponder this great Work, and fix it in your Hearts and Memories: See on Exod. 19. 10. Lev. 20. 7.

6 And Joshua spake unto the priests, saying, Take up n the ark of the covenant, and pass over before the people o. And they took up the ark of the covenant, and went before the people.

n To wit, upon your shoulders; for so they were to carry it, Numb. 7. 9. o Not in the middle of them, as you used to do.

7 And the LORD said unto Joshua, This day will I begin to magnifie thee in the sight of all Israel p, that they may know that * as I was with Moses, so I will be with thee.

* Chap. 1. 5.

p i.e. To gain thee Authority and Reputation among them, as the person whom I have set in Moses his stead, and by whom I will conduct them to the Possession of the promised Land.

8 And thou shalt command the Priests that bear the Ark of the Covenant, saying, When ye are come to the brink q of the water of Jordan, ye shall stand still in Jordan r.

q Heb. to the extremity, so far as the River then spreads it self, which was now more than ordinary, v. 15. r Within the waters of Jordan, in the first entrance into the River; where they stood for a season, till the River was divided, and then they went into the midst of it, as it is implyed v. 17, and there abode till all the people were passed over, as it follows in the History.

9 And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, Come hither s, and hear the words of the LORD your God t.

s To the Ark or Tabernacle, the place of publick Assemblies. t Who is now about to give a proof that he is both the Lord, the Omnipotent Governour of Heaven and Earth, and all Creatures: and your God, in Covenant with you, having a tender care and true affection for you.

10 And Joshua said, Hereby ye shall know u that the living God x is among you y, and that he will without fail drive out from before you the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Hivite, and the Perizzite, and the Girgashite, and the Amorite, and the Jebusite.

u To wit, by experience and sensible evidence. x Not a dull, dead, senseless and unactive God, such as the gods of the Nations are; but a God of life, and power, and activity to watch over you, and work for you. y Is present with you to strengthen and help you, as the Phrase signifies, Exod. 17. 7. Deut. 31. 17. Josh. 22. 31.

11 Behold, the ark of the covenant of the LORD of all the earth, passeth over before you into Jordan z.

z Into part of the River.

12 Now therefore take ye twelve men a out of the Tribes of Israel, out of every Tribe a man.

a For the work described, Josh. 4. 2, 3.

13 And it shall come to pass assoon as the soles of the feet of the priests that bear the ark of the LORD b, the Lord of all the earth c, shall rest in the waters of Jordan, that the waters of Jordan shall be cut off from the waters that come down from above d: and [they * shall stand upon an heap e.

* Psal. 114. 3.

b That so it may appear that this is the Lords doing, and that in pursuance, and for the accomplishment of his Covenant made with Israel. c The Lord of all this terrestrial Globe made of Earth and Water, who therefore can dispose of this River and the adjoyning Land as he pleaseth. d The Waters which now are united shall be divided, and part shall flow down the Channel towards the Dead-Sea, and the other part that is nearer the Spring or Rise of the River, and flows down from it, shall stand still. e Being as it were congealed, as the Red-Sea was, Exod. 15. 8. and so kept from overflowing all the Country.

14 And it came to pass when the people removed from their tents, to pass over Jordan, and the priests bearing the * ark of the covenant before the people;

* Act. 7. 45.

15 And as they that bare the ark were come unto Jordan, and the feet of the priests that bare the ark were dipped in the brim of the water, (for * Jordan overfloweth all his banks all the time of harvest) f

* 1 Chron. 12. 15. Jer. 12. 5. & 49. 19.

f Which is also noted, 1 Chron. 12. 15. Eccluſ. 24. 36. and by Ariſtæus in his Hiſtory of the LXX. Interpreters. This is meant not of the Wheat-harveſt, but of the Barely-harveſt, (which was before it, Ruth 1. 22. 2 Sam. 21. 9.) as is manifeſt from their keeping of the Paſſover at their firſt entrance, Joſh. 5. 10. which Feaſt was kept on the fourteenth day of their firſt Month, when they were to bring a Sheaf of their firſt-fruits, Levit. 23. 10. Deut. 16. 9, 10. which were of Barley, as Joſephus affirms, and is evident from the thing it ſelf. So that this Harveſt in thoſe hot Countreys fell very early in the Spring, when Rivers uſe to ſwell moſt; partly becauſe of the rains which have fallen all the Winter, and partly becauſe of the Snows which then melt into Water and come into the Rivers; for which Reaſons the ſame overflowing of Water which is here aſcribed to Jordan, is by other Authors aſcribed to Euphrates, and Tigris, and the Rhine, and Main, &c. And this time God choſe for this Work, partly that the Miracle might be more glorious in it ſelf, more obliging to the Iſraelites, and more amazing and terrible to the Canaanites; and partly that the Iſraelites might be entertained at their firſt entrance with more plentiful and comfortable Proviſions.

16 That the waters which came down from above, ſtood and roſe up upon an heap g very far from the city Adam that is beſide Zaretan h; and thoſe that came down toward the ſea of the plain, even the ſalt ſea failed, and were cut off: and the people paſſed over right againſt Jericho i.

g Which having been affirmed by Heathen Writers to have been done by Magicians, it is great impudence to diſbelieve or doubt of Gods power to do it. h The City Adam being more obſcure, is deſcribed by its nearneſs to a more known place, Zaretan, or Sarthan, which ſome think is the ſame place mentioned 1 King. 4. 12. and 7. 46. but it rather ſeems to have been another place then eminent, but now unknown, as many thouſands are. The meaning is, That the Waters were ſtopped in their courſe at that place, and ſo kept at a due diſtance from the Iſraelites whilſt they paſſed over. i Here God carried them over, becauſe this part was, 1. The ſtrongeſt, as having in its Neighbourhood an eminent City, a potent King, and a ſtout and Warlike people. 2. The moſt pleaſant and fruitful, and therefore more convenient both for the Refreſhment of the Iſraelites after their long and tedious Marches, and for their Encouragement to their preſent Expedition.

17 And the prieſts that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, ſtood firm k on dry ground in the midſt of Jordan l, and all the Iſraelites paſſed over on dry ground, until all the people were paſſed clean over Jordan.

k i. e. In one and the ſame place and poſture; their feet neither moved by any Waters flowing in upon them, nor ſinking into any mire, which one might think was at the bottom of the River. And this may be oppoſed unto their other ſtanding in the brink of the water when they came to it, commanded, v. 8. which was but for a while, till the Waters were divided and gone away; and then they were to go further even into the midſt of Jordan, as is here ſaid, where they are to ſtand conſtantly and fixedly, as this Hebrew word ſignifies, until all were paſſed over. If it be ſaid, that what is preſcribed, v. 8. is here ſaid to be executed; and therefore the midſt of Jordan here, is the ſame place with the brink of the water of Jordan, v. 8. It may be anſwered, That the manifeſt variation of the Phraſe ſhews, that it is not abſolutely the ſame thing or place which is ſpoken of there and here; but what is there enjoyned is here executed with advantage; for when it is ſaid, that they ſtood firm——in the midſt of Jordan, it muſt needs be ſuppoſed, that they firſt came to the brink of the water, and that they ſtood there for a ſeaſon till the Waters were cut off and dried up, as appears from the nature of the thing; and that they went further, even into the midſt of Jordan. l Either, 1. within Jordan, as it is expreſſed above, v. 8. for that Phraſe doth not always ſignifie the exact middle of a place, but any part within it, as appears from Gen. 45. 6. Exod. 8. 22. and 24. 18. Joſh. 7. 13. and 10. 13. Prov. 30. 19 Or rather, 2. in the middle and deepeſt part of the River. For, 1. words ſhould be taken properly, where they may without any inconveniency, which is the caſe here. 2. The Ark went before them to direct, and encourage and ſecure them in the dangers of their Paſſages, for which ends the middle was the fitteſt place. 3. In this ſenſe this ſame Phraſe is uſed Joſh. 4. v. 3, 8. For certainly thoſe Stones which were to be Witneſſes and Monuments of their Paſſage over Jordan, ſhould not be taken from the brink or brim of the River, or from the ſhore which Jordan overflowed only at that ſeaſon, but from the moſt inward and deepeſt parts of the River; and v. 16, 17, 18. where the Prieſts are ſaid to aſcend or come up out of Jordan, and out of the midſt of Jordan ——unto the dry land; whereas had this been meant only of the firſt entrance into the River, they muſt have been ſaid firſt to go down into Jordan, and then to go up to the land.

CHAP. IV.

AND it came to paſs, when all the people were clean paſſed * over Jordan, that the LORD ſpak a unto * Joſhua, ſaying, * Deut. 27. 2. * Chap. 3. 12.

a This was commanded before, Joſh. 3. 12. and is here repeated with enlargement, as being now to be put in Execution.

2 Take ye twelve men out of the people, out of every Tribe a man b, b For the greater evidence and certainty, and the more effectual ſpreading of the Report of this marvellous work among all the Tribes.

3 And command ye them, ſaying, Take ye hence out of the midſt of Jordan c, out of the place were the prieſts feet ſtood firm, twelve ſtones, and ye ſhall carry them over with you, and leave them in the lodging-place where ye ſhall lodge this night d.

c Of which ſee on Joſh. 3. 17. d i.e. In Gilgal, as is expreſſed below, v. 19, 20.

4 Then Joſhua called the twelve men, whom he had prepared e] of the children of Iſrael, out of every Tribe a man:

e i. e. Appointed or choſen for that work, and commanded them to be ready for it.

5 And Joſhua ſaid unto them, Paſs over before the ark f of the LORD your God into the midſt of Jordan, and take ye up every man of you a ſtone upon his ſhoulder, according unto the number of the Tribes of the children of Iſrael:

f i. e. Go back again to the place where the Ark ſtands.

6 That this may be a ſign g among you, that when your children ask their fathers † in time to come, ſaying, What mean ye by theſe ſtones. † Heb. to morrow.

g A Monument or Memorial of this days work.

7 Then ye ſhall anſwer them, That the waters of Jordan were cut off before the ark h of the covenant of the LORD, when it paſſed over Jordan, the waters of Jordan were cut off: and theſe ſtones ſhall be for a memorial unto the children of Iſrael for ever.

h As it were at the ſight and approach of the Ark, to give it and the Iſraelites a ſafe paſſage.

8 And the children of Iſrael did ſo as Joſhua commanded, and took up twelve ſtones out of the midſt of Jordan, as the LORD ſpake unto Joſhua, according to the number of the Tribes of the children of Iſrael, and carried them over with them unto the place where they lodged, and laid them down there.

9 And Joſhua ſet up twelve ſtones in the midſt of Jordan i, in the place where the feet of the prieſts, which bare the ark of the covenant, ſtood: and they are there unto this day k.

i Properly ſo called, as Joſh. 3. 17. Qu. How could theſe ſtones be a Monument of this work, when they were not ſeen, but generally covered with the Waters of Jordan? Anſ. Theſe ſtones are not the ſame with thoſe which a man could carry upon his ſhoulders, v. 5. And therefore might be very much larger; and being ſet up in two rows one above another, they might poſſibly be ſeen, at leaſt ſome times when the Water was low, and eſpecially where the Water was commonly more ſhallow, as it might be ordinarily in this place, though not at this time when Jordan overflowed all its banks. Add to this, That the Waters of Jordan are ſaid to be very pure and clear; and therefore theſe ſtones, though they did not appear above it, might be ſeen in it either by thoſe who ſtood upon the ſhore, becauſe that River was not broad; or at leaſt by thoſe that paſſed in Boats, upon the River, who could eaſily diſcern them by the peculiar noiſe and motion of the Water occaſioned by that heap of ſtones. And this was ſufficient, eſpecially conſidering that there was another more diſtinct and viſible Monument of this Miracle ſet up in Gilgal. k This might be written either, 1. by Joſhua who wrote this Book near 20. years after this was done: Or, 2. by ſome other holy man divinely inſpired and approved of by the whole Jewiſh Church, who inſerted this and ſome ſuch paſſages both in this Book, and in the Writings of Moſes.

10 For the prieſts which bare the ark, ſtood in the midſt of Jordan, until every thing was finiſhed that that the LORD commanded Joshua to speak unto the people l, according to all that Moses commanded Joshua m: and the people hasted and passed over n.

l i. e. To command the people to do. m Which he did not particularly, but in the general; because he commanded Joshua to observe and do all that God had commanded him by Moses, and all that he should command him any other way. n i. e. Passed over with haste, which is noted as an Argument of their fear, or weakness of their Faith; as on the contrary, the Priests are commended that they stood firm, and fixed and settled in their minds, as well as in the Posture of their Bodies.

11 And it came to pass when all the people were clean passed over, that the ark of the LORD passed over, and the priests in the presence of the people o.

o The people looking on, and beholding this wonderful work of God with Attention and Admiration.

* Numb. 32. 20, 27. 12 And * the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and half the Tribe of Manasseh, passed over armed before the rest of the children of Israel, as Moses spake unto them:

† Or, ready armed. 13 About forty thousand † prepared for war, passed over before the LORD p unto battel to the plains of Jericho.

p Either, 1. before the Ark, by which they, as well as the rest, passed when they went over Jordan. Or, 2. in the presence of God who diligently observed whether they would keep their Promise and Covenant made with their Brethren or not.

* Chap. 3. 7. 14 On that day the LORD * magnified Joshua in the sight of all Israel, and they feared him, as they feared Moses, all the days of his life.

15 And the LORD spake unto Joshua, saying.

* Exod. 25. 16, 22. 16 Command the Priests that bear * the ark of the Testimony, that they come up q out of Jordan.

q For being now in the middle, and lowest, and deepest place of the River, of which see on Josh. 3. 17. they are most properly said to ascend or go up to the land; which word is thrice used in this and the two next following Verses.

17 Joshua therefore commanded the Priests r, saying, Come ye up out of Jordan.

r Who stayed contentedly in the River, till God by Joshua called them out.

18 And it came to pass, when the priests that bare the ark of the Covenant of the LORD, were come up out of the midst of Jordan, and the soles of the priests feet were † lifted up unto the dry land, that the waters of Jordan returned unto their place, s and † flowed over all his banks, as they did before.

s Came down from their heaps, and returned with all convenient speed into their proper Channel, according to their natural and usual course.

19 And the people came out of Jordan, on the tenth day of the first month t, and incamped in Gilgal u, in the east border of Jericho.

t To wit, of Nisan, which wanted but 5 days of 40 years from the time of their coming out of Egypt, which was on the fifteenth day of this Month. So punctual is God in the performing of his word whether promised or threatned. And this day was very seasonable for the taking up of the Lambs which were to be used four days after, according to the Law, Exod. 12. 3, 6. u A place so called hereafter upon a following occasion, Josh. 5. 9. So here it is an Anticipation.

20 And those twelve stones which they took out of Jordan, did Joshua pitch in Gilgal x.

x Which most probably were placed severally and in order like so many little Pillars, which was most proper to keep up the remembrance of this miraculous Benefit vouchsafed to this people.

21 And he spake unto the children of Israel, saying, When your children shall ask their fathers † in time to come, saying, What mean these stones?

22 Then ye shall let your children know, saying, Israel came over this Jordan on dry land.

23 For the LORD your God dried up the Waters of Jordan from before you, until ye were passed over as the LORD your God did to the Red-sea *, which he dried up from before us y, until we were gone over:

* Exod. 14. 21.

y i. e. My self and Caleb, and all of us here present; for this Benefit, though done to their Fathers, is justly and rightly said to be done to themselves, because they were then in their Parents loyns; and their very being, and all their Happiness, depended upon that Deliverance.

24 That all the people of the earth might know the hand of the LORD, that it is mighty, that ye might fear the LORD your God † for ever.

† Heb. all days.

CHAP. V.

AND it came to pass when all the kings of the Amorite a which were on the side of Jordan westward b, and all the kings of the Canaanite c, which were by the Sea d, * heard that the LORD had dried up the waters of Jordan e from before the children of Israel, until we were passed over, that their heart melted f, neither was there spirit in them any more, because of the children of Israel.

* Num. 13:29. Exod. 15. 14.

a These and the Canaanites are mentioned for all the rest, as being the chief of them for number, and power, and courage. b This is added to distinguish them from the other Amorites, Eastward from Jordan, whom Moses had subdued. c So the proper place of this Nation was on both sides of Jordan. d The mid-land Sea, all along the Coast of it, which was the chief seat of that people, though divers Colonies of them were come into, and settled in other places. e Which was their Bulwark on the East side, where the Israelites were; for it is very probable they had taken away all Bridges near those parts; and the Israelites having been so long in that Neighbouring Countrey and yet not making any attempt upon them, they were grown secure; especially now, when Jordan swell'd beyond its ordinary bounds; and therefore they did not endeavour to hinder their passage. f They lost all their courage, and durst attempt nothing upon the Israelites; not without Gods special Providence, that the Israelites might quietly participate of the two great Sacraments of their Church, Circumcision and the Passover, and thereby be prepared for their high and hard work, and for the possession of the Holy and Promised Land, which would have been Defiled by an Uncircumcised People.

2 At that time g the Lord said unto Joshua, Make h thee * sharp knives † i, and circumcise again the children of Israel the second time k.

* Exod. 4. 25. † Or, knives of flints.

g As soon as ever they were come to Gilgal, which was on the tenth day; and so this might be executed the next, or the eleventh day, and that in the morning: on the thirteenth day they were sore of their wounds, and on the forteenth day they recovered, and at the Even of that day kept the Passover. h Or, prepare, or make ready, as this word is sometimes used. As it was not necessary for those who had such Knives already to make others for that use; so it is not probable that such were commanded to do so, but only to make them sharp and fit for that work, i Called in Hebrew, Knives of Flints, not as if they were all necessarily to be made of Flints, but because such were commonly used, especially in those parts where there was but little Iron; and because such Knives were oft used in this work, as the Jewish Doctors note, and in such like works, as Heathen writers relate. Thus we call that an Ink-horn, which is made of Silver, because those Utensils are commonly made of Horn. k He calleth this a second Circumcision, not as if these same persons had been Circumcised once before, either by Joshua, or by any other, for the contrary is affirmed below, v. 7. but with respect unto the body of the People, whereof one part had been Circumcised before, and the other at this time, which is called a second time, in relation to some former time wherein they were Circumcised, either, 1. in Egypt, when many of the people, who possibly for fear or favour of the Egyptians, had neglected this Duty, were by the command of Moses (who had been awakened by the remembrance of his own neglect and danger thereupon) Circumcised; which during the Ten Plagues, and the grievous confusion and consternation of the Egyptians, they might easily find opportunity to do. Or 2. at Sinai, when they received the Pass-over, Numb. 9. 5. which no uncircumcised person might do, Exod, 12. 48. and therefore it may not seem improbable, that all the Children born in that first year after their coming out of Egypt, and all they who peradventure might come out of Egypt in their uncircumcision, were now Circumcised. Obj. 1. All that came out of Egypt were Circumcised, v. 5. Ans. 1. This may be true, but he doth not say when and where they were Circumcised: nor doth he deny that this was done to some of them, either in time of the Plagues in Egypt, or at Sinai. 2 All is very oft used of the greatest part, as is confessed. Obj. 2. All the people that were born in the Wilderness were not Circumcised, v. 5. Ans. 1. Understand this also of the greatest part. 2. This is limited to them that were born by the way, as it is said there, and emphatically repeated, v. 7. i. e. in their Journeys and Travellings; which insinuates the reason why they were not Circumcised, because they were always uncertain of their stay in any place; and were constantly to be in readiness for a removal when God took took up the Cloud: But this reason ceased at Sinai, where they knew they were to abide for a considerable time; and seeing they took that opportunity for the celebration of the Pass-over, it is likely they would improve it also to the Circumcision of their Children or others, which they ought to prize highly, and to embrace all occasions offered for it; which though the people might, it is not likely that Moses would neglect. Obj. 3. They are said to have remained uncircumcised Forty whole Years in the Wilderness, v. 6. Ans. i. e. for almost 40 years; as the same Phrase is used, Numb. 14. 33, 34. and 32. 13. when there was above one year of that number past and gone. Or 3. in Abraham, and so the sense may be, The first Circumcision conferred upon Abraham, and continued in his Posterity, hath been for many years neglected or omitted; and so that great and solemn pledg of my Covenant with you, is in a manner wholy lost, and therefore it is but fit and necessary to have this long interrupted practice of Circumcision revived, and to have Abrahams Posterity circumcised a second time for the renewing of the Covenant between them and me again.

3 And Joshua made him sharp knives, and circumcised l the children of Israel m at the *hill of the foreskins.

* Or, Gibeah haaraloth.

l i. e. He caused this to be done; and, because it was to be done speedily, the Passover approaching, it was necessary to use many hands in it, either Priests and Levites, or other Circumcised persons, who, at least in those circumstances, were permitted to do it. m i. e. Such of them, as were uncircumcised. And, though it be not mentioned, it is more than probable that the Israelites beyond Jordan were Circumcised at the same time.

4 And this is the cause why Joshua did circumcise all the people that came out of Egypt m, that were males, even all the men of war died in the wilderness by the way, after they came out of Egypt.

m This is to be restrained to such as were then above 20 years old, and such as were guilty of that rebellion, Numb. 14. as it is expressed below, v. 6.

5 Now all the people that came out, were circumcised: but all the people that were born in the wilderness by the way as they came forth out of Egypt, them they n had not circumcised.

n Either their Parents, or the Rulers of Israel, whose omission hereof was not through neglect; for then God, who had ordered the neglecter of Circumcision to be cut off, Gen. 17. 14. would not have left so gross a fault unpunished; but by Divine Permission and Indulgence; partly because they were now in a Journey, in which case the Passover also might be neglected, Numb. 9. 10, 13. and in that Journey the Passover was but once observed; and partly, because there was not so great a necessity of this note of Circumcision to distinguish them from other Nations, whilest they dwelt alone and unmixed in the Wilderness, as there was afterwards.

6 For the Children of Israel walked forty years in the wilderness, till all the people o that were men of war, which came out of Egypt, were consumed, because they obeyed not the voice of the LORD, unto whom the LORD sware * that he would not shew them p the land which the LORD sware unto their fathers, that he would give us a land that floweth with milk and honey.

Numb.* 14. 23.

o The Hebrew word commonly signifies the Gentiles; so he calls them, to note that they were unworthy of the name and priviledges of Israelites. p. i. e. Not give them so much as a sight of it, which he granted to Moses, much less the possession and enjoyment of it. Or shewing is put for giving, as it is Psal. 4. 6. and 60. 3. Eccles. 2. 24.

7 And their children whom he raised up in their stead, them Joshua circumcised q, for they were uncircumcised: because they had not circumcised them by the way.

q Which God would have now done, 1. as a Testimony of Gods reconciliation to the people, of which circumcision was a sign, and that God would not further impute their Parents Rebellions to them. 2. Because the great impediment of Circumcision was now removed, to wit, their continued Travels, and frequent and uncertain removal. 3. To prepare them for the approaching Passover. 4. To distinguish them from the Canaanites, into whose land they were now come r. To ratify the Covenant between God and them, whereof Circumcision was a Sign and Seal, to assure them that God would now make good his Covenant, in giving them this Land; and to oblige them to perform all the Duties and Services to which that Covenant bound them, of which Circumcision was the beginning and foundation, all which they were expressly enjoyned to do, as soon as ever they came into Canaan, Exod. 12. 25. Levit. 23. 10. Numb. 15. 2.

8 And it came to pass * when they had done circumcising all the people, that they abode in their places in the camp, till they * where whole r.

* Heb. When all the people had made an end to be Circumcised.

r Free from that pain and sore which Circumcision caused, Gen. 34. 25. It was indeed an act of great Faith, to expose themselves to so much pain and danger too, in this place where they were hemmed in by Jordan and their Enemies; but yet they had many considerations to support their Faith, and suppress their Fears; the fresh experience of Gods power and readiness to work Miracles for their preservation; the great consternation of all their Enemies, which they might observe and rationally presume; the considerable number of the people who were above 40 years old, and therefore circumcised before this time, their great General being one of this number; the time it would require for their Enemies to bring together a force sufficient to oppose them.

9 And the LORD said unto Joshua, This day have I roled away the reproach of Egypt s from off you: wherefore the name of the place is called * Gilgal, unto this day.

* That is rolling.

s i. e. Uncircumcision, which was both in Truth, and in the opinion of the Jews, a matter of Great reproach, Gen. 34. 14. 1 Sam. 14. 6. and 17. 26. And although this was a reproach common to most Nations of the World, yet it is particularly called the reproach of Egypt, either, 1. because the other neighbouring Nations, being the children of Abraham by the Concubines, are supposed to have been Circumcised, which the Egyptians at this time were not, as may be gathered from Exod. 2. 6. where they knew the Child to be an Hebrew by this mark. Or 2. because they came out of Egypt, and were esteemed to be a sort of Egyptians, Numb. 22. 5. which they justly thought a great reproach; but by their Circumcision they were now distinguished from them, and manifested to be another kind of people. Or 3. Because many of them lay under this reproach in Egypt, having wickedly neglected this Duty there for worldly reasons; and others of them continued in the same shameful condition for many years in the Wilderness.

10 And the children of Israel incamped in Gilgal, and kept the Passover t on the * fourteenth day of the month at even, in the plains of Jericho.

* Exod. 12. 6.

t Which was their third Passover: the first was in Egypt Exod. 12. the second at Mount Sinai, Numb. 9. the third here; for in their Wilderness-Travels, these and all other Sacrifices were neglected, Amos 5. 25.

11 And they did eat of the old corn u of the land, on the morrow after the Passover x, unleavened cakes, and parched corn y, in the self-same day z.

u The Corn of the last year, which the Inhabitants of those parts had doubtless left in their Barns, being doubtless fled for fear of the Israelites into their strong Cities, or other remoter and safer parts. x i. e. On the sixteenth day; for the Passover was killed between the two Evenings of the fourteenth day, and was eaten in that evening or night, which, according to the Jewish computation, whereby they begin their days at the evening, was a part of the fifteenth day, all which was the feast of the Passover; and so the morrow of the sixteenth day, was the morrow after the Passover, when they were obliged to offer unto God the first sheaf, and then were allowed to eat of the rest. y Of that years Corn, which was most proper and customary for that use. z Having an eager desire to enjoy the Fruits of the Land.

12 And the * Manna ceased a on the morrow after they had eaten of the old corn of the land, b neither had the children of Israel Manna any more, but they did eat of the fruit of the land of Canaan that year.

* Exod. 16. 35.

a Which God now witheld, 1. To shew that Manna was not an ordinary production of Nature, as by the long and constant enjoyment of it, they might be prone to think; but an extraordinary and special gift of God to supply their necessity. 2. Because God would not be prodigal of his favours, nor expose them to contempt by giving them superfluously, or by working Miracles where ordinary means were sufficient. b i. e. On the seventeenth day.

13 And it came to pass when Joshua was by Jericho c, that he lift up his eyes, and looked, and behold, there stood * a man d over against him with his sword drawn e in his hand: and Joshua went unto him, and said unto him, Art thou for us, or for our Adversaries?

* Exod. 2. 23. Zech. 1. 8.

c Heb. In Jericho, i. e. in the Countrey or Territory adjoyning to Jericho; whither he went to view those parts and discern the fittest places for his attempt upon Jericho, as Generals usually do. d One in the appearance of man. e In readiness to fight, not, as Joshua thought, against him, but for him and his people.

† Or, Prince.

14 And he said, Nay f, but as † Captain of the host of the LORD g am I now come. And Joshua fell on his face to the earth, and did worship, and said unto him, What saith my Lord unto his servant h?

f I am neither Israelite, nor Canaanite. g Either, 1. of all Creatures in Heaven and Earth, which are Gods Hosts. Or, 2. of the Angels, who are called the Host of Heaven, 1 King. 22. 19. 2 Chron. 18. 18. Luke 2. 13. Or, 3. of the Host or people of Israel, which are called the Lords Host, Exod. 12. 41. The sense is, I am the chief Captain of this people, and will conduct and assist thee and them in this great undertaking. Now this person is none other than Michael the Prince, Dan. 10. 21. and 12. 1. not a created Angel, but the Son of God, who went along with the Israelites in this Expedition, 1 Cor. 10. 4. not surely as an underling, but as their Chief and Captain. And this appears, 1. by his acceptance of Adoration here, which a created Angel durst not admit of Rev. 22. 8, 9. 2. Because the place was made holy by his presence, v. 15. which was Gods Prerogative, Exod. 3. 5. 3. Because he is called the Lord, Heb. Jehovah, Josh. 6. 2. h I acknowledg thee for my Lord and Captain, and therefore wait for thy Commands, which I am ready to obey.

* Exod. 3. 5. Act. 7. 33.

15 And the Captain of the LORDs host said unto Joshua, * Loose thy shoe from off thy foot i, for the place whereon thou standest is holy k: and Joshua did so.

i In token of reverence and subjection: See on Exod. 3. 5. k Consecrated by my presence; which when it was withdrawn, it was no more holy than any other place, the reason of its holiness being removed.

CHAP. VI.

† Heb. did shut up, and was shut up.

NOW Jericho † was straitly shut up a, because of the children of Israel, none went out, and none came in.

a Not only by night, as before, Josh. 2. 5. but constantly and diligently.

2 And the LORD said unto Joshua, See, I have given into thine hand Jericho, and the king thereof, and the mighty men of valour b.

b Who are in it resolved and ready to defend it with their utmost strength.

3 And ye shall compass the City, all ye men of war, and go round about the City once: c thus shalt thou do six days d.

c At convenient distance, out of the reach of their Arrows. d Every day once. This and the following course might seem ridiculous and absurd, and is therefore prescribed and used by God, that they might learn to take new measures of things, and to expect success not from their own valour, or skill, or probable means, but meerly from Gods appointment and blessing; and in general, not to judge of any of Gods Institutions by meer carnal reason, to which divers of their Ceremonies would seem no less foolish than this action; and that they might have a full Demonstration of the All-sufficiency of that God who can do what he pleaseth, even by the most contemptible means.

4 And seven priests shall bear before the ark seven trumpets of rams horns e: and the seventh day ye shall compass the City seven times, and the Priests shall blow with the trumpets.

e Or, of the Jubilees; i. e. such Trumpets wherewith they were to sound in the years of Jubile, Lev. 25. 9. Either this, or one of the other six was certainly a Sabbath-day; and it is not material which was it, for the Command of the Lord of the Sabbath was sufficient to legitimate any Action.

5 And it shall come to pass, that when they make a long blast f with the rams horns, and when ye hear the sound of the trumpet, all the people shall shout with a great shout: and the wall of the City g shall fall down † flat, h and the people shall ascend up every man straight before him.

f As is usual in the close of musical sounds. g Not all of it; which was not only unnecessary, but inconvenient, and might have given the people better opportunity of escaping, but only a considerable part of it where the Israelites might fitly enter: for Rahabs house was not overthrown, v. 22. h Heb. under it, i. e. below the place they stood in: Or, in its place: it was not battered down with Engines, which would have made part of it fall out of its place; but it fell without any force, and of its own accord, and therefore in the place it did formerly stand in.

6 And Joshua the son of Nun called the priests, and said unto them, Take up the Ark of the covenant, and let seven priests bear seven trumpets of rams horns before the ark of the LORD.

7 And he said unto the people, Pass on, and compass the city, and let him that is armed i pass on before the ark of the LORD.

i God would have them armed both for the defence of themselves and the Ark, in case the Enemies should make a sally upon them, and for the Execution of the Lords vengeance upon that City.

8 And it came to pass when Joshua had spoken unto the people, that the seven priests bearing the seven trumpets of rams horns passed on before the LORD, and blew with the trumpets: and the ark of the covenant of the LORD followed them.

9 And the armed men went before the Priests that blew with the trumpets: and the † reer-ward k came after the ark, the priests l going on, and blowing with the Trumpets.

k Which being opposed to the armed men, may seem to note the unarmed people, who were desirous to be Spectators of this wonderful work. l Which is rightly supplied here from v. 4.

10 And Joshua commanded the people, saying, Ye shall not shout m, nor † make any noise with your voice, neither shall any word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I bid you shout, then shall ye shout.

m Because shouting before the time appointed, would be ineffectual, and so might give them some Discouragement, and their Enemies matter of insulting.

11 So the Ark of the LORD compassed the City going about it once: and they came into the camp, and lodged in the camp.

12 And Joshua rose early in the morning, and the priests took up the ark of the LORD.

13 And seven priests bearing seven trumpets of rams horns before the ark of the LORD, went on continually, and blew with the trumpets: and the armed men went before them, but the reer-ward came after the ark of the LORD, the priests going on, and blowing with the Trumpets.

14 And the second day they compassed the City once, and returned into the camp: so they did six days.

15 And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they rose early about the dawning of the day, and compassed the city after the same manner, seven times: only on that day they compassed the city seven times.

16 And it came to pass at the seventh time, when the priests blew with the trumpets, Joshua said unto the people, Shout n, for the LORD hath given you the city.

n To testifie your faith in Gods promise, and thankfulness for this glorious mercy, and to encourage your selves and Brethren, and to strike a terror into your Enemies.

17 And the City shall be † accursed o, even it, and all that are therein, to the LORD p: only Rahab the harlot shall live, she, and all that are with her in the house, because * she hid the messengers that we sent.

* Chap. 2. 4.

o i. e. Devoted to uttter Destruction, Levit. 27. 21, 29. Deut. 12. This he spake by instinct or direction from God, as is evident from 1 King. 16. 34. p Partly because the first-fruits were appropriated to God; partly lest the soldiers being glutted with the Spoil of this rich City, should grow sensual and sluggish in their work; and partly to strike the greater terror into the rest of their Enemies.

18 And ye, * in any wise keep your selves from the accursed thing, lest ye make your selves accursed, when ye take of the accursed thing, and make the camp of Israel a curse q, and trouble it.

* Deut. 7. 26. & 13. 17.

q By provoking God to punish them for your sin, in which they may be one way or other involved; or at least upon the occasion of your sin: for to speak properly, God will not (the case of Adams sin only excepted) punish one man for the sin of another, as he hath oft declared; but the whole Camp having sins of their own, God might take what occasion he saw fit to inflict this Punishment.

19 But all the silver, and gold, and vessels of brass and iron r, are † consecrated unto the LORD s: they shall come into the treasury of the LORD t.

20 So the people shouted when the Priests blew with the Trumpets: and it came to pass when the people heard the sound of the Trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, that * the wall fell down † flat, so that the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and they took the City.

* Heb. 11. 30.

21 And they utterly destroyed all that was in the City, both man and woman, young and old u, and ox, and sheep, and ass, with the edge of the sword.

u Being commanded to do so by the Sovereign Lord of every mans life; and being informed by God before that the Canaanites were abominably wicked, and deserved the severest Punishments. As for the Infants, they were guilty of Original sin, and otherwise at the disposal of their Creator, as the clay is in the hands of the Potter; but if they had been wholly innocent, it was a great favour to them to take them away in infancy, rather than reserve them to those dreadful Calamities which those who survived them, were liable to.

22 But Joshua had said unto the two men that had spied out the country, Go into the harlots house x, and bring out thence the woman, and all that she hath, * as ye sware unto her.

23 And the young men that were spies, went in, and brought out Rahab, and her father, and her mother, and her brethren, and all that she had; and they brought out all her † kindred, and left them without the camp of Israel y.

y Till they were cleansed from the impurities of their Gentile state, and instructed in the Jewish Religion, and solemnly admitted into that Church in the usual way, to which Rahabs good Counsel and Example had doubtless very much prepared them; and this stupendious work of God confirmed their purposes.

24 And they burnt the city with fire, and all that was therein: only the silver, and the gold, and the vessels of brass, and of iron, they put into the treasury of the house of the LORD.

25 And Joshua saved Rahab the harlot alive z, and her fathers household, and all that she had: and she dwelleth in Israel even unto this day, because she hid the messengers which Joshua sent to spy out Jericho.

z For that general command of rooting out the Canaanites seems to have had some exception, in case any of them had sincerely and seasonably cast off their Idolatry and Wickedness, and submitted themselves to the Israelites, as we shall see hereafter.

26 ¶ And Joshua adjured them a at that time, saying, * Cursed be the man before the LORD b, that riseth up and buildeth c this city Jericho, he shall lay the foundation thereof in his first-born, and in his youngest son shall he set up the gates of it d.

BUT the children of Israel a committed a trespass in the accursed thing b: for * Achan the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, c the son of Zerah d of the tribe of Judah, took of the accursed thing: and the anger of the LORD was kindled against the children of Israel e.

a i. e. One of them, by a very usual Synecdoche or Enallage, as Gen. 8. 4. and 19. 29. and Mat. 26. 8. where that is ascribed to the Disciples, which belonged to Judas only, John 12. 4. b i. e. In taking some of the forbidden and accursed goods. c Called also Zimri, 1 Chron. 2. 6. d Or, Zarah, who was Judahs immediate Son, Gen. 38. 30, who went with Judah into Egypt: and so for the filling up the 256 years that are supposed to come between that and this time, we must allow Achan to be now an Old-man, and his three Ancestors to have begotten each his Son at about 60 years o Age; which at that time was not incredible nor unusual. e Why did God punish the whole Society for this one mans sin? Ans. All of them were punished for their own sins, whereof each had a sufficient proportion; but God took this occasion to inflict the punishment upon the Society, partly because divers of them might be guilty of this sin, either by coveting what he actually did, or by concealing of his fault, which it is probable could not be unknown to others; or by not sorrowing for it, and endeavouring to purge themselves from it: partly to make sin the more hateful; as being the cause of such dreadful and publick Judgments: and partly to oblige all the members of every society to be both more circumspect in the ordering of their own actions, and more diligent to watch over one another, and to prevent the miscarriages of their Brethren, which is a great benefit and blessing to them, and to the whole Society, and worthy to be purchased by a sharp affliction upon the Society.

2 And Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai f, which is beside g Beth-aven h, on the east-side of Beth-el i, and spake unto them saying, Go up and view the country. And the men went up and viewed Ai.

f Called Hai, Gen. 12. 8. and Aijah, Nehem. 11. 31. They were not to go into the City of Ai, but into the Country bordering and belonging to it, and there to understand the state and quality of the place and people. g So the Hebrew im is used, Gen. 25. 11. and 35. 4. Judg. 9. 6. and 18. 3. and 19. 11. h A City or Town distinct from but nigh unto Bethel, though Bethel was afterwards by allusion called Bethaven, Hos. 4. 15. and 10. 5. 3 And they returned to Joshua, and said unto him, Let not all the people go up: but let † about two or three thousand men go up k, and smite Ai, and make not all the people to labour thither, for they are but few.

k Which was done by the wise contrivance of Divine Providence, that their Sin might be punished and they awakened and reformed with as little hazard and mischief, and reproach, as might be: For if the Defeat of these caused so great a Consternation in Joshua, it is easy to guess what dread, and confusion, and despair, it would have caused in the People, if a great Host had been defeated.

4 So there went up thither of the people, about three thousand men, and they fled l before the men of Ai.

l Not having their usual Courage to strike a stroke, which was a plain Evidence that God had forsaken them; and an useful instruction, to shew them what weak and inconsiderable Creatures they were when God left them; and that it was God, not their own valour, that gave the Canaanites and their Land into their hands.

5 And the men of Ai smote of them about thirty and six men m: for they chased them from before the gate, even unto Shebarim, and smote them in the † going down n: wherefore the heart of the people melted, and became as water o.

† Or, in Morad.

6 ¶ And Joshua rent his Clothes p, and fell to the earth upon his face q, before the Ark of the LORD, until the even-tide r, he, and the Elders of Israel, and put dust upon their heads s.

t This and the following Clauſe, though well intended, and offered to God only by way of Expoſtulation and Argument, yet do ſo ſavour of Humane Infirmity, and fall ſhort of that reverence, and modeſty, and ſubmiſſion which he owed to God; and are mentioned as inſtances that the Holy men of God were ſubject to like paſſions and infirmities with other men.

y Which will upon this occaſion be Blaſphemed and charged with inconſtancy, unkindneſs, and unfaithfulneſs to thine own people, and with inability to reſiſt them, or to do thy people that good thou didſt intend them. Compare Exod. 32. 12. Numb. 14. 13. Deut. 32. 27. Joel 2. 17.

10 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Get thee up; wherefore † lieſt thou thus upon thy face z?

z This buſineſs is not to be done by unactive Supplication, but by vigorous endeavours for reformation.

11 Iſrael a hath ſinned, and they have alſo tranſgreſſed my covenant b which I commanded them: for they have even taken of the accurſed thing c, and have alſo ſtollen d, and diſſembled e alſo, and they have put it even amongſt their own ſtuff f.

a Some, or one of them, as before on v. 1. b i. e. Broken the conditions of my Covenant which I have commanded them, and they have promiſed to perform, viz. Obedience to all my Commands, Exod. 19. 8. and 24. 7. whereof this was one, not to meddle with the accurſed thing. c Which I charged them not to meddle with. d i. e. Taken my portion which I had reſerved, Joſ. 6. 19. e Covered the fact with deep diſſimulation, and a real, if not verbal profeſſion of their Innocency. Poſſibly Achan might be ſuſpected, and being accuſed, had denied it, or was reſolved to deny it. f Converted it to their own uſe, and added obſtinacy and reſolvedneſs to the crime; thus he loads this Sin with divers aggravations.

12 Therefore the children of Iſrael could not ſtand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, becauſe they were accurſed g, neither will I be with you any more, except ye deſtroy the accurſed perſon from among you.

g As I warned and threatned them, Joſ. 6. 18. they have put themſelves out of my Protection an Bleſſing, and therefore are liable to the ſame deſtruction which belongs to this accurſed People.

13 Up, ſanctifie the people, and ſay, Sanctifie your ſelves h againſt to morrow: for thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, There is an accurſed thing in the midſt of thee, O Iſrael: thou canſt not ſtand before thine enemies, until ye take away the accurſed thing from among you.

h Purify your ſelves from that defilement which you have all in ſome ſort contracted by this accurſed fact, and prepare your ſelves to appear before the Lord, as it is moſt probable they were required to do; as imploring and expecting the Sentence of God for the Diſcovery and Puniſhment of the Sin, and that the guilty perſon might hereby be awakened and terrified, and brought to a free and ſeaſonable confeſſion of his fault. And it is a marvellous thing that Achan did not on this occaſion acknowledg his Crime; but this is to be imputed partly to the heart-hardening power of Sin, which makes men grow worſe and worſe; partly to his Pride, being loath to take to himſelf the ſhame of ſuch a miſchievous and infamous action; partly to his ſelf-flattering and vain conceit, whereby he might think many others were guilty as well as he, and ſome of them might be taken, and he eſcape; and partly to the juſt Judgment of God, whereby he blinds and hardens Sinners to their own ruine. See a like inſtance, Mat. 26. 21, 22, 25.

14 In the morning therefore ye ſhall be brought according to your tribes: and it ſhall be that the tribe which the LORD taketh i, ſhall come according to the families thereof: and the family which the LORD ſhall take, ſhall come by houſhoulds and the Houſholds which the LORD ſhall take, ſhall come man by man.

i Which ſhall be diſcovered or declared Guilty by the Lot, which is diſpoſed by the Lord, Prov. 16. 33. and which was to be caſt in the Lords Preſence before the Ark. Of ſuch uſe of Lots, ſee 1 Sam. 14. 41, 42. Jon. 1. 7. Act. 1. 26.

15 And it ſhall be, that he that is taken with the accurſed thing, ſhall be burnt with fire k, he and all that he hath l: becauſe he hath tranſgreſſed the covenant of the LORD, and becauſe he hath wrought † folly m in Iſrael. n.

k As perſons and things accurſed were to be, See Numb. 15. 30, 35. Deut. 13. 16. l His Children and Goods, as is noted, v. 24. according to the Law, Deut. 13. 16. m So Sin is oft called in Scripture, as Gen. 34. 7. Judg. 20. 6. &c. in oppoſition to the idle opinion of ſinners, who commonly eſteem it to be their wiſdom and intereſt. n i. e. Among the Church and people of God who had ſuch excellent Laws to direct them, and ſuch an All-ſufficient and gracious God to provide for them, without any ſuch indirect and unworthy practiſes.

16 ¶ So Joſhua roſe up early in the morning, and brought Iſrael by their tribes, and the tribe of Judah was taken.

17 And he brought the family o of Judah, and he took the family of the Zarhites: and he brought the family of the Zarhites, man by man p, and Zabdi was taken.

o Either, 1. the Tribe or people, as the word Family ſometimes ſignifies, as Judg. 13. 2. Zech. 12. 13. Amos 3. 1. Act. 3. 25. compared with Revel. 1. 7. Or, 2. the Families, as v. 14. the ſingular Number for the Plural the chief of each of their five Families, Numb. 26. 20, 21. p Not every individual perſon, as is evident from v. 18. but every Head of the ſeveral Houſes, or leſſer Families of that greater Family of the Zarhites, of which ſee 1 Chron. 2. 6.

18 And he q brought his houſhold, man by man, and Achan the ſon of Carmi, the ſon of Zabdi, the ſon of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah was taken.

q Either Joſhua, or Zabdi by Joſhua's appointment.

19 And Joſhua ſaid unto Achan, My ſon r give, I pray thee, glory to the LORD God of Iſrael s, and † make confeſſion unto him, and tell me now what thou haſt done, hide it not from me.

r So he calls him, to ſhew, that this ſevere Inquiſition and Sentence did not proceed from any hatred to his perſon, which he loved as a Father doth his Son, and as a Prince ought to do each of his Subjects. s As thou haſt highly diſhonoured him, now take the ſhame and blame to thy ſelf, and aſcribe unto God the Glory of his Omniſcience in knowing thy ſin, of his Juſtice in puniſhing it in thee, and others for thy ſake; of his Omnipotency, which was obſtructed by thee; and of his Kindneſs and Faithfulneſs to his people, which was eclipſed by thy Wickedneſs; all which will now be evident by thy ſin confeſſed and puniſhed.

20 And Achan anſwered Joſhua, and ſaid, Indeed, I have ſinned t againſt the LORD u God of Iſrael x, and thus have I done.

t He ſeems to make a ſincere and Ingenuous Confeſſion, and loads his ſin with all juſt Aggravations. u Againſt his expreſs Command, and juſt Rights, and glorious Attributes. x The true God, who hath choſen me and all Iſrael to be the people of his peculiar love and care.

21 When I ſaw y among the ſpoil a goodly Babyloniſh garment z, and two hundred ſhekels a of ſilver, and a † wedge of gold, of fifty ſhekels weight, then I coveted them, and took them, and behold, they are hid in the earth in the midſt of my tent, and the ſilver under it b.

y He accurately deſcribes the progreſs of his ſin, which began at his eye, which he permitted to gaze and fix upon them, which inflames his deſire, and made him covet them; and that deſire put him upon Action, and made him take them; and having taken, reſolve to keep them; and to that end hide them in his Tent? Which were compoſed with great art of divers Colours, and of great price, as appears both from Scripture, Ezek. 23. 15. and from divers Heathen Authors. [See my Latin Synopſis] a To wit, in Weight, not in Coin; for as yet they received and payed Money by weight b i. e. Under the Babyloniſh Garment covered with it, or wrapt up in it.

22 So Joshua sent messengers c, and they ran d unto the tent, and behold, it e was hid in his tent, and the silver under it.

c That the truth of his Confession might be evident and unquestionable, which some, peradventure might think was forced from him. d Partly longing to free themselves and all the people from the Curse under which they lay: and partly that none of Achan's Relations or others might get thither before them, and take away those things. e i. e. The parcel of things mentioned, v. 21, and 24.

23 And they took them out of the midst of the tent, and brought them unto Joshua, and unto all the children of Israel, and † laid them out before the LORD f.

f Where Joshua and the Elders continued yet in their Assembly waiting for the issue of this business.

24 and Joshua, and all Israel with him, took Achan the son of Zerah, and the silver, and the garment, and the wedg of gold, and his sons, and his daughters g, and his oxen, and his asses, and his sheep h, and his tent, and all that he had: and they brought them unto the valley of Achor.

g But this seems hard and unjust, and therefore forbidden by God himself, Deut. 24. 16. Ans. 1. That Law was given to men, not to God, who certainly hath a more absolute Right and Sovereignty over men, than one man hath over another. 2. Their Death was a Debt they owed to nature and to their own sins, which Debt God may require when he pleaseth; and he could not take it in more honourable and excellent Circumstances than these, That the death of a very few in the beginning of a new Empire, and of their settlement in the land, might be useful to prevent the death of many thousands who took warning by this dreadful Example, whom, if the fear of God did not, yet the love of their own, and of their dear Childrens lives would restrain from such dangerous and pernicious Practises. 3. It is very probable they were conscious of the fact, as the Jewish Doctors affirm. If it be pretended that some of them were Infants; the Text doth not say so, but only calls them Sons and Daughters. And considering that Achan was an old man, as is most probable, because he was the fifth person from Judah; of which see on v. 1. it seems most likely, that the Children were grown up, and so capable of knowing, and concealing, or discovering this Fact. Nor doth it follow, that they were not guilty, because it is not said so; for it is apparent, that many Circumstances are omitted in divers historical Relations in Scripture, which sometimes are supplied in other places. h Which, though not capable of sin, nor of punishment properly so called, yet as they were made for mans use, so they are rightly destroyed for mans good; and being daily killed for our bodily food, it cannot seem strange to kill them for the Instruction of our minds, that hereby we might learn the detestable and contagious nature of sin, which involves innocent Creatures in its Plagues; and how much sorer Punishments are reserved for man, who having a Law given to him, and that excellent gift of Reason and Will to restrain him from the Transgressions of it, his guilt must needs be unspeakably greater, and therefore his sufferings more severe and terrible. Further, by this enumeration it appears, that he had no colour of necessity to induce him to this Fact, but was wholly inexcusable.

25 And Joshua said, Why hast thou troubled us? the LORD shall trouble thee this day. And all Israel stoned him with stones i, and burned them with fire, after they had stoned them with stones k.

i And burned them with fire; which is is easily understood both out of the following words, and from Gods Command to do so, v. 15. which doubtless was here executed. k Qu. How could both these Deaths be inflicted upon them? Ans. It seems they were stoned to death, which was the Punishment of such Offenders, Lev. 24. 14. Numb. 15. 35. and not burned to death; and therefore the stoning only of Achan is mentioned here, and not his burning: and God would have their dead Carkasses burned to shew his utmost Detestation of such persons as break forth into sins of such a publick Scandal and Mischief. And for the burning of Achan commanded v. 15. it seems not likely to be meant of his burning alive, because that burning is common to him, and all that he hath, as is there expressed; but of the burning of his dead Carcass, and other lifeless things, as the manner was with accursed things, Deut. 13. 16.

26 And they raised over him a great heap of stones l unto this day: so the LORD turned from the fierceness of his anger: wherefore the name of that place was called, * the valley of † Achor m unto this day.

* Isa. 65. 10. Hos. 2. 15.
† That is, trouble.

l As a Monument of the sin and Judgment here mentioned, that others might be instructed and warned by the Example; and as a Brand of Infamy, as Josh. 8. 29. 2 Sam. 18. 17. m Or, the valley of trouble, from the double trouble expressed v. 25.

CHAP. VIII.

AND the LORD said unto Joshua, * Fear not, neither be thou dismayed: take all the people of war with thee a, and arise, go up to Ai: see, I have given into thine hand the king of Ai, and his people, and his city, and his land. * Deut. 1. 21. & 7. 18.

a Partly, to strengthen them against those fears which their late Defeat had wrought in them; and partly that all of them might be partakers of this first spoil, and thereby be encouraged to proceed in their work. The weak multitude were not to go, because they might have hindred them in the following Stratagem; and it was but fit that the Military men who run the greatest hazards, should have the Precedency and Priviledge in the spoils.

2 And thou shall do to Ai b and her King, as thou didst unto * Jericho and her King c: * only the spoil thereof, and the cattel thereof, shall ye take for a prey unto your selves: lay thee an ambush for the city behind it. * Chap. 6. 21. * Deut. 20. 14.

b i. e. The City and people of Ai. c i. e. Overcome and destroy them. This was enjoyned partly to chastise their last Insolence, and the Triumphs and Blasphemies which doubtless their success produced: and partly to revive the dread and terror which had been impressed upon the Canaanites by Jericho's ruine, and had been much abated by the late success of Ai, and their confidence and expectation of further and greater success.

3 So Joshua arose, and all the people of war, to go up against Ai c: and Joshua chose out thirty thousand mighty men of valour, and sent them away by night.

c i. e. To consider and conclude about this Expedition of going up against Ai; not as if all the people of war did actually go up, which was both unnecessary and burdensome, and might hinder their following design: but it seems to be resolved by Joshua and all the Council of War, That the 30000. here following should be selected for the Enterprize. Either, 1. the 30000. now mentioned; Or, 2. part of them; to wit, such as were to lie in wait, as seems most probable both from the next verse, which limits it to those who were to lie in wait, and from v. 9. where what is here mentioned only by anticipation, is actually put in execution; and it is said of them that were sent forth that they went to lie in ambush, and did so; and these were only 5000. men, as is expressed, v. 12. And the only inconvenience of this Exposition is, That the Pronoun Relative them, is put without, or before its Antecedent, which is left to be gathered out of the following words, which is not unusual in the Hebrew Tongue, as plainly appears from Exod. 14. 19. Numb. 18. 9. and 24. 17. Psal. 87. 1. and 105. 19. and 114. 2. Prov. 7. 8. and 14. 26.

4 And he commanded them d, saying, Behold, ye shall lie in wait against the city, even behind the city: go not very far from the city, but be ye all ready:

d The same party last spoken of v. 3. even the 5000. mentioned v. 12. This historical Narration seems obscure and intricate, and at first view to make three parties, one of 30000. v. 3. one of 5000. v. 12. which may seem to be two several Ambushes; and a third of all the people, v. 5, 11. But if it be more narrowly and considerately observed, it will appear, that there are only two parties ingaged in the taking of Ai, and but one Ambush, as plainly appears by comparing v. 9. (which manifestly speaks of that party which is mentioned v. 3.) with v. 12. which speaks only of 5000. which is justly supposed to be a part of those 30000. named v. 3. and that part which was to lie in ambush; unless we will suppose that there were two Ambushes, one of 30000. and the other of 5000. both lying in wait in the same quarter, even between Bethel and Ai, on the west side of Ai, the only place where the Ambush lay, as is said both v. 9. and 12, 13. which seems absurd and incredible. And besides, in the execution of this Command, there is mention but of one Ambush v. 12, 13. 14. 19. and they are said to consist only of 5000. v. 12. and they only take and burn the City v. 19. so that the other supposed Ambush of 30000. is perfectly vanished and lost, and did nothing in this work; which also is very improbable. And therefore, that 30000. v. 3. are the same who are called the people, and the people of war that were with Joshua, v. 5, 11, which pitched on the North-side of Ai, v. 11, 13. as the Ambush did on the west-side; but for any other side of the City, or a third party placed elsewhere about Ai, we read not one word; and therefore it may well be presumed there were no more imployed to take it.

5 And I, and all the people, that are e with me, will approach unto the city: and it shall come to pass, when they come out against us, as at the first, that we f will flee before them.

e Or, that ſhall be: for at preſent he ſent them away, v. 9. but the next morning followed them, and joyned himſelf with them, v. 10, 11. f I and the 25000. with me.

6 (For they will come out after us) till we † have drawn them from the city; for they will ſay, They flee before us, as at the firſt: therefore we will flee before them.

† Heb. pulled.

7 Then ye ſhall riſe up from the ambuſh f and ſeize upon the city: for the LORD your God will deliver it into your hand.

f To wit, upon the ſignal given, of which v. 18.

8 And it ſhall be when ye have taken the city, that ye ſhall ſet the city on fire g: according to the commandment of the LORD ſhall ye do. See, I have commanded you.

g To wit, part of it, as a ſign to their Brethren of their ſucceſs, for the whole City was not burnt now, but afterwards; as is ſaid v. 28.

9 Joſhua therefore ſent them h forth, and they went to lie in ambuſh, and abode between Bethel and Ai, on the weſt-ſide of Ai: but Joſhua lodged that night among the people i.

h The ſame party deſigned by the Pronoun them, v. 3. of which ſee the Notes there. i Heb. that people, to wit, the people of war, as they are called, v. 11. to wit, the main body of that hoſt conſiſting of 30000.

10 And Joſhua roſe up early in the morning, and numbred the people k, and went up; he, and the elders of Iſrael l, before the people to Ai.

k Heb. that people, not all the people of Iſrael; which was needleſs, and required more time than could now be ſpared; but the reſt of that hoſt of 30000. whereof 5000. were ſent away; and now the remainder are numbred, partly to ſee whether ſome of them had not withdrawn themſelves, taking the advantage of the night, and of the deſign of laying an Ambuſh; and partly that it might be evident, that this work was done without any loſs of men, and thereby they might be encouraged to truſt in God, and to proceed vigourouſly and reſolutely in their work. l Either, 1. the military Elders, the chief Commanders of his Army. But they ſeem to be included in the 30000. v. 3. which are ſuppoſed to be furniſhed and led by their ſeveral Commanders; and ſuch perſons are ſcarce ever called the Elders of Iſrael. Or rather, 2. the chief Magiſtrates and Rulers of Iſrael under Joſhua, who are commonly ſo called; and theſe, I ſuppoſe, went with Joſhua, and with the Army, to take care that the Cattel and the Spoil of the City, which was given by God to all Iſrael for a prey, v. 2. 27. might be juſtly and equally divided between thoſe that went to battel, and the reſt of the people, according to the Example and Preſcript, Numb. 31. 27. and that they who were preſent and aſſiſtant in the taking of that City, might not ingroſs the whole to themſelves, as is uſual for Souldiers in thoſe caſes to do.

11 And all the people, even the people of war that were with him m, went up, and drew nigh, and came before the city, and pitched on the north-ſide of Ai: now there was a valley between them and Ai.

m To wit, the 30000. mentioned, v. 3. or the moſt of them.

12 And he took n about five thouſand men, and ſet them to lie in ambuſh between Bethel, and Ai, on the weſt-ſide † of the city.

n Or rather, but he had taken, to wit, out of the ſaid number of 30000. for this is added by way of Recapitulation and further Explication of what is ſaid in general, v. 9.

13 And when they had ſet the people, even all the hoſt that was on the north-ſide of the city, and † their lyers in wait on the weſt of the city: Joſhua went o that night into the midſt of the valley p.

o To wit, accompanied with a ſmall part of the hoſt now mentioned, i. e. Very early in the morning, when it was yet dark, as is ſaid in a like caſe, Joh. 20. 1. whence it is here called Night, though it was early in the morning, as is ſaid, v. 10. for it ſeems moſt probable, that all was done in one Nights ſpace, and in this manner; Joſhua ſends away the Ambuſh by night, v. 3. and lodgeth that night with 25000 men, v. 9. not far from the city. But not able nor willing to ſleep all night, he riſes very early, v. 20. and numbers his men, which by the help of the ſeveral Officers was quickly done, and ſo immediately leads them towards Ai; and while it was yet duskiſh or night, he goes into the midſt of the valley, v. 13. and when the day dawns he is diſcovered by the King and people of Ai, who thereupon roſe up early to fight with them, v. 14. Though others conceive this was the ſecond night, and ſo the Ambuſh had lain hid a night and a day together. But then there might be danger of their being diſcovered, although that danger may ſeem to be the leſs, becauſe Ai might be ſhut up, that none might go out nor come in, but by Order, and upon Neceſſity, becauſe of the nearneſs of their Enemies, as Jericho formerly was for the ſame reaſon, Joſh. 6. 1. p Which was near the City, thereby to allure them forth.

14 And it came to paſs when the king of Ai ſaw it, that they haſted, and roſe up early, and the men of the city went out againſt Iſrael to battel, he, and all his people q, at a time appointed r, before the plain s, but he wiſt not that there were liers in ambuſh againſt him t, behind the city.

q To wit, all his men of war, for the reſt were left in Ai, v. 16. r At a certain hour agreed upon between the King and People of Ai, and of Bethel too, who were their Confederates in this Enterprize, as it may ſeem from v. 16. Poſſibly they might appoint the ſame hour of the day on which they had fought againſt Iſrael with ſuch good ſucceſs, looking upon it as a lucky hour. s i. e. Towards or in ſight of that plain or valley in which the Iſraelites were, that ſo they might put themſelves in Battel-array. t The former ſucceſs having made him more careleſs and ſecure, as is uſual in ſuch Caſes, God alſo blinding his mind, and infatuating him, as he uſeth to do with thoſe which he intends to deſtroy.

15 And Joſhua and all Iſrael made as if they were beaten before them u, and fled by the way of the wilderneſs x.

u i. e. Fled from them, as it were for fear of a ſecond blow: and peradventure ſome of them might be wounded, though none were killed; and might make that the pretence of their fleeing away. x Which lay between Ai and Jericho, whither they now ſeemed to flee.

16 And all the people y that were in Ai, were called together to purſue after them, and they purſued after Joſhua, and were drawn away from the city.

y To wit, all that were able to bear Arms, for old men and Children were unfit for the purſuit or fight; and that they were yet left, may ſeem from v. 24. 25.

17 And there was not a man z left in Ai, or Bethel a, that went not out after Iſrael: and they left the city open, and purſued after Iſrael.

z To wit, fit for war. a Which, being a neighbouring City, and incouraged by the former ſucceſs, had ſent ſome Forces to aſſiſt them; and now, upon notice ſent to them of the flight of their common Enemies, or upon ſome other ſignal given, which might eaſily be done, having been appointed before-hand, as is uſual in ſuch Caſes, all their men of War joyn with thoſe of Ai in the purſuit.

18 And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Stretch out the ſpear b, that is in thy hand toward Ai, for I will give it into thine hand. And Joſhua ſtretched out the ſpear that he had in his hand toward the city.

b Or, thy banner: or there might be ſome Banner in the end of his Spear. This was preſcribed and practiſed, either 1. for a ſign to his Hoſt preſent with him, to ſtop their flight, and make head againſt the purſuers: Or 2. for a ſignal to the liers in wait, as may ſeem from v. 19. who, though they were at ſome diſtance, might know this from perſons whom they had ſet in ſome high and convenient places to obſerve Joſhua's motion, and to give notice from one to another, and that ſpeedily, as is common in ſuch caſes, until it came to the whole ambuſh: Or 3. as a myſtical token of Gods preſence and aſſiſtance with them, and of their Victory; or as a mean by Gods appointment contributing to their good ſucceſs, as the like poſture of Moſes lifting up his hands was, Exod. 17. 11, 12. which may be the reaſon why he continued this poſture till the Enemies were all deſtroyed, v. 26. whereas if it had been a ſignal only, it was ſufficient to do it for a little while. I know no reaſon why all theſe ends might not be joyned together.

19 And the ambuſh aroſe quickly out of their place, and they ran aſſoon as he had ſtretched out his hand: and they entred into the city, and took it, and haſted, and ſet the city c on fire.

c i. e. Not all of it, as appears both from v. 28. and becauſe then they had loſt that Prey which God had allowed them; but ſome part of it, enough to raiſe a ſmoke, and give notice to their Brethren of their ſucceſs.

20 And

20 And when the men of Ai looked behind them, they ſaw, and behold, the ſmoak of the city aſcended up to heaven, and they had no
* Heb. Hand. * power d to flee this way, or that way, and the people that fled to the wilderneſs, turned back upon the purſuers.

d Or, place, for ſo the Hebrew word is oft uſed, as Numb. 2. 17. Neh. 7. 4. Job 37. 7. Pſal. 104. 25. Iſa. 22. 18. and 56. 5.

21 And when Joſhua and all Iſrael e ſaw that the ambuſh had taken the city, and that the ſmoak of the city aſcended, then they turned again, and ſlew the men of Ai.

e i.e. All the Iſraelites there preſent, or all thoſe who ſeemed to flee away before.

22 And the other f iſſued out of the city againſt them, ſo they were in the midſt of Iſrael, ſome on this ſide, and ſome on that ſide, and they
* Deut. 7. 2. ſmote them ſo that they * let none of them remain or eſcape g.

f They who lay in Ambuſh. g So their late ſucceſs was a real miſchief to them, as being the occaſion of their total ruine.

23 And the king of Ai they took alive h, and brought him to Joſhua.

h Reſerving him to a peculiar and more ignominious puniſhment, for the terror of the other Kings, who were the chief cauſes of all that oppoſition and diſturbance which Iſrael met with in gaining the Poſſeſſion of the Promiſed Land.

24 And it came to paſs when Iſrael had made an end of ſlaying all the inhabitants of Ai, in the field, in the wilderneſs wherein they chaſed them, and when they were all fallen on the edg of the ſword, until they were conſumed, that all the Iſraelites returned unto Ai, and ſmote it i with the edg of the ſword.

i i.e. The Inhabitants of it, the men, who through age or infirmity were unfit for War, and the women, v. 25.

25 And ſo it was, that all that fell that day, both of men and women, were twelve thouſand, even all the men of Ai k.

k Not ſtrictly, but largely ſo called, who were now in Ai, either as conſtant and ſettled Inhabitants, or as Sojourners and ſuch as came to them for their help, ſuch as being confederate with them, are eſteemed as one with them; for it is evident that the men of Bethel are included in this number, v. 17. the Iſraelites who took this number, being unable to diſtinguiſh who belonged to the one City, and who to the other.

26 For Joſhua drew not his hand back, wherewith he ſtretched out the ſpear l, until he had utterly deſtroyed all the inhabitants of Ai.

l Either 1. he ceaſed not to Fight with that Hand. Or, 2. He kept his Hand and Spear in the ſame poſture, both ſtretched out and lifted up, as a Sign both to encourage them, and to direct them to go on in the work. See on v. 18.

* Numb. 31. 22, 26. 27 * Only the cattel, and the ſpoil of that city, Iſrael took for a prey unto themſelves, according
* Verſ. 2. unto the word of the LORD, which he * commanded Joſhua.

28 And Joſhua burnt Ai, and made it an heap for ever m, even a deſolation unto this day.

m Or, for a long time, as that word oft ſignifies, as Gen. 6. 3. Iſa. 42. 14. For that it was after ſome Ages rebuilt, may ſeem from Nehem. 11. 31. unleſs that were another City built near the former, there being ſome little difference in the name alſo.

29 And the king of Ai he hanged on a tree n, until even-tide: and aſſoon as the ſun was down, Joſhua commanded, that they ſhould take his carcaſe down from the tree o, and caſt it at the entring of the gate of the city p, and * raiſe there-
* Chap. 7. 26. on a great heap of ſtones, that remaineth unto this day.

n He dealt more ſeverely with the Kings of Canaan than with the people, partly becauſe the abominable wickedneſs of that people was not reſtrained and puniſhed (as it ſhould have been) but countenanced and encouraged by their evil examples and adminiſtrations; and partly becauſe they were the principal Authors of the Deſtruction of their own people, by engaging them in an obſtinate oppoſition againſt the Iſraelites. o Accordling to Gods command in that caſe Deut. 21, 22. p Which place he choſe either as moſt commodious, now eſpecially when all the City within the Gate was already turned into an heap of Stones and Rubbiſh; or becauſe this was the uſual place of Judgment; and therefore proper to bear the monument of Gods Juſt Sentence againſt him, not without reflection upon that Injuſtice which he had been guilty of in that place.

30 Then q Joſhua built an altar r unto the LORD God of Iſrael in mount Ebal ſ.

q To wit, after the taking of Ai. For they were obliged to do this, when they were brought over Jordan into the Land of Canaan, Deut. 11. 29. and 27. 2, 3. which is not to be underſtood ſtrictly, as if it were to be done the ſame moment or day; for it is manifeſt they were firſt to be Circumciſed, and to eat the Paſſeover, which they did, and which was the work of ſome days; but as ſoon as they had opportunity to do it, which was now when theſe two great Frontier Cities were taken and deſtroyed, and thereby the Coaſt cleared, and the bordering people under great conſternation and confuſion, that all the Iſraelites might ſecurely march thither. And indeed this work was fit to be done as ſoon as might be, that thereby they might renew their Covenant with, and profeſs their ſubjection, to that God by whoſe help alone they could expect Succeſs in their great and difficult enterpriſe. r To wit, for the Offering of Sacrifices, as appears from the following verſe, and from Deut. 27. 5, 6, 7. ſ Why not on Mount Gerizim alſo? Anſ. Becauſe Gods Altar was to be but in one place, Deut. 12, 13, 14. and this place was appointed to be Mount Ebal, Deut. 27. 4, 5. which alſo ſeems moſt proper for it, that in that place whence the Curſes of the Law were denounced againſt Sinners, there might alſo be the tokens and means of Grace, and Peace, and Reconciliation with God, for the removing of the Curſes, and the procuring of Gods Bleſſing unto Sinners.

31 As Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded the children of Iſrael, as it is written in the * book of the law of Moſes, an altar of whole * Exod. 20. 25; ſtones, over which no man hath lift up any iron; Deut. 27. 5. and they offered thereon burnt-offerings unto the LORD, and ſacrificed peace-offerings.

32 And he wrote there upon the ſtones t a copy of the law of Moſes u, which he wrote in the preſence of the children of Iſrael.

r Not upon the Stones of the Altar, which were to be rough and unpoliſhed, v. 31. but upon other Stones, ſmooth and plaiſtered, as is manifeſt from Deut. 27. 2. u Not certainly the whole five Books of Moſes, for what Stones and time would have ſufficed for this! nor the Bleſſings and the Curſes here following, which never are, nor can without great impropriety be called the Law of Moſes, ſeeing they preſuppoſe the Law, and the Obſervation or Tranſgreſſion thereof, to which they belong, only as rewards of the one, and puniſhments of the other: but the moſt weighty and ſubſtantial parts of the Law, as may be gathered from the Laws which are mentioned, and to the violaters whereof the Curſes are applied, Deut. 27. 15. &c. and eſpecially the Law of the Ten Commandments.

33 And all Iſrael x, and their elders, and officers, and their judges ſtood on this ſide the ark, and on that ſide y before the prieſts the Levites, which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, as well the ſtranger, as he that was born among them: half of them over againſt mount Gerizim z, and half of them over againſt mount Ebal, * as Moſes the ſervant of the LORD had com- * Deut. 11. 29. and 27. 12. manded before, that they ſhould bleſs a the people of Iſrael.

x i.e. The whole Congregation, old and young, male and female, as it follows, v. 35. y i.e. Some on one ſide of it, and ſome on the other. z Theſe two places were in the Tribe of Ephraim, not far from Shechem, as appears both from Scripture, Deut. 11. 29, 30. and 27. 12. Judg. 9. 7. and from other Authors who lived in thoſe parts, as Joſephus and the Jewiſh Doctors. a Or Curſe, which is eaſily underſtood out of the following verſe, and from Deut. 27. 13, &c.

34 And afterward b he read c all the words of the law, the bleſſings and curſings d, according to all that is written in the book of the law e.

b After the Altar was built, and the Stones plaiſtered and writ upon. c i.e. He commanded the Prieſts or Levites to read, Deut. 27. 14. d Which words come in not by way of Explication, as if the words of the Law were nothing elſe beſides the Bleſſings and Curſes; but by way of addition, to note that theſe were read over and above the words of the Law. e He ſaith not, according to all that was written upon thoſe Stones, but in the Book of the Law, which

ſhews the miſtake of them that think the ſame things were both read and written upon theſe Stones.

25 There was not a word of all that Moſes commanded, which Joſhua read not f before all the congregation of Iſrael, * with the women and the little ones, and the ſtrangers that * were converſant among them g.

*Deut. 31. 12.
* Heb. walked.

f Therefore he read not the Bleſſings and Curſes only, as ſome think, but the whole Law, as the manner was when all Iſrael, Men and Women, were Aſſembled together, as we read Deut. 31. 10, 11, 12. g i. e. Who were Proſelytes, for no others can be ſuppoſed to be with them at this time.

CHAP. IX.

AND it came to paſs when all the kings which were on this ſide Jordan, in the hill, and in the valley, and in all the coaſt of the great ſea over againſt Lebanon, the Hittite, and the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebuſite heard thereof:

2 That they gathered themſelves together a to fight with Joſhua, and with Iſrael with one * accord.

* Heb. Mouth.

a Not actually, as the following Hiſtory ſhews; but they entred into a league or confederation to do this.

3 And b when the inhabitants of Gibeon c heard what Joſhua had done unto Jericho, and to Ai.

b Or, But; for he ſhews that theſe took another and a wiſer courſe. c A great and royal city of the Hivites, Joſ. 10. 2. and 11. 19.

4 They did work wilily, and went and made as if they had been embaſſadors d, and took old ſacks upon their aſſes, and wine-bottles, old and rent, and bound up.

d Sent from a far Country, as they ſay, v. 6.

5 And old ſhooes and clouted upon their feet, and old garments upon them; and all the bread of their proviſion was dry and mouldy.

6 And they went to Joſhua, unto the camp at Gilgal e, and ſaid unto him, and to the men of Iſrael f, We be come from a far countrey: now therefore g make ye a league with us.

e The place of their head-Quarters. f To wit, thoſe who uſed to meet in Counſel with Joſhua, to whom it belonged to make Leagues, as it here follows, even the Princes of the Congregation, not the common people, as appears both from v. 15, 18, 19, 21. and from common uſage of all Ambaſſadors, who generally deliver their Meſſage to, and treat with Princes, not People. And the Hebrew word iſch, here uſed ſometimes notes men of eminency and dignity. g Becauſe we are not of this people, whom as we are informed you are obliged utterly to deſtroy; that which appeared ſufficiently both by the Iſraelites practice in deſtroying the Amorites beyond Jordan, and the people of Jericho and Ai without any allowance for Sex or Age; and by common rumor and the report of the Iſraelites and other perſons who dwelt among them or had converſe with them, as Rahab and all her kindred; and by the nature of the thing, becauſe they were to poſſeſs that whole Land, and were not to mix themſelves with the people of it.

7 And the men of Iſrael ſaid unto the Hivite g, Peradventure ye dwell among us h, and how ſhall we make a league with you?

g i. e. The Gibeonites who were Hivites, Joſ. 11. 19. h i. e. In this Land, and ſo are of that people with whom we are forbidden to make any League or Covenant, Exod. 23, 32, 33, 34. Deut. 7. 2. and 20. 15, 16.

8 And they ſaid unto Joſhua, We are thy ſervants i. And Joſhua ſaid unto them, Who are ye? and from whence come ye k?

i We deſire a League with you upon your own terms; we are ready to accept of any conditions. k For this free and general conceſſion of theirs gave Joſhua juſt cauſe to ſuſpect that they were of the curſed Canaanites.

9 And they ſaid unto him, From a very far country thy ſervants are come, becauſe of the Name of the LORD l thy God: for we have heard the fame of him, and all that he did in Egypt m.

l Being moved thereunto by the report of his great and glorious nature and works; ſo they gave them hopes that they would embrace their Religion. m They cunningly mention thoſe things only which were done ſome time ſince, and ſay nothing of the dividing of Jordan, nor of the deſtruction of Jericho and Ai, as if they lived ſo far off that the fame of thoſe things had not yet reached them.

10 And * all that he did to the two kings of the Amorites, that were beyond Jordan, to Sihon king of Heſhbon, and to Og king of Baſhan, which was at Aſhtaroth.

* Numb. 21. 24, 33.

11 Wherefore our elders, and all the inhabitants of our country, ſpake to us, ſaying, Take victuals * with you for the journey, and go to meet them, and ſay unto them, We are your ſervants, therefore now make ye a league with us.

* Heb. in your hand.

12 This our bread we took hot for our proviſion out of our houſes, on the day we came forth to go unto you: but now behold, it is dry, and it is mouldy.

13 And theſe bottles of wine which we filled, were new, and behold, they be rent: and theſe our garments and our ſhooes are become old, by reaſon of the very long journey.

14 And * the men n took of their victuals o, and asked not counſel at the mouth of the LORD p.

* Or, they received the men by reaſon of their victuals.

n i. e. The Princes, as before v. 7. o Not from their want or any deſire they could have to ſuch unpleaſant and unwholſome food; nor as a Ceremony uſual in making Leagues, for that was not now done, but in the next verſe: but that they might examine the truth of what they ſaid. p As they ought to have done upon all ſuch weighty and doubtful occaſions. So they are accuſed of raſhneſs and neglect of their Duty. For though it is probable, if God had been conſulted, he would have conſented to the ſparing of the Gibeonites; yet it ſhould have been done with more caution, and an obligation left upon them to embrace the true Religion, which here was omitted.

15 And Joſhua made peace with them, and made a league with them, to let them live q, and the princes of the congregation ſware unto them.

q i. e. That they would not deſtroy them. Some queſtion whether this League was lawful and obliging, becauſe it is contrary to a poſitive and precedent law of God, by which they were enjoyned to make no peace with them, but utterly to deſtroy them, Exod. 23. 32. and 34. 12, &c. But this law ſeems to admit of ſome exception and favourable interpretation, and that taken from the reaſon and ſoul of that Law; which was this, that the Iſraelites might not be tainted with their Idolatry and other Abominations by cohabitation with them; and therefore when that reaſon ceaſed, i. e. if they were willing to relinquiſh their Poſſeſſions and Idolatry, and other wickedneſs, and to embrace the true Religion, they might be ſpared. And though this Law was delivered in general terms, becauſe God foreſaw that the Iſraelites would be moſt prone to err on that hand, by ſparing thoſe whom they ſhould deſtroy; yet that it was to be underſtood with an exception of Penitents, and true Converts, might eaſily be gathered both from the example of Rahab, and from the tenor of Divine Threatnings, which though abſolutely delivered, allow of this exception; as appears from Jer. 18. 7, 8. Jonah 3. 4. and from the great kindneſs and favour which God hath manifeſted unto all true Penitents, in delivering them from evils threatned to them, and inflicted upon others; which kindneſs of God we alſo are obliged to imitate by vertue of that natural and moral Law of God implanted in us, and revealed to us, to which ſuch poſitive Commands as this of killing the Canaanites muſt give place. And that this League was lawful and obliging, may ſeem probable, 1. Becauſe Joſhua and all the Princes upon the review concluded it ſo to be, and ſpared them accordingly, v. 19, 20, 22, 23. 2. Becauſe God puniſhed the violation of it long after, 2 Sam. 21. 1. 3. Becauſe God is ſaid to have hardened the hearts of all other Cities, not to ſeek Peace with Iſrael, that ſo he might utterly deſtroy them. Joſ. 11. 19, 20. which ſeems to imply that their utter Deſtruction did not neceſſarily come upon them by vertue of any abſolute and peremptory Command of God to deſtroy them, but by their own obſtinate hardneſs, whereby they neglected and refuſed to make Peace with the Iſraelites. Obj. This League was grounded upon a Deceit and Errour of the perſons, which alſo they had entred a caution againſt, v. 7. Anſ. Their ſuppoſition that they were Canaanites, was indeed a part of the foregoing Diſcourſe, v. 7. and the Iſraelites reſted ſatisfied with their Anſwer, and believed they were not, and ſo entred into the League; but that League was abſolute, not ſuſpended upon that or any other condition; and the error was not about the perſons, but about the Country and People to which they belonged, which was not material to this Contract, no more than it is to a Contract of Marriage, that the one perſon believed the other to be of another Country or Family than indeed they were.

16 ¶ And it came to pass at the end of three days r, after they had made a league with them, that they heard that they were their neighbours, and that they dwelt among them.

r i. e. At the last of them, or upon the third day, as it is said, v. 17. and so this Phrase is elsewhere used, as Deut. 14. 28. and 31. 10. Or it may be properly understood, that after three days they heard this, and on the day after they heard this, they came to their Cities, as is said, v. 17.

17 And the children of Israel journeyed, and came unto their cities on the third day; now their cities were Gibeon, and Chephirah, and Beeroth and Kirjath-jearim s.

s Which Cities were subject to Gibeon, which was the Royal City, Jos. 10. 2.

18 And the children of Israel smote them not, because the princes of the congregation had sworn unto them by the LORD God of Israel: and all the congregation murmured against the Princes t.

t Partly from that proneness which is in people to censure the actions of their Rulers; partly because they might think the Princes by their rashness had brought them into a Snare, that they could neither Kill them for fear of the Oath, nor Spare them for fear of Gods Command to the contrary; and partly from their desire of the Possession and Spoil of these Cities, of which they thought themselves hereby deprived.

19 But all the princes said unto all the congregation, We have sworn unto them by the LORD u God of Israel: now therefore we may not touch them x.

u They plead not the lawfulness, nor the prudence of the action; but only the Obligation of an Oath; of which, though it was procured by Fraud, they perceived the People sufficiently sensible. x i. e. Not hurt them, as that word is oft used, as Gen. 26. 11. Psal. 105. 15. and 144. 5. or, not smite them, as is said v. 18.

20 This y we will do to them: we will even let them live,* lest wrath be upon us, because of the breach of the Oath which we sware unto them.

y Which follows, v. 21.

21 And the princes said unto them, Let them live (but let them be hewers of wood, and drawers of water unto all the congregation z) as the princes had *promised them a.

* Ver. 15.

z i. e. Let them be publick Servants, and employed in the meanest Offices and Drudgeries (such as this was, this one kind being put for all the rest, as it is Deut. 29. 11.) for the use and benefit of the Congregation, to do this partly for the Sacrifices and Services of the House of God, as it is expressed v. 23. which otherwise the Israelites themselves must have done; partly for the Service of the Camp or body of the People; and sometimes upon occasion, even to particular Israelites: whence they are made Bond-men, which is mentioned, as a thing distinct from their Service in the House of God, v. 23. And so they are in effect stripped of all their Possessions, whereby the main ground of the Peoples Quarrel was taken away. a Or, because or seeing that (as the Hebrew word sometimes signifies) the Princes (i. e. we our selves, they speak of themselves in the third person, which is very frequent in the Hebrew Language) had promised it to them, to wit, that they should live; and confirmed their Promise by an Oath. So the Princes speaking here to the People, alledg the Promise or Oath of the Princes, when they met among themselves, and apart from the People. And this change of persons may possibly arise from hence, because some of the Princes who were present in the Assembly of the Princes, might now be absent upon some occasion. And this clause relates not to the next words, which are fitly enclosed within a Parenthesis, but to the foregoing clause, let them live, because the Princes have promised them their Lives.

22 And Joshua called for them, and he spake unto them, saying, Wherefore have ye beguiled us, saying, We are very far from you: when ye dwell among us?

23 Now therefore ye are cursed b, and there shall † none of you be freed from being bondmen c, and hewers of wood, and drawers of water for the house of my God d.

† Heb. not be cut off from you.

b You shall not escape the Curse of God which by Divine Sentence belongs to all the Canaanites, who are a People Devoted by God to ruine; but only change the quality of it, you shall feel that Curse of Bondage and Servitude, which is proper to your race, by vertue of that ancient Decree. Gen. 9. 25. you shall live indeed, but in a poor, vile and miserable condition, c The Slavery which is upon you shall be entailed to your posterity. d This only Service they mention here, because it was their principal and most durable servitude, being first in the Tabernacle, and then in the Temple, whence they were called Nethinims, 1 Chron. 9. 2. Ezra 2. 43. whereas their servitude to the whole Congregation would in a great measure cease when the Israelites were dispersed to their several habitations.

24 And they answered Joshua and said, Because it was certainly told thy servants, how that the LORD thy God * commanded his servant Moses, to give you all the land, and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you, therefore we were sore afraid of our lives, because of you, and have done this thing.

* Deut. 7. 1, 2.

25 And now behold, we are in thine hand e: as it seemeth good and right unto thee to do unto us, do f.

e i. e. In thy power to use us as thou wilt. f We refer our selves to thee, and thy own Piety, and Probity, and Faithfulness to thy Word and Oath; If thou wilt destroy thy humble Suppliants, we submit.

26 And so g did he unto them, and delivered them out of the hand of the children of Israel, that they slew them not.

g So as was said. v. 23. and so as here follows.

27 And Joshua made them that day hewers of wood, and drawers of water for the congregation, and for the altar of the LORD h, even unto this day, in the place which he should chuse.

h By which it appears, that they were not only to do this Service in Gods House, but upon all other occasions, as the Congregation needed or required their help.

CHAP. X.

NOW it came to pass, when Adoni-zedek king of Jerusalem had heard how Joshua had taken Ai, and had utterly destroyed it (* as he had done to Jericho and her king, so he had done to * Ai, and her king) and how the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Israel, and were among them a,

* Chap. 6. 17.
* Chap. 8. 3.

a i. e. Were conversant with them, had yielded themselves to their disposal, submited themselves to their Laws, had mingled interests with them.

2 That they b feared greatly, because Gibeon was a great city, as one of the † royal cities c and because it was greater than Ai, and all the men thereof were mighty.

b i. e. He and his people, the King being spoken of v. 1. as a publick person representing all his people. Or, He and the following Kings, v. 3. But this fear is mentioned. v. 2. as the cause why he sent to those Kings. c Either 1. really a Royal City, the Hebrew particle Caph oft signifying the truth of a thing, as Hos. 4. 4. and 5. 10. and oft elsewhere. Or 2. equal to one of the Royal Cities though it had no King, but seems to be governed Aristocratically by their Elders, Jos. 9. 11.

3 Wherefore Adoni-zedek king of Jerusalem sent d unto Hoham king of Hebron, and unto Piram king of Jarmuth, and unto Japhia king of Lachish, and unto Debir king of Eglon, saying, d Either because he was Superior to them in Power or Dignity, or because he was neareſt the danger, and most forward in the work.

4 Come up unto me, and help me, that we may smite Gibeon: for it hath made peace with Joshua, and with the children of Israel.

5 Therefore the five Kings of the Amorites e, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon gathered themselves together and went up, they, and all their hosts, and encamped before Gibeon, and made war against it.

e This name being here taken largely or generally for any of the Canaanites, as is frequent; for to speak strictly, the Citizens of Hebron here mentioned, v. 3. were Hittites; thus the Gibeonites, who were Hivites, Jos. 11. 19. are called Amorites, 2 Sam. 21. 2. It is reasonably supposed, that the Amorites rites being numerous and victorious beyond Jordan, did pour fourth Colonies or Forces into the land of Canaan, and there subdued divers places, and so communicated their name to all the rest.

6 ¶ And the men of Gibeon sent f unto Joshua to the camp to Gilgal, saying, Slack not thy hand g from thy servants h, come up to us quickly, and save us, and help us: for all the kings of the Amorites, that dwell in the mountains i, are gathered together against us.

f Or, had sent; when their enemies were drawing towards them, which they could easily learn. g Do not neglect nor delay to help us. h Whom thou art obliged to protect both in Duty, as thou art our Master and Ruler; and by thy own Interest, we being part of thy Possessions; and in ingenuity, because we have given our selves to thee, and put our selves under thy Protection. i In the mountainous Country.

7 So Joshua ascended k from Gilgal, he, and all the people of war with him, and l all the mighty men of valour.

k Having, no doubt, asked advice of God first, which is implied by the Answer God gives to him, v. 8. l Or, even, or that is, as this Particle is oft used, hath been noted before. So it seems put here by way of Explication and Restriction; having said all the people of war, he now adds, even all the mighty men, &c. i. e. an Army of the most valiant men picked out from the rest; for it is not probable, either that he would take so many hundred thousands with him, which would have hindred one another; or that he would leave the Camp without an Army to defend it.

8 ¶ And the LORD said unto Joshua, Fear them not: for I have delivered them into thine hand; there shall not a man of them stand before thee.

9 Joshua therefore came unto them suddenly m, and went up from Gilgal all night n.

m Though assured by God of the Victory, yet he useth all prudent means, and surprizeth them. n It is not said, that he went from Gilgal to Gibeon in a nights space; but only that he travelled all night: unto which you may add part either of the foregoing, or of the following day.

10 And the LORD † discomfited them before Israel, and slew them o with a great slaughter at Gibeon p, and chased them along the way that goeth up to Bethoron, and smote them to Azekah, and unto Makkedah.

†Isa. 28. 21. *Or. terrified So Gr.

o Or, he slew them; either God, or Israel; for Gods work is described v. 11. p Heb. in Gibeon, not in the City, but in the Territory belonging to it; as Joshua is said to be in Jericho, Josh. 5. 13.

11 And it came to pass as they fled from before Israel, and were in the going down to Bethoron, that the LORD cast down great stones q from heaven upon them unto Azekak, and they died; they were more which died with hailstones, than they whom the children of Israel slew with the sword.

q i. e. Hailstones of extraordinary greatness and hardness, cast down with that certainty, as to hit the Canaanites, and not their Pursuers the Israelites; and with that force as to kill them. Josephus affirms, That Thunder and Lightning were mixed with the Hail, which may seem probable from Habak. 3. 11.

12 ¶ Then spake Joshua to the LORD r in the day when the LORD delivered up the Amorites before the children of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel s, * Sun † stand thou still upon Gibeon t, and thou moon in the valley u of Ajalon x.

*Isa. 28. 21. Hab. 3. 11. †Heb. be silent.

r To wit, in way of Petition for this Miracle being moved to beg it out of zeal to destroy Gods Enemies, and directed to it by the motion of Gods Spirit, and receiving a gracious Answer, and being filled with holly Confidence of the success, he speaks the following words before the people, that they might be Witnesses of it. s i. e. In the presence and audience of Israel; seeing being sometimes put for hearing as Gen. 42. 1. compare with Act. 7. 12. Although these words may seem rather to be joyned with the following, thus, in the sight of Israel, stand still, O Sun, &c. Which Sense the Hebrew Accents favour. t i. e. Over and above, or against Gibeon, i. e. In that place and posture in which now it stands towards, and looks upon Gibeon. Let it not go down lower, and by degrees, out of the sight of Gibeon. It may seem, that the Sun was declining, and Joshua perceiving that his Work was great and long, and his time but short, begs of God the lengthning out of the day, and that the Sun and Moon might stop their course, and keep the place in which they now were. u Or. upon the valley; as before, upon Gibeon; the Preposition being the same there and here. x Either, 1. that Ajalon which was in the Tribe of Zebulun, Judg. 12. 12. Northward from Gibeon. Or rather, 2. that Ajalon which was in the Tribe of Dan, Josh. 19. 42. Judg. 1. 35. Westward from Gibeon. For, 1. this was nearer Gibeon than the other. 2. This was most agreeable to the Course of the Sun and Moon, which is from East to West. 3. This way the Battel went from Gibeon Westward to Ajalon, and so further Westward, even to Lachish, v. 31. And he mentions two places, Gibeon and Ajalon, not as if the Sun stood over the one, and the Moon over the other, which is absurd and ridiculous to affirm, especially these places being so near one to the other; but partly to vary the Phrase, as is common in Poetical Passages; partly because he was in his March and the Pursuit of his Enemies, to pass from Gibeon to Ajalon; and he begs that he may have the help and benefit of longer light to pursue them, and to that end that the Sun might stand still, and the Moon also; not that he needed the Moons light when he had the Suns; but because it was fit, either that both Sun and Moon should go, or that both should stand still to prevent Disorder and Confusion in the heavenly Bodies.

13 And the sun stood still y, and the moon stayed, until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies z. Is not this written in the book of † Jasher a? so the sun stood still b in the midst of heaven c, and hasted not to go down about a whole day d.

y Heb. was silent; i. e. still, as this Phrase is commonly used, as 1 Sam. 14. 9. Psal. 4. 4. Jonah 1. 12. the cessation of the Tongues motion being put synecdochically for the cessation of any other Motion or Action. z i. e. Till they had utterly destroyed them, as is mentioned in the following Chapter. a Either of a man so called, or of the righteous or upright, wherein possibly the memorable Actions of worthy men were recorded, and this among the rest. And this Book was written and published before Josua wrote his, and so is fitly alledged here. But this, as well as some few other historical Books, is lost, not being a Canonical Book, and therefore not preserved by the Jews with the same care as they were. b Here is no mention of the Moon, because the Suns standing was the only thing which Joshua desired and needed; and the Moons standing he desired only by accident to prevent irregularity in the Motions of those celestial Lights. Some take this to be but a Poetical Phrase and Relation of the Victory, that Joshua did so many, and such great things in that day, as if the Sun and Moon had stood still and given him longer time for it. But the frequent Repetition, and magnificent Declaration of this Wonder, manifestly confutes that fancy. That the Sun and Moon did really stand still, is affirmed Habak. 3. 11. and Sirach 46. 5, 6. And if it seem strange to any one, that so wonderful a Work observed by the whole World that then was, should not be mentioned in any Heathen Writers; he must needs be satisfied, if he considers, that it is confessed by the generality of Writers, Heathens and others, that there is no certain History or Monument in Heathen Authors of any thing done before the Trojan Wars, which was a thousand years after Joshua's time; and that all time before that, is called by the learnedst Heathens, the uncertain, unknown, or obscure time. c Not Mathematically, in the very Meridian or middle part of that Hemisphere; but morally, and with some Latitude, when it had begun a little to decline, the consideration whereof seems to have given Joshua occasion for his desire. d i. e. For the space of a whole day. Understand an artificial day between Sun-rising and Sun-setting; for that was the day which Joshua needed and desired, a day to give him light for his work.

14 And there was no day like that e, before it, or after it, that the LORD hearkened unto the voice of a man f: for the LORD fought for Israel g.

e To wit, In those parts of the World of which he here speaks, and about which the Comparison is here made: vain therefore is that Objection, that the days are longer near the Northern and Southern Poles, where they are constantly longer at certain seasons, and that by the order of nature; whereas the length of this day was purely contingent, and granted by God in answer to Joshua's Prayer, as is here added. Obj. In Hezekiah's time, and at his Prayer there was a day which may seem to have been longer; for the Sun went backward ten Degrees in ten hours, and then returned again ten Degrees in ten hours, and so it was 20. hours longer than a common day, and so longer than this. Ans. It is not certain, either that each Degree designed an hour, and not rather half an hour, or a quarter, as others think; or that the Sun returned those ten Degrees as slowly as he went down before or after. Besides it was now near Summer solstice, when the day was longest, and about 14. hours; and that being doubled, the artifical day was 28. hours: and because there is not the least evidence that Hezekiahs day was longer, but rather of the contrary; it is much more reasonable to believe this Scripture-assertion, than to deny or question upon meer Suppositions or idle Conjectures. f To wit, in such a manner to alter the Course of nature, and of the heavenly Bodies Bodies, that a man might have more time to purſue and deſtroy his Enemies. g This is added as the reaſon why God was ſo ready to anſwer Joſhua's Petition herein, becauſe he was engaged and reſolved to fight for Iſrael, and that in a more than ordinary manner.

15 ¶ And Joſhua returned h, and all Iſrael with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

h Not immediately, or upon that ſame day, but after he had diſpatched the matter which here follows; as appears by v. 43. where the very ſame words are repeated to ſhew, that that was the meaning of them. And they are put here to cloſe the general diſcourſe of the fight which begun v. 10. and ends here; which being done, he particularly deſcribes ſome remarkable Paſſages, and cloſeth them with the ſame words.

16 But theſe five kings i fled, and hid themſelves in a cave k at Makkedah l.

i Named above, v. 3. k As a place of moſt ſecrecy or ſecurity; but there is no eſcaping the eye or hand of God, who here brought them into a Net of their own making. l Heb. in Makkedah, not in the city, for that was not yet taken; but in the Territory of it, as in Gibeon, v. 10.

17 And it was told Joſhua, ſaying, The five kings are found hid in a cave at Makkedah.

18 And Joſhua ſaid, Roll great ſtones upon the mouth of the cave, and ſet men by it, for to keep them.

19 And ſtay ye not m, but purſue after your enemies, and † ſmite the hindmoſt of them n, ſuffer them not to enter into their cities o, for the LORD your God hath delivered them into your hand p.

m Loſe not your opportunity by your ſloth or negligeuce. n Their rereward, all whom you can overtake. o Whereby they will recover their ſtrength, and renew the War. p Your work will be eaſie, God hath already done the work to your hands.

20 And it came to paſs when Joſhua and the children of Iſrael q had made an end of ſlaying them with a very great ſlaughter; till they were conſumed, that the reſt which remained of them, entred into fenced cities.

q i. e. Joſhua by the Children of Iſrael; or the Children of Iſrael, i. e. a Party of them, by the Command, Direction and Encouragement of Joſhua; for Joſhua himſelf went not with them, but abode in the Siege before Makkedah, v. 21.

21 And all the people returned to the camp r to Joſhua at Makkedah in peace: * none moved his tongue s againſt any of the children of Iſrael.

* Exod. 11. 7.

r To the body of the Army which were encamped there with Joſhua to beſiege that place. s Not ſo much as a Dog, as it is expreſſed Exod. 11. 7. Not only their men of War could not find their hands, but they were all ſo confounded, that they could not move their Tongues in way of Inſultation or Reproach, as doubtleſs they did when the Iſraelites were firſt repulſed and ſmitten at Ai; but now they were ſilenced as well as conquered; they durſt no more provoke nor injure the Iſraelites.

22 Then ſaid Joſhua, Open the mouth of the cave, and bring out thoſe five kings unto me out of the cave.

23 And they did ſo, and brought forth thoſe five kings unto him out of the cave, the king of Jeruſalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachiſh, and the king of Eglon.

24 And it came to paſs when they brought out thoſe kings unto Joſhua, that Joſhua called all the men of Iſrael, and ſaid unto the captains of the men of war which went with him, Come near, put your feet upon the necks of theſe kings t. And they came near, and put their feet upon the necks of them.

t This he did not from Pride and contempt of their Dignity in it ſelf; but partly as a puniſhment of their impious Rebellion againſt their Sovereign Lord; partly in purſuance of that Curſe of ſervility due to all this people, Gen. 9. 25. partly as a token to aſſure his Captains, that God would ſubdue the proudeſt of them all under their feet; and partly to oblige and teach his people ſeverely to execute the Judgment of God upon them, and not to ſpare any of them, either out of a fooliſh Pity, or out of reſpect to their Dignity, as Saul afterwards ſpared Agag to his own ruine.

25 And Joſhua ſaid unto them, Fear not, nor be diſmayed, be ſtrong, and of good conrage: for thus ſhall the LORD do to all your enemies againſt whom ye fight.

26 And afterward Joſhua ſmote them, and ſlew them, and hanged them u on five trees: and they were hanging upon the trees * until the evening.

* chap. 8. 29.

u After they were dead, as a brand of Infamy, and for the Terror and Inſtruction of others.

27 And it came to paſs at the time of the going down of the ſun, that Joſhua commanded, and they * took them down off the trees, and caſt them into the cave, wherein they had been hid, and laid great ſtones in the caves mouth x, which remain unto this very day.

* Deut. 21. 23. chap. 8. 29.

x That neither wild Beaſts could come at them to devour them, nor any of their people to give them honourable Burial.

28 ¶ And that day y Joſhua took Makkedah, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and the king thereof he utterly deſtroyed, them, and all the ſouls that were therein, he let none remain: and he did to the king of Makkedah, * as he did unto the king of Jericho z.

* chap. 21.

y On which the Sun ſtood ſtill, or on which the five Kings were hanged. Nor is it ſtrange, that ſo much work was done, and places ſo far diſtant, taken in one day, when the day was ſo long, and the Canaanites ſtruck with ſuch a terror. z Who was hanged, or otherwiſe killed, as appears from Joſh. 6. 2.

29 Then Joſhua paſſed down from Makkedah, and all Iſrael a with him, unto Libnah b, and fought againſt Libnah.

a To wit, who were with him in this Expedition. b A City of Judah, Joſh. 15. 42.

30 And the LORD delivered it alſo, and the king thereof, into the hand of Iſrael, and he ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and all the ſouls c that were therein; he let none remain in it, but did unto the king thereof, as he did unto the king of Jericho.

c i. e. The humane Souls; for all the Cattel they had for a prey.

31 ¶ And Joſhua paſſed from Libnah, and all Iſrael with him, unto Lachiſh, and encamped againſt it, and fought againſt it.

32 And the LORD delivered Lachiſh into the hand of Iſrael, which took it on the ſecond day d, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and all the ſouls that were therein, according to all that he had done to Libnah.

d Either the day after his firſt laying of the Siege; or, after the taking of Makkedah and Libnah.

33 ¶ Then Horam king of Gezer e came up to help Lachiſh, and Joſhua ſmote him and his people, until he had left him none remaining.

e Either that in Ephraim, of which Joſh. 16. 3. Judg. 1. 29. But that ſeems too remote from the other places; or rather, that in Judah, which was near Lachiſh, 1 Chron. 14. 16. whoſe King therefore was more capable, and more obliged to help them for his own ſake.

34 ¶ And from Lachiſh Joſhua paſſed unto Eglon f, and all Iſrael with him, and they encamped againſt it, and fought againſt it.

f A City of Judah, Joſh. 15. 39.

35 And they took it on that day g, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and all the ſouls that were therein, he utterly deſtroyed that day, according to all that he had done to Lachiſh.

g On which they firſt attempted it.

36 And Joſhua went up from Eglon, and all Iſrael with him unto Hebron h, and they fought againſt it.

h Which though they took and killed all its Inhabitants, yet they did not keep it; and therefore when Joſhua and his Army had forſaken it, and were returned to Gilgal, it ſeems the Gyants and other Canaanites being burnt out, or driven away from their former Seats, planted and fortified themſelves ſelves there; which made it neceſſary for Caleb to take it a ſecond time, as is recorded Joſh. 15. 14. Judg. 1. 10. Or, this is the ſame Story, and the ſame Conqueſt of Hebron which is here generally related, and afterwards repeated, and more particularly deſcribed, Joſh. 15. 13, 14.

37 And they took it, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and the king thereof i, and all the cities thereof k, and all the ſouls that were therein, he left none remaining, according to all that he had done to Eglon: but † deſtroyed it utterly, and all the ſouls that were therein.

† Heb. made it a curſe. Or, anathematized it.

i Either him mentioned before, v. 23. whoſe death is here repeated in this account of the general Deſtruction of all the Inhabitants of that place; or his Heir or Succeſſor. k Which were ſubject to its Juriſdiction; this being, it ſeems, a Royal City, as Gibeon was, v. 2. and having cities under it, as that had, Joſh. 9. 17.

38 And Joſhua returned, and all Iſrael with him to Debir l, and fought againſt it, l He is ſaid to return thither, not as if he had been there before, but becauſe having gone as far Weſtward and Southward as he thought fit, even as far as Gaza, v. 41. he now returned towards Gilgal, which lay Northward and Eaſtward from him, and in his return fell upon Debir, ſee on Joh. 15. 15.

39 And he took it, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, and they ſmote them with the edge of the ſword, and utterly deſtroyed all the ſouls that were therein, he left none remaining: as he had done to Hebron, ſo he did to Debir, and to the king thereof, as he had done alſo to Libnah, and to her king.

40 ¶ So Joſhua ſmote all the country of the hills, and of the ſouth, and of the vale, and of the ſprings, and all their kings, he left none remaining, but utterly deſtroyed † all that breathed m, as the LORD God of Iſrael * commanded n.

† Heb. all breath. * Deut. 20. 16, 17.

m i. e. All mankind, by a Synecdoche: for they reſerved the Cattel for their own uſes. n This is added for the Vindication of the Iſraelites, whom God would not have to ſuffer in their Reputation for executing his commands; and therefore he acquits them of that implacable hatred and heinous cruelty, which they might be thought guilty of, and aſcribes it to himſelf and his own juſt Indignation againſt this moſt wicked people.

41 And Joſhua ſmote them from Kadeſh-barnea o, even unto Gaza p, and all the country of * Goſhen q, even unto Gibeon.

o Which lay in the South of Canaan, Num. 34. 4. Deut. 1. 19. Joſh. 15. 3. p Which was in the South-weſt of Canaan. So he here ſignifies, that Joſhua did in this expedition ſubdue all thoſe parts which lay South and Weſt from Gilgal. q Not that Goſhen in Egypt, but another in Judah, Joſh. 11. 16. and 15. 51.

42 And all theſe kings and their land did Joſhua take at one time, becauſe the LORD God of Iſrael fought for Iſrael.

43 And Joſhua returned, and all Iſrael with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

CHAP. XI.

AND it came to paſs when Jabin king of Hazor a had heard thoſe things b, that he ſent to Jobab king of Madon, and to the king of Shimron c, and to the king of Achſhaph d.

a The chief City of all thoſe parts, v. 10. b This was a remarkable inſtance of the Wiſdom and Goodneſs of divine Providence, which ſo governed the minds and hearts of the Canaanites, that they were not at all united under one King, but divided amongſt many petty Kings; and next, that theſe did not all unanimouſly joyn their Counſels and Forces together to oppoſe the Iſraelites at their firſt entrance, which their own Wiſdom and Intereſt obliged them to do, but quietly ſuffered the deſtruction of their Brethren, thereby preparing the way for their own. c Called Shimron-meron, Joſh. 12. 10. d A place in the Tribe of Aſer, the furtheſt part of the land toward the North and Weſt.

2 And to the kings that were on the north of the mountains e, and of the plains, ſouth of Cineroth f, and in the vale, and in the borders of Dor g, on the weſt, e Heb. on the North, (which may be the general deſignation of all the particular places following, that they were in the Northern parts of Canaan, as thoſe mentioned Joſh. 10. were in the Southern parts) in the mountain, either in or near the famous mountain of Lebanon, called the mountain by way of eminency; or in the mountainous countrey. f Heb. in the plain lying Southward from Cinneroth, or the Lake of Geneſareth; See Deut. 3. 17. Luk. 5. 1. g. A place upon the coaſt of the Midland-ſea.

3 And to the Canaanite on the eaſt, and on the weſt h, and to the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Jebuſite in the mountains, and to the Hivite under Hermon i, in the land of Mizpeh k.

h The Canaanites properly ſo called, lived part of them on the Eaſt near Jordan, and part on the Weſt near the Sea, and both are here united. i That dwelt under Mount Hermon in the North of Canaan, whereby they are differenced from thoſe Hivites who lived in Gibeon, of which before. k That Mizpeh which was in the Northern part of Gilead, of which Gen. 31. 49. Judg. 11. 29. But there were other cities called by that name, which ſignifying a Watching-place, might be eaſily applied to ſeveral places of good proſpect. Beſides this, there is one Mizpeh of Judah, Joſh. 15. 38. another of Benjamin, Joſh. 18. 26. a third in Moab, 1 Sam. 22. 3.

4 And they went out, they, and all their hoſts with them, much people, even as the ſand that is upon the ſea ſhore in multitude, with horſes and chariots very many.

5 And when all theſe kings were † met together, they came and pitched together at the Waters of Merom l, to fight againſt Iſrael.

† Heb. aſſembled by appointment.

l A lake made by the River Jordan in the Northern part of it, which was in the Territory of the King of Schimron, or Schimron-Meron, and near Hazor, Jabins Royal City, and almoſt in the middle of theſe confederate Kings.

6 ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Joſhua, Be not afraid becauſe of them: for to morrow about this time will I deliver them up all ſlain before Iſrael: thou ſhalt hough their horſes m, and burn their chariots with fire.

m i. e. Cut their Hamſtrings that they may be unfit for War. For God forbad them to have, or keep many Horſes, Deut. 17. 16. now eſpecially, that they might not truſt to their Horſes, as men are apt to do, nor diſtruſt God for want of ſo neceſſary an help in Battel; nor aſcribe the conqueſt of the land to their own ſtrength, but wholly to God, by whoſe power alone a company of raw and unexperienced Footmen were able to ſubdue ſo potent a people, which beſides their great Numbers, and Giants, and walled cities, had the advantage of many thouſands of Horſes and Chariots.

7 So Joſhua came, and all the people of war with him, againſt them by the waters of Merom ſuddenly n, and they fell upon them.

n When they leaſt expected them, intending there to refreſh, and prepare, and order themſelves for the offenſive War which they deſigned.

8 And the LORD delivered them into the hand of Iſrael, who ſmote them, and chaſed them unto † great Zidon o, and unto †* Miſrephoth-maim p, and unto the valley of Miſpeh q eaſtward, and they ſmote them, until they left them none remaining.

|| Or, Zidon Rabbah. || Or, Salt-pits. * Heb. burning of waters.

o A great and famous city in the Northweſt part of Canaan, and upon the Sea. p A place not far from Zidon, ſuppoſed to be ſo called from the Salt or Glaſs which they made there. q Under Mount Hermon, as appears by comparing this with v. 3. and 17. where it ſeems to be called the valley of Lebanon. This lay on the Eaſt, as Sidon did on the Weſt; and ſo it ſeems they fled ſeveral ways, and the Iſraelites alſo divided themſelves into two Bodies, one purſuing Eaſt, and the other Weſt.

9 And Joſhua did unto them, as the LORD bade him: he houghed their horſes, and burnt their chariots with fire.

10 ¶ And Joſhua at that time turned back, and took Hazor, and ſmote the king thereof r with the ſword: for Hazor before time was the head of all thoſe kingdoms ſ.

r Either in the former Battel, though it be mentioned here: or rather, in his Royal City, to which he fled out of the Battel. ſ Not of all Canaan, but of all thoſe who were confederate with him in this Expedition.

11 And

11 And they ſmote all the ſouls that were therein with the edge of the ſword, utterly deſtroying them: there was not * any t left to breathe, and he burnt Hazor with fire.

* Heb. any breath.

t i. e. No Humane Perſon.

12 And all the cities of thoſe kings, and all the kings of them did Joſhua take, and ſmote them with the edge of the ſword, and he utterly deſtroyed them, * as Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded.

* Num. 33. 52. Deut. 7. 2. and 20. 16, 17.

13 But as for the cities that ſtood ſtill † in their ſtrength u, Iſrael burned none of them, ſave Hazor onely x, that did Joſhua burn y.

u Heb. with (for ſo this Preposition is oft uſed, as Exod. 35. 12. Levit. 2. 2. Ezek. 16. 37. &c.) their Fence or Fences, Walls or Bulwarks, i. e. which were not utterly ruined together with their Walls in the taking of them. x Which though taken by the Iſraelites, was not ſo much deſtroyed as other places were. y Becauſe this City began the War, and being the chief and Royal City, might renew the War if the Canaanites ſhould ever ſeize upon it.

14 And all the ſpoil of theſe cities. and the cattel, the children of Iſrael took for a prey unto themſelves: but every man they ſmote with the edge of the ſword, until they had deſtroyed them, neither left they any to breathe.

15 ¶ * As the LORD commanded Moſes his ſervant, ſo * did Moſes command Joſhua, and ſo did Joſhua: † he left nothing undone of all that the LORD commanded Moſes.

* Exod. 34. 11.
* Deut. 7. 2.
† Heb. he removed nothing.

16 So Joſhua took all that land z, the hill a, and all the ſouth countrey b, and all the land of Goſhen c, and the vale d, and the plain e, and the mountain of Iſrael f, and the vale of the ſame g.

z Of Canaan, whoſe parts here follow. a Or, the mountain, i. e. the Mountainous Country, to wit, of Judea, as may ſeem, 1. Becauſe in the following enumeration he begins in the South parts, where there was an eminent Mountain, Numb. 13. 17. 2. Becauſe a conſiderable part of Judea was called the Hilly or the mountainous Country, Luke 1. 39, 65. which is not likely to be omitted in this particular deſcription of the Land; the rather becauſe Hebron, one of the places taken by Joſhua, chap. 10. 36, 37. was in the mountain of Judah, Joſ. 20. 7. 3. Becauſe this is here diſtinguiſhed from the mountain of Iſrael, and therefore moſt likely to be the mountain of Judah, eſpecially if you compare this with ver. 21. where having mentioned the mountain in general, from which Joſhua cut off the Anakims, he comes to particularize, and names only two, all the mountain of Judah, and all the mountain of Iſrael. b i. e. Not onely the Mountainous part, but all the Country of Judea, which lay in the Southern part of Canaan, and oft comes under the name of the South, as Numb. 13. 22, 29. and 21. 1. Joſ. 10. 40. and 18. 5. &c. c Of which ſee Joſ. 10. 41. d The low Countries. e The Fields or Champion grounds. f Either 1. Some one particular and eminent Mountain, poſſibly the Hill of Samaria, mentioned 1 Kings 16. 24. or rather 2. The Mountains or Mountainous Country of Iſrael. See the ſecond note on this verſe. g i. e Of Iſrael.

17 Even from the ‖ mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir h, unto Baal-Gad i, in the valley of Lebanon under mount Hermon: and all their kings he took, and ſmote them, and ſlew them.

h i. e. To the country of Stir or Edom; to wit, that part of it which was South from Judea, not that which was Eaſtward from it, as appears from hence, that here, as alſo Joſ. 12. 7. is mention of the two extream bounds of the Land conquered by Joſhua; whereof the other which follows being in the North, this muſt needs be in the South of the Land. i A part of Mount Lebanon.

18 Joſhua made war a long time k with all thoſe kings.

k For divers years together, as is evident by the following Hiſtory, and by comparing Deut. 2. 14. with Joſ. 14. 7, &c. And this is here expreſſed, leſt it ſhould be thought that as all theſe Wars are here recorded in a ſhort Narration, ſo they were diſpatched in a ſhort time. And God would have the Land to be conquered gradually, for many weighty reaſons; 1. Leſt the ſudden extirpation of thoſe Nations ſhould have made a great part of the Land Deſert, and thereby have encreaſed the Numbers of Wild Beaſts, Deut. 7. 22. 2. Leſt being done ſuddenly and eaſily, it ſhould ſoon be forgotten and deſpiſed, as the nature of man is apt to do in thoſe caſes. 3. That by long exerciſe the Iſraelites might grow skilful in the Art of War, which was very uſeful and needful for them in that Land. 4. For the trial and exerciſe of their Patience and Courage, and Truſt in God. 5. To oblige them to the greater care to pleaſe and obey God, whom they yet needed for their help againſt their Enemies.

19 There was not a city that made peace with the children of Iſrael: ſave * the Hivites the inhabitants of Gibeon, all other l they took in battel.

* chap. 9. 3.

l To wit, all that was taken by Joſhua, were taken by the Sword; and therefore it is no wonder that the War was long, when the Enemy was ſo obſtinate.

20 For it was of the LORD to harden their hearts m, that they ſhould come againſt Iſrael in battel, that he might deſtroy them utterly, and that they might have no favour: but that he might deſtroy them, * as the LORD commanded Moſes.

* Deut. 20. 16, 17.

m It was the deſign of Gods Providence not to ſoften their hearts to a compliance with the Iſraelites, but to give them up to their own Animoſity, Pride, Confidence and Stubbornneſs; that ſo both their abominable and incorrigible wickedneſs might be ſeverely puniſhed, and that the Iſraelites might not be mixed with them, but be intire among themſelves in the poſſeſſion of the Land. Compare Deut. 2. 30. and for the Phraſe Exod. 7. 13. and 9. 12. and 14. 17.

21 And at that time * came Joſhua, and cut off the Anakims n from the mountain o, from Hebron, from Debir p, from Anab q, and from all the mountain of Judah, and from all the mountain of Iſrael r: Joſhua deſtroyed them utterly with their cities ſ.

* i. e. In that War, for it cannot be meant of any particular and ſhort time, becauſe the work here related was done in divers times and years. n A Race of Giants, of which ſee Numb. 13. 33. o Or, mountains, the Singular Number for the Plural; Theſe Barbarous and Monſtrous perſons either choſe to live in the Dens or Cave, which were frequent in the Mountains of thoſe parts; or elſe they were driven thither by the Arms and Succeſs of the Iſraelites. p Either, 1. From the Territories belonging to theſe Cities, as we have oft ſeen in this Hiſtory, cities mentioned for the country ſubject to them, for the cities were taken before by Joſhua, chap. 10. 36, 37, 38. Or, 2. From the cities themſelves; and ſo either the cities were re-taken by the Giants, which it is not probable that God would permit in Joſhua's time; or he ſpeaks here of that time when he took thoſe places mentioned here, and chap. 10. which Hiſtory he here in part repeats and enlargeth with this memorable circumſtance, That, together with the reſt, he deſtroyed alſo the Giants which were in thoſe places. q A place in the Tribe of Judah, Joſ. 15. 50. r It doth not follow from hence, which ſome conclude, that this Book was written by ſome other perſon long after Joſhua's Death, even after the diviſion of the Iſraelites into two Kingdoms, of Iſrael and Judah; but only that this was one of thoſe clauſes which were added or altered, and ſuited to the ſtile of the preſent times by Ezra, or ſome other Prophet; though that be not neceſſary; for ſince it was evident to Joſhua, from Gen. 49. 10, &c. That the Tribe of Judah was to be the chief of all the Tribes, and ſome dawnings of its Eminency appeared in that time, in their having the firſt Lot in the Land of Canaan, Joſ. 15. 1. and the largeſt inheritance, Joſ. 19. 9. It is no wonder that it is mentioned apart, and diſtinguiſhed from the reſt of the Tribes of Iſrael, though that alſo be one of them; even as the Daughter of Pharaoh is diſtinguiſhed from the Strange Women, 1 King. 11. 1. and Saul from all Davids Enemies, Pſal. 18. title; and Peter from the Diſciples, Mark 16. 7. though they were each of the ſame nature and quality with the reſt. ſ Qu. How could Joſhua utterly deſtroy theſe, when Caleb and Othoniel deſtroyed ſome of them after Joſhua's Death? Joſ. 14. 12. Judg. 1. 10, 11, 12. Anſ. This might be, either 1. Becauſe theſe places being in part deſtroyed and neglected by the Iſraelites, might be repoſſeſſed by the Giants, either in Joſhua's time, or after his Death, and by them kept till Caleb diſpoſſeſſed and deſtroyed them. Or rather 2. Becauſe this work, though done by the particular valour and induſtry of Caleb, is aſcribed to Joſhua as the General of the Army, according to the manner of all Hiſtorians; and therefore it is here attributed to Joſhua, though afterwards, that Caleb might not loſe his deſerved Honour, the Hiſtory is more particularly deſcribed, and Caleb owned as the great Inſtrument in the Atchievement of it. Joſ. 14. and Judg. 1.

22 There was none of the Anakims left in the land of the children of Iſrael: only in Gaza, in Gath, and in Aſhdod t there remained.

t Three Cities of the Philiſtines, to which they retired, and where we find ſome of them afterwards, 1 Sam. 17. 4. and 2 Sam. 21. 16. Which may be one reaſon why the Iſraelites durſt not make an attempt upon theſe places, though they were a part of their Poſſeſſion.

23 So Joshua took the whole land u, according to all that the LORD said unto Moses, and Joshua gave it for an inheritance unto Israel, * according to their divisions by their tribes: and the land rested from war x.

* Numb. 26. 53.

u Synecdochically, i. e. the greatest and the best part of it, for some parts and places are expresly excepted in the following History. x From actual War, so far that they could now quietly survey, and distribute, and possess the Land.

CHAP. XII.

NOW these are the kings of the Land, which the children of Israel smote, and possessed their land on the other side Jordan, toward the rising of the Sun: from the river Arnon, unto mount Hermon, and all the plain on the east a.

a On the East of Jordan, called the Plain, Deut. 1. 1. and the plains of Moab, Deut. 34. 1.

2 * Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon, and ruled from Aroer, which is upon the bank of the river of Arnon, and from the middle of the river b, and from half Gilead c, even unto the river Jabbok, which is the border of the children of Ammon:

* Num. 21.24. Deut. 3. 6.

b It is not unusual even amongst us, for a River to be divided between two Lords, and for their Territories or Jurisdictions to meet in the middle of the River: And besides, here is a very particular reason for this expression, because the city Ar, which was no part of Sihons Dominions, but belonged to the Moabites, Deut. 2. 9, 18. was in the middle of the River Arnon, Deut. 2. 36. and 3. 16. and therefore the middle of the River is most fitly and properly here mentioned, as the bound of Sihons Dominions on that side. c Heb. and the half Gilead, i. e. half of the country of Gilead; the particle from is not in the Original, and this doth not seem to denote the term or bound from which his Dominion begun, as our Version implies, for so indeed it was not, but the place or country, in and over which his Dominion was, which, as is here said, began at Arnon, and took in half Gilead, and ended at Jabbok, beyond which was the other half of Gilead, which belonged to Og, as is expresly said, ver. 5. where the words being wholly the same that are here, it is most reasonable to understand and translate them in the same manner.

3 And * from the plain unto the sea of Cinneroth on the east d, and unto the sea of the plain e, even the salt sea on the east, the way to Beth-jeshimoth: and from * the south f under ‖ * Ashdothpisgah.

* Deut. 3. 17.

* Or, Teman. † Or, the springs of Pisgah, or the hill.

d Which words describe the situation not of the sea of Cinneroth, which was part of the Western border of Sihons Dominion, but of the Plain, which is here said to lye Eastward from the sea of Cinneroth, and also Eastward from the Salt Sea, as it here follows. And this was indeed the situation of the Plains of Moab, which are here spoken of, to wit, that they lay between the two Seas, that of Cinneroth and the Salt Sea, and Eastward to them both. e The Salt Sea is so called because it was a famous Plain, pleasant and fruitful, before it was turned into a Salt Sea. f Or, on, or towards the South.

* Deut. 3. 17. and 4. 49.

4 ¶ And the coast of Og king of Bashan which was of the † remnant of the giants, that * dwelt at Ashtaroth, and at Edrei g.

g To wit, successively, sometimes at the one, sometimes at the other City; both being his Royal Mansions.

5 And reigned in mount Hermon, and in Salcah, and in all Bashan, unto the border of the Geshurite h, and the Maacathite, and half Gilead, the border of Sihon king of Heshbon.

h Of which see Deut. 3. 13. Jos. 13. 13. 2 Sam. 13. 37. and 15. 8.

6 * Them did Moses the servant of the LORD, and the children of Israel smite, and * Moses the servant of the LORD gave it for a possession unto the Reubenite, and Gadite, and the half tribe of Manasseh.

* Num. 21.24, 33. * Num. 32.29. Deut. 3. 12. chap. 13. 8.

7 And these are the kings of the country, which Joshua and the children of Israel smote on this side Jordan, on the west, from Baal-gad in the valley of Lebanon, even unto * the mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir, which Joshua gave unto the tribes of Israel for a possession according to their divisions.

24 The king of Tirzah, one: all the kings thirty and one n.

n Each being confined to a narrow compass, and being King only of one City or small Province belonging to it, which was by the wise and singular Providence of God, that they might be more easily and successively conquered by the Israelites one after another, as they were.

† Or, the Cave. nites h, and † Mearah i, that is beside the Sidonians, unto Aphek k, to the border of the Amorite l:

h i. e. From those Southern parts of the Sea-coast, now possessed by the Philistines, all the more Northern parts of the Sea-coast being yet inhabited by the Canaanites, almost as far as Sidon, as it here follows. For there is no mention made of any Conquests of Joshua upon the Sea-coast: The Canaanites, properly so called, are said to dwell by the Sea, Numb. 13. 29. and these are here spoken of, though some of them dwelt in other parts of the Land. i A strong place, it matters not whether it was a City, or an impregnable Cave, which some Writers mention to be in those parts. k Not that of Judea, of which Jos. 15. 53. but another in the Tribe of Aser, of which Jos. 12. 18. Judg. 1. 31. l The Amorites were a strong and very numerous people, and we find them dispersed in several parts, some within Jordan and some without it; some in the South and others in the North, of whom he speaks here.

* 1 Kin. 5. 18. Psal. 83. 7. 5 And the land of the * Giblites m, and all Lebanon toward the Sun-rising, from Baal-gad under mount Hermon, unto the entring into Hamath.

m A people dwelling near Sidon in Gebal, of which see 1 King 5. 18. Ezek. 27. 9.

* chap. 11. 8. 6 All the inhabitants of the hill-country from Lebanon * unto Misrephoth-maim, and all the Sidonians, them will I drive out from before the children of Israel n: only divide thou it by lot unto the Israelites for an inheritance o, as I have commanded thee.

n Presently after thy Death, if the Israelites do not hinder it by their unbelief or wickedness. o Though they be now unconquered, yet divide them, partly as a pledge to assure them of my help in conquering them after thy Death; partly to lay an obligation upon the Israelites to proceed in conquering-work, and to bear Witness against them in case they did not; and partly as a Wall of partition between them and the Canaanites, to prevent all Agreements, Contracts and Confederacies with them, to which God saw they began to encline.

7 Now therefore divide this land for an inheritance unto the nine tribes, and the half tribe of Manasseh.

8 With whom p the Reubenites, and the Gadites
* Num. 32. 33. Deut. 3. 12, 13. chap. 22. 4. have received their inheritance, * which Moses gave them beyond Jordan eastward, even as Moses the servant of the LORD gave them q.

p Heb. With him, i. e. with the half Tribe of Manasseh, not that half which is expressed, ver. 7. as is evident from the thing; but the other half, which is sufficiently and necessarily understood, the relative being here put for the antecedent, understood as it is, Numb. 7. 89. Psal. 114. 2. Isa. 8, 21. Jonah 1. 3. q Which Moses gave them by my command, and therefore do not thou disturb them in their Possessions, but proceed to divide the other Possessions to the rest.

9 From Aroer that is upon the bank of the river Arnon, and the city that is in the midst of the river r, and all the plain of Medeba unto Dibon s.

r Of which see the notes on Deut. 3. 16. and on Jos. 12. 2. s Either this is the same City now mentioned, even Aroer, which is said to have been a double City, as the very name seems to import, whereof one part was on the bank of the River, and the other part in the middle of it, whence we read of the cities of Aroer, Isa. 17. 2. or it is another city, possibly Ar, as it is elsewhere named. s Two Cities anciently belonging to the Moabites, and taken from them by the Amorites, Numb. 21. 30. and from them by the Israelites; and after the Israelites were gone into Captivity recovered by the first Possessors, the Moabites; as may seem from Isa. 15. 2.

10 And all the cities of Sihon king of the Amorites, which reigned in Heshbon, unto the border of the children of Ammon:

11 And Gilead, and the border of the Geshurites, and Maacathites t, and all mount Hermon, and all Bashan, unto Salcah:

t Whose Land God had given to the Israelites without Jordan though they had not yet used the Gift of God, nor taken Possession of it, as is noted, ver. 13.

12 All the kingdoms of Og in Bashan, which reigned in Ashtaroth, * and in Edrei, who remained of * the remnant of the giants; for these u did Moses smite, and cast them out. * Deut. 3. 11. chap. 12. 4.

u Not all now mentioned, as appears from ver. 13. but Sihon and Og, and their people, and the generality of them, which he had now named, some of them being excepted.

13 Nevertheless, the children of Israel expelled not the Geshurites, nor the Maachathites: but the Geshurites and the Maacathites dwell among the Israelites unto this day x.

x This seems added by way of anticipation and reflection upon the present Israelites; implying, that although Moses did and might permit them to remain, both because the Land which he had conquer'd was more than enough for the Israelitish Possessors; and because being intent upon their passage over Jordan, into the Land of Canaan, he would not delay them, by searching their Enemies out of all their corners; yet they were in fault, in not going on and perfecting the work which was begun by Moses, and carried on so far by Joshua.

14 Onely unto the tribe of Levi y he gave none inheritance z: the sacrifices of the LORD God of Israel made by fire a, are their inheritance, * as he said unto them. * Ver. 33.

y i. e. Moses, as is expressed ver. 33: z To wit, in the Land beyond Jordan, where yet a considerable part of the Levites were to have their settled abode. This is mentioned as the reason both why Moses gave all that Land to the Reubenites, and Gaditts, and Manassites; and why Joshua should divide the Land onely into Nine parts and an half, as was said, ver. 7. because Levi was otherwise provided for. a Which by a Synecdoche are here put for all those Sacrifices and Oblations, including First Fruits and Tithes, which were assigned to the Levites; And this passage is so oft repeated and urged, to prevent those calumnies and injuries which God foresaw the Levites were likely to meet with from the Malice, Envy and Covetousness of their Brethren; and to oblige all the other Tribes to a chearful and conscionable giving to the Levites their Dues, to which they had as good a Right and Title, as they had to their several Possessions.

15 And Moses gave unto the tribe of the children of Reuben inheritance according to their families b.

b Dividing the Inheritance into as many parts as they had Families; But this is only spoken of the greater Families, for the lesser Divisions or Distributions to the several small Families, was done by inferior Officers, according to the Rules which Moses gave them.

16 And their coast was from Aroer that is on the bank of the river Arnon, and the city that is in the midst of the river c, and all the plain by Medeba:

c Of which see Deut. 3. 16. and Jos. 12. 2.

17 Heshbon d, and all her cities that are in the plain: Dibon, and * Bamoth-baal e, and Beth-baal-meon f. * Or, the high places of Baal, and house of Baal-meon.

d This City, and Dibon and Ataroth, were upon the borders of Reuben and Gad, and therefore sometimes are ascribed to Reuben, as here and Numb. 32. 37. sometimes to Gad, as Numb. 32. 34. 1 Chron. 6. 81. by whom Heshbon is said to be given to the Levites, Jos. 21. 39. Possibly it and the rest were jointly inhabited by both Tribes, as Jerusalem was by Jews and Benjamites. e Of which Numb. 21. 28. f Called Beth-meon, Jer. 48. 23. and Baal-meon, Ezek. 25. 9. part of the Name being cut off, as is usual with the Hebrews.

18 And Jahazah, and Kedemoth, and Mephaath, 19 And Kirjathaim, and Sibmah, and Zareth-shahar, in the mount of the valley g.

e In the mountain bordering upon that Valley, which then was famous among the Israelites; whether that where Moses was buried, which was near to the place here following, Bethpeor, Deut. 34. 1, 6. or some other. And this clause is thought to belong to all the Cities now mentioned.

20 And Beth-peor, and * † Ashdoth-Pisgah, and Beth-jeshimoth :

* Deut. 3. 17. † Or, springs of Pisgah, or the hill.

21 And all the cities of the plain h, and all the kingdom of Sihon i king of the Amorite, which reigned in Heshbon, whom Moses smote * with the princes of Midian k, Evi, and Rekem, and Zior, and Hur, and Reba, which were dukes of Sihon l, dwelling in the countrey m.

* Num. 31. 8.

h Opposed to the foregoing Cities; of the mountain of the Valley. i A Synecdochical expression, for a great part of it; in which sense we read of all Judea, and all the Region round about Jordan, Mat. 3. 5. and all Galilee, Mat. 4. 23. and many others. Or, which all were the Kingdoms of Sihon, i. e. belonged to his Kingdom. The Hebrew conjunction and is oft put for the relative particle which, as Judg. 2. 21. Prov. 19. 1. Eccles. 6. 12. k Not in the same time or Battel, as appears by comparing Numb. 21. 23, 24. with Numb. 31. 8. but in the same manner. And they are here mentioned, partly because they were slain not long after, and upon the same occasion, even their enmity against Israel; and partly because of their relation and subjection to Sihon, as it here follows. l Qu. How could they be so, when they were Kings of Midian? Numb. 31. 8. Ans. There were divers petty Kings in those parts, which were subject to greater Kings, and such these were; but are here called Dukes or Princes of Sihon, because they were Subject and Tributaries to him; and therefore did one way or other assist Sihon in this War, though they were not killed at this time. It is probable, that when Sihon destroyed those Moabites which dwelt in these parts, he frighted the rest of them, and with them their Neighbours and Confederates, the Midianites, into some kind of Homage or Tribute, which they were willing to day to him. m Heb. inhabiting that Land, namely Midian, last mentioned; whereby he signifies, that though they were subject to Sihon, yet they did not dwell in his Land, but in another.

22 * Balaam also the son of Beor the † soothsayer n, did the children of Israel slay with the sword, among them that were slain by them.

* Num. 22. 25. † Or, diviner.

n So he was in truth, though a Prophet, (2 Pet. 2. 16.) in Title and Profession. See Numb. 24. 25.

23 And the border of the children of Reuben was Jordan, and the border thereof o: this was the inheritance of the children of Reuben after their families, the cities and villages thereof.

o i. e. Those Cities or Places which bordered upon Jordan. Compare Numb. 34. 6.

24 And Moses gave inheritance unto the tribe of Gad, even unto the children of Gad, according to their families:

25 And their coast was Jazer, and all the cities of Gilead p, and half the land of the children of Ammon q, unto Aroer r, that is before Rabbah s.

p i. e. All the Cities of note and eminency, all Cities properly so called, which it seems lay in that part of Gilead; and so this may well agree with ver. 31. where half the country of Gilead is said to be given to the Manassites; but there is no mention of any Cities there. q Not of that which now was theirs, for that they were forbidden to meddle with, Deut. 2. 9. but of that which was anciently theirs, but taken from them by the Amorites, Numb. 21. 26. from whom the Israelites took it, Judg. 11. 15. r The border between them and Moab. s The chief city of the Ammonites, 2 Sam. 11. 1. and 12. 26, 27.

26 And from Heshbon t unto Ramath-mizpeh u, and Betonim: and from Mahanaim x, unto the border of Debir.

t Either exclusively or inclusively. See before on ver. 17. u Called Ramoth-Gilead, or Ramoth in Gilead, Jos. 20. 8. and elsewhere. x Exclusively; for Mahanaim was in the portion of Manasseh, beyond Jabbok, which was the border of Gad and Manasseh.

27 And in the valley, Beth-aram, and Beth-nimrah, and Succoth, and Zaphon, the rest of the kingdom of Sihon y king of Heshbon, Jordan and his border, even unto the edge of the sea of Cinnereth, on the other side Jordan eastward.

y The Northern part of his Kingdom.

28 This is the inheritance of the children of Gad, after their families, the cities and their villages.

29 And Moses gave inheritance unto the half tribe of Manasseh z: and this was the possession of the half tribe of the children of Manasseh by their families.

z Not that they desired it, as Reuben and Gad did, Numb. 32. 1. but partly as a recompence to Machir the Manassite, for his valiant acts against Og; and partly for the better security and defence of the other two Tribes, by so considerable an accession to them, which also was without any inconvenience to them, because the Country was too large for the two Tribes of Reuben and Gad.

30 And their coast was from Mahanaim, all Bashan, all the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, and all the towns of Jair a, which are in Bashan, threescore cities.

a Who, though of the Tribe of Judah, by the Father 1 Chron. 2. 21, 22. yet is called the Son of Manasseh, Numb. 32. 41. because he Married a Daughter of Manasseh, and wholly, associated himself with those valiant Manassites; and with their help took sixty Cities or great Towns, Deut. 3. 4, 14. which thence were called the Towns of Jair.

31 And half Gilead, and Ashtaroth, and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan, were pertaining unto the children of Machir the son of Manasseh, even to the one half of the * children of Machir b, by their families.

* Num. 32. 25.

b Whom before he called the Children of Manasseh, he now calls the Children of Machir, because Machir was the most eminent, and as it may seem, the onely surviving Son of Manasseh, Numb. 26. 29. 1 Chron. 7. 14, 15, 16. For the other half of Machirs, or Manasseh's Children, see Josh. 17. 1. &c.

32 These are the countreys which Moses did distribute for inheritance in the plains of Moab, on the other side Jordan by Jericho eastward.

33 * But unto the tribe of Levi Moses gave not any inheritance: the LORD God of Israel was their inheritance, * as he said unto them.

* chap. 18. 7. * Num. 18. 20.

CHAP. XIV.

AND these a are the countreys which the children of Israel inherited in the land of Canaan, * which Eleazer the Priest b, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes c of the children of Israel distributed for inheritance to them.

* Num. 34. 17.

a Mentioned Chap. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19. b See on Josh. 8. 33. and 9. 15, 18. and 19. 51. He best understood the Laws of God by which this division was to be regulated; and he was to consult God upon any difficult occurrence. c Twelve persons, each the head of his Tribe, which were appointed and named by God, Numb. 34. 19. and if any of them were now dead, no doubt Joshua and Eleazar, by Gods direction, put others in their stead.

2 * By lot was their inheritance d, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses, for the nine tribes, and for the half tribe.

* Num. 26. 55. & 33. 54.

d This course God ordained, partly to prevent discontents, Enmities, Animosities and Quarrels among the Tribes about the quality of their several Portions: and partly to demonstrate the Truth and Wisdom of his Providence, by which alone those parts fell to each of them, which Jacob long since, and Moses lately, foretold; so that as a learned man saith, He must be more stupid than stupidity, and more impudent than impudence it self, that doth not acknowledge and confess a divine Hand and Providence in this matter. The Lot did only determine the several Parts or Provinces to the several Tribes, but did not precisely fix all the bounds of it, but these might be either enlarged or diminished according to the greater or smaller number of the Tribes, Numb. 26. 53, 56. and 33. 54. and that by the direction of those persons mentioned ver. 1. and Josh. 17. 14.—18.

3 For Moses had given the inheritance of two tribes, and a half tribe, on the other side Jordan:

but

but unto the Levites he gave none inheritance among them.

4 For the children of Joseph were two tribes e, Manasseh and Ephraim: therefore they gave no part unto the Levites in the land, save cities to dwell in with their suburbs, for their cattel, and for their substance.

e i. e. Had the double Portion, or the Portion of two Tribes, 1 Chron. 5. 1, 2. and therefore though Levi was excluded, there remained nine Tribes and a half, as was said ver. 2. to be provided for in Canaan.

* Numb. 35. 2. chap. 21. 2. 5 * As the LORD commanded Moses, so the children of Israel did, and they divided the land f.

f They, i. e. the persons named ver. 5. who represented and acted in the name of the Children of Israel, divided it, either now, or presently after; which is here spoken by Anticipation, 6 ¶ Then g the children of Judah came h unto Joshua in Gilgal i: and Caleb the son of Jephunneh k the Kenezite l, said unto him, Thou knowest the thing that the LORD said unto Moses m the man of God n concerning me and thee in Kadesh barnea.

g Either, 1. at that time when Joshua and the rest were consulting about the division of the Land, though they did not yet actually and fully divide it. Or, 2. when Joshua, and himself, and the Israelites, were proceeding in their Conquests and were going against Hebron, Josh. 10. 36. which Expedition there mentioned in a general manner, may be particularly described in this Chapter, and Josh. 15. 13, 14. But the former seems more probable, because this was done when Joshua was in Gilgal, and not when he was pursuing his Enemies. h Not so much to intercede for Caleb, which was not needful for Joshua, especially in a thing already promised by God, but only to justifie and countenance him in his desire. i Where the division of the land was designed and begun, though it was executed and finished at Shiloh, Josh. 18. 1, &c. k So he is called here and 1 Chron. 4. 15. to difference him from Caleb the Son of Hezron, 1 Chron. 2. 18. l Of the Posterity of Kenaz, of whom see Judg. 1. 13. 1 Chron. 4. 13, 15. m In general, the gracious and comfortable promise he made us of possessing this land; and in particular, for my part, that which is expressed here, ver. 9. n Whose words therefore thou art obliged to make good.

7 Forty years old was I o, when Moses the servant of the LORD sent me from Kadesh-barnea, to espy out the land, and I brought him word again, as it was in mine heart p.

o See on Josh. 11. 18. p I spake my opinion sincerely without flattery and fear, when the other Spies were biassed by their own fears, and the dread of the people, to speak otherwise than in their Consciences they believed, as appears from Numb. 13. 30, 31, 32. and 14. 36.

* Numb. 13. 31. 32. * Num. 14. 24. 8 Nevertheless * my brethren that went up with me, made the heart of the people melt: but I wholly * followed the LORD my God q.

q Which self-commendation is justifiable, because it was necessary, as being the ground and foundation of his Petition.

9 And Moses sware on that day, saying, Surely the land whereon thy feet have trodden shall be thine inheritance r, and thy childrens for ever, because thou hast wholly followed the LORD my God.

r See Numb. 14. 24. Deut. 1. 36.

* Num. 14. 30. † Heb. walked. 10 And now behold, the LORD hath kept me alive, as * he said, these forty and five years s, even since the LORD spake this word unto Moses, while the children of Israel † wandred in the wilderness: and now, lo, I am this day fourscore and five years old.

s Whereof thirty eight years were spent in the Wilderness and seven since they came into Canaan.

* Eccl. 46. 9. 11 * As yet I am as strong this day, as I was in the day that Moses sent me: as my strength was then, even so is my strength now, for war t, both to go out, and to come in u.

t Not only for Counsel, but for Action, for marching and fighting. And therefore this gift will not be cast away upon an unprofitable and unserviceable person. u To perform all the Duties belonging to my place.

12 Now therefore give me this mountain x, whereof the LORD spake in that day, (for thou heardest y in that day, how the * Anakims were there, and that the cities were great and fenced) if so be the LORD will be with me z, then I shall be able to drive them out a, as the LORD said.

x i. e. This mountainous Countrey, in which was Hebron, Josh. 11. 21. and 20. 7. and Debir, and Anab. He names the Countrey rather than the Cities, either, 1. because the Giants here following were already driven out of their cities, but yet abode in their caves or Holds in the mountains, whence they much molested the Israelites. Or, 2. because the cities were given to the Levites, Josh. 21. 11, 13. y i. e. Didst understand both by the Reports of others, and by thy own observation, as I also did. Hearing, the sense by which we get knowledge, is oft put for knowing or understanding, as Gen. 11. 7. and 42. 23. 2 King. 18. 26. z A modest and humble, and pious Expression, signifying both the absolute necessity of Gods help, and his godly fear, lest God for his sins should deny his Assistance to him, as he might justly do; for although he was well assured in general, that God would crown his people with success in this War, yet he might doubt of his particular success in this or that Enterprize. a Out of their Fastnesses where they yet remain. Caleb desires this difficult work as a Testimony of his own Faith, and as a Motive to quicken and encourage his Brethren to the like attempts.

13 And Joshua blessed him b, and gave unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh, Hebron for an inheritance.

b Either, 1. prayed to God to bless and help him according to his own desire. Or, 2. acknowledged his praise-worthy carriage in the matter of the Spies, and the reasonableness of his request. Or, 3. consented to his desire, and as it follows, gave it to him; as Gods Blessing is oft put for his actual conferring of favours upon men.

* chap. 21. 12. 14 * Hebron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the son of Jephunneh, the Kenezite unto this day: because that he wholly followed the LORD God of Israel.

CHAP. XV.

* Num. 34. 3. * Num. 33. 36. THis then was the lot a of the tribe of the children of Judah b by their families, * even to the border of Edom c; the * wilderness of Zin southward, was the uttermost part of the south-coast:

a For the general understanding of this business, it must be known, 1. That this work of casting Lots was transacted with great seriousness and solemnity in Gods presence, with Prayer and Appeal to him for the decision of the matter. 2. That although an exact survey of this Land was not taken till Josh. 18. 18. 4, 5, yet there was, and must needs be a general Description of it, and a division thereof into nine parts and a half; which, as far as they could guess, were equal either in Quantity or in Quality. 3. That the Lot did not at this time so peremptorily and unchangeably determine each Tribe, that their Portion could neither be increased nor diminished; as is manifest, because after Judahs Lot was fixed, Simeons Lot was taken out of it, Josh. 19. 9. though after the Land was more distinctly known and surveyed, Josh. 18. it is likely the Bounds were more certain and fixed. 4. That the Lot determined only in general what part or quarter of the Land belonged to each Tribe, but left the particulars to be determined by Joshua and Eleazar, &c. For the manner of this Lottery, it is probably conceived, that there were two Urns or Pots, into one of which were put the names of all the Tribes, each in a distinct Paper, and into the other the names of each Portion described; then Eleazar, or some other person, drew out first the name of one of the Tribes out of one Pot, and then the name of one Portion out of the other Pot, and that Portion was appropriated to that Tribe; and so the rest. And with respect to these Pots in the bottom of which the Papers lay, these Lots are oft said said to come up, or come forth. b Whose Lot came out first by Gods disposition, as a note of his Preeminency above his Brethren. c Which lay Southeast from Judahs Portion.

‖ Or, the going up to Acrabbim,

3 And it went out to the south-side e to ‖ Maaleh-acrabbim, and passed along to Zin, and ascended up on the south-side unto Kadesh-barnea: and passed along to Hezron, and went up to Adar, and fetched a compass to Karkaa.

e Concerning this description of the Southern-coast of Judah, See Numb. 34. 3, 4, 5.

4 From thence it passed toward Azmon, and went out unto the river of Egypt, and the goings out of that coast were at the sea: this shall be your south-coast.

g Or, on the North, or Northward to Beth-arabah. Which place is attributed to Judah here, ver. 61. and to Benjamin, Josh. 18. 22. because it was a Frontier Town in the borders of Judah and Benjamin, and therefore promiscuously belonging to both: which also was the case of some other places; and this Cohabitation was convenient to maintain brotherly love and union between the several Tribes, especially in the borders where differences oft arise. h A place so called, not from Bohan's dwelling there (for the Reubenites had no portion on this side Jordan) but from some notable exploit which he did there, though it be not recorded in Scripture.

7 And the border went up toward Debir i from the valley of Achor, and so northward, looking toward Gilgal k, that is before the going up to Adummim, which is on the south side of the river l: and the border passed towards the waters of En-shemesh, and the goings out thereof were * at En-rogel.

* 1 King. 1. 9.

i A differing place from that Debir, ver. 15. which was near Hebron, and remote from Judahs border; as also from that Debir, Josh. 13. 26. which was beyond Jordan. k Either that Gilgal nigh Jordan, Josh. 4. 19. or another place of that name. l Or brook, or valley.

8 And the border went up m by the valley of the son of Hinnom n, unto the south-side of the * Jebusite o, the same is Jerusalem p: and the border went up to the top of the mountain, that lieth before the valley of Hinnom, westward, which is at the end of the valley of the giants, northward.

m Properly, for the Line went from Jordan and the Salt-Sea, to the higher grounds nigh Jerusalem; and therefore the Line is said to go down, Josh. 18. 16. because there it takes a contrary course, and goes downwards to Jordan and the Sea. n A very pleasant place, but afterward made infamous, 2 King. 23. 10. o i. e. Of the City of the Jebusites, which was anciently called Jebus. Josh. 18. last. Judg. 19. 10. p It may seem hence, and from Deut. 33. 12. Josh. 18. last. Judg. 1. 21. that Jerusalem properly, or at least principally, belonged to Benjamin; and yet it is ascribed to Judah also here, ver. 63. and elsewhere, either because a part of the City was allotted to Judah; or because the Benjamites needed or desired the help and conjunction of this powerful Tribe of Judah for the getting and keeping of this most important place. And when the Benjamites had in vain attempted to drive out the Jebusites, this work was at last done by the Tribe of Judah, who therefore had an interest in it by the right of war; as Ziglag which belonged to the Tribe of Simeon, being gotten from the Philistines by David, was adjoined by him to his Tribe of Judah, 1 Sam. 27. 6.

9 And the border was drawn from the top of the hill, unto the fountain of the water of Nephtoah, and went out to the cities of mount Ephron q, and the border was drawn to Baalah, which is Kirjath-jearim.

q i. e. Belonging to, or bordering upon Mount Ephron. r Called Kiriath-baal, ver. 60. and Josh. 18. 14.

10 And the border compassed from Baalah westward unto mount Seir s, and passed along unto the side of mount Jearim (which is Chesalon) on the north side, and went down to Beth-shemesh r, and passed on to Timnah.

s Not that of Edom, but another so called from some resemblance it had with that in quality. t There were divers cities of this name, this in Judah here, and Josh. 21. 16. 2 King. 14. 11. another in Issachar, and a third in Naphtali, Josh. 19. 22, 38.

11 And the border went out unto the side of Ekron northward, and the border was drawn to Shicron, and passed along to mount Baalah, and went out unto Jabneel: and the goings out of the border were at the sea.

12 And the west border was to the great sea, and the coast thereof: this is the coast of the children of Judah round about, according to their families.

13 ¶ And unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh he u gave a part among the children of Judah, according to the commandment of the LORD to Joshua, even * ‖ the city of Arba x the father of Anak, which city is Hebron.

* chap. 14. 15.
‖ Or, Kirjath-arba.

u i. e. Joshua, as appears by comparing this with Josh. 14. 6. 12, 13. x Or, Kiriath-arba. Not the City which was the Levites, but the Territory of it; Josh. 21. 13.

14 And Caleb drove thence y * the three sons of Anak, Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai z the children of Anak.

* Judg. 1. 10.

y i. e. From the said Territory, from their Caves and Forts in it; compare Josh. 14. 12. This and the following work was done either in Joshua's life-time, as may seem from Josh. 11. 21. or after his death, as is related Judg. 1. 10. These Giants having either recovered their cities, or defended themselves in the mountains. z Either the same who are mentioned Num. 13. 33. and so they were long-liv'd men, such as many were in those times and places: or their Sons, called by their Fathers names, which is very usual.

15 And he went up thence to the inhabitants of Debir a, and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher b.

a The same mentioned above, ver. 7. b This clause seems to be added to distinguish this from the other Debir subdued by Joshua, Josh. 10. 38, 39.

16 ¶ And Caleb said, He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife c.

c Which is to be understood with some conditions, as if he were one who could marry her by Gods Law; for every Promise contrary to that, is void; and if she were willing; for though Parents had a great Power over their Children, they could not force them to marry any person against their own wills. He might otherwise be an unfit and unworthy person; but this was no ordinary motion propounded to the imitation of others, but a divine impulse, that Othniel's valour might be more manifest, and so the way prepared for his future Government of the People, Judg. 3. 9.

17 And * Othniel the son of Kenaz, the brother of Caleb d took it: and he gave him Achsah his daughter to wife.

* Judg. 1. 13. and 3. 9.

d Obj. This Marriage was unlawful. Ans. No, for it was not Othniel, but Kenaz who was Caleb's Brother; and besides, the word Brother is commonly used for any Kinsman; And that Caleb was not properly Othniels Brother, sufficiently appears, because Caleb is constantly called the Son of Jephunneh; and Othniel, the Son of Kenaz here, and 1 Chron. 4. 13.

e Or, e Or, as she went, to wit, from her Fathers house to her Husbands, as the manner was; See on Matth. 1. 18. f She perswaded her Husband either, 1. That he would ask: or rather, 2. That he would suffer her to ask, as she did. g That she might address her self to her Father in an humble posture, and as a suppliant, which he understood by her gesture.

19 Who answered, Give me a blessing h: for thou hast given me a south land i, give me also springs of water k. And he gave her the upper springs, and the nether springs l.

h i. e. A gift, as that word signifies, Gen. 33. 11. i i. e. A dry Land, which was much exposed to the South-wind, which in those parts was very hot and drying, as coming from the Desarts of Arabia. k i. e. A Field, as she desired, v. 18. wherein are Springs of water, which in that Countrey were of great Price; for it is not probable, that he would give her the springs, and give to another the grounds in which the springs were; who could thereby at their pleasure deprive her of the use and benefit of her springs, so she begs a well moistned Field, which also might give some relief to that which was dry and barren. l i. e. Springs both in the higher and in the lower grounds; or two Fields, one in high, another in low grounds; or rather, one above, and the other below that South and dry ground which she complained of, that by this means it might be watered on both sides.

20 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Judah, according to their families.

21 And the uttermost cities m of the tribe of the children of Judah toward the coast of Edom, southward, were Kabzeel n, and Eder, and Jagur;

m Those which were on the borders of the Land, not the mid-land Cities. It is apparent, that all the Cities belonging to this Tribe, are not mentioned in this catalogue. n Called Jekabzeel, Neh. 11. 25.

22 And Kinah, and Dimonah, and Adadah, 23 And Kedesh, and Hazor, and Ithnan.
24 Ziph, and Telem, and Bealoth.
25 And Hazor, Haddattah o, and Kerioth, and Hezron, which is Hazor p, o Possibly it should be read as one word, Hazor-haddattah, as there is Hazar-gaddah, v. 27. and Hazar-shual, v. 28. such compounded proper names being usual; and this may seem the more probable, because if Hazor and Haddattah were two different Cities, the conjunction and would have been put between them, as it is generally in the rest. p Or, which also is called Hazor; but to distinguish it from the other Hazor, v. 23. this was called also Hezron.

26 Aman, and Shema q, and Moladah, q Called also Sheba, Jos. 19. 2.

27 And Hazar-gaddah, and Heshmon, and Beth-palet, 28 And Hazar-shual, and Beer-sheba, and Bizjothjah, 29 Baalah, and Iim, and Azem,
30 And Eltolad, and Chesil, and Hormah, 31 And Ziglag, and Madmannah, and Sansannah.
32 And Lebaoth, and Shilhim, and Ain, and Rimmon: all the cities are twenty and nine r, with their villages.

r Obj. Here are 37, or 38 cities named before; how then are they only reckoned 29? Ans. There were only 29 of them, which either, 1. Properly belonged to Judah, the rest fell to Simeons Lot: or 2. Were cities properly so called, i. e. walled cities, or such as had Villages under them, as it here follows, the rest being great, but unwalled Towns, or such as had no Villages under them.

33 And in the vale, Eshtaol, and Zoreah, and Ashnah, 34 And Zanoah, and Engannim, Tappuah, and Enam.
35 Jarmuth, and Adullam, Socoh, and Azekah, 36 And Sharaim, and Adithaim, and Gederah, ‖ and Gederothaim; fourteen cities s with their villages.

‖ Or, or.

s Obj. There are 15 numbred. Ans. Either one of them was no City strictly called; or, Gederah, and Gederothaim is put for Gederah, or Gederothaim, so called; possibly because the City was double, as there want not instances of one City divided into two parts, called the old and the new City. So the conjunction, and, is put for the disjunctive, or, whereof examples have been given before.

37 Zenan, and Hedashah, and Migdal-gad, 38 And Dilean, and Mizpeh, and Joktheel.
39 Lachish, and Bozkath, and Eglon,
40 And Cabbon, and Lahmas, and Kithlish,
41 And Gederoth, Beth-dagon, and Naamah, and Makkedah: sixteen cities with their villages.
42 Libnah t, and Ether, and Ashan.

t Heb. Libnah. See Jos. 10. 29.

43 And Jiphta, and Ashnah, and Nezib, 44 And Keilah, and Achzib, and Mareshah: nine cities with their villages.
45 Ekron u with her † towns x, and her villages y.

† Heb. Daughters. Numb. 21. 25.

u Here and in the following Verses are contained all the Cities of the Philistines, among which are Gath and Askelon, which peradventure are here omitted, because they were not at this time places of such Power and Eminency, as afterwards they were, but were the Daughters of some of these following Cities, though afterwards the Daughter might overtop the Mother, as is usual. x Heb. Her Daughters, i. e. lesser Cities, or great Towns, subject to Ekrons Jurisdiction. y i. e. Lesser Towns or Hamlets.

46 From Ekron even unto the sea, all that lay † near Ashdod with their villages.

† Heb. by the place of.

47 Ashdod with her † towns and her villages; Gaza with her † towns and her villages, unto the river of Egypt, and the great sea, and the border thereof z.

† Heb. Daughters.

z i. e. The Sea-coast and all other Cities, Towns and Villages upon it.

48 ¶ And in the mountains a, Shamir, and Jattir, and Socoh, a i. e. In the higher grounds called Mountains or Hills, in comparison of the Sea-coast.

49 And Dannah, and Kirjath-sannah, which is Debir b.

b Which also is called Kiriath-sepher, above v. 15. So this City had three Names.

50 And Anab, and Eshtemoh, and Anim, 51 And Goshen c, and Holon, and Gilch: eleven cities with their villages.

c See Jos. 10. 41.

52 Arab, and Dumah, and Eshean,
53 And ‖ Janum, and Beth-tappuah, and Aphekah,

‖ Or, Janim

54 And Humtah, and * Kirjath-arba, (which is Hebron) and Zior: nine cities with their villages.

* chap. 14. 15.

55 Maon d, Carmel e, and Ziph f, and Juttah, d Of which see 1 Sam. 23. 25. and 25. 2. e Nabals country, 1 Sam. 25. f Which gave its name to the Neighbouring Mountain, 1 Sam. 26. 1.

56 And Jezreel, and Jokdeam, and Zanoah, 57 Cain, Gibeah, and Timnah: ten cities with their villages.
58 Halhul, Bethzur, and Gedor,
59 And Maarath, and Beth-anoth, and Eltekon: six cities with their villages.
60 Kirjath-baal (which is Kirjath-jearim) and Rabbah: two cities with their villages.
61 ¶ In the wilderness g, Beth-arabah, Middin, and Secacah, g So the Hebrews call places either uninhabited by men, or having but few Inhabitants.

62 And Nibshan, and the city of salt h, and Engedi: six cities with their villages.

h So called either from the Salt Sea, which was near it, or from the salt which was made in it, or about it.

63 As for the Jebusites the inhabitants of Jerusalem i, the children of Judah could not drive them out k: but the Jebusites dwell with the children of Judah at Jerusalem l unto this day m.

i For though Jeruſalem was in part taken by Joſhua before this; yet the upper and ſtronger part of it, called Zion, was ſtill kept by the Jebuſites, even until Davids time; and it ſeems from thence they deſcended to the lower Town called Jeruſalem, and took it; ſo that the Iſraelites were forced to win it a ſecond time; yea, and a third time alſo: for afterwards it was poſſeſſed by the Jebuſites, Judg. 19. 11. 2 Sam. 5. 6. 7. k Namely, becauſe of their unbelief, as Chriſt could do no mighty work----becauſe of the peoples unbelief, Mark 6. 5, 6. Matth. 13. 58. and becauſe of their Sloth, and cowardiſe, and wickedneſs, whereby they forfeited Gods help, and then they muſt needs be impotent; but this inability was wilful, and brought upon them by themſelves. l The ſame things which are here ſaid of the children of Judah, are ſaid of the Benjamites, Judg. 1. 21. Hence ariſeth a queſtion, To which of the Tribes Jeruſalem belonged? whether to Benjamin, as is gathered from Gen. 49. 27. Deut. 33. 12. Jer. 6. 1. or to Judah, as is implied here, and Pſal. 78. 68, 69. Some think, that being in the Borders of both, it was common to both, and promiſcuouſly inhabited by both; and it is certain, that after the captivity it was poſſeſſed by both, Neh. 11. 4. But for the preſent, though it did belong to Benjamin, yet the children of Judah being poſſibly very active in the firſt taking of it by Joſhua, as they certainly were after his Death, Judg. 1. 8. they might thereby get ſome right to ſhare with the Benjamites in the poſſeſſion of it. It ſeems moſt probable, that part of it, and indeed the greateſt part, and main body of it, ſtood in the Tribe of Benjamin; and hence this is mentioned in the Liſt of their cities, and not in Judahs Liſt; and part of it ſtood in Judahs ſhare, even Mount Moriah, on which the Temple was built; and Mount Sion, when it was taken from the Jebuſites. m When this Book was written, whether in Joſhuas Life and Old Age, which continued many years after the taking of Jeruſalem; or after his Death, when this clauſe was added here and elſewhere in this Book by ſome other man of God, which muſt needs be done before Davids time, when the Jebuſites were quite expelled, and their Fort taken.

CHAP. XVI.

AND the lot of the children of Joſeph a fell from Jordan by Jericho, unto the † water of Jericho b on the eaſt, to the wilderneſs c that goeth up from Jericho throughout mount Beth-el;

a i. e. Of Ephraim, and the half Tribe of Manaſſeh, which are here put together in one; not becauſe they had but one Lot, for Ephraim had one here, v. 5. and Manaſſeh another, Joſh. 17. 1. but becauſe in theſe firſt Verſes he ſpeaks of them in common, and of the South border, which ſeems to be the ſame, either wholly or in a great part: and then he comes to the particular deſcription of their ſeveral portions. It is here farther remarkable, that God ſo diſpoſed of theſe Lots, that they came forth in decent and due order; Judahs firſt, to whom the Sovereignty was promiſed; and then Joſephs, who ſucceeded Reuben in the other Priviledge of the Birth-right, the double portion, 1 Chron. 5. 1, 2. b Of which ſee 2 King. 2. 19, 20, 21, 22. c The Wilderneſs of Beth-aven, as appears by comparing Joſ. 18. 12. which ſpeaks of the very ſame border which was on the South of Ephraim, and on the North of Benjamin.

* Judg. 1. 26.

2 And goeth out from Beth-el to * Luz d, and paſſeth along unto the borders of Archi, to Ataroth.

d Or, from Bethel-luzah, as the LXX. here join the words; for Bethel was anciently called Luz, Gen. 28. 19. and 48. 3. Though ſome think this was another Luz, ſpoken of Judg. 1. 26. Others make Bethel and Luz two neighbouring Towns, which afterwards being more built and inhabited, became one, as oft hath happened.

3 And goeth down weſtward to the coaſt of Japhleti, unto the coaſt of Beth-horon the nether e, and to Gezer: and the goings out thereof are at the ſea.

e Of the two Beth borons, ſee Joſ. 10. 10, 11.

4 So the children of Joſeph, Manaſſeh f, and Ephraim, took their inheritance g.

f i. e. Half Manaſſeh, by a Synecdoche. g i. e. Their ſeveral Portions which here follow. Some think that they had but one Lot between them, and therefore they are now ſaid to take their inheritance, to wit, by dividing it between them, according to the direction of Joſhua and Eleazar, &c. For that Phraſe being uſed of them, and not, to my remembrance, of any other Tribes, may ſeem to have ſome peculiar ſignification, which doth not agree to the other Tribes. But there being mention of a peculiar Lot taken out for Manaſſeh, Joſh. 17. 1. ſhews that their ſeveral inheritances fell to them, as the reſt did to the other Tribes, even by ſeveral Lots: and it is ſaid of them, that they took their inheritance, which alſo Judah had done before them, becauſe the Tribes of Judah and Joſeph did take their Inheritances before the reſt; and it was fit they ſhould do ſo, for the ſecurity of the main Camp, and the body of the people which were at Gilgal. See Joſ. 18. 5.

5 ¶ And the border of the children of Ephraim, according to their families, was thus: even the border of their inheritance on the eaſt ſide h, was from Ataroth-addar unto Beth-horon the upper.

g i. e. The North-eaſt ſide. It is no wonder, if ſome of theſe Deſcriptions are dark and doubtful to us at this diſtance of time and place; there having been ſo many alterations made in places, and ſo many circumſtances, being now altogether undiſcoverable. But this is evident to every man of common ſenſe, that this, and all the deſcriptions here mentioned, were then certain and evident to the Iſraelites, becauſe theſe were the foundation of their preſent practice, and of all the Poſſeſſions which then they took, and peaceably poſſeſſed in ſucceeding Ages.

6 And the border went out toward the ſea i, to Mickmethah on the north-ſide, and the border went about eaſtward unto Taanath-ſhiloh, and paſſed by it on the eaſt to Janohah:

i The Mid-land ſea, towards the Weſt.

7 And it went down from Janohah to Ataroth, and to Naarath, and came to Jericho k, and went out at Jordan.

k Not to the City of Jericho, which belonged to Benjamins Lot, Joſ. 18. 21. but to its Territory.

8 The border went up from Tappuah weſtward unto the river Kanah; and the goings out thereof were at the ſea. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim by their families.

* chap. 17. 9

9 And the * ſeparate cities l for the children of Ephraim were among the inheritance of the children of Manaſſeh, all the cities with their villages.

l i. e. Beſides thoſe Cities which were within Ephraims bounds, he had ſome other Cities, to which alſo their Territories were annexed, out of Manaſſehs Portion, becauſe his Tribe was all here, and was larger than Manaſſehs.

* Judg. 1. 29

10 And they * drove not out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer m: but the Canaanites dwell among the Ephraimites unto this day, and ſerveth under tribute n.

m Nor were they driven out till Solomons time, 1 King. 9. 16. n As Joſ. 17. 13. 1 King. 9. 16.

CHAP. XVII.

THere was alſo a lot for the tribe of Manaſſeh; (for he was the * firſt born of Joſeph a) to wit, for * Machir b, the firſt-born c of Manaſſeh, the father of Gilead d: becauſe he was a man of war e, therefore he had Gilead and Baſhan f.

* Gen. 41. 51. and 46. 20. * Gen. 50. 23. Numb. 32. 39, 40.

a The ſenſe is, though Ephraim was to be more potent and numerous, yet Manaſſeh was the Firſt-born, and had the priviledge of the Firſt-born, which was tranſlated to Joſeph, to wit, a double portion; and therefore though this were but half the Tribe of Manaſſeh, yet they are not made Inmates to Ephraim, but have a diſtinct Lot of their own, as their Brethren, or other half Tribe had beyond Jordan. b The only Son of Manaſſeh, who therefore is here, and Judg. 5. 14. put for the whole Tribe. c So even only Sons are ſometimes called, as Mat. 1. 25. See Exod. 4. 22. d Or, and the Father, or who was alſo the Father of Gilead; not of the Land of Gilead, but of the man Gilead, who was Machirs Son, Numb. 26, 29. e He, i. e. Machir, had given great proof of his Valour in his Generation, (though the particular Hiſtory be not mentioned) and his Poſterity were no degenerate Sons, but had his valiant Blood ſtill running in their Veins. f i. e. Part of thoſe Countries; for part of them alſo was given to the Reubenites, and part to the Gadites, as appears from Joſ. 13. 30, 31. This may be added as a reaſon, either 1. Why he got thoſe places from the Amorites: or 2. Why they were allotted to him or his Poſterity, becauſe this was a Frontier Country, and the Out-works to the Land of Canaan, and therefore required ſuch valiant perſons to defend it.

2 There

2 There was also a lot g for * the rest of the children of Manasseh h by their families: for the children of Abiezer, and for the children of Helek, and for the children of Asriel, and for the children of Shechem, and for the children of Hepher, and for the children of Shemida: these were the male-children i of Manasseh the Son of Joseph by their families.

* Numb. 26. 29.

g Or, a Portion, or distinct Inheritance. h To wit, those of them which had not received their possessions beyond Jordan, Numb. 26. 30, &c. i This expression is used to bring in what follows, concerning his Female Children.

3 But * Zelophehad the son of Hepher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, had no sons but daughters k: and these are the names of his daughters, Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

* Numb. 26. 33. and 27. 1. and 36. 2.

k Of whom see on Numb. 26. 33. and 27. 1.

4 And they came near before Eleazar the priest, and before Joshua the son of Nun, and before the princes, saying, The LORD commanded Moses to give us an inheritance among our brethren: therefore according to the commandment of the LORD he l gave them an inheritance among the brethren of their father.

l i. e. Eleazar, or Joshua, with the consent of the Princes appointed for that work.

5 And there fell ten portions m to Manasseh, beside the land of Gilead, and Bashan, which were on the other side Jordan:

m Either 1. Six portions for the six Sons, whereof one was Hepher; and because he had no Sons, his part was sub-divided into five equal parts, for each of the Daughters: Or, 2. Ten Portions, five for the Sons, and five for the Daughters; for as for Hepher, both he and his Son Zelophehad was dead, and that without Sons, and therefore he had no Portion; but his Daughters had several Portions allotted to them.

6 Because the daughters of Manasseh had an inheritance among his sons n: and the rest of Manassehs sons had the land of Gilead.

n i. e. No less than the Sons, so their Sex was no bar to their Inheritance.

7 ¶ And the coast of Manasseh was from Asher to Michmethah, that lieth before Shechem, and the border went along on the right hand, unto the inhabitants of En-tappuah.

8 Now Manasseh had the land of Tappuah: but the city of Tappuah on the border of Manasseh belonged to the children of Ephraim.

9 And the coast descended unto the ‖ river Kanah southward of the river: * these cities of Ephraim o are among the cities of Manasseh p, the coast of Manasseh also was on the north-side of the river, and the out-goings of it were at the sea.

‖ Or, Brook of Reeds.

* chap. 16. 9.

o Tappuah, and the cities upon the Coast descending to the River, &c. last mentioned. p i. e. Are intermixed with their cities, which was not strange nor unfit, these two being linked together by a nearer Alliance than the rest.

10 Southward it was Ephraims, and northward it was Manassehs, and the sea is his border q, and they met together in Asher r on the north s, and in Issachar on the east.

q Either 1. Manasseh's, whose portion is here described, and whose Name was last mentioned. Or 2. Ephraim's and Manassehs both expressed in the foregoing words, and implyed in the following, they. r i. e. Upon the Tribe of Asher; for though Zabulon came between Asher and them for the greatest part of their Land, yet it seems there were some Necks or Parcels of Land, both of Ephraims and of Manassehs, which jutted out farther than the rest, and touched the borders of Asher. And it is certain there were many such incursions of the Land of one Tribe upon some parcels of another, although they were otherwise considerably distant one from the other. See Jos. 19. 34. And you must not judge of these things by the present Maps, which are drawn according to the Opinions of late Authors, which many times are false; and they are to be judged by the Scripture, and not the Scripture by them: But, that part of Manasseh did reach to Asher, appears from hence, that Dor, a City of Manasseh, v. 11. was, as Josephus witnesseth, near Carmel, which belonged to Asher, Jos. 19. 26.

11 And Manasseh had in Issachar, and in Asher t, Beth-shean and her towns, and Ibleam and her towns, and the inhabitants of Dor u and her towns, and the inhabitants of Endor and her towns, and the inhabitants of Taanach and her towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo and her towns, even three countreys x.

t Either 1. Bordering upon them, as in Asher is taken v. 10. and as Aarons rod is said to be in the Ark, i. e. close by it, Heb. 9. 4. or 2. Properly in them, as Ephraim had some Cities in the Tribe of Manasseh. Jos. 16. 9. and as it was not unusual, when the place allotted to any Tribe was too narrow for it, and the next too large, to give away part from the larger to the less portion; nay sometimes one whole Tribe was taken into another; as Simeon was into Judahs Portion, when it was found too large for Judah, Jos. 19. 9. u Not the places only, but the people; whom, contrary to Gods command, they spared and used for servants, whom therefore they are said to have or possess. x This may be referred either to some, to wit, the three last places, or to all the places named in this verse, which are here said, either to have three Countreys or Tracts of Land belonging to them, or to be in three several Countryes or Portions, as they seem to have been, some in Issachar, and some in Asher, and yet both belonging to Manasseh. Or, the words may be rendred, the third part of that Country; for the Hebrew word is of the Singular Number, and the Article seems emphatical; and so the meaning may be, That the Cities and Towns here mentioned are a third part of that country, i. e. of that part of Issachars and Ashers Portion, in which those places lay.

12 Yet * the children of Manasseh could not y drive out the inhabitants of those cities, but the Canaanites would dwell z in that land.

* Judg. 1. 27.

q See on Jos. 15. 63. z Were resolved to Fight, rather than be turned out of their ancient habitations.

13 Yet it came to pass when the children of Israel were waxen strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute: but did not utterly drive them out a.

a Which they were obliged to, now they were strong and numerous enough to possess those places.

14 And the children of Joseph b spake unto Joshua c, saying, Why hast thou given me but one lot, and one portion d to inherit, seeing I am a great e people, forasmuch as the LORD hath blessed me hitherto?

b i. e. Of Ephraim and Manasseh, as is manifest, partly from v. 17. where it is so explained; and partly, because they mention it as an unreasonable thing; that they being two, should have but one Lot. c i. e. Expostulated with him, when they went and saw that portion which was allotted to them, and found it much short of their expectation. d Either 1. Because they really had but one Lot, which afterwards was divided by the Arbitrators between them. Or 2. Because the Land severally allotted to them, was no more than was little enough for one of them. e Or, numerous, for so the Hebrew word oft signifies.

15 And Joshua answered them, If thou be a great people f, then get thee up to the wood-country g, and cut down h for thy self there in the land of the Perizzites i, and of the ‖ giants k; if mount Ephraim be too narrow for thee l.

‖ Or, Rephaims.

f He retorts their own Argument: Seeing thou art a great and numerous People, turn thy Complaints into Actions and valiant Exploits, and enlarge thy Borders by thy own hand, to which thou maist confidently expect Gods assistance. g To the Mountain, as it is called v. 17. where among some Towns there is much Wood-land, which thou maist without much difficulty possess, and so get the more room. h Either the wood, v. 18. for thy own advantage and use; partly in building more cities and towns; and partly in preparing the Land for the use of Pasture and Tillage. i Supposed to be a savage and brutish kind of people, that lived in Woods and Mountains. k Who lived in caves and mountains, now especially when they were driven out of their cities. l Or, seeing Mount Ephraim is too narrow for thee, as thou complainest; take to thy self the rest of that Hilly and Wood countrey. Mount Ephraim was a particular and eminent Portion of the Land, belonging to the Tribe of Ephraim, as appears from Josh. 19. 50. and 20. 7. and 21. 21. Judg. 4. 5. And this seems to be here mentioned Synecdochically, for all the Portion allotted to Ephraim and Manasseh, as appears from their complaint, which was not, that this part, but that their whole Portion was too strait for them.

16 And the children of Joseph said, The hill is not enough for us m: and all the Canaanites that
* Judg. 4. 3. dwell in the land of the valley n, have * chariots of iron o, both they who are of Beth-shean, and her towns, and they who are of the valley of Jezreel p.

m If we should invade and conquer it, and cut down both Wood and Men, yet it would not be sufficient for us. Heb. The Hill will not be found, i. e. obtained by us; those fierce and strong people the Perizzites and the Giants will easily defend themselves, and frustrate our attempts, having the advantage of the Woods and Mountains. n i. e. And if thou sayest, as we know thou wilt reply, That if the Hill either cannot be conquered, or be not sufficient for us, we may go down and take the more Land out of the pleasant and fruitful Valleys, we shall meet with no less difficulty there than in the Mountains. Or thus, in going to the Hills to which thou directest us, we must pass through Valleys, where we shall be way-laid by powerful and armed Enemies. o Not all made of Iron, but armed with Iron, not only for Defence, but for Offence also, having as it were Sithes and Swords fastned to them, to cut down all that stood in their way. p Which was either in the Tribe of Issachar, or upon the Borders of it, Jos. 19. 18.

17 And Joshua spake unto the house of Joseph, even to Ephraim, and to Manasseh, saying, Thou art a great people, and hast great power: thou shalt not have one lot onely q.

q Thou needest and deservest more than that Lot, of which thou art actually possessed, and thou hast Power to get more; which if thou endeavourest to do, God will bless thee, and give thee more.

18 But the mountain shall be thine: for it is a wood, and thou shalt cut it down: and the outgoings of it r shall be thine: for thou shalt drive out the Canaanites, though they have iron charets, and though they be strong.

r Either 1. The Productions or Fruits of that Land, when it is cleared from the Wood, and purged: or rather 2. The Valleys and Fields belonging or adjoining to it, for there the Canaanites were, ver. 16.

CHAP. XVIII.

AND the whole Congregation of the children of Israel assembled together at Shiloh, and set up the tabernacle of the congregation there a; and b the land was subdued before them.

a By Gods appointment, as is manifest from Deut. 12. 5, &c. Jer. 7. 12. Hither it was removed from Gilgal, partly for the honour and conveniency of Joshua, that he being of the Tribe of Ephraim, and seating himself there, might have the opportunity of consulting with God as oft as he desired and needed; and partly for the conveniency of all the Tribes, that being in the heart and center of them, they might more easily resort to it from all places. Here the Tabernacle continued for above 300 Years, even till Samuel's days, 1 Sam. 1. 3. b Or, for, because these words contain a reason of the former action: the Particle and is oft used for for, as hath been shewed.

2 And there remained among the children of Israel seven tribes, which had not yet received their inheritance.

3 And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, How long are ye slack to go to possess the land c which the LORD God of your fathers hath given you?

c This slackness is supposed to arise, partly from their dissatisfaction in the portions already allotted, Judahs being too large, as it appeared; and Josephs too narrow, as they complained; partly from an opinion of the impossibility of making any regular and equal distribution of the Parts, till the Whole were better known, and more exactly Surveyed, which accordingly is here done; and partly, because being weary of War, and having sufficient plenty of all things in their present condition, they grew slothful and secure, and were unwilling to run into new Hazards and Wars, as they perceived by Joshua's answer to the Tribe of Joseph, Jos. 17. 15, &c. they were likely to do when they entred upon their several Possessions.

4 Give out from among you three men d of each tribe e: and I will send them, and they shall rise, and go thorow the land f, and describe it according to the inheritance of them, and they shall come again to me.

d Three, not One, for more exact observation both of the measure and quality of the several Portions, and for greater assurance and evidence of their care and faithfulness in giving in their Account. e Either One of each of these Tribes, who were yet unprovided for; or rather Two of all the Tribes, even of them who had already received their Portions; which was highly expedient, that in case it should appear that there was not a sufficiency for each of these Tribes who wanted their Portions, their Brethren might be more ready either to assist them in procuring more Land, or to part with some of their own Portion to them. f Which they might now safely do, because the Terror of the late War was yet upon the Canaanites, who were loath to rouse so near and potent an Enemy.

5 And they shall divide it into seven parts f: Judah shall abide in their coast on the south g, and the house of Joseph shall abide in their coast on the north h.

f Which were of equal extent or worth: for no Tribe was so great, but one of these parts in its full extent would abundantly suffice them; and there was no reason why the Portions should be greater or less according as the Tribes at present were more or fewer in number, because of the various changes which happened therein successively; it being usual for one Tribe to be more numerous than another in one Age, which was fewer in the next. And if the several Tribes had increased more, and not diminished their Numbers by their Sins, they might have sent forth Colonies, and taken any part of the Land, even as far as Euphrates, all which the Lord of the whole Earth had given them a Right to, which when they pleased they might take Possession of. g They shall not be disturbed in their Possession, but shall keep it, except some part of it shall be adjudged to another Tribe. h In respect of Judah, not of the whole Land; for divers other Tribes were more Northern than they.

6 Ye shall therefore describe the land into seven parts, and bring the description hither to me: that I may cast lots for you here before the LORD i our God.

i i. e. Before the Ark or Tabernacle, that God may be Witness, and Judge, and Author of the Division, that each may be contented with his Lot, and that your several Possessions may be secured to you as things Sacred, and not to be alienated.

7 But the Levites have no part among you k, for the priesthood of the LORD is their inheritance: and Gad and Reuben, and half the tribe of Manasseh have received their inheritance beyond Jordan on the east, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave them.

8 ¶ And the men rose, and went away: and Joshua charged them that went to describe the land, saying, Go and walk through the land, and describe it, and come again to me, that I may here cast lots for you before the LORD in Shiloh.

k Therefore it shall be divided only into Seven parts, as I have said.

9 And the men went and passed through the land, and described it by cities l, into seven parts in a book, and came again to Joshua to the host at Shiloh.

l Or, according to the Cities, to which the several Parts or Territories belonged.

10 ¶ And Joshua cast lots for them in Shiloh, before the LORD: and there Joshua divided the land unto the children of Israel, according to their divisions.

11 ¶ And the lot of the tribe of the children of Benjamin came up according to their families: and the coast of their lot came forth between the children of Judah, and the children of Joseph m.

m Wherein we see the wisdom of Divine Providence, this being the onely place in which that Prophecy, Deut. 33. 12. could have been accomplished.

12 And

12 And their border on the north-side was from Jordan, and the border went up to the side of Jericho, on the North-side, and went up through the mountains westward, and the goings out thereof were at the wilderness of Beth-aven n.

n A place distinct from, but near unto Bethel, as may be gathered from Jos. 16.1.

13 And the border went over from thence toward Luz, to the side of Luz, (* which is Beth-el) * Gen. 28. 19. southward, and the border descended to Ataroth-adar, near the hill that lieth on the south-side of the nether Beth-horon.

14 And the border was drawn thence, and compassed the corner of the sea-southward: from the hill that lieth before Beth-horon southward: and the goings out thereof were at Kirjath-baal (which is Kirjath-jearim o) a city of the children of Judah: this was the west quarter.

o The Israelites changed the name, to blot out the remembrance of Baal. Compare Jos. 15. 9. Numb. 32. 38.

15 And the south quarter p, was from the end of Kirjath-jearim, and the border went out on the west, and went out to the well of waters of Nephtoah.

p The same with the North-quarter of Judah. See Jos. 15. 5, 6, 11.

16 And the border came down to the end of the mountain q, that lieth before the valley of the son of Hinnom r, and which is in the valley of the giants on the north s, and descended to the valley * chap. 15. 8. of Hinnom * to the side of Jebusi t on the south, * chap. 15. 7. and descended to * En-rogel, q i. e. The place where the Mountain ends, and the Valley begins. r i. e. In the prospect of that Valley; or, that reacheth to that Valley on the South. s Which extends to this other Valley on the North-side of it. t To that part where the Jebusites lived, which was in and near Jerusalem.

17 And was drawn from the north, and went forth to En-shemesh, and went forth toward Geliloth u, which is over against the going up of * chap. 15. 6. Adummim, and descended to * the stone of Bohan the son of Reuben, u Called also Gilgal, as appears from Jos. 15. 7. Judg. 3. 19. but differing from that Gilgal by Jordan.

18 And passed along toward the side over against ‖ Arabah x northward, and went down unto ‖ Or, the plain. Arabah.

x Called Beth-arabah, Jos. 15. 6.

19 And the border passed along to the side of Beth-hoglah northward: and the out-goings of † Heb. tongue. the border were at the north † bay of the salt sea y, at the south end of Jordan z: this was the south coast.

20 And Jordan was the border of it on the east side: This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, by the coasts thereof round about, according to their families.

y Where an Arm of that Sea runs into the Land, which is opposed to the South-bay that was in the South-border of the Tribe of Judah, Jos. 15. 2. z Where it enters into the salt Sea, which is here opposed to the North-end of it, or the Spring-head, which was in the North.

21 Now the cities of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, according to their families, were Jericho a, and Beth-hoglah, and the valley of Keziz b, a For though the City was destroyed, the Territory remained, and some Houses probably were built and inhabited there, though it was not made a City with Walls and Gates, which was the only thing forbidden, Jos. 6. 26. b Or, Emek-keziz, the proper name of a City or great Town.

† Gr. Bethabara. Joh. 1. 28. 22 And † Beth-arabah, and Zemaraim c, and Beth-el,

23 And Avim, and Parah, and Ophrah,

24 And Chephar-haammonai, and Ophni, and Gaba: twelve cities with their villages.

25 Gibeon, and Ramah, and Beeroth, c Which either gave name to, or took name from that mountain, 2 Chron. 13. 4.

26 And Mizpeh d, and Chephirah, and Mozah.

27 And Rekem, and Irpeel, and Taralah, d Near Ramah, in the same Mountain where Silo was. There were divers other Cities of that name.

28 And Zelah, Eleph, and Jebusi (which is Jerusalem e) Gibeath, and Kir-jath: fourteen cities f with their villages. This is the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, according to their families.

e So it seems this City did properly and primarily belong to Benjamin, although the Tribe of Judah had also an Interest in it, either because some part of it was allotted to them, or because the Benjamites gave them a share in it, for the Assistance which either they had received, or did expect from that Potent Tribe, for the getting or defending of that very Important Place. See more on Jos. 15. 63. f It is more than probable that all the Cities belonging to this Tribe are here named, because Azzathoth and Almon are omitted, but here expressed Jos. 21. 18.

CHAP. XIX.

AND the second lot came forth to Simeon, even for the Tribe of the Children of Simeon, according to their families: and their inheritance was within the inheritance of the children of Judah a.

a This was so ordered by Gods Providence, partly to fulfil that threatning that he would divide and scatter this Tribe in Israel, Gen. 49. 7. which was hereby done in part, because they had no distinct part of their own, but were as Inmates to Judah; partly, because now upon the more exact survey of the Land, it appeared to Joshua and Eleazar, and all the Princes and People, even to the Tribe of Judah themselves, that the part given to Judah did far exceed the proportion which either they needed and could occupy, or which the other Tribes could expect; and partly, because this was the least of the Tribes; as is evident from Numb. 26. 14. and therefore fittest to be put within another Tribe.

2 And they had in their inheritance Beer-sheba, and b Sheba, and Moladah.

b Or, or, 1. i. e. otherwise called: for that Beersheba and Sheba were one and the same City, is manifest both from v. 6. where all the Cities are reckoned to be but Thirteen: and from 1 Chron. 4. 28. where Simeons Cities are enumerated, and Sheba omitted as superfluous.

3 And Hazar-shual, and Balah c, and Azem, c Called also Bilhah, 1 Chron. 4. 29. and Baalah, Jos. 15. 29. For let this be observed once for all, that the names of persons or places are frequently changed through length of time, or difference of Dialects, or study of brevity and easiness in pronunciation, or new accidents, or other causes. Thus Eltolad and Bethul v. 4. are called Tolad and Bethuel, 1 Chron. 4. 29, 30. and for Beth-lebaoth, v. 6. is Beth-biri, 1 Chron. 4. 31.

4 And Eltolad, and Bethul, and Hormah,

5 And Ziklag, and Beth-marcaboth, and Hazar-susah.

6 And Beth-lebaoth, and Sharuhen: thirteen cities d, and their villages.

d Or, Towns, as some of them are called, 1 Chron. 4. 32. Nor are all Simeons Cities here numbred, for Elam is added, 1 Chron. 4. 32. unless that were built afterward.

7 Ain, Remmon, and Ether, and Ashar: four cities and their villages.

8 And all the villages that were round about these cities, to Baalath-beer, Ramath of the south: This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Simeon, according to their families.

9 Out of the portion the children of Judah was the inheritance of the children of Simeon: for the part of the children of Judah was too much for them: therefore the children of Simeon had their inheritance within the inheritance of them.

10 ¶ And

10 ¶ And the third lot came up for the children of Zebulun e, according to their families, and the border of their inheritance was unto Sarid.

e Who is here put before Iſſachar his elder Brother, as he is alſo Gen. 49. 13, 14. Deut. 33. 18.

11 And their border went up toward the Sea f, and Maralah, and reached to Dabbaſheth, and reached to the river that is before Jokneam g.

f i. e. The Midland Sea, as on the other ſide it reached to the Sea of Galilee, and ſo thoſe Prophecies concerning him, Gen. 49. 3. Deut. 33. 18. were abundantly fulfilled. g Supposed to be Kiſhon, Judg. 4. 7. or Belus, or Pagis.

12 And turned from Sarid eaſtward, toward the ſun-riſing, unto the border of Chiſloth-tabor, and then goeth out to Daberath h, and goeth up to Japhia.

h A City in Iſſachar, as appears from Joſ. 21. 28.

13 And from thence paſſeth on along on the eaſt to Gittah-hephir, to Ittah-kazin, and goeth out to Remmon ‖ Methoar to Neah.

‖ Or, which is drawn.

14 And the border compaſſeth it on the north-ſide to Hannathon: and the out-goings thereof are in the valley of Jiphthah-el.

15 And Kattath, and Nahallal, and Shimron, and Idalah, and Beth-lehem i: twelve cities k with their villages.

i Not that where Chriſt was born, which was in Judah, thence called Bethlehem Judah, Matth. 2. 5. but another. k There are more numbred here, but the reſt either were not Cities properly ſo called, having Villages under their juriſdiction; or were not within this Tribe, but onely bordering upon it, and belonging to other Tribes, which is evident of ſome of them, and may well be preſumed of others.

16 This is the inheritance of the children of Zebulun, according to their families, theſe cities with their villages.

17 ¶ And the fourth lot came out to Iſſachar, for the children of Iſſachar, according to their families.

18 And their border was toward Jezreel l, and Cheſulloth, and Shunem m, l The Royal City, 1 King. 21. 1. This Tribe, becauſe it lay between Benjamin on the South, and Zebulun on the north, is not here deſcribed by its borders, which were the ſame with theirs; but by ſome of its Cities. m The Birth-place of Abiſhag, 1 King. 1. 3.

19 And Hapharaim, and Shion, and Anaharah,

20 And Rabbith, and Kiſhion, and Abez.

21 And Remeth, and En-gannim n, and En-haddah, and Beth-pazzez.

n A different place from that Engannim in the Tribe of Judah, Joſ. 15. 34.

22 And the coaſt reacheth to Tabor, and Shahazimah, and Beth-ſhemeſh, and the out-goings of their border were at Jordan: Sixteen cities with their villages.

23 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Iſſachar, according to their families, the cities and their villages.

24 ¶ And the fifth lot came out for the tribe of the children of Aſher according to their families.

25 And their border o was Helkath, and Hali, and Beten, and Achſhaph.

o On the North-weſt ſide.

26 And Alammelech, and Amad, and Miſheal, and reacheth to Carmel weſtward p, and to Shihor-libnath; p Or, Carmel by the ſea, to diſtinguiſh it from that Carmel in the Tribe of Judah, 1 Sam. 25. 2. This was a place of eminent fruitfulneſs, Iſa. 33. 9. and 35. 2. and 37. 24. agreeable to the Prophecy concerning Aſher, Gen. 49. 20. Deut. 33. 24.

27 And turneth toward the ſun-riſing, to Beth-dagon, and reacheth to Zebulun, and to the valley of Jiphthah-el toward the north ſide of Beth-emek, and Neiel, and goeth out to Cabul q on the left hand r.

q Either 1. That countrey called Cabul, wherein were twenty Cities, of which 1 King. 9. 13. But this is not probable, becauſe that was not within, nor belonging to any particular Tribe; for then Solomon could not have alienated it from them, and given it unto Hiram, whereas this did belong to Aſher; or 2. A certain city ſo called. r i. e. On the North, which, when men look towards the Eaſt, as is uſual, is on their left hand.

28 And Hebron, and Rehob, and Hammon, and Kanah ſ, even unto great Zidon t.

ſ To wit, Kanah the greater, in the upper Galilee; not Kanah the leſs, which was in the lower Galilee. t Called great for its Antiquity, and Riches, and Glory. This city either was not given to the Iſraelites, but is only mentioned as their border; or at leaſt was never poſſeſſed by them; not without a ſingular Providence of God, that they might not by the opportunity of ſo good a Port, be ingaged in much Commerce with other Nations; from which, together with Wealth, that great corrupter of Mankind, they might contract their Errors and Vices.

29 And then the coaſt turneth ſ to Ramah, and to the ſtrong city † Tyre t, and the coaſt turneth to Hoſah; and the outgoings thereof are at the ſea, from the coaſt to * Achzib.

† Heb. Tyr.
* Gen. 38. 5. Judg. 1. 31. Mic. 1. 14.

ſ From the North Southward. t Excluſively, for this city was no part of the Land given them.

30 Umma alſo, and Aphek, and Rehob: twenty and two cities x with their villages.

x Here are more named, but ſome of them were not within this Tribe, but only bordering places.

31 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Aſher, according to their families, theſe cities with their villages.

32 ¶ The ſixth lot came out to the children of Naphtali: even for the children of Naphtali, according to their families.

33 And their coaſt y was from Heleph, from Allon to Zaanannim, and Adami, Nekeb, and Jabneel unto Lakum: and the out-goings z thereof were at Jordan.

y Their Northern Border drawn from Weſt to Eaſt, as appears, becauſe when this Coaſt is deſcribed and brought to its end, the Coaſt is ſaid to turn from the Eaſt Weſtward, ver. 34. z i. e. The end of that coaſt.

34 And then the coaſt turneth weſt-ward a to Aznoth-tabor, and goeth out from thence to Hukkok, and reacheth to Zebulun on the ſouth ſide, and reacheth to Aſher on the weſt-ſide, and to Judah upon Jordan b toward the ſun-riſing.

a This is unqueſtionably the Southern Border deſcribed from Eaſt to Weſt. b Qu. How can this be, when there were divers Tribes between this and Judah, all which reached to Jordan? Anſ. He doth not ſay of Judah, as he doth of Zebulun and Aſher, that it reacheth to it; but, as it ſeems, purpoſely leaves out that word which he had uſed in both the former branches, leſt it ſhould be underſtood of a Local Reaching to it, or being contiguous with it, which was not true; and that he might ſignifie, that he meant this clauſe in another ſenſe; to wit, that it did in ſome ſort go or reach to, or converſe with Judah by Jordan. And ſo this may be here added, to ſhew the accompliſhment of that famous and obſcure Prophecy, That Naphtali, though he ſhould be planted in the utmoſt border of the Land, on the North-eaſt, yet he ſhould poſſeſs the riches of the Weſt and South, Deut. 33. 23. i. e. of thoſe Tribes which were at great diſtance from him Weſtward and Southward; and this he ſhould do in way of commerce with them by their famous River Jordan, which he did not onely touch in a ſmall part, as ſome of the other Tribes did, but lay all along it for a good ſpace together, even from the very Fountain unto the Sea of Geneſareth. Some think that this is verified by that Royalty of this River, which they ſuppoſe God gave to the Tribe of Judah, which extended as far as Napthali.

35 And

35 And the fenced cities are Ziddim, Zer, and Hammath c, Rakkath and Cinnereth d.

39 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, according to their families; the cities and their villages.

40 ¶ And the ſeventh lot came out for the tribe of the children of Dan, according to their families.

41 And the coaſt of their inheritance f was Zorah, and Eſhtaol, and Ir-ſhemeſh, f Which is here deſcribed onely by its Cities, not by its Borders, which are in part the ſame with Judah's, and their Inheritance is in good part taken out of Judah's too large Portion; as appears from divers of the Cities here mentioned, which are alſo reckoned as in Judah's Portion.

42 And Shaalabbin, and Ajalon, and Jethlah, 43 And Elon, and Thimnathah, and Ekron,
44 And Eltekeh, and Gibbethon, and Baalath,

47 And the coaſt of the children of Dan went out too little for them g, therefore the children of Dan went up to fight againſt Leſhem h, and took it, and ſmote it with the edge of the Sword, and poſſeſſed it, and dwelt therein, and called Leſhem, * Dan, after the name of Dan their father.

g Heb. Went out from them, to wit, out of their hands or Poſſeſſion; for ſo this Hebrew Word is uſed concerning thoſe Lands, which in the year of Jubilee are ſaid to go out, Levit. 25. 28, 30, 31, 33. i. e. out of the hands of the preſent Poſſeſſor, to the firſt and ancient Owner. And ſo peradventure this may ſignifie, that many of the Danites were forced by their powerful Neighbours the Philiſtines to relinquiſh their coaſt, and their allotted Habitations: which put them upon the following courſe. h This was done after Joſhua's death, as appears from Judg. 18. and ſeems to be here inſerted, partly that all the chief Places where the Danites (dwelt) though far diſtant, might be mentioned together; and partly, to give an account of this ſtrange accident, why they removed from their appointed Portion to ſo remote a Place; which may be this, That being much moleſted and terrified by their bad Neighbours, they thought fit to go to ſome place remote from them, which alſo they were in a manner conſtrained to do, becauſe otherwiſe they muſt have taken ſome part of the Portions of other Tribes, whereas now going to the very utmoſt Northern Point of the Land, they took that which did not belong to, or at leaſt, was not in the Poſſeſſion of any other Tribe. See more on Judg. 18.

48 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan, according to their families; theſe cities with their villages.

49 ¶ When they had made an end of dividing the land for inheritance by their coaſts, the children of Iſrael gave i an inheritance to Joſhua the ſon of Nun among them.

i i. e. They are ſaid to give it, becauſe the whole Land was given to Joſhua; and Eleazar and the Princes? as joynt Truſtees, acting in the name and for the good of the People: ſo that even Joſhua could take nothing without their gift.

50 According to the word of the LORD k, they gave him the city which he asked, even * Timnath-Serah l in mount Ephraim, and he built m the city, and dwelt therein.

* chap. 24. 30.

k As God promiſed, or commanded, either, Firſt, formerly, as may be gathered from Joſ. 14. 6. Where we read, That the Lord ſaid ſomething unto Moſes concerning me Caleb, and thee Joſhua; though onely what is ſaid to Caleb be there expreſſed, the other not being to his purpoſe there: for Joſhua having ſhewed the ſame courage and faithfulneſs which Caleb did, did doubtleſs receive equal encouragement and comfort from God at that time. 51 * Theſe are the inheritances which Eleazar the prieſt, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Iſrael, divided for an inheritance by lot, in Shiloh before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: ſo they made an end of dividing the country.

THE LORD alſo ſpake unto Joſhua, ſaying,

2 Speak to the children of Iſrael, ſaying, * Appoint out a for you cities of refuge, whereof I ſpake unto you by the hand of Moſes.

* Exod. 21. 13. Num. 35. 6, 11, 14. Deut. 19. 2, 9.

a The Poſſeſſions being now divided among you, do you reſerve ſome of them for the uſe which I have commanded.

b Heb. Through Ignorance, or Error, or Miſtake, and without Knowledge. The ſame thing twice repeated to cut off all the claims and expectations that Wilful Murderers might have of Protection here; and God having declared, That ſuch ſhould be taken even from his Altar, that they might be killed, Exod. 21. 14. and accordingly Joab was by Solomons Order, killed even at the Altar, 1 King. 2. 28, 29, 30, 31, 34. it is the more ſtrange and impudent, that any Chriſtians ſhould make their Sanctuaries give Protection to ſuch perſons whom God hath ſo expreſly excepted from it, which the Papiſts do; and their Doctors are not aſhamed to defend it upon frivolous reaſons. c The Kinſ-man, who had right or power to demand, or take vengeance of the ſlaughter.

4 And when he that doth flee unto one of thoſe cities, ſhall ſtand at the entring of the gate d of that city; and ſhall declare his cauſe e in the ears of the elders of that city; they ſhall take him into the city f unto them, and give him a place g that he may dwell among them.

5 And if the avenger of blood purſue after him, then they ſhall not deliver the ſlayer up into his hand: becauſe he ſmote his neighbour unwittingly, and hated him not before time.

6 And he ſhall dwell in that city, until he ſtand h before the congregation i for judgment, and * until the death of the high prieſt k that ſhall be in thoſe days: then ſhall the ſlayer return and come unto his own city, and unto his own houſe, unto the city from whence he fled.

l Concerning theſe cities note, 1. That they were all upon Mountains, that they might be ſeen at a great diſtance, and ſo direct thoſe who fled thither. 2. That they were ſeated seated at convenient distance one from another, for the benefit of the several Tribes; for Kedesh was in the North, Hebron in the South, and Shechem between them. 3. That they all belonged to the Levites; partly, that these causes might be more impartially examined, and justly determined by them who are presumed best able to understand the Law of God, and most obliged and likely to follow it in their Judgment, and not to be biass'd by any affection or corrupt interest; and partly, that their just reputation with the people, and their good counsels, might lay some restraint upon revengeful persons, who might be inclined or tempted to follow the Man-slayer thither, and endeavour to kill him there.

8 And on the other side Jordan by Jericho eastward, they assigned m * Bezer in the wilderness upon the plain, out of the tribe of Reuben, and Ramoth in Gilead, out of the tribe of Gad, and Golan in Bashan, out of the tribe of Manasseh.

9 These were the cities appointed for all the children of Israel, and for the stranger n that sojourneth among them, that whosoever killeth any person at unawares, might flee thither, and not die by the hand of the avenger of blood, until he stood before the congregation.

n Not onely Proselytes, but others also; because this was a matter of common right, that a distinction might be made between casual Man-slayers, and wilful Murderers.

CHAP. XXI.

THen a came near the heads of the fathers of the Levites b unto Eleazar the priest, and unto Joshua the son of Nun, and unto the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel.

a When the whole Land was distributed unto the several Tribes, but not actually possessed by them; which was the proper season for them to put in their claim. b The Fathers of the Levites were Kohath, Gershom, and Merari, and the heads of these were the chief persons now alive of these several Families.

2 And they spake unto them * at Shiloh in the land of Canaan, saying, * The LORD commanded by the hand of Moses, to give us cities to dwell in, with the suburbs thereof for our cattel.

* chap. 18. 1.
* Num. 35. 2.

3 And the children of Israel gave unto the Levites c out of their inheritance d, at the commandment of the LORD, these cities and their suburbs e.

c It seems most probable, that they gave to the Levites promiscuously such cities as God commanded, and that the Lot appropriated them to their several Houses or Families. d i. e. Out of their several Possessions; partly, that the burden and loss might be equally divided; and principally, that the Levites being dispersed among the several Tribes, according to Jacobs Prediction, Gen. 49. 7. might more easily, and frequently, and effectually Teach the Israelites Gods Law and Judgments, which they were engaged to do, Deut. 33. 10. and that the People might upon all occasions resort to them, and require the meaning of the Law at their mouths, Mal. 2. 7. e Not only the use, but the absolute Dominion of them, as is manifest both from ver. 11, 12. where a distinction is made between the City and Suburbs of Hebron, and the Fields and Villages thereof, and the former are given to the Levites, the latter to Caleb; and from the return of these cities in the Jubilee, unto the Levites as to their proper owners, Levit. 25. 33. 34.

4 And the lot came out for the families of the Kohathites, and the children of Aaron the priest, which were of the Levites, had * by lot out of the tribe of Judah, and out of the tribe of Simeon, and out of the tribe of Benjamin f, thirteen cities g.

* See chap. 24. 33.

f Which three Tribes were nearest to the Temple, where their business lay. g For though the Priests were now few enough for one city, yet respect was to be had to their succeeding numbers; this division being made for all future Generations. And seeing the Levites might sell their Houses until the Jubilee, Levit. 25. 33. much more might they Let them; and therefore it is probable their Cities were not very long uninhabited, many being inclined to dwell with them by vertue of relations contracted with them, or dependance upon, or expectation from them; or out of respect to the Service of God, and the good of their Souls.

5 And the rest of the children of Kohath h had by lot, out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim, and out of the tribe of Dan, and out of the half tribe of Manasseh i, ten cities k.

h Who were not of Aarons Family, or Priests, but Levites onely. i Which Tribes are nearest to the three former, and so the Kohathites are placed next to their Brethren the Aaronites, k Fewer than they gave out of the three former Tribes, because their inheritance was less than the former. See Numb. 35. 8.

6 And the children of Gershon had by lot out of the families of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the half tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteen cities.

7 The children of Merari by their families, had out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, twelve cities.

8 And the children of Israel gave by lot unto the Levites these cities with their suburbs k, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses.

k Of which see on Numb. 35. 2.

9 ¶ And they gave out of the tribe of the children of Judah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon l, these cities which are here † mentioned by name.

† Heb. called

l These are mentioned together, because the cities of Simeon lay within Judah's Portion.

10 Which the children of Aaron being of the families m of the Kohathites, who were of the children of Levi, had; (for theirs was the First lot.)

m i. e. Of the family, the Plural Number for the Singular, which is not unusual.

11 And they gave them ‖ the city of Arbah, the father of Anak, (which city is Hebron) in the hill country of Judah, with the suburbs thereof round about it.

‖ Or, Kiriath arba. Gen. 23. 2.

12 But * the fields n of the city, and the villages thereof gave they to Caleb the son of Jephunneh, for his possession.

* chap. 14. 14.
1 Chron. 6. 56.

n i. e. All beyond the two thousand cubits expressed, Numb. 35. 5. This is here mentioned, not as his peculiar case, but as one eminent Instance, to shew, that it was so in all the rest of the cities here named; that the Fields and Villages thereof still belonged to the several tribes from whom the Cities and their Suburbs were taken; and to make the rest of the Israelites more contentedly and chearfully resign so great a part of their Possessions to the Levites, because even Caleb did so, though his Possession had been long before promised, and now actually given to him by Gods special command, as a mark of honour and compensation, for his long and faithful Service.

13 ¶ Thus they * gave to the children of Aaron the priest, Hebron with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer, and Libnah with her suburbs.

* 1 Chro. 6. 57.

14 ¶ And Jattir with her suburbs, and Eshtemoa with her suburbs,

15 And * Holon o with her suburbs, and Debir with her suburbs,

* 1 Chro. 6. 58. Hilen.

o Called Hilen, 1 Chron. 6. 58. as Juttah here is called, Ashan, 1 Chron. 6. 59. and Kibzaim called Jokmeam, 1 Chron. 6. 68. and so some others, the names of the places being changed by length of time, and upon special occasions, as was frequent among the Jews. Though their Doctors add, that some of these places here mentioned being now in the Canaanites Possession, and not speedily recovered from them, there were others put in their stead.

16 And * Ain with her suburbs, and Juttah with her suburbs, and Beth-shemesh with her suburbs, nine cities out of those two tribes.

p Ain here, and Gibeon, ver. 17. and some others here named

are not named 1 Chron. 6. either becauſe they were deſtroyed in ſome of thoſe Hoſtile Invaſions and Wars wherewith their Land was grievouſly haraſſed and waſted before that time; or they appear there under other Names, as was ſaid.

17 And out of the tribe of Benjamin, Gibeon with her ſuburbs, Geba with her ſuburbs,

* 1 Chro. 6. 60. Alemeth. 18 Anathoth with her ſuburbs, and * Almon with her ſuburbs: four cities.

19 All the cities of the children of Aaron the prieſt, were thirteen cities with their ſuburbs.

20 ¶ And the families of the children of Kohath, the Levites, which remained of the children of Kohath q, even they had the cities of their lot out of the tribe of Ephraim.

q Over and above thoſe of them who were Prieſts.

21 For they gave them Shechem with her ſuburbs, in mount Ephraim, to be a city of refuge for the ſlayer, and Gezer with her ſuburbs, 22 And Kibzaim with her ſuburbs, and Bethhoron with her ſuburbs, four cities.

25 And out of the half tribe of Manaſſeh r, Tanach with her ſuburbs, and Gath-rimmon with her ſuburbs: two cities.

r To wit, that half which dwelt in Canaan, by comparing this with v. 27.

26 All the cities were ten with their ſuburbs, for the families of the children of Kohath that remained.

27 ¶ And unto the children of Gerſhon of the families of the Levites, out of the other half tribe of Manaſſeh, they gave Golan in Baſhan with her ſuburbs, to be a city of refuge for the ſlayer: and Beeſhterah with her ſuburbs: two cities, 28 And out of the tribe of Iſſachar, Kiſhon with her ſuburbs, Dabareh with her ſuburbs.

29 Jarmuth with her ſuburbs, En-gannim with her ſuburbs, four cities.

30 And out of the tribe of Aſher, Miſhal with her ſuburbs, Abdon with her ſuburbs, 31 Helkath with her ſuburbs, and Rehob with her ſuburbs: four cities.

32 And out of the tribe of Naphtali, Kedeſh in Galilee with her ſuburbs, to be a city of refuge for the ſlayer, and Hammath-dor with her ſuburbs, and Kartan with her ſuburbs: three cities.

33 All the cities of the Gerſhonites, according to their families, were thirteen cities with their ſuburbs.

34 ¶ And unto the families of the children of Merari, the reſt of the Levites, out of the tribe of Zebulun, Jokneam with her ſuburbs, and Kartah with her ſuburbs, 35 Dimnah with her ſuburbs, Nahalal with her ſuburbs: four cities.

36 And out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer s with her ſuburbs, and Jahazah with her ſuburbs.

s A City of Refuge, as it is called Joſ. 20. 8. and therefore needleſs to be here repeated.

37 Kedemoth with her ſuburbs, and Mephaath with her ſuburbs: four cities.

38 And out of the tribe of Gad, Ramoth in Gilead with her ſuburbs. to be a city of refuge for the ſlayer, and Mahanaim with her ſuburbs, 39 Heſhbon with her ſuburbs, Jazer with her ſuburbs, four cities in all.

40 So all the cities for the children of Merari by their families, which were remaining of the families of the Levites, were by their lot, twelve cities.

41 All the cities of the Levites, within the poſſeſſion of the children of Iſrael were forty and eight cities t, with their ſuburbs.

t Qu. Why hath this Tribe, which was the leaſt of all, more Cities than any of them? Anſw. Firſt, It doth not appear that they had more: for though all the cities of the Levites be expreſſed, it is not ſo with the other Tribes, but divers of their Cities are omitted, as is evident. Secondly, The Levites were confined to their Cities and Suburbs; the reſt had large Territories belonging to their Cities, which alſo they were in a capacity of improving, which the Levites were not; ſo that one of their Cities might be more conſiderable than divers of the Levites. Thirdly, God was pleaſed to deal liberally with his Miniſters, partly to put honour upon thoſe whom he foreſaw many would be prone to deſpiſe; and partly, that being free from all outward diſtractions, they might more intirely and fervently devote themſelves to the ſervice of God, and the inſtruction of Souls.

42 Theſe cities were every one with their ſuburbs round about them: thus were all theſe cities.

43 ¶ And the LORD gave unto Iſrael all the land u which he ſware to give unto their fathers: and they poſſeſſed it, and dwelt therein.

u He gave them the right to All, and the actual Poſſeſſion of the greateſt part of it, and power to poſſeſs the reſt as ſoon as it was needful and convenient for them, which was by degrees, when their numbers were increaſed, &c. Exod. 23. 29, 30. and the abſolute dominion of all the people remaining in it.

44 And the LORD gave them reſt round about, according to all that he ſware unto their fathers, and there ſtood not a man of all their enemies before them x: the LORD delivered all their enemies into their hand.

x To wit, all the days of Joſhua, by comparing Joſ. 1. 5. for afterwards it was otherwiſe with them.

45 * There failed not ought of any good thing, which the LORD had ſpoken unto the houſe of Iſrael: all came to paſs. * chap. 21. 44, 45.

CHAP. XXII.

THen Joſhua called the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh,

2 And ſaid unto them, Ye have kept * all that Moſes the ſervant of the LORD commanded you, and have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded you. * Num. 32. 20, Deut. 3. 18.

3 Ye have not left your brethren theſe many days a unto this day, but have kept the charge of the commandment of the LORD your God.

a i. e. For divers years together, ſo long as the War laſted. See Joſ. 11. 18. and 14. 10.

4 And now the LORD your God hath given reſt unto your brethren, as he promiſed them: therefore now return ye, and get ye unto your tents b, and unto the land of your poſſeſſion, * which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD gave you on the other ſide Jordan. * Numb. 32. 33. chap. 13. 8.

b i. e. To your ſetled habitations, as appears from v. 8. which are oft called Tents, as Judg. 19. 9. 2 Sam. 18. 17. Hoſ. 9. 6. Mal. 2. 12.

5 But take diligent heed c to do the commandment, and the law d which Moſes the ſervant of the LORD charged you, * to love the Lord your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to cleave unto him, and to ſerve him with all your heart, and with all your ſoul e. * Deut. 10. 12.

c Watch over your ſelves and all your actions. d Two words expreſſing the ſame thing, the Law of Commandments delivered by Moſes. e With the whole ſtrength of your Minds, and Wills, and Affections.

6 So Joſhua bleſſed them, and ſent them away: and they went unto their tents.

7 ¶ Now to the one half of the tribe of Manaſſeh Moſes had given poſſeſſion in Baſhan: but unto the other half thereof gave Joſhua among their brethren on this ſide Jordan weſtward. And when Joſhua ſent them away alſo unto their tents, then he bleſſed them.

8 And he ſpake unto them, ſaying, Return with much riches unto your tents, and with very much cattel, with ſilver, and with gold, and with braſs, and with iron, and with very much raiment: divide the ſpoil of your enemies with your brethren f.

f i. e. With them who ſtay'd beyond Jordan for the defence of their Land, and Wives, and Children, who therefore were to have a ſhare, though not an equal ſhare with theſe. See Numb. 31. 27. But for them, 1 Sam. 30. 24. their ſhare was equal, becauſe their danger was equal.

9 ¶ And the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh returned, and departed from the children of Iſrael out of Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan, to go into the country of Gilead to the land of their poſſeſſion, whereof they were poſſeſſed, according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

10 ¶ And when they came unto the borders of Jordan, that are in the land of Canaan, the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh, built there g an altar by Jordan, a great altar to ſee to.

g Or, then, as this Particle is elſewhere uſed; and ſo Learned Interpreters underſtand it, Pſal. 14. 5. and 36. 12. Eccleſ. 3. 17. Hſ. 2. 15. And in the Latin Tongue Adverbs of Place are ſometimes put for Adverbs of Time: So I take it here. Firſt, Becauſe this beſt anſwers to the when in the beginning of the Verſe. Secondly, This ſeems to me to clear a great difficulty as to the place where this Altar was built, which though according to our Tranſlation it ſeems, and is generally thought by Interpreters to have been in the Land of Canaan; yet if things be more narrowly examined, it may be thought to have been on the other ſide Jordan in Gilead; and that both, Firſt, from v. 11. where it is ſaid to have been built over againſt, or, in the ſight of the land of Canaan, therefore not in it. And Secondly, From the reaſon they give for the building of this Altar, for fear leſt the Iſraelites within Jordan, and in Canaan, ſhould ſay unto their Children dwelling beyond Jordan, The Lord hath made Jordan a border between us and you, &c. Which jealouſie would have been much confirmed by building the Altar in Canaan, but would be ſatisfied and confuted by having on the other ſide of Jordan, and in their own Land, a pattern of that Altar at which God was ſerved in the Land of Canaan, as a witneſs that they owned the ſame God, and the ſame way of Worſhip with their Brethren that lived in Canaan. But whether the Hebrew Particle be rendred then or there, it is not to be taken too ſtrictly; if then, the meaning is not, that they did this as ſoon as ever they came to the borders of Jordan, that are in the land of Canaan; but about that time when they came to them, they thought and deſigned it, and as ſoon as ever they were got over Jordan, which was in a very little time, they effected and perfected it: if it be rendred there, it is not to be limited to the very ſame ſpot of ground mentioned before, as if it was built at that border of Jordan that was in the Land of Canaan; but to be a little more largely underſtood; to be built at one or other of the borders of Jordan; or in general, by Jordan: which is here purpoſely added, for the Explication of the word there, and to prevent the reſtraint of it to the border of Jordan, within Canaan.

11 ¶ And the children of Iſrael heard ſay, Behold the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh, have built an Altar over againſt the land of Canaan, in the borders of Jordan, at the paſſage of the children of Iſrael b.

b Where they paſſed over Jordan, either at their firſt entrance into Canaan, or afterwards, and uſually.

12 And when the children of Iſrael i heard of it, the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael gathered themſelves together at Shiloh, to go up to war againſt them k.

i Not in their own perſons, but by their Elders, who uſed to tranſact all Affairs of this kind in the name and ſtead of all the People, k As Apoſtates from God, according to Gods command in that caſe, Deut. 13. 13, &c.

13 And the children of Iſrael ſent unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half tribe of Manaſſeh into the land of Gilead, * Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar the prieſt.

* Exod. 6. 25. Numb. 25. 7.

14 And with him ten Princes, of each † chief houſe a prince, throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, and each one was an head of the houſe of their fathers among the thouſands of Iſrael.

† Heb. houſe of the father.

15 ¶ And they came unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half tribe of Manaſſeh, unto the land of Gilead, and they ſpake with them, ſaying, 16 Thus ſaith the whole congregation of the Lord l, What treſpaſs is this m, that ye have committed againſt the God of Iſrael, to turn away this day n from following the LORD, in that ye have builded you an altar, that ye might rebel o this day againſt the LORD?

l Who do and are reſolved to cleave unto that God from whom you have revolted, and who ſpeak this to you in the name of the Lord. m How heinous a crime is this! n i. e. ſo ſoon after God hath obliged you by ſuch wonderful favours, and when God is now conducting you home to reap the fruits of all your pains and hazards. o With a deſign to revolt from, and rebel againſt God, and againſt his expreſs command of worſhipping him at one only Altar, Exod. 20. 24. Levit. 17. 8, 9. Deut. 12. 5, 11, 13.

17 Is the iniquity * of Peor p too little for us, from which we are not cleanſed until this day q (although there was a plague in the congregation of the LORD)

p i. e. Of our worſhipping of Baal-Peor, Numb. 25. q For though God had pardoned it, as to the National Puniſhment of it, Numb. 25. 11. Yet they were not yet thorowly purged from it; partly becauſe the ſhame and blot of that filthy and odious practice was not yet wiped off; and partly, becauſe ſome of that corrupt leaven ſtill remained among them, and though ſmothered for a time, yet was ready to break forth upon all occaſions. See Joſ. 24. 23. And God alſo took notice of theſe Idolatrous inclinations in particular perſons, and found out ways to puniſh them one time or other.

18 But that ye muſt turn away this day from following the LORD? and it will be, ſeeing ye rebel to day againſt the LORD, that to morrow r he will be wroth with the whole congregation of Iſrael s.

r i. e. Suddenly, as that word is oft uſed, as Matt. 6. 30. 1 Cor. 15. 32. s With you for doing ſo, and with us for ſuffering, or not puniſhing it.

19 Notwithſtanding, if the land of your poſſeſſion be unclean t, then paſs ye over unto the land of the poſſeſſion of the LORD, wherein the LORD's tabernacle dwelleth, and take poſſeſſion among us u: but rebel not againſt the LORD, nor rebel againſt us w, in building you an altar, beſide the altar of the LORD our God.

t If you apprehend it to be ſo for want of the Tabernacle and Altar there; as the following words imply: If you now repent of your former choice in preferring the worldly commodities of that Country before the advantage of Gods preſence and favour, and more frequent opportunities of his Service. u We will readily reſign part of our poſſeſſions to you for the prevention of this ſin and miſchief, wherein they ſhew great zeal for Gods honour, and great pity and charity to their Brethren. w For all the tribes were united in one Body Politick, and made one Common-wealth, and one Church; and each Tribe was ſubject to the Laws and Commands of the whole Society, and of the Chief Ruler or Rulers thereof; ſo its diſobedience to their juſt commands was properly Rebellion againſt them.

20 * Did not Achan the ſon of Zerah x commit a treſpaſs in the accurſed thing, and wrath fell on all the congregation of Iſrael, and that man periſhed not alone y in his iniquity z?

* chap. 7. 1, 5

x i. e. One of his Poſterity, Joſ. 7. 17, 18. y But brought deſtruction upon his whole Family, and part of our Forces ſent againſt Ai. z Or, for his ſin, of which ſee Joſ. 7. 24.

21 Then the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half tribe of Manaſſeh, anſwered and ſaid unto the heads of the thouſands of Iſrael a.

a Either First properly, each was a Governour of a thousand: for there were among them divers Rulers, some of Tens, some of Hundreds, and some of Thousands; or rather, Secondly, improperly, and indefinitely, i. e. of the People of Israel, which consist of so many Thousands more than you, whose Authority therefore you owe a reverence to. For by comparing v. 14. these seem to be greater Persons than those that were Rulers of thousands.

22 The LORD God of gods b, the Lord God of gods, he knoweth c, and Israel he shall know, if it be d, in rebellion, or if in transgression against the LORD (save us not this day e).

b That Jehovah, whom we no less than you acknowledge and adore as the God of gods, infinitely superiour to all that are called Gods. The multiplying of his Titles, and the repetition of these words, shew their zeal and earnestness in this matter, and their abhorrency of the very thoughts of it. c To him we appeal who knoweth all things, and the truth of what we are now saying. d Not onely our present words, but our future and constant course shall satisfie all Israel of our perseverance in the true Religion. d If this have been done by us with such design, or in such a manner. e Thou, O Lord, to whom we have appealed, and without whom we cannot be saved or preserved, save us not from any of our Enemies, nor from the Sword of our Brethren. It is a sudden Apostrophe to God, usual in such vehement speeches.

23 That we have built us an altar to turn from following the LORD; or if to offer thereon burnt-offering, or meat-offering, or if to offer peace-offerings thereon, let the LORD himself require it f.

f i. e. Call us to an account and punish us for it, as that Phrase is oft used, as Deut. 18. 19. 1 Sam. 20. 16. Job 10. 6. Psal. 10. 13.

24 And if we have not rather done it for fear of this thing, saying, † In time to come your children might speak unto our children, saying, What have ye to do with the LORD g God of Israel?

† Heb. to morrow.

g You have no relation to him, nor interest in him, or his Worship.

25 For the LORD hath made Jordan a border between us and you h, ye children of Reuben, and children of Gad, ye have no part in the LORD i: so shall your children make our children cease from fearing the LORD.

h To shut you out of the Land of Promise, and consequently from the Covenant made between God and our Fathers. i Nothing to do with him, no right to serve him or expect favour from him. See the like Phrase. 2 Sam. 20. 1.

26 Therefore we said, Let us now prepare to build an altar, not for burnt-offering, nor for sacrifice.

27 But that it may be * a witness between us and you, and our generations after us, that we might do the service of the LORD before him k with our burnt-offerings, and with our sacrifices, and with our peace-offerings, that your children may not say to our children in time to come, Ye have no part in the LORD.

* Gen. 31. 48. chap. 24. 27. verse 34.

k That we and ours may have and hold our Priviledge of serving and worshipping God, not upon this Altar, but in the place of Gods presence, in your Tabernacle, and upon your Altar.

28 Therefore said we, That it shall be, when they should so say to us, or to our generations in time to come, that we may say again, Behold the pattern l of the Altar of the LORD, which our fathers made, not for burnt-offerings, nor for sacrifices: but it is a witness between us and you m.

l An exact representation and resemblance. m That we both serve one God, and approve and make use of one and the same Altar.

29 God forbid that we should rebel against the LORD, and turn this day from following the LORD, to build an altar for burnt-offerings, for meat-offerings, or for sacrifices, besides the altar of the LORD our God that is before his tabernacle.

30 And when Phinehas the priest, and the princes of the congregation, and heads of the thousands of Israel which were with him, heard the words that the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the children of Manasseh spake, † it pleased them n.

† Heb. it was good in their eyes.

n They were fully satisfied with this answer.

31 And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest said unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the children of Manasseh, This day we perceive that the LORD is among us o, because ye have not committed this trespass against the LORD: † now ye have delivered the children of Israel out of the hand of the LORD p.

† Heb. then

o By his gracious presence, and preventing goodness, in keeping you from so great an offence, and all of us from those dismal calamities that would have followed upon it. p i. e. From the Wrath and dreadful Judgments of God, by avoiding that Sin which would have involved both you and us in a most Bloody War, you have delivered us from the evils we feared. He that prevents an unexpected or approaching Disease or Mischief, doth as truly deliver a man from it, as he that cures or removes it after it hath been inflicted.

32 ¶ And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, and the princes, returned from the children of Reuben, and from the children of Gad, out of the land of Gilead, unto the land of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and brought them word again.

33 And the thing pleased the children of Israel, and the children of Israel blessed God, and did not intend to go up against them in battel, to destroy the land p wherein the children of Reuben and Gad dwelt.

p As they were by the Law of God obliged to do, if they had been guilty and persisted therein, as afterwards they did the Tribe of Benjamin for the same reason.

34 And the children of Reuben and the children of Gad called the altar ‖ Ed, for it shall be a witness between us, that the LORD is God.

‖ That is, a witness. So chap. 24. 27.

CHAP. XXIII.

AND it came to pass, a long time a after that the LORD had given rest unto Israel from all their enemies round about, that Joshua waxed old, and † stricken in age.

† Heb. came into days.

a About 14 years after it.

2 And Joshua called b for all Israel c, and for d their elders, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers, and said unto them, I am old and stricken in age.

b Either to his own City, or rather to Shiloh, the usual place of such Assemblies, where his words being uttered before the Lord, were likely to have the more effect upon them. c Not all the people in their own persons, who could not either come thither, or hear him there; but in their Representatives, by their Elders, Heads, Judges and Officers, which are here added for the restriction and explication of that general expression. d Or, even for, &c.

3 And ye have seen all that the LORD your God hath done unto all these Nations, because of you e: for the * LORD your God is he that hath fought for you.

* Exod. 14. 14.

e For your sake and good, that you might gain by their losses.

4 Behold, I have divided unto you by lot these nations that remain f, to be an inheritance for your tribes g, from Jordan with all the Nations that I have cut off h, even unto the great sea † westward i.

f Not yet Conquered. g You shall certainly subdue them, and inherit their Land, as you have done the rest, if you be not wanting to your selves. h i. e. With the Land of those Nations; the People put for their Land, as we have seen before; and as sometimes on the contrary, the Land is put for the People. i Where the Philistims, your most formidable Adversaries yet survive; but them also and their Land I have given to you, and you shall undoubtedly destroy them, if you will proceed vigorously in your work.

5 And the LORD your God, he shall expel them from before you, and drive them from out of your sight, and ye shall possess their land, as the LORD your God hath promised unto you.

6 Be ye therefore very couragious k, to keep and to do all that is written in the book of the law of Moses, * that ye turn not aside therefrom, to the right hand or to the left l.

* Deut. 5. 32. and 28. 14.

k For it will require great Courage and Resolution to execute all the Commands of Moses, and particularly, that of expelling and destroying the residue of the Canaanites. l i. e. In one kind or other, by adding to the Law, or diminishing from it, as Moses speaks.

7 That ye come not among these nations m, these that remain amongst you, neither * make mention of the name of their gods n, nor cause to swear by them o, neither serve them, nor bow your selves unto them p.

* Psal. 16. 4. Jer. 5. 7. Zeph. 1. 5.

m i. e. Avoid all familiar converse and contracts, but especially Marriages with them, as it is explained, ver. 12. and as the Hebrew Verb intimates; being oft used of coming or going in to a Woman. n To wit, unnecessarily and familiarly, lest the mention of them breed discourse about them, and so by degrees bring a man to the approbation and worship of them. Compare Exod. 23. 13. Deut. 12. 3. Psal. 16. 4. Eph. 5. 3. o Nor require or compel the Gentiles to swear by them, as they used to do, especially in Leagues and Contracts, which therefore the Israelites are here implicitely forbidden to make with them. p Neither give them any inward reverence, or outward adoration. Here is an observable gradation, whereby he shews what notable Progress Sin usually makes, and what need there is to look to the beginnings of it, forasmuch as a civil and common conversation with their persons was likely to bring them, and indeed did actually bring them, by insensible steps, to the Worship of their gods. So it is no wonder, if some things not simply and in themselves evil, be forbidden by God, as here the naming of their gods is, because they are occasions and introductions to evil.

8 ‖ But * cleave unto the LORD q your God, as ye have done unto this day r.

‖ Or, for if you will cleave, &c. * Deut. 11. 22.

q By firm Alliance, constant Obedience, intire Affection, faithful Service and Worship of him alone. r To wit, since you came into Canaan, since which time the body of the people (for of them he speaks, not of every particular person) had behaved themselves much better than they did in the Wilderness, and had not been guilty of any gross and general Apostacy from God, or Rebellion against him.

9 ‖ For the LORD hath driven out from before you, great nations and strong, but as for you, no man s hath been able to stand before you unto this day.

‖ Or, then the LORD will drive.

s To wit, whom you have invaded; otherwise some of those people did yet remain unconquered.

10 * One man of you shall chase a thousand: for the LORD your God, he it is that fighteth for you t, * as he hath promised you.

* Lev. 26. 8. Deut. 32. 30. * Exod. 14. 14. and 23. 27.

t Impute not this therefore to your own valour, as you will be apt to do, but to Gods gracious and powerful assistance.

11 Take good heed therefore unto your † selves u: that ye love the LORD your God.

u Now it requires more watchfulness and diligence than it did in the Wilderness, because your Temptations are now more and stronger; partly, from the examples and insinuations of your bad Neighbours, the remainders of this wicked people; and partly from your own Peace and Prosperity; and the Pride, Security, Forgetfulness of God, and Luxury, which usually attend upon that condition, as God had warned them, Deut. 6. 10, 11, 12.

12 Else, if ye do in any wise go back x, and cleave unto the remnant of these nations, even these that remain among you, and shall make marriages with them, and go in unto them y, and they to you;

x From God, and from his Worship and Service. y The Phrase notes the Matrimonial act.

13 Know for a certainty, that the LORD your God will no more drive out any of these nations from before you; * but they shall be snares and traps unto you z, and scourges in your sides, and thorns in your eyes a; until ye perish from off this good land b which the LORD your God hath given you.

* Exod. 23. 33. Num. 33. 55. Deut. 7. 16.

z By your indulgence to them, and converse with them, you will be inticed and drawn by degrees into their Errors, and Impieties, and brutish Lusts. a When they have inveagled, and seduced, and thereby weakned you, then they will molest and vex you, no less than a severe Scourge doth a mans Sides which are lashed by it, or than a small Thorn doth the Eye when it is got within it. b They shall so Persecute you, and Fight against you with such Success, that you shall be forced to quit your own Land, and wander you know not whither, which must needs be very Terrible to them to think of, when they compared this present Ease, and Plenty and Safety, with the Pains, and Wearines, and Hazards, and Wants of their former Wanderings.

14 And behold, this day I am going the way all the earth c, and ye know in all your hearts, and in all your souls d, that * not one thing hath failed e of all the good things which the LORD your God spake concerning you, all are come to pass unto you, and not one thing hath failed thereof.

* chap. 21. 45.

c i. e. Of all flesh, or of all men, the way which all men go; I am about to Die, as all men must, Heb 9. 27. The same Phrase is 1 King. 2. 2. d i. e. You know assuredly, your own experience puts it out of all question. e Qu. How is this true, when so great a part of the Promised Land and People yet remained unconquered? Ans. God promised them to destroy all their Enemies, and to give them the whole Land, not at once, but by degrees, by little and little, as is expressed, Deut. 7. 22. and as was most convenient for them.

15 Therefore it shall come to pass, that as all good things are come upon you, which the LORD your God promised you: so shall the LORD bring upon you * all evil things f, until he have destroyed you from off this good land, which the LORD your God hath given you.

* Lev. 26. 16. Deut. 28. 15, 16, &c.

f The accomplishment of Gods Promises is a Pledge or Assurance, that he will also fulfil his Threatnings, both of them depending upon the same ground, the faithfulness of God.

16 When ye have transgressed the covenant of the LORD your God, which he commanded you, and have gone and served other gods, and bowed your selves to them; then shall the anger of the LORD be kindled against you, and ye shall perish quickly from off the good land which he hath given you.

CHAP. XXIV.

AND Joshua gathered all the tribes of Israel a to Shechem b, and called for the elders of Israel, and for the heads, and for the judges, and for their officers, and they presented themselves before God c.

a To wit, by their Representatives, as Jos. 23. 2. b Either 1. To Shiloh, where the Ark and Tabernacle was; because they are here said to present themselves before God; and because the stone set up here is said to be set up in or by the Sanctuary of the Lord; of both which I shall speak in their proper places. And they say Shiloh is here called Shechem, because it was in the Territory of Shechem; but that may be doubted, seeing Shiloh was Ten Miles distant from Shechem, as S. Jerom affirms. And had he meant Shiloh, why should he not express it in its known and proper name, by which it is called in all other places, rather than by another name no where else given to it? Or rather, 2. To the City of Shechem, a place convenient for the present purpose, not only because it was a Levitical City, and a City of Refuge, and a place near to Joshua's City, but especially for the two main ends for which he summoned them thither. 1. For the solemn Burial of the Bones of Joseph, as is implyed here v. 32. and of the rest of the Patriarchs, as is noted Act. 7. 15, 16. for which this place was designed. 2. For the solemn renewing of their covenant with God; which in this place was first made between God and Abraham, Gen. 12. 6, 7. and afterwards was there renewed by the Israelites at their first first entrance into the Land of Canaan, between the two mountains of Ebal and Gerizim, Jos. 8. 30, &c. which were very near Shechem, as appears from Judg. 9. 5, 7. and therefore this place was most proper, both to remind them of their former obligations to God, and to engage them to a farther ratification of them. c Either 1. Before the Ark or Tabernacle, as that Phrase is commonly used; which might be either in Shiloh, where they were fixed; or in Shechem, whither the Ark was brought upon this great occasion, as it was sometimes removed upon such occasions, as 1 Sam. 4. 3. 2 Sam. 15. 24. Or 2. In that Publick, and Venerable, and Sacred Assembly met together for Religious Exercises; for in such God is present, Exod. 20. 24. Psal. 82. 1. Mat. 18. 20. Or 3. As in Gods Presence, to hear what Joshua was to speak to them in Gods Name, and to receive Gods commands from his mouth. Thus Isaac is said to Bless Jacob before the Lord, i. e. in his Name and Presence, Gen. 27. 7. and Jeptha is said to utter all his words before the Lord in Mizpeh, i. e. as in Gods Presence, calling him in to be Witness of them.

2 And Joshua said unto all the people d, Thus
* Gen. 11. 26, 31. and 12. 1. † Heb. Olam, that is, from everlasting. saith the LORD God of Israel, * your fathers dwelt on the other side of the flood e † in old time, even Tera the father of Abraham, and the father of Nachor: and they f served other gods.

d i. e. That people which were present, to wit, to the Elders, &c. by whom it was to be imparted to all the rest, and to as many of the people as came thither. e Or, the River, to wit, Euphrates, as all agree, so called by way of Eminency. f i. e. Both Abraham and Nahor were no less Idolaters than the rest of Mankind. This is said to prevent their vain boasting in their worthy Ancestors, and to assure them that whatsoever good was in, or had been done by their Progenitors, was wholly from Gods free Grace, and not for their own merit or righteousness, as the Jews were very apt to conceit.

3 And I took g your father Abraham from the other side of the flood, and led him throughout all the land of Canaan h, and multiplyed his seed i, and * gave him Isaac k.

* Gen. 21. 2.

g I apprehended him by my grace, and snatched him out of that Idolatrous and Wicked place, and took him into Acquaintance and Covenant with my self, which was the highest Honour and Happiness he was capable of. h i. e. I brought him after his Fathers Death into Canaan, Gen. 12. 1. and I conducted and preserved him in safety in all his Travels through the several parts of Canaan. i i. e. Gave him a numerous Posterity, not only by Hagar and Keturah, but even by Sarah and by Isaac, as it follows. k By my special Power and Grace to be the Heir of my Covenant, and all my Promises, and the Seed in or by which all Nations were to be Blessed, Gen. 12. 1. and 21. 2.

* Gen. 25. 24, 26. * Gen. 36. 8. * Gen. 46. 1, 6. 4 And I gave unto Isaac, * Jacob and Esau, and I gave unto * Esau mount Seir to possess it l: * but Jacob and his children went down into Egypt m.

l That he might leave Canaan intire to his Brother Jacob and his Posterity, Gen. 36. 7, 8. m Where they long lived in grievous Bondage; which God having delivered us from, I shall now pass it over.

† Exod. 3. 10. 5 * I sent Moses also and Aaron, and I plagued Egypt according to that which I did n amongst them: and afterward I brought you out.

n i. e. In such manner, and with such Plagues as I inflicted, and are recorded.

† Exod. 12. 37. 6 And I * brought your fathers out of Egypt, and ye came unto the sea, and the Egyptians pursued after your fathers with chariots and horsemen † Exod. 14. 9. unto * the Red sea.

7 And when they cryed unto the LORD, he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, and brought the sea upon them, and covered them, and your eyes have seen what I have done in Egypt o, and ye dwelt in the wilderness a long season.

o He speaketh this to the Elders. ver. 1. who were so, not only by Power and Dignity, but many of them by Age; and there being now not sixty years past since those Egyptian Plagues, it is very probable that a considerable number of those here present, had seen those things in Egypt, and being not twenty years old, were exempted from that dreadful Sentence of Destruction passed upon all who were then of more years standing, Numb. 14.

8 And I brought you into the land of the Amorite, which dwelt on the other side of Jordan: * and they fought with you, and I gave them into your hand, that ye might possess their land, and I destroyed them from before you.

* Num. 21. 34. Deut. 2. 32.

9 Then Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab, arose and warred against Israel p, and * sent and called Balaam the son of Beor to curse you.

* Num. 22. 5. Deut. 23. 4.

p Qu. How is this true, when Balak did never fight against Israel. Judg. 11. 25? Ans. One Prince may commence a War against another, though he never come to a Battel, nor strike one stroke; So Balak warred, though not by open force, yet by crafty Counsel and Warlike Stratagems, by Magical Art, by Wicked Devices, by making bate betwixt them and God their Confederate; or by Warlike preparations, in case Balaam's Charms had succeeded, as may be gathered from Num. 22. 11. or at least by design or intention; things being oft said to be done both in Scripture and other Authors, which were only designed or intended, as here ver. 11. Gen. 37. 21. Ezek. 24. 13. Mat. 5. 28. Joh. 10. 32, 33. And the old Lawyers note, That he is rightly called a Thief or an Adulterer, &c. who wanted nothing but occasion to be so.

10 But I would not hearken unto Balaam q, therefore he blessed you still: so I delivered you out of his hand r.

q Who hereby appears to have desired of God leave to curse Israel; and therefore it is not strange, that God who permitted him simply to go, was highly angry with him for going with so wicked an intent. Numb. 22. 20, 22, 32. r i. e. From Balaks malicious Design against you.

11 And * ye went over Jordan, and came unto Jericho: and * the men of Jericho fought against you s, the Amorite, and the Perizzite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Girgashite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite t, and I delivered them into your hand.

* chap. 3. 14. * chap. 6. 1. and 10. 1. and 11. 1.

s Made opposition against you by shutting their Gates, by endeavouring to cut off your Spies, &c. they Warred against you, if not by an Offensive, yet by a Defensive War. t To wit, successively; for in these few words he seems to comprise all their Wars, which being so fresh in their Memory, he thought it needless particularly to mention.

12 And * I sent the hornet u before you, which drave them out from before you, even the two kings of the Amorites: but * not with thy sword, nor with thy bow x.

* Exod. 23. 23. Deut. 7. 20. * Psal. 44. 3, 6.

u Either figuratively, i. e. Terrors and Plagues, or other destroying Judgments. Or 2. Properly so called. See on Exod. 23. 28. And this being done before Joshua's entrance into Canaan, it is not strange if it be not mentioned in this Book or Record of Joshua's actions. x For though thou didst fight with them, and prevail against them in Battel, yet this was not because thou hadst more force or courage than they; but because by my Hornet which I sent like an Harbinger before thee, I had both broken their spirits, and greatly diminished their numbers, and particularly cut off those Giants or others who were like to give thee most trouble and difficulty; whence it comes to pass that we read of so few Giants in that Land which was called the Land of Giants, Deut. 3 13.

13 And I have given you a land for which ye did not labour, and * cities which ye built not y, and ye dwell in them: of the vineyards and oliveyards which ye planted not, do ye eat.

* Deut. 6, 10, 11.

y See on Jos. 10. 12, 13.

14 ¶ Now therefore fear the LORD, and serve him in sincerity and in truth z, and put away the gods a which your fathers b served on the other side of the flood, and * in Egypt c; and serve ye the LORD.

* Lev. 17. 7. Ezek. 20. 8.

z Either these two expressions note the same thing; or sincerity is opposed to the mixture of false gods with the true, as it here follows; or of a false and corrupt worship of God, with that which God appointed; and Truth is opposed to dissimulation and falsenes, and inflability of heart. a Whereby it appears, That although Joshua had doubtless prevented and purged out all publick and manifest Idolatry, yet there were some of them who practised it in their private houses and retirements. See below ver. 23. Amos 5. 25, 26. Acts 7. 42, 43. b Terah, and Nahor, and Abraham, as ver. 2. and others of your Ancestors. c See Ezek. 23. 3, 8, 19, 21, 27. Under these particulars, no doubt he comprehends all other false falſe gods, which were ſerved by the Nations amongſt whom they were, as appears from ver. 15. but onely mentions theſe, as the Idols which they were in more danger of worſhipping than thoſe in Canaan; partly becauſe thoſe of Canaan had been now lately and palpably diſgraced by their inability to preſerve their Worſhippers from total ruine; and partly, becauſe the other Idols came recommended unto them by the venerable name of Antiquity, and the cuſtom of their forefathers. See Jer. 44. 17. Ezek. 20. 18.

15 And if it ſeem evil d unto you to ſerve the
* Joh. 6. 67. LORD, * chooſe ye this day whom ye will ſerve e, whether the gods which your fathers ſerved, that were on the other ſide of the floud, or the gods of the Amorite, in whoſe land ye dwell: but as for me and my houſe, we will ſerve the LORD f.

d Unjuſt, unreaſonable or inconvenient. e Not that he leaves them to their liberty, whether they would ſerve God or Idols; for Joſhua had no ſuch power or liberty himſelf, nor could give it to any other; and both he and they were obliged by the Law of Moſes, to give their Worſhip to God only, and to forbear all Idolatry in themſelves, and ſeverely to puniſh it in others; but it is a Rhetorical and powerful inſinuation, whereby he both implies, That the Worſhip of God is ſo highly reaſonable, ſo neceſſary and beneficial; and the ſervice of Idols is ſo abſurd, and vain, and pernicious, that, if it were left free to all men to make their choice, every man in his right Wits muſt needs chuſe the Service of God, before that of Idols; and provokes them to bind themſelves faſter to God by their own choice. See ſuch manner of ſpeeches in Ruth 1. 8. 15. 1 King. 18. 21. f But know this, if you ſhould all be ſo baſe and brutiſh, as to prefer ſenſeleſs and impotent Idols before the True and Living God, it is my firm purpoſe, That I will, and my Children and Servants (as far as I can influence them) ſhall be conſtant and faithful to the Lord.

16 And the people anſwered and ſaid, God forbid that we ſhould forſake the LORD, to ſerve other gods.

17 For the LORD our God he it is that brought us up, and our fathers out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of bondage, and which did thoſe great ſigns in our ſight, and preſerved us in all the way wherein we went, and among all the people through whom we paſſed.

18 And the LORD drave out from before us all the people, even the Amorites which dwelt in the land: therefore will we alſo ſerve the LORD, for he is our God.

19 And Joſhua ſaid unto the people, Ye cannot ſerve the LORD g: for he is an holy God: he is
* Exod. 23. 21. a jealous God h, he * will not forgive your tranſgreſſions i, nor your ſins.

g He ſpeaks not of an abſolute impoſſibility, (for then both his reſolution to ſerve God himſelf, and his exhortation to them to do ſo, had been vain and ridiculous) but of a moral impoſſibility, or a very great difficulty, which he alledgeth, not to diſcourage them from Gods Service, which is his great deſign to engage them in; but only to make them more conſiderate and cautious in obliging themſelves; and more circumſpect and reſolved in anſwering their obligations. The meaning is, Gods Service is not, as you ſeem to fancy, a ſlight and eaſy thing, as ſoon done as ſaid; but it is a work of great difficulty, and requires great care, and courage and reſolution; and when I conſider the infinite purity of God, that he will not be mocked or abuſed; and withal your great and often manifeſted proneneſs to Superſtition and Idolatry, even during the Life of Moſes, and in ſome of you, whilſt I live, and whileſt the obligations which God hath laid upon you in this Land, are freſh in remembrance; I cannot but fear that after my Deceaſe you will think the Service of God too hard and burdenſome for you, and therefore will caſt it off, and revolt from him, if you do not double your Watch, and carefully avoid all occaſions of Idolatry, which I fear you will not do, but I do hereby exhort you to do. h He will not endure a corrival, or partner in his Worſhip; you cannot ſerve him and Idols together, as you will be inclined and tempted to do. i If you who own your ſelves for his People and Servants, ſhall wickedly and wilfully tranſgreſs his Laws by Idolatry or other Crimes, he will not let this go unpuniſhed in you, as he doth in other Nations; Therefore conſider what you do when you take the Lord for your God, weigh your advantages and inconveniences together; for as if you be ſincere and faithful in Gods Service, you will have admirable benefits by it; ſo if you be falſe to your Profeſſions, and forſake him whom you have ſo ſolemnly avouched to be your God, he will deal more ſeverely with you, than with any people in the World.

20 If ye forſake the LORD, and ſerve ſtrange gods, * then he will turn k, and do you hurt, and * chap. 23. 15. conſume you after that he hath done you good l.

k i. e. He will alter his courſe and the manner of his dealing with you, and will be as ſevere as ever he was kind and gracious. l He will repent of all his former kindneſs, and his goodneſs abuſed will be turned into fury.

21 And the people ſaid unto Joſhua, Nay, but we will ſerve the LORD m.

m To wit, him onely, and not ſtrange gods, as was ſuppoſed by Joſhua, ver. 20.

22 And Joſhua ſaid unto the people, Ye are witneſſes againſt your ſelves n, that ye have choſen the LORD, to ſerve him. And they ſaid, We are witneſſes.

n This Solemn Profeſſion will be a ſwift Witneſs againſt you if hereafter you Apoſtatize from God.

23 Now therefore put away, ſaid he, the ſtrange gods which are among you o, and encline your heart unto the LORD God of Iſrael.

o Thoſe Idols which you either brought out of Egypt, or have taken in Canaan, which I have too much reaſon to believe that ſome of you contrary to Gods Command do keep, whether for the preciouſneſs of the matter, or rather for ſome ſecret inclination to Superſtition and Idolatry, as the following words imply. See ver. 14.

24 And the people ſaid unto Joſhua, The LORD our God will we ſerve, and his voice will we obey.

25 So Joſhua made a covenant with the people that day, and ſet them a ſtatute, and an ordinance p in Shechem.

p Either 1. He ſet, or propounded, or declared unto them, the Statute and Ordnance, i. e. the ſumm of the Statutes and Ordinances of God which their Covenant obliged them to. Or 2. He ſet or eſtabliſhed it, to wit, that Covenant with them, i. e. the People, for a Statute or an Ordinance, to bind themſelves and their Poſterity unto God for ever as a Statute and Ordinance of God doth.

26 And Joſhua wrote theſe words q in the book of the law of God r, and * took a great ſtone, * See Judg. 9. 6

q i. e. This Covenant or Agreement of the people with the Lord. r i. e. In that Volumn which was kept in the Ark, Deut. 31. 9, 26. whence it was taken and put into this Book of Joſhua: This he did partly for the perpetual remembrance of this great and ſolemn Action; partly to lay the greater obligation upon the people to be true to their engagement; and partly as a Witneſs for God, and againſt the people, if afterwards he ſeverely puniſhed them for their defection from God, to whom they had ſo ſolemnly and freely obliged themſelves. ſ As a witneſs and monument of this great tranſaction, according to the cuſtom of thoſe ancient times, as Gen. 28. 18. and 31. 45. and 35. 14, Exod. 24. 4. Deut. 27. 2. Joſ. 4. 3. and 8. 32. Poſſibly this agreement was written upon this Stone, as was then uſual. t i. e. Near to the place where the Ark and Tabernacle then were; for though they were forbidden to plant a Grove of Trees near unto the Altar, Deut. 16. 21. as the Gentiles did, yet they might for a time ſet up an Altar, or the Ark, near a great Tree which had been planted there before.

27 And Joſhua ſaid unto all the people, Behold, this ſtone ſhall be a witneſs unto us; for it hath heard u all the words of the LORD which he ſpake unto us, it ſhall be there for a witneſs unto you, leſt ye deny your God.

u It ſhall be as ſure a Witneſs againſt you, as if it had heard. This is a common Figure, called Proſopopœia, whereby the ſenſe of hearing is oft aſcribed to the Heavens and the Earth, and other ſenſeleſs creatures, as Deut. 32. 1. Iſa. 1. 2. Jer. 2. 12.

x Not in the city of Shechem, but in a Field near, and belonging to it, as appears from the following words, and from Gen. 33. 18. and from the ancient cuſtom of the Iſraelites to have their Burying places without Cities, in Fields or Gardens.

33 And Eleazar the ſon of Aaron died, and they buried him in a hill that pertained to Phinehas his ſon, which was given him x in mount Ephraim.

x By ſpecial favour, and for his better conveniency in attending upon the Ark, which then was, and for a long time was to be in Shiloh, which was near to this place; whereas the Cities which were given to the Prieſts, were in Judah, Benjamin and Simeon, which were remote from Shiloh, though near to the place where the Ark was to have its ſettled abode, to wit, to Jeruſalem.

JUDGES.

The ARGUMENT.

THE Author of this Book is not certainly known, whether it was Samuel or Ezra, or ſome other Prophet: nor is it material to know. 1. It matters not who was the Kings Secretary, or with what Pen it was written, if it be once known that it was the King who made the Order or Decree: It is ſufficient, that unto the Jews were committed the Oracles of God, Rom. 3. 2. i. e. the Holy Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, one part of which this was, by confeſſion of all; and that the Jews did not falſify their truſt therein, but kept thoſe Holy Books themſelves, and delivered them to the World entire, without addition or diminution: for neither Chriſt nor his Apoſtles, who ſeverely rebuke them for their miſtakes and miſunderſtandings of ſome paſſages of Scripture, ever charge them with any perfidiouſneſs about the Canon or Books of the Scripture. This Book is called the Book of Judges, becauſe it treats of the Judges, or of the ſtate of the Commonwealth of Iſrael under all the Judges, except Eli and Samuel, who being the laſt of the Judges, and the occaſions or inſtruments of the change of this Government, are omitted in this Book. The Judges were a ſort of Magiſtrates inferior to Kings, and could neither make new Laws, nor impoſe any Tributes, but were the ſupreme Executors of Gods Laws and Commands, and the Generals of their Armies.

CHAP. I.

NOW after the death of Joſhua a, it came to paſs, that the children of Iſrael asked the LORD b, ſaying, Who ſhall go up for us againſt the Canaanites firſt c, to fight againſt them?

a Not long after it, becauſe Othniel, the firſt Judge, lived in Joſhua's time. b Being aſſembled together at Shiloh, they enquired of the High-prieſt by the Urim and Thummim. See Numb. 27. 21. Judg. 20. 18. 1 Sam. 23. 9. c Being ſenſible that the Canaanites are troubleſome to them, and expected great advantage againſt them by their heedleſs condition, and finding their People to encreaſe and multiply exceedingly, and conſequently the neceſſity of enlarging their Quarters, they renew the War. They do not enquire who ſhall be the Captain General to all the Tribes; but (as appears by the anſwer) What Tribe ſhall firſt undertake the Expedition, that by their ſucceſs the other Tribes may be encouraged to make the like attempt upon the Canaanites in their ſeveral Lots.

2 And the LORD ſaid, Judah d ſhall go up: behold, I have delivered the land into his hand.

d Not a perſon ſo called, but the Tribe of Judah, as is manifeſt from ver. 3, 4, 8, 9. which is choſen for the firſt enterpriſe, becauſe they were both moſt populous, and ſo moſt needing enlargement; and withal moſt Valiant, and therefore moſt likely to ſucceed: for God chuſeth fit means for the work which he deſigns; and becauſe the Canaanites were numerous and ſtrong in thoſe parts, and therefore were in time to be ſuppreſſed, before they grew too ſtrong for them.

3 And Judah ſaid unto Simeon his brother e, Come up with me into my lot, that we may fight againſt the Canaanites f, and I likewiſe will go with thee into thy lot. So Simeon went with him.

e As neareſt to him both by relation, being his Brother by both Parents, which few of them were; and by habitation, as appears from Joſ. 19. 1, 2. f Specially ſo called, becauſe they are diſtinguiſhed from the Perizzite, ver. 4.

4 And Judah went up, and the LORD delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand, and they ſlew of them in Bezek g, ten thouſand men.

g Not in the City, for that was not yet taken, ver. 5. but in the Territory of it, or near to it; as in Hor is taken, Numb. 33. 37. And in Jericho, Joſ. 5. 13.

5 And they found Adoni-bezek h, in Bezek i, and they fought againſt him k, and they ſlew the Canaanites, and the Perizzites.

h The Lord or King of Bezek, as his Name ſignifies. i Whither he fled, when he had loſt the Field. k i. e. Againſt the the City wherein he had Encamped himself, and the rest of his Army.

6 But Adoni-bezek fled, and they pursued after him, and caught him, and cut off his thumbs, and his great toes l.

l That he might be disenabled to fight with his Hands, or to run away upon his Feet. And this they did, either by the secret instinct and direction of God, or upon notice of his former Tyranny and Cruelty expressed upon others, in this manner, as it follows: either way it was a just requital.

† Heb. The thumbs of their hands, and of their feet. ‖ Or, gleaned.

7 And Adoni-bezek said, Threescore and ten kings m, having † their thumbs * and their great toes cut off, ‖ gathered their meat under my table n: as I have done, so God hath requited me o: and they brought him p to Jerusalem q, and there he died.

m Which is not strange in those times and places: for these might be either, First, Kings successively, and so there might be divers of those Kings in one place, and so in others: Or, Secondly, Contemporary Kings. For it is well known, that anciently each Ruler of a City, or great Town, was called a King, and had Kingly Power in that place; and many such Kings we meet with in Canaan: and it is probable, that some years before, Kings were more numerous there, till the greater devoured many of the less. * That so their hands might be unable to manage weapons of War. n An act of Barbarous Inhumanity thus to insult over the miserable, joyned with abominable Luxury. o He acknowledgeth the Providence and vindictive Justice of God, which also Pharaoh did, and others too, without any true sense of Piety. p They carried him in Triumph as a monument of Gods righteous Vengeance. q To wit, in Joshua's time; which though done before, may be here repeated, to shew why they brought Adoni-bezek to Jerusalem, because that City was in their hands, having been taken before; as may be gathered from Jos. 15. 63. And the taking of this City may be ascribed to the children of Judah, rather than to Joshua, because the City was not taken by Joshua, and the whole Body of the Army in that time when so many Kings were destroyed, Jos. 10. and 12. (for there is mention made of the destroying of the King of Jerusalem, Jos. 10. 23. and 12. 10. But not a word of the taking of Jerusalem, as there is of the taking of Makkedah, and Libnah, and other Cities belonging to the Kings there mentioned, Jos. 10. 28, &c.) but by the children of Judah after they had received their Lot, when at the desire, and with the consent of the Benjamites, in whose Lot Jerusalem fell, Jos. 18. 28. they assaulted and took it, and thereby, as it seems acquired the right of Copartnership with the Benjamites in the possession of that City. Though some think Jerusalem was twice taken, once in Joshua's Life-time; and being afterwards recovered by the Canaanites, was now retaken by the children of Judah.

8 (Now the children of Judah had fought against Jerusalem, and had taken it, and smitten it with the edge of the sword, and set the city on fire.)

* Josh. 10. 36. and 11. 21. and 15. 13. ‖ Or, low Country.

9 * And afterward the children of Judah went down to fight against the Canaanites, that dwelt in the mountain, and in the south, and in the ‖ valley.

10 And Judah went against the Canaanites r that dwelt in Hebron, (now the name of Hebron * Josh. 15. 13. before was * Kirjath arba) and they slew Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai.

r Under the Conduct of Caleb, as it is recorded Jos. 15. 14, &c. for that relation, and this here following, are doubtless one and the same Expedition and War, as appears by all the circumstances; and it is mentioned either there by anticipation, or here by repetition. Of this and the following Verses, see the Notes there.

11 And from thence he went against the inhabitants of Debir, (and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher.)

12 And Caleb said, He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife.

* chap. 3. 9. 13 And Othniel the son of Kenaz, * Calebs younger brother, took it: and he gave him Achsah his daughter to wife.

14 And it came to pass when she came to him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and she lighted from off her ass, and Caleb said unto her, What wilt thou?

15 And she said unto him, Give me a blessing, for thou hast given me a south land, give me also springs of water. And Caleb gave her the upper springs, and the nether springs.

16 ¶ And the children of the Kenite, Moses father in law s, went up out of the city of palm-trees *, with the children of Judah, into the wilderness of Judah, which lieth in the south of Arad t, and they u went and dwelt among the people x.

s i. e. Of Jethro, so called from the people from whom he descended, Numb. 24. 21, 22. And, whatsoever he did, it is evident, that his Posterity came into Canaan with the Israelites, and were there seated with them. See Judg. 4. 11, 17. and 5. 24. 1 Sam. 15. 6. 1 Chron. 2. 55. * i. e. From Jericho so called, Deut. 34. 3. not the City, which was utterly destroyed; but the Territory belonging to it, where it seems they were seated as in a most pleasant, and fruitful, and safe place, according to the promise made by Moses to their Father, Numb. 10. 31, 32. and whence they might remove, either to avoid the Society or Molestation of the Neighbouring Canaanites, or out of love to the children of Judah, whom they went to; or to avoid temptations to Luxury, and exercise themselves in self-denial, and contempt of the present evil World, and the Lusts thereof; as may be thought from Jer. 35. 6, &c. Or for some other cause unknown to us at this distance. t In the Southern part of the Land of Canaan, where Arad was, Numb. 21. 1. u i. e. Some of them, for others of them dwelt in the contrary quarter, in the most Northern part of the Land. x Heb. that people, to wit, those Children of Judah that lived there.

17 And Judah went with Simeon his brother y, and they slew the Canaanites that inhabited Zephath, and utterly destroyed it (and the name of the city was called Hormah) z.

y According to his Promise, ver. 3. and the Laws of Justice and Gratitude. z Either 1. The same place so destroyed and called, Numb. 21. 3. and so what was there Vowed, is here Executed: Or 2. Some other place called by the same Name upon the like occasion, which was frequent among the Hebrews: This seems more probable, 1. Because this was but one City; that, divers Cities, Numb. 21. 2, 3. 2. Because that seems to have been done in Moses his time, though Interpreters generally think otherwise; of which see my Notes there.

18 Also Judah took Gaza with the coast thereof, and Askelon with the coast thereof, and Ekron with the coast thereof a.

a The principal Cities of the Philistines, Qu. How could this be, when among the people left to try Israel, are the five Lords of the Philistines, Judg. 3. 3. Ans. It is only said that they took the Cities, and probably contented themselves with making them Tributary; but it is not said that they slew the people, as they ought to have done; and as it is said of the other Cities here, ver. 5, 8, 17, 25. And the people being thus spared, did by Gods Just Judgment, recover their strength, and expel the Jews out of their cities, as we find afterwards: It is further observable, that Ekron here taken, was one of Dan's cities, Jos. 19. 43. and it was attempted and taken here by Judah and Simeon, partly out of love to their Brother Dan, and partly to secure their new conquests, and other adjoining Territories, from such potent Neighbours.

19 And the LORD was with Judah, and ‖ he drave out the inhabitants of the mountain, but could not b drive out the inhabitants of the valley, because they had chariots of iron.

‖ Or, he possessed the mountain.

b Because of their unbelief, whereby they doubted and distrusted Gods power to destroy those who had Chariots of Iron, and so gave way to their own fear and sloth, whereby God was provoked to withdraw his helping hand from them, and so they were really made impotent, as they were unwilling. See Jos. 17. 16.

‖ Or, Meſſenger.

a Either, Firſt, a created Angel. Or, Secondly, a Prophet or man of God, for ſuch are ſometimes called Angels, which ſignifies onely Meſſengers of God; and then the following words are ſpoken by him in the Name of God, as may eaſily be underſtood. Or, Thirdly, Chriſt the Angel of the Covenant, who is oft called the Angel of the Lord, as we have formerly ſeen, to whom the conduct of Iſrael out of Egypt, and thorough the Wilderneſs, and into Canaan, here ſpoken of, is frequently aſcribed, as Exod. 14. 19. and 23. 20. and 33. 14. Joſ. 5. 13, 14. Judg. 6. 12. and 13. 3. Who alone of all the Angels could ſpeak the following words in his own Name and Perſon; whereas created Angels and Prophets do univerſally uſher in their Divine Meſſages with, Thus ſaith the Lord, or ſome equivalent Expreſſion. And this Angel having aſſumed the outward ſhape of a Man, it is not ſtrange that he imitates the local motion of a Man, and comes as it were from Gilgal to the place where now they were: by which motion he ſignified, that he was the perſon that brought them to Gilgal, the firſt place where they reſted in Canaan, and there renewed Covenant with them, and protected them there ſo long, and from thence went out with them to Battel, and gave them ſucceſs. b A place ſo called here by Anticipation, for the reaſon expreſſed here, ver. 5. And it ſeems to be no other than Shilo, where it ſeems probable, that the people were met together upon ſome ſolemn Feſtival. And this was the proper and uſual place of Sacrificing, ver. 5. c i. e. I promiſed, upon condition of your keeping Covenant with me.

2 And * ye ſhall make no league with the inhabitants of this land, * you ſhall throw down their altars: but ye have not obeyed my voice: Why have ye done this d?

* Deut. 7. 2. * Deut. 12. 3.

d i. e. Diſobeyed theſe expreſs Commands of mine?

3 Wherefore I alſo ſaid e, I will not drive them out from before you: but they ſhall be as thorns in your ſides f, and their gods ſhall be a * ſnare unto you.

* Exod. 23. 33. and 34. 12.

e With my ſelf, I have now taken up this peremptory reſolution. f See on Numb. 33. 55. Joſ. 23. 13.

4 And it came to paſs, when the angel of the LORD ſpake theſe words unto all the children of Iſrael, that the people lift up their voice, and wept g:

g Some of them from a true ſenſe of their ſins; but moſt of them from a juſt apprehenſion of their danger and approaching miſery from the Canaanites growing Power, and Gods forſaking of them; as the following Hiſtory makes moſt probable.

5 And they called the name of that place ‖ Bochim: and they ſacrificed h there unto the LORD.

‖ That is, weepers.

h For the expiation of their ſins, by which they had provoked God to this reſolution; and for the regaining of Gods favour.

* Josh. 24. 28. 6 ¶ And when * Joshua had let the people go i, the children of Israel went every man unto his inheritance to possess the land.

i When he had distributed their Inheritances, and dismissed them severally to take Possession of them. This was done before this time, whilst Joshua lived; but is now repeated in order to the discovery of the time, and cause, or occasion of the Peoples defection from God, and of Gods desertion of them.

7 And the people served the LORD all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders † Heb. prolonged days after Joshua. that † out-lived Joshua, who had seen all the great works of the LORD that he did for Israel.

* Josh. 24. 29. 8 And * Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of the LORD died, being an hundred and ten years old.

9 And they buried him in the border of his inheritance in Timnath-heres k, in the mount of Ephraim, on the north-side of the hill Gaash.

k Called Timnath-Sera, Jos. 19. 50. and 24. 30.

10 And also all that generation were gathered unto their fathers: and there arose another gene ration after them, which knew not l the LORD, nor yet the works which he had done for Israel.

l Which had no experimental, nor serious and affectionate knowledge of God, nor of his works.

11 And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD m, and served Baalim n.

m Which notes the hainousness and the impudence of their sins, above other peoples sins, because Gods presence was with them, and his eye upon them in a peculiar manner, and he did narrowly observe all their actions, which also they were not ignorant of, and therefore were guilty of more contempt of God than other People. n i. e. False gods. He useth the Plural Number, because the gods of the Canaanites and adjoyning Nations, which Israel Worshipped, were divers, and most of them called by the name of Baal.

12 And they forsook the LORD God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypt, and followed other gods, of the gods of the people that were round about them, and bowed themselves unto them, and provoked the LORD to anger.

13 And they forsook the LORD, and served Baal and Ashtaroth n.

n i. e. The Sun and the Moon, whom many Heathens Worshipped, though under divers names; and so they ran into that Error which God had so expressly warned them against, Deut. 4. 19.

14 ¶ And the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he delivered them into the hand * Psal. 44. 12. Isa. 50. 1. of spoilers, that spoiled them, and * sold them o into the hand of their enemies round about, so that they could not any longer stand before their Enemies.

o i. e. Delivered them up, as the seller doth his Commodities unto the buyer. Thus the same Phrase is used Judg. 3. 8. and 4. 9. comp. with ver. 14. Psal. 44. 13.

15 Whithersoever they went out p, the hand of the LORD was against them for evil; as the * Lev. 26. Deut. 28. LORD had said, and † as the LORD had sworn unto them: and they were greatly distressed.

p i. e. Whatsoever expedition or business they undertook, which is usually signified by going out, or coming in.

16 Nevertheless, the LORD raised up q judges r, † Heb. saved. which † delivered them out of the hand of those that spoiled them.

q By inward Inspiration and Excitation of their Minds and Hearts, and by outward Designation testified by some heroical and extraordinary Action. r Supreme Magistrates, whose office it was, under God, and by his particular direction, to govern the Commonwealth of Israel by Gods Laws, and to protect and save them from their Enemies; to preserve and purge Religion; to maintain the Liberties of the People against all Oppressors. See Judg. 3. 9, 10, 15, &c. and 4. 4. and 6. 25, 26. and 8. 23.

17 And yet they would not hearken unto their Judges s, but they went a whoring after other gods, and bowed themselves unto them: they turned quickly out of the way which their fathers walked in, obeying the commandments of the LORD: but they did not so.

s Who admonished them of their sin and folly, and of the danger and misery which would certainly befal them.

18 And when the LORD raised them up judges, then the LORD was with the judge, and delivered them out of the hand of their Enemies all the days of the judge: (for it repented the LORD t, because of their groanings, by reason of them that vexed them, and oppressed them.)

t i. e. The Lord changed his course and dealings with them, as penitent Men use to do; removed his Judgments, and returned to them in mercy, Gen. 6. 6.

19 And it came to pass * when the judge was * chap. 3. 12. dead, that they returned u, and ‖ corrupted themselves more than their fathers x, in following other gods, to serve them, and to bow down unto them, † they ceased not from their own doings y, nor from their stubborn way z.

‖ Or, were corrupt. † Heb. they let nothing fall of their.

u To their former, and usual, and natural, though interrupted course. x In Egypt, or in the Wilderness. y i. e. From their evil practises, which he calls their own, partly because they were agreeable to their own natures, which in all mankind are deeply and universally corrupted, Gen. 6. 5. and 8. 21. and partly, because they were familiar and customary to them. Compare Isa. 58. 13. and 66. 3. Ezek. 36. 32. Act. 14. 16. Jude, ver. 16. z Heb. hard way: so he calls their way of wickedness, either because it proceeded from an hard heart, and was managed with a hard and stiff neck: or to signifie, that although it seemed at first very soft, and easie and pleasant, yet they would certainly, and did constantly find, that it was hard, and difficult, and troublesome to them, as an hard way is to the Traveller.

20 ¶ And the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he said, Because that this people hath transgressed my Covenant, which I commanded their fathers, and have not hearkned unto my voice:

21 * I also will not henceforth drive out any * Josh. 23. 13. from before them of the nations which Joshua left when he died:

22 That through them I may prove Israel *, whether they will keep the way of the LORD, to walk therein, as their fathers did keep it, or not.

* Either, First, that I may try, and see whether Israel will be true and faithful to me, or whether they will suffer themselves to be corrupted by the evil counsels and examples of their bad Neighbours, whom I will leave among them for their Tryal and Exercise. Or, Secondly, That by them I may afflict and punish Israel; for Afflictions are commonly and justly called trials. But the former sense suits better with the following words.

23 Therefore the LORD ‖ left those nations, ‖ Or, suffered. without driving them out hastily *, neither delivered he them into the hand of Joshua.

* Or, speedily, when the Israelites desired it, and needed it.

CHAP. III.

NOW these are the nations which the LORD left to prove Israel by them (even as many of Israel as had not known all the wars of Canaan a:

a i. e. Such who had no experience of those Wars, nor of Gods extraordinary Power and Providence manifested in them.

2 Onely that the generations of the children of Israel might know to teach them war b, at the least such as before knew nothing thereof.)

b That by the Neighbourhood of such Warlike and Potent Enemies, they might be purged from Sloth and Security, and obliged to inure themselves to Martial Exercises, and to stand continually upon their guard, and consequently to keep close to that God whose Assistance they had so great and constant need of.

3. Namely,

* Jos. 13. 3. 3 Namely, * five lords of the Philistines c, and all the Canaanites d, and the Zidonians e, and the Hivites that dwelt in Mount Lebanon, from mount Baal-hermon f, unto the entring in of Hamath.

c Whereof three had been in some sort subdued, Judg. 1. 18. But afterwards rescued themselves, and recovered their former strength. See on Judg. 1. 18. d Properly so called, who were very numerous, and dispersed through several parts of the Land, whence they gave denomination to all the rest of the People. e The people living near Zidon, and subject to its jurisdiction. f Which was the Eastern part of mount Lebanon: See Deut. 3. 8, 9.

4 And they were to prove Israel by them, to know g whether they would hearken unto the commandments of the LORD, which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

g i. e. That they and others might know by Experience.

5 ¶ And the children of Israel dwelt among the Canaanites, Hittites, and Amorites, and Perizzites, and Hivites, and Jebusites.

* Exod. 3. 16. Deut. 7. 3. 6 And they * took their daughters to be their wives, and gave their daughters to their sons, and served their gods h.

h Were drawn to Idolatry by the perswasions and examples of their Yoke-fellows, through the just judgment of God, punishing their sinful Marriages by giving them up to Idolatry.

7 And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the LORD, and forgat the LORD their God, and served Baalim and the groves i.

i i. e. In the Groves, in which the Heathens usually Worshipped their Baalims or Idols. Or, the Groves are here put Metonymically for the Idols of the Groves, which are distinguished here from their Baalim, which seem to have been Worshipped in other places, as the Prophets of Baal are distinguished from the Prophets of the Groves, 1 King. 18. 19.

8 ¶ Therefore the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he sold them into the hand of * Chushan-rishathaim king of † Mesopotamia: and the children of Israel served Chushan-rishathaim k eight years.

* Hab. 3. 7. † Heb. Aram-naharaim.

k i. e. Were made subject and Tributary to him.

9 And when the children of Israel cried l unto the LORD, the LORD raised up a † deliverer to the children of Israel, even * Othniel the son of Kenaz, Calebs younger brother m.

† Heb. saviour. * chap. 1. 13.

l i. e. Prayed fervently for deliverance. m Of which see on Judg. 1. 13.

* Sit Num. 27. 18. † Heb. was. 10 And * the spirit of the LORD † came upon him n, and he judged Israel o, and went out to war, and the LORD delivered Chushan-rishathaim king of † Mesopotamia into his hand; and his hand prevailed against Chushan-rishathaim. † Heb. Aram.

n With extraordinary Influences, indowing him with singular wisdom, and courage, and resolution; and stirring him up to this great undertaking. Compare Judg. 6. 34. and 11. 29. o i. e. Pleaded and avenged the cause of Israel against their oppressors, as that Phrase is oft used, as Deut. 32. 36. Psal. 10. 18. and 43. 1.

11 And the land had rest forty years p, and Othniel the son of Kenaz died.

p Either First, it rested about Forty Years, or the greatest part of Forty Years: it being most frequent in Scripture to use Numbers in such a Latitude. Thus the Israelites are said to bear their iniquities forty years in the wilderness, Numb. 14 33. when there wanted near two years of that number; and to dwell in Egypt four hundred and thirty years, when there wanted many years of that number. Thus Joseph's kindred sent for, and called by him into Egypt, are numbred Seventy five souls, Act. 7. 14. although they were but Seventy, as is affirmed Gen. 46. 27. Exod. 1. 5. So here the land is said to rest forty years, although they were in servitude Eight of those Years, ver. 8. And in like manner the land is said to have rest Eighty years, though Eighteen of them they served the King of Moab, ver. 18. And so in some other instances. Nor is it strange and unusual either in Scripture or in other Authors, for things to be denominated from the greater part, as here it was; especially, when they did enjoy some degrees of rest and peace even in their times of slavery, which here they did. Or, Secondly, it rested, i. e. began to rest, or recovered its interrupted rest, in the fortieth year, either after Joshua's Death, or after that first and famous Rest procured for them by Joshua, as is noted Heb. 4. 9, when he destroyed and subdued the Canaanites, and gave them quiet possession of the Land; and the land had rest from war, as is said Jos. 11. 23. and 14. 15. So there is this difference between the years of Servitude and Oppression, and those of Rest, that in the former he tells us how long it lasted; in the latter, when it began; by which, compared with the other years, it was easie also to know how long the Rest lasted. To strengthen this Interpretation, two things must be noted: 1. That resting is here put for beginning to Rest, as to beget is put for beginning to beget, Gen. 5. 32. and 11. 26. and to Reign, for to begin to Reign, 2 Sam. 2. 10. and to build 1 King. 6. 15. 36. for to begin to build, 2 Chron. 3. 1. 2. That forty years is put for the fortieth year: the Cardinal Number for the Ordinal, which is common both in the holy Scripture, as Gen. 1. 5. and 2. 11. Exod. 12. 2. Hag. 1. 1. Mark 16. 1. and in other Authors.

12 ¶ And the children of Israel did evil again in the sight of the LORD: and the LORD strengthned * Eglon p the King of Moab against Israel, because they had done evil in the sight of the LORD. * 1 Sam. 12 9.

p By giving him Courage, and Power, and Success against them.

13 And he gathered unto him the children of Ammon, and Amalek, and went and smote Israel, and possessed the city of Palm-trees q.

q i. e. Jericho, as may be gathered from Deut. 34. 3. Judg. 1. 16. 2 Chron. 28. 15. Not the city which was demolished, but the Territory belonging to it. Here he fixed his Camp, partly for the admirable Fertility of that Soil; and partly, because of its nearness to the passage over Jordan, which was most commodious both for the conjunction of his own Forces which lay on both sides of Jordan; and to prevent the conjunction of the Israelites in Canaan with their Brethren beyond Jordan; and to secure his Retreat into his own Country, which therefore the Israelites prevented, ver. 28.

14 So the children of Israel served Eglon the king of Moab eighteen years.

15 But when the children of Israel cried unto the LORD, the LORD raised them up a † deliverer, Ehud the son of Gera ‖, a Benjamite r, a man † left-handed s; and by him the children of Israel sent a present unto Eglon the king of Moab. † Heb. a saviour ‖ Or, the son of Jemini. † Heb. shut of his right hand.

r Heb. the son of Jemini, who was of the Tribe of Benjamin, 2 Sam. 16. 11. and 19. 17. 1 King. 2. 8. This Tribe was next to him, and doubtless most Afflicted by him; and hence God raiseth a Deliverer. s Which is here noted, partly, as a mark of his Courage and Strength, and Activity: See Judg. 20. 16. and principally, as a considerable circumstance in the following Story, whereby he might more advantagiously and unsuspectedly give the deadly blow.

16 But Ehud made him a dagger (which had two edges) of a cubit length t, and he did gird it under his raiment, upon his right thigh u.

t Long enough for his design, and not too long for carriage and concealment. u Which was most convenient both for the use of his left hand, and for the avoiding of suspition.

17 And he brought the present x unto Eglon king of Moab: and Eglon was a very fat man y.

x Which was to be paid to him as a part of his Tribute. y And therefore more unweildy and unable to ward off Ehud's blow.

18 And when he had made an end to offer the present, he sent away the people that bare the present z.

z He accompanied them part of the way, and then dismissed them, and returned to Eglon alone, that so he might have more easie access to him, and privacy with him; and that he might the better make his escape.

19 But he himself turned again a from the ‖ quarries b that were by Gilgal, and said, I have a secret errand unto thee, O king: who said, Keep silence c. And all that stood by him went out from him. ‖ Or, graven images.

a As if he had forgot or neglected some important business. b Either First, Whence they hewed stones: Or Secondly, The Twelve Stones which Joshua set up there; by the sight whereof he was animated to his Work. Or, Thirdly, The Idols, as the Word also signifies, which that Heathen King might place there, either in spight and contempt to the Israelites who had that place in great Veneration: or, that he might ascribe his Conquest of the Land to his Idols, as the Israelites did to the true God, by setting up this Monument in the entrance or beginning of it. c Till my Servants be gone: whom he would not have acquainted with a business which he supposed to be of great and close importance.

20 And Ehud came unto him, and he was sitting in † a summer parlour d, which he had for himself alone e: and Ehud said, I have a message f from God g, unto thee. And he arose out of his † seat h.

d They had divers Houses and Chambers, some for Winter others for Summer. See Jer. 36. 22. Amos 3. 15. e Into which he used to retire himself from company: which is mentioned as the reason why his Servants waited so long ere they went in to him, ver. 25. f To be delivered not in Words, but by Actions: Heb. a Word, or Thing, or Business. So that there is no need to charge Ehud with a Lye, as some do. g This he saith to Amuse him, by raising his expectation and wonder, to divert him from any apprehension of his Danger, and to oblige him to rise out of his Seat, which he knew he would do from the common practise of the Heathens in their entercourses with God. And he designedly useth the name Elohim, which was common to the true God, and false ones; and not Jehovah, which was peculiar to the true God; because Ehud not knowing whether the Message came not from his own false god, he would more certainly rise, and thereby give Ehud more advantage for his blow; whereas he would possibly shew his contempt of the God of Israel by sitting still to hear his Message. h In token of humble subjection and reverence to God. See Numb. 23. 18. 2 King. 23. 3. which condemns those Christians that behave themselves irreverently in the Presence and Service of the true God.

21 And Ehud put forth his left hand, and took the dagger from his right thigh, and thrust it into his belly.

22 And the haft went in after the † blade: and the fat closed upon the blade, † so that he could not draw the dagger out of his belly, and ‖ the dirt came out i.

† Heb. flame. so Gr. Gen. 3. 24.

† Heb. because he drew not. so Gr.

‖ Or, it came out at the fundament.

i i.e. His Excrements came forth, not at the Wound, which closed up; but at the Fundament, as is usual, when persons Die either a Natural or Violent Death.

23 Then Ehud went forth k through the porch, and shut the doors of the parlour upon him l, and locked them m.

k With a composed Countenance and Gate, without any fear; being well assured, that God who by his extraordinary Call had put him upon that enterprise, would by his special Providence preserve him, and carry him through it. l Either upon the King, or upon or after himself. m Either by pulling it close after him, as we do when Doors have Spring-Locks; or by taking the Key with him for more caution; and this he did, that they supposing the King to be retired, might wait till he was gone.

24 When he was gone out, his servants came, and when they saw, that behold the doors of the parlour were locked, they said, Surely he ‖ covereth his feet n in his Summer-chamber.

‖ Or, doth his easement.

n This phrase is used only here, and 1 Sam. 24. 3. It is commonly understood in both places, of easing nature; because the men not then wearing Breeches as we do, but long Coats, they did in that act cover their feet, as Women do: But a late judicious Interpreter expounds it, of composing himself to take a little Sleep or Rest, as was very usual to do in the day-time in those hot Countreys, 2 Sam. 4. 5. and 11. 2. And when they did so in cool places, such as this Summer-Parlour unquestionably was, they used to cover their Feet, as appears from Ruth 3. 7. And this may seem to be the more probable, both because the Summer-Parlour was more proper for this use, than for the former; and because this was a more likely reason of their long waiting at his Door, lest they should disturb his repose. And this sense best agrees with Saul's case in the Cave, when being asleep David could more securely cut off the lap of his Garment, 1 Sam. 24. 3. where see my Annotations.

25 And they tarried till they were ashamed o: and behold he opened not the doors of the parlour, therefore they took a key p, and opened them: and behold, their lord was fallen down dead on the earth.

o Or, confounded, not knowing what to say or think; lest they should either disturb him, or be guilty of neglect towards him. p Another Key, it being usual in Princes Courts to have divers Keys for the same Door.

26 And Ehud escaped while they tarried: and passed beyond the quarries, and escaped unto Seirath, 27 And it came to pass when he was come, that he blew a trumpet in the mountain of Ephraim; and the children of Israel q went down with him from the mount, and he before them.

q Whom doubtless he had prepared, and by his emissaries gathered together in considerable numbers.

28 And he said unto them, Follow after me: for the LORD hath delivered your enemies the Moabites into your hand. And they went down after him, and took the foords of Jordan r toward Moab, and suffered not a man to pass over.

r Where they passed over Jordan, that neither the Moabites that were got into Canaan, might escape, nor any more Moabites come over Jordan to their succour.

29 And they slew of Moab at that time about ten thousand men, all † lusty, and all men of valour, and there escaped not one man. † Heb. fat.

30 So Moab was subdued that day under the hand of Israel, and the land had rest fourscore years s.

s How these are to be understood, see on ver. 11. instead of eighty, some copies read eight years.

31 ¶ And after him was Shamgar the son of Anath, which slew of the Philistines six hundred men with an ox-goad t, and he also † delivered Israel. † Heb. saved.

t As Sampson did a thousand with the Jaw-bone of an Ass; both being miraculous actions, and not at all incredible to him that believes a God, who could easily give strength both to the persons and to their Weapons to effect this.

CHAP. IV.

AND the children of Israel again did evil in the sight of the LORD, when Ehud was dead.

2 And the LORD sold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan a, that reigned in Hazor b, the captain of whose host was * Sisera, which dwelt * 1 Sam. 12. 9. in Harosheth of the Gentiles c.

a i.e. Of the Land where the most of the Canaanites strictly so called, now dwelt, which seems to be in the Northern part of Canaan. This seems to be of the Posterity of that Jabin whom Joshua slew, Jos. 11. 11. who watched all opportunities to recover his ancient Possessions, and to revenge his own, and Fathers Quarrel upon the Israelites. b Either 1. In the City of Hazor, which though taken and burnt by Joshua, chap. 11. 11. yet might be retaken and rebuilt by the Canaanites: Or 2. In the Territory or Kingdom of Hazor, which might now be restored to its former largeness and power, Jos. 11. 10. the names of Cities being oft put for their Territories, as Zorah, a City, Jos. 15. 33. is put for the Fields belonging to it, Judg. 13. 2, in which Sampson's Parents lived, Judg. 13. 25. and 16. 31. and 18. 2. c So called, because it was much frequented and inhabited by the Gentiles, either by the Canaanites, who being beaten out of their former Possessions, seated themselves in those Northern parts; or by other Nations coming thither for Traffick; or upon divers occasions, as Strabo notes of those parts, whence Galilee, where this was, is called Galilee of the Gentiles.

3 And the children of Israel cried unto the LORD: for he had nine hundred chariots of iron, and twenty years he mightily oppressed d the children of Israel.

d More

d More than the former Tyrants; partly from his malice and hatred against the Israelites; and principally from Gods Just Judgment, the growing punishment being most suitable to their aggravated wickedness.

† Heb. a woman, a prophetess.

4 ¶ And Deborah † a prophetess e, the wife of Lapidoth f, she judged Israel g at that time.

e As there were Men-Prophets, so there were also Women-Prophetesses, as Miriam, Exod. 15. 20. Huldah, 2 King. 22. 14. and divers others; but the word Prophets or Prophetesses is very ambiguous in both Testaments; sometimes being used of persons extraordinarily inspired by God, and endowed with a power of working Miracles, and foretelling things to come; and sometimes of Persons endowed with special, though not miraculous gifts or graces, for the better understanding of, and discoursing about the Word and Mind of God, for praising of God, or the like; of which see 1 Chron. 25. 1. 1 Cor. 11. 5. and 14. 1, 3, 4, &c. And of this sort were the Sons of the Prophets, or such who were bred in the Schools of the Prophets, who are oft called Prophets, as 1 Sam. 10. 5, 10, 11, 12. See also 1 King. 18. 4. and 19. 10. And because we read nothing of Deborahs miraculous actions, peradventure she was only a Woman of eminent Holiness and Prudence, and Knowledge of the Holy Scriptures, by which she was singularly qualified for the Judging of the People according to the Laws of God. If it be alledged, that she foresaw and foretold the following Victory; so did all the Sons of the Prophets foresee and foretel Elijahs translation, 2 King. 2. 3, 5. which yet were not extraordinary Prophets. f Or, a Woman of Lapidoth; and so Lapidoth is not the name of a man, but of the place of her Birth or Abode. g i. e. Determined Causes and Controversies arising among the Israelites, as is implied v. 5. And this Jabin might suffer to be done, especially by a Woman; and the frequent discharge of this part of the Judges Office, whereby she gained great Power and Authority with the People, did notably (though not observed by the Tyrant), prepare the way for her sliding into the other part of her Office, which was to defend and rescue the People from their Enemies.

5 And she dwelt under the palm-tree of Deborah, between Ramah and Beth-el in mount Ephraim: and the children of Israel came up to her for judgment h.

* Heb. 11. 32.

6 And she sent and called i * Barak the son of Abinoam out of Kedesh Naphtali k, and said unto him, Hath not the LORD God of Israel commanded l, saying, Go, and draw m toward mount Tabor n, and take with thee ten thousand men of the children of Naphtali, and of the children of Zebulun o?

i By vertue of that power which God had given her, and the people owned in her. k So called, to distinguish it from other places of that name, one in Judah, Jos. 15. 23. and another in Issachar, 1 Chron. 6. 72. l i. e. Assuredly God hath commanded thee; this is not the fancy of a weak Woman, which peradventure thou maist despise; but the Command of the great God by my Mouth: Which Command of God, and the following assurance of Success, she might either gather from the general rules of Scripture, and the common course of Gods gracious Providence, which was always ready to succour them when they cryed to God; or receive by instinct or direction from God. m Or, go; for so this word is oft used, as Gen. 37. 28. Judg. 20. 37. Job 21. 33. Heb. draw, to wit, thy self, or thy feet. n A place most fit for his purpose, as being in the borders of divers Tribes, and having a large Plain at the top of it, where he might conveniently Marshal and Discipline his Army. o These she names, partly, because they were neareſt and best known to Barak, and therefore soonest brought together; partly, because they were neareſt to the Enemy, and therefore must speedily be Assembled, or else they were likely to be hindred in their Design; whilest the other Tribes being at more distance, had better opportunity of gathering Forces for their succour; and partly, because these had most smarted under this Oppressour, who was in the heart of their Country, and therefore were most forward in the present Service; but these are not named exclusively, as appears by the concurrence of some other Tribes, as is related Judg. 5.

* Psal. 83. 9, 10.

7 And I will draw unto thee p to the * river Kishon, Sisera the captain of Jabins army, with his charets, and his multitude, and I will deliver him into thine hand.

p By my secret and powerful Providence, ordering and over-ruling his inclinations that way.

8 And Barak said unto her, If thou wilt go with me, then I will go: but if thou wilt not go with me, then I will not go q.

q His offer to go with her, shews the truth of his Faith, for which he is praised, Heb. 11. 32. but his refusal to go without her, shews the weakness of his Faith, that he could not trust Gods bare word, as he ought to have done, without the Pledge of the Presence of his Prophetess, whom he thought God would preserve and deliver, and himself for her sake.

9 And she said, I will surely go with thee: notwithstanding the journey r that thou takest shall not be for thine honour: for the LORD shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman s. And Deborah arose and went with Barak to Kedesh.

r Heb. the way, i. e. the course and practise, as the way is taken, Numb. 22. 32. s Either 1. Jael, or rather 2. Deborah, who being, as it were, the Judge and chief Commandress of the Army, the Honour of the Victory would be ascribed to her: But for Jael, her Fact would have been the same, though Barak had gone into the Field without Deborah.

10 ¶ And Barak called Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedesh, and he went up with ten thousand men at his feet t: and Deborah went up with him.

t i. e. Who followed him or his foot-steps; possibly he intimates that they were all Foot-men, the Israelites neither now having, nor otherwise allowed to have a multitude of Horses; and so this is emphatically added, to signifie by what contemptible means God overthrew Sisera's great Host, wherein there were Ten Thousand Horse, as Josephus reports.

11 Now Heber u the Kenite x, which was of the children of Hobab y the father in law of Moses, had severed himself from the Kenites z, and pitched his tent a unto the plain of Zaanarim, which is by Kedesh.

u The Husband of Jael, v. 17. x Of whom see Numb. 24. 21, 22. Judg. 1. 16. y Called also Jethro. See Numb. 10. 29. z From the rest of his Brethren, who lived in the wilderness of Judah, Judg. 1. 16. which removal is here mentioned, lest any should wonder to find the Kenites in this place. a i. e. His dwelling, which probably was in Tents, as Shepherds used.

12 And they shewed b Sisera that Barak the son of Abinoam was gone up to mount Tabor.

b They, i. e. His people dwelling there, or his Spies; or, he was told, this being an impersonal Speech.

† Heb. gathered, or cryed by cry, or proclamation.

13 And Sisera † gathered together all his charets, even nine hundred charets of iron, and all the people that were with him, from Harosheth of the Gentiles, unto the river of Kishon.

14 And Deborah said unto Barak, Up, c, for this is the day in which the LORD hath delivered Sisera into thine hand: is not the LORD gone out before thee d? so Barak went down from mount Tabor e, and ten thousand men after him.

c Heb. arise, delay not, fall to thy work. d To wit, as General of thine Army, to Fight for thee; see Judg. 5. 20. and 2 Sam. 5. 24. e He doth not make use of the advantage which he had of the Hill, where he might have been out of the reach of his Iron Chariots, Jos. 17. 16. but boldly marcheth down into the Valley, to give Sisera the opportunity of using all his Horses and Chariots, that so the Victory might be more glorious and wonderful.

* Psal. 83. 9, 10.

15 And * the LORD discomfited f Sisera and all his charets, and all his host with the edge of the sword g, before Barak: so that Sisera lighted down off his caret, and fled away on his feet h.

f With great Terror and Noise, as the word signifies, Exod. 14. 24. Jos. 10. 10. 1 Sam. 7. 10. most probably with Thunder, and Lightning, and Hail-stones, or other such Instruments of Destruction poured upon them from Heaven, as is sufficiently implyed, Judg. 5. 20. g i. e. By the Sword of Barak and his Army, whose Ministry God used; but so, that they had little else to do, but to kill those whom God by more powerful Arms had put to flight. h That he might flee away more secretly and securely in the quality of a common Souldier, whereas his Chariot would have exposed him to more observation and hazard.

16 But Barak pursued after the charets, and after the host unto Harosheth of the Gentiles, and and all the hoſt of Siſera fell upon the edge of the † Heb. unto one. ſword, and there was not † a man left i.

i To wit, in the Field; for there were ſome who fled away, as Siſera did.

17 Howbeit Siſera fled away on his feet to the tent of Jael k the wife of Heber the Kenite: for there was peace l between Jabin the King of Hazor, and the houſe of Heber the Kenite.

k For Women had their Tents apart from their Husbands: Gen. 24. 67. and 31. 33. And here he thought to lurk more ſecurely than in her Husbands Tent. l Not a League or Covenant of Friendſhip, which they were forbidden to make with that curſed People; but only a ceſſation of Hoſtilities, which he afforded them becauſe they were a peaceable people, abhorring War, and wholly minding Paſturage, and were not Iſraelites, with whom his principal Quarrel was; and eſpecially by Gods over-ruling diſpoſal of his heart to favour them who were careful to keep themſelves uncorrupted with Iſraels Sins, and therefore are preſerved from their Plagues.

18 ¶ And Jael went out to meet Siſera, and ſaid unto him, Turn in my lord, turn in to me, fear not m. And when he had turned in unto her, into the tent, ſhe covered him with a ‖ mantle.
‖ Or, rug, or blanket.

m This was a promiſe of Security, and therefore ſhe cannot be excuſed from Diſſimulation and Treachery in the manner, though the ſubſtance of her act was lawful and worthy.

19 And he ſaid unto her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water to drink, for I am thirſty. And ſhe
* chap. 5. 25. opened * a bottle of milk, and gave him drink n, and covered him o.

n Either becauſe ſhe had not Water in her Tent, and pretended fear of Diſcovery, or ſome inconvenience if ſhe went out to fetch it; or, as a ſignification of greater reſpect; or as a likely mean to caſt him into a Sleep, which ſhe deſired and deſigned; to which end, poſſibly ſhe might mix ſomething with it to cauſe Sleep, which ſhe could not ſo conveniently have done with water. o Upon pretence of hiding him, but really to diſpoſe him to Sleep.

20 Again he ſaid unto her, Stand in the door of the tent, and it ſhall be when any man doth come and enquire of thee, and ſay, Is there any man here? that thou ſhalt ſay, No p.

p He ſpeaks imperiouſly to her; but it is obſervable, that ſhe gives him no promiſe to do ſo, nor makes him any Anſwer; poſſibly becauſe though ſhe knew her deſign upon him was warrantable, yet ſhe had proceeded too far in uſing diſſimulation therein.

21 Then Jael, Hebers wife, took a nail of the † Heb. put. tent q, and † took an hammer in her hand, and went ſoftly unto him, and ſmote the nail into his temples r, and faſtned it into the ground: (for he was faſt aſleep, and weary) ſo he died.

q Wherewith they uſed to faſten the Tent, which conſequently was long and ſharp, being headed with Iron; Theſe Weapons ſhe chuſeth, either, 1. Becauſe ſhe had no better Weapons at hand, this being only the Womans Tent, where Arms uſe not to be kept, and theſe people being wholly given to Peace, and negligent of War; Or Siſera having diſarmed them before this time. Or, 2. Becauſe ſhe had more skill in the handling theſe, than other Weapons, being probably accuſtomed to faſten the Tents herewith. Or, 3. Becauſe this was very proper for his preſent poſture, and which ſhe knew would be effectual. r Which is the ſofteſt part of the Skull, and ſooneſt pierced. This might ſeem a very bold attempt; but it muſt be conſidered, that ſhe was encouraged to it, partly by obſerving that the Heavens and all the Elements conſpired againſt him, as againſt one devoted to Deſtruction; partly, by the fair opportunity which Gods Providence put into her hands; and principally, by the ſecret inſtinct of God inciting her to it, and aſſuring her of ſucceſs in it. Qu. What ſhall we judge of this fact of Jaels? It is a difficult queſtion, and neceſſary to be determined, becauſe on the one hand there ſeems to be groſs perfidiouſneſs, and an horrid violation of all the Laws of Hoſpitality and Friendſhip, and of the Peace which was eſtabliſhed between Siſera and her; and on the other ſide, this fact of hers is applauded and commended in Deborahs Song, Judg. 5. 24. &c. And ſome who make it their buſineſs to pick quarrels with the Holy Scriptures, from hence take occaſion to queſtion and reject their Divine Authority, for this very paſſage, becauſe it commends an act ſo contrary to all Humanity, and ſo great a breach of Faith: And whereas all the pretence of their Infidelity is taken from the following Song, and not from this Hiſtory wherein the Fact is barely related, without any reflection upon it: There are many Anſwers given to that Argument, as, 1. That there was no League of Friendſhip between Jael and Siſera, but only a Ceſſation of Acts of Hoſtility, of which ſee the Notes on v. 17. 2. That Deborah doth not commend Jaels words, v. 18. Turn in my Lord, fear not; in which the great ſtrength of this Objection lies; but only her action, and that Artifice, that he asked water, and ſhe gave him milk; which if impartially examined, will be found to differ but little from that of Warlike Stratagems, wherein a man lays a Snare for his Enemy, and deceives him with pretences of doing ſomething which he never intends. And Siſera, though for the time he pretended to be a Friend, yet was in truth a bitter and implacable Enemy unto God and all his people, and conſequently to Jael her ſelf. But theſe and other Anſwers may be omitted, and this one conſideration following may abundantly ſuffice to ſtop the mouths of theſe men: It cannot be denied, that every word, or paſſage, or diſcourſe which is recorded in Scripture, is not Divinely Inſpired, becauſe ſome of them were uttered by the Devil, and others by Holy Men of God, but miſtaken (the Prophets themſelves not always ſpeaking by Inſpiration) ſuch as the Diſcourſe of Nathan to David, 2 Sam. 7. 3. which God preſently contradicted, v. 4. 5. &c. and ſeveral Diſcourſes of Jobs three Friends, which were ſo far from being Divinely Inſpired, that they were in a great degree unſound, as God himſelf tells them, Job 42. 7. To have not ſpoken of me the thing that is right, as my Servant Job hath; this being ſo, the worſt that any malicious mind can infer from this place is, That this Song, though indited by a good man or woman, was not Divinely Inſpired, but only compoſed by a perſon piouſly minded, and tranſported with Joy for the deliverance of Gods People, but ſubject to miſtake; who therefore out of zeal to commend the happy Inſtrument of ſo great a deliverance, might eaſily overlook the indirectnets of the means by which it was accompliſhed, and commend that which ſhould have been diſliked. And if they further object, that it was compoſed by a Prophetеſs, Deborah, and therefore muſt be Divinely Inſpired; it may be replyed, 1. That it is not certain what kind of Prophetеſs Deborah was, whether extraordinary and infallible, or ordinary, and ſo liable to miſtakes; for there were Prophets of both kinds, as hath been proved above on v. 4. 2. That every expreſſion of a true and extraordinary Prophet was not Divinely Inſpired, as is evident from Nathans miſtake above-mentioned, and from Samuels miſtake concerning Eliab, whom he thought to be the Lords Anointed, 1 Sam. 16. 6.

22 And behold, as Barak purſued Siſera, Jael came out to meet him, and ſaid unto him, Come, and I will ſhew thee the man whom thou ſeekeſt. And when he came into her tent, behold Siſera lay dead, and the nail was in his temples.

23 So God ſubdued on that day Jabin the king of Canaan, before the children of Iſrael.

24 And the hand of the children of Iſrael † † Heb. went and was hard. proſpered, and prevailed againſt Jabin the king of Canaan, until they had deſtroyed Jabin king of Canaan.

CHAP. V.

THen ſang Deborah a and Barak the ſon of Abinoam on that day, ſaying.

a The compoſer of this Song, as may be gathered from v. 7.

2 Praiſe ye the LORD b for the avenging of Iſrael c, when the people d willingly offered themſelves e.

b Give him the praiſe who hath done the work. c Or, for taking Vengeance, to wit, upon his and their Enemies, by Iſrael, or for Iſrael, for Iſraels benefit, or for the injuries and violences offered by them to Iſrael. d Chiefly Zebulun and Naphtali, below v. 18. and 4. 6. and others hereafter mentioned. e When neither Deborah nor Barak had any power to compel them.

3 Hear, O ye kings, give ear, O ye princes f: I, even I will ſing unto the LORD, I will ſing praiſe to the LORD God of Iſrael g.

f You eſpecially that live near to Iſrael, and have evil minds and deſigns againſt Iſrael, know this for your inſtruction and caution, and terror too, if you ſhall preſume to moleſt them. g Who, as you ſee by this plain inſtance, is both able and reſolved to defend them from all their enemies.

b Seir and Edom are the ſame place; and theſe two expreſſions note the ſame thing, even Gods marching in the head of his people from Seir or Edom, towards the Land of Canaan: Whileſt the Iſraelites were encompaſſing Mount Seir, there were none of the following effects; but when once they had done that, and got Edom on their backs, then they marched directly forwards towards the Land of Canaan; the Propheteſs being to praiſe God for the preſent Mercy, takes her riſe higher, and begins her Song with the Commemoration of the former and ancient deliverances afforded by God to his people, the rather becauſe of the great reſemblance this had with them, in the extraordinary and miraculous manner of them. i Either. 1. The Inhabitants of the Earth or Land; or 2. The Earth, properly taken as the following paſſages are; God prepared the way for his People, and ſtruck a dread into their Enemies, by Earthquakes, as well as by other Terrible Signs. k i. e. Thou didſt ſend moſt dreadful Showers of Rain, Storms and Tempeſts, Thunder and Lightning, and other tokens of thy diſpleaſure upon thine Enemies, as may appear by comparing this with other Parallel Texts.

* Pſal. 97. 5. † Heb. flamed. * Pſal. 68. 8.

5 *The mountains † melted l from before the LORD, even * that Sinai m, from before the LORD God of Iſrael.

l Or, flowed, with Floods of Water poured out of the Clouds upon them, and from them flowing down in a mighty Stream upon the lower grounds, and carrying down ſome part of the Mountain with it, as is uſual in exceſſive Showers. m She ſlides into the mention of another, and a more ancient appearance of God for his People, to wit, in Sinai; it being uſual in Scripture repetitions of former actions, to put divers together into a narrow compaſs, and in few words. The ſenſe is, No wonder that the Mountains of the Amorites and Canaanites melted and trembled when thou didſt lead thy People towards them, for even Sinai it ſelf could not bear thy Preſence, but melted in like manner before thee. Or, as that Sinai did upon a like manifeſtation of thy ſelf; ſo there is only a defect of the Particle as, which I have ſhewed to be frequent.

d Either 1. From the noiſe or ſound, and conſequently, the force of thoſe Arrows which are ſhot at them; but he names the noiſe, becauſe this Epithete is frequently given to Bows and Arrows in Poetical Writings: Or, 2. From the Triumphant noiſe and ſhout of Archers, rejoycing when they meet with their Prey. e At thoſe Pits or Springs of Water, which were ſcarce and precious in thoſe hot Countries, to which the peoples Neceſſities forced them oft to reſort, and nigh unto which the Archers did uſually lurk in Woods, or Thickets, or Hedges, that from thence they might ſhoot at them, and kill and ſpoil them. f When they come to thoſe places with freedom and ſafety, which before they could not, they ſhall with thankfulneſs rehearſe this Righteous, and Faithful, and Gracious work of God, in reſcuing his People, and Puniſhing his Enemies. g Whom he mentions, becauſe as their danger was greater, v. 7. ſo was their Deliverance and their Obligation to Praiſe God. h To wit, of their Cities, which were the chief places to which both City and Countrey reſorted for publick buſineſs and matters of Juſtice, from which they had been debarred by their Oppreſſors; but now they had free acceſs and paſſage, either in or out of the Gates, as their occaſions required; and they who had been driven from their Cities, now returned to them in Peace and Triumph; ſo the Citizens Deliverance is Celebrated here, as the Country-mens is in the foregoing words.

12 Awake, awake i Deborah: awake, awake, utter a ſong: ariſe Barak, and lead thy captivity captive k, thou ſon of Abinoam.

i Stir up thy ſelf and all that is within thee, to Admire and Praiſe the Lord. k How could this be done, when there was none of them left, Judg. 4. 16? Anſ. 1. None were left to make head againſt them. 2. None is oft put for few, and thoſe few might be taken after the Battel, and carried Captive, and led in Triumph, and afterward Slain.

13 Then he made him that remaineth have dominion over the nobles among the people l: the LORD made me m have dominion over the mighty.

l Thus God did not only preſerve the poor and deſpiſed remnant of his people, from the fury of the Oppreſſor before this War, and from the Deſtruction which Siſera deſigned and promiſed himſelf to bring upon them by this War; but alſo gave them the Victory, and thereby the Dominion over the Princes and Nobles of Canaan, who were combined againſt them. m Though but a weak Woman.

Great and ſad thoughts, and debates, and perplexities of Mind among the Iſraelites to ſee themſelves deſerted by ſo great and potent a Tribe as Reuben was.

16 Why abodeſt thou among the ſheep folds, to hear the bleatings of the flocks c? ‖ for the diviſions of Reuben there were great ſearchings of heart.

c Why waſt thou ſo unworthy and cowardly, ſo void of all Zeal for God, and compaſſion towards thy Brethren, and care for the recovery of thy own Liberties and Priviledges, that thou wouldſt not ingage thy ſelf in ſo juſt, ſo neceſſary, and ſo noble a cauſe, but didſt prefer the care of thy Sheep, and thy own preſent eaſe and ſafety, before this generous undertaking? Reuben thought Neutrality their wiſeſt courſe; being very rich in Cattel, Numb. 32. 1. They were loath to run the hazard of ſo great loſs, by taking up Arms againſt ſo Potent an Enemy as Jabin was: and the bleatings of their Sheep were ſo loud in their ears, that they could not hear the call of Deborah and Barak to this Expedition.

d Gilead is ſometimes taken more largely, for all the Land of the Iſraelites beyond Jordan, as Numb. 32. 1, 26, 29. So it is not here taken, becauſe Giltad is here diſtinguiſhed from Reuben and his Land: ſometimes it is taken more ſtrictly for that part of the Land beyond Jordan which fell to the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, as Numb. 32. 39, 40. Deut. 3. 15. Joſ. 17. 1. And ſometimes both for that part of Manaſſeh's, and for Gad's Portion, as Joſ. 13. 24, 25, 29, 30, 31. x A place then, no doubt, eminent and conſiderable, though now there be no remembrance of it left, which poſſibly might be the effect of this bitter Curſe; as God curſeth Amalek in this manner, that he would utterly blot out their remembrance, &c. Exod. 17. 14. Deut. 25. 19. And this place above all others may be thus ſeverely curſed; either becauſe it was near the place of the Fight, and therefore had the greateſt opportunity and obligation to engage with, and to aſſiſt their Brethren; and their denying their help, was a great diſcouragement to all their Brethren, whoſe hearts, no doubt, were greatly Afflicted, and might have utterly fainted, at this great miſcarriage, and ſcandalous Example; or for ſome other great aggravation of their Cowardiſe and Treachery, which may eaſily be imagined, though it be not here expreſſed. y She ſignifies, that this Curſe proceeded not from her ſpleen or ill-will towards that place, nor from her own private opinion or affection, but from Divine Inſpiration; and that if all the reſt of the Song ſhould be taken but for the breathings, and expreſſions of a pious and devout Soul, but liable to miſtake, yet this Branch of it was immediately dictated to her by the Lord, by the Miniſtry of an Angel: otherwiſe, ſhe neither would, nor durſt have uttered ſo bitter a curſe againſt them. z Either, Firſt, of the Lords People: for God takes what is done for, or againſt his People, as if it was done to himſelf: See Iſa. 63. 9. Zech. 2. 8. Mat. 25. 45. Or, Secondly, Of the Lord himſelf, who though he did not need, yet did require and expect their help and concurrence: and he expreſſeth it thus, to ſhew the ſinfulneſs and unreaſonableneſs of their cowardly deſertion of this Cauſe, becauſe it was the Cauſe of God, and they had the Call of God to it, whom they knew to be able eaſily to cruſh that Enemy whom they dreaded, and who had promiſed to do it.

AND the children of Iſrael did evil in the ſight of the LORD: and the LORD delivered them into the hand * of Midian a ſeven years.

* Hab. 3. 7.

a For although the generality of the Midianites had been cut off by Moſes about 200 years ago, yet many of them doubtleſs fled into the neighbouring Countries, whence afterwards they returned into their own Land, and in that time might eaſily grow to be a very great Number; eſpecially, when God furthered their increaſe, that they might be a fit ſcourge for his People Iſrael when they tranſgreſſed.

2 And the hand of Midian † prevailed againſt Iſrael, and becauſe of the Midianites the children of Iſrael made them the dens which are in the mountains, and caves b, and ſtrong holds.

† Heb. was ſtrong.

3 And ſo it was when Iſrael had ſown, that the Midianites came up, and the Amalekites, and the children of the eaſt c, even they came up againſt them.

c i. e. The Arabians, who are commonly called the children of the Eaſt, as Gen. 29. 1. Judg. 8. 10, 11. Job 1. 3. Ezek. 25. 4. Not all the Arabians, for in that were many, and divers people; but in the Eaſtern part of Arabia.

4 And they encamped againſt them, and deſtroyed the increaſe of the earth, till thou come unto Gaza d, and left no ſuſtenance for Iſrael, neither ‖ ſheep, nor ox, nor aſs.

‖ Or, goats.

d i. e. From the Eaſt, on which ſide they entred, to the Weſt, where Gaza was near the Sea: ſo they deſtroyed the whole Land.

5 For they came up with their cattel, and their tents, and they came as graſhoppers for multitude; for both they and their camels were without number e: and they entred into the land to deſtroy it.

e i. e. So many that it was not eaſie to number them. It is an Hyperbole.

6 And Iſrael was greatly impoveriſhed becauſe of the Midianites, and the children of Iſrael cried unto the LORD.

7 ¶ And it came to paſs when the children of Iſrael cried unto the LORD, becauſe of the Midianites.

8 That the LORD sent † a prophet unto the children of Israel, which said unto them, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, I brought you up from Egypt, and brought you forth out of the house of bondage.

9 And I delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all that oppressed you, and drave them out from before you, and gave you their land:

10 And I said unto you, I am the LORD your God, * fear not f the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: but ye have not obeyed my voice.

* 2 King. 17. 35, 38. Jer. 10. 2.

11 ¶ And there came an angel of the LORD, and sate under an oak which was in Ophrah g, that pertained unto Joash the Abiezrite h: and his son * Gideon threshed wheat i by the winepress k, † to hide it from the Midianites.

* Heb. 11. 32. called Gedeon. † Heb. to cause it to flee.

l i. e. Will assist thee against thine and mine Enemies. m To whom I have given strength and courage for this end.

13 And Gideon said unto him, Oh my lord, if the LORD be with us, why then is all this befaln us: and where be all his miracles which our fathers told us of, saying, Did not the LORD bring us up from Egypt? but now the LORD hath forsaken us, and delivered us into the hand of the Midianites.

14 And the LORD looked upon him n, and said, * Go in this thy might o: and thou shalt save Israel from the hand of the Midianites: have not I sent thee p?

* 1 Sam. 12. 11. Heb. 11. 32.

n With a settled and pleasant countenance, as a testimony of his favour to him, and of his readiness to help him. o Or, go now, or at this time in thy might: the strength which thou hast already received, and dost now further receive from me, is sufficient with my help. p I do hereby give thee command and commission for this Work, and therefore am obliged in Honour to Assist thee in it.

15 And he said unto him, Oh my lord, wherewith shall I save Israel? behold † my family q is poor r in Manasseh, and I am the least s in my fathers house.

† Heb. my thousand is the meanest.

q Heb. my thousand: for the Tribes were distributed into several thousands, whereof each thousand had his peculiar Governour. r i. e. Weak and contemptible. s Either for Age, or for Wisdom, and fitness for so great a Work.

16 And the LORD said unto him, Surely I will be with thee, and thou shalt smite the Midianites as one man t, t As easily, as if they were all but one man; or, thou shalt destroy them to a man, as he did, Judges 8.

17 And he said unto him, If now I have found grace in thy sight, then shew me a sign, that thou talkest with me u.

u That it is thou, to wit, an Angel or Messenger sent from God, that appears to me, and discourseth with me; and not a Phancy or Delusion; that thou art in truth what thou seemest and pretendest to be, ver. 12. Or, a sign of that which thou talkest with me; i. e. That thou wilt'st by me smite the Midianites.

18 Depart not hence, I pray thee, until I come unto thee, and bring forth my ‖ present x, and set it before thee y. And he said, I will tarry until thou come again.

‖ Or, meat-offering.

x Not a Sacrifice, because neither was Gideon a Priest, nor was this the place of Sacrifice, nor was any Altar here, nor was there any such Sacrifice as here follows, appointed by God; but a repast, or some food for the Angel, which he thought to be a man, as appears by ver. 22. Compare Judg. 13. 15. and Gen. 18. 5, y That thou maist eat and refresh thy self.

19 ¶ And Gideon went in, and made ready † a kid, and unleavened cakes of an Ephah of flour z: the flesh he put in a basket, and he put the broth in a pot, and brought it out unto him under the oak, and presented it.

† Heb. a kid of the goats.

z To wit, out of the choicest part of a whole Ephah; as also he brought to him the best part of a Kid dressed; for a whole Ephah, and a whole Kid had been very superfluous, and improper to provide for, and set before one man.

20 And the angel of God said unto him, Take the flesh, and the unleavened cakes, and lay them upon this rock, and pour out the broth. And he did so.

21 ¶ Then the angel of the LORD put forth the end of the staff that was in his hand, and touched the flesh, and the unleavened cakes, and * there rose up fire out of the rock, and consumed the flesh, and the unleavened cakes a; then the angel of the LORD departed out of his sight.

* Levit. 9. 24.

a By which, he shew'd himself to be no man that needed such Provisions, but a true Angel of God, or the Son of God; and by this instance of his Omnipotency, gave him assurance, that he both could, and would consume the Midianites.

22 And when Gideon perceived that he was an angel of the LORD, Gideon said, Alas b, O LORD God: * for because c I have seen an angel of the LORD face to face.

* Exod. 33. 2. chap. 13. 22.

b I am an undone man; I must dye, and that speedily; for that he feared, ver. 23. according to the common opinion in that case, of which see Gen. 16. 13. and 32. 30. Exod. 33. 20. Deut. 5. 25, 26. c Or, for therefore, &c. i. e. Therefore God hath shewed me this sight as a presage of my death.

23 And the LORD said unto him d, Peace be unto thee e, fear not, thou shalt not dye.

d By inward suggestion, rather than in a visible Apparition. e Thou shalt receive no hurt by this Vision, as thou feareſt; but only peace, i. e. all the blessings needful for thy own happiness, and for the present work; for this is a very comprehensive Phrase among the Hebrews.

24 Then Gideon built an altar there f unto the LORD, and called it ‖ Jehovah-shalom g: unto this day it is yet in Ophrah of the Abi-ezrites.

‖ That is, the Lord send peace.

f To wit, on the top of the Rock, as is evident from ver. 20. and especially from v. 26. where that which is here expressed only in general, and by anticipation, is more particularly described, according to the usage of the Scripture. g i. e. The Lords peace; the sign or witness of Gods speaking Peace to me, and to his People: or the place where he spake Peace to me, when I expected nothing but Destruction.

25 ¶ And it came to pass the same night, that the LORD said unto him, Take thy fathers young bullock, ‖ even the second bullock h, of seven years old, and throw down the altar of Baal that thy father hath i, and * cut down the grove that is by it k:

‖ Or, and. * Exod. 34. 13. Deut. 7. 5.

h Thus there was but one Bullock, which was young, to wit, comparatively, but not simply, for it was seven years old, and of such this Hebrew word is used, Job 21. 10. For these Creatures are fruitful above seven years. Or thus, thy Fathers young Bullock, and the second Bullock; so there were two Bullocks. But because there is but one of them mentioned both in the next verse, and in the execution of this Command, ver. 28. it is probable it was but one; and the Hebrew Particle, vau, and, is put exegetically for even. or, to wit, as is very usual. And this he calls his Fathers young Bullock, both because his Father was the owner of it, and because his Father kept and fed it for a Sacrifice to Baal. But because it is likely his father kept divers of these Cattel of differing Ages and Statures for that use, either at his own, or at the Peoples charge; therefore he adds by way of limitation, that he should not take the eldest and the greatest, but the second; second; to wit, in age, or stature, or goodliness, or in the order of Sacrifice, that which was to have been Sacrificed to Baal in the second place. And this he singled out because of its age; for being seven years old, it began with the Midianitish Calamity, and being now to be Sacrificed, did fitly signifie, that the period of that Misery was now come. i Which thy Father built in his own ground, though for the common use of the whole City, ver. 28, 29, 30. k Planted by the Altar for Idolatrous or impure uses, as the manner of Idolaters was. See Judg. 3. 7. This Action might seem injurious to his Fathers Rights and Authority, but Gods Command was sufficient warrant, and Gideon was now called to be the Supreme Magistrate, whereby he was made his Fathers Superiour, and was impowered, and authorized, and enjoyned to root out all Idolatry and Superstition, and the Instruments thereof.

26 And build an altar unto the LORD thy God, upon the top of this † rock l, ‖ in the ordered place m, and take the second bullock, and offer a burnt-sacrifice n with the wood of the grove which thou shalt cut down.

‖ Or, in an orderly manner.

l Of which ver. 20, 21. Heb. of this strong hold: for in that calamitous time the Israelites retreated to such Rocks, and hid and fortified themselves in them. m i. e. In a plain and smooth part of the Rock, where an Altar may be conveniently built. Or, in order, i. e. in such manner as I have appointed; for God had given Rules about the building of Altars. n Gideon was no Priest, nor was this the appointed place of Sacrifice; but God can dispense with his own Institutions, though we may not; and his Call gave Gideon sufficient Authority.

27 Then Gideon took ten men of his servants o, and did as the LORD had said unto him: and so it was, because he feared p his fathers household, and the men of the city, that he could not do it by day, that he did it by night.

o Whom doubtless he had acquainted with his design, and the assurance of success in it whereby they were easily induced to assist him, if not sincerely, yet for the expectation of advantage to themselves by it. p Not so much, lest he should suffer for it, for he knew very well the doing it by night with so many hands could not hinder the discovery, and consequently the punishment of it; but lest he should be prevented from doing it.

28 ¶ And when the men of the city arose early in the morning, behold, the altar of Baal was cast down, and the grove was cut down that was by it, and the second bullock was offered upon the altar that was built q.

q Not upon Baals Altar, for which it was designed; but upon an Altar erected in contempt of Baal.

29 And they said one to another, Who hath done this thing? And when they enquired, and asked, they said, Gideon the son of Joash hath done this thing r.

r Which they might easily conjecture, partly, by his known aversion from the Worship of Baal, and partly, because no other person durst presume to do such a thing, but they might more certainly learn it from some of the persons imployed in it, who through fear or favour might inform them.

30 Then the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring out thy son, that he may die: because he hath cast down the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the grove that was by it.

31 And Joash said unto all that stood against him, Will ye plead for Baal s? will ye save him? he that will plead for him, let him be put to death t, whilest it is yet morning u: if he be a god, let him plead for himself x, because one hath cast down his altar.

s Why are you so zealous in pleading for that Baal, for the Worship whereof you suffer such grievous Calamities at this day, and from whom you have no help? It is plain, that Joash had been a Worshipper of Baal: either therefore he was now convinced by Gideon's information and action, or he makes use of this pretence to preserve his Son, being indeed indifferent in matters of Religion; and therefore as he did worship Baal to comply with his Neighbours, so now he deserts him, to rescue his Son. t He that shall further plead for such a god as this, deserves to die for his folly and impiety. It is not probable, that this was all which he said for his Son's defence; or that he would neglect to mention the Call his Son had from God to it, the Apparition of an Angel, the Promise of Deliverance: but it is usual in Scripture to give onely some short hints of those things which were more largely discoursed. u i. e. Instantly, without delay; for it was now Morning-time, as appears from ver. 28, &c. x As the God of Israel hath often done when any indignity or injury hath been done to him. But Baal hath now shewed that he is neither able to help you, nor himself; and therefore is not worthy to be served any longer. This couragious and resolute Answer was necessary to stop the torrent of the Peoples fury; and it was drawn from him, partly by the sence of his Sons extream danger; and partly by the confidence he had, that God would plead his Sons Cause, and use him for the Rescue of his People.

32 Therefore on that day he called him y Jerub-baal, saying, Let Baal plead against him, because he hath thrown down his altar.

y i. e. Joash called Gideon so, Judg. 7. 1. in remembrance of this noble Exploit, and to put a brand upon Baal.

33 ¶ Then all the Midianites, and the Amalekites, and the children of the east were gathered together and went over, and pitched in the valley of Jezreel z.

z Not that Jezreel in Judah, of which Jos. 15. 56. but another in the borders of Manasseh and Issachar, Jos. 17. 16. and 19. 18. which was not far distant from Ophrah, where Gideon dwelt, and now was.

34 But the spirit of the LORD † came upon Gideon a, and he * blew a trumpet, and Abiezer b was † gathered after him.

† Heb. clothed.
* Numb. 20. 3. chap. 3. 27.
† Heb. was called after him.

a Inspiring him with extraordinary Wisdom, and Courage, and Zeal to vindicate Gods Honour, and his Countries Liberty. Compare 1 Chron. 12. 18. and 24. 20. b i. e. The Abiezrites, his kindred, and their servants, and others; who finding no harm coming to him for the destroying of Baal, but rather a blessing from God, in giving him strength and courage for so great and dangerous an Attempt, changed their minds, and followed him as the person by whose hands God would deliver them.

35 And he sent Messengers throughout all Manasseh c, who also was gathered after him, and he sent messengers unto Asher, and unto Zebulun, and unto Naphtali d, and they came up to meet them.

c On both sides of Jordan. d Because these Tribes were nearest to him, and so could soonest joyn with him; and were nearest the Enemy also, ver. 33. and therefore were more sensible of the Calamity, and would in all reason be most forward to rescue themselves from it.

36 ¶ And Gideon said unto God e, If thou wilt save Israel by mine hand, as thou hast said, e In way of humble Supplication, partly for the strengthning of his own Faith, and partly for the greater encouragement of his Souldiers in this great and strange Attempt.

37 Behold, I will put a fleece of wool in the floor: and if the dew be on the fleece only, and it be dry upon all the earth beside f; then shall I know that thou wilt save Israel by mine hand, as thou hast said.

f i. e. Upon all that spot of ground which adjoyneth to, and encompasseth the Fleece.

38 And it was so: for he rose up early on the morrow, and thrust the fleece together, and wringed the dew out of the fleece, a bowl full of water.

39 And Gideon said unto God, * Let not thine anger be hot against me, and I will speak but this once: Let me prove, I pray thee, but this once with the fleece. Let it now be dry only upon the fleece, and upon all the ground let there be dew g.

* Gen. 18. 32.

g Which was more difficult and preternatural than the former instance, because if there be any moisture, such bodies as fleeces of Wool are most likely to drink it up.

40 And God did so that night: for it was dry upon the fleece only, and there was dew on all the ground.

CHAP. VII.

THen Jerubbaal (who is Gideon) and all the people that were with him, roſe up early, and pitched beſide the well of Harod: ſo that the hoſt of the Midianites were on the north-ſide of them, by the hill of Moreh, in the valley.

2 And the LORD ſaid unto Gideon, The people that are with thee are too many for me b to give the Midianites into their hand, leſt Iſrael vaunt themſelves againſt me, ſaying, Mine own hand hath ſaved me.

b i. e. For my purpoſe; which is, ſo to deliver Iſrael, that it may appear to be my own miraculous act, that ſo I may have all the Glory of it, and they may be more ſtrongly obliged to love and ſerve me.

3 Now therefore go to, proclaim in the ears
* Deut. 20. 8. of the people, ſaying, * Whoſoever is fearful and afraid, let him return and depart early from mount Gilead c: and there returned of the people twenty and two thouſand d, and there remained ten thouſand.

c Not that famous Mount Gilead which was beyond Jordan; for it is apparent that both the Camps of the Iſraelites and of the Midianites were on this ſide Jordan: but another Mount Gilead in the Tribe of Manaſſeh; which might be ſo called, either for ſome reſemblance it had with the other mount Gilead, or in remembrance of their Father Gilead; or, that this might be a Memorial of their near relation to their Brethren, notwithſtanding their being divided one from another by Jordan; or, for ſome other reaſon now unknown at this diſtance of Time and Place. Or, the words may be rendred towards mount Gilead; for the Hebrew Particle, min, or mem, is ſometimes rendred towards, of which ſee Gen. 11. 2. and 13. 11. Deut. 32. 2. 2 Sam. 6. 2. And ſo it may be underſtood of the famous mount Gilead, beyond Jordan, which he may mention here, either, 1. Becauſe many of his Soldiers were of that half Tribe of Manaſſeh which dwelt there, and ſo it was moſt proper for them to return thither; Or, 2. Becauſe that was their ſafeſt courſe, to get furtheſt from the danger which they feared; Or, 3. Becauſe though he would remove them from danger, yet he would not have them diſperſed, but kept together in a Body about mount Gilead; knowing that they who had not Courage enough to Fight their Enemies, might have Valour enough to Purſue them, when they were beaten by others; and ſuſpecting, That the Midianites, if beaten, would probably flee that way. d Who finding their whole Army to be very ſmall, in compariſon of their Enemies, who were a Hundred Thirty Five Thouſand, Judg. 8. 10. and they, no doubt well Armed and Diſciplined, and encouraged by long Succeſs; whereas the Iſraelites were diſ-ſpirited with long Servitude, and many of them unfurniſhed with Arms and Proviſions; loſt the courage which in the beginning they ſeemed to have.

4 And the LORD ſaid unto Gideon, The people are yet too many: bring them down unto the water e, and I will try them for thee f there, and it ſhall be, that of whom I ſay unto thee, This ſhall go with thee, the ſame ſhall go with thee: and of whomſoever I ſay unto thee, This ſhall not go with thee, the ſame ſhall not go up.

e Either that which ran from the Well of Harod, mentioned ver. 1. or ſome other Brook. f Becauſe thy Proclamation hath not ſufficiently tried them; for many who are fearful indeed, will put on the face, and deſire the opinion of being Valiant Perſons; I will take another courſe.

5 So he brought down the people unto the water: and the LORD ſaid unto Gideon, every one that lappeth of the water with his tongue as a dog lappeth, him ſhalt thou ſet by himſelf, likewiſe every one that boweth down upon his knees to drink g.

g It is true, there may be natural reaſons given, why ſome did onely Lap of the Water, when others bowed down to drink; from the Temperance, or Fortitude, or Patience, or Strength, or Diligence of the one; and the Intemperance, or Cowardice, or Impatience, or Weakneſs, or Slothfulneſs of the other; but theſe ſeem to be meer conjectures: The true reaſon and deſign of this courſe, ſeems to be onely this, That God would reduce them to a very ſmall number, which was likely to be done by this means; for the Seaſon of the year being hot, and the generality of the Soldiers weary, and thirſty, and faint, they would moſt probably bow down upon their Knees, that they might more fully refreſh themſelves by a liberal draught, as indeed they did; and it could be expected that there would be but few, who either could or would deny themſelves in this matter; eſpecially, when God concurred in the work, and ſo diſpoſed of the Minds and Bodies of them, that all, except Three Hundred, ſhould lye down to drink.

6 And the number of them that lapped putting their hand to their mouth h, were three hundred men: but all the reſt of the people bowed down upon their knees to drink water.

h Taking up a little water in the Palm of their Hands to put into their mouths.

7 And the LORD ſaid unto Gideon, By the three hundred men that lapped, will I ſave you, and deliver the Midianites into thine hand: and let all the other people go every man unto his place i.

i i. e. To his own home, as Numb. 24. 11.

8 So the people took victuals in their hand, and their trumpets k: and he ſent all the reſt of Iſrael, every man unto his tent, and retained thoſe three hundred men: and the hoſt of Midian was beneath him in the valley.

k i. e. The Trumpets belonging to the whole Army, even to thoſe who were gone away, which he retained for the uſe here following. See ver. 16.

9 ¶ And it came to paſs the ſame night l that the LORD ſaid unto him m, Ariſe, get thee down unto the hoſt, for I have delivered it into thine hand.

l After he had diſmiſſed all but the Three Hundred. m In a Dream or Viſion of the Night.

10 But if thou fear to go down n, go thou with Phurah thy ſervant down to the hoſt.

n To wit, without ſome farther aſſurance of thy Succeſs, I will condeſcend ſo far to thee, as to give thee another Sign.

11 And thou ſhalt hear what they ſay, and afterward ſhall thine hands be ſtrengthned o to go down unto the hoſt. Then went he down with Phurah his ſervant unto the out-ſide ‖ of the armed men that were in the hoſt.

‖ Or, of rank by five.

o Thou wilt be encouraged to proceed, notwithſtanding the ſmalneſs of thy number, which may deter thee.

12 And the Midianites, and the Amalekites, and * all the children of the eaſt, lay along in the valley like graſhoppers for multitude, and their camels were without number, as the ſand by the ſea-ſide for multitude.

* chap. 6. 5, 33. and 8. 10.

13 And when Gideon was come, behold, there was a man that told a dream unto his fellow, and ſaid, Behold, I dreamed a dream, and lo, a cake of barley bread p tumbled into the hoſt of Midian, and came unto a tent, and ſmote it that it fell, and overturned it, that the tent lay all along.

p A weak and contemptible thing; and in it ſelf as unable to overthrow a Tent, as to remove a Mountain; but being thrown by a Divine hand, bore down all before it; which fitly reſembled Gideon's caſe, which was mean and deſpicable, as himſelf ſaith, Judg. 6. 15. yet he was Mighty, through God, to deſtroy the Midianites.

14 And his fellow anſwered and ſaid, This is nothing elſe ſave the ſword of Gideon the ſon of Joaſh, a man of Iſrael q: for into his hand hath God delivered Midian and all his hoſt.

q As there are many examples of ſignificant Dreams, given by God to Heathens, as Gen. 41. Dan. 2. and 4. ſo ſome of them had the gift of Interpreting Dreams; which they ſometimes did by Study and Art, and ſometimes by Divine direction in this caſe.

15 And

15 And it was so, when Gideon heard the telling of the dream r, and † the interpretation thereof, that he worshipped ſ, and returned into the hoſt of Iſrael, and ſaid, Ariſe, for the LORD hath delivered into your hand the hoſt of Midian.

† Heb. the breaking thereof.

r Which he underſtood, though ſpoken in the Midianitiſh Language; either, becauſe it was near akin to the Hebrew, being onely a differing Dialect of it; or, becauſe the Iſraelites had now been accuſtomed to the Midianites company and diſcourſe for ſeven years. ſ He praiſed God for this Miraculous Work and ſpecial encouragement, whereby he was confirmed in his enterpriſe.

16 And he divided the three hundred men into three companies t, and he put † a trumpet in every mans hand with empty pitchers, and ‖ lamps u within the pitchers x.

† Heb. trumpets in the hand of all of them.
‖ Or fire-brands, or torches.

t To make a ſhew of a vaſt Army encompaſſing them. u Or, Torches made of ſuch materials as would quickly take Fire, and keep it for ſome time, x Partly to preſerve the Flame from the violence of Wind and Weather; and partly to conceal it, and ſurpriſe their Enemy with ſudden and unexpected Flaſhes of Light.

17 And he ſaid unto them, Look on me, and do likewiſe y; and behold, when I come to the outſide of the camp, it ſhall be, that as I do, ſo ſhall ye do.

y For though two hundred of his men were placed on other ſides of the Camp; yet they were ſo diſpoſed, that ſome perſon or perſons, ſet as Watch-men, might ſee what was done, and give notice to the reſt to follow the Example.

18 When I blow with a trumpet, I, and all that are with me, then blow ye the trumpets alſo on every ſide of all the camp, and ſay, The ſword † of the LORD, and of Gideon z.

† Heb. for the LORD and Gideon.

z He mentions his own Name, together with Gods, not out of vain oſtentation or arrogance, as if he would equal himſelf with God; for he mentions God in the firſt and chief place, and himſelf onely as his Miniſter; but from prudent Policy, becauſe his Name was grown formidable to them, and ſo was likely to further his Deſign, and their Flight, as it did.

19 ¶ So Gideon, and the hundred men that were with him, came unto the outſide of the camp, in the beginning of the middle watch a, and they had but newly ſet the watch, and they blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers that were in their hands.

a i. e. Of the ſecond Watch; for though afterwards the night was divided into four Watches by the Romans, Mat. 14. 25. yet in more ancient times, and in the Eaſtern parts, it was divided into three: He choſe the dark and dead of the night, to increaſe their Terror by the Trumpets, whoſe ſound would then be loudeſt and beſt heard, and the Lamps, whoſe light would then ſhine moſt brightly, and ſeem biggeſt, to ſurpriſe them at diſadvantage, and to conceal the ſmalneſs of their numbers.

20 And the three companies blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers, and held their lamps in their left hands b, and their trumpets in their right hands to blow withal, and they cried, The ſword of the LORD, and of Gideon.

b That they might be thought to be a mighty Hoſt, having as many Troops or Companies, as there were Trumpets and Lights.

21 And they ſtood every man in his place c, round about the camp; and all the hoſt ran, and cried and fled.

c As if they had onely been Torch-bearers to the ſeveral Companies.

22 And the three hundred blew the trumpets, and * the LORD ſet every mans ſword againſt his fellow d, even throughout all the hoſt, and the hoſt fled to Beth-ſhittah ‖ in Zererath, and to the † border of Abel-meholah e, unto Tabbath.

* Iſa. 9. 4.
‖ Or, towards.
† Heb. lip.

d They ſlew one another, either becauſe they ſuſpected Treachery, and ſo fell upon thoſe they firſt met with; which they might more eaſily do, becauſe they conſiſted of ſeveral Nations, as may be gathered from Judg. 6. 3. and Joſephus affirms; or becauſe the darkneſs of the night made them unable to diſtinguiſh Friends from Foes; or, becauſe the ſuddenneſs of the thing ſtruck them with Horror and Amazement; or, becauſe God infatuated them, as he hath done many others. Compare 1 Sam. 14. 20. 2 Chron. 20. 23. e Of which ſee 1 King. 4. 12. and 19. 16.

23 And the men of Iſrael gathered themſelves together out of Naphtali, and out of Aſher, and out of all Manaſſeh, and purſued after the Midianites.

24 ¶ And Gideon ſent meſſengers throughout all mount Ephraim, ſaying, Come down againſt the Midianites, and take before them the waters unto Beth-barah f, and Jordan g. Then all the men of Ephraim gathered themſelves together, and took the waters unto Beth-barah and Jordan.

f i. e. The Paſſes over thoſe Waters to which they are like to come. g The Foords of Jordan, which River they muſt paſs over into their own Countrey.

25 And they took * two princes of the Midianites, Oreb and Zeeb: and they ſlew Oreb upon the rock Oreb, and Zeeb they ſlew at the winepreſs of Zeeb, and purſued Midian, and brought the heads of Oreb and Zeeb to Gideon on the other ſide Jordan h.

* Pſal. 83. 11; Iſa. 10. 26.

h For Gideon in the purſuit had paſſed over Jordan, as we read Judg. 8. 4. which though mentioned after, this may ſeem to have been done before it, ſuch tranſpoſitions being frequent in Sacred Story. Or, on this ſide Jordan, for the Hebrew word is indifferent to both ſides, ſee Gen. 50. 10. And ſo this is oppoſed to what follows of his paſſing over Jordan, Judg. 8. 4. And then there is no anticipation here.

CHAP. VIII.

AND the men of Ephraim ſaid unto him, † Why haſt thou ſerved us thus, that thou calledſt us not a when thou wenteſt to fight with the Midianites? and they did chide with him † ſharply.

† Heb. what thing is this thou hast done unto us.

a Why haſt thou neglected and deſpiſed us, in not calling us in to thy help, as thou didſt other Tribes? 2 And he ſaid unto them, What have I done now in compariſon of you b? is not the gleaning of the grapes of Ephraim c better than the vintage of Abiezer d?

b What was done, was done by Gods immediate hand, making them one to kill another; what I have done in cutting off ſome of the Fugitive common Soldiers, is not to be compared with your Exploit in deſtroying their Princes; I began the War, but you have finiſhed. c What you have gleaned or done after me. d i. e. Of the Abiezrites, to whom he modeſtly communicateth the honour of the Victory, and doth not arrogate it to himſelf, as Generals commonly do.

c Not as a Judge, for he was already made by God; but as a King. d Let the Kingdom be Hereditary to thee, and to thy Family. e This miraculous and glorious deliverance by thy hands, deſerves no leſs from us.

23 And Gideon ſaid unto them, I will not rule over you f, neither ſhall my ſon rule over you: the LORD ſhall rule over you g.

f To wit, as a King, which you deſire. g In a ſpecial manner, as he hath hitherto done, by Judges, whom God did particularly appoint and direct, even by Urim and Thummim, and aſſiſt upon all occaſions; whereas Kings had a greater Power, and onely a general dependance upon God, as other Kings had. Compare 1 Sam. 8. 6, 7.

24 ¶ And Gideon ſaid unto them, I would deſire a requeſt of you, That ye would give me every man the ear-rings of his prey, (for they had golden ear-rings, becauſe they were Iſhmaelites h.)

h Obj. They are called Midianites before. Anſ. Here ſeems to have been a mixture of People, Judg. 6. 3. which are all called by by one general name, Ishmaelites, or Arabians, who used to wear Ear-rings, Gen. 35. 4. but the greatest, and the ruling part of them were Midianites.

25 And they answered, We will willingly give them. And they spread a garment, and did cast therein, every man the ear-rings of his prey.

26 And the weight of the golden ear-rings that he requested, was a thousand and seven hundred shekels of gold, beside ornaments, and ‖ collars, and purple raiment that was on the kings of Midian, and beside the chains that were about their camels necks.

‖ Or, sweet Jewels.

27 And Gideon made an ephod thereof i, and put it in his city k, even in Ophrah: and all Israel went thither a whoring after it l; which thing became a snare m unto Gideon, and to his house.

i Not of all of it; for then it would have been too heavy for use; but of part of it, the rest being probably employed about other things agreeable and appertaining to it; which elsewhere are comprehended under the name of the Ephod, as Judg. 17. 5. and 18. 14, 18. Hos. 3. 4. k Not as a Monument of the Victory, for such Monuments were neither proper nor usual; but for Religious use, for which alone the Ephod was appointed. The case seems to be this, Gideon having by Gods Command erected an Altar in his own City, Ophrah, Judg. 6. 26. for an extraordinary time and occasion, thought it might be continued for ordinary use; and therefore as he intended to procure Priests, so he designed to make Priestly Garments, and especially an Ephod, which was the chief and most costly; which besides its use in sacred ministrations, was also the instrument by which the Mind of God was enquired and discovered, 1 Sam. 23. 6, 9. and 30. 7. which might seem necessary for the Judge to have at hand, that he might consult with God upon all occasions. l Committing Superstition or Idolatry with it, or going thither to enquire the Will of God; whereby they were drawn from the true Ephod, instituted by God for this end, which was to be worn by the High-Priest onely. m An occasion of Sin and Ruine to him and his, as the next Chapter sheweth. Though Gideon was a good man, and did this with an honest mind, and a desire to set up Religion in his own City and Family; yet here seems to be many Sins in it; 1. Superstition and Will-worship, Worshipping God by a device of his own, which was frequently and expresly forbidden. 2. Presumption, in wearing, or causing other Priests to wear this kind of Ephod, which was peculiar to the High-Priest. 3. Transgression of a plain command, of Worshipping God ordinarily but at one place and one Altar, Deut. 12. 5, 11, 14. and withdrawing people from that place, to his. 4. Making a fearful Schism or Division among the People. 5. Laying a Stumbling-block, or an occasion of Superstition or Idolatry before that people, whom he knew to be too prone to it.

28 ¶ Thus was Midian subdued before the children of Israel: so that they lifted up their head no more n: and the country was in quietness forty years o in the days of Gideon p.

n i. e. Recovered not their former Strength or Courage, so as to Conquer or Oppress others, as they had done. o i. e. To the fortieth year, from the beginning of the Midianitish Oppression; see on Judg. 3. 11. p i. e. As long as Gideon lived.

29 ¶ And Jerubbaal the son of Joash went and dwelt in his own house q.

q Not in his Fathers House, as he did before; nor yet in a Court like a King, as the People desired; but in a middle state, as a Judge, for the preservation and maintenance of their Religion and Liberties.

† Heb. going out of his thigh.

30 And Gideon had threescore and ten sons † of his body begotten: for he had many wives.

31 And his concubine that was in Shechem r, she also bare him a son, whose name he † called Abimelech s.

† Heb. set.

r She dwelt there, and he oft came thither, either to execute Judgment, or upon other occasions. s i. e. My Father the King; so he called him, probably, to gratify his Concubine, who desired it either out of Pride, or Design.

32 And Gideon the son of Joash died in a good old age t, and was buried in the sepulchre of Joash his father, in Ophrah of the Abi-ezrite.

t His long Life being crowned with the continuance of his Honour, Tranquility and Happiness.

33 And it came to pass, as soon as Gideon was dead, that the children of Israel turned again u, and went a whoring after Baalim x, and made Baal-berith y their god.

u Whereby we see the Wicked temper of this people, who did no longer cleave to God, than they were in a manner constrained to it, by the Presence and Authority of their Judges. x This was the general name including all their Idols, whereof one here follows. y i. e. The Lord of the Covenant, so called, either from the Covenant wherewith the Worshippers of this God bound themselves to maintain his Worship, or to defend one another therein; or rather, because he was reputed the God and Judge of all Covenants, and Promises, and Contracts, to whom it belonged to maintain them, and to punish the violaters of them; and such a God both the Grecians and the Romans had.

34 And the children of Israel remembred not the LORD their God, who had delivered them out of the hand of all their enemies on every side:

35 Neither shewed they kindness to the house of Jerubbaal, namely Gideon, according to all the goodness which he had shewed unto Israel.

CHAP. IX.

AND Abimelech the son of Jerubbaal went to Shechem, unto his * mothers brethren, and communed with them, and with all the family of the house of his mothers father, saying,

* chap. 8. 31.

2 Speak, I pray you, in the ears of all the men of Shechem, † Whether is better for you, either that all the sons of Jerubbaal (which are threescore and ten persons) reign over you a, or that one reign over you? Remember also, that I am your bone and your flesh b.

† What is good? whether, &c.

a He supposeth that they would take that Government which their Father modestly refused; and that the multitude of his Sons would occasion horrible Divisions, and Confusions, and Contests about the Sovereign Power; all which they might avoid by chusing him King; and so they might enjoy the Monarchy which they had long and oft desired. b Your Kinsman, of the same Tribe and City with you; which will be no small Honour and Advantage to you.

3 And his mothers brethren c spake of him in the ears of all the men of Shechem all these words, and their hearts inclined † to follow Abimelech: for they said, He is our brother d.

c i. e. Kinsmen, as that word is oft used, as Gen. 14. 16. and 29. 12. d They were easily perswaded to believe and follow what served their own Interest.

4 And they gave him threescore and ten e pieces of silver f out of the house of Baal-berith g, wherewith Abimelech hired * vain and light persons h which followed him.

* chap. 11. 3.

e Agreeably to the number of his Enemies, Gideon's seventy Sons. f Not Shekels, as some fancy, which were too small a Sum for this purpose; but far larger pieces, the exact worth whereof it is neither possible nor needful for us now to know. g Out of his Sacred Treasury; for even they who were very parsimonious and base in their Expences about Gods Service, were liberal in their Contributions to Idols; having since Gideon's Death, built this Temple (which he would never have suffered whilest he lived) and endowed it with considerable Revenues. h Unsettled, idle and necessitous persons, the most proper Instruments for Tyranny and Cruelty.

5 And he went unto his fathers house at Ophrah, and slew his brethren the sons of Jerubbaal i, being threescore and ten persons k, upon one stone l: notwithstanding, yet Jotham the youngest son of Jerubbaal was left, for he hid himself.

i The onely persons who were likely to hinder him in establishing his Tyranny. k Wanting one, who is here expressed; And these Synecdochical expressions are frequent in Scripture, See Gen. 35. 26. and 42. 13. Numb. 14. 32, 33. Job. 20. 24. 1 Cor. 15. 5. l Whereby he would signifie, that this this was either, 1. An act of Justice, in cutting them all off in an orderly manner, for some supposed Crime, probably, as designing Sedition and Rebellion: Or, 2. An act of Religion in avenging the dishonour and injury done to Baal by Gideon, Judg. 6. 27, 28. upon his Children, whom he offered up as so many Sacrifices to Baal upon this Stone, which served for an Altar; and for this reason it seems the Money was taken out of Baal's House, because it was to be laid out in his Service.

6 And all the men of Shechem gathered together, and all the house of Millo m, and went and made Abimelech king n, ‖ by the plain of the pillar o that was in Shechem.

‖ Or, by the oak of the pillar. See Josh. 24. 26.

m Of a place or person so called; some eminent and potent Family living in Shechem, or near to it, either the Family of Abimelech's Mother, or some other; Or, and all Beth-millo; so Beth is not an House, but a part of the name of the place. n To wit, over all Israel, ver. 22. which was a strange Presumption for the inhabitants of one City to undertake; but they had many advantages and encouragements for it; as the eager, and general, and constant inclination of the Israelites to Kingly Government; Abimelech's being the Son of Gideon, to whom, and to his Sons, they offered the Kingdom, Judg. 8. 22, And though the Father could, and did refuse it for himself; yet they might imagine, that he could not give away his Son's right, conveyed to them by the Israelites, in their offer; the universal defection of the Israelites from God to Baal, whose great Patron and Champion Abimelech pretended to be; the power and prevalency of the Tribe of Ephraim, in which Shechem was, Jos. 20. 7. whose proud and imperious spirit, manifested Judg. 8. 1. and 12. 1. would make them readily close with a King of their own Brethren; and Abimelech's getting the start of all others, having the Crown actually put upon his head, and an Army already raised to maintain his Tyranny. o Or, by the Oak of the Pillar, i. e. By the Oak, where Joshua erected a Pillar as a Witness of the Covenant renewed between God and Israel, Jos. 24. 26. This place they chose, to signify that they still owned God, and their Covenant with him; and did not Worship Baal in opposition to God, but in conjunction with him, or in subordination to him.

7 ¶ And when they told it to Jotham, he went and stood in the top of mount Gerizim p, and lift up his voice, and cried q, and said unto them, Hearken unto me, ye men of Shechem r, that God may hearken unto you s.

p Which lay near Shechem, and near Mount Ebal. The Valley between these two Mountains of Gerizim and Ebal, was a famous place, employed for a Religious use, even for the Solemn reading of the Law, and its Blessings and Curses, Deut. 11. 29. and 27. 12. Jos. 8. 33. and therefore it is probable it was still used, even by the Superstitious and Idolatrous Israelites for such like occasions, who delighted to use the same places which their Religious Ancestors had Consecrated and used. q So as they that stood in the Valley might hear him, though not suddenly come at him to take him. r Who are here met together upon a solemn occasion, as Josephus notes, Abimelech being absent. s When you cry unto him for Mercy; so he conjures and perswades to give him patient Audience, as they did.

8 The trees went forth on a time t to anoint a king u over them, and they said unto the olive-tree x, Reign thou over us.

t A Parabolical Discourse, usual among the Ancients, especially in the Eastern parts; wherein, under the names of Trees, men are represented. u i. e. To make a King, which was oft done among the Israelites, and some others, with the Ceremony of Anointing. x By which he understands Gideon.

9 But the olive-tree said unto them, Should I leave my fatness * wherewith by me they honour God y and man z, and ‖ go to be promoted a over the trees?

* Psal. 104. 15.
‖ Or, go up and down for other trees.

y In whose Worship and Service Oyl was used for divers things; as about the Lamps, Exod. 35. 14. and Offerings, Lev. 2. 6, 7. and for the anointing of Sacred Persons and Things. z For Oyl was used in the constitution of Kings, and Priests, and Prophets, and for a Present to great Persons, and to anoint the head and face, &c. a Heb. to move hither and thither, to wander to and fro, to exchange my sweet Tranquillity, for unceasing Cares and Travels for the good of others, as a King ought to do.

10 And the trees said unto the fig-tree b, Come thou, and reign over us.

b This, as also the Vine, ver. 12. signifies the same thing with the Olive-Tree, but here are various expressions used, either for the decency of the Parable; or, because Gideon refused this Honour, both for himself, and for his Sons; or, to signify that the Sons of Gideon, whom Abimelech had so cruelly slain, upon pretence of their affecting the Kingdom, were as far from such thoughts as their Father; and therefore were unjustly and wickedly Murdered.

11 But the fig-tree said unto them, Should I forsake my sweetness c, and my good fruit, and go to be promoted over the trees?

c For which that fruit is particularly commended.

12 Then said the trees unto the vine, Come thou, and reign over us.

13 And the vine said unto them, Should I leave my wine, which cheareth God d and man e, and go to be promoted over the trees?

d Wherewith God is well pleased, because it was offered to God, Numb. 15. 5, 7, 10. e See Psal. 104. 15. Prov. 31. 6.

14 Then said all the trees unto the ‖ bramble f, Come thou, and reign over us.

‖ Or, thistle.

f Or, Thorn; a mean, and barren, and hurtful Tree, fitly representing Abimelech, the Son of a Concubine, and a person of small use, and great Cruelty.

15 And the bramble said unto the trees, If in truth ye anoint me king over you g, then come, and put your trust in my shadow h: and if not, * let fire come out of the bramble, and devour the cedars of Lebanon i.

* Exod. 9. 23.

g If you deal truly and justly in making me King. h Then you may expect protection under his Government. i Instead of Protection, you shall receive Destruction by him, especially you Cedars, i. e. Nobles, such as the House of Millo, who have been most forward in this work.

16 Now therefore, if ye have done truly and sincerely, in that ye have made Abimelech king, and if ye have dealt well with Jerubbaal and his house, and have done unto him according to the deserving of his hands:

17 (For my father fought for you, and † adventured his life far k, and delivered you out of the hand of Midian:

† Heb. cast his soul.

k Heb. cast away his Soul or Life far off, out of his reach or power to recover it, i. e. Exposed himself to utmost hazard for your sakes.

18 And ye are risen up against my fathers house this day, and have slain l his sons, threescore and ten persons, upon one stone, and have made Abimelech the son of his maid-servant m king over the men of Shechem n, because he is your brother.)

l Abimelech's fact is justly charged upon them, as done by their consent, approbation and assistance. m His Concubine, whom he so calls by way of reproach, because Maidservants were oft made Concubines, Exod. 21. 7, 8, 9, 10. n By which limitation of their power, and his Kingdom, he reflects contempt upon him, and chargeth them with Presumption, That having only power over their own City, they durst impose a King upon all Israel.

19 If ye then have dealt truly and sincerely with Jerubbaal, and with his house this day, then rejoice ye in Abimelech, and let him also rejoice in you.

20 But if not, let fire come out from Abimelech, and devour the men of Shechem, and the house of Millo: and let fire come out from the men of Shechem, and from the house of Millo, and devour Abimelech o.

o This is not a Prediction, but an Imprecation or Curse, as it is called v. 57. which, being grounded upon just cause, and being the onely way by which Jotham could perform the Duty of the avenger of his Brethrens Blood, which was incumbent upon him; had its effect, as others in like case had, as Jos. 6. 26. compared with 1 King. 16. 34. and 2 King. 2. 24.

21 And

21 And Jotham ran away, and fled p, and went to Beer q, and dwelt there, for fear of Abimelech his brother.

p Which he might eaſily do, having the advantage of the Hill, and other accommodations for flight; and becauſe the people were not forward to purſue a man whom they knew to have ſuch juſt cauſe, and great provocation to ſpeak, and ſo little power to do them any hurt. q A place remote from Shechem, and out of Abimelech's reach: There were divers places of that name.

22 ¶ When Abimelech had reigned three years over Iſrael r:

r For though the men of Shechem were the firſt Authors of Abimelech's advancement, it's more than probable, that the reſt of the People eaſily conſented to that form of Government which they ſo much deſired; or at leaſt, made no reſiſtance againſt it.

23 Then God ſent an evil ſpirit ſ between Abimelech, and the men of Shechem: and the men of Shechem dealt treacherouſly with Abimelech.

ſ God gave the Devil Commiſſion to enter into, or work upon their minds and hearts; knowing, that he of himſelf, and by his own inclination, would fill them with miſtakes, and jealouſies, and diſſenſions, and heart-burnings, which would end in Civil Wars, and mutual ruine.

24 That the cruelty t done to the threeſcore and ten ſons of Jerubbaal might come, and their blood be laid upon Abimelech their brother, which ſlew them, and upon the men of Shechem, which † aided him in the killing of his brethren.

† Heb. ſtrengthened his hands to kill.

t i. e. The puniſhment of the Cruelty.

25 And the men of Shechem ſet liers in wait for him u in the tops of the mountains, and they robbed all that came along that way by them x: and it was told Abimelech y.

u To ſeize his perſon. x To wit, ſuch as favoured or ſerved Abimelech; for to ſuch only their Commiſſion reached, though it may be they went beyond their bounds, and by Military Licenſe robbed all Paſſengers promiſcuouſly. y Who, as it is here implied, exerciſed Hoſtility towards the men of Shechem.

26 And Gaal the ſon of Ebed z came with his brethren, and went over to Shechem a: and the men of Shechem put their confidence in him.

z It is not known who, or of what Tribe he was; but it is evident, that he was a man very conſiderable for Wealth, and Strength, and Counſel, and Intereſt; and ill pleaſed with Abimelech's Power. a By his Preſence and Counſel to animate and aſſiſt them againſt Abimelech.

27 And they went out into the fields b, and gathered their vineyards, and trod the grapes, and made ‖ merry c, and went into the houſe of their gods d, and did eat and drink e, and curſed Abimelech f.

‖ Or, Songs.

b Which, till his coming they durſt not do, for fear of Abimelech; but now took confidence to do ſo, in contempt of of him. c Partly, from the Cuſtom of rejoycing, and ſinging Songs in Vintage-time, Levit. 19. 24. Iſa. 16. 10. Jer. 25. 30. and partly, for the hopes of their Redemption from Abimelech's Tyranny. d Baal-berith, ver. 4. either to beg his help againſt Abimelech, or to give him thanks, either for the Fruits of the Earth now received, or for the hopes of recovering their former, and loſt Liberty. e To the honour of their Idols, and out of the Oblations made to them, as they uſed to do to the honour of Jehovah, and out of his Sacrifices. f Either by reviling and reproaching him after their manner; or rather in a more Solemn and Religious manner, Curſing him by their god, as Goliah did David, 1 Sam. 17. 43. Or, calling upon their god to ratify their Curſes pronounced againſt him.

28 And Gaal the ſon of Ebed ſaid, Who is Abimelech g, and who is Shechem h that we ſhould ſerve him? is not he the ſon of Jerubbaal i? And Zebul his officer k? ſerve the men of Hamor the father of Shechem l: for why ſhould we ſerve him?

g What is he but a baſe-born perſon, an Ambitious, Imperious, and Cruel Tyrant, and one every way unfit and unworthy to govern you? h Shechem is here the name, either, 1. Of the Place or City of Shechem; and ſo the Hebrew Particle mi, who; is put for mah, what; as it is Judg. 13. 17 and then the ſenſe of the place is this; Conſider how obſcure and unworthy a perſon Abimelech is, and what a Potent and Honourable City Shechem is; and judge you whether it be fit that ſuch a City ſhould be ſubject to ſuch a Perſon: Or, rather 2. Of a perſon, even of Abimelech, named in the foregoing words, and deſcribed in thoſe which follow, the ſon of Jerubbaal, between which Shechem is hemmed in, and therefore cannot conveniently belong to any other. He is called Shechem for the Stechemite, by a Metonymy of the ſubject, whereby the place is put for the perſon contained in it, and belonging to it; as, Egypt, Æthiopia, Seba, Judea, Macedonia, and Achaia, &c. are put for the people of thoſe Countreys, Job 1. 15. and 6. 19. Pſal. 68. 31. and 105. 38. Iſa. 43. 3. Mat. 3. 5. Rom. 15. 26. Thus mi is taken properly and the ſenſe is, Who is this Shechemite? for ſo he was by the Mothers ſide, born of a Woman of your City, and ſhe but his Concubine and Servant; Why ſhould you ſubmit to one ſo baſely deſcended? i i. e. Of Gideon, a perſon obſcure by his own confeſſion, Judg. 6. 15. and famous only by his boldneſs and fierceneſs againſt that Baal which you juſtly honour and reverence, whoſe Altar he overthrew, and whoſe Worſhip he endeavoured to aboliſh. k And you are ſo unworthy and mean-ſpirited, that you do not onely ſubmit to him, but ſuffer his very Servants to bear rule over you, and enſlave you; and particularly, this ignoble and hateful perſon Zebul. l If you love Bondage, call in the old Maſter and Lord of the place; chuſe not an upſtart, as Abimelech is; but rather take one of the old Stock, one deſcended from Hamor, Gen. 34. 2. who did not carry himſelf like a Tyrant, as Abimelech did; but like a Father of his City of Shechem. This he might ſpeak, either, 1. Sincerely, as being himſelf a Canaanite and a Shechemite, and poſſibly come from one of thoſe little ones whom Simeon and Levi ſpared when they ſlew all the grown Males, Gen. 34. 29. And it may be that he was one of the Royal Blood, a deſcendant of Hamor, who hereby ſought to inſinuate himſelf into their minds and Government, as it follows, ver. 29. Would to God this people were under my hand; which he might judge the people more likely to do, both becauſe they were now united with the Canaanites in Religion; and becauſe their preſent diſtreſs might oblige them to put themſelves under him, who ſeemed or pretended to be a Valiant and Expert Commander. Or, 2. In way of deriſion, he being an Iſraelite; if you are ſo ſervile, ſerve ſome of the children of Hamor; which becauſe you rightly judge to be abſurd and diſhonourable, do not now ſubmit to a far baſer perſon; but caſt off his Yoke, and recover your loſt Liberties.

29 And would to God this people were under my hand m, then would I remove Abimelech n, And he ſaid to Abimelech o, Increaſe thine army, and come out p, m i. e. Under my Command; I wiſh you would unanimouſly ſubmit to me, as your Captain and Governour; for he found them divided; and ſome of them hearkening after Abimelech, whom they had lately rejected, according to the levity of the popular humour. n As you have driven him out of your City, I would drive him out of your Countrey. o He ſent this Meſſage or Challenge to him. p I deſire not to ſurpriſe thee at any diſadvantage; ſtrengthen thy ſelf as much as thou canſt, and come out into the open Field, that thou and I may decide it by our Arms.

30 ¶ And when Zebul the ruler of the city heard the words of Gaal the ſon of Ebed, his anger was ‖ kindled q.

q It ſeems he had temporized and complyed with the peoples humour and Plot againſt Abimelech, either in diſſimulation and deſign, and by Abimelech's connivance or advice; or, really; but when he heard Gaal's words, and himſelf traduced, and ſtruck at by them, he changed his mind, repented of his defection from Abimelech, and intended to return himſelf, and to bring the people again to the Obedience of their Lord and King.

31 And he ſent meſſengers unto Abimelech † privily r, ſaying, Behold, Gaal the ſon of Ebed, and his brethren be come to Shechem; and behold they fortifie the city againſt thee ſ.

† Heb. craftily, or to Tormah.

r So as Gaal and his Confederates might not know it. Or, in Thormah; or, who was in Tormah; for ſome make it the name of the place where Abimelech was, which is called with ſome variation, Arumah, ver. 41. ſ They Beſiege or Guard the City of Shechem, ſo as none may go out to thee, nor come in from thee.

32 Now therefore, up by night, thou and the people that is with thee, and lye in wait in the field.

33 And it shall be, that in the morning assoon as the sun is up, thou shalt rise early, and set upon the city: and behold, when he t, and the people that is with him come out against thee, then mayest thou do to them † as thou shalt find occasion.

† Heb. as thine hand shall find.

t i. e. Gaal mentioned ver. 33.

34 ¶ And Abimelech rose up, and all the people that were with him, by night, and they laid wait against Shechem in four companies.

35 And Gaal the son of Ebed went out, and stood in the entring of the gate of the city u; and Abimelech rose up, and the people that were with him, from lying in wait.

u To put his Army in order, and to conduct them against Abimelech, whom he supposed to be at a great distance.

36 And when Gaal saw the people, he said to Zebul x, Behold, there come people down from the top of the mountains. And Zebul said unto him, Thou seest the shadow of the mountains, as if they were men y.

x Who concealed the anger which he had conceived, v. 30. and pretended compliance with him in this Expedition, that he might draw him forth into the Field where Abimelech might have the opportunity of Fighting with him, and overthrowing him. y For in the Morning, as this was, and in the Evening, the shadows are longest, and move most quickly. He intimates, that he was afraid of shadows.

37 And Gaal spake again, and said, See, there come people down by the † middle of the land z, and another company come along by the plain of ‖ Meonenim.

‖ Or, the regarders of times.

z Heb. by the navel of the Land. So he calls, either First the middle of it, as the middle part of Greece and of Sicily are called the navel of them, by the Roman Writers, because the Navel is in the midst of Mans Body: Or, Secondly, The higher part of it, called the Mountains, ver. 36. and here the navel, because it was raised above the other ground, as the Navel is above the rest of the Body.

38 Then said Zebul unto him, Where is now thy mouth a wherewith thou saidst, Who is Abimelech that we should serve him? is not this the people that thou hast despised? Go out, I pray now, and fight with them.

a i. e. Thy brags. Now thou betrayest thy fears, and therefore now shew thy self a man, and fight valiantly for thy self and people.

39 And Gaal went out before the men of Shechem, and fought with Abimelech.

40 And Abimelech chased him, and he fled before him b, and many were overthrown and wounded c, even unto the entring of the gate.

b Being surprized by the unexpected coming of Abimelech, and possibly not fully prepared for the encounter. c Being pursued and overtaken by Abimelech.

41 And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah d; and Zebul thrust out Gaal and his brethren e, that they should not dwell in Shechem.

d He did not prosecute his Victory, but retreated to Arumah, partly to see the effect of this Fight, and whether the Shechemites would not of themselves return to his Government, being either perswaded by Zebul upon this occasion, or terrified by his strength and valour, or now by his clemency in proceeding no further against them: and partly, that being hereby grown more secure, he might have the greater advantage against them, which accordingly he here makes use of. e Which he was inabled to do, because the Multitude, which is generally light and unstable, and judgeth of all things by Events, were now enraged against Gaal, suspecting him guilty either of Treachery, or Cowardize, or ill Conduct: and besides, they thought the expulsion of Gaal would sweeten and satisfie Abimelech, and make him give over the War against them. But though they were offended with Gaal, yet Zebul's interest was not so considerable with them, that he could prevail with them either to kill Gaal and his Brethren, or to yield themselves to Abimelech; and therefore he still complies with the People, and waits for a fairer opportunity, though in vain.

42 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the people went out into the field f, and they told Abimelech.

f Either, First, to renew the Fight, and avenge themselves for their last loss, the great God hardening their hearts to their Destruction, and the accomplishment of his Word delivered to them by Jotham. But here is not one word about the Peoples Arming, or Resisting, or Fighting, as there was before, ver. 39. but only of their Slaughter, ver. 43. 44. Or, Secondly, to their usual, and then proper Imployments about their Lands, for though their Vintage was past, the Seed-time was now come, and other things were to be done in the Fields. Or, Thirdly, Upon some solemn occasion, not here expressed; possibly to make a solemn Procession, or perform some other Rites in the Fields, to the honour of their god Baal-berith, as the manner of the Heathen was, to make supplication to him for his help, and for better success; or onely to go for that end to the house of their god Baal-berith, which is thought to have been in the Fields; as may seem from ver. 27, 46. on a Mountain upon the East side of the City.

43 And he took the people, and divided them into three companies g, and laid wait in the field, and looked, and behold, the people were come forth out of the city, and he rose up against them and smote them.

g Whereof he kept one with himself, ver. 44. and put the rest under other Commanders.

44 And Abimelech, and the company that was with him, rushed forward, and stood in the entring of the gate of the city h, and the two other companies ran upon all the people that were in the fields, and slew them.

h To prevent their Retreat into the City, and give the other two Companies opportunity to cut them off.

45 And Abimelech fought against the city all that day, and he took the city, and slew the people that was therein, and beat down the city, and sowed it with salt i.

i Not to make the place barren, as salt will do, for then he would have sowed the Fields, not the City; but in token of his detestation and desire of their utter and irrecoverable Destruction: for Salt is the symbole or sign of Perpetuity; compare Numb. 18. 19. Deut. 29. 23. 2 Chron. 13. 5. Zeph. 2. 9.

46 ¶ And when all the men of the tower of Shechem k heard that, they entred into an hold of the house of the god of Berith l.

k A strong place belonging to the City of Shechem, and made for its defence or security, but without the City. It is thought, this was that Millo which was confederate with Shechem in their design against Abimelech, ver. 6. which also Jotham cursed with Shechem, ver. 20. and that curse is noted to have its Effect, ver. 57. And this place may be called the Tower of Shechem; either because those who possessed and defended it, were sent from Shechem: Or, because it was built and kept for the safe-guard of Shechem. l Or, Baal-berith, ver. 4. Hither they fled out of the Town belonging to it, fearing the same event with Shechem; and here they thought to be secure; partly by the strength of the place, as the Temples or Idols were oft-times built in the highest and strongest Places, as the Capitol at Rome, and the Temple at Jerusalem; and such this place seems to have been, because they laid their Treasure here, ver. 4. Partly by the Religion of it, thinking that either their god would protect them there, or that Abimelech would spare them there, if not out of piety to that god, yet out of thankfulness for the benefit which he received thence, ver. 4.

47 And it was told Abimelech, that all the men of the tower of Shechem were gathered together, into that place.

48 And Abimelech gat him up to mount Zalmon m, he, and all the people that were with him, and Abimelech took an ax in his hand, and cut down a bough from the trees, and took it, and laid it on his shoulder, and said unto the people that were with him, What ye have seen † me do, make haste, and do as I have done.

m A place so called from its shadiness, because there were many Trees there.

49 And all the people likewise cut down every man his bough, and followed Abimelech, and put them to the hold, and set the hold on fire upon them: so that all the men of the tower of Shechem died also, about a thousand men and women.

50 ¶ Then went Abimelech to Thebez n, and encamped against Thebez, and took it.

n Another Town near to Shechem; and, as it seems, within its Territory.

51 But there was a strong tower within the city, and thither fled all the men, and women o, and all they of the city, and shut it to them, and gat them up to the top of the tower p.

o All that were not slain in the taking of the Town: or they all forsook the Town, and retired to their strong hold. p Which was flat and plain, after their manner of Building.

52 And Abimelech came unto the tower, and fought against it, and went hard unto the door of the tower, to burn it with fire.

*2 Sam. 11. 21. 53 And a certain woman * cast a piece of a milstone q upon Abimelech's head, and all to brake his skull.

q Such great stones no doubt they carried up with them, whereby they might defend themselves, or offend those who Assaulted them. Here the Justice of God is remarkable in suiting the Punishment to his Sin. He slew his Brethren upon a stone, ver. 5. and he loseth his own life by a Stone.

*So 1 Sam. 31. 4. 54 Then * he called hastily unto the young man his armour-bearer, and said unto him, Draw thy sword, and slay me, that men say not of me, A woman slew him r: and his young man thrust him through, and he died.

r Which was esteemed a matter of Disgrace.

55 And when the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead, they departed every man unto his place.

56 ¶ Thus God rendred the wickedness of Abimelech which he did unto * his father s, in slaying his seventy brethren.

* Judg. 9. 5. Ruth 4. 10.

s In rooting out, as far as he could, the name and memory, and remainders of his Father.

57 And all the evil of the men of Shechem did God render upon their heads: and upon them came the curse of Jotham, the son of Jerubbaal.

CHAP. X.

‖ Or, deliver. † Heb. save. AND after Abimelech, there arose a to ‖ † defend Israel b, Tola the son of Puah, the son of Dodo, a man of Issachar, and he dwelt in Shamir in mount Ephraim c.

a Not of himself, but either chosen by the People; or rather, raised by God, as the other Judges were. b Or, to save, which he did not by fighting against, and overthrowing their Enemies, but by a prudent and pious Government of them, whereby he kept them from Sedition, and Oppression, and Tyranny, as also from Idolatry; as may be gathered from ver. 6. which if not restrained and purged out, would have brought certain ruine upon them. c Which was in the very heart and midst of the Land.

2 And he judged Israel twenty and three years, and died, and was buried in Shamir.

3 ¶ And after him arose Jair a Gileadite d, and judged Israel twenty and two years.

d Of Giltad beyond Jordan.

4 And he had thirty sons that rode on thirty ass-colts e, and they had thirty cities, which are ‖ Or, the villages of Jair. called ‖ Havoth-jair f, unto this day, which are in the land of Gilead.

e Because Horses were scarce there, and were not to be multiplied by the King himself, Deut. 17. 16. Hence their Kings and Kings children used to ride upon Mules, 2 Sam. 13. 29. and 18. 9. 1 King. 1. 33, 38. 40. Compare Judg. 5. 10. and 12. 14. f Object. These Villages were called so before this time from another Jair: And Numb. 32. 41. Deut. 3. 14. Answ. They are not said to be now first called by that Name; but to be still so called, because the old Name was revived and confirmed upon this occasion. As Sheba is said to be called Beersheba upon an occasion mentioned Gen. 26. 33. though it was so called before upon a more ancient occasion, Gen. 21. 33. Possibly this Jair had enlarged or fortified these Towns, and so they were justly denominated from him, no less than from the former.

5 And Jair died, and was buried in Camon.

6 ¶ And * the children of Israel did evil again in the sight of the LORD, and served Baalim, and * Ashtaroth, and the gods of Syria, and the gods of Zidon, and the gods of Moab, and the gods of the children of Ammon, and the gods of the Philistines, and forsook the LORD, and served not him g.

* chap. 2. 11. and 3. 7. and 4. 1. and 6. 1. and 13. 1. * chap. 2. 13.

g He shews how they grew worse and worse, and so ripened themselves for the Ruin which afterward came upon them. Before they Worshipped God and Idols together: now they utterly forsake God, and wholly cleave to Idols.

7 And the anger of the LORD was hot against Israel, and he * sold them into the hands of the Philistines, and into the hands of the children of Ammon h.

* 1 Sam. 12. 9.

h The one on the West, the other on the East; so they were molested on both sides.

† Heb. crushed. 8 And that year they vexed and † oppressed the children of Israel eighteen years i, all the children of Israel that were on the other side Jordan, in the land of the Amorite which is in Gilead.

i Or, That year they had vexed and oppressed the children of Israel eighteen years. Or, They vexed them in that year, that was the eighteenth year; to wit, of that Vexation. This was the eighteenth year from the beginning of that Oppression. And these eighteen years are not to be reckoned from Jair's Death, because that would enlarge the time of the Judges beyond the just bounds; as may appear from 1 King. 6. 1. Nor from Jephthah's beginning to Reign, because he Reigned but six years; and in the beginning thereof put an end to this Persecution, but from the fourth year of Jair's Reign: so that the greatest part of Jair's Reign was contemporary with this Affliction. And although this Oppression of the Ammonites and Philistines, and the cause of it, the Idolatry of the Israelites, be not mentioned till after Jair's death, because the Sacred Pen-man would deliver the whole History of this Calamity entirely and together; yet they both happened before it; and Jair's death is mentioned before that, only by a Prolepsis or Anticipation, than which, nothing is more frequent in Scripture. The case of Jair and Samson seem to be much alike. For as it is said of Samson, that he judged Israel in the dayes of the Tyranny of the Philistins, twenty years, Judg. 15. 20. by which it is evident, that his Judicature, and their Dominion, were Contemporary; the like is to be conceived of Jair, that he began to judge Israel, and endeavoured to reform Religion, and purge out all abuses; but being unable to effect this through the backwardness and baseness of the People, God would not inable him to deliver the People, but gave them up to this sad Oppression; so that Jair could only perform one half of his Office, which was to determine Differences amongst the Israelites, but could not deliver them from their Enemies.

9 Moreover, the children of Ammon passed over Jordan, to fight also against Judah, and against Benjamin, and against the house of Ephraim: so that Israel was sore distressed.

10 ¶ And the children of Israel cried unto the LORD, saying, We have sinned against thee, both because we have forsaken our God, and also served Baalim k.

k Because not contented to add Idols to thee, we have preferred them before thee, and rejected thee to receive and worship them.

11 And the LORD said l unto the children of Israel, Did not I deliver you from the Egyptians, and from the Amorites m, from the children of Ammon n, and from the Philistines o?

k Either by himself, the Son of God appearing in a visible shape, which then was usual: or by some Prophet whom he raised and sent to this purpose: or by the High-Priest, who was consulted in the case. m Both Sihon and Og, and their people, Numb. 21. and other Kings of the Amorites within Jordan, Josh. 10. 5. n Who were confederate with the Moabites, Judg. 3. 13, 14. o See Judg. 3. 31.

12 The Zidonians p also, and the Amalekites q, and Maonites r did oppress you, and ye cried to me, and I delivered you out of their hand.

p For though we do not read of any oppression of Israel particularly, by the Sidonians; yet there might be such a thing: as many things were said and done, both in the Old and New Testament, which are not Recorded there: Or, they might joyn their Forces with the King of Mesopotamia, Judg. 3. 8. Or with some other of their Oppressors: for it is certain, these were left among others to prove Israel, Judg. 3. 1, 2, 3. q Of whom, see Judg. 3. 13. and 6. 3. r Either, First, those who lived in, or near the Wilderness of Maon in the South of Judah, 1 Sam. 23. 25. and 25. 2. whether Edomites or others. Or, Secondly, the Mehunims, a People living near the Arabians, of whom, 2 Chron. 26. 7. For in the Hebrew, the Letters of both Names are the same, onely the one is the Singular, the other the Plural Number. Or, Thirdly, The Midianites, whose Oppression he would not omit; it being usual for one and the same Person or Persons to have two Names: although the Midianites may be comprehended under the Amalekites, with whom they were joyned, Judg. 6. 3, 33. Or, Fourthly, Some other people now unknown, and not expressed elsewhere in Scripture.

* Deut. 28. 20. Jer. 2. 13.

13 *Yet ye have forsaken me, and served other gods: wherefore I will deliver you no more s.

s To wit, except you Repent in another manner than you yet have done; which when they performed, God suspends the execution of this Threatning. Compare Jer. 18. 7.

* Deut. 32. 37, 38. Jer. 2. 28.

14 Go and * cry unto the gods which ye have chosen t, let them deliver you in the time of your tribulation.

t You have not been forced to Worship those gods by your Oppressors and Tyrants; but you have freely chosen these gods before me.

15 ¶ And the children of Israel said unto the LORD, We have sinned, do thou unto us whatsoever † seemeth good unto thee u, deliver us onely, we pray thee, this day.

† Heb. is good in thine eyes.

u Do not give us up into the hands of these cruel Men, but do thou chastise us with thine own hand as much as thou pleasest; to wit, if we be not more faithful and constant to thee, than we have hitherto been.

† Heb. gods of strangers. * Isa. 63. 9. † Heb. was shortned.

16 And they put away the † strange gods from among them x, and served the LORD: and * his soul † was grieved y for the misery of Israel.

x This was an evidence of the sincerity of their sorrow, that they did not only confess and bewail their Sins, but also forsake them, and loath themselves for them. y Not properly, or as to inward affection; for God being infinitely happy, is not capable of grieving: but figuratively, and as to outward expression. He acted towards them, like one that felt their Sufferings; he had pity upon them, repented of his severe Proceedings against them, and quite changed his carriage towards them, and punished their Enemies as sorely as if they had grieved and injured his own person.

† Heb. cried together.

17 Then the children of Ammon were † gathered together, and encamped in Gilead: and the children of Israel assembled themselves together, and encamped in Mizpeh z.

3 Then Jephthah fled † from his brethren, and dwelt in the land of Tob d: and there were gathered * vain men e to Jephthah, and went out with him f.

† Heb. from the face. * Judg. 9. 4. 1 Sam. 22. 2.

d The name either of the Land or Territory, or of the Man who was the Owner or Ruler of it. This place was in, or near Gilead, as appears by the speedy intercourse which here was between Jephthah and the Israelites. e Idle persons, who desire to get their living rather by Spoil and Rapine, than by honest and diligent Labour. These evil-minded persons Jephthah managed well, employing them against the Enemies of God, and of Israel, that bordered upon them; and particularly, upon Parties of the Ammonites, which made the Israelites more forward to chuse him for their Chieftain in this War. f When he made excursions and attempts upon his and their Enemies.

4 ¶ And it came to pass † in process of time g, that the children of Ammon made war against Israel.

† Heb. after dayes.

g Heb. after some days: or, after a year, days being oft put for a year, as hath been shewed; after that year mentioned Judg. 10. 8. The Ammonites had vexed and oppressed them Eighteen years, and now that the Israelites begin to make Opposition, they commence a War against them. Or, some time after Jephthah had been banish'd, and after he had taken up Arms, and given them some disturbance. Or, after the Israelites assembled together, as is said, Judg. 10. 18.

5 And it was so, that when the children of Ammon made war against Israel, the elders of Gilead went to fetch Jephthah h out of the land of Tob.

h By direction or instinct from God, who both qualified him for, and called him to the office of a Judge. See Judg. 10. 7. Heb. 11. 32. Otherwise they might not have chosen a Bastard, Deut. 32. 2. Unless we will say, that there being no other person among them fit for, and willing to this Work, necessity dispensed with this Law, as it did with other positive Laws, as those of the Sabbath and Sacrifices.

6 And they said unto Jephthah, Come and be our Captain i, that we may fight with the children of Ammon.

i They say not, our King; for the experience of Abimelech's kingship had cooled their Appetite in that particular; but our Captain.

7 And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, * Did not ye hate me, and expel me out of my fathers house k? and why are ye come unto me now, when ye are in distress?

* Gen. 26. 27.

k And deprive me of all share in my Fathers Goods, which, though a Bastard, was due to me. This Expulsion of him was the act of his Brethren; but he here ascribes it to the Elders of Gilead; either because some of them were among these Elders, as is very probable from the dignity of this Family; or because this act, though desired and promoted by his Brethren, was executed by the decree of the Elders, to whom the determination of all controversies about Inheritances belonged; and therefore it was their fault that they did not Protect him from the Injuries of his Brethren, as their duty was.

8 And

8 And the Elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, Therefore we turn again to thee now l, that thou mayest go with us, and fight against the children of Ammon, and be our head over all the inhabitants of Gilead.

l Being sensible that we have done thee Injury, we come now to make thee full Reparations.

9 ¶ And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, If ye bring me home again m to fight against the children of Ammon, and the LORD deliver them before me, shall I be your head n?

m If you recall me from this place where I am now setled to the place whence I was Expelled. n Will you really make good this Promise? Jephthah was so sollicitous in this case, either from his Zeal for the publick Good, which required that he should be so; or from the Law of Self-Preservation, that he might secure himself from his Brethren; whose ill-will he had experienced, and whose injuries he could not prevent, if, after he had served their ends, he had been reduced to his private capacity; or, there might be some Tincture of Ambition in him; for which God therefore severely, though paternally, chastiseth him, as we see afterwards.

10 ¶ And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, The LORD † be witness between us o, if we do not so according to thy words.

† Heb. be the hearer between us.

o They confirm their Promise by a Solemn and Sacred Oath.

11 Then Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, and the people made him head and captain over them: and Jephthah uttered all his words p before the LORD q in Mizpeh.

p Objectively so called, i. e. All that was spoken not onely by him, but also by the Elders of Gilead, concerning him, and concerning this whole Transaction, and the conditions of it; or, all his matters, the whole business. q i. e. Before the Publick Congregation, wherewith God was usually, and then especially present; see Exod. 20. 24. Deut. 6. 25. Mat. 18. 10. Or, before the Altar, which possibly they did erect upon this special occasion, by Gods Permission: Or, in Gods Presence, calling him to be present, as a Witness and Judge between them.

12 ¶ And Jephthah sent messengers r unto the king of the children of Ammon, saying, What hast thou to do with me s, that thou art come against me, to fight in my land t?

r i. e. Ambassadors, to prevent Blood-shed, and make Peace; as far as in him lay; that so the Israelites might be acquitted before God and men from all the sad consequences of this War; Herein he shewed great Prudence, and no less Piety. s What pretence, or reasonable cause hast thou for this Invasion? t He speaks this in the Name of all the People, whose the Land was.

13 And the king of the children of Ammon answered unto the messengers of Jephthah, * Because Israel took away my land u, when they came up out of Egypt, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and unto Jordan: now therefore restore those lands again peaceably.

* Num. 21. 13.

This Land, before the Conquests of Sihon and Og, belonged partly to the Ammonites, as is affirmed, Jos. 13. 25. and partly, and principally, to the Moabites, as appears from Numb. 21. 24, 26. Deut. 3. 11. And indeed, Moab and Ammon did for the most part joyn their Interests and their Forces, as appears from Scripture-Story; and as Balak the King of the Moabites acted for the Ammonites, so now the King of Ammon seems to act for the Moabites, either as being now his Subjects; or, as his Confederates; whence it comes to pass that Moab and Ammon are here promiscuously mentioned, as ver. 15, 17, 18, 25. and Chemosh the known god of the Moabites, Numb. 21. 29. 1 King. 11. 33. 2 King. 23. 13. Jer. 48. 13, 46. is here called the god of the Ammonites, ver. 24. though to speak strictly, Moloch or Milcolm was their god, 1 King. 11. 5, 7, 33. and 2 King. 23. 13.

20 But Sihon trusted not Israel to pass through his coast: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and pitched in Jahaz, and fought with Israel a.

a So Sihon was the aggressor or beginner of the War; and the Israelites were forced to it for their own Defence.

21 And the LORD God of Israel delivered Sihon, and all his people into the hand of Israel, and they smote them: so Israel possessed all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that countrey.

22 And they possessed * all the coasts b of the Amorites, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and from the wilderness c even unto Jordan.

* Deut. 2. 36.

b Or, Borders; together with all the Land included within those Borders; for so that word is oft used, as Exod. 8. 2. Psal. 147. 14. Jer. 15. 13 and 17. 3. c To wit, the Desert of Arabia.

23 So now the LORD God of Israel hath dispossessed the Amorites d from before his people Israel, and shouldest thou possess it?

d God, the Soveraign Lord of all Lands, hath given us this Land; This he adds, as a further and a convincing reason; because otherwise it might have been alledged against the former Argument, that they could gain no more Right to that Land from Sihon, than Sihon himself had; and he had but an unjust Claim to it.

24 Wilt not thou possess that which Chemosh thy god giveth thee to possess e? so whomsoever the LORD our God shall drive out from before us, them will we possess.

e He speaks according to their fond and absurd Opinion: The Ammonites and Moabites got their Land by right of War, and Conquest of the old Inhabitants, whom they cast out; and this Success, though given them by the true God, for Lot's sake, Deut. 2. 9, 19. they impiously and ridiculously ascribe to their god Chemosh, whose Gift they owned to be a firm and sufficient Title.

25 * And now art thou any thing better than Balak f, the son of Zippor king of Moab? Did he ever strive against Israel, or did he ever fight against them?

* Num. 22. 2. Deut. 23. 4. Josh. 24. 9.

f Art thou wiser than he? or hast thou more right than he had? Balak, though he Plotted against Israel, in defence of his own Land, which he feared they would Invade and Conquer, Numb. 22. 4. yet he never contended with them about the restitution of those Lands which Sihon took from him or his Predecessors, after the Israelites had conquered them.

26 While Israel dwelt in Heshbon, and her †Heb. daughters † towns, and in Aroer, and her † towns, and in all †Heb. daughters the cities that be along by the coasts of Arnon, three hundred years g? why therefore did ye not recover them within that time?

g Not precisely, but about that time, either from their coming out of Egypt; or, from their first conquest of those Lands; and thus numbers are oft expressed, see Numb. 1. 46. and 2. 32. and 11. 21. Judg. 20. 46. He urgeth Prescription, which is by all men reckoned a just Title, and it is fit it should be so for the good of the World, because otherwise the Door would be opened both to Kings, and to private Persons, for infinite contentions and confusions.

27 Wherefore I have not sinned against thee h, but thou doest me wrong to war against me: the LORD the Judg, be judg this day i between the children of Israel, and the children of Ammon.

h I have done thee no wrong. i Let him determine this controverse by the success of this day and War.

28 Howbeit the king of the children of Ammon hearkened not unto the words of Jephthah which he sent him.

29 ¶ Then the * Spirit of the LORD came upon Jephthah k, and he passed over Gilead and Manasseh l, and passed over Mizpeh of Gilead m, and from Mizpeh of Gilead he passed over unto the children of Ammon.

* chap. 3. 10.

k Indued him with a more than ordinary Courage and Resolution. l i. e. Bashan, which the half Tribe of Manasseh, beyond Jordan, inhabited, Jos. 20. 8. and 21. 6. m So called, to distinguish from other Cities of that name: Having gathered what Forces he suddenly could, he came hither to the borders of the Ammonites.

30 And Jephthah vowed a vow n unto the LORD, and said, If thou shalt without fail deliver the children of Ammon into mine hand:

n Of this and the following Verse, see the Notes on ver. 39.

31 Then it shall be, that † whatsoever cometh forth of the doors of my house, to meet me, when I return in peace from the children of Ammon, shall surely be the LORDS, ‖ and I will offer it up for a burnt-offering.

† Heb. that which cometh forth, which shall come forth.
‖ Or, or I will offer, &c.

32 ¶ So Jephthah passed over unto the children of Ammon, to fight against them, and the LORD delivered them into his hand.

33 And he smote them from Aroer, even till thou come to Minnith o, even twenty cities; and unto the ‖ plain of the vineyards, with a very great slaughter: thus the children of Ammon were subdued before the children of Israel.

35 And it came to pass when he saw her, that he rent his clothes, and said, Alas, my daughter, thou hast brought me very low, and thou art one of them that trouble me r: for I have opened my mouth s unto the LORD, and I cannot go back t.

r Before this, I was troubled by my Brethren; and since, by the Ammonites; and now most of all, though but occasionally, by thee. s i. e. I have Vowed, which was done by Words, Numb. 30. 2, 6. t i. e. Not retract my Vow; I am indispensably obliged to perform it.

36 And she said unto him, My father, if thou hast opened thy mouth unto the LORD, do to me according to that which hath proceeded out of thy mouth u: forasmuch as the LORD hath taken vengeance for thee of thine enemies x, even of the children of Ammon.

u Do not for my sake make thy self a Transgressor; I freely give my consent to thy Vow; wherewith, and with the Success of his Arms he had now acquainted her, though it be not here expressed. x I am willing to bear my Burthen; being abundantly satisfied with the great Deliverance which God hath given to his People by thy hands.

37 And she said unto her father, Let this thing be done for me: let me alone two months, that I may † go up and down upon the mountains y, and bewail my virginity z, I, and my fellows.

38 And he said, Go. And he sent her away for two months, and she went with her companions, and bewailed her virginity upon the mountains.

39 And it came to pass at the end of two months, that she returned unto her father, who did with her according to his vow which he had vowed a: and she knew no man b: and it was a ‖ custom in Israel.

a Qu. What was it which Jephthah Vowed and Performed concerning his Daughter? Ans. Many, especially of Modern Writers, conceive, that Jephthah's Daughter was not Sacrificed, but only Devoted to perpetual Virginity; which then was esteemed a great Curse and Reproach: This they gather, 1. From ver. 37, 38. where we read, that she bewailed not her Death, which had been the chief Cause of Lamentation, if that had been Vowed, but her Virginity: 2. From this, ver. 39. where, after he had said, that he did with her according to his Vow; he adds, by way of declaration of the matter of that Vow, and she knew no Man. But for the first, there may be a fair reason given, That she could not with Honour bewail her Death, which she had so generously and chearfully accepted of; because it was attended with, and occasioned by the Publick Good, and her Fathers Honour and Happiness, ver. 36. and was a kind of Martyrdom; and moreover, an act of Religion, the payment of a Vow, which ought to be done chearfully; but onely bewailed the circumstance of her Death, that it was in some sort accursed and opprobrious; she having had no Husband to take away her reproach, as they speak, Isa. 4. 1. and leaving no Posterity to her Fathers Comfort, and the Increase of Gods People. And for the second, that Clause, and she knew no man, is plainly distinguished from the Execution of his Vow, which is here mentioned before; and this is added, not as an Explication of the Vow, but as an aggravating circumstance, that this was executed when she had not yet known any man. Besides, this Opinion seems liable to weighty Objections; 1. There is no Example in all the Scripture, of any Woman that was obliged to perpetual Virginity by any Vow of her own, much less by the Vow of her Parents; nor have Parents any such Power over their Children, either by the Law of Nature, or by the Holy Scripture. 2. The express words of the Vow, ver. 31. mention nothing of her Virginity, but onely, that she should surely be the Lords; i. e. Devoted to the Service of the Lord, which might be without any obligation to perpetual Virginity; for, even Samuel, who was as fully devoted to the Lord by his Parents, as she could be, 1 Sam. 1. 11. and Sampson, who was Devoted not onely by his Parents, but by God himself, and that in the highest degree, even to be a perpetual Nazarite, Judg. 13. 5, 7. yet were not prohibited Marriage; nor were any of the most Sacred Persons, Levites, or Priests, or High Priests, though they were the Lords in a singular manner, obliged to perpetual Virginity; and therefore if she was not Offered up for a Burnt-Offering, as the Authors of this Opinion say, but onely was consecrated to God, there was no occasion to bewail her Virginity, which, for any thing that appears, she was not tied to. 3. If this were all, here was no sufficient cause, why so wise and valiant a man as Jephthah should so bitterly and passionately lament over himself or his Daughter. And therefore it may seem most probable, that Jephthah did indeed Sacrifice his Daughter, as he had Vowed to do; which was the Opinion of Josephus the Jew, and of the Chaldee Paraphrast, and of divers of the Jewish Doctors, and almost all the Ancient Fathers, and many eminent Writers; and this best agrees with the words of the Vow, delivered ver. 31. Whatsoever cometh forth of the doors of my house to meet me——— shall surely be the Lords, and I will offer it for a Burnt-Offering. Nor is there one word in all the following Verses, which denies that she was thus offered; onely the execution of the Vow is delivered in more ambiguous and general terms, ver. 39. which in all reason, and by the Laws of good Interpretation, ought to be limited and explained by the more plain and particular description of it: It is true, those words may seem capable of another Interpretation; the conjunctive Particle, and, may be here put for the disjunctive, or, as it often is, as Exod. 21. 16, 17. Levit. 6. 3, 5. 2 Sam. 2. 19, &c. and so the meaning is, that what I first meet shall surely be the Lords, or, I will offer it up for a Burnt-Offering; to wit, if it be a Creature fit to be so offered; Otherwise, say they, if a Dog or an Ass should have met him first, he should have been obliged to offer them, which was against the Law: But it is sufficiently evident, that he speaks of an Humane Person, from the very Phrase of coming forth to meet him at his return; which plainly argues a design to meet him, purposely to congratulate his Return; this phrase of going to meet a person coming, being very oft used in Scripture, and constantly of one person meeting another, as Gen. 14. 17. and 18. 2. and 24. 17, &c. and never of any brute Creature: And although and is sometimes put for or, yet it is not to be so used without necessity, which seems not to be in this place; nor is it very proper to distinguish two Sentences in this manner, where the one is more general, and the other being more special, is comprehended within it, which is the case here; for it shall surely be the Lords, is the general; and its being offered up for a burnt-offering, is the particular way or manner how it was to be the Lords; as it were very improper to say, This is either a man, or it is my servant John; because the latter branch is contained in the former: and therefore in all the alledged instances where and is put for or, they are two distinct persons or things, and not one comprehended within another, as Exod. 21. 17. Father or Mother, 2 Sam. 2. 19. right hand or left. But the great objection against this Opinion is this, That it seems a most horrid Act, directly contrary to the Law of Nature, and to plain Scripture, thus to Sacrifice his own Daughter; and that it seems altogether incredible, either that such a man as Jephthah, so eminent for Piety, and Wisdom, and Zeal, and Faith, should either make so Barbarous a Vow, or pursue it for above two Months space; and that none of the Priests of that time should inform him of the unlawfulness of executing so Wicked a Vow, and of the liberty he had to redeem such a Vow, by vertue of Levit. 27. 2, 3, &c. or that Jephthah would not willingly receive information, especially where it was so agreeable to his own interest and natural affection; or, that the Priests and People would suffer him to execute his own Daughter, and not rather hinder him by force, as they afterwards did Saul, when he had sworn the Death of Jonathan. These and other such difficulties I confess there are in the case; but something may be truly and fairly said to allay the seeming Monstrousness of this Fact. 1. These were times of great and general ignorance and corruption of Religion, wherein the Israelites had Apostatized from God, and learnt and followed the practises and worships of the Heathen Nations, Judg. 10. 6. whereof this was one, to offer up Humane Sacrifices to Moloch; and although they seem now to have repented and forsaken their Idols, Judg. 10. 16. yet they seem still to have retained part of the old Leaven, and this among the rest, That they might offer Humane Sacrifices, not to Moloch, as they had done, but unto the Lord. And whereas some of the Jewish Writers pretend that Phinehas was alive at this time; and tell a fine Story concerning him and Jephthah, That both stood upon their Terms, and neither would go to the other to advise about the matter; yet it is more than probable that Phinehas was dead long before this time; and whosoever was the High-Priest then, he seems to be guilty either of gross ignorance or negligence; so that a late Learned Writer conceives, that this was the reason why the Priesthood was taken from him, and from that line, and translated to the line of Ithamar, which was done in the time of the Judges, as may be gathered from 1 Sam. 2. 35, 36. Moreover, Jephthah, though now a good man, may seem to have had but rude and barbarous Education; having been banished from his Fathers House, and forced to wander and dispose himself in the utmost Borders of the Land of Gilead, beyond Jordan, at a great distance from the place of Worship and Instruction; Nor is it strange, That the Priests and People did not resist Jephthah in this Enterprise; partly, because many of them might lye under the same ignorance and mistake that Jephthah did; and partly, because they knew Jephthah to be a stout, and resolute, and boisterous man, and were afraid to oppose him in a matter wherein he seemed to be so peremptory, and their Persons and Families were not much concerned. 2. This mistake of Jephthah's, and of the rest of that Age, was not without some plausible appearance of Warrant from the Holy Text, even from Levit. 27. 28, 29. wherein it is expressly provided, That no Devoted thing, whether Man or Beast, should be redeemed, but should surely be put to Death; a place, which it is not strange that a Soldier in so ignorant an Age should mistake, seeing even some Learned Divines, in this knowing Age, and Capellus amongst the rest, have fallen into the same error and justified Jephthah's action from that place; and though I doubt not they run into the other extreme, as men commonly do, those words being to be otherwise understood than they take them; of which see my Notes on that place; yet it must be granted that place gave Jephthah a very colourable pretext for the Action; and being pushed on by Zeal for God, and the Conscience of his Vow, he might easily be induced to it; and though this was a Sin in him, yet it was but a Sin of Ignorance; which therefore was overlooked by a gracious God, and not reproved by any Holy men of God. It is probably conceived, that the Greeks, who used to steal Sacred Histories, and turn them into Fables, had from this History their relation of Iphigenia (which may be put for Jephtigenia) Sacrificed by her Father Agamemnon, which is described by many of the same circumstances wherewith this is accompanied. b To wit, carnally, she died a Virgin.

40 That the daughters of Israel went † yearly c ‖ to lament the daughter of Jephthah d the Gileadite four days in a year.

† Heb. from days to days.
‖ Or, to talk with.

c To a place appointed for their meeting to this end, possibly to the place where she was Sacrificed. d To express their Sorrow for her loss, according to the manner. Or, to Discourse of (so the Hebrew Lamed is sometimes used) the Daughter of Jephthah, to celebrate her Praises, who had so willingly yielded up her self for a Sacrifice.

CHAP. XII.

AND the men of Ephraim † gathered themselves together, and went northward a, and said unto Jephthah b, Wherefore passedst thou over c to fight against the children of Ammon, and didst not call us to go with thee? We will burn thine house upon thee with fire.

† Heb. were called.

a Over Jordan, so Northward towards Mizpeh, where Jephthah was, Judg. 11. 34. and which was in the Northern part of the Land beyond Jordan. b Through Pride and Envy, contending with him, as they did before with Gideon, Judg. 8. 1. c Not over Jordan, for there he was already; but over the Borders of the Israelites land beyond Jordan, as appears by comparing this with Judg. 11. 29. where the same Phrase is used.

2 And Jephthah said unto them, I and my people were at great strife with the children of Ammon; and when I called you d, ye delivered me not out of their hand.

d Hence it appears, that he craved their assistance, which they denied; though that be not elsewhere expressed.

3 And when I saw that ye delivered me not, I put my life in my hand e, and passed over against the children of Ammon, and the LORD delivered them into my hand. Wherefore then are ye come up unto me this day to fight against me f?

e i. e. I exposed my self to utmost danger; as a man that carries a brittle and precious thing in his hand, which may easily either fall to the ground, or be snatched from him. The same Phrase is used 1 Sam. 19. 5. and 28. 21. Job 13. 14. Psal. 119. 109. f Why do you thus requite my kindness in running into such hazard to preserve you and yours?

4 Then Jephthah gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought with Ephraim: and the men of Gilead smote Ephraim, because they said, Ye Gileadites are fugitives of Ephraim, among the Ephraimites, and among the Manassites g.

g According to this Translation, these words are a scoffing and contemptuous expression of the Ephraimites concerning the Gileadites, whom they call Fugitives of Ephraim; the word Ephraim being here taken largely, as it is elsewhere, as Isa. 7. 2, 5. so as it comprehends the other Neighbouring Tribes, of which Ephraim was in some sort the head or chief; and especially their Brethren of Manasseh, who lived next to them, and were descended from the same Father, Joseph; by reason whereof, both these Tribes are sometimes reckoned for one, and called called by the name of the Tribe of Joſeph. And this large ſignification of Ephraim may ſeem probable from the following words, where inſtead of Ephraim is put the Ephraimites, and the Manaſſites. By Gileadites here they ſeem principally to mean the Manaſſites beyond Jordan, who dwelt in Gilead, as appears from Deut. 3. 13. Joſh. 17. 1, 5, 6. And although other Gileadites were joyn'd with them, yet they vent their paſſion againſt theſe; principally, becauſe they envied them moſt; partly, becauſe they ſeem to have had a chief hand in the Victory, Judg. 11. 29. and partly, becauſe they were more nearly related to them, and therefore more obliged to deſire their Conjunction with them in the War. Theſe they here opprobriouſly call fugitives, i. e. ſuch as had deſerted their Brethren of Ephraim and Manaſſeh, and for ſome worldly advantage planted themſelves beyond Jordan at a diſtance from their Brethren, and were alienated in Affection from them, and carried on a diſtinct and ſeparate Intereſt of their own; as appears by their Monopolizing the glory of this Succeſs to themſelves, and excluding their Brethren from it. According to the Hebrew, the words lye, and may be rendred thus, Therefore (ſo chi is oft rendred) they ſaid, Fugitives of Ephraim are ye; (i. e. Ye Ephraimites are meer run-aways: for the words next foregoing are, the men of Gilead ſmote Ephraim. And having told you what they ſaid, becauſe the pronoun they was ambiguous, he adds by way of Explication) who ſaid it, even, the Gileadites (and they ſaid it when they had got the advantage over them, and got between them and home, as the next verſe ſhews) being between Ephraim and Manaſſeh; i. e. Having taken the paſſages of Jordan, as it follows, which lay between Ephraim and that part of Manaſſeh which was beyond Jordan. Or theſe latter words may be rendred thus, And the Gileadites were between Ephraim and Manaſſeh. So there is only an Ellipſis of two ſmall words, which are oft defective, and to be underſtood in Scripture. Or thus, And the Gileadites were in the midſt of the Ephraimites, and in the midſt of the Manaſſites, to wit, thoſe Manaſſites who ordinarily lived within Jordan, who poſſibly were confederate with the Ephraimites in this quarrel. And ſo the meaning is, they followed cloſe after them, and overtook them, and fell upon the midſt of them, and ſmote them; and they ſent a party to intercept them at the paſſages of Jordan, as it here follows.

5 And the Gileadites took the paſſages of Jordan before the Ephraimites: and it was ſo, that when thoſe Ephraimites which were eſcaped h, ſaid, Let me go over, that the men of Gilead ſaid unto him, Art thou an Ephraimite? If he ſaid, Nay i.

h Heb. The fugitives of Ephraim, as before; for the Hebrew words are the ſame. Which may make the latter Expoſition of the foregoing words more probable, to wit, that it is not the Gileadites, but the Ephraimites who are there as well as here ſo called, becauſe they were ſmitten before Jephthah, and fled from him. i To avoid the preſent danger.

6 Then ſaid they unto him, Say now Shibboleth k; and he ſaid, Sibboleth l: for he could not frame to pronounce it right m. Then they took him, and ſlew him at the paſſages of Jordan: and there fell at that time n of the Ephraimites forty and two thouſand.

k Which ſignifies a ſtream or river, which they deſired to paſs over: ſo it was a word proper for the occaſion, and gave them no cauſe to ſuſpect the Deſign, becauſe they were required onely to expreſs their deſire, to go over the Shibboleth or River. l It is well known, that not only divers Nations, but divers Provinces, or parts of the ſame Nation who uſe the ſame Language, differ in their dialect and manner of pronunciation. m Or rather, he did not frame or direct himſelf to ſpeak ſo, or to ſpeak right; i. e. So as he was required to do it. The Hebrew Text doth not ſay that he could not do it, but that he did it not, becauſe he ſuſpecting not the deſign of it, uttered it ſpeedily according to his manner of Expreſſion. n Not in that place, at the paſſages of Jordan, but in that Expedition, being ſlain either in the Battel, or in the Purſuit, or at Jordan.

7 And Jephthah judged Iſrael ſix years: then died Jephthah the Gileadite, and was buried in one of the cities o of Gilead.

o Heb. In the cities. And it is probably conceived, that that great ſlaughter of the Ephraimites made by Jephthah did greatly encourage the Philiſtines to riſe againſt Iſrael, when one of their chief Bulwarks was ſo much weakned; and therefore that the Philiſtines began to domineer over them not long after Jephthah's death.

4 Now therefore, beware I pray thee g, * and drink not wine, nor ſtrong drink h, and eat not any unclean thing i.

* Numb. 6. 2, 3.

g Becauſe the child was to be a Nazarite from the Womb, ver. 5. and from the Conception; and becauſe the Mothers Pollution extends to the Child, ſhe is enjoyned from this time to obſerve the following rules belonging to the Nazarites. h Under which by a Synecdoche, are comprehended the other particulars mentioned Numb. 6. 2, 3, 4. as is implyed ver. 14. i Any of thoſe meats forbidden, Levit. 11. which were forbidden to all, but eſpecially to the Nazarites.

5 For lo, thou ſhalt conceive and bear a ſon, and * no raſor ſhall come on his head: for the child ſhall be a Nazarite k unto God from the womb: and he ſhall begin to deliver Iſrael l out of the hand of the Philiſtines.

* Num. 6. 5. 1 Sam. 1. 11.

k A person separated from others, and consecrated to Gods service. l And the deliverance shall be carried on and perfected by others, as it was in part by Eli, and Samuel, and Saul; but especially by David.

6 ¶ Then the woman came, and told her husband, saying, A man of God m came unto me, and his countenance was like the countenance of an Angel of God, very terrible n: but I asked him not whence he was, neither told he me his name:

m A Prophet, or sacred person, sent with a Message from God. n Or, venerable, or awful, full of Majesty.

7 But he said unto me, Behold, thou shalt conceive, and bear a son: and now drink no wine, nor strong drink, neither eat any † unclean thing: for the child shall be a Nazarite to God from the womb, to the day of his death.

8 ¶ Then Manoah intreated the LORD, and said, O my LORD, let the man of God, which thou didst send, come again unto us, and teach us what we shall do unto the child that shall be born.

9 And God hearkned to the voice of Manoah: and the angel of God came again unto the woman as she sate in the field: but Manoah her husband was not with her.

10 And the woman made haste, and ran, and shewed her husband, and said unto him, Behold, the man hath appeared unto me, that came unto me the other day.

11 And Manoah arose, and went after his wife, and came to the man, and said unto him, Art thou the man that spakest unto the woman? and he said, I am.

12 And Manoah said, Now let thy words come to pass o: † how shall we order the child p? and ‖ † how shall we do unto him?

† Heb. what shall be the manner of the, &c.
‖ Or, what shall he do.
† Heb. what shall be his work.

o Or, thy words shall come to pass: I firmly believe that thy promises shall be fulfilled. p What rules shall we observe about his Education?

13 And the angel of the LORD said unto Manoah, Of all that I said unto the woman, let her beware q.

q Whilest the Child is in her Womb, and after the Child is Born, let him observe the same Orders.

14 She may not eat of any thing that cometh of the vine, neither let her drink wine, or strong drink, neither eat any † unclean thing: all that I commanded her, let her observe.

15 ¶ And Manoah said unto the angel of the LORD, I pray thee, let us detain thee until we shall have made ready a kid † for thee r.

† Heb. before thee.

r Supposing him to be a Man and a Prophet, to whom he would in this manner express his respect, as was usual to strangers. See Gen. 18. 5. Judg. 6. 18.

16 And the Angel of the LORD said unto Manoah, Though thou detain me, I will not eat of thy bread s: and if thou wilt offer a burnt-offering, thou must offer it unto the LORD t: for Manoah knew not that he was an angel of the LORD.

s i. e. Meat, as bread is commonly taken in Scripture. t Not unto a man, as now thou apprehendest me to be; but unto the Lord, as thou wiltst by and by perceive me to be.

17 And Manoah said unto the angel of the LORD, What is thy name, that when thy sayings come to pass, we may do thee honour u?

u Either by making honourable mention of thee, or by performing respect and service to thee, by a Present, which they usually gave to Prophets, 1 Sam. 9. 7, 8. 2 King. 14. 3.

18 And the angel of the LORD said unto him, Why * askest thou thus after my name, seeing it ‖ is secret x.

* Gen. 32. 29.
‖ Or, wonderful.

x Or, hidden from mortal Men: or wonderful, such as thou canst not comprehend: my nature or essence (which is oft signified by name in Scripture) is incomprehensible. This shews, that this was the Angel of the Covenant, the Son of God.

19 So Manoah took a kid, with a meat-offering y, and offered it upon a rock z to the LORD; and the angel did wondrously, and Manoah and his wife looked on.

y Which were generally joyned with the chief Sacrifices. z The Angels presence and command being a sufficient Warrant for the offering of Sacrifice by a person who was no Priest, and in a place otherwise forbidden.

20 For it came to pass when the flame a went up toward heaven from off the altar b, that the angel of the LORD ascended in the flame c of the altar: and Manoah and his wife looked on it, and fell on their faces d to the ground.

a Either arising from the fire which Manoah brought for the offering: or produced by the Angel out of the Rock in a miraculous manner. b i. e From that part of the Rock which served instead of an Altar, upon which the Sacrifice was laid. c To manifest his Nature and Essence to be Spiritual, because not capable of hurt by the Fire; and Coelestial. d Partly in Reverence to that glorious Presence manifested in so wonderful a manner: and partly, out of a religious Horror and fear of Death upon this occasion; as is expressed ver. 22. for the prevention whereof they fell down in way of supplication to God.

21 (But the angel of the LORD did no more appear to Manoah and to his wife:) then Manoah knew that he was an angel of the LORD.

22 And Manoah said unto his wife, * We shall surely die, because we have seen God.

* Exod. 33. 20. Deut. 5. 20, 26. chap. 6. 22.

23 But his wife said unto him, If the LORD were pleased to kill us, he would not have received a burnt-offering, and a meat-offering at our hands, neither would he have shewed us all these things, nor would as at this time e have told us such things as these.

e Or, at this time: the Particle, as, noting here, not likeness, but the truth and reality of the thing, as it doth Num. 11. 1. Deut. 9. 10. and elsewhere. This Expression seems to have some Emphasis in it, to enhance Gods Mercy to them, as being afforded them in a time of such publick and grievous Calamity; and in a time when the Word of the Lord was precious; and there was no open Vision, as it was afterwards, 1 Sam. 3. 1.

24 ¶ And the woman bare a son, and called his name * Samson: and the child grew, and the LORD blessed him f.

* Heb. 11. 32.

f i. e. Endowed him with all those graces and gifts of mind and body which were necessary for the Work he was designed for.

25 And the spirit of the LORD began to move him at times g, in the camp of Dan h, between Zorah and Eshtaol.

g i. e. To stir him up to Heroical Designs; to shew forth its Power in him in the frame of his mind, and in the strength of his body, discovered to his Neighbours in extraordinary Actions; to encline his heart to great attempts to the help and deliverance of Gods People, and to give some essays of it to his brethren, and to seek all opportunities for it, as he did in the next Chapter. h A place so called, either from the Expedition of the Danites, Judg. 18. 11, 12. which though placed after this History, was done before it: or from some other Camp which the Danites had formed there at this time, to give some check to the Incursions of the Philistines.

CHAP. XIV.

AND Samson went down a to Timnath b, and saw a woman in Timnath, of the daughters of the Philistines.

a After he was come to mature Age. b A place not far from the Sea, of which see Gen. 38. 12. Josh. 15. 57. and 19. 43.

2 And he came up, and told his father and his mother, and said, I have seen a woman in Timnath, of the daughters of the Philistines: now therefore get her for me to wife.

3 Then his father and his mother ſaid unto him, Is there never a woman among the daughters of thy brethren, or among all my people, that thou goeſt to take a wife of the uncircumciſed Philiſtines c? and Samſon ſaid unto his Father, Get her for me d; for † ſhe pleaſeth me well e.

c With whom the Iſraelites were forbidden to Marry, Exod. 34. 12, &c. And although the Philiſtines were not Canaanites in their Original, Gen. 10. 14. Deut. 2. 23. yet they were ſo in their Habitation, and concurrence with them in wickedneſs, and therefore were liable to the ſame cenſures and judgments with them. d This action of Samſon's, though againſt common rules, ſeems to be warranted, partly by the greatneſs and goodneſs of his Deſign in it; and principally by the inſtinct and direction of God, which is mentioned in the following words, which was known to Samſon, but not to his Parents. e Not ſo much for her Beauty, as for the Deſign mentioned in the next Verſe.

* 1 King. 12. 15. 2 Chro. 10. 15. and 22. 7. and 25. 20.

4 But his father and his mother * knew not that it was of the LORD, that he ſought an occaſion againſt the Philiſtines f: for at that time the Philiſtines had dominion over Iſrael.

f Which he knew by very probable conjecture, if not by particular Inſpiration, that Marriage would give him many ways.

5 Then went Samſon down, and his father and his mother g to Timnath, and came to the vineyards of Timnath h: and behold, a young lion roared † againſt him

g Who accompanied him, either becauſe they were now acquainted with his Deſign; or to order the circumſtances of that action which they ſaw he was ſet upon: or to watch if they could find any occaſion to take him off from his intention. h Whither he had turned aſide either by a Divine impulſe, or upon ſome real or pretended occaſion.

6 And the ſpirit of the LORD came mightily upon him i, and he rent him as he would have rent a kid k, and he had nothing in his hand: but he told not his father or his mother what he had done l.

i Stirred up and increaſed his courage and bodily ſtrength. k As ſoon and as ſafely. l Leſt by their means it ſhould be publickly known; for he wiſely conſidered, that it was not yet a fit time to awaken the jealouſies and fears of the Philiſtines concerning him, as this would have done.

7 And he went down, and talked with the woman, and ſhe pleaſed Samſon well.

8 ¶ And after a time m he returned to take her: and he turned aſide to ſee the carcaſe of the lion, and behold, there was a ſwarm of Bees n, and honey in the carcaſe of the lion.

m Heb. after days, i. e. Either after ſome days: or rather, after a year, as that word oft ſignifies; as Exod. 13. 10. Lev. 25. 29. Num. 9. 22. Judg. 17. 10. 1 Sam. 1. 3. and 27. 7. When the fleſh of the Lion, which by its ſtrong ſmell is offenſive to, and avoided by Bees, was wholly conſumed, and nothing was left but the bones. n Not generated of the dead Lions body, but elſewhere, and ſettling themſelves there, as they have ſometimes done in a man's Skull, and in a Sepulchre, and ſuch like places.

9 And he took thereof in his hands o, and went on eating, and came to his father and mother p, and he gave them, and they did eat: but he told not them that he had taken the honey out of the carcaſe of the lion.

o Out of the Lions Carcaſe. Queſt. Did not Samſon tranſgreſs in touching a Carcaſe? Anſw. It was in it ſelf a legal Pollution: but ſome ſuch Pollutions were involuntary and unavoidable, as in one that hath an iſſue running in his ſleep; and ſome were neceſſary duties, as in thoſe who were to attend upon a Woman in her Month, or upon the burial of a Dead Body. And ſuch was this Pollution, being contracted by Divine Inſtinct and direction, and in order to Gods honour, and therefore diſpenſed with by the Author of that Law, and required by him for his ſervice. p From whom he had turned aſide a ſeaſon, ver. 8. upon ſome pretence or other.

10 ¶ So his father went down unto the woman, and Samſon made there a feaſt: for ſo uſed the young men to do.

11 And it came to paſs when they ſaw him q, that they brought thirty companions to be with him r.

q Or, obſerved or conſidered him, his ſtature, and ſtrength, and countenance, and carriage, which were extraordinary. r Partly in compliance with the Cuſtom of having Bride-men; of which ſee Mat. 9. 15. Mark 2. 19. Joh. 3. 29. though they were not ſo numerous; and principally by way of caution, and as a Guard put upon him under a pretence of reſpect and affection.

12 ¶ And Samſon ſaid unto them, I will now put forth a riddle s unto you: if ye can certainly declare it me within the ſeven days of the feaſt t, and find it out, then I will give you thirty ‖ ſheets u, and thirty change of garments x.

‖ Or, ſhirts.

s i. e. An obſcure ſentence for you to reſolve and explain. t For ſo long Marriage-feaſts laſted. See Gen. 29. 27. u Fine linnen Cloathes, which were uſed for many purpoſes in thoſe parts. See Mat. 27. 59. Mark 14. 51. x i. e. Changeable ſuits of Apparel, as below, ver. 19. and Gen. 45. 22.

13 But if ye cannot declare it me, then ſhall ye give me thirty ſheets, and thirty change of garments. And they ſaid unto him, Put forth thy riddle that we may hear it.

14 And he ſaid unto them, Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the ſtrong came forth ſweetneſs y. And they could not in theſe days expound the riddle.

y i. e. Out of that ſtrong and devouring Creature, the Lion, came forth ſweet Meat; to wit, honey: withal it is covertly implyed, that the Philiſtines, though now they had ſtrength on their ſide, and Dominion over Iſrael, whom they did devour upon all occaſions, yet at laſt they ſhould become Meat to the Iſraelites.

15 And it came to paſs on the ſeventh day z, that they ſaid unto Samſons wife, Entice thy huſband, that he may declare unto us the riddle, leſt we burn thee and thy fathers houſe with fire: Have ye called us † to take that we have a? is it not ſo?

† Heb. to poſſeſs us; or, to impoveriſh us.

z They had doubtleſs ſpoken to her before this time, but with ſome remiſneſs, ſuppoſing that they ſhould find it out; but now their time being nigh ſlipped, they preſs her with more vehemency, and put her under a neceſſity of ſearching it out. a i. e. To ſtrip us of our Garments: and ſo your civility will end in groſs unkindneſs and injuſtice.

16 And Samſons wife wept before him, and ſaid, Thou doeſt but hate me, and loveſt me not: thou haſt put forth a riddle unto the children of my people, and haſt not told it me. And he ſaid unto her, Behold, I have not told it my father, nor my mother b, and ſhall I tell it thee?

b Though I have had much more experience of their fidelity and taciturnity, than of thine.

17 And ſhe wept before him ‖ the ſeven days, while the feaſt laſted c: and it came to paſs on the ſeventh day, that he told her, becauſe ſhe lay ſore upon him: and ſhe told the riddle to the children of her people.

‖ Or, the reſt of the ſeven days, &c.

c i. e. On the reſidue of the ſeven days; to wit, after the third day. It is a familiar Synecdoche. Or, on the ſeventh of the days on which the Feaſt was: And then the following Clauſe, on the ſeventh day, is only the Noun repeated for the Pronoun, on that day; as is moſt frequent, as 1 King. 8. 1. Solomon aſſembled —— unto Solomon, i. e. unto himſelf.

18 And the men of the city ſaid unto him on the ſeventh day before the ſun went down, What is ſweeter than honey, and what is ſtronger than a lion? And he ſaid unto them, If ye had not plowed with my heifer d, ye had not found out my riddle.

d If you had not employed my Wife to find it out, as men Plough up the ground with an Heifer, thereby Diſcovering its hidden parts; he calls her Heifer, either becauſe he now ſuſpected her wantonneſs and too much familiarity with that Friend which ſhe afterwards Married; or, becauſe ſhe was joined with him in the ſame Yoke; or, rather becauſe they uſed ſuch in Ploughing.

19 ¶ And

19 ¶ And the ſpirit of the LORD came upon him e, and he went down to Aſhkelon f, and ſlew thirty men of them, and took their ‖ ſpoil, and gave change of garments g unto them which expounded the riddle, and his anger was kindled h, and he went up i to his fathers houſe.

e Though he had a conſtant habit of eminent Strength and Courage; yet that was exceedingly increaſed upon ſpecial occaſions, by the extraordinary influences of Gods Spirit. f Either to the Territory, which oft comes under the name of the City; or to the City it ſelf, where he had both Strength and Courage enough to attempt what here follows; and upon the doing hereof they were doubtleſs ſtruck with ſuch a Terrour, that every one ſought onely to preſerve himſelf, and none durſt oppoſe or purſue him. g Together with their Sheets or Shirts, which it ſufficed to imply here, being expreſſed above ver. 13. h For the Treachery of his Wife and Companions. i To wit, alone or without his Wife.

20 But Samſons wife was given k to his companion, whom he had uſed as his friend l.

k By her Father. l i. e. To the chief of the Bride men to whom he had ſhewed moſt reſpect and kindneſs.

CHAP. XV.

BUT it came to paſs within a while after, in the time of wheat harveſt a, that Samſon viſited his wife with a kid: and he ſaid, I will go in to my wife into the chamber b. But her father would not ſuffer him to go in.

a Which circumſtance is noted as the proper ſeaſon for the following exploit. b Into her proper Chamber, which Women had diſtinct and ſeparate from the mens.

2 And her father ſaid, I verily thought that thou hadſt utterly hated her c, therefore I gave her to thy companion: is not her younger ſiſter fairer than ſhe? † take her, I pray thee, in ſtead of her.

† Heb. let her be thine.

c Becauſe thou didſt deſert her in great Wrath: But this was not ſufficient cauſe; for he ſhould have endeavoured a reconciliation, or waited for it; and not have diſpoſed of another mans Wife without his conſent, which is not onely againſt the Law of God, but of Nature alſo.

3 ¶ And Samſon ſaid concerning them, ‖ Now ſhall I be more blameleſs than the Philiſtines, though I do them a diſpleaſure d.

‖ Or, Now ſhall I be blameleſs from the Philiſtines thirſt.

d Becauſe they have firſt provoked me by an irreparable injury: But although this may look like an act of private revenge; yet it is plain enough that Samſon acted as a Judge (for ſo he was) and as an avenger of the publick Injuries and Oppreſſions of his People, as plainly appears from hence, that Samſon deſigned this very thing before he had received any perſonal injury, Judg. 14. 4.

4 And Samſon went and caught three hundred foxes e, and took ‖ fire-brands f, and turned tail to tail, and put a fire-brand in the midſt between two tails g.

‖ Or, Torches.

e Of which there were great numbers in Canaan, as appears from Nah. 4. 3. Pſal. 62. 11. Cantic. 2. 15. Lam. 5. 18. Ezek. 13. 4. So that divers places there have their Names from the Foxes which abounded there; as, Joſ. 15 28. and 19. 42. 1 Sam. 13. 17. Add to this, that ſome Learned men conceive that the Hebrew Name Schual, is more general, and contains not only the Foxes, but another ſort of Creature very like to them, called Thoes, whereof there were ſo many there, that ſometimes two hundred of them have been met together in one Company; as ſome who have lived in thoſe parts have left upon Record: But Infidels are much ſcandalized at this Hiſtory, and pretend it incredible that Samſon ſhould catch ſo many Foxes together; ſo nice and delicate is the Faith of theſe men in things concerning God and Scripture, that can devour things ten times more difficult and abſurd concerning the production of the World, and of men, &c. But there is no cauſe of wonder here, for any man that is tollerably wiſe; for it is not ſaid that Samſon caught them all either at one time, or by his own hands; for being ſo eminent a perſon, and the Judge of Iſrael, he might require aſſiſtance of as many perſons as he pleaſed, and all his people would readily aſſiſt him; nor can it at all perplex any mans Reaſon or Faith, if it be allowed, that the God who made the World, and by his ſingular Providence watched over Iſrael, and intended them deliverance at this time, could eaſily diſpoſe things ſo that they might be taken. He choſe to do this exploit, not by his Brethren, whom he would preſerve from the Envy and Hatred, and Miſchief which that might have occaſioned to them, but by brute Creatures, thereby to add ſcorn and contempt to their Calamity, and particularly by Foxes; partly, becauſe they were fitteſt for the purpoſe, being Creatures very fearful of Fire; and having ſuch Tails as the Fire-brands might moſt conveniently be tied to; and not going directly forward, but crookedly and involvedly, whereby the Fire was likely to be diſperſed in more places. f Made of ſuch matter as would quickly take Fire, and keep it for a long time, which was eaſie to procure. g That the Foxes might not make too much haſte, nor run into their holes, but one of them might delay and ſtop another in his courſe, and ſo continue longer in the places where they were to do Execution.

5 And when he had ſet the brands on fire, he let them go h into the ſtanding corn of the Philiſtines, and burnt up both the ſhocks, and alſo the ſtanding corn, with the vineyards and olives.

h To wit, ſucceſſively at ſeveral times; and in divers places, with great care and diſcretion, ſo as they might not hinder one another, nor all run into the ſame Field; but being diſperſed in all parts, might ſpread the Plague farther; and withal might be kept at a diſtance from the Fields and Vineyards of the Iſraelites. It is not worthy of our enquiry what became of theſe Foxes afterward, whether they were burnt by the Fire-brands, or run into Holes, or were taken and killed by the Philiſtines. The truth of this Hiſtory is notably atteſted by a cuſtom of the Romans, which it is very probable they had from the Phœnicians, upon this occaſion; for every year they had a Solemnity in April, the very time of Canaan's Wheat-Harveſt, wherein Foxes were let looſe with burning Torches faſtned to their Back-ſides, &c.

6 ¶ Then the Philiſtines ſaid, Who hath done this? and they anſwered, Samſon the ſon in law of the Timnite, becauſe he had taken his wife, and given her to his companion. And the Philiſtines came up and burnt her i and her father with fire.

i Partly, for her Adultery, which divers Heathens puniſhed with Death; and partly, for that miſchief which ſhe had occaſioned to them; thus ſhe brought upon her ſelf that miſchief which ſhe ſtudied to avoid, Judg. 14. 15. as wicked perſons oft do, Prov. 10. 24.

7 ¶ And Samſon ſaid unto them, Though ye have done this, yet will I be avenged of you k, and after that I will ceaſe.

k Whereby it appears, that it was not his private injuries, but the Publick, which he did revenge.

8 And he ſmote them hip and thigh l with a great ſlaughter m; and he went down and dwelt in the top of the rock Etam n.

l Upon their Hips and Thighs, peradventure not deſigning to Kill them, but to make them uncapable of Military employment; or, of doing hurt to the Iſraelites. Or, He ſmote them with his Leg upon their Thigh, i. e. without any other Weapon but his Leg and Foot he kicked them, and made them Lame and uſeleſs for War. m Heb. with a great ſtroke; for ſo it was, even to them whom it did not Kill. n Partly, becauſe there he could better defend himſelf from his Enemies; and partly, becauſe he would not involve his Brethren in the ſame danger with himſelf, but like a Worthy Magiſtrate, would ſecure them even with his own greater hazard.

9 ¶ Then the Philiſtines went up, and pitched in Judah o, and ſpread themſelves p in Lehi q.

o Where the Rock Etam was, ſee 1 Chron. 4. 32. 2 Chron. 11. 5, 6. p As coming in great Numbers with a powerful Hoſt. q A place ſo called by anticipation, ver. 17.

10 And the men of Judah ſaid, Why are ye come up againſt us? And they anſwered, To bind Samſon are we come up, to do to him, as he hath done to us.

† Heb. went down.

11 Then three thousand men of Judah † went to the top of the rock Etam, and said to Samson, Knowest thou not that the Philistines are rulers over us? what is this that thou hast done unto us r? And he said unto them, As they did unto me, so have I done unto them.

r Thou hast by these actions punished not them, as thou intendedst; but us, who being under their Dominion, are sure to smart for it.

12 And they said unto him, We are come down to bind thee, that we may deliver thee into the hand of the Philistines. And Samson said unto them, Swear unto me, that ye will not fall upon me your selves s.

s Not that he feared them, or could not as easily have Conquered them, as he did the whole Host of the Philistines; but, because he would be free from all Obligation or Temptation of doing them any harm, though it were in his own just and necessary defence.

13 And they spake unto him, saying, No, but we will bind thee fast, and deliver thee into their hand: but surely we will not kill thee. And they bound him with two new cords, and brought him up from the rock t.

t i. e. From the Cave or Hole in the Rock, in which he had secured himself, out of which he was first brought up, and then carried down from the Rock to the Plain.

14 ¶ And when he came unto Lehi, the Philistines shouted against him u, and the spirit of the LORD came mightily upon him, and the cords that were upon his arms became as flax that was burnt with fire, and his bands † loosed x from off his hands.

† Heb. were melted.

u For Joy and Triumph, because they had now their great Enemy, as they supposed, in their hands. x Heb. were melted, i. e. were dissolved, as things are which are melted in the fire.

† Heb. moist.

15 And he found a † new y jaw-bone of an ass, and put forth his hand, and took it, and slew a thousand men therewith;

y And therefore more tough and strong.

16 And Samson said, With the jaw-bone of an ass, † heaps upon heaps, with the jaw-bone of an ass have I slain a thousand men z.

† Heb. an heap two heaps.

z This, though it might seem difficult, yet is not at all impossible or incredible; especially, seeing the Learned affirm of the Asses of Syria, that they were larger and stronger than ours, and so consequently were thir Bones. And withal, it must be acknowledged, that there was something extraordinary and Miraculous in this, as there was unquestionably in Samson's strength, and so all the difficulty vanisheth.

17 And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking, that he cast away the jaw-bone out of his hand, and called that place ‖ Ramath-Lehi a.

‖ That is, the lifting up of the jaw-bone, or casting away of the jaw-bone.

a And by contraction, Lehi, ver. 14. it being usual so to contract proper Names; as Salem is put for Jerusalem, Psal. 76. 3. Sheba for Beersheba, Jos. 19. 2. and many other.

18 ¶ And he was sore athirst b, and called on the LORD, and said, Thou hast given this great deliverance into the hand of thy servant: and now shall I die for thirst, and fall into the hand of the uncircumcised c?

b So as he was ready to faint and die with Thirst; which was partly natural, from his excessive toil and heat; partly, sent by God, that by the experience of his own Impotency, he might be forced to ascribe the Victory to God onely, and not to himself. c Wilt thou not finish what thou hast begun? Wilt thou undo what thou hast done.

19 But God clave an hollow place d that was in ‖ the Jaw e, and there came water thereout, and when he had drunk, his spirit came again, and he revived: wherefore he called the name thereof † En-hakkore f, which is in Lehi unto this day g.

‖ Or, Lehi.

‖ That is, the well of him that called, or, cried.

d i. e. By cleaving a place, made it hollow; an expression like that Isa. 47. 2. grind Meal, i. e. Grind Corn into Meal; and that Psal. 74. 15. thou didst cleave the Fountain, i. e. cleave the Rock so as to make a Fountain in it. e In the Jaw-bone which he had used, which God could easily effect, either by causing the Jaw-bone to send forth Water, as the Rock formerly did the Miracle being in effect the same, though in a differing subject, causing a Spring to break forth in Lehi, or in that Lehi mentioned before ver. 14. for Lehi is both the name of a place, and signifies a Jaw-bone. f i. e. The Fountain of him that cried for Thirst, or, that called upon God for Deliverance; i. e. the Fountain or Well which was given in Answer to my Prayer. g According to this Translation, Lehi is the name of a place, and not a Jaw-bone, because it seems improbable that a Jaw-bone should continue there so long, which every Traveller might take away, and would be forward enough to carry a Fountain with them in those hot Countries; although it is not incredible that Passengers would generally forbear to meddle with, or remove so great a Monument of Gods Power and Goodness; or, that the same God who made it instrumental to so great a wonder, should add one circumstance more, to wit, fix it in the earth, as a Testimony to Posterity of the Truth of this glorious worke: But these words may be otherwise rendred thus, which Fountain was in that Jaw-bone; and for the following words, unto this day; they may not be joyned with the words next and immediately foregoing, as if the Fountain was there to this day; but with the former words, he called, &c. and so the sense may be this, That it was so called unto this day, and the place may be thus read, he called the name thereof; or, the name thereof was called (such active verbs being frequently put passively and impersonally,) The Well or Fountain of him that called or cryed (which was in Lehi) unto this day.

20 And he judged Israel h in the days of the Philistines i twenty years.

h i. e. He pleaded their Cause, and avenged them against the Philistins. i i. e. Whilst the Philistines had the Power and Dominion, from which he was not fully to deliver, but onely to begin to deliver them, as it was foretold, Judg. 13. 5. From this place it is manifest that in the computation of the times of the Judges, the years of Servitude or Oppression are not to be separated from the years of the Judges, and added to them, but are comprehended within them; which proposition is of great importance for clearing this difficult part of Scripture Chronology, and for justifying that account of times given 1 King. 6. 1.

CHAP. XVI.

THen went Samson to Gaza a, and saw there an † harlot b, and went in unto her.

† Heb. a woman an harlot.

a A chief City, to make some new attempt upon the Philistines, whom he feared not either in their Cities or in their Camps, having had such large experience of his own strength, and of God's Assistance; Possibly he came in thither by Night, unknown and unobserved till afterwards. b Going into an House of Publick Entertainment to refresh himself, as the manner was, Jos. 20. 1. He there saw this Harlot; which implies, that he did not go thither upon so evil a Design, but accidentally saw her there, and by giving way to Lustful looks upon her, was ensnared by her.

2 And it was told the Gazites, saying, Samson is come hither. And they compassed him in, and laid wait for him all night in the gate of the city, and were † quiet all night, saying, In the morning, when it is day, we shall kill him c.

c This they chose to do, rather than to seize upon him in his House and Bed by night; either, because they knew not certainly in what House or place he was; or, because they thought that might cause great Terror, and Confusion, and Mischief among their own People; whereas in the day-time they might more fully discover him, and more unexpectedly surprise him, and more certainly direct their blows, and use their Weapons against him.

3 And Samson lay till midnight, and arose at midnight d, and took the doors of the gate of the city e, and the two posts, and went away with them f, † bar and all, and put them upon his shoulders, and carried them up to the top of an hill that is before Hebron g.

† Heb. With the bar.

d Being

d Being either ſmitten in Conſcience for his Sin, when he firſt awaked, and thence fearing danger, as he had juſt cauſe to do; or, being ſecretly warned by God in a Dream; or, by an inward impulſe, for the prevention of his deſigned Deſtruction. e Not the great Gates, but leſſer Doors made in them, and ſtrengthned with diſtinct Poſts and Bars. f The Watch-men not expecting him till morning, and therefore being now retired into the ſides, or upper part of the Gate-houſe, as the manner now is, to get ſome reſt, whereby to fit themſelves for their hard Service intended in the morning; or, if ſome of them were in his way, he could eaſily and ſpeedily ſtrike them dead, and break the Door, whilſt the reſt were partly aſtoniſhed with the ſurpriſe; and partly, preparing themſelves for reſiſtance: Nor durſt they purſue him, whom they now again perceived to have ſuch Prodigious Strength and Courage; and to be ſo much above the fear of them, that he did not run away with all ſpeed, but went leiſurely, having ſo great a weight on his Shoulders, wherewith they knew he could both defend himſelf and offend them. g Either, 1. To an Hill near Hebron, which was above twenty miles from Gaza; or, 2. To the top of an high Hill not far from Gaza, which looked towards Hebron, which alſo ſtood upon another high Hill, and might be ſeen from this place, though it was at a great diſtance from it. And Samſon did this not out of vain oſtentation, but as an evidence of his great ſtrength, for the encouragement of his people to joyn with him more vigorouſly for their own Deliverance, than yet they had done, or durſt do; and for the greater terror and contempt of the Philiſtines. It may ſeem ſtrange that Samſon immediately after ſo foul a Sin ſhould have the Courage in himſelf, and the ſtrength from God, for ſo great a work. But Firſt, it is probable, that Samſon had in ſome meaſure repented of his Sin, and begged of God Pardon and Aſſiſtance, which alſo he perceived by Inſtinct, that God would afford him. 2. This ſingular ſtrength and courage was not in it ſelf a Grace, but a Gift, which might have been in a graceleſs perſon, and therefore might continue in a good Man, notwithſtanding an hainous act of Sin; and it was ſuch a Gift as did not depend upon the diſpoſition of his Mind, but upon the right ordering of his Body, by the rule given to him, and others of that Order.

4 ¶ And it came to paſs afterward, that he loved a woman b ‖ in the valley of Sorek, whoſe name was Delilah.

‖ Or, by the brook

b Either, Firſt, with Conjugal Love, ſo as to Marry her, as divers both Jews and Chriſtians have thought. Or, Secondly, with luſtful Love, as an Harlot: which, though not certain, becauſe the Phraſe is here Ambiguous, ſhe being neither called an Harlot, as ſhe of Gaza was, ver. 1. nor yet his Wife, as ſhe of Timnath was, Judg. 14. 2, 3, 20. yet it may ſeem more probable; partly, becauſe the dreadful puniſhment now inflicted upon Samſon for this Sin, whom God ſpared for the firſt Offence, is an intimation, that this Sin was not inferiour to the former; partly, becauſe the confidence which the Philiſtine Lords had in her, and their bold and frequent Treating with her, and the whole courſe of her carriage towards Samſon, ſhew her to be a mercenary and perfidious Harlot, and not a Wife; whoſe Affection and Intereſt would have obliged her to better things; and partly, becauſe Samſon did not carry her home to his Houſe, as Husbands uſe to do with their Wives; but lodged in her houſe: as appears from the whole Story.

5 And the Lords of the Philiſtines i came up unto her, and ſaid unto her, Entice him, and ſee wherein his great ſtrength lieth, and by what means we may prevail againſt him, that we may bind him to ‖ afflict him k; and we will give thee every one of us eleven hundred pieces of ſilver l.

‖ Or, humble.

i The Lords of their five Principal Cities, who ſeem to have been united together at this time in one Ariſtocratical Government; or at leaſt were Leagued together againſt him as their common Enemy. k To chaſtiſe him for his injuries done to us. They mean to puniſh him ſeverely, as they did; but they expreſs it in mild words, leſt the horror of it might move her to pity him. l i. e. Shekels, as that Phraſe is commonly uſed, as Numb. 7. 13, 85. 2 Sam. 18. 12. 2 King. 6. 25.

6 ¶ And Delilah ſaid to Samſon, Tell me, I pray thee, wherein thy great ſtrength lieth m, and wherewith thou mighteſt be bound, to afflict thee?

m What is the cauſe of this prodigious Strength, or wherein doth it conſiſt? She ſeems to ask meerly out of curioſity, to underſtand the ſtate of a perſon whom ſhe ſo highly values.

7 And Samſon ſaid unto her, If they bind me with ſeven ‖† green withs, that were never dried n, then ſhall I be weak, and be as † another man.

‖ Or, new cords. † Heb moiſt. † Heb. one of man. So Gr.

n Samſon is guilty both of the Sin of Lying, though he dreſs up the Lye in ſuch circumſtances as might make it moſt probable; and of great folly in encouraging her enquiries, which he ſhould at firſt have checkt: But as he had forſaken God, ſo God had now forſaken him, and deprived him of common Prudence; otherwiſe the frequent repetition and vehement urging of this Queſtion might eaſily have raiſed Suſpicion in him.

8 Then the lords of the Philiſtines brought up to her ſeven green withs, which had not been dried, and ſhe bound him with them.

9 (Now there were men lying in wait, abiding with her in the chamber o) and ſhe ſaid unto him, The Philiſtines be upon thee, Samſon. And he brake the withs as a thread of tow is broken, when it † toucheth the fire: ſo his ſtrength was not known.

† Heb. ſmelleth.

o With her, i. e. in the ſame Houſe, in a Chamber, i. e. in a ſecret Chamber within her Call. Nor is it ſtrange that they did not fall upon him in his Sleep; partly, becauſe they feared to awake a ſleeping Lion; and partly, becauſe they expect an opportunity for doing their work more certainly, and with leſs danger.

10 And Delilah ſaid unto Samſon, Behold, thou haſt mocked me, and told me lies: now tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mighteſt be bound?

11 And he ſaid unto her, If they bind me faſt with new ropes † that never were occupied, then ſhall I be weak, and be as † another man.

† Heb. wherewith work hath not been done. † Heb. one of man, ver. 7.

12 Delilah therefore took new ropes, and bound him therewith, and ſaid unto him, The Philiſtines be upon thee, Samſon. (And there were liers in wait abiding in the chamber.) And he brake them from off his arms like a thred.

13 And Delilah ſaid unto Samſon, Hitherto thou haſt mocked me, and told me lies: tell me wherewith thou mighteſt be bound. And he ſaid unto her, If thou weaveſt the ſeven locks of my head with the web p.

p Or thred which is woven about a Weavers loom: or, with a Weavers beam. If my hair, which is all divided into ſeven locks, be faſtned about a Weavers Beam; or interwoven with Weavers threds: Underſtand out of the foregoing Verſes; then I ſhall be weak as another man.

14 And ſhe faſtened it with the pin q, and ſaid unto him, The Philiſtines be upon thee, Samſon. And he awaked out of his ſleep, and went away with the pin of the beam, and with the web.

q Having done what Samſon directed, ſhe adds this for ſureneſs-ſake, ſhe faſtned the hair thus woven with a pin.

15 ¶ And ſhe ſaid unto him, How canſt thou ſay, I love thee, when thine heart is not with me r? thou haſt mocked me theſe three times, and haſt not told me wherein thy great ſtrength lieth?

r When thy love conſiſts only in outward expreſſion, not in Affection, and thou wilt not open thy heart to me, as one true friend doth to another.

16 And it came to paſs, when ſhe preſſed him daily with her words, and urged him, ſo that his ſoul was † vexed unto death s, s Being Tormented by two contrary and violent Paſſions, deſire to gratifie her whom he ſo much doted upon, and fear of betraying himſelf to utmoſt hazard. But being deſerted by God, it is no wonder that he chuſeth the worſe part.

17 That he told her all his heart, and ſaid unto her, * There hath not come a raſor upon mine head: for I have been a Nazarite unto God from my mothers womb: If I be ſhaven, then my ſtrength will go from me t, and I ſhall become weak, and be like any other man.

* Num. 6. 5.

t Not that his Hair was in it ſelf the Seat or Cauſe of his Strength, but becauſe it was the chief condition of that Vow or Covenant, whereby as he ſtood obliged to him, ſo God was pleaſed graciouſly to ingage himſelf to fit him for, and aſſiſt him in that great Work to which he called him: but upon his violation of his condition, God juſtly withdraws his help, and leaves him to himſelf.

18 And

18 And when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart u, she sent and called for the Lords of the Philistines, saying, Come up this once, for he hath shewed me all his heart. Then the Lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and brought money in their hand.

u Which it was not hard for her to discover, by the change of his Countenance, and the matter of his Discourse, and the whole carriage of the business.

19 And she made him sleep x upon her knees y, and she called for a man, and she caused him to shave off z the seven locks of his head, and she began to afflict him a, and his strength went from him b.

x By some sleepy Potion, which it is like she gave him upon other pretences, agreeable enough to his present and vitiated inclination. y Resting his head upon her knees. z With a gentle hand, as if she her self had but been sporting with him. She did this more securely; partly, because she had cast him into a deep Sleep; and partly, because, if he had discovered it before it was finished, she would have said, it was onely an innocent intention to try the sincerity of his Affection to her, and the truth of this last relation, which she had so just reason to doubt of, from his frequent dissimulation and lyes. a i.e. To disturb, and awaken, and affright him, as by other ways, so particularly by crying out in a terrible manner, The Philistines are upon thee, as she had done before, and as it follows ver. 20. b Which, as is here implyed, she perceived, because he could not now shake himself as he did before, i. e. with equal vigour and might, as is intimated in the next verse: or, because she had bound him, though it be not here expressed, and found him unable to break his bonds.

20 And she said b, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awoke out of his sleep, and said c, I will go out as at other times before, and shake my self d. And he wist not e that the LORD was departed from him f.

c Within himself, i. e. he purposed and attempted it. d i. e. Put forth my strength to crush them, and to deliver my self. e Being not yet well awake, and not distinctly feeling the loss of his Hair, or not duly considering what would follow upon it. f In respect of the strength and help he had formerly given him.

† Heb. bored out. 21 ¶ But the Philistines took him g, and † put out his eyes h, and brought him down to Gaza i, and bound him with fetters of brass, and he did grind in the Prison-house k.

g Who now durst Apprehend him, because they rested in the Assurance which Delilah had given them, that now all was discovered and done. h Which was done by them out of Revenge and Policy to disenable him from doing them much harm, in case he should recover his strength; but not without Gods Providence, punishing him in that part which had been greatly instrumental to his sinful Lusts. i Because this was a great and strong City, where he would be kept safely; and upon the Sea-coast, at sufficient distance from Samson's People; and to repair the Honour of that Place, upon which he had fastned so great a scorn, Judg. 16. 3. God also ordering things thus, that where he first sinned, Judg. 16. 1. there he should receive his Punishment. k As Captives and Slaves use to do: See Exod. 11. 5. Isa. 47. 2. Matt. 24. 41. l He made himself a Slave to vile Lusts and Harlots, and now God suffers men to use him like a Slave.

‖ Or, as when he was shaven. 22 Howbeit, the hair of his head began to grow again l ‖ after he was shaven.

l This circumstance, though in it self inconsiderable, is noted as a sign of the recovery of Gods favour, and his former strength, in some good degree, upon his bitter Repentance, and his renewing of his Vow with God, which was allowed for Nazarites to do, Numb. 6. 9, &c. and which it is here supposed he did, and by the Effects proved.

23 Then the Lords of the Philistines gathered them together m, for to offer a great sacrifice unto Dagon n their god, and to rejoyce: for they said, Our God hath delivered Samson our enemy into our hand.

m Either upon some annual or customary Solemnity: or rather upon this special occasion, To praise Dagon for this singular Favour. And they did not appoint this solemn Service as soon as Samson was taken, but some considerable time after, as appears by the growth of Samson's Hair in the mean time, because they would give sufficient time and warning for all their Friends and Allies to come thither, and for the making of all necessary preparations for so great an Occasion. n Which is by most supposed to be an Idol, whose upper part was like a Man, and whose lower part was like a Fish; whence there is mention of Dagon's hands, but not of his Feet, in 1 Sam. 5. 4. And this Place being near Ægypt, where some of their gods were Worshipped in the form of Fishes; and being near the Sea, it seems most probable, that it was one of the Sea-gods of the Heathens; and that it had in some part the resemblance of a Fish.

24 And when the people saw him, they praised their god: for they said, Our God hath delivered into our hands our enemy, and the destroyer of our country, † which slew many of us.

† Heb. and who multiplyed our slain.

25 And it came to pass when their hearts were merry, that they said, Call for Samson, that he may make us sport. And they called for Samson out of the prison-house, and he made † them sport n, and they set him between the pillars.

† Heb. before them.

n Either, First, Passively, being made by them the matter of their sport and derision, and of many bitter Scoffs, and other Indignities or Injuries: Or, Secondly, Actively, by some ridiculous Actions, or some proofs of more than ordinary Strength yet remaining in him, like the ruines of a great and goodly Building: whereby he lull'd them asleep in security, until by this seeming complaisance he prepared the way for that which he design'd; otherwise his generous Soul would never have been forced to make them sport, save in order to their Destruction.

26 And Samson said unto the lad that held him by the hand, Suffer me, that I may feel the pillars whereupon the house standeth, that I may lean upon them.

27 Now the house was full of men and women, and all the lords of the Philistines were there: and there were upon the roof o about three thousand men and women, that beheld while Samson made sport.

o Which after the manner was flat, and had Windows through which they might see what was done in the lower parts of the house.

28 And Samson called unto the LORD, and said, O LORD God, remember me, I pray thee, and strengthen me, I pray thee, onely this once, O God, that I may be at once avenged of the Philistines for my two eyes p.

p This Prayer was not an act of Malice and Revenge, but of Faith and Zeal for God, who was there publickly dishonoured; and justice, in punishing their Insolencies, and vindicating the whole Common-wealth of Israel, which was his duty, as he was Judge, to do. And this is manifest from hence, because God, who heareth not Sinners, and would never use his Omnipotency to gratifie any Mans impotent Malice, did manifest by the Effect, that he accepted and owned his Prayer as the dictate of his own Spirit. And that in this Prayer he mentions only his Personal injury, the loss of his Eyes, and not their Indignities to God and his People, must be ascribed to that prudent care which he had, and declared upon former occasions, of deriving the rage and hatred of the Philistines upon himself alone, and diverting it from the People. For which end I conceive this Prayer was made with an audible Voice, though he knew they would entertain it onely with scorn and laughter, which also he knew would quickly be turned into Mourning.

29 And Samson took hold of the two middle pillars, upon which the house stood, and ‖ on which it was born up, of the one with his right hand, and of the other with his left q.

‖ Or, he leaned on them.

q Qu. How could so great a Building, containing so many thousands of People, rest upon two Pillars so near placed together? Here Infidels triumph, as if they had got an unanswerable Argument against the truth of the Scriptures. But it is a far more incredible and ridiculous thing to imagine, that the Pen-man of this Book should feign such a circumstance as this is, if it had been false, whereby he would have utterly overthrown the Credit of the whole Book; and that he should do this before a People that could easily have confuted him; and that the people should have so high a Veneration for that Book in which they knew so notorious a falsehood to be: these things, I say, are far more absurd to believe, than the truth of this Relation. But to this I shall add two Answers. First. It is no sufficient Argument to prove, that this was not true, because cauſe we do not at this day underſtand how it was done. There were many great Works, and excellent pieces of Art, ſome footſteps whereof are left in ancient Writers; but the exact way and particular manner of them, is wholly, or in a great meaſure unknown and loſt: ſo that Pancirollus hath written a whole Book of ſuch things. Particularly, the old way of Architecture is much in the dark, as is confeſſed by the Learned. It may be pretended, That though there might be curious Arts of Building in the Learned and Ingenious part of the World, it is not probable they were among ſuch a rude and barbarous People as the Philiſtines. But this is certainly a very great miſtake; for theſe People were either a part of, or very near Neighbours to the Phœnicians, from whom it is confeſſed the Arts came to the Grecians. And foraſmuch as many things which were concluded by the Ancients to be impoſſible, are by the Wit and Induſtry of later Ages found to be poſſible, and certainly true; it cannot be ſtrange if ſome things now ſeem impoſſible to ſome men, which were then known to be practicable. And he that will venture his Faith and Salvation upon this Propoſition, That ſuch a Building as this was ſimply impoſſible, becauſe he doth not ſee the poſſibility of it; or, which is all one, That no man underſtands more than he doth; will find few admirers of his Wiſdom. And to queſtion the Truth and Divinity of the Holy Scriptures, which is ſo fully and clearly proved by ſundry Arguments, upon ſuch a nicety as this, is but a more learned kind of Doting. Anſw. 2. Inſtances are not wanting of far more large and capacious Buildings than this, that have been ſupported only by one Pillar. Particularly, Pliny in the 15*th.* Chapter of the 36*th.* Book of his Natural Hiſtory, mentions two Theaters built by one C. Curio, who lived in Julius Ceſar's time; each of which was ſupported only by one Pillar, or Pin, or Hinge, though very many thouſands of people did ſit in it together. And much more might two pillars ſuffice to uphold a Building large enough to contain Three thouſand perſons, which is the number mentioned, ver. 17. Or, the Pillars might be made Two in the lower part meerly for Ornament-ſake, which might eaſily be ſo ordered as to ſupport a Third and Main Pillar in the middle, which upheld the whole Fabrick.

30 And Samſon ſaid, Let † me die with the Philiſtines r: and he bowed himſelf with all his might: and the houſe fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein: ſo the dead which he ſlew at his death, were moe than they which he ſlew in his life.

r i. e. I am contented to Die, ſo I can but therewith contribute any thing to the Vindication of Gods Glory, here trampled upon, and to the Deliverance of Gods People. This is no Example nor Encouragement to thoſe that wickedly Murder themſelves: for Samſon did not deſire, nor procure his own Death voluntarily, but only by meer force and neceſſity; becauſe he did deſire, and by his Office was obliged to ſeek the deſtruction of theſe Enemies and Blaſphemers of God, and Oppreſſors of his people; which in theſe circumſtances he could not Effect without his own Death: and his Caſe was not much unlike theirs, that in the heat of Battel run upon the very mouth of the Canon, or other evident and certain danger of Death, to execute a deſign upon the Enemy; or theirs, who go in a Fire-ſhip to deſtroy the Enemies beſt Ships, though they are ſure to periſh in the Enterprize. Moreover, Samſon did this by Divine Inſtinct and Approbation, as Gods Anſwer to his prayer manifeſts, and that he might be a Type of Chriſt, who by voluntarily undergoing Death, deſtroyed the Enemies of God, and of his people.

31 Then his brethren s, and all the houſe of his father came down, and took him, and brought him up, and buried him t between Zorah and Eſhtaol, in the burying-place of Manoah his father: and he judged Iſrael twenty years u.

s Either, Firſt, Largely ſo called, his kinſmen. Or, Secondly, ſtrictly ſo called; Samſon's Parents having had other Children after him; as it was uſual with God when he gave an extraordinary and unexpected power of procreating a Child, to continue that ſtrength for the Generation or Conception of more Children, as in the caſe of Abraham, Gen. 25. 1, 2. and Anna, 1 Sam. 2. 21. t Which they adventured to do; partly, becauſe the moſt barbarous Nations allowed Burial even to their Enemies, and would permit this oft-times to be done by their friends: partly, becauſe Samſon had taken the blame of this Action wholly to himſelf; for which his innocent Relations could not upon any pretence be puniſhed: and principally, becauſe they were under ſuch grief, and perplexity, and conſternation for the common Calamity, that they had neither heart, nor leiſure to Revenge themſelves of the Iſraelites, but for their own ſakes were willing not to diſquiet or offend them; at leaſt, till they were in a better poſture to reſiſt them. u This was ſaid before, Judg. 15. 20. and is here repeated, partly to confirm the Relation of it, and partly to explain it; and to ſhew when theſe Twenty years ended, even at his Death as is here Noted.

CHAP. XVII.

AND there was a man a of mount Ephraim, whoſe name was † Micah. † Heb. Micajah.

a The things mentioned here, and in the following Chapters, did not happen in the order in which they are put; but much ſooner, even preſently after the Death of the Elders that overlived Joſhua, Judg. 2. 7. as appears by divers paſſages; as Firſt, becauſe the place called Mahaneh-Dan, or the camp of Dan, Judg. 13. 25. was ſo called from that which was done, Judg. 18. 12. Secondly, Becauſe the Danites had not yet got all their Inheritance, Judg. 18. 1. which is not credible of them, above 300 Years after Joſhuah's Death. Thirdly, becauſe Phineas the ſon of Eleazar was Prieſt at this time, Judg. 20. 28. who muſt have been about 250 years old, if this had been done after Samſon's Death, which is more than improbable.

2 And he ſaid unto his mother, The eleven hundred ſhekels of ſilver that were taken from thee, about which thou curſedſt b, and ſpakeſt of alſo in mine ears, behold, the ſilver is with me, I took it c. And his mother ſaid, Bleſſed be thou of the LORD d, my ſon.

b i. e. Didſt curſe the perſon who had taken them away, and that in my hearing, as it follows. c The fear of thy curſe makes me acknowledge mine Offence, and beg thy pardon. d I willingly conſent to, and beg from God the removal of the curſe, and a Bleſſing inſtead of it. Be thou free from my curſe, becauſe thou haſt ſo honeſtly reſtored it.

3 And when he had reſtored the eleven hundred ſhekels of ſilver to his mother, his mother ſaid, I had wholly † dedicated the ſilver unto the LORD e, from my hand, for my ſon f to make a graven image, and a molten image g: now therefore I will reſtore it unto thee h. † Heb. ſanctified

e In the Hebrew it is, Jehovah, the incommunicable name of God. Whereby it is apparent, that neither ſhe, nor her Son, intended to forſake the true God or his Worſhip; as appears from his rejoycing when he had got a Prieſt of the Lords appointment, of the Tribe of Levi, Judg. 17. 13. but onely to Worſhip God by an Image; which alſo it is apparent, that both the Iſraelites, Exod. 32. 1, &c. and Jeroboam afterwards, deſigned to do. f Either, Firſt, for the honour and benefit of thy ſelf and Family; that you need not be continually going to Shiloh to Worſhip, but may do it as well at home by theſe Images. Or, Secondly, that thou mayeſt cauſe theſe things to be made; to which end, ſhe reſtored all the Money to him, as it here follows. g Many think this was but one Image, partly Graven, and partly Molten. But it ſeems more probable, that they were two diſtinct Images, becauſe they are ſo plainly diſtinguiſhed, Judg. 18. 17, 18. where alſo ſome other words come between them. It is true, the graven image alone is mentioned, Judg. 18. 20, 30, 31. not excluſively to the other, as appears from what is ſaid juſt before; but by a common Synecdoche, whereby one is put for all; eſpecially, where that one is eſteemed the chief. h To diſpoſe of, as I ſay.

4 Yet he reſtored the money unto his mother i, and his mother took two hundred ſhekels of ſilver k, and gave them to the founder, who made thereof l a graven image, and a molten image, and they were in the houſe of Micah.

i Though his Mother allowed him to keep it, yet he perſiſted in his reſolution to reſtore it, that ſhe might diſpoſe of it as ſhe pleaſed; and did actually reſtore it, as was ſaid before; and now confirms the former Reſtitution, and therefore is twice ſaid to reſtore it. k Reſerving 900 Shekels either for the Ephod and Teraphim, or for other things relating to this Worſhip: or for her own private uſe; being, it ſeems, cooled in her firſt Zeal, and willing to have as cheap a Religion as ſhe could, as alſo her Son Micah was, Judg. 17. 10. l Made them, either, Firſt, of that Matter: Or, Secondly, for that money.

5 And the man Micah had an houſe of gods m, and made an * ephod n and * teraphim o, and † conſecrated one of his ſons, who became his prieſt p. * Gen. 31. 19. Hoſ. 3. 4. † Heb. filled the hand.

m i. e. An Houſe or place conſecrated for the Service of God in this manner. n An eminent part of the prieſtly Garments, Exod. 28. 4. which, ſome think, is here put for all of them. o Some ſort of Images ſo called, of which ſee Gen. 31. 19. Hoſ. 3. 4. p Becauſe the Levites in that corrupt Eſtate of the Church, neglected the Exerciſe of their Office, and therefore were neglected by the people, and others put into their Employment. But this kind of prieſthood was condemned, Numb. 16. 40. and 18. 2, 7.

* chap. 18. 1. and 21. 25.

6 * In those days there was no King q in Israel, but every man did that which was right in his own eyes r.

q i. e. No Judge to Govern and Controul them. The word King being here used largely for a Supreme Magistrate; as Gen. 36. 31. Deut. 33. 5. God raised up Judges to Rule and deliver the People, when he saw fit; and at other times for their Sins he suffered them to be without them, and such a time this was; and therefore they ran into that Idolatry, from which the Judges usually kept them; as appears by that solemn and oft-repeated passage in this Book, that after the Death of such or such a Judge, the people forsook the Lord, and turned to Idols. r i. e. Not what pleased God, but what best suited his own fancy or lusts.

7 ¶ And there was a young man out of Bethlehem-Judah s, of the family of Judah t, who was a Levite, and he sojourned there u.

s Or, of Bethlehem-Judah, so called here, as Mat. 2. 1, 5. to difference it from Bethlehem in Zebulun, Josh. 19. 15. There he was born and bred. t i. e. Of, or belonging to the Tribe of Judah; not by Birth, for he was a Levite; nor by his Mother, for though that might be true, the Mothers-side is not regarded in Genealogies; but by his Habitation and Ministration. For the Levites, especially in times of Confusion and Irreligion, were dispersed among all the Tribes; and this mans Lot fell into the Tribe of Judah; which seems to be here noted by way of reflection upon that Tribe, and as an evidence of the general defection, that a Levite could not find entertainment in that great and famous Tribe which God had put so much honour upon. Gen. 49. 8, 9. 10, 11. and therefore was forced to wander and seek for subsistence elsewhere. u So he expresseth it, because this was not the proper, nor usual place of his abode, this being no Levitical City.

8 And the man departed out of the city from Bethlehem-Judah, to sojourn where he could find a place x, and he came to mount Ephraim, to the house of Micah † as he journeyed.

† Heb. in making his way.

x For employment and a lively-hood; for the Tithes and Offerings, which were their maintenance, not being brought into the house of God, the Levites and Priests must needs be reduced to great streights.

9 And Micah said unto him, Whence comest thou? and he said unto him, I am a Levite of Bethlehem-Judah, and I go to sojourn where I may find a place.

10 And Micah said unto him, Dwell with me, and be unto me a father and a priest y, and I will give thee ten shekels of silver by the year, and ‖ † a suit of apparel, and thy victuals. So the Levite went in.

‖ Or, a double suit, &c.
† Heb. an order of garments.

y For, a Father, that is, a Priest, a Spiritual Father, a Teacher or Instructor, for such are called Fathers; see 2 King. 6. 21. and 8. 9. and 13. 14. Isa. 22. 21. He pretends Reverence and Submission to him; and what is wanting in his Wages, he pays him in empty Titles.

11 And the Levite was content z to dwell with the man, and the young man was unto him as one of his sons a.

z Being constrained by necessity, and infected with the common contagion of the Superstition and Idolatry of the times. a i. e. Treated with the same degree of kindness and affection.

12 And Micah consecrated the Levite b, and the young man became his priest c, and was in the house of Micah.

b To be a Priest, for which he thought a Consecration necessary, as knowing that the Levites were no less excluded from the Priests Office than the people. c Instead of his Son, whom he had Consecrated for want of a fitter, ver. 6. but now seems to restrain him from the exercise of that Office, and to devolve it wholly upon the Levite, who was nearer akin to it.

13 Then said Micah, Now know I that the LORD will do me good d, seeing I have a Levite to my priest.

d I am assured God will Bless me. So blind and grosly partial he was in his Judgment, to think that one right circumstance would answer for all his substantial Errors, in making and worshipping Images against Gods express Command, in worshipping God in a forbidden place; and in that he being an Ephraimite presumed to make a Priest, &c.

CHAP. XVIII.

IN * those days there was no king in Israel a: and in those days the * tribe of the Danites b sought them an inheritance to dwell in, for unto that day all their inheritance had not fallen unto them c among the tribes of Israel.

* chap. 17. 6. and 21. 25.
* Josh. 19. 47.

a Not long after Joshua's death, of which see on Judg. 17. 6. b i. e. A part or branch of that Tribe, consisting onely of six hundred men of War, ver. 16. with their Families, ver. 21. or, a Family of the Danites; for the word, Schebet, which properly signifies a Tribe, is sometimes taken for a Family, as Judg. 20. 12. as elsewhere Family is put for a Tribe, as Zech. 12. 13. c The Lot had fallen to them before this time, Jos. 19. 40, &c. but not the actual possession of their Lot, because therein the Philistines and Amorites opposed them, not without success. See Jos. 19. 40. Judg. 1. 34.

2 And the children of Dan sent of their family d five men from their coasts, † men of valour, from Zorah, and from Eshtaol e, to spy out the land, and to search it, and they said unto them, Go, search the land: who when they came to mount Ephraim to the house of Micah, they lodged there f.

d Which shews that it was but one, though a large Family, which was engaged in this Expedition. e Of which see Jos. 19. 41. Judg. 13. 2, 25. f Not in the same House, but near it, as appears from the next Verse, in a neighbouring place.

3 When they were by the house of Micah, they knew the voice of the young man the Levite g: and they turned in thither, and said unto him, Who brought thee hither? and what makest thou in this place h? and what hast thou here?

g Either, 1. By his manner of pronunciation, which was differing and distinguishable in several Tribes, as appears from Judg. 12. 6. Mark 14. 70. Or 2. By the celebration of some part of his Office, which they then lodging in the neighbourhood, might be invited to. Or rather, 3. By some acquaintance which some of them formerly had with him, which they might have upon many occasions. h This being not thy usual place, nor proper for thy employment.

4 And he said unto them, Thus and thus dealeth Micah with me, and hath hired me, and I am his Priest.

5 And they said unto him, Ask counsel, we pray thee, of God i, that we may know whether our way which we go shall be prosperous.

i To wit, by thine Ephod, or Teraphim, or Images, which they knew he had, ver. 14.

6 And the priest said unto them, Go in peace: before the LORD is your way k wherein ye go.

k i. e. Your Journey or Design is under the eye of God: i. e. under his Care, and Protection, and Direction, which the eye of God being upon a person, commonly notes in Scripture, as Psal. 32. 8. and 34. 15. Compare Jer. 39. 12. and 40. 4. So the phrase is here taken in a restrained sense, which is elsewhere taken more largely, as Prov. 5. 21. This Answer he either feigns to gratifie their humour; or, did indeed receive from the Devil, who transformed himself into an Angel of Light, and in Gods name gave them Answers, and those not seldom very true, which God suffered for the tryal of his people: See Deut. 13. 1, 2, 3. But it is observable, that his Answer was, as the Devils Oracles usually were, ambiguous, and such as might have been interpreted either way, as they had success or disappointment.

7 ¶ Then the five men departed, and came to Laish l, and saw the people that were therein, how they dwelt careless, after the manner of the Zidonians m, quiet, and secure, and there was no † magistrate in the land that might put them to shame in any thing n, and they were far from the Zidonians o, and had no business with any man p.

† Heb. possessor, or heir of restraint.
1 Sam. 9. 17.

l Called also Lehem, Jos. 19. 47. m Who living in a very strong place, and abounding in Wealth, and understanding that they were not a part of that Land which God gave to his people; and perceiving that the Israelites never attempted any thing against them, were grown secure and careless.

n Or,

n Or, that might rebuke or punish any thing, i. e. any crime; Heb. that might put any thing to shame, or, make any thing shameful. Putting to shame seems to be used Metonymically for inflicting Civil Punishment, because shame is generally the adjunct or effect of it. o Who otherwise could have succoured them, and would have been ready to do it. p No League or Confederacy, nor much Converse with other Cities, it being in a pleasant and plentiful Soil, between the two Rivolets of Jor and Dan, not needing Supplies from others, and therefore minding onely their own ease and pleasure.

8 And they came unto their brethren to Zorah, and Eshtaol, and their brethren said unto them, What say ye?

9 And they said, Arise, that we may go up against them: for we have seen the land, and behold, it is very good: and are ye still q? Be not slothful to go, and to enter to possess the land.

q Heb. silent? Silence is oft put for stillness or cessation from action or motion, as Exod. 14. 14. Isa. 62. 1. Lam. 2. 18. For they do not accuse them for want of speaking, for that they did; but for wanting of doing and putting their words and resolves into execution.

10 When ye go, ye shall come unto a people secure, and to a large land: for God hath given it into your hand r: a place where there is no want of any thing, that is in the earth.

r This they gather partly from Gods Word or Promise, which they supposed they had from the Levites mouth; and partly from his Providence, which hath so disposed them, that they will be an easie Prey to you.

11 ¶ And there went from thence of the family s of the Danites out of Zorah, and out of Eshtaol six hundred men, † appointed with weapons of war.

† Heb. girded.

s By which it again appears, That the Tribe, ver. 1. is put for Family.

12 And they went up and pitched in Kirjath-jearim t in Judah: wherefore they called that place Mahaneh-dan, unto this day: behold it is behind Kirjath-jearim u.

t Called Kiriath-baal, Jos. 15. 60. a City lying in the Northern parts of Judah, in the Road to Laish; yet not in the City, but in the Fields belonging to it, as the following words evince. u i. e. Westward from it, as the Western Sea is called the hindermost Sea, Deut. 11. 24. and as on the contrary, the East is called Kedem, which signifies the forepart.

13 And they passed thence unto mount Ephraim, and came unto the house of Micah x.

x i. e. To the Town in which his House was, for they were not yet entred into it.

14 ¶ Then answered y the five men that went to spie out the countrey of Laish, and said unto their brethren, Do ye know that there is in those houses z an ephod, and teraphim, and a graven image, and a molten image? Now therefore consider what ye have to do a.

y i. e. Spake, the word answering being oft used in Scripture of the first speaker: as 1 King. 1. 28. & 13. 7. Ezra 10. 2. Isa. 14. 10. z i. e. In one of these Houses, the Plural number for the Singular, as Judg. 12. 7. a Whether it be not expedient; either, 1. To consult them again for your own satisfaction; or rather, 2. To take them away for your further use, as you shall have occasion; for their action is the best Comment upon their words.

15 And they turned thitherward, and came to the house of the young man the Levite, even unto the house of Micah, and † saluted him b.

† Heb. asked him of peace.

b Heb. asked him of Peace, i. e. if he were in peace, Peace being commonly put for Health and Prosperity.

16 And the six hundred men appointed with their weapons of war, which were of the children of Dan, stood by the entring of the gate

17 And the five men that went to spy out the land went up, and came in thither c, and took the graven image, and the ephod and the teraphim, and the molten image, and the priest stood in the entring of the gate d with the six hundred men that were appointed with weapons of war.

c To wit, into the House, and that part of it, where those things were. d Whither they had drawn him forth, that they might without noise or hindrance take them away.

18 And these e went into Micahs house: and fetched the carved image, the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image; then said the priest unto them, What do ye f?

e To wit, the five mentioned, ver. 17. f What do you mean to do? I hope you will not do so Impious and Injurious an action.

19 And they said unto him, Hold thy peace, lay thy hand upon thy mouth g, and go with us, and be to us a father, and a priest h: Is it better for thee to be a priest unto the house of one man, or that thou be a priest unto a tribe, and a family i in Israel?

g i. e. Be silent, as this Phrase is used, Job 21. 5. and 29. 9. and 40. 4. Prov. 30. 32. The same thing repeated in other words. h See on Judg. 17. 10. i To wit, a Tribe, that is, (and being oft put for that is) a family. For it is certain this was not an expedition of the whole tribe, which numbred 64000 men, Num. 26. 43. but only of one family, which it seems were more vexed with the Philistines or Amorites, and therefore resolved to seek new habitations at a great distance from them. And after this time we find the Body of the Danites in their old and proper portions in Sampson's time, which, though placed before this, was long after it.

20 And the priests heart was glad k, and he took the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image, and went in the midst of the people l.

k Being wholly governed by his own Interest, and making all his obligations of Justice and Gratitude give place to it. But it is not strange, if he who was before perfidious to God, should prove so to men. l i. e. Among the People: or properly in the midst, both for the greater security of such precious things, and that Micah might not be able to come at him, either to injure or upbraid him; and, it may be, because that was the place where the Ark used to be carried.

21 So they turned and departed, and put the little ones, and the cattel, and the carriage before them m.

m For their greater security, if Micah should pursue them.

22 ¶ And when they were a good way from the house of Micah, the men that were in the houses near to Micahs house, were gathered together, and overtook the children of Dan.

23 And they cried unto the children of Dan: and they turned their faces, and said unto Micah, What ails thee, † that thou comest with such a company.

† Heb. that thou art gathered together.

24 And he said, Ye have taken away my gods which I made n, and the priest, and ye are gone away: and what have I more o? and what is this that ye say unto me, What aileth thee?

n So far was he besotted with Superstition and Idolatry, that he esteemed those gods, which were man's work. But he could not be so stupid, as to think these were indeed the great Jehovah that made Heaven and Earth; but only a lower sort of gods, by whom, as Mediators, he offered up his Worship unto the true God, as it is manifest divers of the Heathens did. o I value nothing I have in comparison of what you have taken away. Which zeal for Idolatrous trash may shame multitudes that call themselves Christians, and yet apparently value their worldly conveniences more than all the concerns even of the true Religion, and of their own Salvation.

25 ¶ And the children of Dan said unto him, Let not thy voice p be heard among us: lest † angry fellows q run upon thee, and thou lose thy life r, with the lives of thy household.

† Heb. bitter of soul.

p The complaints and reproaches, q The Soldiers, who are in themselves sharp and fierce, and will soon be enflamed by thy provoking words. r Which, notwithstanding all thy pretences, thou dost value more than thy Images, as indeed appeared from his following practice.

26 And the children of Dan went their way: and when Micah saw that they were too strong for him, he turned, and went back unto his house.

27 And they took the things which Micah had made, and the priest which he had, and came unto Laish, unto a people that were at quiet, and secure, and they smote them with the edge of the sword, and burnt the city with fire s.

s Not wholly, but in a great measure, to strike the greater terror into the Inhabitants, and to make their conquest of the place more easie.

28 And there was no deliverer, because it was far from Zidon, and they had no business with any man: and it was in the valley that lieth by Bethrehob t, and they built a city, and dwelt therein.

t A place near Libanus and Hamath: of which see Num. 13. 21. Jos. 19. 28. and 21. 31. Judg. 1. 31.

* Josh. 19. 47. 29 And they called the name of the * city Dan, after the name of Dan their Father u, who was born unto Israel: howbeit, the name of the city was Laish at the first.

u That it might be manifest, that they belonged to the tribe of Dan, though they were seated at a great distance from them, even in the most Northerly part of the Land: whereas the lot of their tribe was in the Southern part of Canaan.

30 ¶ And the children of Dan set them up the graven image x: and Jonathan the son of Gershom, the son of Manasseh, he, and his sons were priests to the tribe of Dan, until the day of the captivity of the land y.

x Having succeeded in their expedition according to the prediction which, as they supposed, they had from this Image, they had a great veneration for it. y Either 1. When the Ark and the Israelites were taken captives by the Philistines, 1 Sam. 4, 10, 11. Though there is no mention of any who were then taken captives, or that the Philistines did pursue the Victory, and Conquer the Land at that time, for their Victory was quickly damped, and turned to Mourning, 1 Sam. 5. Or 2. After that time, when the Philistines slew Saul and Jonathan, and discomfited the whole Host of Israel, and made the rest of the People flee out of their Cities, and took possession of their Cities and Land. Or 3. When the whole Land of the ten Tribes, whereof Dan was one, was conquered, and the People carried Captive by the Assyrian, 2 King. 17. 6, 23. which is called by way of Eminency, the Captivity, 1 Chron. 5. 22. But against this it is Objected, That it is not probable, that this Idolatry should continue so long in such a publick place and manner: or that David and Solomon would suffer it. Ans. It is not said, that the graven Image was there so long, for that is restrained to a shorter date, even to the continuance of the Ark in Shiloh, ver. 31. which was removed thence, 1 Sam. 4. But only that Jonathan's posterity were Priests to this Tribe or Family of Dan, which they might be under all the changes, even till the Assyrian Captivity, sometimes more openly and allowedly, sometimes more cunningly, sometimes more secretly, sometimes in one way of Superstition or Idolatry, and sometimes in another; and, in and after Jeroboam's time, in the Worship of the Calves, for which service though he did make Priests of the meanest of the People, 1 King. 12. 31. yet that was not by choice, but out of necessity, because the Priests and Levites generally forsook him, 2 Chron. 11. 13, 14. and therefore when he could engage any of the Priests or Levites in that service, he was doubtless very glad of them to gain reputation to his Impious and absurd device.

31 And they set them up Micahs graven image, which he made, all the time that the house of God was in Shiloh.

CHAP. XIX.

* chap. 17. 6. and 18. 1. and 21. 25. † Heb. a woman, a concubine, or, a wife a concubine.

AND it came to pass in those days a *, when there was no king in Israel, that there was a certain Levite sojourning on the side b of mount Ephraim, who took to him † a concubine c out of Bethlehem-Judah.

a Of which see on Judg. 17. 1. b Heb. in the sides, i. e. in one of the sides, as ver. 18. c Heb. a Wife, a Concubine, i. e. such a Concubine as was also his Wife, as appears from ver. 3, 4, 5, 7, 9, 25, 27. and Judg. 20. 4. See of these Gen. 22. 24. and 25. 1.

2 And his concubine played the whore against him d, and went away from him e unto her fathers house to Bethlehem-Judah, and was there ‖ † four whole months f.

‖ Or, a year and four months. † Heb. Days for months.

d i. e. Against her Faith given to him, or to his wrong; or, with him, i. e. in his House, or whilest she lived with him, which is opposed to her going away, which here follows. e Either for fear of his severe rebukes or punishment; or, because her heart was alienated from him. f Heb. some days, to wit, four months; or, a year, (so days commonly signifie) and four months; wherein not only she sinned, but her Father by some indulgence and connivance at her Sin, and neglect of just endeavours for her reconciliation to her Husband, the ill effects whereof he speedily felt, in the loss of his Daughter in so dreadful a manner.

3 And her husband arose, and went after her to speak † friendly unto her g, and to bring her again h, having his servant with him, and a couple of asses i: and she brought him into her fathers house: and when the father of the damsel saw him, he rejoiced to meet him k.

† Heb. to her heart.

g Or, to speak to her heart, i. e. kindly and comfortably, as that phrase is taken, Gen. 50. 21. Hos. 2. 14. to offer her pardon, and reconciliation, and restitution to her former state. h To wit, to his own House. i Partly, for himself or his Wife to ride upon, as there was occasion; and partly, for carrying their Provision, as appears from ver. 19. k Hoping the breach would be made up by this means.

4 And his father in law, the damsels father, retained him, and he abode with him three days: so they did eat and drink, and lodged there.

5 ¶ And it came to pass on the fourth day, when they arose early in the morning, that he rose up to depart: and the damsels father said unto his son in law, † Comfort thine heart with a morsel of bread, and afterward go your way.

† Heb. strengthen.

6 And they sate down, and did eat and drink both of them together: for the damsels father had said unto the man, Be content, I pray thee, and tarry all night, and let thine heart † be merry.

† Heb. be good.

7 And when the man rose up to depart, his father in law urged him: therefore he lodged there again.

8 And he arose early in the morning on the fifth day to depart, and the damsels father said, Comfort thine heart, I pray thee. And they tarried † until afternoon, and they did eat both of them.

† Heb. till the day declined.

9 And when the man rose up to depart, he, and his concubine, and his servant, his father in law, the damsels father, said unto him, Behold, now the day † draweth towards evening, I pray you tarry all night: behold, † the day groweth to an end l, lodge here that thine heart may be merry, and to morrow get ye early on your way, that thou mayest go † home.

† Heb. is weak. † Heb. it is the pitching time of the day. † Heb. to thy tent.

l Heb, It is the encamping time of the day, i. e. the Evening, when Armies having marched in the day, begin to pitch their Camp; or, when the Sun that makes the day, begins to encamp himself, and go toward rest; so it is a Poetical expression taken from hence, That the Sun when he sets, seems to vulgar eyes to go to rest.

10 But the man would not tarry that night, but he rose up, and departed, and came † over against Jebus (which is Jerusalem) and there were with him two asses sadled, his concubine also was with him.

† Heb. to over against Jebus.

11 And when they were by Jebus, the day was far spent, and the servant said unto his master, Come, I pray thee, and let us turn in unto this city of the Jebusites, and lodg in it.

12 And his master said unto him, We will not turn aside hither into the city of a stranger m that is not of the children of Israel: we will pass over to Gibeah.

m i. e. Of a strange Nation, which the Canaanites possess; for though the City Jerusalem had been taken by Caleb, Judg. 1. yet the strong Fort of Zion was still in their hands, 2 Sam. 5. 6, 7. whence it is likely they did much molest, and afterwards by Gods permission, and for the punishment of their Sin, drive out the Israelites who dwelt there.

13 And

13 And he ſaid unto his ſervant, Come, and let us draw near to one of theſe places to lodge all night, in Gibeah, or in Ramah n.

n Both which places lay in Benjamin's Portion, a little Northward from Jeruſalem, and in the Road from Bethlehem-Judah to Gibeah.

14 And they paſſed on, and went their way, and the ſun went down upon them when they were by Gibeah, which belongeth to Benjamin o.

o This is added to difference it from another Gibeah in Judah, Joſ. 15. 57. Poſſibly this is that which was called Gibeah of Saul, 1 Sam. 11. 4.

15 And they turned aſide thither to go in, and to lodge in Gibeah: and when he went in, he ſate him down in a ſtreet of the city: for there was no man that took them into his houſe to lodging p.

p Though they were ſoft and effeminate in other reſpects, yet they were hard-hearted towards Strangers or indigent perſons. Either there were no publick Houſes to receive and entertain Travellers, as may be gathered from Gen. 28. & 42. & 45. and Joſ. 9, &c. or, if there were ſuch an one here, they might perceive it to be a very wicked Houſe, as being in ſo lewd a place, and therefore might decline it, and expect that ſome private perſon would exerciſe Hoſpitality to them, as perſons of any worth uſed to do, as Gen. 18. 1, 2, 3, 4. and 19. 1, 2. Heb. 13. 2.

16 ¶ And behold, there came an old man from his work, out of the field at even, which was alſo of mount Ephraim q; and he ſojourned in Gibeah, but the men of the place were † Benjamites r.

† Heb. Sons of Jemini, chap. 3. 15.

q Whence alſo the Levite was, which obliged and enclined him to ſhew the more kindneſs to his Country-man. r This was indeed one of the Cities belonging to the Prieſts, Joſ. 21. 1 Chron. 6. but you muſt conſider that the Cities which were given to the Prieſts, and whereof they were Poſſeſſors and Owners, were not inhabited by the Prieſts or Levites onely, eſpecially at this time when they were but few in number, but by many other perſons of differing Profeſſions and Callings, which was neceſſary for their conveniency.

17 And when he had lift up his eyes, he ſaw a wayfaring man in the ſtreet of the city: and the old man ſaid, Whither goeſt thou? and whence comeſt thou?

18 And he ſaid unto him, We are paſſing from Bethlehem-Judah, toward the ſide of mount Ephraim, from thence am I: and I went to Bethlehem-Judah, but I am now going to the houſe of the LORD ſ, and there is no man that † receiveth me to houſe.

ſ Which was in Shiloh, Joſ. 18. 1. and 22. 12. Thither he went, either becauſe he lived there, for that was in the Tribe of Ephraim; or, rather, becauſe, he would there offer Prayers, and Praiſes, and Sacrifices unto God, for his Mercy in reconciling him and his Wife together, and for his Bleſſing upon them again, and to make atonement for his Wife.

19 Yet there is both ſtraw and provender for our aſſes, and there is bread and wine alſo for me, and for thy handmaid, and for the young man which is with thy ſervants: there is no want of any thing.

20 And the old man ſaid, Peace be with thee: howſoever let all thy wants lie upon me t, * onely lodge not in the ſtreet.

* Gen. 19. 2.

t It matters not whether thou wanteſt nothing or every thing, I will take care to ſupply all thy wants.

21 So he brought him into his houſe, and gave provender unto the aſſes: and they waſhed their feet u, and did eat and drink.

u As they uſed to do to Travellers in thoſe hot Countreys, Gen. 18. 4. and 19. 2. and 24. 32, &c.

22 ¶ Now as they were making their hearts merry x, behold, the men of the city, certain * ſons of Belial y, beſet the houſe round about, and beat at the door, and ſpake to the maſter of the houſe, the old man, ſaying, Bring forth the man that came into thine houſe, that we may know him z.

* Hoſ. 9. 9. and 10. 9.

x i. e. Refreſhing themſelves with the Proviſions ſet before them. y Wicked and Licentious men; ſee Deut. 13. 13. z An ambiguous expreſſion; whereby they pretended onely a deſire to know and ſee what perſon he had brought among them, and yet carry on their Wicked deſign of knowing him carnally. Compare Gen. 19. 5. where the ſame phraſe is uſed in that ſenſe upon a like occaſion. But though they name onely the man; yet it is plain from the following relation, that their Deſign was principally upon the Woman, and therefore under the name of the Man, they comprehend thoſe that belong to him.

23 And * the man, the maſter of the houſe, went out unto them, and ſaid unto them, Nay, my brethren, nay, I pray you do not ſo wickedly, ſeeing that this man is come into mine houſe a, do not this folly.

* Gen. 19. 6.

a And therefore I am obliged to protect him by the Laws of Hoſpitality. Compare Gen. 19. 7, 8.

24 Behold, here is my daughter, a maiden, and his concubine, them I will bring out now b, and humble ye them, and do with them what ſeemeth good unto you: but unto this man do not † ſo vile a thing.

† Heb. the matter of this folly.

b He offers this to avoid a greater and more unnatural Sin, which he thought they deſigned; but it ſeems they did not, their abuſe being confined to the Woman, and not extended to the Man, who alſo was in their power, if they had luſted after him. But this offer was Sinful, becauſe he offered that which was not in his, nor in the Mans power to diſpoſe of, even the Chaſtity of his Daughter, and the Mans Wife; and becauſe no Man muſt do any evil, though never ſo ſmall, for the prevention of any evil of ſin or miſery, or for the procuring of the greateſt good, Rom. 3. 8. though his Sin was much mitigated by his Ignorance, by his honeſt and generous Intention of protecting a ſtranger; by the force which was in ſome ſort put upon him, and by the ſuddenneſs and violence of the Temptation.

25 But the men would not hearken to him: ſo the man took his concubine c, and brought her forth unto them, and they knew her, and abuſed her all the night, until the morning: and when the day began to ſpring, they let her go.

c Being willing to expoſe her, rather than the Daughter of his Hoſt, who had expreſſed ſuch a ſingular care and affection for him.

26 Then came the woman in the dawning of the day, and fell down d at the door of the mans houſe, where her lord e was, till it was light.

d To wit, dead, as the following words ſhow, and as that word is oft uſed, as Exod. 19. 21. Pſal. 82. 7. and 91. 7. Hoſ. 5. 5. killed, partly with grief of heart, and partly with exceſſive abuſe of her Body, of which there have been divers inſtances. Thus the Sin ſhe formerly choſe, ver. 2. is now her Deſtruction; and though her husband pardoned her, God would puniſh her, at leaſt as to this life. e So he is called, either becauſe he was her husband; for which cauſe Sarah called Abraham Lord, 1 Pet. 3. 6. or becauſe ſhe had been his maid-ſervant, as Concubines oftentimes were; as Gen. 30. 3, 9.

27 And her lord roſe up in the morning, and opened the doors of the houſe, and went out to go his way: and behold, the woman his concubine was fallen down at the door of the houſe, and her hands were upon the threſhold f.

f The poſture either of one that had fallen down; or of one that was layed down to ſleep, her hands or arms (for the Hebrew word ſignifies both) leaning upon the threſhold, and being put under her head: and therefore he thought to awake her, and raiſe her up.

28 And he ſaid unto her, Up, and let us be going. But none anſwered g: then the man took her up upon an aſs, and the man roſe up, and gat him into his place.

g For ſhe was dead, as is ſaid, Judg. 20. 5.

29 ¶ And when he was come into his houſe, he took a knife, and laid hold on his concubine, and divided her, together with her bones h, into twelve pieces i, and ſent her into all the coaſts of Iſrael k.

h Or, according to her bones, according to the joynts of her Body, for there he made the division. This might seem to be a Barbarous and inhuman act in it self; but may seem excusable, if it be considered, that the sadness of the Spectacle did highly contribute to stir up the zeal of all the Israelites to avenge his Concubines death, and to execute Justice upon such profligate Offenders; and was necessary, especially in this time of Anarchy and general Corruption, Judg. 17. 6. to awaken them out of that Lethargy, in which all the Tribes lay. i That one piece might be sent to every Tribe; whereof none to Levi, because they would meet with it in every Tribe, being dispersed among them; but one to Benjamin; for he might well presume, that they would as much abhor so villanous an Action, though done by some of their own Tribe, as any of the rest. k By several messengers, by whom also he sent a particular Relation of the Fact.

30 And it was so, that all that saw it, said, There was no such deed l done nor seen from the day that the children of Israel came up out of the land of Egypt, unto this day: consider of it, take advice, and speak your minds m.

l So wicked and abominable. m Let us meet together, and seriously consider, and every one freely speak what is to be done in this case.

CHAP. XX.

THEN all the children of Israel a went out b, and the congregation was gathered together as one man c, from Dan even to Beersheba d, with the land of Gilead e, unto the LORD f in Mizpeh g.

a i. e. A great number, and especially the Rulers of all the Tribes, except Benjamin, ver. 3, 12. b From their several habitations. c i. e. With one consent. d Dan was the Northern border of the Land, near Libanon; and Beersheba the Southern border, Gen. 21. 33. Compare 1 King. 4. 25. e Beyond Jordan, where Reuben, Gad, and half Manasseh were. f As to the Lords Tribunal: for God was not only present in the place where the Ark and Tabernacle was, but also in the Assemblies of the Gods, or Judges, Psal. 82. 1. and in all the places where Gods name is recorded, Exod. 20. 24. and where two or three are met together in his name, Matth. 18. 20. for his service, and to seek for Counsel and Mercy from him: compare Judg. 11. 11. g A place in the borders of Judah and Benjamin, and therefore ascribed to both of them, Jos. 15. 38. and 18. 26. This they chose, as a place most fit and proper in many respects: First, as a place they used to meet in upon Solemn occasions, See Judg. 10. 17. and 11. 11. 1 Sam. 7. 5. 16. and 10. 17. Secondly, For its convenient Scituation for all the Tribes within and without Jordan. Thirdly, As being near the place where the Fact was done, that it might be more throughly examined; and not far from Shiloh, where the Tabernacle was, whither they might go or send, if need were.

2 And † the chief h of all the people, even of all the tribes of Israel, presented themselves in the assembly of the people of God, four hundred thousand i foot-men k, that drew sword.

h Heb. the corners; i. e. the Nobles and Rulers, which are oft so called, because like corner stones, they both unite, and support, and adorn the whole Building. i Or, and four hundred thousand; It is an Ellipsis of the Particle, and of which Examples have been given before: for the chief of the People were not so many; but the common Soldiers, and these were all Foot-men; whereas many of the Rulers rid upon Horses or Asses, Judg. 5. 10. and 10. 4. and 12. 14. The number is here set down, to shew both their zeal and forwardness in punishing such a Villany; and the strange blindness of the Benjamites that durst oppose so great and united a Body; and that the success of Battels depends not upon great numbers, seeing this great Host was twice defeated by the Benjamites, but wholly upon Gods blessing. k For horse-men they had few or none in their Armies.

3 (Now the children of Benjamin heard l that the children of Israel were gone up to Mizpeh.) Then said the children of Israel, Tell us m, how was this wickedness?

l Like Persons unconcerned and resolved, they neither went nor sent thither: partly from their own pride, and stubbornness, and self-confidence: partly because as they were loath to give up any of their Brethren to Justice, so they presumed the other Tribes would never proceed to a War against them: and partly, from a Divine infatuation hardening that wicked Tribe to their own Destruction. m The Verb is of the Plural Number, because they speak to the Levite, and his Servant, and his Host, who doubtless were present upon this occation.

† Heb. the man the Levite.

4 And † the Levite n, the husband of the woman that was slain, answered and said, I came into Gibeah that belongeth to Benjamin, I and my concubine, to lodge.

n To whose Relation the other two gave their consent.

5 And the men of Gibeah rose up against me, and beset the house round about upon me by night, and thought to have slain me o: and my concubine have they † forced that she is dead.

o Except I would either submit to their unnatural Lust, which I was resolved to withstand even unto death: or deliver up my concubine to them, which I was forced to do.

6 And I took my concubine, and cut her in pieces, and sent her throughout all the country of the inheritance of Israel: for they have committed lewdness and folly p in Israel.

p i. e. A lewd folly, most ignominious and impudent Wickedness.

7 Behold, ye are all children of Israel q, give here your advice and counsel.

q The Sons of that Holy man, who for one filthy action left an Eternal brand upon one of his own Sons: a People in Covenant with the holy God, whose Honour you are obliged to vindicate, and who hath expresly commanded you to punish all such notorious Enormities.

8 ¶ And all the people arose as one man, saying, We will not any of us go to his tent r, neither will we any of us turn into his house:

r i. e. His habitation, to wit, until we have revenged this Injury.

9 But now this shall be the thing which we will do to Gibeah, we will go up by lot against it:

10 And we will take ten men of an hundred throughout all the tribes of Israel, and an hundred of a thousand, and a thousand out of ten thousand, to fetch victual for the people, that they may do, when they come to Gibeah of Benjamin, according to all the folly that they have wrought s in Israel t.

s That we may punish them as such a wickedness deserves. t This is added as an aggravation, that they should do that in Israel, or among Gods peculiar People, which was esteemed abominable even among the Heathen.

11 So all the men of Israel were gathered against the city, † knit together as one man.

12 ¶ And the tribes of Israel sent men through all the tribe u of Benjamin, saying, What wickedness is this that is done among you?

u Heb. tribes: Either the Plural Number for the Singular: or rather tribe is put for family, as was noted before, as families are elsewhere put for tribes. They take a wise and a just course, in sending to all the parts and families of the tribe, to separate the Innocent from the Guilty, and to give them a fair opportunity of preventing their ruin, by doing nothing but what their Duty, Honour, and Interest obliged them to; even by delivering up those vile Malefactors, whom they could not keep without horrid guilt and shame; and bringing the Curse of God upon themselves.

13 Now therefore deliver us the men, the children of Belial which are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and put away evil x from Israel: but the children of Benjamin would not hearken y to the voice of their brethren the children of Israel.

x Both the Guilt and the Punishment, wherein all Israel will be Involved, if they do not Punish it. y Partly from the Pride of their Hearts, which made them scorn to submit to their Brethren, or to suffer them to meddle in their Territory; partly from a conceit of their own Valour and Military skill; and partly from Gods just Judgment.

14 But

14 But the children of Benjamin gathered themſelves together out of the cities, unto Gibeah, to go out to battel againſt the children of Iſrael.

15 And the children of Benjamin were numbred at that time out of the city, twenty and ſix thouſand men that drew ſword; beſide the inhabitants of Gibeah, which were numbred ſeven hundred choſen men z.

z Object. This agrees not with the following numbers: for all that were ſlain of Benjamin were 25100 men, ver. 35. and there were only 600 that ſurvived, ver. 47. which make only 25700. Anſ. The other thouſand men were either left in ſome of their cities, where they were ſlain, ver. 48. or were cut off in the two firſt Battels, wherein it is unreaſonable to think they had an unbloody Victory: and as for theſe 25100 men, they were all ſlain in that day, i. e. the day of the third Battel, as is affirmed ver. 35.

16 Among all this people, there were ſeven hundred choſen men * left-handed a, every one could ſling ſtones at an hairs breadth, and not miſs b.

*chap. 3. 15.

a Heb. ſhut up on their right hand, i. e. uſing their left hand inſtead of their right. b An Hyperbolical expreſſion, ſignifying, that they could do this with great exactneſs. There are many Parallel Inſtances in Hiſtorians of Perſons that could throw Stones, or ſhoot Arrows with great certainty, ſo as ſeldom or never to miſs. Of which ſee my Latin Synopſis. And this was very conſiderable, and one ground of the Benjamites confidence, becauſe in thoſe times they had no Guns.

17 And the men of Iſrael c, beſide Benjamin, were numbred four hundred thouſand men that drew ſword, all theſe were men of war.

c To wit, ſuch as were here preſent, ver. 2. for otherwiſe it is moſt probable they had a far greater number of men, being 600000 before their entrance into Canaan, Num. 1. 2.

18 ¶ And the children of Iſrael d aroſe, and went up to the houſe of God e, and * asked counſel of God, and ſaid, Which of us ſhall go up firſt to the battel f againſt the children of Benjamin? And the LORD ſaid, Judah ſhall go up firſt.

d i. e. Some ſent in the name of all. e To wit, to Shiloh, which was not far from Mizpeh, where they were. f This they ask to prevent Emulations and Contentions: but they do not ask whether they ſhould go againſt them, or no, for that they knew they ought to do by the Will of God already revealed: nor yet do they ſeek to God for his help by Prayer, and Faſting, and Sacrifice, as in all reaſon they ought to have done; but were confident of Succeſs, becauſe of their great Numbers, and Righteous Cauſe.

19 And the children of Iſrael roſe up in the morning, and encamped againſt Gibeah.

20 And the men of Iſrael went out to battel againſt Benjamin, and the men of Iſrael put themſelves in aray to fight againſt them at Gibeah.

21 And the children of Benjamin came forth out of Gibeah, and deſtroyed down to the ground of the Iſraelites that day, twenty and two thouſand men g.

g Queſt. Why would God ſuffer them to have ſo great a loſs in ſo Good a Cauſe? Anſ. Becauſe they had many and great Sins reigning amongſt themſelves, and they ſhould not have come to ſo great a Work of God as this, with pollured hands, but ſhould have pulled the Beam out of their own Eye, before they attempted to take that out of their Brother Benjamin's Eye: which becauſe they did not, God doth it for them, making them by this loſs more clearly to ſee their own Sins, and their need of Gods help, without which their great Numbers were inſignificant; and bringing them through the Fire, that they might be purged from their Droſs; it being probable that the great God who governs every ſtroke in Battels, did ſo order things, that their worſt and rotten Members ſhould be cut off, which was a great Bleſſing to the whole Commonwealth.

22 And the people, the men of Iſrael incouraged themſelves h, and ſet their battel again in aray, in the place where they put themſelves in aray the firſt day i.

h Heb. ſtrengthned themſelves, partly by ſupporting themſelves with the Conſcience of the Juſtice of their Cauſe, and the hopes of Succeſs: and partly, by putting themſelves in better order for defending themſelves, and annoying their Enemies. i Hereby ſhewing their freedom from that Heatheniſh Superſtition, whereby they might have been apt to have rejected that as an unlucky place. Compare 1 King. 20. 23, 28.

23 (And the children of Iſrael went up and wept k before the LORD until even, and asked counſel of the LORD, ſaying, Shall I go up to battel againſt the children of Benjamin my brother l? And the LORD ſaid, Go up againſt him †.)

k Not ſo much for their Sins, as for their Defeat and Loſs, as appears by the Sequel. † They impute their ill Succeſs, not to their own Sins, as they had great reaſon to do, but to their taking up Arms againſt their Brethren, the Lawfulneſs whereof they now begin to doubt of. But ſtill they perſiſt in their former neglect of ſeeking Gods aſſiſtance in the way which he had appointed, as they themſelves acknowledge preſently, by doing thoſe very things which now they Sinfully neglected, ver. 26. and therefore are again juſtly puniſhed. l God anſwers to their queſtion; but as they did not deſire his aſſiſtance and ſucceſs, ſo he doth not promiſe it.

24 And the children of Iſrael came near againſt the children of Benjamin, the ſecond day.

25 And Benjamin went forth againſt them out of Gibeah the ſecond day, and deſtroyed down to the ground of the children of Iſrael again, eighteen thouſand men, all theſe drew the ſword.

26 ¶ Then all the children of Iſrael, and all the people went up, and came unto the houſe of God, and wept, and ſat there before the LORD, and faſted m that day until even, and offered burnt-offerings n, and peace-offerings o before the LORD.

m Being now ſenſible of their former ſlightneſs, and not being truly humbled for their Sins, which now they diſcover to be the true Cauſe of their ill ſucceſs. n To make atonement to God for their own Sins. o Partly to bleſs God for ſparing ſo many of them, whereas he might juſtly have cut off all of them when their Brethren were ſlain: and partly to Implore his aſſiſtance for the future, and to give him Thanks for the Victory, which now they were confident he would give them.

27 And the children of Iſrael enquired of the LORD p, (for the ark of the covenant of God was there q in thoſe days.

p To wit, by Urim and Thummim, Numb. 27. 21. q In Shiloh where they were now aſſembled.

28 And Phineas the ſon of Eleazar r the ſon of Aaron ſtood ſ before it t in thoſe days) ſaying, Shall I yet again go out to battel againſt the children of Benjamin my brother, or ſhall I ceaſe u? And the LORD ſaid, Go up, for to morrow I will deliver them into thine hand x.

r This is added to give us ſome light about the time of this Hiſtory, and to ſhew it was not done in the order in which it is here placed, after Samſon's Death, but long before. ſ i. e. Miniſtred, as the word ſtand oft ſignifies, as Deut. 10. 8. and 18. 7. Prov. 22. 29. Jer. 52. 12. compare with 2 King. 25. 8. becauſe ſtanding is the uſual poſture of Servants. t i. e. Before the Ark: or, before his, i. e. the Lord's face, or preſence: which ſhews that he was the high-prieſt, for none elſe might appear there. u Which, if thou requireſt, we are willing to do, notwithſtanding the provocation they have given us, and our own inclination to Revenge. x Now when they had ſought God after the due order, and truly humbled themſelves for their Sins, he gives them a full and ſatisfactory Anſwer to their Deſires.

29 And Iſrael ſet liers in wait x round about Gibeah y.

x Though they were aſſured of the Succeſs, by a particular and abſolute promiſe, yet they do not neglect the uſe of means; as well knowing that the certainty of Gods purpoſes or promiſes doth not excuſe, but rather require Mans diligent uſe of all fit means for the accompliſhment of them. y i. e. On ſeveral ſides of it, as may be gathered from the following Verſes.

30 And

30 And the children of Israel z went up against the children of Benjamin on the third day a, and put themselves in aray against Gibeah, as at other times.

z i. e. A considerable part of them, who were ordered to give the first onset, and then to counterfeit flight, to draw the Benjamites forth of their strong hold. See ver. 32. a To wit, after the second Battel; for the first day after it, they spent in perplexing thoughts, and going up to the House of the Lord: the second, in Fasting and Prayer there: and this third, in the Fight. Or, this is so called with respect unto the two several foregoing days of Battel, and so this was the third day of Battel.

31 And the children of Benjamin went out against the people, and were drawn away from the city b, and they began † to smite of the people, and kill as at other times c, in the high-ways, of which one goeth up to ‖ the house of God, and the other to Gibeah in the field d, about thirty men of Israel.

† Heb. to smite of the people wounded as at, &c.
‖ Or, Bethel.

b By the dissembled Flight of the Israelites. c With the same kind, though not the same degree of Success. d So called, to difference it from this Gibeah, which was upon an Hill; wherefore they are constantly said, to ascend or go up against it, as ver. 23. 30. See Jos. 18. 24, 28.

32 And the children of Benjamin said, They are smitten down before us, as at the first: But the children of Israel said, Let us flee, and draw them from the city unto the high-ways.

33 And all the men of Israel rose up out of their place e, and put themselves in aray at Baal-Tamar: and the lyers in wait of Israel came forth out of their places f, even out of the meadows of Gibeah.

e Where they had disposed themselves, that they might fall upon the Benjamites, when they were drawn forth to a sufficient distance from their City, and when they were pursuing that Party mentioned, ver. 30. f To execute what was agreed upon, even to take Gibeah, and burn it, as they actually did, ver. 37.

34 And there came against Gibeah ten thousand chosen men out of all Israel g, and the battel was sore: but they knew not that evil was near them h.

g Selected out of the main Body, which was at Baal-Tamar; and these were to march directly to Gibeah on the one side, whilst the lyers in wait stormed it on the other side, and whilst the great Body of the Army laboured to intercept these Benjamites, who having pursued the Israelites that pretended to flee, now endeavoured to retreat to Gibeah. h They were so puffed up with their former Successes, that they were insensible of their danger.

35 And the LORD smote Benjamin before Israel, and the children of Israel destroyed of the Benjamites that day twenty and five thousand, and an hundred men i: all these drew the sword.

i This is the Total Sum, whereof the particulars are related ver. 44, 45. and for the odd hundred not there mentioned, they were killed in other places not there expressed.

36 So the children of Benjamin saw that they were smitten: for the men of Israel gave place to the Benjamites, because they trusted unto the lyers in wait, which they had set beside Gibeah.

37 And the lyers in wait hasted, and rushed upon Gibeah, and the lyers in wait ‖ drew themselves along k, and smote all the city with the edge of the sword.

‖ Or, made a long sound with the trumpet.

k Or, extended themselves; i. e. whereas before they lay close and contracted into a narrow compass, now they spread themselves, and Marched in Rank and File, as Armies do. Or, marched, or went: Heb. drew their Feet. So this Verb is oft used, as Gen. 37. 28. Exod. 12. 21. Judg. 4. 6. Job 21. 33.

38 Now there was an appointed ‖ sign between the men of Israel † and the lyers in wait, that they should make a great † flame with smoke to rise up out of the city.

† Heb. with.

† Heb. elevation.

39 And when the men of Israel retired in the battel, Benjamin began † to smite and kill of the men of Israel about thirty persons; for they said, Surely they are smitten down before us, as in the first battel.

† Heb. to smite the wounded.

40 But when the flame began to rise up out of the city, with a pillar of smoke, the Benjamites looked behind them, and behold, the † flame of the city ascended up to heaven.

† Heb. the whole consumption.

41 And when the men of Israel turned again, the men of Benjamin were amazed l; for they saw that evil † was come upon them.

† Heb. touched them.

l Because of their great disappointment, and the present danger wherewith they were surrounded on every side.

42 Therefore they turned their backs before the men of Israel, unto the way of the wilderness, but the battel overtook m them: and them which came out of the cities, they destroyed in the midst of them n.

m i. e. The Men of Battel or War. The abstract for the concrete, as Poverty, 2 King. 24. 14. Pride, Psal. 36. 11. Deceit, Prov. 12. 25. Dreams, Jer. 25. 9. Election, Rom. 11. 7. are put for Persons that are Poor, Proud. Deceitful. Dreamers, Elect. n So the sence may seem to be this, That the Israelites did not only kill the Inhabitants of Gibeah, and all the Benjamites that came into the Field against them, 600 excepted; but in the midst of them, or together with them, they killed also the rest of the Benjamites, who, when they saw their Army was wholly Destroyed, made haste to flee out of their several Cities or Towns, that so they might escape the Sword, which was coming towards them. But the words may be rendred thus: And them who were of the other cities, to wit, of Benjamin, i. e. who abode in their own Cities, and did not go up to Gibeah, they Destroyed in the midst of them, i. e. in their several Cities, or, in the midst of it, i. e. of every City: for so it is said ver. 48. where it is said, That they smote the men of every City. But this I submit to the Learned.

43 Thus they enclosed the Benjamites round about, and chased them, and trod them down ‖ with ease o, † over against Gibeah towards the sun-rising.

44 And there fell of Benjamin eighteen thousand men p; all these were men of valour.

p To wit, in the Field, or Battel.

45 And they turned and fled toward the wilderness, unto the rock of Rimmon: and they gleaned q of them in the high-ways five thousand men; and pursued hard after them unto Gidom, and slew two thousand men of them.

r Besides the odd hundred expressed ver. 35. but here only the great number is expressed, the less being omitted, as inconsiderable; which way of numbring is frequent in Scripture, as Judg. 11. 26. 2 Sam. 5. 5. and in other Authors, and in vulgar use; as when they are called, the 70 Interpreters, who in truth and exactness were 72. Here are also a thousand more omitted, because here he speaks onely of them who fell in that third day of Battel. See on ver. 15.

CHAP. XXI.

NOW the men of Iſrael had ſworn a in Mizpeh, ſaying, There ſhall not any of us give his daughter unto Benjamin to wife b.

a In the beginning of this War, after the whole Tribe had eſpouſed the quarrel of the Men of Gibeah, Judg. 20. 13, 14. b They do not (as ſome ſuppoſe) here ſwear the utter extirpation of the Tribe; which fell out beyond their expectation, Judg. 21. 3, 6. but only not to give their Daughters to thoſe Men who ſhould ſurvive; juſtly eſteeming them for their barbarous Villany, to be as bad as the worſt of Heathens with whom they were forbidden to Marry. In this caſe the Benjamites might have Married among themſelves, if any of their Men and Women were left alive.

2 And the people came to the houſe of God c, and abode there till even before God, and lift up their voices and wept ſore.

c Partly to mourn for the common loſs; and partly, to ask counſel from God about the repairing of it.

3 And ſaid, O LORD God of Iſrael, Why is this come to paſs in Iſrael, that there ſhould be to day one tribe lacking in Iſrael d?

d Why haſt thou given them up to ſuch Wickedneſs, and us to ſuch Rage, that the whole Tribe ſhould be in a manner loſt! Hence it appears, that they did not ſwear to root them all out, as is further manifeſt from the different matter and words of this Oath, ver. 1. which only denied them their Daughters in Marriage; and that concerning the people of other Tribes who joyned not with them in this buſineſs, which was, that they ſhould be put to death, ver. 5. And their ſparing of thoſe 600 Men in the Rock Rimmon, ver. 13, 14. plainly ſhews, that they were not obliged by any Oath or Vow to extirpate them.

4 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that the people roſe early, and built there an altar e, and offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings.

e Not for a Monument of the Victory, as ſome ſay, but for Sacrifices, as the next words ſhew. Qu. What need was there of this, when the ordinary Altar was there, to which alſo they ſeem to be reſtrained, Deut. 16. 2.? Anſw. They are not there reſtrained to one Altar, but to one place of Worſhip, as is expreſſed; and therefore there might be in that place more Altars than one, when the Multitude of Sacrifices ſo required, which was the caſe, 1 King. 8. 64. and probably at this time, when all the Tribes being met, they had many Sacrifices to offer, ſome in common for all, and ſome peculiar to every Tribe. Nay, other Altars might be, and oft-times were Erected in other places, by Divine Direction or Diſpenſation; as Judg. 6. 24, 26. 1 Sam. 7. 9, 17. and 11. 15. and 16. 2, 5.

5 And the children of Iſrael ſaid, Who is there among all the tribes of Iſrael, that came not up with the congregation unto the LORD? for they had made a great oath f concerning him that came not up to the LORD to Mizpeh, ſaying, He ſhall ſurely be put to death g.

f i. e. A ſolemn Oath joyned with ſome terrible Execration againſt the Offenders herein. g Becauſe by refuſing to execute the Vengeance due to ſuch Malefactors, they were juſtly preſumed guilty of their Crime, and therefore liable to the ſame Puniſhment, as was the caſe of that City that would not deliver up an Idolater dwelling among them, to Juſtice.

6 And the children of Iſrael repented them for Benjamin their brother h, and ſaid, There is one tribe cut off from Iſrael this day:

h Not for the War which was juſt, and neceſſary, and good; but for their immoderate ſeverity in the Execution of it, and for the dreadful conſequences of it.

7 How ſhall we do for wives for them that remain, ſeeing we have ſworn by the LORD that we will not give them of our daughters to wives?

8 And they ſaid, What one is there of the tribes of Iſrael, that came not up to Mizpeh to the LORD? And behold, there came none to the camp from Jabeſh-gilead i to the aſſembly.

i A City in Gilead, and in the Tribe of Manaſſeh; of which ſee, 1 Sam. 11. 1, 3, 9, &c. and 31. 11, &c.

9 For the people were numbred, and behold, there were none of the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead there.

10 And the congregation ſent thither twelve thouſand men of the valianteſt, and commanded them, ſaying, Go, and ſmite the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead with the edge of the ſword, with the women and the children k.

k Who in ſuch publick and ſcandalous Crimes were for the greater Terrour of ſuch Tranſgreſſors, and prevention of the like Sins, oft involved in the ſame Puniſhment with the men, as Deut. 13. 15. Joſ. 7. 24, &c.

11 And this is the thing that ye ſhall do, * Ye ſhall utterly deſtroy every male, and every woman that † hath lien by man l.

* Num. 31. 17.
† Heb. knoweth the lying with man.

l But not the Virgins, as appears from the next Verſes. It is queſtionable, whether they were not obliged to deſtroy theſe alſo by vertue of their Oath, and of Gods expreſs Command concerning Devoted Perſons, ſuch as theſe certainly were, that they ſhould ſurely be put to death, Levit. 27. 29. which was alſo particularly enjoyned and practiſed in ſuch Caſes, as Deut. 13. Joſ. 7, &c. But the natural and neceſſary duty of preſerving a Tribe from total Ruine, might ſeem to render the caſe difficult and doubtful, and incline their Opinions, as well as their Affections, to the more favourable ſide. And it may be, the Lord, whom they were here conſulting with upon all their occaſions, gave them a Diſpenſation thus to do, though that be not expreſſed; which is the caſe of many other things which were done, though not Recorded; as this very Oath was omitted in its proper place, and had not been Recorded if this extraordinary occaſion had not been offered.

12 And they found among the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead, four hundred † young virgins m that had known no man by lying with any male: and they brought them unto the camp to Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan.

m Not Married, yet marriageable: it is probable, there were other and younger Virgins; but whether they were ſlain or ſpared, Scripture determines not, and the Learned do not agree. But theſe could not ſerve the preſent and urgent occaſion, and therefore he takes notice onely of theſe 400 which were of riper Age.

13 And the whole congregation ſent ſome † to ſpeak to the children of Benjamin that were in the rock Rimmon, and to call ‖ peaceably unto them.

† Heb. and ſpake and called.
‖ Or, proclaim peace.

14 And Benjamin n came again at that time, and they gave them wives which they had ſaved alive of the women of Jabeſh-gilead: and yet ſo they ſufficed them not.

n The poor remainders of the Tribe of Benjamin.

15 And the people repented them for Benjamin o, becauſe that the LORD had made a breach p in the tribes of Iſrael.

o Were yet more grieved upon this unhappy diſappointment, for they ſuppoſed here would have been Wives ſufficient for them. p The Benjamites were the only Authors of the Sin, but God was the chief Author of the Puniſhment, and the Iſraelites were but his Executioners.

16 ¶ The

16 ¶ Then the elders of the congregation said, How shall we do for Wives for them that remain q? seeing the women are destroyed out of Benjamin:

q For the 200 who are yet unprovided of Wives.

17 And they said, There must be an inheritance for them that be escaped out of Benjamin r, that a tribe be not destroyed out of Israel.

r The inheritance promised by Jacob and Moses, and given by Joshua to the Tribe of Benjamin, doth all of it belong to those few which remain of that Tribe, and cannot be Possessed by any other Tribe; and therefore we are obliged to procure Wives for them all, that they may make up this breach, and be capable of Possessing and managing all their Land: that this Tribe, and their Inheritance may not be confounded with, or swallowed up by any of the rest. Heb. the inheritance (to wit, belonging to the whole Tribe of Benjamin) is, or belongs to them that be escaped of Benjamin.

18 Howbeit we may not give them wives of our daughters; for the children of Israel have sworn, saying, Cursed be he that giveth a wife to Benjamin s.

s i. e. To this Generation of Benjamites who have made themselves guilty of this foul Wickedness: but this Oath did not extend to their Posterity. And some think it had another exception, to wit, unless the surviving Benjamites could not otherwise be supplied with wives.

19 Then they said, Behold, there is a feast of the LORD in Shiloh † yearly t, in a place which is on the north-side of Beth-el u, ‖ on the east-side ‖ of the high-way that goeth from Beth-el to Shechem, and on the south of Lebonah.

† Heb. from year to year. ‖ Or, towards the Sun-rising. ‖ Or, on.

t On the three solemn Feasts, in which they used some honest and holy Recreations; among which, Dancing was one, Exod. 15. 20. 1 Sam. 18. 6. and 2 Sam. 6. 14. and probably it was the Feast of Tabernacles, which they did Celebrate with more than ordinary joy, Deut. 16. 13, 14, 15. u Heb. Which is on the north of Bethel. Which doth not relate to Shiloh, which was so known a place, that it was frivolous to describe it by such circumstances, even by places much less known than it self; but to the Feast, which as to that part or exercise of the Feast here especially concerned and mentioned, to wit, the Dancing of the Virgins, was not celebrated in Shiloh, but in a Neighbouring place more convenient for that purpose.

20 Therefore they commanded the children of Benjamin, saying, Go, and lie in wait in the vineyards:

21 And see, and behold, if the daughters of Shiloh x come out to dance in dances, then come ye out of the vineyards y, and catch ye every man his wife of the daughters of Shiloh z, and go to the land of Benjamin.

x By whom he may possibly understand not those onely who were born or settled Inhabitants there, (as many conceive) but all those who were come thither upon this occasion, and for a time sojourned there: For although only the Males were obliged to go up the Three solemn Feasts; yet it is apparent, that the Women had liberty to go, and those who were most devout did usually go, and others upon special reasons or occasions: See 1 Sam. 1. 7, 21, 22, 24. Luke 2. 22, 23, 41, 42, 43. And it may be justly presumed, especially concerning those women that lived at no great distance from the place of Publick Worship, that they came thither in great numbers. Moreover, the daughters of Shiloh, strictly so called, are not onely they that lived in that Town or City, but in the Country belonging to it, which oft comes under the name of the City to which it belongs. And these may be here particularly named, because though others might come, yet they were under great obligations to come, because of their nearness to the place. y Which were near to their Dancing-place. z Take them away by force or violence. Which they might the better do, because mixed Dances were not used by the People of God in their Solemnities, but the Women danced by themselves, and therefore were more liable to this Rape.

22 And it shall be when their fathers, or their brethren come unto us to complain, that we will say unto them, Be ‖ favourable unto them a for our sakes: because we reserved not to each man his wife in the war b: for ye did not give unto them at this time, that ye should be guilty c.

‖ Or, gratifie us in them.

a Pass by their offence, if not for their sakes, whom necessity forced to this course; yet for our sakes, and indeed for your own sakes; for both you and we have done them a great injury in Prosecuting them with so much fury, as to endanger the utter extinction of the whole Tribe: and therefore this is the least we can do by way of reparation. b Either, First, in the War with Jabesh-Gilead, wherein they should have taken care to reserve a sufficient number, which they might have done, by sparing either so many of the Married Women as were necessary, who, their former Husbands being slain, might have been married to those Benjamites; or as many of the younger Virgins, who within a little time might have been Married to them; whom many suppose that they slew. Or, Secondly, in the War with the Benjamites, in which they acknowledge their cruelty in destroying the Women with such fury, as not to leave a competent number for the Men which were left. See Judg. 20. 48. c Quest. Whether this did really discharge them from their Oath? Answ. First, It seems to excuse those Parents of these Virgins who were not acquainted with the Plot, and did neither directly nor indirectly give their Daughters to them, but they were taken away by force, without their knowledge and consent. If it be said, those Parents might and should have retaken their Daughters from them; it may be replied, that they could not do so before they were corrupted, and the Rulers of Israel would not assist them with their Power to recover them. And it is a Maxime, That many things which ought not to be done, when once they are done, should not be undone. And for those Parents who were conscious of the Design, it is probable they kept their Daughters at home to avoid this. Secondly, Either the Oath was made with an Exception of the Case of the Total Extirpation of a Tribe, or it was a rash Oath to do what was out of their Power, or what they could not lawfully do; to wit, utterly to destroy a Tribe out of Israel, which therefore they here speak of with horror, ver. 3, 6. and if so, as they Sinned in making it, so they were not obliged to keep it; it being an acknowledged truth, That Rash and Sinful Oaths are better broken than kept. Thirdly, Yet they cannot be wholly excused from Sin in this matter; for as it was folly to take such an Oath as it is expressed, so the manner of freeing themselves from their own Snare, is fraudulent and injurious to the Parents, in disposing of their Children without their consent.

23 And the children of Benjamin did so, and took them wives according to their number d, of them that danced, whom they caught: and they went and returned unto their inheritance e, and repaired the cities, and dwelt in them f.

d i. e. Each Man his Wife, as is said ver. 22. By which we may see, they had no very favourable opinion of Poligamy, because they did not allow it in this case, when it might seem most necessary for the reparation of a lost Tribe. e Which being very near the place, they could speedily do before the Parents could obtain redress. f Not at that instant, which could not be; but by degrees, increasing their Buildings as their number increased.

24 And the children of Israel departed thence at that time, every man to his tribe, and to his family, and they went out from thence, every man to his inheritance.

25 * In those days there was no king in Israel; every man did that which was right in his own eyes.

RUTH.

The ARGUMENT.

This little Book, by whomsoever Written, which is not material to know, is annexed to the Book of Judges, and by some of the Hebrew Doctors made a part of it. It is useful, as for many other points, so especially to shew the Genealogy of David; and consequently of Christ; and the Rise of Christ from a Moabitish Woman: which was an useful document, and a great encouragement to the Gentiles to believe in Christ.

CHAP. I.

† Heb. judged. * 2 King. 8. 1.

NOW it came to pass in the days when the Judges † Ruled a, that there was a * famine in the land b: and a certain man of Bethlehem-Judah went to sojourn in the country of Moab c, he, and his wife, and his two sons.

a Which is noted as the cause of the following Famine, because in much of that time they were guilty of great defection from God. But under which of the Judges this happened, Scripture being silent, it seems presumptuous to determine; nor is it necessary to know what is said about this matter from the Genealogy mentioned, Chap. 4. 18, &c. it will be most proper to consider it there. b Or, in that land; to wit, of Canaan. c A Fruitful Land, beyond Jordan, Eastward.

2 And the name of the man was Elimelech, and the name of his wife, Naomi, and the name of his two sons, Mahlon, and Chilion, Ephrathites d of Bethlehem-Judah e: and they came into the countrey of Moab, and † continued there f.

† Heb. were. Num. 9. 21.

d So called, because this Bethlehem is otherwise called Ephrath or Ephratha, Gen. 35. 19. Mich. 5. 2. either from Caleb's Wife of that name, 1 Chron. 2. 19. and 4. 4. or from the fertility of the Soyl about it; which Title may therefore be used here, to shew the greatness of the Famine, which affected even fertile parts. f To wit, during the Famine.

3 And Elimelech Naomies husband died, and she was left, and her two sons.

4 And they took them wives of the women of Moab g: the name of the one was Orpah, and the name of the other Ruth: and they dwelt there about ten years h.

g Either these were Proselytes when they Married them, which may well be doubted, from ver. 15. or they sinned in marrying them, as appears from Deut. 7. 3. and 23. 3. Ezra 9. 1, 2. Neh. 13. 23. and therefore were punished with short Life, and want of Issue, ver. 5, 19, 21. h As long as the Famine lasted.

5 And Mahlon, and Chilion died also both of them, and the woman was left of her two sons, and her husband.

6 Then she arose with her daughters in law, that she might return from the country of Moab: for she had heard in the country of Moab, how that the LORD had visited his people in giving them bread i.

i. i. e. Food, so she staid no longer there than necessity forced her.

7 Wherefore she went forth out of the place where she was, and her two daughters in law with her: and they went on the way to return unto the land of Judah.

8 And Naomi said unto her two daughters in law, * Go, return each to her mothers house k: the LORD deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt with the dead l, and with me. * See Josh. 24. 15.

k Not that they wanted Fathers, Ruth. 2. 11. but because Daughters used to converse more frequently with their Mothers, and to be most endeared to them, and to dwell in the same Apartments with them, which then were distinct from those parts of the House where the Men dwelt. l With my Sons, your Husbands, whilest they lived.

9 The LORD grant you, that ye may find rest m, each of you in the house of her husband: Then she kissed them n, and they lift up their voice and wept.

m i. e. A quiet and happy life, free from those cares, vexations, incumbrances, and troubles which widows are in a special manner exposed unto. n As the manner there was when friends parted.

10 And they said unto her, Surely we will return with thee unto thy people.

11 And Naomi said, Turn again my daughters: why will ye go with me? are there yet any more sons in my womb, that they may be your husbands o?

o According to the Ancient Custom, Gen. 38. and the express Law of God, Deut. 25. 5. which doubtless she had acquainted them with before, among other branches of the Jewish Religion, wherein she did instruct them.

12 Turn again my daughters, go your way p, for I am too old to have an husband: if I should say, I have hope, ‖ if I should have a husband also to night, and should also bear sons: ‖ Or, if I were with an husband.

n Quest. Why doth she dissuade them from this journey, and not rather perswade them to go with her, and to embrace the Jewish Religion? Answ. 1. Possibly she thought such dissuasion might be the best way to perswade them, as it oft happen; especially in that Sex. 2 She would not have them rashly and inconsiderately to embrace the Jewish Religion, in hopes of some advantage from it, which she justly thought they would be disappointed of; and withal, exposed to many Straits and troubles, and on that occasion, revolt from the True Religion, which would be far worse than never to have embraced it. And therefore she doth justly, and wisely, and piously, in representing to them the truth of the business, and the outward inconveniences which would accompany the Change of their Place, and Religion; as also our Blessed Lord Christ did, Mat. 8. 20.

† Heb. I have much bitterness. * Job 19. 21.

13 Would ye † tarry for them till they were grown? would ye stay for them from having husbands o? nay, my daughters: for † it grieveth me much for your sakes p, that * the hand of the LORD is gone out against me.

o It is unreasonable for me to expect it, or for you to perform it. p That you are left without the comfort of Husbands or Children; that I must part with such dear and affectionate Daughters; and that my circumstances are such, that I cannot invite, nor incourage you to go along with me. For her condition was so mean at this time, that Ruth when she came to her Mothers City, was forced to Glean for a living, chap. 2. 2.

14 And they lift up their voice, and wept again: and Orpah kissed her mother in law q, but Ruth clave unto her.

q i. e. Departed from her with a kiss, as the manner was, Gen. 31. 28. 1 King. 19. 20.

15 And she said, Behold, thy sister in law is gone back unto her people, and unto her gods r: * return thou after thy sister in law.

* See Jos. 24. 15. 2 King. 2. 2. Luk. 24. 28.

r Which she saith, partly to try Ruths sincerity and constancy; partly, that by upbraiding Orpah with her Idolatry, she might consequently turn her from it; and partly, that she might intimate to her, that if she went with her, she must embrace the True God and Religion.

‖ Or, be not against me.

16 And Ruth said, ‖ Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee, for whither thou goest, I will go: and where thou lodgest, I will lodge: thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God s.

s I renounce those Idols which my Sister hath returned to and I will Worship no other God but thine, who is indeed the onely True God.

17 Where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried: the LORD do so to me and more also, if ought but death part thee and me.

† Heb. strengthned her self.

18 When she saw that she † was stedfastly minded to go with her, then she left speaking unto her.

19 ¶ So they two went until they came to Bethlehem: and it came to pass when they were come to Bethlehem, that all the city was moved about them, and ‖ they said, Is this Naomi t?

‖ That is, the women.

t Is this she that formerly lived in so much Plenty and Honour? Oh how marvellously is her condition changed, that she is returned in this forlorn and desolate condition!

‖ That is, pleasant. ‖ That is, bitter.

20 And she said unto them, Call me not ‖ Naomi u, call me ‖ Mara x: for the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me.

u Which signifies pleasant, or chearful, or amiable. x Which signifies bitter or sorrowful.

21 I went out full y, and the LORD hath brought me home again empty: why then call ye me Naomi, seeing the LORD hath testified against me z, and the Almighty hath afflicted me?

y With my Husband and Sons, and a plentiful Estate for our support. z i. e. Hath born witness, as it were, in Judgment, and given Sentence against me, and declared my Sin by my Punishment.

22 So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabitess her daughter in law with her, which returned out of the countrey of Moab, and they came to Bethlehem in the beginning of barley harvest.

CHAP. II.

AND Naomi had a kinsman of her husbands, a mighty man of wealth, of the family of Elimelech, and his name was Boaz.

2 And Ruth the Moabitess said unto Naomi, Let me now go to the field and glean a ears of corn after him, in whose sight I shall find grace b. And she said unto her, Go, my daughter.

a Which was permitted to the Poor, and the Stranger, Deut. 24. 19. both which she was; nor she ashamed to confess her Poverty, nor would she eat the bread of idleness: whereby she sheweth her self to be a prudent, and diligent, and vertuous woman, as she is called, Ruth 3. 11. b For though it was their duty to permit this, Lev. 19. 9. and 23. 22. yet either she was ignorant thereof, or thought, that being a Stranger, it might be grudged, or denied to her; or, at least, that it became her modestly and humbly to acknowledge their kindness herein.

3 And she went, and came, and gleaned in the field after the reapers: and her † hap was c to light on a part of the field belonging unto ‖ Boaz, who was of the kindred of Elimelech.

† Heb. hap happened. ‖ Called Mat. 1. 5. Booz.

c For it was indeed a chance in reference to Second Causes, but ordered and designed by Gods Providence.

4 ¶ And behold, Boaz came from Bethlehem, and said unto the reapers, The LORD be with you: and they answered him, The LORD bless thee d.

d They expressed and professed their Piety, even in their civil Conversation, and worldly Transactions; which now so many are ashamed of, and call it Hypocrisie or vain Ostentation thus to do.

5 Then said Boaz unto his servant that was set over the reapers, Whose damsel is this?

6 And the servant that was set over the reapers answered and said, It is the Moabitish damsel, that came back with Naomi e out of the countrey of Moab.

e i. e. That came with Naomi when she came back: for otherwise, as Ruth did not go from thence, so she could not properly be said to come back.

7 And she said, I pray you, let me glean f, and gather after the reapers amongst the ‖ sheaves: so she came and hath continued even from the morning until now g, that she tarried a little in the house h.

f She did not boldly intrude her self, but modestly askt leave of us. g She is not retired through idleness, for she hath been diligent and constant in her labours. h Not in Naomi's house, as many understand it, as may be gathered from vir. 18, 19. but in the little House or Tent, which was set up in the Fields at these times, and was necessary in those hot Countries, where the Labourers or others might retire for a little repose or repast at fit times. Being weary with her continued labours, she comes hither to take a little rest.

8 Then said Boaz unto Ruth, Hearest thou not, my daughter? Go not to glean in another field, neither go from hence, but abide here fast by my maidens i.

i Not by the young Men, to avoid both occasion of sin, and matter of scandal. Herein he shews his Piety and Prudence.

9 Let thine eyes be on the field that they do reap, and go thou after them: have I not charged the young men that they shall not touch thee k? and when thou art athirst, go unto the vessels and drink of that which the young men have drawn.

k So as to offer any incivility or injury to thee. Touching is oft taken for hurting, Gen. 26. 11. Psal. 105. 15.

10 Then she fell on her face l, and bowed her self to the ground, and said unto him, Why have I found grace in thine eyes, that thou shouldest take knowledge of me m, seeing I am a stranger?

l This was the humblest Posture of Reverence, either Civil when performed to men, or Religious, when to God. See Gen. 18. 2. and 33. 3. and 42. 6. Mat. 2. 11. and 8. 2. m i. e. Shew any respect and kindness to me. For words of knowledge in Scripture commonly include affection.

11 And Boaz answered and said unto her, It hath fully been shewed me, all that thou hast done unto thy mother-in-law, since the death of thine husband: and how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the land of thy nativity, and art come unto a people which thou knewest not n heretofore.

n Of whom thou hadst no experience: for otherwise in general she could not be ignorant of this People.

12 The

12 The LORD recompenſe thy work, and a full reward be given thee of the LORD God of Iſrael, under whoſe wings o thou art come to truſt.

o i. e. Protection and Care, as Deut. 32. 11. Pſal. 17. 8. and 36. 7. and 94. 3. An Alluſion either to Hens, which protect and cheriſh their Young ones under their Wings; or to the Wings of the Cherubims, between which God dwelt.

13 Then ſhe ſaid, ‖ Let me find favour in thy ſight p, my lord, for that thou haſt comforted me, and for that thou haſt ſpoken † friendly unto thine hand-maid, though I be not like unto one of thy hand-maidens q.

‖ Or, I find favour.
† Heb. to the heart.

p I humbly Implore the continuance of thy good Opinion of me, though I do not deſerve it. q A perſon more mean, and neceſſitous, and obſcure, being a ſtranger, and one Born of Heathenish Parents, and not the Holy and Honourable People of Iſrael, as they are.

14 And Boaz ſaid unto her, At meal-time come thou hither, and eat of the bread r, and dip thy morſel in the vinegar ſ. And ſhe ſate beſide the reapers t: and he reached her parched corn u, and ſhe did eat, and was ſufficed, and left.

r Which in thoſe ſimple and frugal times was the uſual Food of Servants and the meaner Sort, at leaſt when they were engaged in ſuch Works as this, which required ſpeed, and therefore muſt be quick in their Eating, as well as in their Work. Or, Bread may be here put for any Food, as it oft is. ſ Either ſimple Vinegar, in which the poorer ſort uſed to dip their Bread, and ſo Eat it in hot Countries, as they did not only in Canaan, but afterwards in Italy; it being very proper, eſpecially in thoſe Parts, for cooling them in thoſe hot Seaſons, for ſtrengthning their Sinews, &c. or Vinegar mixed with other things to make ſome kind of Sauce. t Not with or among them, but at ſome little diſtance from them, and as one Inferior to them, as ſhe had acknowledged before in Words, and now ſheweth it by her Actions. u A Food in frequent uſe, and ſome eſteem with them. See 2 Sam. 17. 28.

15 And when ſhe was riſen up to glean, Boaz commanded his young men, ſaying, Let her glean among the ſheaves, and † reproach her not x.

† Heb. ſhame her not.

x As if ſhe were rude or impudent in ſo doing, as otherwiſe they ſhould have thought. Queſt. Why did he not rather give her as much Corn as ſhe could carry, and ſend her away? Anſw. Becauſe he would not have her to Eat the Bread of Idleneſs, but honeſtly to get it with the Sweat of her Brows, according to her Duty and preſent Condition.

16 And let fall alſo ſome of the handfuls, of purpoſe for her, and leave them, that ſhe may glean them, and rebuke her not.

17 So ſhe gleaned in the field until Even, and beat out that ſhe had gleaned: and it was about an ephah y of barley.

y Which is thought to contain about a Buſhel. See Exod. 16. 36. Levit. 5. 11.

18 ¶ And ſhe took it up, and went into the city: and her mother in law ſaw what ſhe had gleaned: and ſhe brought forth, and gave to her that ſhe had reſerved, and was ſufficed z.

z Or, that which ſhe had left of her fulneſs, or after ſhe was ſatisfied. She did Eat as much as ſhe deſired of what ſhe had Gleaned, and her Mother, as I ſuppoſe, with her, and the reſidue ſhe gave to her Mother to lay up for future uſe.

19 And her mother in law ſaid unto her, Where haſt thou gleaned to day? and where wroughteſt thou? bleſſed be he that did take knowledge of thee. And ſhe ſhewed her mother in law with whom ſhe had wrought, and ſaid, The mans name with whom I wrought to day, is Boaz.

20 And Naomi ſaid unto her daughter in law, Bleſſed be he of the LORD, who hath not left off his kindneſs to the living * and to the dead a. And Naomi ſaid unto her, The man is near of kin unto us, ‖ one of our next kinſmen b.

* 2 Sam. 2. 5.

‖ Or, one that hath right to redeem.

a i. e. Which he formerly ſhewed to thoſe who are now dead, to wit, my Husband and his Sons whilſt they were living, and now continues to us, their Wives, who are now alive. b Heb. one of our Redeemers, or Avengers, to whom it belongs to Avenge our perſons, and to Redeem our Lands, and to Marry thee, the Widow and Reliſt of his next Kinſman, as is expreſſed, Ruth 3. 9. She ſaith, one of them, not that there were many who were immediately ſuch, but that he was a very near Kinſman, and one to whom that Office belonged, in caſe of the refuſal of one Perſon, of whom ſhe rightly conjectured that he would refuſe, as he did.

21 And Ruth the Moabiteſs ſaid, He ſaid unto me alſo, Thou ſhalt keep faſt by my young men, until they have ended all my harveſt c.

c Both Barley-Harveſt, and Wheat-Harveſt, as is ſaid, v. 23.

22 And Naomi ſaid unto Ruth her daughter in law, It is good, my daughter, that thou go out with his maidens, that they ‖ meet thee not in any other field d.

‖ Or, fall upon thee.

d Whereby thou wilt both expoſe thy ſelf to many inconveniences, which thou mayeſt expect from ſtrangers: and incur his diſpleaſure, as if thou didſt either deſpiſe his proffered kindneſs, or doubt of the ſincerity of his affections and offers.

23 So ſhe kept faſt by the maidens of Boaz to glean, unto the end of barley-harveſt, and of wheat-harveſt, and dwelt e with her mother in law.

e Heb. ſat, or continued at home, when ſhe had diſpatched her occaſions abroad, and did not wander or gad abroad, after the manner of idle Perſons and Harlots, Prov. 7. 11, 12.

CHAP. III.

THEN Naomi her mother in law ſaid unto her, My daughter, ſhall I not ſeek reſt a for thee, that it may be well with thee?

a i. e. A life of Reſt, and Comfort, and Safety, under the care of a good Husband. The Queſtion ſuppoſeth an Affirmative Anſwer: I will ſeek it, as my Duty binds me.

2 And now, is not Boaz of our kindred, with whoſe maidens thou waſt? Behold, he winnoweth barley to night in the threſhing floor b.

b Which was in a place covered at the top, but open elſewhere, whither Ruth might eaſily come. And this work of winnowing Corn was uſually begun or ended with a Feaſt, as may be gathered both from ver. 7. and from other Inſtances, wherein they uſed to do ſo upon like occaſions; and this work was to begin this Evening, and, as ſome think, was done only in the Evenings, when the heat grew leſs, and the wind began to blow. See Gen. 3. 8.

3 Waſh thy ſelf therefore, and anoint thee, and put thy raiment c upon thee, and get thee down to the floor: but make not thy ſelf known unto the man d, until he ſhall have done eating and drinking.

c To wit, thy beſt Raiment. All this was done to render her ſelf more Amiable in the Eyes of Boaz. Obj. But Boaz could not ſee her, the whole buſineſs being to be tranſacted by Night. Anſ. Firſt, It was begun in the beginning of the Night, as ſoon as Boaz had ſupped and compoſed himſelf to reſt; as appears from ver. 4, 7. when there was ſo much Light left as might diſcover her to him. Secondly, There being a Solemn Feaſt this Evening, as is very probably thought, and the Maſter of the Feaſt having Invited his Labouring People to it, and Ruth among the reſt, it is likely that both ſhe and the reſt did put themſelves into their beſt Dreſs upon that occaſion, as the manner is even at this day; and ſo he had opportunity enough to ſee her. d To wit, not in ſo familiar a way, as ſhe was appointed to do, ſo as he might know her, in the ſence in which that word is ſometimes uſed.

4 And it ſhall be, when he lieth down e, that thou ſhalt mark the place where he ſhall lie, and thou ſhalt go in f, and ‖ uncover his feet g, and lay thee down, and he will tell thee what thou ſhalt do h.

‖ Or, lift up the cloths that are on his feet.

e To reſt or ſleep, as upon ſuch occaſions they uſed to do in thoſe hot Countries. f Though Naomi and Ruth ſeem to be Vertuous and Modeſt Women, and their intent was Lawful and Honeſt; yet there ſeems to be a manifold Irregularity in the manner of it. First, It ſeems to be againſt that Modeſty, which ſhould be eminent in that Sex, and in unmarried perſons. Secondly, Againſt Honeſty, both becauſe it was an injury to another perſon, who was nearer akin, whoſe right this was; which Naomi could not be Ignorant of: and becauſe it was a Prepoſterous and Precipitant Method, not agreeable either to the Rules of Scripture, or the Uſage of well-mannered Nations, or that Decency which even Nature requires. Thirdly, Againſt Prudence; for it might have proved the occaſion, as of many Sins, ſo of great ſhame to all of them; and a mean to Alienate his Affection from her, which ſhe ſought to engage. And though there be ſome Circumſtances which Alleviate the Fact, as the Experience which Naomi had of the Wiſdom and Sobriety both of Boaz and of Ruth, yet ſhe knew not what the event would be; and that there was ſomething of ſhamefulneſs in the thing, may be gathered both from Naomies choice of the Night for it, as if it were a Work of Darkneſs; and from Boaz his fear leaſt this ſhould be known, ver. 14. And it is an aggravation of it, that this Courſe was unneceſſary, and ſhe had a plain and likely way, which was directly to Addreſs her ſelf to Boaz, or the next Kinſman, and to require the Duty which by Gods Law he was bound to perform, and this before Witneſſes, as Boaz did. And her Clandeſtine proceeding ſeems to have ariſen from a diſtruſt of Gods Providence, to bring about what ſhe deſired in the ordinary way. g Remove the Cloths which were upon his Feet; thereby to awaken him. h How thou ſhouldſt carry thy ſelf, or what courſe thou ſhalt take to obtain that Marriage which belongs unto thee. Only there were ſome Rites to be obſerved, and Circumſtances to be done, before they came to the concluſion of the Marriage, about which Boaz would inſtruct her.

5 And ſhe ſaid unto her, All that thou ſayeſt unto me I will do i.

i The confidence ſhe had in Naomies Wiſdom and Piety, and true Love to her, made her ready to follow her advice, wherein ſhe was the more excuſable, becauſe ſhe did not underſtand the Laws and Cuſtoms of the Country, as Naomi did.

6 ¶ And ſhe went down unto the floor, and did according to all that her mother in law bade her.

7 And when Boaz had eaten and drunk k, and his heart was merry, he went to lie down at the end of the heap of corn: and ſhe came ſoftly, and uncovered his feet, and laid her down.

k To wit, liberally, as the manner was upon thoſe occaſions. See Judg. 9. 27. Pſal. 4. 7. Iſa. 9. 3.

8 ¶ And it came to paſs at midnight l, that the man was afraid, and ‖ turned himſelf m, and behold, a woman lay at his feet n.

l He did not diſcover her ſooner, though ſhe did uncover his Feet, being it ſeems in a deep ſleep, as is uſual after Feaſts, and ſhe doing no more than her Mother commanded her, and uſing no words or geſtures which might provoke his Luſt: wherein ſhe ſhewed her Temperance and Modeſty, and that what ſhe did was only by her Mothers Inſtigation and Advice, which plainly appeared from her deſire expreſſed, v. 9. which he knew, ſhe being a Stranger, was unacquainted with. And this was the reaſon Boaz was not in the leaſt offended with her, but only commends her Vertue, without any reflection upon her for this Fact. m From the place where he lay, he raiſed and turned himſelf towards the Feet, to learn who or what was there. Or, he was troubled, or afraid, or wondred. For the Hebrew word being but once uſed, is diverſly rendred. n Which he might underſtand, either by ſome glimmerings of Light which were after midnight, which diſcovered her, or rather by her Voice, or out of her own Mouth, who being asked, told him ſo much in general, before he made particular enquiry.

9 And he ſaid, Who art thou? And ſhe anſwered, I am Ruth thine hand-maid: ſpread therefore thy skirt over thine hand-maid o, for thou art ‖ a near kinſman.

‖ Or, one that hath right to redeem.

o i. e. Take me to be thy Wife, and perform the Duty of an Husband to me. This Phrase is uſed in this ſence, Deut. 22. 30. and 27. 20. Ezek. 16. 8. Either, Firſt, Becauſe the Wife is admitted into the ſame Bed with her Husband, and both are covered with one and the ſame covering. Or, Secondly, From an ancient Ceremony of the Husbands throwing the Skirt of his Garment over her Head, in token both of her ſubjection, 1 Cor. 11. 5, 6, 10. and appropriation to him, being hereby as it were hid from the Eyes of others; See Gen. 20. 16. and alſo of that protection which he oweth to her, See Ruth 2. 12.

10 And he ſaid, Bleſſed be thou of the LORD, my daughter: for thou haſt ſhewed more kindneſs p in the latter end, than at the beginning, in as much as thou followedſt not young men q, whether poor, or rich.

p Both to thy deceaſed Husband, the continuance of whoſe Name and Memory thou preferreſt before the ſatisfaction of thy own Luſt; and to thy Mother-in-law, whoſe Commands thou haſt punctually obeyed, even with thy own hazard in ſo doubtful an Enterprize. q To ſeek thy Marriage either here, or in thy own Country, as thou wouldſt have done if thou hadſt not preferred Obedience to Gods Command, before the pleaſing of thy ſelf.

11 And now my daughter, fear not r, I will do to thee all that thou requireſt ſ: for all the † city of my people doth know, that thou art a vertuous woman.

r Think not that I Deſpiſe and Reject thee, becauſe I do not immediately comply with thy Deſire. ſ i. e. Marry thee, upon the Condition here following.

12 And now it is true, that I am thy near kinſman: howbeit, there is a kinſman nearer than I.

13 Tarry this night, and it ſhall be in the morning, that if he will perform unto thee the part of a kinſman t, well, let him do the kinſmans part: but if he will not do the part of a kinſman to thee, then will I do the part of a kinſman to thee, as the LORD liveth: lie down until the morning.

t i. e. Take thee to Wife, to raiſe up Seed to his Brother, as he ought to do.

14 ¶ And ſhe lay at his feet until the morning: and ſhe roſe up before one could know another u. And he ſaid, Let it not be known that a woman came into the floor x.

u i. e. While it was yet ſo Dark that one Perſon could not diſcern another. Or, before one did know the other, i. e. before they were carnally known to one another. x He takes care to preſerve not only his Conſcience towards God, but his Reputation, and hers alſo, among men.

15 Alſo he ſaid, Bring the ‖ veil that thou haſt upon thee, and hold it. And when ſhe held it, he meaſured ſix meaſures z of barley, and laid it on her: and ſhe went into the city.

‖ Or, ſheet, or, apron.

y Or, the apron, ſuch as women ordinarily wear. z Known and uſual Meaſure; It is not determined how large thoſe Meaſures were, but this the Nature of the thing ſhews, that they were no larger than one Woman could carry in her Veil, or Apron.

16 And when ſhe came to her mother in law, ſhe ſaid, Who art thou, my daughter ‖? and ſhe told her all that the man had done to her.

‖ Either, Firſt, She did not diſtinctly know who ſhe was, becauſe it was Dark, and ſo calls her Daughter only in general, as Elder Women call the Younger. But ſhe could as eaſily have diſcerned who ſhe was, as what her Age was. Or, Secondly, This is not a Queſtion of doubting, but of wonder, as if ſhe had ſaid, Art thou in very deed my Daughter? I can hardly believe it. How comeſt thou hither in this manner, and thus early?

17 And ſhe ſaid, Theſe ſix meaſures of barley gave he me, for he ſaid to me, Go not empty to thy mother in law.

18 Then ſaid ſhe, Sit ſtill my daughter until thou know how the matter will fall: for the man will not be in reſt, until he have finiſhed the thing this day.

CHAP. IV.

THEN went Boaz up to the gate a, and ſate him down there: and behold, the kinſman of whom Boaz ſpake, came by, unto whom he ſaid, Ho, ſuch an one b, turn aſide, ſit down here c. And he turned aſide, and ſate down.

a The

a The place where Controverſies were decided, and the People Aſſembled, and where they uſed to go out, and come in to the Town; where he was moſt likely to find his Kinſman. b Doubtleſs Boaz both knew his Name, and called him by it, but it is omitted by the Holy Writer; partly becauſe it was unneceſſary to know it; and principally in way of contempt, as is uſual, and as a juſt puniſhment upon him, that he who would not preſerve his Brothers Name, might loſe his own, and lie buried in the Grave of perpetual Oblivion. c I have ſome Buſineſs of Importance with you.

2 And he took ten men d, of the elders of the city, and ſaid, Sit ye down here. And they ſate down.

d To be Umpires or Witneſſes between them: for though two or three Witneſſes were ſufficient, yet in weightier Matters they uſed more. And ten was the uſual Number among the Jews, in Cauſes of Matrimony and Divorce, and Tranſlation of Inheritances; who were both Judges of the Cauſes, and Witneſſes of the Fact. See 1 King. 21. 8.

3 And he ſaid unto the kinſman, Naomi e, that is come again out of the country of Moab, ſelleth a parcel of land f, which was our brother Elimelechs.

e Both Naomi and Ruth had an Intereſt in this Land during their Lives, but he mentions only Naomi, partly becauſe all was done by her direction, to which Ruth wholly ſubmitted her ſelf; and partly leſt the mention of Ruth ſhould raiſe a ſuſpicion of the neceſſity of his Marrying Ruth, before he had given his Anſwer to the firſt Propoſition. f Which ſhe might do becauſe of her Poverty, Lev. 25. 25.

† Heb. I ſaid, I will uncover thine ear. Revtal in thine ear.

4 And † I thought to advertiſe thee, ſaying, Buy it before the inhabitants, and before the elders of my people g. If thou wilt redeem it, redeem it, but if thou wilt not redeem it, then tell me that I may know: for there is none to redeem it beſides thee, and I am after thee. And he ſaid, I will redeem it.

g Before this Aſſembly, that it may be Legally, and Firmly made over to thee.

5 Then ſaid Boaz, What day thou buyeſt the field of the hand of Naomi, thou muſt buy it alſo of Ruth the Moabiteſs, the wife of the dead h, to raiſe up the name of the dead i upon his inheritance.

h According to the Law, Deut. 25. 5, &c. Mat. 22. 24, &c. i To revive his Name, which was loſt and Buried with his Body, by raiſing up a Seed to him, to be called by his Name.

6 ¶ And the kinſman ſaid, I cannot redeem it for my ſelf, leſt I mar mine own inheritance k: redeem thou my right l to thy ſelf, for I cannot redeem it.

k Either, Firſt, Becauſe having no Children of his own, he might have one, and but one Son by Ruth, who, though he ſhould carry away his Inheritance, yet ſhould not bear his Name, but the Name of Ruths Husband; and ſo by preſerving another Mans Name, he ſhould loſe his own. Or, Secondly, Becauſe as his Inheritance would be but very little increaſed by this Marriage, ſo it might be much diminiſhed by being divided amongſt his many Children, which he poſſibly had already, and might probably have more by Ruth. l Which I freely Renounce and Reſign to thee.

* Deut. 25. 7, 9.

7 * Now this was the manner in former time in Iſrael, concerning redeeming, and concerning changing, for to confirm all things m: a man plucked off his ſhoe, and gave it to his neighbour n: and this was a teſtimony in Iſrael o.

m i. e. In all Alienation of Lands. So that it is no wonder if this Ceremony differ a little from that Deut. 25. 9. becauſe that concerned only one Caſe, but this is more general. Beſides, he pleads not the Command of God, but only ancient Cuſtom, for this Practice. n He who relinquiſhed his right to another, plucked off his own Shoe and gave it to him. This was Symbolical, and a ſignificant and convenient Ceremony, as if he ſaid, Take this Shoe wherewith I uſed to go and tread upon my Land, and in that Shoe do thou enter upon it, and take poſſeſſion of it. o This was admitted for ſufficient Evidence in all ſuch Caſes.

8 Therefore the kinſman ſaid unto Boaz, Buy it for thee: ſo he drew off his ſhoe.

9 ¶ And Boaz ſaid unto the elders, and unto all the people, Ye are witneſſes this day, that I have bought all that was Elimelechs, and all that was Chilions, and Mahlons, of the hand of Naomi.

10 Moreover, Ruth the Moabiteſs, the wife of Mahlon, have I purchaſed to be my wife, to raiſe up the name of the dead upon his inheritance, that the name of the dead be not cut off from among his brethren, and from the gate of his place p: ye are witneſſes this day.

p i. e. From among the Inhabitants dwelling within the Gate of this City, which was Bethlehem-Judah.

11 And all the people that were in the gate, and the elders ſaid, We are witneſſes: The LORD make the woman that is come into thine houſe, like Rachel, and like Leah q, which two did build the houſe r of Iſrael: and ‖ do thou worthily in Ephratah ſ, and † be famous in Bethlehem ſ.

q Amiable and Fruitful. Thoſe two are ſingled out; partly becauſe they were of a Foreign and Heathenith Original, and yet ingrafted into Gods people, as Ruth alſo was: and partly, becauſe of that ſingular Fertility which God vouchſafed unto them above their Predeceſſors, Sarah and Rebecca. Rachel is placed before Leah, becauſe ſhe was his moſt Lawful, and only Intended, and Choſen, and beſt-Beloved Wife. r i. e. Increaſe the Poſterity. See Gen. 16. 2. Exod. 1. 21. ſ Two Names of one and the ſame Place; of which ſee on Ruth 1. 2.

12 And let thy houſe be like the houſe of Pharez t, (* whom Tamar bare unto Judah) of the ſeed which the LORD ſhall give thee of this young woman.

* Gen. 38. 29. 1 Chron. 2. 4. Matth. 1. 3.

t As honourable and numerous as his Family was; whom though he alſo was Born of a ſtranger, God ſo far Bleſſed that his Family was one of the five Families to which all the Tribe of Judah belonged, and the Progenitor of the Inhabitants of this City.

13 ¶ So Boaz took Ruth u, and ſhe was his wife: and when he went in unto her x, the LORD gave her conception y, and in due time ſhe bare a ſon.

u Which he might do, though ſhe was a Moabite, becauſe the Prohibition againſt Marrying ſuch, is to be reſtrained to thoſe who continue in the Heatheniſh eſtate, as is evident from the reaſon of it; Whereas Ruth was a ſincere Proſelyte and convert to the God and Faith of Iſrael. x i. e. Had conjugal converſe with her. See Gen. 6. 4. y i. e. Strength to Conceive and Retain Seed.

14 And the women ſaid unto Naomi, Bleſſed be the LORD, which hath not † left thee this day without a ‖ kinſman z, that his name may be famous in Iſrael a.

† Heb. cauſed to ceaſe unto thee. ‖ Or, redeemer.

z Which is underſtood, Either, Firſt, Of the Son new Born. Or rather, Secondly, Of Boaz: For the Name of Goel, which is Tranſlated Kinſman or Redeemer, is never, that I know of, given to the child Born, but always to the perſon Begetting him of his Brother's or near Kinſman's Wife. And whereas it is Objected, That there was no cauſe for this congratulation at this time in reference to Boaz, becauſe that was done divers Months before this time: It may be Replied, That the Memory of that generous Action was revived upon this occaſion, and therefore is fitly mentioned as the foundation of this childs Birth; and this happy effect juſtly leads them to the cauſe and Original of it, which was this, that Boaz had ſhewed himſelf to be a Kinſman or Redeemer, not only in Name and Title, as the other Kinſman was, ver. 6. but in Truth and Reality. The words may be rendred, Which hath not made, or ſuffered thy Kinſman to fail to thee, i. e. To neglect or refuſe the performance of his Duty to thee and thine, as the other Kinſman did. a Heb. and his Name ſhall be famous in Iſrael, for this Noble and Worthy Action, wherein he gave ſo great an Example of Piety, Charity, Humility, and Self-denial.

15 And he ſhall be unto thee a reſtorer of thy life b, and † a nouriſher of † thine old age: for thy daughter in law which loveth thee, which * is better to thee than ſeven ſons, hath born him c.

b i. e. Of b i. e. Of the comfort of thy life, which was in a great measure dead and gone. c To wit, a Son: the Pronoun for the Noun, understood, which is frequent in the Hebrew Tongue. Or, Hath born to him, i. e. to thy Kinsman, to wit, a Son, which is easily understood: and so the Pronoun affix is put for the separate; of which there are Instances; as Jos. 15. 19. 1 King. 19. 21. Job 31. 37. Ezek. 29. 3.

16 And Naomi took the child, and laid it in her bosom, and became nurse unto it.

17 And the women her neighbours gave it a name d, saying, There is a son born to Naomi, and they called his name Obed e: he is the father of Jesse, the father of David.

d i. e. They gave her advice about the Name; for otherwise they had no power or right to do so. e A servant, to wit, to thee, to nourish, and comfort, and assist thee, which Duty Children owe to their Progenitors.

18 ¶ Now these are the generations of Pharez: * Pharez begat Hezron.

* 1 Chron. 2. 4. Matth. 1. 3.

19 And Hezron begat Ram, and Ram begat Amminadab, 20 And Amminadab begat Nahshon, and Nahshon begat ‖ Salmon,

‖ Or, Salmah.

21 And Salmon begat Boaz, and Boaz begat Obed,

22 And Obed begat Jesse, and Jesse begat David f.

f How can this be a true Genealogy, seeing by this means four Persons take up three hundred and eighty years, which were between Salmon and David, and consequently every one of them must beget a Son when he was very old? Answ. 1. It is not certain, that each of these was the immediate Parent of him whom he is said to beget: for sometimes Grand-Fathers are said in Scripture to beget their Grand-Children, to wit, by the Intervention of their immediate Sons; whereof Instances have been given. And sometimes in Genealogies whole Generations are omitted, as may appear by Ezra 7. 2. compared with 1 Chron. 6. 3. and by Matth. 1. 8. which might be done here for divers reasons now unknown. 2. There are many Examples even in profane Writers, both Ancient and Modern, of persons that have not onely lived 120, and 130 years and upwards, but have been Vigorous, and have begotten Children at above 100 years old; and of Women that have conceived and born Children at the age of 50, 60, yea, 70 years. And therefore if it were so in these more ancient times, when men were longer-lived, and under the Law, when long Life was expresly promised to the Obedient, and in Persons of strong Constitutions, and sober Conversations, such as some of these are known to have been, and the others may justly be presumed to be such, it is not strange, nor in the least incredible.

I. SAMUEL.

The ARGUMENT.

IT is not certainly known who was the Pen-man of this Book, or whether it was Written by one or more hands; nor is it of any great Importance: For since there are sufficient Evidences that God was the chief Author of it, it matters not who was the Instrument. As when it appears that such a thing was really an Act of Parliament, or of the Council-Table, it is not considerable who was the Clerk, or which was the Pen that Wrote it. And this is the less material in such Historical Books, wherein there is but little which concerns the Foundation of Faith and Good Life, and therefore it was not necessary to Name the Writer of them. It may abundantly suffice, that there were in these times divers Prophets and Holy Men of God; as Samuel, and Nathan, and Gad, and David himself, who might each of them Write some part of this and the following Book. But if any man will out of perverseness doubt or deny that these Wrote it, yet this I suppose no Discreet and Impartial man will deny, that it is wholly Incredible that such Books should be Written in their Times, and Recommended to the Church as a Part of the Holy Scriptures, and so received by the succeeding Generation, without their Approbation, who had so great a Power and Authority in the Church and Commonwealth of Israel.

CHAP. I.

NOW there was a certain man of Ramathaim Zophim a, of mount Ephraim, and his name was * Elkanah, the son of Jeroham, the son of Elihu, the son of Tohu, the son of Zuph, an Ephrathite b:

* 1 Chron. 6. 27, 34.

a Called Ramah, ver. 19. and here is the dual number Ramathaim, i. e. double Ramah, probably because it consisted of two parts, whereof the one might be called the Old City, the other the New, both being united into one; and the additional Title of Zophim, which signifies Watch-Towers, or Watch-Men, may note either the height of its Scituation, which made it fit for that use; or that the Prophets, who are called Watch-men, as Ezek. 3. 17. had a School or Colledge there. b i. e. One of Bethlehem-Judah, Ruth 1. 2. to wit, by his Birth and Habitation, though by his Original a Levite. Thus divers Jews by Nation are called Medes, Elamites, Cretians, &c. Act. 2. 9, 10, 11. because they were Born and Bred there.

2 And he had two wives c, the name of the one was Hannah, and the name of the other Peninnah: and Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children.

c As divers other good Men had in those Ages. And it is probable that he took a second Wife, to wit, Peninnah, because Hannah, who being first Named, seems to have been his first Wife, was Barren.

3 And this man went up out of his city *·† yearly d, to worship, and to sacrifice e unto the LORD of hosts in Shiloh f, and the two sons of Eli, Hophni, and Phinehas, the priests of the LORD, were there g.

* Deut. 16. 6.
† Heb. from days to days. Lev. 25. 29.

d To wit, at one of the Solemn Feasts, which probably was the Passeover, when he not only went up himself, but carried his Wife and Children with him. Compare ver. 7. Or, at the appointed days or times: Heb. from days to days; or, from time to time, i. e. at the three Solemn Feasts, when he together with all other Males were obliged to go to worship God in the place place appointed; and at other times, when he as a Levite, was to go thither in his course. e Not in his own Person, which the Levites could not do, but by the Priests, in which sence David, and Solomon, and Abjalom are said to offer Sacrifices, 2 Sam. 15. 8. 1 King. 8. 63. 1 Chron. 21. 26. f Where the Tabernacle had long been, and now was. See Jos. 18. 1. Judg. 18. 31. and 21. 19. g Or, were the Priests of the Lord there, to wit, under their Father Eli, who is generally conceived to have been the High-Priest, but being very Old and Infirm, 1 Sam. 4. 15. and unfit for service, his Sons Ministred in his stead, being as it were second Priests. See 2 King. 25. 18. And this clause seems to be added, to shew that this good Man did not run into that Vulgar Error, of neglecting his Duty of Offering to God for the wickedness of the Priests; Of which see chap. 2. 17, 24.

4 ¶ And when the time was that Elkanah offered, he gave to Peninnah his wife, and to all her sons and daughters, portions h.

h To wit, out of the Sacrifice of his Peace-Offerings, the greatest part whereof fell to the Offerer, and was eaten by him, and his friends or guests, before the Lord, Lev. 3. and 7. Deut. 12. 12. and 16. 11. and out of this he gave them all parts or portions, as the Master of the Feast used to do to Guests.

‖ Or, a double portion.

5 But unto Hannah he gave ‖ a worthy portion i: (for he loved Hannah k, but the LORD had shut up her womb.

i Or, an Honourable or Select part, such as the Master of the Feast usually gave to the Person most Respected or Beloved. See Gen. 43. 34. 1 Sam. 9. 23, 24. k With a singular and eminent Love. Compare Gen. 29. 30.

† Heb. angred her.

6 And her adversary l also † provoked her sore, for to make her fret m, because the LORD had shut up her womb.)

l Or, her Troubler, or Vexer, or Enemy; for so her Envy or Jealousie made her, though so nearly related. Compare Gen. 29. 30. Lev. 18. 18. m Against her Husband, or against God, or within her self.

‖ Or, from the time that she, &c. † Heb. from her going up.

7 And as he did so n year by year o, ‖ † when she went up to the house of the LORD p, so she provoked her: therefore she wept, and did not eat q.

n i. e. Either as oft as he went and carried them with him to Worship: or as Elkanah expressed peculiar kindness to Hannah, as was said, ver. 5. o i. e. Every year, at the days or times mentioned, ver. 3. p This circumstance is Noted, First, As the occasion of the contention, because at such times they were forced to more Society with one another, by the Way, and in their Lodgings; whereas at Home they had distinct Appartments, where they might be asunder; and then her Husbands extraordinary Love and Kindness was shewed to Hannah, whereby Peninnah was the more exasperated; then also Hannah prayed earnestly for a Child, which hitherto she had done in vain; and this possibly she reproached her with. Secondly, As the aggravation of her Sin, that when she came to Worship God, and to offer Sacrifices, when she should have been reconciled even to her Enemies, Mat. 5. 23, 24. she did quarrel with so near a Relation. q Either little, or rather nothing at all, as being overwhelmed with Grief, and therefore unfit to Eat of that Sacred Food, according to Deut. 12. 7.

8 Then said Elkanah her husband to her, Hannah, why weepest thou? and why eatest thou not? and why is thy heart grieved? am not I * better to thee than ten sons r?

* Ruth 4. 15.

r Oughtest thou not to value my Hearty Love to thee, more than the having of as many Sons as Peninnah hath? She would willingly change conditions with thee.

9 ¶ So Hannah rose up after they s had eaten in Shiloh, and after they had drunk: (now Eli the priest sat upon a seat t by a post of the temple u of the LORD.)

s i. e. Elkanah and his company, except Hannah. Or, She: for though at first she eat nothing, yet upon her Husbands Invitation and Encouragement, she might eat afterwards: though the former may seem more probable. t Or, Throne; for it is manifest it was raised higher than ordinary, chap. 4. 18. Here he might sit, either as the Judge; or rather as High-Priest, to hear and answer such as came to him for Advice, and to Inspect and Direct the Worship of God, as need was. u i. e. Of the Tabernacle, which is called the Temple here, and chap. 3. 3. and 2 Sam. 22. 7. Psal. 27. 6. as on the contrary, the Temple is called the Tabernacle, Jer. 10. 20. Lam. 2. 6. And although this Tabernacle was but a Tent, yet it was supported by Boards and Posts, and especially at the entrance, by which Eli sate, even by the entrance into the outward Court, otherwise he could not have seen Hannah. See more on chap. 3. 15.

10 And she was † in bitterness x of soul, and prayed unto the LORD, and wept sore.

† Heb. bitter of soul.

x i. e. Oppressed with Grief, as that Phrase is used, Job 7. 11. and 10. 1. Ruth 1. 20.

11 And she vowed a vow y, and said, O LORD of hosts, if thou wilt indeed look on z the affliction a of thine hand-maid, and remember me, and not forget thine hand-maid, but wilt give unto thine hand-maid † a man-child, then I will give him unto the LORD b all the days of his life c, and * there shall no rasor come upon his head d.

† Heb. seed of men.

* Num. 6. 5. Judg. 13. 5.

y Knowing that her Husband would willingly consent to it, otherwise she had not power to do it. z To wit, favourably, so as to remove it. a i. e. The Barrenness and Reproach which attends it. b i. e. Consecrate him to Gods Service in his Temple, as far as in me lies: for if he had any Blemish, she might not do it. c Not only from his 25th. to his 50th. Year, as all the Levites, and so he himself, were obliged by God, Numb. 4. 2. and 8. 24. but for his whole time. Which is still to be understood with a reservation of Gods right, which her Vow must give place to, as indeed it did; for God called him to be a Prophet, and a General of the Army, and a Judge. d i. e. He shall be a perpetual Nazarite: for under this one Rule, as the chief, all the rest are contained; as elsewhere the whole Mosaical Law is understood, under the Title of Circumcision.

12 And it came to pass, as she † continued praying e before the LORD, that Eli marked her mouth f.

† Heb. multiplied to pray.

c Heb. multiplyed to pray. By which it appears that she said much more than is here expressed. And the like you are to judge of the Prayers and Sermons of other holy persons Recorded in Scripture, which gives us only the sum and substance of them. Which consideration may help us much in the understanding of some passages of the Bible. f i. e. The motion of her lips, as it follows.

13 Now Hannah, she spake in her heart, only her lips moved, but her voice was not heard g: therefore Eli † thought she had been drunken h.

† Heb. accounted her for drunken. So Gr.

g Partly, to avoid the suspition of vain-glory: partly, because she would not have others acquainted with her Barrenness, which was matter of reproach: and partly, because she would not disturb others, who at this Solemn Feast were probably imployed there in the same work. h Because of the multitude of her words, and those uncouth Gestures and Motions of her Face and Body, which the vehemency of her Passion, and her fervency in Prayer, caused in her, as it doth frequently in others; and because she was but newly come from a Feast, wherein the manner was to Eat and Drink liberally, (though not to excess) which he knew very well, both from the general custom of that Season, and from the time of the day.

14 And Eli said unto her, How long wilt thou be drunken? put away thy wine from thee i.

i Come not before the Lord in thy drunkenness, but go and sleep it out, and Repent of this thy Sin.

15 And Hannah answered and said, No, my lord, I am a woman k † of a sorrowful spirit l: I have drunk neither wine nor strong drink m, but have poured out my soul n before the LORD.

† Heb. hard of spirit.

k In whom Drunkenness is most abominable; so that the Romans punished it with Death. Therefore judge me not so severely. l And therefore not likely to give up my self to Drink and Jollity, and far from that merry temper which Drunkards have: I am Drunk with Affliction, not with Wine, as is said Isa. 51. 21. m To wit, this day; See above ver. 7, 8. n Have been breathing forth the Griefs, and Perplexities, and Desires of my Soul. The like Phrase is Job 30. 16. Psal. 62. 8. and 142. 2.

16 Count not thine hand-maid for a daughter of Belial o: for out of the abundance of my ‖ complaint and grief, have I spoken hitherto p.

‖ Or, meditation.

o For

o For such a wicked Monster, as a Drunken Women is. p The oppression of my spirits hath forced me to speak, and that so liberally at this time, for the ease of my sinking heart.

17 Then Eli answered and said, Go in peace q: and the God of Israel grant r thee thy petition that thou hast asked of him.

q I recal my censure, and give thee my Blessing, and wish thee Peace, i. e. a quiet and composed mind, free from whatsoever it is that Grieves and Oppresses thee; and withal, good Success and Prosperity in what thou desirest; for Peace is a very comprehensive word among the Hebrews. r Or, will grant: for it may be either a Prayer, or a Prediction, which he might deliver, either from the consideration of Gods known goodness and readiness to hear Prayers: or he might be directed to say so by a special instinct of Gods Spirit, which sometimes was given to the High-Priests, even when they were wicked men, as Joh. 11. 51. and much more when they were Holy Men, as Eli was. And some add, that he was a Propher.

18 And she said, Let thine hand-maid find grace in thy sight s. So the woman went her way, and did eat, and her ‖ countenance was no more sad t.

‖ Or, heaviness was no more. See Job 9. 27. Hebr.

s That favourable Opinion, and good Will, and gracious Prayer, which thou hast expressed on my behalf, be pleased to continue towards me. t Her heart being cheared by the Priests comfortable words, and especially by Gods Spirit setting them home upon her, and assuring her that both his and her Prayers should be heard, quickly appeared in her countenance. Heb. her indignation, or vexation (as the word Face is sometimes understood, as Gen. 32. 20. Psal. 21. 9. and 34. 16.) was no more, i. e. it vanished away.

19 ¶ And they rose up in the morning early u, and worshipped before the LORD, and returned, and came to their house to Ramah: and Elkanah knew Hannah his wife, and the LORD remembred her x.

u Partly for their Journey, and partly for prayer, as it follows, for which this was a very fit and usual time, Psal. 5. 3. 119. 147. x i. e. Manifested his remembrance of her by the effect.

† Heb. in the revolution of days. ‖ That is, asked of God.

20 Wherefore it came to pass † when the time was come about, after Hannah had conceived, that she bare a son x, and called y his name ‖ Samuel, saying, Because I have asked him of the LORD.

x So the sence is, When the usual time from the Conception to the Birth was past, she brought forth her Son. Heb. In or After the Revolution, or Expiration of some Days, Hannah Conceived, and in due time bare a Son. So the meaning is, That although her Husband knew her conjugally at his return, and God was mindful of her, and intended in his time to give her his Blessing, yet she did not Conceive at first, but after some days, or time afterwards. y i. e. She called, not doubting of her Husbands consent to the Name. The Names of Children were given to them, sometimes by the Fathers, and sometimes by the Mothers. See Gen. 4. 1. 26. and 5. 29. and 21. 3. and 19. 37, 38, &c.

21 And the man Elkanah, and all his house z, went up to offer unto the LORD the yearly sacrifice a, and his vow b.

z i. e. His Wife Peninnah, and his Children, which are oftimes called a Mans House in Scripture, Hannah only and her child excepted, as it here follows. a That Solemn Sacrifice which was offered up once every Year, probably the Paschal Lamb, which is oft called a Sacrifice, as Exod. 12. 27. and 34. 25. b By which it appears, though it was not expressed before, that he heard and consented to her Vow, which was necessary to make it Obligatory, Numb. 30. and that he added a Vow of his own, of some singular Sacrifice to be offered if God answered his prayers.

22 But Hannah went not up c, for she said unto her husband, I will not go up until the child be weaned d, and then I will bring him, that he may appear before the LORD, and there abide for ever e.

c To wit, at that Sacred Anniversary-Feast, to which she went up before, but now did not, because she could not with satisfaction to her Mind and Conscience appear before the Lord Empty, or without paying her Vow; nor bring her child thither to God, and then carry him away from God to her own House. Nor did she Sin by not going up; for the Women were not obliged to go up at the Solemn Feasts, but the Men only, Exod. 23. 17. d Not only from the Breast and the Milk, which was done within Two or Three Years at most, but also from the Mothers knee and care, and from childish Food; till the child be something grown up, and fit to do some Service in the Tabernacle: for it seems, that as soon as he was brought up, he Worshipped God, ver. 28. and presently after Ministred to Eli, 1 Sam. 2. 11. And this may further appear from the very Nature of the Vow, which must needs design a Service and an Advantage to the Tabernacle, and not a Burden and Encumbrance, as it would have been if a Young child had been brought up to it, and left upon it. e That when once he is presented to the Lord, he may continue in his Service as long as he liveth, as is said ver. 28.

23 And Elkanah her husband said unto her, Do what seemeth thee good, tarry until thou have weaned him, onely the LORD establish his word f: so the woman abode, and gave her son suck until she had weaned him.

f Either, First, The word of God made known to them by Eli, above, ver. 17. which being delivered by Gods High-Priest, and that in answer to his and his Wives Prayers, he took to be a kind of Oracle sent from God. But that word was already fulfilled in the Birth of a Son. Or, Secondly, Some other Word or Message from God to Elkanah or his Wife concerning Samuel; for such Revelations were frequent in those Ages of the Church, and were oft vouchsafed by God, concerning such Children as were extraordinary Persons, or in a special manner Devoted to God; as concerning Isaac, Gen. 18. and Sampson, Judg. 13. 3, 4. and John Baptist, Luk. 1. 13, 14, &c. and others. And so it might be here, though it were not mentioned before, there being many such things in Scripture omitted in their proper places, which afterwards are expressed or implyed upon other occasions. Or rather, Thirdly, It may be rendered, his matter or thing, i. e. the Business concerning the child, that which thou hast promised or Vowed concerning him, that he may grow up, and be accepted and employed by God in his Service; and that he, when he is fully grown, may not break thy Vow, but confirm it.

24 ¶ And when she had weaned him, she took him up with her, with three bullocks g, and one ephah of flour h, and a bottle of wine i, and brought him unto the house of the LORD in Shiloh: and the child was young.

g Either, First, One to be offered at that time: the other two presented to the Priest, whether for his own use, or to be offered afterwards, as he saw fit. Or, Secondly, One for a burnt offering, the Second for a sin-offering, the Third for a peace-offering; of which they might all Feast together; for all these sorts seem expedient for this work and time. h For the meat-offerings belonging to the principal Sacrifices, which to each Bullock were three tenth-deals, or three tenth parts of an Ephah, as appears from Num. 15. 9. and 28. 12. and so nine Homers, or nine parts of the Ephah were spent, and the tenth part was either a separate meat-offering, or given to the Priest i For drink-offerings, according to the manner.

25 And they slew a bullock k, and brought the child to Eli.

k Either, First, One of the three at the present, reserving the rest for the future. Or, Secondly, The three bullocks mentioned ver. 24. to which the Article here added, in the Hebrew, seems manifestly to relate; there being no one Bullock there, singled out, to which it can belong. And so it is only an Enallage of the Singular Number for the Plural, which is frequent.

26 And she said, O my lord l, as thy soul liveth m, my lord. I am the woman that stood by thee here, praying unto the LORD.

l A form of Speech to engage favourable attention. m The usual Form of an Oath, as Gen. 42. 15. 1 Sam. 17. 55. and 20. 3. As surely as thou livest. Which asseverations seem necessary, because this was some years after it, and was quite forgotten by him.

27 For this child I prayed, and the LORD hath given me my petition, which I asked of him.

‖ Or, returned him whom I have obtained by petition, to the LORD.

28 Therefore also I have ‖ lent him to the LORD n as long as he liveth, ‖ he shall be lent o to the LORD. And he p worshipped the LORD there.

‖ Or, he whom I have obtained by petition, shall be returned.

n Or,

z Or, given him, &c. i. e. do now give or offer him: for she did not lend him for a time, with a purpose or right to require him again. The words may be rendred thus: And I also asked him, or made my self to ask him (an usual Hebraism) for the Lord. i. e. I prayed for this Child, not only for my self, and to take away my reproach, but especially that I might have a Child to Serve and Devote to the Lord. And so the following words as long as he liveth, are not to be joyned with this foregoing Clause, but with those which come next after them; and that whole Clause may be thus rendred, as a consequent upon the former. And, or, therefore all the days in which he is, or shall be he is or shall be lent or given to the Lord; or, as one begged for the Lord, and for his Service, and therefore justly given to him. a Or, rendred, or used as one given in my Prayer; for this was the condition of my Prayer, that he should be the Lords. b Not Eli, who is not mentioned, but ver. 25. and then onely passively, not as speaking or doing any thing; nor Elkanah, of whom here is no mention: but young Samuel, who is the subject spoken of in this and the foregoing Verse, and who was capable of worshipping God in some sort, at least with External Adoration; of which see on ver. 22. And so the Particle there is Emphatical, signifying that hereby he entred himself into the worship and service of God in that place, to which he was Devoted by his Parents, and now did Devote himself.

CHAP. II.

* See Luk. 1. 46. &c.

AND Hannah prayed a, and said, * My heart rejoyceth b in the LORD c: mine horn is exalted d in the LORD: my mouth is enlarged e over mine enemies f, because I rejoyce in thy salvation g.

a i. e. Praised God, which is a part of Prayer, Col. 4. 2. 1 Tim. 2. 1. so it is a Synecdochical Expression. b Or, leapeth for joy: for the words note not only inward joy, but also the outward Demonstrations of it. c As the Author and Matter of my joy, that he hath heard my Prayer, and accepted my Son for his Service. d My strength and glory (which are oft signified by an Horn, as Psal. 89. 17, 24. and 92. 10.) are advanced and manifested to my Vindication, and the confusion of mine Enemies. e i. e. Opened wide to pour forth abundant Praises to God, and to give a full Answer to all the reproaches of mine Adversaries; whereas, before it was shut through Grief and Confusion. f i. e. More than theirs, or so as to get the Victory over them, as she saith afterwards. Here she manifests her great Prudence, and Piety, and Modesty, that she doth not name Peninnah, but only her Enemies in the general. g Because the matter of my joy is no trivial or Worldly thing, but that strange and glorious Salvation or Deliverance which thou hast given me from my own oppressing Care and Grief, and from the Insolencies and Reproaches of mine Enemies, in giving me a Son, and such a Son as this, who shall be serviceable to God, and to his People, in helping them against their Enemies, which she Presaged, as may be guessed from ver. 10.

* Deut. 32. 4. Psal. 86. 8. and 89. 6, 8.

2 * There is none holy as the LORD h: for there is none beside thee i: neither is there any rock like our God k.

h None so perfectly, unchangeably and constantly Holy, as God hath shewed himself to be in this Act of Grace to me, whereby he hath both checked the Proud and Mighty, and pleaded the cause of his afflicted Servant that trusted in him, and also fulfilled his Promise in giving me a Son, whom he hath Sanctified by his Grace to his Service; all which are the proper Effects of Gods Holiness. i Not onely none is so holy as thou art, but in truth there is none Holy (which word is easily understood out of the former clause) besides thee; to wit, intirely, or independently, but onely by participation from thee. Or, as none have any holiness like thine, so none have any Being besides thee, unless by derivation from thee. k Thou onely art a sure Defence and Refuge to all that Flee to thee, and Trust in thee, as I have found by my experience.

* Mal. 3. 13. † Heb. hard.

3 Talk no more so exceeding proudly l: * let not † arrogancy m come out of your mouth: for the LORD is a God of knowledge n, and by him actions are weighed o.

l Thou Peninnah, boast no more of thy numerous off-spring, and speak no more insolently and scornfully of me, as thou hast done. She speaks of her in the Plural number, because she would not expose her name to Censure, but onely instruct and reprove her for her good. m Heb. hard speeches, as those are called, Jude ver. 15. harsh, heavy, and not to be born. Or, the old Sayings, either the old Proverbs concerning barren Women, which thou appliedst to me; or, the old reproaches, to which for a long time thou hast accustomed thy self. n He knoweth thy heart, and all that Pride, and Envy and Contempt of me, which thy own Conscience knows, and all thy perverse carriages towards me. o i. e. He ponders, or tryeth all mens thoughts and Actions (for the Hebrew Word signifies both) as a just Judge, to give to every one according to their Works; and therefore he hath pitied my oppressed Innocency, and rebuked her Arrogancy. Or, by him Counsels, or Actions, or Events, are disposed or ordered, and not by our selves; and therefore he brings many things to pass contrary to Mens expectations, as now he hath done; he maketh one Barren, and another Fruitful, when, and how it pleaseth him. In the Hebrew Text it is Lo the Adverb; and so the words may be rendred thus, his actions are not, or cannot be directed, or rectified, or corrected by any others; none can mend his Work, he doth every thing best, and in the best season, as now he hath done; Or weighed, or numbred, his wayes are unsearchable: or thus, are not his works right and straight? who can blame his actions? So Lo is for hale, as it is 2 Sam 13. 25: 2 King. 5 26. Job 2. 10.

4 The bowes p of the mighty men are broken, and they that stumbled q are girt with strength r.

p This notes, either 1. The strength of which they boasted, See Psal. 44. 6. and 46. 5. Or, 2. Their malicious or mischievous Designs. See Psal. 7. 12. and 11. 2. and 37. 14. Or, 3. Their virulent Tongues, which are compared to bowes that shoot their Arrowes, even bitter Words; as it is said, Psal. 64. 3. compare Jer. 9. 3. Or, 4. Their procreating Vertue, which may well be compared to a bow, both because it is called a Mans Strength, Gen. 49. 3. and because Children which are the Effects of it, and are as it were shot from that Bow, are compared to Arrows, Psal 127. 4. 5. And this seems best to agree with the following Verse. q Or, were weak, or feeble, in Body and Spirit, that had no strength to Conceive, which was once Sarah's case, Heb. 11. 11. Or, to bring forth, which was Israels condition under Hezekiah, 2 King. 19. 3. r Are enabled both to Conceive and to bring forth as the Church was, Isa. 66. 9.

5 * They that were full have hired themselves out for bread s: and they that were hungry ceased t: so that the barren hath born seven u, and * she that ‖ hath many children x, is waxed feeble y.

* Pſal. 34. 10. * Jer. 15. 9. ‖ Or, bad,

s Through extreme necessity, into which they are fallen from their greatest plenty. It is the same thing which is expressed both in divers Metaphors in the foregoing, and following Verses, and properly in the latter branch of this Verse. t i. e. Ceased to be such, to wit hungry; the hungry failed: there was none of them hungry or indigent. u i. e. Many, as seven is oft used. She speaks in the Prophetick Style, the past time, for the future; for though she had actually born but one, yet she hath a confident perswasion that she should have more, which was grounded either upon some particular assurance from God: or rather, upon the Prayer or Prediction of Eli; which though it be mentioned after this Song, v. 20. yet in all probability was spoken before it even upon the Parents presentation of the Child to Eli. chap. 1. v. 25. it not being likely that she would sing this Song in Eli's presence, or before he had given his answer to her Speech delivered chap. 1. v. 26, 27, 28. there being nothing more frequent than such Transpositions in Scripture. And the experience she had of the strange and speedy accomplishment of his former Prophesie, made her confidently expect the same issue from the latter. x i. e. Peninnah. y Either because she was now past Child-bearing, and impotent for Procreation: or, because divers of her children, which were her Strength and her Glory, were dead, as the Hebrew Doctors relate.

6 * The LORD killeth, and maketh alive z, he bringeth down to † the grave, and bringeth up.

* Deut. 32. 39. † Heb. hell.

z Either, 1. Divers persons: he killeth one, and maketh another alive: or, 2. The same person whom he first killeth, or bringeth very nigh unto death, he afterwards raiseth to life. Me, who was almost overwhelmed and consumed with grief, he hath revived. The name of death both in Sacred Scripture, and Profane Writers, is oft given to great Calamities; as Isa. 26. 19. Ezek. 37. 11. Rom. 8. 36.

7 The LORD maketh poor, and maketh rich: * he bringeth low, and lifteth up.

* Pſal. 75. 7.

8 He * raiseth up the poor out of the dust b, * and lifteth up the begger from the dunghil c, to * set them among princes, and to make them inherit d the throne of glory e for the pillars f of the earth are the LORDS, and he hath set the world upon them.

* Pſal. 113. 7. * Job 36. 7.

b i. e. Out of their low and miserable condition; as this phrase is used, 1 King. 16. 2. Psal. 113. 7. Compare Job 16. 15. Psal 22. 15. c From the most sordid place and mean Estate. Compare 1 King. 16. 2. Job 20. 11. Psal. 7. 5. c Which the poor are said to embrace, Lam. 4. 5. d Not only possess themselves, but transmit them to their Posterity, as hath oft happened in the World: or possess. e i. e. A glorious Throne or Kingdom. f Either, 1. The foundations of the Earth, which God created, and upholds, and wherewith he sustains the Earth, and all its Inhabitants, as a House is supported with Pillars; and therefore it is not ſtrange if he diſpoſeth of perſons and things therein as he pleaſeth. Or, 2. The Princes or Governours of the Earth, which are called, the corners, or corner-ſtones of a Land or People, Judg. 20.2. 1 Sam. 14. 38. Zeph. 3. 6. and are fitly called Pillars, becauſe they uphold the World, and keep it from ſinking into confuſion: See Pſal. 74. 2. Jer. 1.18. Rev. 3. 12. And theſe are here ſaid to be the Lords, by creation and conſtitution, becauſe he advanceth them to their State, and preſerves them in it; Prov. 8. 15, 16. and puts the world, or the Kingdoms of the World, upon them, as burdens upon their ſhoulders; See Iſa. 9.6.

* Pſal. 91. 11. * Pſal. 94. 14. 9 He * will keep the feet g of his ſaints, and the wicked ſhall be * ſilent h, in darkneſs i, for by ſtrength ſhall no man prevail k.

g i. e. The ſteps or paths, their Counſels and Actions, he will keep, i. e. both uphold, that they may not fall, at leaſt, into Miſchief or utter Ruine; and direct and preſerve from wandring, and from thoſe fatal Miſtakes and Errors that Wicked Men daily run into. h Shall be put to ſilence: they who uſed to open their mouths wide againſt Heaven, and againſt the Saints, ſhall be ſo confounded with the unexpected diſappointment of all their hopes, and with Gods glorious appearance and operations for his People, that they ſhall have their mouths quite ſtopped, and ſit down in ſilent Amazement and Conſternation. See Iſa. 15. 1. Jer. 8. 14. and 47. 5, 6. i Both inward, in their own minds, which are wholly in the dark, perplexed by their own choice and counſels, not knowing what to ſay or do; and outward, in a State of deepeſt diſtreſs and miſery. k To wit, againſt God, or againſt his Saints, as the wicked were confident they ſhould do, becauſe of their great Power, and Wealth, and Numbers: whereas Gods people were mean, and impotent, and helpleſs. And particularly, Peninnah ſhall not prevail againſt me by that ſtrength which ſhe hath, or thinks to have from her numerous off-ſpring. But it is to be obſerved, that although Hannah takes the riſe of this ſong from her own condition, yet ſhe extends her thoughts and words further, even to the uſual methods of Gods Providence in the Government of the World.

* chap. 7. 10. 10 The adverſaries of the LORD l ſhall be broken to pieces m: * out of heaven n ſhall he thunder upon them o: the LORD ſhall judge p the ends of the earth q, and he ſhall give ſtrength unto his king r, and * exalt the horn s of his anointed t. * Pſal. 89. 24.

l And of his People; eſpecially the Philiſtines, who at this time were the chief Oppreſſors of Iſrael. m Theſe and the following words are Prophetical of what God was about to do: They who are now our Lords, ſhall be ſubdued. n i. e. Out of the Clouds or Air, which is oft called Heaven. o As was done, 1 Sam. 7. 10. p i. e. Shall condemn and puniſh, as that Verb by a Synecdoche is oft uſed. q Or, of the land, to wit, the Philiſtines who dwelt in the utmoſt borders of Canaan, even upon the Sea-coaſt. r Either, 1. Unto the Judge or Ruler whom he ſhall ſet up for the Protection and Deliverance of his People; the word King being elſewhere ſo taken. Or, 2. The King properly ſo called: And ſo ſhe propheſieth, That Iſrael ſhould have a King, and that there ſhould be a great difference between King and King; between the Peoples King, Saul, whom they would obſtinately and paſſionately deſire, by whom therefore they ſhould have but little relief; and Gods King David, whom God would chuſe as a man after his own Heart, and whom he would ſtrengthen and aſſiſt ſo, as by his hands to break all his Enemies to pieces. ſ i. e. Increaſe, or advance the ſtrength. t i. e. Of his King. The ſame thing repeated in other Words; Although it may have a Myſtical ſenſe and reſpect to Chriſt, the ſingular Anointed one of God, and the ſpecial King of his People, whom all their other Kings did Typifie and Repreſent, and from whom they received Authority and Power.

11 And Elkanah went to Ramah to his houſe, and the child did miniſter unto the LORD u before Eli the Prieſt x.

u In ſome way agreeable to his tender years, as in Singing, or playing upon Inſtruments of Muſick, as they uſed then to do in Gods Service; or lighting the Lamps, or ſome other way. For, I ſuppoſe, Samuel was not brought to the Tabernacle in ſuch tender years as ſome think: of which, ſee on 1 Sam. 1. 22. x i. e. Under the inſpection, and by the direction and inſtruction of Eli.

12 ¶ Now the ſons of Eli were ſons of Belial, they knew not y the LORD.

y To wit, practically, i. e. They did not acknowledge, honour, regard, love, or ſerve God: for ſo words of knowledge are commonly uſed in Scripture; ſee Rom. 1.28. 1 Cor. 15.34. Tit. 1.16.

* chap. 8. 13 And the prieſts * cuſtome with the people, was, that when any man offered z ſacrifice, the prieſts ſervant came, while the fleſh was in ſeething a, with a fleſh-hook of three teeth in his hand.

z i. e. Preſented it to the Lord, to be offered by the Prieſt. a For as the Lords part of the Peace-offerings was burnt upon the Altar, ſo the Prieſts and offerers parts were to be ſodden.

14 And he ſtrook it into the pan, or kettle, or cauldron, or pot: all that the fleſh-hook brought up, the prieſt took for himſelf b: ſo they did in Shiloh unto all the Iſraelites that came thither.

b Nor contented with the Breaſt and Shoulder which were allotted them by God, Exod. 29. 27, 28. Lev. 7. 31. &c. They took alſo part of the offerers ſhare; and beſides, they ſnatched their part before it was heaved and waved, contrary to Lev. 7. 34.

15 Alſo before they burnt the fat c, the prieſts ſervant came, and ſaid to the man that ſacrificed, Give fleſh to roſte for the prieſt: for he will not have ſodden fleſh of thee, but raw.

c And the other parts to be burnt with it. See Lev. 3. 3, 4, 9. and 7.31. So this was an additional injury; for leſt the fork ſhould miſtake and injure them, they took ſuch parts as they beſt liked whileſt it was raw, when it might be better diſcerned.

16 And if any man ſaid unto him, Let them not fail to burn the fat † preſently, and then take as much as thy ſoul deſireth d: then he would anſwer him, Nay, but thou ſhalt give it me now; and if not, I will take it by force. † Heb. as in the day.

d We are content to relinquiſh our parts to thee, onely let not God be wronged of his due.

17 Wherefore the ſin of the young men was very great e before the LORD f: for men abhorred the offering of the LORD g.

e Becauſe they violently took away both Mans and Gods Dues, and this before their time, and that with manifeſt contempt of God and Men; and all this meerly for the gratifying of their ſenſual Appetite. f i. e. Even in the place of Gods ſpecial preſence, where he ſaw and obſerved all their miſcarriages: which argues the height of impiety and impudence. g They neglected and abhorred the practice of carrying up Sacrifices to be offered, which they knew would be ſo groſly abuſed; and which, as they might think, would be rejected and abhorred by God himſelf; and therefore they would not contribute to the Prieſts Sin, and the corruption of Gods Worſhip; but judged it better to neglect the thing, than to expoſe it to the Prieſts depravation; wherein yet they Erred, as we ſee, ver. 24.

18 ¶ But Samuel miniſtred h before the LORD i, being a child, * girded with a linnen Ephod k. * Exod. 28. 4 h i. e. Performed his Miniſtration carefully and faithfully, not corrupting nor abuſing it, as Eli's Sons did. i In Gods Tabernacle: or as in Gods preſence, ſincerely and regularly, with Gods approbation. Compare Gen. 17. 1. 2 Chron. 26. 4. k A garment uſed in Gods Service, and allowed not onely to the inferior Prieſts and Levites, but alſo to eminent perſons of the People: as 2 Sam. 6. 14, and therefore to Samuel, who though no Levite, was a Nazarite, and that from his Birth.

19 Moreover, his mother made him a little coat l, and brought it to him from year to year, when ſhe came up with her husband, to offer the yearly ſacrifice.

l Suitable to his Age and Stature, to be worn ordinarily: for coats were their uſual Garments. See Gen. 3. 21. and 37. 3. 2 Sam. 15. 32. Cant. 5. 3. Dan. 2. 21. Luk. 3. 11. and 9. 3. Knowing that he could not yet do much ſervice, ſhe would not have him too burdenſome to the Tabernacle, and therefore ſhe yearly provided him with a Coat, which was the chief and upper Garment; and under that his other Garments poſſibly are comprehended.

20 ¶ And Eli bleſſed Elkanah, and his wife m, and ſaid, The LORD give thee ſeed n of this woman, for the ‖ loan which is lent to the LORD o. And they went unto their own home. ‖ Or, Petition which ſhe asked, &c.

m As their Superiour, and Gods High-Prieſt, he Bleſſed them in Gods Name, and they received this Bleſſing by Faith, which made it effectual, ver. 21. n i. e. A child, or rather children, as the Event ſhewed. o Or, for the petition. i. e. the thing deſired, to wit, the Child; which ſhe, thy Wife, asked of the Lord; or, for the Lord: as Chap. 1. 28. to whom accordingly ſhe hath given them. And therefore as ſhe asked him not ſo much for her ſelf, for ſhe ſeldom ſees him; him; as for the Lord, to whose service she hath wholly devoted him: So now I pray, that God would give you other children for both your comfort and enjoyment.

21 And the LORD visited p Hannah, so that she conceived and bare three sons, and two daughters; and the child Samuel grew q before the LORD r.

p To wit, in Mercy, and with his Blessing, as that Word is used Gen. 21. 1. Exod. 13. 19. Jer. 15. 15. not in anger, as it is taken Exod. 32. 34. Lev. 26. 16. q Not onely in Age and Stature; but especially in Wisdom and Goodness, as Luk. 1. 15. Or, was magnified: or grew great, famous and acceptable, as ver. 26. r Not onely before men, who might be deceived, but in the presence and judgment of the All-seeing God.

22 ¶ Now Eli was very old s, and heard all that his sons did unto all Israel t, and how they lay with the women that † assembled u at the door x of the Tabernacle of the Congregation.

‖ Or, assembled by troops or warred. Exod. 38. 8. Numb. 4. 23. and 8. 24.

s And therefore unfit either to manage his Office himself, or to make a diligent inspection into the carriage of his Sons in holy Administrations: which gave them opportunity for their Wickedness. t Whom they injured in their Offerings, and alienated from the Service of God. u Or warred: which expression is used of them, either because they came to the Service and Worship of God in the Tabernacle, which is often called a warfare; or, because they came in considerable Numbers, and due order, like to an Army. x The place where all the people both Men and Women waited when they came up to the Service of God, 1 Sam. 1. 9. 12. Luk. 1. 10. because they could not have admittance into the Tabernacle, and because the Altar on which their Sacrifices were offered, was by the door. Hence it seems probable, that these Women were not such as devoted themselves to the Service of God and of his Tabernacle, either by Fasting and Prayer, &c. Or by Sowing, Spinning, &c. which if then there were any such, had their Stations not at the door, but in divers places allotted to them round about the Tabernacle; but of such as came up to Worship God at his Tabernacle; as Women oft-times did, with their Husbands, as here Hannah did, and the Blessed Virgin Mary, Luk. 2. 41. or with their Parents. And this Exposition may receive strength from Exod. 38. 8. where the very same phrase is used, and that when the great Tabernacle was not yet built, and so there was no occasion for any Women to come to the other less Tabernacle then used, save onely to pray or offer Sacrifices.

23 And he said unto them, Why do ye such things y? for ‖ I hear of your evil dealings by all this people z.

‖ Or, I hear evil words of you.

y As those above-mentioned, ver. 13. and ver. 22. Eli's Sin in this matter was not onely that he reproved them too gently, and generally, and sparingly; but especially, that he contented himself with a Verbal Rebuke, and did not restrain them, as is said, chap. 3. 13. and inflict those punishments upon them, of putting them out of their Priests Office, and cutting them off from Gods People; which such high Crimes deserved by Gods Law, and which he as Judge and High-Priest ought to have done, without all respect of persons. z That dwell here: or come hither to Worship.

24 Nay, my sons: for it is no good report a that I hear, ye make the LORDS people ‖ to transgress b.

‖ Or, to cry out.

a Words too mild for such Diabolical Actions. b Either, 1. The Women that by your instigation were drawn to folly. Or, 2. Others who are easily brought to follow your pernicious Example. Or, 3. Other persons of pious and honest Minds, whom therefore he calls the Lords people by way of distinction from the children of Belial, who were so highly offended with the great dishonour done to God, and to his Worship, and with the horrible Wickedness of the Priests, that upon that occasion, they were hurried into the other Extreme, and lived in the neglect and contempt of their own indispensable duty of offering Sacrifices, because they came through the Priests hands.

† Heb. God shall judge him. Gr. They shall pray for him to the Lord. † Heb. who shall make himself a Judge for him?

25 If one man sin against another c, † the judge shall judge him d: but if a man sin against the LORD e, † who shall intreat for him f? notwithstanding, they hearkened not unto the voice of their father, because the LORD would slay them f.

c By doing any injury. d The Magistrate shall by his Sentence end the difference, and both Parties shall acquiesce in his Determination, and so the Breach shall be made up. The sence is, If onely Man be wronged, Man can right it, and reconcile the persons. e To wit, in such manner as you have done, directly and immediately, in the matters of his Worship and Service, wilfully and presumptuously. f The offence is of so high a nature, that few or none will dare to intercede for him, but will leave him to the just Judgment of God. He speaks after the manner of Men, who do oft intercede with the Prince, for such as have injured any private person; but will not presume to do so when the Injury is committed against his own Person. The Words are, and may be thus rendred, Who shall judge for him? Who shall interpose himself as Umpire, or Arbitrator, between God and him? Who shall compound that Difference? None can or dare do it, and therefore he must be left to the Dreadful, but Righteous Judgment of God: which is your Case and Misery. g i. e. Because God had determined to Destroy them for their many and great Sins; and therefore would not, and did not give them Grace to hearken to Eli's counsel, and to Repent of their Wickedness, but hardned their Hearts to their Destruction.

26 And the child Samuel grew on g, and was in * favour both with the LORD, and also with men. * Prov. 3. 4. Luk. 2. 52. Act. 2. 47. Rom. 14. 18.

g He grew better in bad times, which is remembred to his commendation.

27 ¶ And there came a man of God h unto Eli, and said unto him, Thus saith the LORD, ‖ Did I plainly appear i unto the house of thy father k, when they were in Egypt l, in Pharaohs house m?

‖ Or, in appearing did I appear.

h i. e. A Prophet or Preacher sent from God, See 1 Tim. 6. 11. 2 Tim. 3. 17. 2 Pet. 1 21. Who this was, is not revealed by God, and therefore it is vain to enquire, and impossible to determine. i Did I indeed shew such a favour, and appear so evidently and gloriously to thee, and for thee, and is this thy requital? k i. e. Unto Aaron the Chief of thy Fathers House. l See Exod. 4. 27. m i. e. Either, 1. In Pharaohs Land, the whole Kingdom being as it were one great Family, whereof Pharaoh was the Master. Or, 2. In Pharaohs Court, where Aaron might probably be at the time of this Revelation, either to answer to some Accusation against him, or his Brethren, or to beg some Relaxation of the Rigor, or for some other occasion.

28 And did I chuse him n out of all the tribes of Israel, to be my priest, to offer upon mine altar, to burn incense, to wear an ephod o before me? and * did I give unto the house of thy father all the offerings made by fire p of the children of Israel? * Lev. 10. 14. Numb. 18. 8.

n To wit, Aaron thy father, whereby he shews what he meant by his Fathers House. o That golden Ephod, which was peculiar to the High-Priest. p i. e. All the Priests part of the offerings. He onely had the Office, and ye had the whole benefit.

29 Wherefore kick ye at my sacrifice q, and at mine offering, which I have commanded in my habitation, and honourest thy sons above me r, to make your selves fat s with the chiefest of all the offerings t of Israel my people?

q Using them irreverently, contemptuously, and prophanely; both by abusing them to your own Luxury, and by causing the People to abhor and neglect them. He chargeth Eli with his Sons faults. r Permitting them to dishonour and injure me, by taking my part to themselves; chusing rather to offend me by thy connivence at their sin, than to displease them by severe rebukes, and effectual restraints, and just punishments; and so prefer their will, and pleasure, and honour, before mine. s To pamper your selves. This you did not out of any necessity, but out of meer Luxury. t Not contented with those parts which I had allotted you, you invaded those choice Parts which I reserved for my self.

30 Wherefore the LORD God of Israel saith, I said indeed u, that thy house, and the house of thy father should walk before me x for ever y: but now the LORD saith, be it far from me z: for them that honour me a, I will honour b; and * they that despised me c, shall be lightly esteemed d. * Mal. 2. 9.

u Quest. Where, or when did God say this? Answ. Either, 1. When he made that promise for the perpetuation of the Priesthood in Aarons Family, Exod. 28. 43. and 29. 9. Object. If Eli and all his Family had been cut off, yet that promise had been made good in Eleazars Family: how then was that promise recalled by this Sentence against Eli? Answ. It was recalled and made void, though not absolutely and universally to all Aarons Family; yet respectively to Eli and his Family, which were wholly excluded from the benefit of it, wherein otherwise they should have shared.

Even as Gods keeping of the Iſraelites out of Canaan, and in the Wilderneſs for Forty years, and deſtroying them there, is called his breach of promiſe, Numb. 14. 34. although the Promiſe of Canaan was not ſimply made void to all the Iſraelites, but onely to that evil Generation of them: Or, as Gods Covenant with David, and with his Seed, of which God ſaith, that it ſhould ſtand faſt, Pſal. 89. 28. and that he would not break nor alter it, vrr. 34. yet is ſaid to be made void, vr. 39. to wit, in regard of ſome particular branches, or members of that Family. Or, 2. To Eli himſelf, or to his Father, when the Prieſthood was tranſlated from Eleazars to Ithamars Family for ſome cauſe not mentioned in Scripture, but moſt probably for ſome great miſcarriage of ſome of them. If it be ſaid, That there is no ſuch Promiſe Recorded in Scripture; it may be ſo replyed, That there are many ſayings and doings noted in Holy Scripture, which were not ſpoken of in their proper times and places, as Gen. 24. 51. and 42. 21. Hoſ. 12. 4. Luk. 11. 49. Act. 20. 25. So the ſence of the place may be this, That promiſe and priviledge of the perpetuation of the Prieſthood in Phinehas and his Family, made to them Numb. 25. 12. namely upon condition of his and their faithfulneſs in their Office, which is plainly underſtood, I now take away from that Family for their wickedneſs, and I transfer it to thee and thine, and will fix it there upon the ſame condition. x i. e. Miniſter unto me as High-Prieſt. Walking is oft put for Diſcharging ones Office; before me, may ſignifie that he was the High-Prieſt, whoſe ſole Prerogative it was to Miniſter before God, or before the Ark, in the Moſt Holy Place. y As long as the Moſaical Law and Worſhip laſted, as that Phraſe is oft uſed. z To wit, to fulfil my promiſe, which I repent of, and hereby retract. a That Worſhip and ſerve me with Reverence and Godly Fear, and according to my Will, which I eſteem as an Honour done to me. b I will advance them to Honour, and maintain them in it. c Not formally and directly; for ſo Eli's Sons did not deſpiſe God; but indirectly and by conſequence, by preſumptuous diſobedience of my Commands; by defiling and diſgracing my Worſhip and Ordinances, either by tranſgreſſing the Rules I have given them therein, or by their ungodly and ſhameful Converſation; and by making my ſervice contemptible and abominable to others through their ſcandals; all which are manifeſt Arguments of Contempt of God, and are ſo called as Numb. 11. 20. 1 Sam. 12. 9, 10. Mal. 1. 8. and all which were eminently found in Eli's ſons. d Both by God and Men.

* 1 King. 2. 27. See chap. 4. 11, 18. and 22. 18. &c.

31 Behold, * the days come, that I will cut off thine arm e, and the arm of thy fathers houſe f, that there ſhall not be an old man in thine houſe g.

e i. e. I will take away thy ſtrength, which is oft ſignified by the arm, as Job 22. 8. Pſal. 37. 17. or all that in which thou placeſt thy confidence and ſecurity: either, 1. The Ark, which is called Gods ſtrength, Pſal. 78. 61. and was Eli's ſtrength, who therefore was not able to bear the very tidings of the loſs of it, chap. 4. 18. Or, 2. His Prieſtly dignity or employment, whence he had all his Honour and Subſtance. Or rather, 3. His Children, to whom the words following here, and in the ſucceeding Verſes, ſeem to confine it, who are the ſtrength of Parents: ſee Gen. 49. 3, Deut. 21. 17. Pſal. 127. 4. 5. f i. e. Thy Childrens Children, and all thy Family: which was in great meaſure accompliſhed, 1 Sam. 22. 16, &c. g They ſhall generally be cut off by an untimely Death, before they be old.

‖ Or, the affliction of the Tabernacle, for all the wealth which God would have given Iſrael.

* See Zech. 8. 4.

32 And thou ſhalt ſee ‖ an enemy in my habitation, in all the wealth which God ſhall give Iſrael k, and there ſhall not be an old * man in thine houſe for ever i.

h So the ſenſe is, Thou ſhalt ſee, not in thy Perſon, but in thy Poſterity; (it being moſt frequent in Scripture to attribute that to Parents, which properly belongs to their Poſterity only; as Gen. 17. 8. and 27. 29, 40.) an enemy, i. e. thy Competitor, or him who ſhall poſſeſs that place of high Truſt and Honour which now thou enjoyeſt; (ſuch perſons being through Mans corrupt Nature eſteemed as a mans worſt Enemy:) in my habitation, i. e. in the Sanctuary. And then he adds by way of Aggravation, that this ſad Accident ſhould happen, in all the wealth which God ſhall give Iſrael, i. e. In a time when God ſhould eminently bleſs Iſrael, and make good all his Promiſes to them, which was in Solomon's days, when Abiathar of Eli's Race was put out of the High-Prieſthood, and Zadock was put in his place, 1 King. 2. 27. 35. when the Prieſthood was moſt glorious, and moſt profitable and comfortable; and therefore the loſs of it more deplorable. But the words may be otherwiſe rendered, as is noted in the Margent of our Engliſh Bibles; Thou ſhalt ſee, to wit, in thy own perſon, the affliction, or oppreſſion, or calamity of my habitation i. e. either of the Land of Iſrael, wherein I dwell; or of the Sanctuary, called the habitation by way of Eminency, whoſe greateſt glory the Ark was; 1 Sam. 4. 21, 22. and conſequently, whoſe greateſt Calamity the loſs of the Ark was; for, or inſtead of all that good wherewith God would have bleſſed Iſrael, or was about to bleſs Iſrael; having raiſed up a young Prophet Samuel, and thereby given good grounds of hope that he intended to bleſs Iſrael, if Thou and thy Sons had not hindred it by your Sins, which God was reſolved ſeverely to puniſh. So this clauſe of the Threatning concerns Eli's Perſon, as the following concerns his Poſterity. And this beſt agrees with the moſt proper and uſual ſignification of that phraſe, Thou ſhalt ſee. i i. e. As long as the Prieſthood continues in thy Family; or as long as the Levitical Prieſthood laſts.

33 And the man of thine k, whom I ſhall not cut off from mine altar l, ſhall be to conſume thine eyes, and to grieve thine heart m: and all the increaſe of thine houſe n ſhall die † in the flower of their age o.

† Heb. Men.

k i. e. Thoſe of thy Poſterity. l i. e. From attendance upon mine Altar, whom I ſhall not deſtroy, but ſuffer to live, and wait at the Altar. m Shall be ſo forlorn and miſerable, that if thou waſt alive to ſee it, it would grieve thee at the very heart, and thou wouldſt conſume thine Eyes with weeping for their Calamities. So the phraſe is like that of Rachel weeping for her children, Jer. 31. 15. which were ſlain long after her Death. n i. e. Thy Children. o About the Thirtieth year of their Age, when they were to be admitted to the plenary Adminiſtration of their Office, Num. 4. 3. then they ſhall die.

34 And this ſhall be a ſign unto thee p, that ſhall come upon thy two ſons, on Hophni and Phinehas: in one day they ſhall die both of them q.

p To wit, of the certain truth of all thoſe ſad predictions. q And ſo they did, chap. 4. 11.

35 And I will raiſe me up * a faithful Prieſt r, that ſhall do according to that which is in my heart ſ, and in my mind, and I will build him a ſure houſe t, and he ſhall walk u before mine anointed x for ever.

* Ezek. 44. 15.

r To wit, of another Line, as is neceſſarily implied by the total removal of that Office from Eli's Line, before threatned. The perſon deſigned is Zadok, one eminent for his Faithfulneſs to God, and to the King, who, when Abiathar, the laſt of Eli's Line, was Depoſed by Solomon, was made High-Prieſt in his ſtead. 1 King. 2. 27, 35. 1 Chron. 29. 22. ſ And ſhall not diſhonour or diſobey me, to gratify his Sons, as thou haſt done. t i. e. Give him a numerous Poſterity, as that phraſe is uſed, Exod. 1. 21. 2 Sam. 7. 11. 1 King. 11. 38. and confirm that ſure Covenant of an everlaſting Prieſthood made to Phinehas, of Eleazar's Line, Num. 25. 13. and interrupted for a little while by Eli, and his, of the Line of Ithamar, unto him and his Children for ever. And this was manifeſtly verified until the Babyloniſh Captivity, Ezek. 44. 15. and there is no reaſon to doubt of its continuance in the ſame Line till Chriſt came. u i. e. Miniſter as High-Prieſt. x Either, Firſt, Before King Solomon, who was Anointed King, 1 King 1. 39. and before the ſucceeding Kings, who are commonly called Anointed, or the Lords Anointed, as 1 Sam. 12. 3. 5. and 24. 6, 10. Pſal. 89. 38, 51. Lam. 4. 20. Or rather, Secondly, Before Jeſus Chriſt; Firſt, Becauſe this Title of Anointed, or Chriſt, or Meſſias, (both which words ſignifie only the Anointed) is moſt frequently and eminently Aſcribed to Chriſt, both in the Old and New Teſtament, and therefore it is moſt reaſonable to underſtand it of him, when there is nothing in the Text or Context which Determines it to any other. Secondly, Chriſt is the main Scope and Deſign, not only of the New, but of the Old Teſtament, which in all its Types and Ceremonies repreſented Chriſt; and particularly, the High-Prieſt was an eminent Type of Chriſt, and did Repreſent his Perſon, and Act in his Name and Stead, and did mediately, what John Baptiſt did immediately, go before the face of the Lord Chriſt; and when Chriſt did come, that Office and Officer was to ceaſe. Thirdly, The High-Prieſt is ſeldom or never ſaid to Walk or Miniſter before the Kings of Iſrael or Judah, but conſtantly before the Lord, and conſequently, before Chriſt, who, as he was God Bleſſed for ever, Rom. 9. 5. was preſent with, and the Builder and Governour of the Ancient Church of Iſrael, as is manifeſt from Act. 7. 35. 1 Cor. 10. 4. Heb. 3. 3, 4, 5, 6. and many other places; and their Temple is particularly called his Temple, Mal. 3. 1. becauſe all the Temple-worſhip was performed in his preſence, and had a ſpecial reſpect unto him, and therefore the High-Prieſt is moſt properly ſaid to walk before him.

36 And it ſhall come to paſs, that every one that is left in thine houſe ſhall come † and crouch to him y for a piece of ſilver, and a morſel of bread z, and ſhall ſay, † Put me, I pray thee, into ‖ one of the prieſts Offices *, that I may eat a piece of bread.

† Heb. join.
‖ Or, ſomewhat about the Prieſthood.

See Ezek. 44. 10, 11, &c. Quest. How could they be reduced to so great straits, seeing, though they lost the High-Priesthood, they still were inferior Priests, and had a right to those plentiful provisions which belonged to that Order? Ans. First, They might be degraded not only from the Office of the High Priest, but also from that of the Inferiour Priests, and consequently might forfeit and lose all the priviledges belonging to their Office. Secondly, This might be from the Tyranny and Violence of some of the succeeding Priests of Eleazar's Line, towards that other Line which had long stood in competition with them, and had for a season got away the Priesthood from them. For this Text only relates the matter of Fact, but doth not express any Approbation of it.

CHAP. III.

AND the child Samuel ministred unto the LORD before Eli a: and the word of the LORD b was precious c in those days: there was no open vision d.

a i. e. Under his inspection and direction, which, being so young, he needed. b To wit, the word of prophesie, or the Revelation of Gods will to and by prophets. c i. e. Rare or Scarce, such things being most precious in Mens esteem, whereas common things are generally despised. d God did not impart his mind by way of Vision or Revelation openly, or to any publick person, to whom others might resort for satisfaction, though he might or did privately reveal himself to some pious persons for their particular Direction. This is here premised, as a reason why Samuel understood not, when God called him once or twice.

2 And it came to pass at that time, when Eli was laid down in his place e, and his eyes began to wax dim, that he could not see f; e In the Court of the Tabernacle. f To wit, clearly and distinctly. This is added, as an Evidence of his Old Age, partly to shew God's contempt of him, notwithstanding his Venerable Age, and his preferring the child Samuel before him in this vision; and partly, as the reason why Samuel so readily ran to him upon the first call, because his great Age made him more to need his Servants help.

3 And ere the lamp of God went out g in the temple h of the LORD, where the ark of God was, and Samuel was laid down to sleep i.

g Before the Lights of the Golden Candlestick were put out, i. e. in the Night-season, or before the Morning, when they were put out, as they were Lighted in the Evening, Exod. 27. 21. Levit. 24. 3. 2 Chron. 13. 11. h i. e. In a place nigh to the Tabernacle, the particle in being oft used for near, as hath been shewed formerly; for in the Tabernacle or Temple none might lie. i Not that this happened when he first lay down, but whilst he was lying there.

4 That the LORD called Samuel, and he answered, Here am I.

5 And he ran k unto Eli, and said, Here am I, for thou calledst me. And he said, I called not; lie down again. And he went and lay down.

k Shewing his great Faithfulness and Diligence in the Service, either of the Lord, or of his Master Eli.

6 And the LORD called yet again, Samuel. And Samuel arose, and went to Eli, and said, Here am I, for thou didst call me. And he answered, I called not, my son; lie down again.

‖ Or, thus did Samuel before he knew the LORD, and before the word of the LORD was revealed unto him.

7 ‖ Now Samuel did not yet know the LORD l, neither was the word of the LORD yet revealed unto him.

l Either, First, He was not acquainted with God in that Extraordinary or Prophetical way. Or rather, Secondly, He did not understand, any more than before, that it was not Eli, but God, who spake to him. And this ignorance of Samuel's served Gods Design, that his simplicity might give Eli the better assurance of the truth of Gods call, and message to Samuel.

8 And the LORD called Samuel again the third time. And he arose, and went to Eli m, and said, Here am I, for thou didst call me. And Eli perceived n that the LORD had called the child.

m He persists in the same readiness to obey and serve him, and was not discouraged or driven from his Duty by his double mistake and disappointment. n By the consideration of Samuel's piety, of the Sanctity of the place adjoyning, from whence God had oft-times spoken, and of the Solitude of the place, where there was no human person besides himself, who could or would have called Samuel in that manner.

9 Therefore Eli said unto Samuel, Go, lie down: and it shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, Speak LORD, for thy servant heareth o. So Samuel went, and lay down in his place.

o i. e. I am ready to hear what thou speakest, and to do what thou requirest.

10 And the LORD came p, and stood q, and called as at other times r, Samuel, Samuel s. Then Samuel answered, Speak, for thy servant heareth.

p Before, he spake to him at a distance, even from the Holy Oracle between the Cherubims; but now, to prevent all further mistakes, the Voice came near to him, as if the person speaking had been present with him. q Before the Voice passed by him, now the speaker fixeth his abode with him for a time, till he had uttered his whole mind to him. r As he had done before. s His Name is here doubled, to engage him to the more speedy and diligent attention.

11 ¶ And the LORD said to Samuel, Behold, I will do a thing t in Israel, at which both the ears of * every one that heareth it, shall tingle u. * 2 King. 21. 12.

t Those things which are related in the next Chapter, which though done by the Philistines, God here ascribes to himself, because he was the first and chief cause of it, by withdrawing his helping hand from Israel, and by delivering the Ark, and Eli's two Sons, and the rest of the people, into his and their Enemies hands. u Which will be so terrible, that not only those that feel it shall groan under it, but those that only hear the report of it, shall be struck with such Amazement and Horror, which will make their Heads and Hearts ake. A Metaphor from him, who being surprized with some great and hideous Noise, such as Thunder or great Guns, his head is much affected with it, and the Sound or Tingling of it abides in his Ears a good while after it. This Phrase is used also, 2 King. 21. 12. Jer. 19. 3.

12 In that day x I will † perform against Eli * all things which I have spoken y concerning his house: † when I begin, I will also make an end z. † Heb. establish. * chap. 2. 30. † Heb. beginning and ending.

x In that time which I have appointed for this work, which was about Twenty or Thirty Years after this threatning. So long space of Repentance God allows to this wicked Generation, to make their peace with God, and prevent the Execution, as others did in like cases. y By that Prophet, chap. 2. 27. z Though this Vengeance may and shall be delayed for a season, to manifest my patience, and incite them to Repentance; yet when once I begin to Inflict, I shall certainly go on with it, and not desist till I have made a full end.

13 ‖ * For I have told him, that I will judge a his house b for ever c, for the iniquity which he knoweth d: because his sons made themselves ‖ vile e, and he † restrained them not f. ‖ Or, and I will tell him, &c. * chap. 2. 29, 30, 31, &c. ‖ Or, accursed. † Heb. frowned not upon them.

a i. e. Condemn, and punish and destroy, as the word Judge is oft used, as Gen. 15. 14. Job. 3. 18. and 16. 11. b His Children, and Posterity, as is manifest by the Story; as the word House is frequently taken, as 2 Sam. 7. 11. 1 King. 21. 29. So the House of Judah, of Aaron, of David, are oft taken for their posterity. And to build an House in Scripture use, is to encrease their posterity, as Exod. 1. 21. Deut. 25. 9. Ruth 4. 11. Compare Gen. 16. 2. and 30. 3. c Till they be utterly rooted out: or, for a long time, as that phrase is oft used. d Either by the information of the prophet, chap. 2. ver. 27, &c. or by his own guilty and self-accusing Conscience. But these, and the foregoing and following words, may well be, and are rendred thus, for this iniquity, because he knew (both by common Fame, and by his own observation) that his Sons, &c. He cannot pretend ignorance, or want of proof of their wickedness, which aggravates his Sin. e Not only hateful to God, but contemptible to all the people, whereby they also brought the Sacred Office, and Gods Holy Ordinances into contempt. Heb. Cursed themselves, or made themselves Execrable or Accursed, both to God and men: by their Lewd and Cursed practices, they put themselves under the Curse of God, by such a gross Violation of Gods Commands; Compare Jos. 6. 18. and 7. 12, 13. This expression may be used by way of reflection upon their Father, because he did not denounce the Curse of God

God against them, nor put them out of the Priesthood, as Accursed Persons, although they were so Vile, that they had prevented their Fathers censure, and Meritoriously cast themselves out, and cut themselves off from the Priesthood and Congregation of the Lord, which their Father should have done Judicially. f He contented himself with a cold and gentle reproof, and did not severely rebuke, and punish, and effectually restrain them from their abominable Courses, nor use that Authority which God had given him, as a Father, as an High-Priest, and as a Judge, or Chief Magistrate, against them, as by the Law of God he was obliged to do.

14 And therefore I have sworn g unto h the house of Eli, that the iniquity of Eli's house shall not be purged with sacrifice, nor offering for ever.

g Which might be done before, though it be mentioned here only. Or, I do swear: the past Tense being commonly put for the present in the Hebrew Tongue. h Or, concerning, as the præfix Lamed is oft used, as Exod. 14. 3. and 18. 7. 2 Sam. 13. 7. Psal. 91. 11. compare with Matth. 4. 6. i i. t. The punishment threatned against Eli and his Family, shall not be prevented or hindred by all their Sacrifices, as they fondly imagine, but shall Infallibly be Executed.

15 And Samuel lay until morning, and opened the doors of the house of the LORD k: and Samuel feared to shew Eli the vision l.

k Although the Tabernacle, whilst it was to be removed from place to place in the Wilderness, had no Doors, but consisted only of Curtains, and had only Hangings before the entrance, instead of Doors; yet when it was settled in one place, as now it was in Shiloh, where it had been for a long time, it is more than probable, both from this place, and by comparing 1 Sam. 1. 9. and 2 Sam. 6. 17. and from the Nature and Reason of the thing, that it was inclosed within some solid Building, which had Doors, and Posts, and other parts belonging to it. l i. t. The matter of the Vision or Revelation, partly from the Reverence and Respect he bore to his person, to whom he was loath to be a messenger of such sad tidings; partly, lest if he had been hasty to utter it, Eli might think him Guilty of Arrogancy or secret complacency in his calamity, which was like to tend to Samuel's advancement. And not being commanded by God to acquaint Eli herewith, he prudently suspended the publication of it, till a fit occasion were offered, which he might reasonably expect in a very little time, knowing that Eli would be greedy to know the matter of that Revelation, the Preface whereof he was acquainted with; and that it would be less offensive, and therefore more useful to Eli, when he saw that Samuel was not puffed up with it, nor forward to vent it, until Eli forced it from him.

16 Then Eli called Samuel, and said, Samuel my son. And he answered, Here am I.

17 And he said, What is the thing that the LORD hath said unto thee? I pray thee, hide it not from me: God do so to thee, and † more also m, if thou hide any ‖ thing from me of all the things that he said unto thee.

† Heb. to add. ‖ Or, word.

m God inflict the same Evils upon thee, which I suspect he hath pronounced against me, and greater Evils too. Or, God do so, i. t. let God deal with thee so severely, as I cannot or am loath to express. So it is a kind of Aposiopesis usual in Oaths, and in Adjurations. The same phrase is in Ruth 1. 17. Thus he adjures him to utter the whole truth, as was usual among the Hebrews, as 1 King. 22. 16. Matth. 26. 63.

18 And Samuel told him † every whit, and hid nothing from him. And he said, It is the LORD n: Let him do what seemeth him good.

† Heb. all the things or words.

n This severe Sentence is from the Sovereign Lord of the World, who hath an absolute Power and Right to dispose of me and all his Creatures as he pleaseth; to whose good pleasure I therefore freely submit: from Israel's God, who was known by this Name of Jehovah, who is in a special manner the Ruler of the People of Israel, to whom it properly belongs to punish all mine offences; whose chastisement I therefore accept.

19 ¶ And Samuel grew o, and the LORD was with him, and did let none of his words * fall to the ground p.

* 1 King. 8. 56.

o As in Stature, so in Wisdom and Piety, and Gods Favour, and Reputation with the People. p i. e. Want its effect or success: God made good all his Predictions. A Metaphor from precious Liquors, which when they are spilt upon the Ground, are altogether useless and ineffectual. This phrase is oft used, as Jos. 21. 45. Esth. 6. 10, &c.

20 And all Israel, from Dan even to Beersheba q, knew r that Samuel was ‖ established to be a prophet of the LORD.

q Through the whole Land, from the Northern Bound Dan, to the Southern, Beersheba; which was the whole length, and largest extent of the Land. See Judg. 20. 1, 2. 2 Sam. 17. 11. r Both by Eli's Testimony, and particular Relation of the foregoing History, to the People that came from all parts; and by succeeding Revelations made to him, whereof mention is made in the next Verse, which though placed after, might be done before.

21 And the LORD appeared again in Shiloh: for the LORD revealed himself to Samuel s in Shiloh, by the word of the LORD t.

s Or, did use to Reveal his mind to Samuel. t i. t. By his word, the Noun for the Pronoun, which is frequent, as Lev. 14. 15, &c. by his word of command, which he chose to deliver to Israel by his Mouth, as it here follows; or by his word of Prophesie concerning future events.

CHAP. IV.

AND the word of Samuel a ‖ † came to all Israel. Now Israel went out against the Philistines b to battel, and pitched beside Eben-ezer c: and the Philistines pitched in Aphek d.

‖ Or, came to pass. † Heb. was.

a i. e. The Word of the Lord revealed to Samuel, and by him to the People; Either, First, The Prophetical Word mentioned before, chap. 3. 11, &c. which is here said to come, or to come to pass, as it was foretold, to all Israel. But the subject of that Prophesie was not all Israel, but Eli and his House, as is evident. Or rather, Secondly, A Word of command, that all Israel should go forth to Fight with the Philistines, as the following Words explain it, that so they might be first humbled and punished for their Sins, and so prepared by degrees for their future Deliverance. b Or, to meet the Philistines, who having by this time recruited themselves after their great loss by Sampson, Judg. 16. 30. and perceiving an eminent Prophet arising among them, by whom they were likely to be United, Counselled and Assisted, thought fit to Suppress them in the beginning of their Hopes and Designs of Rescuing themselves from their power. c A place so called here (by Anticipation) from a following event, chap. 7. 12. d A City so called in the Tribe of Judah, Jos. 15. 53. upon the Borders of the Philistines Country: not that Aphek in Asher, Jos. 19. 30. Judg. 1. 31. which was very remote from them.

2 And the Philistines put themselves in aray against Israel: and when † they joyned battel e, Israel was smitten before the Philistines: and they slew of † the army in the field, about four thousand men.

† Heb. the battel was spread. † Heb. the army.

e Heb. When the Battel was spread, i. t. when the two Armies had drawn forth themselves into Military Order, and put themselves into the usual posture for fighting, and began to fight in their several places.

3 ¶ And when the people were come into the camp, the elders of Israel said, Wherefore hath the LORD smitten us to day before the Philistines f? Let us † fetch the ark of the covenant of the LORD g out of Shiloh unto us, that when it cometh among us, it may save us out of the hand of our enemies.

† Heb. take unto us.

f Seeing our Cause is so just, our own just and necessary Defence from Gods and our Enemies, and we came not forth to Battel by our own motion, but by Gods command delivered by Samuel. This was strange blindness, that when there was so great a corruption in their Worship and Manners, chap. 2. and such a Defection to Idolatry, chap. 7. 3. Psal. 78. 58. they could not see sufficient reason why God should suffer them to fall by their Enemies. g That great pledge of Gods presence and help, by whose Conduct our Ancestors obtained success, Numb. 10. 35. and 14. 44. Jos. 6. 4. instead of the performance of Moral Duties, humbling themselves deeply for, and purging themselves speedily and throughly from all their Sins, for which God was displeased with them, and now had chastised them, they take an easier and cheaper course, and put their trust in their Ceremonial Observances, not doubting but the very presence of the Ark would give them the Victory. And therefore it is no wonder they meet with so sad a disappointment.

4 So the people sent to Shiloh, that they might bring bring from thence the ark h of the covenant of the LORD of hosts, which dwelleth between the * cherubims: and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas were there i with the ark k of the covenant of God.

* Exod. 25. 18, 22.

h Which it may seem they should not have done without asking Counsel of God, which they might easily have done by Samuel. i Either, First, In the camp. Or rather, Secondly, In Shiloh. k Attending upon it, instead of their Aged Father.

5 And when the ark of the covenant of the LORD came into the camp, all Israel shouted with a great shout l, so that the earth rang again.

l Partly, from their great joy and confidence of success; and partly, in Design to encourage themselves, and terrifie their Enemies.

6 And when the Philistines heard the noise of the shout, they said, What meaneth the noise of this great shout in the camp of the Hebrews? And they understood m that the ark of the LORD was come into the camp.

m By information from the Israelites, who would readily tell them of it to affright them.

7 And the Philistines were afraid, for they said, God is come n into the camp. And they said, Wo unto us: for there hath not been such a thing † heretofore o.

† Heb. yesterday, or, the third day.

n To wit, in and with his Ark: or, they give the Name of God to the Ark, before which he was Worshipped, as they used to do to the Images of their false gods. o Not to our knowledge, or not in our times; for the forementioned removals of the Ark were before it came to Shiloh.

8 Wo unto us: who shall deliver us out of the hand of these mighty Gods p? these are the Gods that smote the Egyptians with all the plagues in the wilderness q.

p They secretly confess the Lord to be higher and greater than their gods, and yet against their knowledge presume to oppose him. q They mention the Wilderness, not as if all the Plagues of the Egyptians came upon them in the Wilderness, but because the last and sorest of all, which is therefore put for all; to wit, the Destruction of Pharaoh and all his Host, happened in the Wilderness, namely, in the Red-Sea, which having the Wilderness on both sides of it, Exod. 13. 18, 20. and 14. 3. 11. and 15. 22, &c. may well be said to be in the Wilderness. Although it is not strange if these Heathens did mistake and misreport some Circumstances in a Relation of the Israelitish Affairs, especially some hundreds of Years after they were done, such mistakes being frequent in divers Heathen Authors, treating of those matters, as Justin, and Tacitus, and others.

9 Be strong, and quit your selves like men r, O ye Philistines, that ye be not servants unto the Hebrews, * as they have been to you: † quit your selves like men, and fight.

* Judg. 13. 1.
† Heb. be men.

r Since you can expect no relief from your gods, who are not able to resist theirs, it concerns you to put forth all your Strength and Courage, and once for all to act like brave and valiant Men.

10 ¶ And the Philistines fought, * and Israel was smitten, and they fled every man into his tent s: and there was a very great slaughter, for there fell of Israel thirty thousand t footmen u.

* Psal. 78. 9.

s i. e. To his Habitation, called by the Ancient Name of his Tent. t Before they lost but 4000, now in the presence of the Ark 30000, to teach them that the Ark and Ordinances of God, were never Designed for Sanctuaries or Refuges to impenitent Sinners, but only for the comfort and Relief of those that Repent. u Horsemen are not mentioned; Either, First, Because they had few or none, God having forbidden the multiplication of their Horses, Deut. 17. 16. and the Philistines, their Lords and Oppressors, having taken away what they had. Or, Secondly, Because they fled away, as is usual in such Cases, whilst the Footmen were more easily overtaken.

11 And * the ark of God was taken x, and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas † were slain.

* Psal. 78. 61.
† Heb. died.

x Which God justly and wisely permitted; partly, to punish the Israelites for their Profanation of it: partly, that by taking away the pretences of their Foolish and Impious confidence, he might more deeply humble them, and bring them to true Repentance: partly, that the Philistines might by this means be more effectually convinced of Gods Almighty Power, and of their own, and their gods Impotency, and so a stop might be put to their Triumphs and Insultations, and to their Rage against the poor Israelites, whom otherwise in human appearance they might easily have rooted out. Thus as God was no loser by this event, so the Philistines were no gainers by it; and Israel, all things considered, received more good than hurt by it, as we shall see.

12 ¶ And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the army, and came to Shiloh the same day, with his clothes rent, and with * earth upon his head y.

* Job 2. 12.

y The usual Rites in great sorrows; See Gen. 37. 29. Jos. 7. 6, &c. 2 Sam. 1. 2, 11.

13 And when he came, lo, Eli sate upon * a seat z by the way side, watching: for his heart trembled for the ark of God a. And when the man came into the city, and told it, all the city cried out.

* chap. 1. 9.

z Placed there on purpose for him, that he might soon receive the Tidings which he longed for. a Whereby he discovered a publick and generous spirit, and a fervent Zeal for God, and for his Honour and Service, which he preferred before all his Natural Affections and Worldly Interests, not regarding his own Children in comparison of the Ark, though otherwise he was a most Indulgent Father, and had reason to believe that they went out like Sheep for the slaughter, according to Samuel's Prediction.

14 And when Eli heard the noise of the crying, he said, What meaneth the noise of this tumult? And the man came in hastily, and told Eli.

15 Now Eli was ninety and eight years old, and * his eyes † were dim, that he could not see.

* chap. 3. 2.
† Heb. stood.

16 And the man said unto Eli, I am he that came out of the army b, and I fled to day out of the army. And he said, What † is there done, my son?

† Heb. is the thing.

b I speak not what I have by uncertain Rumors, but what mine Eyes were Witnesses of.

17 And the messenger answered and said, Israel is fled before the Philistines, and there hath been also a great slaughter among the people, and thy two sons also, Hophni and Phinehas are dead, and the ark of God is taken.

18 And it came to pass when he made mention of the ark of God, that he fell from off the seat backward c, by the side of the gate d, and his neck brake, and he died: for he was an old man, and heavy e, and he had judged Israel f forty years.

c Being so oppressed with Grief and Astonishment, that he had no Strength left to support him. d To wit, the Gate of the City, which was most convenient for the speedy understanding of all Occurrences. e Old, and therefore weak and apt to fall; Heavy, and therefore his fall more dangerous and pernicious. f He was their Supreme Governor, both in Civils and Spirituals.

19 ¶ And his daughter in law, Phinehas wife, was with child, near ‖ to be delivered: and when she heard the tidings that the ark of God was taken, and that her father in law, and her husband were dead, she bowed her self, and travelled; for her pains † came upon her g.

‖ Or, to cry out.
† Heb. were turned.

g To wit, before her time, which is oft the effect of great Terrors, both in Women, and in other Creatures, Psal. 29. 9.

20 And about the time of her death, the women that stood by her, said unto her, Fear not, for thou hast born a son. But she answered not, † neither did she regard it h.

† Heb. set not her heart.

h Being overwhelmed with Sorrow, and so uncapable of Comfort.

21 And

‖ That is, Where is the glory? ‖ Or, There is no glory. * chap. 14. 3.

21 And she named the child ‖ Ichabod, saying, ‖ * The glory i is departed from Israel (because the ark of God was taken, and because of her father in law, and her husband.)

i i. e. The glorious Type and assurance of Gods presence, the Ark, which is oft called Gods Glory, Psal. 26. 8. and 78. 61. Isa. 64. 11. and which was the great safeguard and Ornament of Israel, which they could glory in above all other Nations.

22 And she said, The glory is departed from Israel, for the ark of God is taken k.

k This is repeated to shew her Piety, and that the publick and Spiritual loss lay heavier upon her spirit, than her Personal or Domestick Calamity.

CHAP. V.

AND the Philistines took the ark of God a, and brought it from Eben-Ezer b unto Ashdod c.

a Quest. Why were not they immediately killed, who touched the Ark, as afterwards Uzzah was? 2 Sam. 6. 7. Ans. First, Because the Sin of the Philistines was not so great, because the Law forbidding this, was not given, or at least was not known to them; whereas Uzzah's Fact was a transgression, and that of a known Law. Secondly, Because God designed to reserve the Philistines for a more publick and more shameful punishment, which had been prevented by this. b Where they found it in the Camp of the Israelites, chap. 4. 1. c Called also Azotus: whither they brought it, either because it was the first City in their way, or rather because it was a great and famous City, and most eminent for the worship of their great God Dagon.

2 When the Philistines took the ark of God, they brought it into the house of Dagon, and set it by Dagon d.

d Either, First, Out of respect to it, that it might be worshipped together with Dagon. Or rather, Secondly, By way of reproach and contempt of it, as a Spoil and Trophy set there to the honour of Dagon, to whom doubtless they ascribed this Victory, as they did a former, Judg. 16. 23. And though they had some reverence for the Ark before, chap. 4. 7, &c. Yet that was certainly much diminished by their success against Israel, notwithstanding the presence and help of the Ark.

3 ¶ And when they of Ashdod e arose early on the morrow f, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the earth, before the ark of the LORD: and they took Dagon, and set him in his place again g.

e i. e. The Priests of Dagon. f Either to worship Dagon according to their manner: or being curious and greedy to know whether the Neighbourhood of the Ark to Dagon had made any alteration in either of them, that if Dagon had received any Dammage, they might, if possibly they could, repair it, before it came to the Peoples knowledge, as indeed they did, to prevent their contempt of that Idol, by which the Priests had all their Reputation and Advantage. g Supposing or pretending that his fall was wholly casual.

4 And when they arose early on the morrow morning, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the ground, before the ark of the LORD, and the head of Dagon, and both the palms of his hands ‖ Or, the fishy part. were cut off h upon the threshold, onely ‖ the stump of Dagon i was left to him k.

h The Head is the Seat of Wisdom; the Hands, the Instruments of Action: both are cut off, to shew that he had neither Wisdom nor Strength to Defend himself, nor his worshippers. Thus the Priests by concealing Dagon's shame before, make it more evident and infamous. i Heb. Only Dagon, i. e. that part of it from which it was called Dagon, to wit, the Fishy part, for Dag in Hebrew signifies a Fish. And hence their Opinion seems most probable, that this Idol of Dagon had in its upper parts an humane shape, and in its lower parts the Form of a Fish; for such was the Form of divers of the Heathen gods, and particularly of a god of the Phœnicians (under which Name the Philistines are comprehended) as Diodorus Siculus, and Lucian, both witness, though they call it by another Name. k Or, upon it, i. e. upon the Threshold, there the Trunk abode in the place where it fell, but the Head and Hands being violently cut off, were flung to distant and several places.

5 Therefore neither the priests of Dagon, nor any that come into Dagons house, tread on the threshold † of l Dagon in Ashdod unto this day m. † Heb. Of the Temple.

l Out of a Religious Reverence, supposing this place to be Sanctified by the touch of their god, who first fell here, and being broken here, touched it more thoroughly than he did other parts. This Superstition of theirs was Noted and censured long after, Zephan. 1. 9. Herein they manifested their stupendious Folly, both in making a perpetual Monument of their own and Idols shame, which in all reason they should rather have buried in eternal Oblivion; and in turning a plain and certain Argument of Contempt, into an occasion of further Veneration. m When this History was Written, which if Written by Samuel towards the end of his Life, was a sufficient ground for this expression, this Superstitious usage having then continued for many Years.

6 But the hand of the LORD was heavy upon them of Ashdod n, and he destroyed them o, and smote them † with * emerods p, even Ashdod, and the coasts thereof. † Heb. in the seats. So Gr. * Psal. 78. 66.

n For their Incorrigibleness by the foregoing Documents. o Partly, by wasting their Land, chap. 6. 5. and partly, by killing many of their Persons, as is sufficiently implied here, ver. 10. p A Disease mentioned only here, and Deut. 28. 27. it was in the hinder parts. It is needless to enquire into the Nature of it. It may suffice to know, that it was a very Sore Disease, and not only very Vexatious and Tormenting, but also Pernicious and Mortal.

7 And when the men of Ashdod saw that it was so, they said, The ark of the God of Israel shall not abide with us: for his hand is sore upon us, and upon Dagon our god.

8 They sent therefore, and gathered all the lords of the Philistines unto them, and said, What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel? And they answered, Let the ark of the God of Israel be carried about unto Gath q. And they carried the ark of the God of Israel about thither.

q Supposing that this Plague was confined to Ashdod for some particular Reasons, or that it came upon them by Chance, or from some bad Influence of the Air, or of the Stars, or for putting it into Dagon's Temple, which they resolved they would not do.

9 And it was so, that after they had carried it about, the hand of the LORD was against the city with ‖ a very great destruction: and he smote the men of the city, both small and great, and they had emerods in their secret parts r. ‖ Or, a very great terror.

r Or, in their hidden parts, to wit, in the inwards of their hinder parts. Which is the worst kind of Emerods, as all Physicians acknowledge, both because its Pains are far more sharp and keen than the other; and because the Malady is more out of the reach of Remedies.

10 ¶ Therefore they sent the ark of God to Ekron: and it came to pass, as the ark of God came to Ekron, that the Ekronites cried out, saying, They have brought about the ark of the God of Israel to us, to slay us s and our people.

s Not that they intended this, but because this would be the event of it.

11 So they sent, and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines, and said, Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and let it go again to his own place, that it slay us not, and our people: for there was a deadly destruction throughout all the city t: the hand of God was heavy there.

t To wit, the City of Ekron, during its short stay there. Or, in every City, to wit, where the Ark of God came: for it came also to Gaza and Askelon, and produced the same Effects there, as may be gathered from chap. 6. 4, 17. though for brevity sake it be here omitted.

12 And the men that died not u, were smitten with the emerods: and the cry of the city x went up to heaven.

u Either of some other Plague, or Ulcer, as may be thought from ver. 6. or of the Emerods, which Infested and Tormented even those whom it did not kill. x Or, of that City where the Ark was; and the City is put for the People Inhabiting it.

CHAP.

CHAP. VI.

AND the ark of the LORD was in the countrey of the Philistines seven months a.

a So long they kept it, as loth to lose so great a Prize, and willing to try all ways to keep it, and yet free themselves from the Mischiefs accompanying its presence.

2 And the Philistines called for the priests, and the diviners b, saying, What shall we do to the ark of the LORD? Tell us wherewith c we shall send it to his place?

b Whose Art was in great esteem with Heathen Nations, and especially with the Philistines, and their Neighbours the Canaanites and Egyptians. c In what manner, and with what Gifts; for to send it, they had Decreed before, chap. 5. 11.

3 And they said, If ye resolve to send away the ark of the God of Israel, send it not empty d: but in any wise return him a trespass-offering e: then ye shall be healed, and it shall be known to you f, why his hand * is not removed from you.

‖ Or, was not.

d i. e. Without a present; which they judged necessary, from the common Opinion and Practice both of Jews and Gentiles. e Thereby to acknowledge our Offence, and obtain his Pardon. f You shall understand, what is hitherto doubtful, whether he was the Author of these Calamities, and why they continued so long upon you. Compare ver. 7, 8, 9.

4 Then said they, What shall be the trespass-offering g, which we shall return to him? They answered, Five golden emerods h, and five golden mice i, according to the number of the lords of the Philistines: for one kind of plague was on † you all, and on your lords.

g They desire particular Information, because they were ignorant of the Nature and Manner of the Worship of Israel's God and they might easily understand that there were some kinds of Offerings which would not accept. h i. e. Figures of that part of the Body which was the seat of the Disease, which by its swelling, or some other way, Represented also the Disease it self. Which they Offered not in contempt of God, for they sought to gain his Favour hereby; but in Testimony of their Humiliation, that by leaving this Monument of their own Shame and Misery, they might obtain Pity from God, and Freedom from their Disease. i Which Marred their Land (as it is related ver. 5.) by Destroying the Fruits thereof; as the other Plague Afflicted their Bodies.

5 Wherefore ye shall make images of your emerods, and images of your mice, that * mar the land, and ye shall give glory unto the God of Israel k: peradventure he will lighten his hand from off you, and from off your gods l, and from off your land.

* chap. 5. 6.

k The Glory of his Power in conquering you, who seemed and pretended to have conquered him; of his Justice in punishing you, and of his Goodness if he shall relieve you. l They so speak, either because not only Dagon, but their others gods also, were thrown down by the Ark, though that be not related; or because the Plural Number in that Case, was commonly used for the Singular.

6 Wherefore then do ye harden m your hearts, as the Egyptians, and Pharaoh hardened their hearts n? when he † had wrought ‖ wonderfully among them, * did not they let † the people go, and they departed?

* Exod. 7. 13. and 8. 15. and 14. 17.
† Gr. deluded them.
‖ Or, reproachfully.
* Exod. 12. 31.
† Heb. them.

m Or, should ye harden, the Future Tense of the Indicative Mood being put potentially, as is not unusual. They express themselves thus, either because they perceived that some opposed the Decree of sending home the Ark, though the most had consented to it; or because they thought they would hardly send it away in the manner prescribed, by giving Glory to God, and taking Shame to themselves. n Which they might easily learn, either by Tradition from their Ancestors, or by the Reports of the Hebrews.

7 Now therefore make a new cart o, and take two milch-kine, on which there hath come no yoke p, and tie the kine to the cart, and bring their calves home from them q.

o As David did for the same use, 2 Sam. 6. 3. in Reverence to the Ark. p Partly, in Respect to the Ark; and partly, for the better Discovery, because such untamed Heifers are wanton, and apt to wander, and keep no certain and constant paths, as Oxen accustomed to the Yoke do, and therefore were most unlikely to keep the direct Road to Israels Land. q Which would stir up Natural Affection in their Dams, and cause them rather to return Home, than to go to a strange Countrey.

8 And take the ark of the LORD, and lay it upon the cart r, and put the jewels of gold, which return him for a trespass-offering in a coffer by the side thereof s, and send it away, that it may go.

r Which God winked at in them, both because they were ignorant of Gods Law to the contrary, and because they had no Levites to carry it upon their Shoulders. s For they durst not presume to open the Ark, to put them within it.

9 And see, if it goeth up by the way of his own coast s to Bethshemesh, then ‖ he hath done us this great evil t: but if not, then we shall know that it is not his hand that smote us; it was a chance that hapned to us u.

s Or, Border, i. e. the way that leadeth to his Coast, or Border, viz. the Countrey to which it belongs. t Which they might well conclude; if such Heifers should against their common use, and natural instinct, go into a strange path, and regularly and constantly proceed in it, without any man's conduct. u This Evil came to us from some Influences of the Stars, or other unknown Causes. Which was a weak and foolish Inference, depending upon a meer contingency, it being uncertain whether God would please to give them this Sign; and probable that he would deny it, both to punish their Superstition, and to harden their hearts to their further and utter Destruction. But wicked Men will sooner believe the most uncertain and ridiculous things, than own the visible Demonstrations of Gods Power and Providence.

10 ¶ And the men did so: and took two milch-kine, and tied them to the cart, and shut up their calves at home.

11 And they laid the ark of the LORD upon the cart, and the coffer with the mice of gold, and the images of their emerods.

12 And the kine took the straight way to the way of Bethshemesh x, and went along the high way, lowing as they went y, and turned not aside to the right hand, or to the left: and the lords of the Philistines went after them z unto the border of Bethshemesh.

x i. e. Leading to Bethshemesh, a City of the Priests, Jos. 21. 16. who were by Office to take care of it. y Testifying at once both their Natural and Vehement Inclination to their Calves, and the Supernatural and Divine Power which overruled them to a contrary Course. z Under pretence of an honourable dismission of it; but in truth, to prevent all Imposture, and to get assurance of the truth of the Event. All which circumstances tended to their greater Confusion, and Illustration of God's Glory.

13 And they of Bethshemesh were reaping their wheat-harvest in the valley: and they lifted up their eyes, and saw the ark, and rejoiced to see it.

14 And the cart came into the field of Joshua a Bethshemite, and stood there, where there was a great stone: and they a clave the wood of the cart, and offered the kine, a burnt-offering unto the LORD b.

a Not the Lords of the Philistines, but the Bethshemites, to wit, the Priests that dwelt there. b There may seem to be a double Error in this Act. First, that they Offered Females for a Burnt-Offering, contrary to Levit. 1. 3. and 22. 19. Secondly, That they did it in a forbidden place, Deut. 12. 5, 6. into which they might easily be led by excess of Joy, and eager desire of returning to their long-interrupted course of Offering Sacrifices. And some think these Irregularities were partial Causes of the following Punishment. But this case being very extraordinary, may in some sort excuse it, if they did not proceed by ordinary Rules. As for the first, though they might not chuse Females for that use; yet when God himself had chosen, and in a manner Consecrated them to his service, and imployed them in so Sacred and Glorious a Work, it may seem tollerable to offer them to the Lord, as being his peculiar, and improper for any other use. And for the latter, we have many instances of Sacrifices offered to God by Prophets, and Holy Men, in other places, besides the Tabernacle, upon extraordinary occasions, such as this certainly was; it being fit, that the Ark should at its first return be received with Thanksgiving and Sacrifice; and this Place being Sanctified by the presence of the Ark, which was the very soul of the Tabernacle, and that by which the Tabernacle it self was Sanctified, and for whose sake the Sacrifices were offered at the door of the Tabernacle.

15 And the Levites took down c the ark of the LORD, and the coffer that was with it, wherein the jewels of gold were, and put them on the great stone: and the men of Bethshemesh offered burnt-offerings, and sacrificed sacrifices the same day unto the LORD.

c Or, For the Levites had taken down: for this, though mentioned after, was done before the Sacrifices were offered.

16 And when the five lords of the Philistines had seen it d, they returned to Ekron the same day.

d To wit, that prodigious return of the Ark to its own Countrey, and the entertainment it found there.

17 And these are the golden emerods which the Philistines returned for a trespass-offering unto the LORD: for Ashdod one, for Gaza one, for Askelon one, for Gath one, for Ekron one.

18 And the golden mice according to the number of all the cities of the Philistines, belonging to the five lords: both of fenced cities, and of country villages e even unto the ‖great stone of Abel f, whereon they set down the ark of the LORD, which stone remaineth unto this day in the field of Joshua the Bethshemite.

e This is added for explication of that foregoing Phrase, all the cities; either to shew, that under the Name of the five Cities were comprehended all the Villages and Territories belonging to them, in whose Name, and at whose Charge these presents were made; or to express the difference between this and the former present, the Emerods being onely five, according to the five Cities mentioned, ver. 17. because it may seem, the Cities onely, or principally, were pestered with that Disease; and the Mice being many more, according to the number of all the Cities, as is here expressed: the Word city being taken generally so, as to include, not onely Fenced Cities, but also the Country Villages, as is here added, and the Fields belonging to them, these being the parts where the Mice did most mischief. f Which is mentioned as the utmost border of the Philistines Territory to which the Plague of Mice did extend. The Word stone being easily understood out of ver. 14, where this great stone is expressly mentioned, as the place on which the Ark was set, which is also here repeated in the following words. And this place is here called Abel, by anticipation, from the great Mourning mentioned in the following Verse.

19 ¶ And he smote the men of Beth-shemesh, because they had looked into the ark of the LORD g, even he smote of the people h fifty thousand and threescore and ten men i: and the people lamented, because the LORD had smitten many of the people with a great slaughter.

g Having now an opportunity which they never yet had, nor were ever like to have, it is not strange they had a vehement curiosity and desire to see the contents of the Ark: or whether the Philistines had taken them away, and put other things in their place; and they thought they might now presume the more, because the Ark had been polluted by the Philistines, and was now exposed to open view, and not yet put into that Most Holy Place, which they were forbidden to approach. h i. e. Of the people living in, and near Bethshemesh, or coming thither from all parts upon this great and glorious occasion. Heb. And, or Also he smote of the people; to wit, of or belonging to other places, though now here: So these are distinguished from the men of Bethshemesh, of whom he speaks onely in general and indefinitely, he smote the men, i. e. some, or many of them, and then sets down the number of the persons smitten, or slain, either excluding the Bethshemites, or including them. i This may seem an incredible Relation, both because that place could not afford so great a number, and because it seems an act of great rigor, that God should so severely punish those people who came with so much Zeal and Joy to Congratulate the return of the Ark, and that for so inconsiderable an Errour. For the latter branch of the Objection, it may be said, 1. That God always used to be most severe in punishing his own People, as Sinning against more knowledge and warning than others; especially for such sins as immediately concern his own Worship and Service. 2. That men are very incompetent Judges of these Matters, because they do not understand all the reasons and causes of Gods Judgments. For although God took this just occasion to punish them for that Crime which was so severely forbidden even to the common Levites under pain of Death; of which see Numb. 4. 18, 19, 20. Yet it is apparent, that the People were at this time guilty of many other, and greater Miscarriages, for which God might justly inflict the present punishment upon them: and moreover, there are many secret Sins which escape Mans Observation, but are seen by God; before whom, many persons may be deeply guilty, whom men esteem innocent and vertuous. And therefore men should take heed of Censuring the Judgments of God, of which it is most truly said, that they are oft secret, but never unrighteous. And for the former branch of the Objection, many things are, or may be said; 1. That the Land of Israel was strangely populous, See 2 Sam 24. 9. and 2 Chron. 13. 3. 2. That all these were not the setled Inhabitants of this place, but most of them such as did, and in all probability would resort thither in great numbers upon so illustrious an occasion. 3. That all these were not struck dead in the very Fact, and upon the place, which would have terrified others from following their Example, but were secretly struck with some Disease or Plague, which killed them in a little time. 4. That divers Learned Men translate, and understand the place otherwise, and make the number much smaller. Josephus the Jew, and the Hebrew Doctors, and many others contend that onely seventy persons were slain. Which though it seem but a small number, yet might justly be called a great slaughter, either for the quality of the persons Slain, or for the greatness and extraordinariness of the Stroke; or because it was a great Number considering the smallness of the Place, and the sadness of the Occasion. The Words in the Hebrew are these, and thus placed, he smote of or among the people seventy men, fifty thousand men; whereas, say they, The Words should have been otherwise placed, and the greater number put before the less, if this had been meant, that he smote fifty Thousand and seventy Men. And one very Learned Man renders the Words thus, He smote of the people seventy men, even fifty of a thousand, the Particle Mem, of, being here understood, as it is very frequently. So the meaning is, That God smote every Twentieth man of the Transgressors, as the Romans used to Cut off every Tenth Man in case of the general guilt of an Army. Or the Words may be rendred thus, He smote of, or among the people, seventy men out of fifty thousand men; the Particle Mem, of, or out of, being understood before the Word fifty, which Bochart puts before a thousand; and it may be thus expressed, to shew, that God did temper his Severity with great Clemency: and whereas there were many thousands of Transgressors (every one following his Brothers Example, as is usual in such cases) God onely singled out seventy of the Principal Offenders, who either Sinned most against their Light, or Office; or were the Ringleaders, or Chief encouragers of the rest. To which may be added, That the ancient Translators, the Syriack, and Arabick, read the Place five thousand and seventy men, being supposed to have read in their Hebrew Copies, Chamesh, five, for Chamishim, fifty, which is no great alteration in the Word.

20 And the men of Bethshemesh said, Who is able to stand before † this holy LORD God k? and to whom shall he go up from us? †Heb. The Lord, this holy God.

k i. e. To Minister before the Ark where the Lord is present. Since God is so severe to mark whatsoever is amiss in his Servants, who is sufficient and worthy to serve him? who dare presume to come into his presence? It seems to be a Complaint, or Expostulation with God, concerning this last and great instance of his Severity. l Who will dare to receive the Ark with so much hazard to themselves?

21 ¶ And they sent messengers to the inhabitants of Kirjath-jearim m, saying, The Philistines have brought again the ark of the LORD: come ye down and fetch it up to you.

m Whither they sent, either because the Place was not far off from them, and so it might soon be removed, which they mainly desired: or, because it was a place of Eminency and Strength, and somewhat further distant from the Philistines, where therefore it was likely to be better preserved from any new attempts of the Philistines, and to be better attended by the Israelites, who would more freely and frequently come to it at such a place, than in Bethshemesh, which was upon the border of their Enemies Land: or because they thought they would gladly receive it, being a pious and zealous People: or because it was in the way to Shiloh, its ancient Habitation; and whither they might suppose it was to be carried by degrees, and several Stages, whereof this was one.

CHAP. VII.

* Pſal. 132. 5. AND the men of * Kirjath-jearim came a and fetcht up b the ark of the LORD, and a They gladly embrace the motion, as wiſely conſidering, that their great Calamity was not to be charged upon the Ark, but upon themſelves and their own careleſneſs, irreverence, and preſumption, in looking into the Ark. This place is elſewhere called Baalah, and Kiriath-Baal, as is evident from Joſ. 15. 9. 60. and 18. 24. and 1 Chron. 13. 6, 7. b i. e. Cauſed it be brought up; to wit, by the Prieſts appointed to that work, whom they could eaſily procure, and undoubtedly would do it, eſpecially having been ſo lately warned of the great danger of violating Gods Commands in thoſe matters. In Scripture-uſe, men are commonly ſaid to do that which they order, or cauſe others to do. c This place they choſe, becauſe it was both a ſtrong place, where it would be moſt ſafe; and an High Place, and therefore viſible at ſome diſtance, and to many perſons, which was convenient for them, who were at that time to direct their Prayers and Faces towards the Ark, 1 King. 8. 29, 30, 35. Pſal. 28. 2. and 138. 2. Dan. 6. 10. And for the ſame reaſon David afterwards placed it in the Hill of Sion. Some Tranſlate the word, in Gibeah. But that was in the Tribe of Benjamin, Joſ. 18. 27. Judg. 19. 14. whereas this Kiriath-jearim was in the Tribe of Judah, 1 Chron. 13. 6, 7. d Not that they made him either Levite or Prieſt, as ſome would have it; for in Iſrael perſons were not made, but born ſuch; and ſince the Inſtitution of Levites and Prieſts, none were made ſuch, that were born of other Tribes or Families; but that they devoted, or ſet him apart (as this Verb ſometimes ſignifies) wholly to attend upon this Work. e Him they choſe rather than his Father, becauſe he was younger and ſtronger, and probably freed from Domeſtick Cares, which might divert him from, or diſturb him in this Work; or becauſe he was more eminent for Prudence and Piety. f To keep the place where it was clean and neat, and to guard it that none might approach or touch it, but ſuch as God required, or allowed to do ſo.

2 ¶ And it came to paſs while the ark abode in Kirjath-jearim g, that the time was long: for it was twenty years h: and all the houſe of Iſrael lamented after the LORD i.

g Where it continued, and was not carried to Shiloh its former place, either becauſe that place was deſtroyed by the Philiſtines when the Ark was taken, as may be gathered from this Hiſtory, compared with Jer. 7. 12, 14. and 26. 6, 9. Or becauſe God would hereby puniſh the wickedneſs either of that particular place of Shiloh, or of the People of Iſrael, by keeping it in a private and obſcure place, and that near to the Philiſtines, whither the generality of the People neither durſt, nor could ſafely come. h He ſaith not, That this twenty years was all the time of the Arks abode there, for it continued there from Eli's time, till David's Reign, 2 Sam. 6. 2. which was forty years, Act. 13. 21. but that it was ſo long there ere the Iſraelites were ſenſible of their Sin and Miſery, ere they lamented, &c. as it follows. i i. e. They followed after God with Lamentation for his departure, and ſo long eſtrangement from them, and with prayers for his return, and favour to them.

3 ¶ And Samuel ſpake unto all the houſe of Iſrael k, ſaying, If ye do return unto the LORD l
* Joſh. 24. 14, 23. with all your heart m, then * put away the ſtrange gods n, and * Aſhtaroth o from among you, and
* Judg. 2. 13. prepare your hearts p unto the LORD, and * ſerve
* Deut. 6. 13. Mat. 4. 10. Luk. 4. 8. him onely; and q he will deliver you out of the hand of the Philiſtines.

k To all the Rulers and People too, as he had occaſion in his Circuit, deſcribed below, ver. 16. mixing exhortations to Repentance, with his judicial Adminiſtrations. l If you do indeed what you profeſs, if you are reſolved to go on in that which you ſeem to have begun. m Sincerely and in good earneſt. n Out of your houſes where ſome of you keep and Worſhip them; and out of your hearts and affections, where they ſtill have an Intereſt in many of you. o And particularly or eſpecially, Aſhtaroth, which he mentions as a god, whom they, together with the neighbouring Nations, did more eminently worſhip. See Judg. 2. 13. p By purging them from all Sin, and particularly from all inclinations to other gods. Or, direct your hearts, having alienated your hearts from your Idols, turn them to God, and not to other Idols or Vanities. q Or, then, upon theſe conditions you may confidently expect it.

* Judg. 10. 16. 4 Then the children of Iſrael did put away * Baalim and Aſhtaroth, and ſerved the LORD onely.

5 And Samuel ſaid, Gather all Iſrael to Mizpeh, and I will pray for you unto the LORD.

6 And they gathered together to Mizpeh r, and drew water, and poured it out s before the LORD t, and faſted on that day, and ſaid there, We have ſinned againſt the LORD. And Samuel judged the children of Iſrael u in Mizpeh.

r Not that beyond Jordan, of which Judg. 11. 11, 29. but another in Canaan, where the Iſraelites uſed to aſſemble, Judg. 20. 1. 1 Sam. 10. 17. s Which they did either, 1. Figuratively, they drew tears out of their Hearts, and poured out of their Eyes as it were Rivers of Water; ſuch deſcriptions of penitential Sorrow being not unuſual: See Pſal. 6. 7. and 119. 136. Jer. 9. 1. Lam. 3. 48, 49. Or rather, 2. Properly, becauſe they are ſaid firſt to draw it, and then to pour it out. And this agrees well with the ſtate of thoſe times, wherein ſuch Rites, as this were very cuſtomary. Now this courſe they ſeem to have uſed, either 1. As a mean or inſtrument of their Purification. So they waſhed themſelves in this Water, thereby acknowledging their filthineſs, and cleanſing themſelves as the Law preſcribed. But this ſeems not probable; 1. Becauſe here is onely mention of drawing and pouring forth this water before the Lord, but not of any waſhing themſelves with it. 2. Becauſe this was not a fit time and place to purifie themſelves in this great and general Aſſembly. Or, 2. As an External Sign, whereby they teſtified and profeſſed, both their own great filthineſs and need of waſhing by the Grace and Spirit of God, and Blood of the Covenant, which are oft ſignified by Water, and their ſincere deſire to pour out their very hearts before the Lord, in true Repentance, and to cleanſe themſelves from all filthineſs of Fleſh and Spirit. t i. e. In the publick Aſſembly, where God is in a ſpecial manner preſent, as hath been noted before. u i. e. Governed them, reformed all abuſes againſt God or Man, took care that the Laws of God ſhould be obſerved and executed, and wilful Tranſgreſſors puniſhed.

7 And when the Philiſtines heard that the children of Iſrael were gathered together to Mizpeh, the lords of the Philiſtines went up x againſt Iſrael: and when the children of Iſrael heard it, they were afraid y of the Philiſtines.

x To wit, with an Army, ver. 10. ſuſpecting the Effects of their general Convention, and intending to nip them in the bud. y Being a company of unarmed perſons, and unfit for Battel.

8 And the children of Iſrael ſaid to Samuel, † Ceaſe not to cry unto the LORD our God for us z, that he will ſave us out of the hand of the Philiſtines. † Heb. be not ſilent from us from crying.

z We are aſhamed and afraid to look God in the face, becauſe of our great wickedneſs this day remembred and acknowledged: do thou therefore intercede for us, as Moſes did for his Generation.

9 ¶ And Samuel took a ſucking lamb a, and offered it b for a burnt-offering wholly c unto the LORD: and * Samuel cried unto the LORD for Iſrael, and the LORD ‖ heard him d. * Pſal. 99. 6. ‖ Or, anſwered.

a Which it might be, though it was more than Eight days old, and ſo that Law, Exod. 23. 19. was not violated. b Either himſelf by Divine Inſtinct, which was a ſufficient Warrant; or rather by a Prieſt, as Saul is afterwards ſaid to have offered, 1 Sam. 13. 9. c Burning all the parts of it, according to the Law of the Burnt-offerings; whereas in other Offerings ſome parts were reſerved. d As appears by the Effects, the following Thunder, and the overthrow of the Philiſtines Hoſt.

10 And as Samuel was offering up the burnt-offering, the Philiſtines drew near to battel againſt Iſrael: but the LORD thundred with a great † thunder on that day upon the Philiſtines, and diſcomfited them, and they were ſmitten e before Iſrael. † Heb. voice.

e Either by the Lightnings, or Thunderbolts, or other things which accompanied the cracks of Thunder: or by the Iſraelites, who perceiving them to be affrighted and flee away, purſued and ſmote them, as the next Verſe mentions.

11 And the men of Iſrael went out of Mizpeh, and purſued the Philiſtines, and ſmote them f, until they came under Beth-car.

f Qy. Whence had they Weapons wherewith to ſmite them? Anſw. Divers of them probably brought them to the Aſſembly, others borrowed them at Mizpeh, or the neighbouring places: and the reſt might be the Arms of the Philiſtines, which they threw away to haſten their flight, as is uſual in ſuch caſes.

12 Then Samuel took a ſtone g, and ſet it between Mizpeh, and Shen, and called the name thereof ‖ Eben-ezer h, ſaying, Hitherto hath the LORD helped us i.

‖ That is, the ſtone of help.

g A rude unpoliſhed Stone, which was not prohibited by that Law, Lev. 26. 1. there being no danger of Worſhipping ſuch a Stone, and this being ſet up onely as a Monument of the Victory. h By which, compared with chap. 4. 1. it appears, that this Victory was gained in or near the very ſame place where the Iſraelites received their former fatal loſs. i He hath begun to help us in ſome meaſure, though not compleatly to deliver us. By which wary expreſſion, he exciteth both their thankfulneſs for their mercy received, and their holy fear and care to pleaſe and ſerve the Lord, that he might proceed to help and deliver them more effectually.

13 ¶ So the Philiſtines were ſubdued, and they came no more into the coaſt of Iſrael k: and the hand of the LORD was againſt the Philiſtines all the days of Samuel.

k i. e. They came not with a great Hoſt, as now they did, but onely moleſted them with ſtragling Parties, or Gariſons; as 1 Sam. 10. 5. and they came not, to wit, all the days of Samuel, as it follows, i. e. while Samuel was their ſole Judge, or Ruler; for in Saul's time they did come, 1 Sam. 13. 5. 17. and 14. 52. and 17. 1. &c.

14 And the cities which the Philiſtines had taken from Iſrael, † were reſtored to Iſrael l, from Ekron even unto Gath, and the coaſts thereof did Iſrael deliver out of the hand of the Philiſtines: and there was peace m between Iſrael and the Amorites n.

l By the Philiſtines, who, it ſeems, were frighted into this Reſtitution by their dread of Samuel, and of the Divine Vengeance. Object. The Philiſtines had Cities and Gariſons in Iſrael's Land after this time; as 1 Sam. 10. 5. and 13. 3. Anſ. Either therefore thoſe places were not any of theſe here mentioned; for it is not ſaid, That all their Cities were reſtored, but onely indefinitely, the cities, and thoſe limited to a certain compaſs, from Ekron to Gath; or ſome of the Cities now reſtored by the Philiſtines, were afterwards retaken by them. m An agreement for the Ceſſation of all acts of Hoſtility. n i. e. The Canaanites, oft called Amorites, becauſe theſe were formerly the moſt Valiant and Terrible of all thoſe Nations, and the firſt Enemies which the Iſraelites met with, when they went to take Poſſeſſion of their Land. They made this Peace with the Canaanites, that they might be more at leiſure to oppoſe the Philiſtines, now their moſt Potent Enemies.

15 And Samuel judged Iſrael all the days of his life o.

o For though Saul was King in Samuel's laſt days, yet Samuel did not then quite ceaſe to be a Judge, being ſo made by Gods extraordinary Call, which Saul could not deſtroy; And therefore Samuel did ſometimes, upon great occaſions, though not ordinarily, exerciſe the office of a Judge after the beginning of Saul's Reign; as chap. 11. 7. and 15. 32, 33. And the years of the Rule of Saul and Samuel are joyned together, Act. 13. 20, 21. Queſt. How doth the Office of a Judge agree with Hannahs Vow, whereby ſhe devoted him to a perpetual attendance upon the Lords Service? Anſw. This was not inconſiſtent with her Vow, which conſiſted of two Branches, the one more general, that he ſhould be given, or ſent to the Lord all his days, 1 Sam. 1. 11, 28. which ſhe faithfully executed, leaving him wholly to the ſervice and diſpoſal of the Lord, who thought fit to employ him in this way; and, if any thing therein was contrary to that Vow, could undoubtedly diſpenſe with it, as being his own right onely; the other more particular, that no Raſor ſhould come upon his head; nor doth it appear that this part was violated; or if it was, it was done by Divine Diſpenſation.

16 And he went from year to year † in circuit to Bethel p, and Gilgal q, and Mizpeh r, and judged Iſrael in all thoſe places s.

† Heb. and he circuited.

p Either a place known by that name: or the houſe of God; to wit, Kiriath-jearim, where the Ark was. q In the Eaſtern Border. r Towards the Weſt. s He went to thoſe ſeveral places, partly in compliance with the people, whoſe convenience and benefit he was willing to purchaſe with his own trouble, making himſelf an itinerant Judge and Preacher for their ſakes: and partly, that by his preſence in ſeveral parts, he might the better obſerve, and rectifie all ſorts of miſcarriages againſt God or Men.

17 And his return was to Ramah: for there was his houſe, and there he judged Iſrael, and there he built an altar unto the LORD t.

t That by joyning Sacrifices with his Prayers, he might the better obtain direction and aſſiſtance from God upon all emergencies. Object. It was unlawful to build another Altar for Sacrifice beſides that before the Tabernacle, Deut. 12. 5, 13. Anſw. This was in part excuſed by the confuſion of thoſe times, wherein the Tabernacle and its Altar were Deſtroyed; as is moſt probable; but moſt fully, becauſe this was done by Prophetical Inſpiration, and Divine Diſpenſation, as appears by Gods approbation and acceptance of the Sacrifices offered upon it.

CHAP. VIII.

AND it came to paſs when Samuel was old a, that he made his ſons Judges b over Iſrael.

a And ſo unable for his former Travels and Labours. b Not Supreme Judges, for ſuch there was to be but one, and that of Gods chuſing; and Samuel ſtill kept that Office in his own hands, chap. 7. 17. but his Vicegerents or Deputies, who might go about and determine matters, but with reſervation of a right of Appeals to himſelf. He advanceth his Sons to this place, not ſo much out of Parernal Indulgence, the ſad Effects whereof he had ſeen in Eli; but becauſe he had doubtleſs inſtructed them in a ſingular manner, and fitted them for the higheſt Employments; and he hoped that the Example he had ſet them, and the Inſpection and Authority he ſtill had over them, would have obliged them to diligence and faithfulneſs in the execution of their Truſt.

2 Now the name of his firſt-born was Joel, and the name of his ſecond Abiah: they were judges in Beer-ſheba c.

c In the Southern border of the Land of Canaan, where he placed his Sons, becauſe theſe parts were very remote from his houſe at Ramah? where, and in the neighbouring places Samuel himſelf ſtill executed the Office of the Judge; ſending his Sons to Reſide and Judge in diſtant places, for the eaſe and convenience of the People.

3 And his ſons walked not in his ways, but turned aſide after lucre, and * took bribes d, and perverted judgment.

* Deut. 16. 19.

d Opportunity and Temptation drew forth and diſcovered that Corruption in them, which till now was hid from their Father, and, it may be, from themſelves.

4 Then all the Elders e of Iſrael gathered themſelves together, and came to Samuel unto Ramah.

e Either for Age, or Dignity, and Power.

5 And ſaid unto him, Behold, thou art old, and thy ſons walk not in thy ways f: now * make us a king to judge us g, like all the nations h.

* Hoſ. 13. 10. Act. 13. 21.

f They feared, that Samuel would not live long; and that either he through infirmity and indulgence might leave the Government in his Sons hands; or that they would Invade and keep it, after their Fathers Death; and therefore they joyntly make their Complaints againſt them, and procure their removal from their places. Thus they are brought low, and cruſhed by thoſe very wicked ways by which they deſigned to Advance and Eſtabliſh themſelves. So true is it, That Honeſty is the beſt Policy, and Unrighteouſneſs the greateſt Folly. g Their concluſion out-run their premiſes, and their Deſires exceed their Reaſons or Arguments, which extended no further than to the removal of Samuel's Sons from their places, and the procuring ſome other juſt and prudent aſſiſtance to Samuel's Age. Nor was the Grant of their Deſire a Remedy for their Diſeaſe, but rather an Aggravation of it. For the Sons of their King might and were likely to be as corrupt as Samuel's Sons; and, if they were, would not be ſo eaſily removed as theſe were. h i. e. As moſt of the Nations about us have. But there was not the like reaſon, becauſe God had ſeparated them from all other Nations, and cautioned them againſt the imitation of their Examples, and had taken them into his own immediate Care and Government; which priviledge other Nations had not.

6 ¶ But the thing † diſpleaſed Samuel i, when they ſaid, Give us a king to judge us: and Samuel prayed unto the LORD k.

† Heb. was evil in the Eyes of Samuel.

i Not their complaint of his Sons, but their deſire of a King, as is apparent from the following Words, and from the whole courſe course of the Story. Which was so grievous to him; partly, because of their Injustice and Ingratitude to himself, whose Government, though it had been so sweet and beneficial to them, they plainly shew themselves weary of; and principally, because God was hereby dishonoured and provoked, by that distrust of God, and that vain-glory and ambition, and that itch after changes, which were the manifest causes of this Desire; and because of that great servitude and misery, which he wisely foresaw the People would hereby bring upon themselves, as he particularly informs them, ver. 11, &c. k For the pardon of their Sin, and desire of direction and help from God in this great affair.

7 And the LORD said unto Samuel, Hearken unto the voice of the people l in all that they say unto thee: for they have not rejected thee m, but * chap. 10. 19. * have rejected me n, that I should not reign over them o.

l God grants their Desire in Anger, and for their Punishment, as is affirmed, Hos. 13. 11. compare Numb. 22. 13, 20. Deut. 1. 22. Psal. 77. 20. m i. e. Not thee only, nor principally. Compare Gen. 32. 28. Exod. 16. 7. Hos. 6. 6. Mat. 10. 20. n This injury and contumely, reflects chiefly upon me and my Government. o To wit, by my immediate and peculiar Government, which was the great honour, safety, and happiness of this People, if they had had wit to know it, or hearts to prize it. And all the Infelicities of Israel, under this kind of Government, did not proceed from the Nature of the Government, but from the ungovernableness and wickedness of the People, which, they might be sure, would produce the same or greater Calamities under their Kingly Government. Quest. First, Did not God Reign over them when they had Kings? Ans. Yes, in a general way, but not in such a peculiar manner as he did by the Judges, who were generally raised and called by Gods particular Appointment, Endowed and Sanctified by his Spirit, directed and assisted by his special Providence upon all Emergencies; whereas all things were for the most part contrary in their Kings. Quest. Secondly, Was it simply unlawful for the People to desire a King? Ans. No, as appears from Deut. 17. 14. but herein was their Sin, That they desired it upon Sinful grounds, of which see on ver. 7. and in an Impetuous manner, and at an unseasonable time, and without asking Leave or Advice from God; which in so weighty and difficult a Case they could not neglect without great Sin.

8 According to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt, even unto this day, wherewith they have forsaken me, and served other gods: so do they also unto thee p.

p Thou fareſt no worſe than my ſelf. This he ſpeaks for Samuel's Comfort and Vindication.

‖ Or, obey. ‖ Or, notwithſtanding, when thou haſt ſolemnly proteſted againſt them, then thou ſhalt ſhew, &c.

9 Now therefore ‖ hearken unto their voice: ‖ howbeit, yet proteſt ſolemnly unto them q, and ſhew them the manner of the king r that ſhall reign over them.

q That, if it be poſſible, thou maiſt yet prevent their Sin and Miſery. r i. e. Of the Kings which they deſire like the Kings of other Nations. He ſpeaks not of the juſt Authority, or the right of their Kings, but of their Practice, as is evident from divers of the following particulars, which are expreſly forbidden and condemned in Scripture, as we ſhall ſee.

10 ¶ And Samuel told all the words of the LORD unto the people, that asked of him a king.

11 And he said, This will be the manner of * chap. 14. 52. the king that shall reign over you: he * will take your sons s, and appoint them for himself, for his charets, and to be his horsemen t, and some shall run before his charets.

s To wit, Injuriously and by Violence, as this Hebrew word is oft used, as Gen. 20. 3. and 27. 36. Job 5. 5. and it must be here; because otherwise the King would have no more priviledge than any of his Subjects; for any Man might take a Son with his own or Parents consent. * t Or, and for his Horses, and so the Hebrew word Parash, sometimes signifies, as Isa. 21. 7, 9. and 28. 28. to ride his Horses.

12 And he will appoint him u captains over thousands, and captains over fifties, and will set them to ear his ground, and to reap his harvest x, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his charets y.

u Heb. To, or for himself; Emphatically, i. e. for his own fancy, or glory, or conveniency, or evil design, and not onely when the necessities of the Kingdom or Commonwealth require it, as the Judges did. And though this might seem to be no incumbrance, as it is here represented, but an honour and advantage to the Persons so advanced, yet even in them that Honour was accompanied with great Dangers, and Pernicious Snares of many kinds, which those saint Shadows of Glory could not recompence; and as to the publick, their Pomp and Power proved very Burdensome and Oppressive to the People, whose Lands and Fruits were taken from them, and bestowed upon these, for the support of their State, as it follows below, ver. 14, 15. x At his own pleasure, and without their consent, when possibly their own Fields required all their time and pains. y He will press them for all sorts of his work, and that upon his own Terms.

13 And he will take your daughters z to be confectioners, and to be cooks, and to be bakers.

z Which would be more grievous to their Parents, and more dangerous to themselves, because of the tenderness of that Sex, and liableness to many injuries.

14 And * he will take your fields a, and your * 1 King. 21. 7. vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants b.

a To wit, by fraud or force, as Ahab did from Naboth. b He will not only take the Fruits of your Lands for his own use, but will take away your Possessions to give to his Servants.

15 And he will take the tenth c of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his † officers d, † Heb. Eunuchs. and to his servants.

c Besides the several Tenths which God hath reserved for his Service and Servants, he will, when he pleaseth, impose another Tenth upon you. d Heb. to his Eunuchs, which may be properly understood, and may imply a further injury, that he should against the command of God, make some of his People Eunuchs; and take those into his Court and Favour, which God would have cast out of the Congregation.

16 And he will take your men-servants, and your maid-servants, and your goodliest young men, and your asses, and put them to his work e.

e By constraint, and without sufficient recompence.

17 He will take the tenth of your sheep, and ye shall be his servants f.

f i. e. He shall use you like Slaves, and deprive you of that Liberty which you now enjoy.

18 And ye shall cry out in that day g, because of the king which ye shall have chosen you: and the LORD will not hear you in that day h.

g Ye shall bitterly mourn for the sad Effects of this inordinate desire of a King. h Because you will not hear him, nor obey his Counsel in this Day. Compare Prov. 1. 24, &c. Zech. 7. 13.

19 ¶ Nevertheless, the people refused to obey the voice of Samuel: and they said, Nay i, but there shall be a king over us k:

i i. e. These things shall never be, these are but vain Suppositions to affright us from our purpose. Thus they are not ashamed to give Samuel the lye, of whose Modesty, Integrity, and Prophetical Spirit, they had so great assurance, as if he had feigned those pretences meerly to keep the power in his own and his Sons hands. k We will have a King, whatsoever it cost us, although all thy Predictions should be verified.

20 That we also may be like all the nations l, and that our king may judge us †, and go out before us †, and fight our battels. † In times of peace. † Viz. In times of War, as this is, 1 Sam. 12. 12

l Woful Stupidity! Whereas it was their Glory and Happiness that they were unlike all other Nations, Numb. 23. 6. Deut. 33. 28. as in other Glorious Priviledges, so especially in this, That the Lord was their onely and immediate King and Lawgiver.

21 And Samuel heard all the words of the people, and he rehearsed them in the ears of the LORD m.

m He repeated them privately between God and himself; partly, for his own Vindication and Comfort: and partly, as a Foundation for his Prayers to God, for Direction and Assistance in this difficult case.

22 And

22 And the LORD said to Samuel, Hearken unto their voice, and make them a king. And Samuel said unto the men of Israel, Go ye every man unto his city n.

n Betake your selves to your several occasions, till you hear more from me in this Matter. For God hath heard your words, and will give way to your Irregular and Obstinate desire; and accordingly I shall wait upon God for the Determination of the Person, which he hath wholly reserved to himself, as for Judges, so for the King also, Deut. 17. 15. and for the Regulation of all the Circumstances.

CHAP. IX.

NOW there was a man of Benjamin, whose name was * Kish a, the son of Abiel, the son of Zeror, the son of Bechorath, the son of Aphiah, a ‖ Benjamite b, a mighty man of ‖ power c.

* chap. 14. 51. 1 Chron. 8. 33.

‖ Or, the son of a man of Jemini.

‖ Or, substance.

a Obj. His Name was Ner, 1 Chron. 8. 33. and 9. 39. Ans. Either his Father had two Names, as was usual among the Hebrews: or Kish was really his Father that begot him; and Ner, the Brother of Kish, 1 Sam. 14. 51. 1 Chron. 9. 36. is called his Father, because upon the Death of Kish, he took the care of his Education, and brought him up as his own Son. b Heb. the Son of a man of Jemini; i. e. either of Benjamin; or of a Place, or of a Man called Jemini. c i. e. A man of great courage and strength; which tends to Saul's commendation: Otherwise, a man of great wealth. But that seems confuted by Saul's words below, ver. 21. and the Peoples contempt of him, chap. 10. 27.

2 And he had a son whose name was Saul, † a choice young man, and a goodly d: and there was not a man of the children of Israel a goodlier person than he: from his shoulders and upward, he was higher than any of the people e.

d Heb. good, i. e. comely and personable, as that word is used, Gen. 6. 2. as evil is put for deformed, Gen. 41. 19. e A tall Stature was much valued in a King in Ancient Times, and in the Eastern Countries.

3 And the asses of Kish, Sauls father, were lost: and Kish said to Saul his Son, Take now one of the servants with thee, and arise, go seek the asses f.

f Which were there of great price and use, Judg. 10. 4. and 12. 14. because of the scarcity of Horses, Deut. 17. 16. and therefore not held unworthy of Saul's seeking, at least in those Ancient Times, when Simplicity, Humility and Industry, were in fashion among Persons of Quality.

4 And he passed through mount Ephraim g, and passed through the land of Shalisha, but they found them not: then they passed through the land of Shalim, and there they were not: and he passed through the land † of the Benjamites, but they found them not.

g A part of the Tribe of Ephraim, which Bordered upon Benjamin; and therefore they could soon pass out of the one into the other, and back again, as they saw cause.

5 And when they were come to the land of Zuph h, Saul said to his servant that was with him, Come, and let us return, lest my father leave caring for the asses, and take thought for us.

h In which was Ramah, called also Ramah or Ramathaim Sophim, the place of Samuel's Birth and Habitation, 1 Sam. 1. 1. and 7. 17.

6 And he said unto him, Behold now, there is in this city a man of God i, and he is an honourable man *: all that he saith, cometh surely to pass k: now let us go thither; peradventure he can shew us our way that we should go l.

i A Prophet, as that Phrase is used, 1 Sam. 2. 27. Jos. 14. 6. Judg. 13. 6. *One of great Reputation for his Skill and Faithfulness. k His Declarations of things secret or future, always certain, and confirmed by the Event. l The Course we should take to find the Asses. He saith, peradventure, because he doubted whether so great a Prophet would seek, or God would grant him a Revelation concerning such mean matters. Although sometimes God was pleased herein to condescend to his people, to cut off all pretence or occasion of seeking to Witches or Heathenish Divinations. See 1 King. 14. 2. 2 King. 1. 3.

7 Then said Saul to his servant, But behold, if we go, what shall we bring the man? for the bread † is spent in our vessels m, and there is not a present to bring to the man of God n: What † have we?

† Heb. is gone out of, &c.

† Heb. is with us.

m This he saith, because Bread was not unusually given by way of present, as we see 1 Sam. 10. 3, 4. Or Bread is put for all manner of provisions; as is frequent, and among these they might have something not unfit, in these plain Times, to make a present of, as Clusters of Raisins, or Cakes of Figs, such as Abigail presented to David, 1 Sam. 25. 18. See also 1 King. 14. 3. 2 King. 4. 42. n Such presents were then made to the Prophets, 1 King. 14. 2, 3. 2 King. 4. 42. and 8. 8. either as a Testimony of Respect to him as their Superior; upon which account Subjects made presents to their Kings, 1 Sam. 10. 27. And the Persians never came to their King without some Gift: or, as a grateful acknowledgment of his Favour: or, for the support of the Prophets themselves: or, of the Sons of the prophets: or, of other persons in want, known to them.

† Heb.

8 And the servant answered Saul again, and said, Behold, † I have here at hand the fourth part of a shekel of silver o, that will I give to the man of God to tell us our way.

† Heb. there is found in my hand.

o Which was near a Groat. Which, though now it may seem a contemptible Gift, yet in those Ancient times it was certainly of far more worth, and better accepted than now it would be, when the Covetousness, and Pride, and Luxury of men, hath raised their expectations and desires to far greater things.

9 (Before time in Israel, when a man went to enquire of God p, thus he spake, Come, and let us go to the Seer: for he that is now called a prophet, was before time called a Seer q.)

p Or, a Man of God, which signified the same thing. q Because he did discern, and could discover things secret and unknown to others. And these are the words, Either, First, Of some later Sacred Writer, which, after Samuel's Death inserted this Verse. Or, Secondly, Of Samuel, who, being probably fifty or sixty Years Old at the Writing of this Book, and speaking of the state of things in his first Days, might well call it before-time. Or rather, Thirdly, Of Saul's Servant, who might be now stricken in Years, and might speak this either by his knowledge of what was in his Juvenile Years, or upon the Information of his Father or Ancestors. And so it is a fit Argument to perswade Saul to go to the Man of God, that he might shew them their way, and where the Asses were, because he was likely to inform them; for the Prophets were Anciently called Seers, because they knew and could reveal hidden things. And the meaning is, that Anciently they were not Vulgarly called Prophets, but Seers only; whereas now, and afterwards, they were called Seers, yet they were more commonly called Prophets.

10 Then said Saul to his servant, † Well said, come let us go: so they went unto the city, where the man of God was.

† Heb. thy word is good.

11 ¶ And as they went up † the hill to the city, they found young maidens going out r to draw water, and said unto them, Is the Seer here?

† Heb. the ascent of the city.

r i. e. Out of the City, and down to the bottom of the Hill, where the Fountain or River was.

† Heb. is, &c.

12 And they answered them, and said, He is: behold, he is before you, make haste now: for he came to day to the city s; for there is a ‖ sacrifice t of the people u to day in the high place x.

s She so speaks, though this was his own constant habitation, because he had been travelling abroad, possibly in his Circuit, described 1 Sam. 7. 16, 17. and was now returned to his own House in Ramah, as he used to do, and so she implies they come in a good and seasonable time to meet with him. t Otherwise, Feast: but it seems to be understood of a Sacrifice. First, Because so the Hebrew word signifies most properly, and most frequently. Secondly, Because this Eating was in the High Place, which was the common place for Sacrifices, but not for private Feasts. Thirdly, The Prophets presence was not so necessary for a Feast, as for a Sacrifice. u So this Sacrifice is called, because this was a publick Solemnity, and possibly the the New Moon, when the People brought ſeveral Sacrifices; to wit, Peace-offerings, whereof part fell to the Offerer's ſhare; and of theſe parts united together, they here made a common Feaſt; not without Samuel's direction, who being forewarned the day before, by God, of Saul's coming, made this Feaſt more Solemn for his entertainment, ver. 22, 23, 24. x Upon the Hill mentioned ver. 11. and near the Altar which Samuel built for this kind of uſe, 1 Sam. 7. 17. by Divine Diſpenſation, as was there Noted. Otherwiſe to Sacrifice in High places was forbidden by the Law, after the Building of the Tabernacle.

13 Aſſoon as ye be come into the city, ye ſhall ſtraightway find him y, before he go up to the high place to eat z: for the people will not eat until he come, becauſe he doth bleſs the ſacrifice a, and afterwards they eat that be bidden: Now therefore get ye up b, for about † this time ye ſhall find him.

† Heb. to day.

y At Home and at leiſure. z The Relicks of the Sacrifices, according to the manner. a i. e. Either, Firſt, The Meat left of the Sacrifice, which is the matter of the following Feaſt: as this is commonly underſtood. Or rather, Secondly, The Sacrifice it ſelf: for what reaſon is there to depart from the proper ſignification of the Word? For that the Sacrifices under the Law were accompanied with Confeſſion, or Petition, or Thankſgiving, may be gathered from divers places of Scripture, as Lev. 5. 5. and 16. 21. Numb. 5. 7. Luk. 1. 10. And who ſo proper to perform this work, as Samuel, an eminent Prophet? And the Bleſſing of this Sacrifice ſeems to have conſiſted both of Thankſgiving, this being a Thank-Offering, and of Prayer to God for his acceptance, Pſal. 20. 3. b With ſpeed, leſt he be ſat down before you come.

14 And they went up into the city: and when they were come into the city, behold, Samuel came out c againſt them, for to go up to the high place.

c Out of his own Houſe, juſt as they paſſed by.

15 ¶ * Now the LORD had † told Samuel in his ear d, a day before Saul came e, ſaying, * chap. 15. 1. Act. 13. 21.

† Heb. uncovered the ear of Samuel.

d i. e. Secretly. e That he might prepare himſelf for Saul's reception.

16 To morrow about this time I will ſend thee a man f out of the land of Benjamin, and thou ſhalt anoint him to be captain over my people Iſrael, that he may ſave my people out of the hand of the Philiſtines g: for I have looked upon my people h, becauſe their cry i is come unto me.

f I will by my ſecret Providence ſo diſpoſe of matters, and of the Hearts of Saul and his Father, that Saul ſhall come to thee, though with another Deſign. g For though they were now moſt preſſed with the Ammonites, as we read chap. 12. 12. yet they looked upon theſe as a Land-Floud, which they hoped would be ſoon up, and ſoon down again: but the Philiſtines, their conſtant, inveterate, and neareſt Enemies, they moſt dreaded. And from theſe Saul did in ſome meaſure ſave them, and ſhould have ſaved them much more, if his and the Peoples manifold Sins had not hindred it. h To wit, with Compaſſion and Reſolution to help them. An uſual Synecdoche. i i. e. Their earneſt Prayers to me for help.

17 And when Samuel ſaw Saul, the LORD ſaid unto him k, Behold the man whom I ſpake to thee of; this ſame ſhall † reign over my people.

† Heb. reſtrain him, &c.

k In his Ear, as before, ver. 15. by ſecret inſtinct, ſo as none but he could hear it.

18 Then Saul drew near to Samuel in the gate l, and ſaid, Tell me, I pray thee, where the Seers houſe is.

l The Gate, either Firſt, Of Samuel's Houſe. But he was come out thence before, ver. 14. Or rather, Secondly, Of the City, for the word Gate being put by its ſelf, according to reaſon and common uſe, muſt be underſtood of the moſt eminent in its kind, which the Gate of the City is. And through this Gate Samuel ſeems now to have been paſſing to go to the High-place, which probably was without the City: and there he makes a ſtand, to hear what theſe Perſons now approaching to him, were about to ſpeak.

19 And Samuel anſwered Saul, and ſaid, I am the Seer: Go up before me unto the high place; for ye ſhall eat with me to day, and to morrow I will let thee go, and will tell thee all that is in thine heart m.

m Either all that thou deſireſt to know, as concerning the Aſſes: or rather, the ſecret thoughts of thy heart, or ſuch actions as none know but God and thy own heart; that ſo thou mayſt be aſſured of the truth and certainty of that which I am to acquaint thee with. And this might be done, though it be not here particularly related.

20 And as for thine aſſes that were loſt † three days ago, ſet not thy mind on them n, for they are found: And † on whom is all the deſire of Iſrael o? is it not on thee, and on all thy fathers houſe p?

† Heb. to day three days.
† Gr. for whom are the deſireable things.

n Trouble not thy mind about them. o Who is he that ſhall be that Thing or Perſon which all Iſrael deſire to have, to wit, a King? p That Honour is deſigned for thee, and after thy Death, for thy Family or Poſterity, if by thy Sin thou doſt not cut off the Entail.

21 And Saul anſwered and ſaid, Am not I a *Benjamite, of the ſmalleſt of the tribes of Iſrael q? and my family the leaſt of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin r? wherefore then ſpeakeſt thou † ſo to me ſ?

* Pſal. 68. 27.
† Heb. according to this word.

q For ſo indeed this was, having been all cut off except ſix hundred, Judg. 20. which Blow they never recovered, and therefore they were ſcarce reckoned as an intire Tribe, but only as a Remnant or Fragment of a Tribe; and, being Ingrafted into Judah, in the Diviſion between the Ten Tribes and the Two, they in ſome ſort loſt their Name, and they, together with Judah, were accounted but one Tribe, as 1 King. 11. 32. &c. r i. e. One of the leaſt, obſcure and inconſiderable, in compariſon of divers others. Whence it may ſeem that Saul's Family was not ſo Noble and Wealthy, as ſome imagine. See on ver. 1. ſ Why doſt thou feed me with vain hopes of the Kingdom?

22 And Samuel took Saul and his ſervant t, and brought them into the parlour, and made them ſit in the chiefeſt place u among them that were bidden, which were about thirty perſons.

t Whom he honoured for Saul's ſake: thereby both giving all the Gueſts occaſion to think how great that Perſon was, or ſhould be, whoſe very Servant was advanced above the Chief Perſons of the City, who were doubtleſs preſent upon this occaſion; and ſhewing how far himſelf was from envying Saul that Honour and Power, which was to be tranſlated from him to Saul. u Thereby to raiſe all their expectation, and to prepare them for giving that Honour to Saul, which his approaching Dignity required.

23 And Samuel ſaid unto the cook, Bring the portion which I gave thee x, of which I ſaid unto thee, Set it by thee.

x Or, I appointed or diſpoſed to thee, i. e. which I bad thee reſerve for this uſe.

24 And the cook took up the ſhoulder y, and that which was upon it z, and ſet it before Saul: and Samuel ſaid, Behold, that which is ‖ left a, ſet it before thee, and eat: for unto this time b hath it been kept for thee, ſince I ſaid c, I have invited the people d: ſo Saul did eat with Samuel that day.

‖ Or, reſerved,

y To wit, the left Shoulder, for the right Shoulder was the Prieſts, Levit. 7. 32. 33. This he gives him, either, Firſt, As the beſt and nobleſt part of the remainders of the Sacrifice: the beſt parts being uſually given by the Maſter of the Feaſt to ſuch Gueſts as were moſt Honourable, or beſt Beloved, as Gen. 43. 34. Or, Secondly, As a ſecret Symbol or Sign of that burden which was to be laid upon Saul, and of that ſtrength which was neceſſary for the bearing of it; the Shoulder being both the Seat of burdens, and the ſubject of ſtrength. z Something which the Cook by Samuel's order was to put upon it when it was dreſt, either for Ornament, or in the nature of a Sauce. a To wit, left of the Sacrifice; but ſo all, or moſt, of the reſt of their Proviſions were left: Or rather, reſerved, or laid by, by my order, for thy eating; when the reſt of the Meat was ſent up, and diſpoſed of as the Cook pleaſed. b Till thou ſhouldſt come hither and ſit down here: whereby thou maiſt know that thy coming hither was not unknown to me, and was deſigned by God for an higher purpoſe. c To wit, to the Cook, who was before mentioned, as the Perſon to whoſe care this was committed. d i. e. I have invited or Deſigned ſome

Perſons

Persons, for whom I reserve this part. For since the word People is not here taken properly, but for some particular Persons of the People, which were not in all above thirty, ver. 22. why may not the same word be understood of two or three Persons whom Samuel specially invited, to wit, Saul and his Servant? So some Learned Men understand this word People, of three Men, 2 King. 18. 36. And they further Note, That in the Arabick, and Æthiopick, and Persian Languages, (all which are near a-kin, both to themselves, and to the Hebrew, and do oft-times communicate their signification each to other:) the word that signifies People, is oft used for some few particular Persons. Or, if the word People be meant of the chief of the People, mentioned above, *v.*22. then Samuel was the principal Author of this Sacrifice and Feast, and it was not a Sacrifice of the People, as it is rendred ver. 12. but a Sacrifice and Feast made by Samuel for the People, as it should be rendred there: and the sence is, When I first spake or sent word to the Cook, that I had Invited the People, first to joyn with me in my Sacrifice, and then to partake with me of the Feast, I then bad him reserve this part for thy use.

25. ¶ And when they were come down from the high place into the city, Samuel communed with Saul e upon the top of the house f.

e Concerning the Kingdom designed to him by God, and his Duty to expect it patiently, till God actually called him to it; and to Administer it Piously, and Justly, and Valiantly. f Which was flat after the manner, Deut. 22. 8. and so fit for walking, and for secret Prayers, Dan. 6. 10. Act. 10. 9. or any private and familiar Discourses among Friends.

26 And they arose early: and it came to pass about the spring of the day, that Samuel called Saul to the top of the house g, saying †, Up, that I may send thee away h: and Saul arose, and they went out both of them, he and Samuel abroad i.

† After other discourse.

27 And as they were going down to the end of the city, Samuel said to Saul, Bid the servant pass on before us k, (and he passed on) but stand thou still † a while, that I may shew thee the word of God l.

† Heb. to day.

k That thou and I may speak privately of the matter of the Kingdom. Which Samuel hitherto endeavoured to conceal, lest he should be thought now to impose a King upon them, as before he denied one to them; and that it might appear by the Lot mentioned in the next Chapter, that the Kingdom was given to Saul by God's destination, and not by Samuel's contrivance. l i. e. A Message delivered to me from God, which now I shall impart to thee.

CHAP. X.

THen Samuel took a vial of oil, and poured it upon his head a, and kissed him b, and said, Is it not because the LORD hath anointed thee to be captain over his inheritance c?

a Which was the usual Rite in the Designation, as of Priests and Prophets, so also of Kings, as 1 Sam. 16. 1, 13. 1 King. 1. 39. 2 King. 9. 1, 3, 6. whereby was signified the pouring forth of the Gifts of Gods Spirit upon him, to enable him for the Administration of his Office, which he might expect, and should receive upon the discharge of his Duty. b Partly, in token of that Reverence which he did owe, and that Subjection which he and all the People were shortly to perform to him, whereof Kissing was a sign, as Gen. 41. 40. 1 King. 19. 18. and partly, as a Testimony of his sincere Friendship and Affection to him, and how far he was from envying his Successor in the Supreme Dignity. c i. e. Over his own peculiar People. Whereby he Admonisheth Saul, that this People were not so much his, as Gods; and that he was not to Rule and Manage them according to his own will and pleasure, but according to the Will and Mind of God.

2 When thou art departed from me to day, then thou shalt find two men by * Rachels sepulchre, in the borders of Benjamin d, at Zelzah: and they will say unto thee, The asses which thou wentest to seek, are found: and lo, thy father hath left † the care of the asses, and sorroweth for you, saying, What shall I do for my son?

* Gen. 35. 19, 20.

† Heb. the business.

d In the way to Bethlehem, Gen. 35. 19. which City was in Judah; and her Sepulchre might be either in Judah, or in Benjamin; for the possessions of those two Tribes were bordering one upon another, and oft intermixed together. See Jos. 18. 11.

3 Then shalt thou go on forward from thence and thou shalt come to the plain of Tabor e, and there shall meet thee three men going up to God to Bethel f, one carrying three kids, and another carrying three loaves of bread g, and another carrying a bottle of wine h.

e Not that at the foot of Mount Tabor, which was far from these parts; but another belonging to some other place or Man, called Tabor. f Properly so called, which was in Ephraim, where there was a Noted High-Place, famous for Jacob's Vision there, Gen. 28. 19. where it is probable they Offered Sacrifices, in this confused state of things, when the Ark was in one place, and the Tabernacle, if not destroyed, in another. Or, to the House of God, i. e. to Kiriath-jearim, where the Ark, the habitation of God, now was, 1 Sam. 7. 1, 2, 16. g Which might be Offered, either by themselves, as Levit. 2. 4. or with other Sacrifices. h Which was poured forth in Drink-Offerings. See Lev. 23. 13. Numb. 15. 5.

4 And they will † salute thee, and give thee two loaves of bread i, which thou shalt receive of their hand.

† Heb. ask thee of peace.

i Two of those three designed for Sacrifice, supposing they could easily procure a supply of other Loaves at Bethel. But the more strange the Present was, the more fit it was for a sign of Gods extraordinary Providence in Saul's affairs.

5 After that thou shalt come to the hill of God k, where is the garison of the Philistines: and it shall come to pass, when thou art come thither to the city l, that thou shalt meet a company of prophets m coming down from the high place n, with a psaltery, and a tabret, and a pipe, and a harp before them o, and they shall prophesie p.

k An Hill near Geba, or Gibeah of Benjamin, where a Garrison of Philistines was, 1 Sam. 13. 3. called here the Hill of God, because it was a place Devoted to the Service of God; either for Sacrifice, this being an high place, as it here follows; or, for a School or Colledge of Prophets. l Adjoyning to that Hill. m By Prophets here, and in such like places, he understands Persons that did wholly Devote themselves to Religious studies and exercises, such as Preaching, Praying, Praising of God, &c. For the term of Prophesying is not onely given to the most Eminent act of it, viz. foretelling things to come; but also to Preaching, as Rom. 12. 6. 1 Cor. 14. 31, 32. 1 Thes. 5. 20. and to the making or singing of Psalms, or Songs of Praise to God, as 1 Chron. 25. 1, 2, 3. And they that wholly attended upon these things, are oft called Sons of the Prophets, which were commonly combined into Companies or Colledges, as 2 King. 2. 3. 5. that they might more conveniently edify and assist one another in Gods work. Which Institution God was pleased so far to Honour and Bless, that sometimes he communicated unto those Persons the knowledge of future things, as 2 King. 2. 3, 5. n Where, either, their habitation was, or they had now been offering Sacrifice. And although they used to perform this following exercise, either in their Colledge, or in the place of their Sacrifices; yet now they did it in the descent of the Hill, which probably was beside their Custome, and therefore more proper for a sign to Saul of a more than ordinary hand of God towards him. o Such Instruments of Musick being then used by Prophets and other persons, for the exhilaration and excitation of their spirits in Gods Service. See 2 King. 3. 15. p Either sing Gods Praises, or speak of the things of God.

6 And the Spirit of the LORD will come upon thee q, and thou shalt prophesie with them, and shalt be turned into another man r.

q Heb. will leap or rush upon thee, to wit, for a season. So it may be opposed to the Spirits resting upon a man, as Numb. 11. 25. Isa. 11. 2. r i. e. Thou shalt be suddenly endowed and acted with another Spirit, filled with skill of Divine things, with Courage, and Wisdom and Magnanimity; and other qualifications befitting thy Dignity.

7 And † let it be when these signs s are come unto thee, † that thou do as occasion shall serve thee t, for God is with thee.

† Heb. it shall come to pass that when those signs &c.

s Which were certain evidences of Gods calling of him to the Kingdom, because they were all future contingencies, which none but God could infallibly know or foretel. t Heb. do what † Heb. do for thee as thy hand shall find.

what thy hand findeth to do; i. e. As thou shalt have a Call and opportunity. He doth not intend that he should take the Kingly Government upon him, before his Call to it was known to, and owned by the People, which had been preposterous and dangerous; but that he should dispose his mind to a readiness of undertaking any Publick Service when necessity required it, and he should be called to his Office.

8 And thou shalt go down before me to Gilgal, and behold, I will come down unto thee, to offer burnt-offerings, and to sacrifice sacrifices of peace-offerings: * seven days shalt thou tarry till I come to thee u, and shew thee what thou shalt do.

* chap. 13. 8.

u This, though now mentioned and commanded, yet was not immediately to be performed; as is evident, partly from the whole course of the Story, which shews, That Saul and Samuel, and the People, first met at Mizpeh, ver. 17, &c. where Saul was chosen by God, and accepted by the People as King; and afterwards went to Gilgal once before the time here spoken of, chap. 11. 14, 15. and partly, by comparing this place with chap. 13. 8, &c. where we find Saul charged with the violation of this Command, two years after the giving of it, as appears from chap. 13. 1, 2. Quest. How then is this to be understood? Answ. 1. This may be given as a standing Rule for Saul to observe while Samuel and he lived; That in case of any great future difficulties, as the Invasion of Enemies, Saul should resort to Gilgal, and call the people thither, and tarry there seven days, which was but a reasonable, and necessary time for the gathering of the People, and for the coming of Samuel thither. For though this be related as but once done, chap. 13. yet Josephus affirms, that it was to be constantly practised upon all such occasions. And Gilgal was chosen for this purpose as a very fit place; partly, because that place was famous for the solemn renewing of the Covenant between God and Israel, Jos. 4. and for other eminent instances of Gods favour to them, the remembrance whereof was a notable confirmation of their Faith; and partly, because it was a very convenient place for the Tribes within and without Jordan to assemble, and consult, and unite their Forces together upon such occasions. If you ask, Why then Saul did not practise this Precept upon the first Invasion of the Ammonites? It may be answered, That this was a Rule for Saul, when he and Samuel were asunder, whereas they were together in that expedition, chap. 11. 7. And further, That necessity did excuse the Violation of this Precept then, because Saul could not wait for Samuel, nor forbear his action for Seven days, as is evident from chap. 11. 3, 9, 10. Or, 2. (which I propose with submission to the Learned and Judicious) This may be here added as another sign to confirm his Faith, which having strengthned by three foregoing signs, he now fortifies it by another sign which was to follow afterwards; it being very usual for God to give men signs to confirm their Faith from future Events; as Exod. 3. 12. 2 King. 19. 29. Isa. 7. 13, 14. So the meaning may be this; Another sign I will add to strengthen thy Faith; Thou shalt in due time, and upon a great occasion which shall then happen, go down before me to Gilgal, and there I will come down unto thee to offer——Sacrifices, &c. But when thou comest thither, be sure thou tarry there seven days, and then I will come, as I have said, and give thee necessary Instructions and Assistance, as the matter shall require.

9 ¶ And it was so that when he had turned his † back to go from Samuel, God † gave him another heart: * and all those signs came to pass that day.

† Heb. shoulder. † Heb. turned. * See on v. 6.

10 And when they came thither to the hill, behold, a company of prophets met him, and the Spirit of God came upon him, and he prophesied among them x.

x The accomplishment of the two former signs is supposed, and this onely of the third is expressed, because this was more eminent and publick than the former; the other were onely Transient acts, which passed in private between two or three persons meeting together, and passing by one another; but this was a more permanent and more notorious sign, done in a more solemn manner, and before many, and very considerable witnesses.

11 And it came to pass, when all that knew him before-time, saw, that behold, he prophesied among the prophets, then the people said † one to another, What is this that is come unto the son of Kish y? * is Saul z also among the prophets?

† Heb. a man to his neighbour. * chap. 19. 24.

y What means this strange and prodigious event? z A man never instructed, nor exercised in, nor enclined to these matters; a man ever thought fitter to look to his Fathers Asses, than to bear a part in the sacred exercises of the Prophets.

12 And one † of the same place a answered, and said, But who is their father b? Therefore it became a proverb c, Is Saul also among the prophets?

† Heb. from thence.

a Heb. one from thence, i. e. One of the company there present, or one of the Prophets there prophecying. b Who is the Father of all these Prophets of whom you speak, and among whom Saul now is one? Who is it that instructs and inspires them with this holy Art, but God? They have it not from their Natural Parents, nor from their Civil Education, but by Inspiration from God, who, when he pleaseth, can inspire Saul, or any other man with the same skill. And therefore wonder not at this matter, but give God the glory of it. Father is here put for Teacher, or Instructor, as it is used; as Gen. 4. 20, 21. Mat. 23. 9. 1 Cor. 4. 15. And hence the Scholars are called sons of the Prophets. c Used when any strange, unlikely, or unexpected thing happened.

13 And when he had made an end of prophesying, he came to the high place d.

d Returning thither with the Prophets, there to praise God for these wonderful favours, and to beg counsel and help from God in this high business.

14 ¶ And Sauls uncle e said unto him, and to his servant, Whither went ye? and he said, To seek the asses: and when we saw that they were no where, we came to Samuel.

e Being there present, and observing this great alteration in his Nephew.

15 And Sauls uncle said, Tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel said unto you.

16 And Saul said unto his uncle, He told us plainly that the asses were found. But of the matter of the kingdom, whereof Samuel spake, he told him not f.

f Partly in obedience to Samuel, who obliged him to secrecy: partly, from an humble modesty which appeared in him, ver. 22. and partly in prudence, lest by an unseasonable publishing of it, he should raise envy in some, disbelief and contempt in others, &c.

17 ¶ And Samuel called the people together unto the LORD g to Mizpeh h, g To appear before the Lord. So he speaks, either, 1. Because the Ark was carried thither upon this occasion. Or, 2. Because God is present in all the Assemblies of his People, whereof this was an eminent one, See 2 Chron. 19. 6. Psal. 82. 1. Or, 3. Because they did in a manner Erect a Tribunal for God; and intreated, and consequently obtained his Presence there to supervise and direct the whole business by his sentence, which also he did, v. 19, &c. See of this Phrase Judg. 11. 11. and 20. 1. h A City of Benjamin, Jos. 13. 26. where all Israel had met before upon a Publick and solemn occasion, 1 Sam. 7. 5.

18 And said unto the children of Israel, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, I brought up Israel out of Egypt, and delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all kingdoms i, and of them that oppressed you.

i To wit, the neighbouring Kingdoms, which molested you from time to time.

19 And ye have this day rejected your God k, who himself saved you l out of all your adversities, and your tribulations: and ye have said unto him m, Nay, but set a king over us. Now therefore present your selves before the LORD by your tribes, and by your thousands n.

k You this day declare, That you persist in your former act of rejecting Gods Government, See on chap. 8. 7. l Who by his own special Providence took care to raise up Judges and Saviours for you, and to deliver you at all times, when you needed his help, and did not by your Sins obstruct it. m i. e. Unto me his Prophet and Ambassador; and consequently unto the Lord whom I represented, and in whose Name I spake and acted. n For each Tribe was divided into thousands, Numb. 10. 36. Deut. 33. 17. Josh. 22. 14, 21. Mic. 5. 2. as in England, Counties are into Hundreds.

20 And when Samuel had caused all the tribes of Israel to come near o, the * tribe of Benjamin was taken *.

* Josh. 7. 14, 16.

o Unto the place appointed for the caſting of Lots. * Which Tribe was now preferred before Judah, becauſe the Kingdom was freely promiſed by God to Judah, and was to be given to him in love; but now the Kingdom was in a manner forced from God, and given to them in anger, Hoſ. 13. 11. and therefore conferred upon an obſcure Tribe.

21 When he had cauſed the tribe of Benjamin to come near by their families, the family of Matri was taken, and Saul the ſon of Kiſh was taken: and when they ſought him, he could not be found.

22 Therefore they enquired of the LORD p further, if the man ſhould yet come thither: and the LORD anſwered, Behold, he hath hid himſelf among the ſtuff q.

p Either by Urim or Thummim, which was the uſual way of enquiry, Numb. 27. 21. 1 Sam. 23. 9. and 28. 6. Or by Samuel, who by his Prayer procured an anſwer. q Among the Carriages or Baggage of the People there Aſſembled. This he might do, becauſe he either had, or at leaſt would be thought to have a modeſt ſence of his own unworthineſs, which was a likely way to commend him to the People.

23 And they ran and fetched him thence, and when he ſtood among the people, he was higher than any of the people, from his ſhoulders and upward.

24 And Samuel ſaid to all the people, See ye him whom the LORD hath choſen, that there is none like him among all the people r? and all the people ſhouted, and ſaid, † God ſave the king s.

† Heb. Let the King live.

r As to the height of his Bodily Stature, which was in it ſelf commendable in a King, and ſome kind of indication of great endowments of Mind. s Heb. Let the King live; to wit, long and proſperouſly; for an Afflicted Life is reputed a kind of Death, and is oft ſo called. Hereby they accept and own him for their King, and promiſe Subjection to him.

25 Then Samuel told the people the manner of the kingdom t, and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the LORD u, and Samuel ſent all the people away, every man to his houſe.

t Not the manner of the King, of which he had ſpoken before, chap. 8. 11, &c. but of the Kingdom; to wit, the Laws and Rules by which the Kingly Government was to be managed; agreeable to thoſe mentioned Deut. 17. 16, &c. which peradventure Samuel did expound, and apply to their particular caſe. u Before the Ark, or in the Sanctuary, where it was kept ſafe from depravation.

26 ¶ And Saul alſo went home to Gibeah x, and there went with him y a band of men, whoſe hearts God had touched z.

x Not being actually inaugurated into his Kingdom, he thought fit to retire to his former Habitation, and to live privately till he had an occaſion to ſhew himſelf in a more Publick and Illuſtrious manner, which he ſpeedily obtained. y To give him ſafe and honourable Conduct to his Houſe, though not to abide with him there, which did not ſuit with his preſent Circumſtances. z i. e. Either, 1. Diſpoſed or inclined to this work. Or, 2. Affected or renewed by his Grace and good Spirit working upon their Hearts; thoſe that feared God, and made Conſcience of their Duty: for they are oppoſed to the children of Belial in the next verſe. Theſe though they did not deſire a King, as the generality of the people did; yet when God had given them a King, they were moſt forward to pay him that Reverence and Obedience which they owed him: both which proceeded from the ſame Principle, that they were in both caſes guided by Gods will: which was, that they ſhould not deſire a King in their Circumſtances; and yet, that they ſhould obey him, when God had ſet a King over them.

27 But the children of Belial ſaid, How ſhall this man ‖ ſave us? and they deſpiſed him, and brought him no preſents †: but ‖ he held his peace *.

‖ Or, he was as though he had been deaf.

CHAP. XI.

THen a Nahaſh the Ammonite b came up c, and encamped againſt Jabeſh-gilead d: and all the men of Jabeſh ſaid unto Nahaſh, Make a covenant with us e, and we will ſerve thee f.

a i. e. About that time; this Particle being uſed in ſome Latitude, as is frequent: for that this happened before, and was the occaſion of their deſire of a King, may ſeem from chap. 12. 12. Although it is poſſible, that Nahaſh his preparation, and declared intention of Warring againſt them, might cauſe that deſire, and that Nahaſh did not actually come againſt them (which is here related) till their King was choſen. b Either the ſame with him, 2 Sam. 10. 2. or his Father and Predeceſſor. c To War, probably to revenge and recover their former great loſs by Jephthah, Judg. 11. 33. d Which was beyond Jordan, and near the Ammonites, who dwelt in part of Arabia. e To wit, upon good conditions, ſo as we ſhall enjoy our Religion and Properties. f In other things we will be thy Subjects and Tributaries. The occaſion of this offer was, that they ſaw no likelihood of relief from their brethren the Iſraelites in Canaan, who were remote from them, and then weak and divided, and ſcarce able to defend themſelves from the Philiſtines.

2 And Nahaſh the Ammonite anſwered them, On this condition will I † make a covenant with you, that I may thruſt out all your right eyes g, and lay it for a reproach upon all Iſrael.

† Heb. cut. See Exod. 23. 32. Gen. 15. 18. Jer. 34. 18.

g Partly for a Reproach, as it here follows; and partly, to diſable them from managing offenſive weapons in Battel; for their left Eye ſerved onely, or chiefly for Defence, being covered by thoſe large ſhields which then they uſed, and held in their left hand. He leaves them one Eye, that they might be fit to ſerve him in any mean and baſe office.

3 And the elders of Jabeſh ſaid unto him, † Give us ſeven days reſpite h, that we may ſend Meſſengers unto all the coaſts of Iſrael: and then, if there be no man to ſave us, we will come out to thee.

† Heb. forbear us.

h Which it is very probable, and Joſephus and others Affirm, That Nahaſh granted, out of a fooliſh ſelf-confidence, and contempt of the broken condition of the Iſraelites, which he thought utterly unable to give them any relief; at leaſt, in ſo ſhort a time.

4 ¶ Then came the meſſengers to Gibeah of Saul i, and told the tidings in the ears of the people: and all the people lift up their voices, and wept k.

i Partly, becauſe it was not far from them; and partly, becauſe it belonged to the Benjamites, who had a ſpecial obligation to take more care of that place from whence they had their Wives, Judg. 21. 10, &c. and partly, becauſe Saul, their new choſen King, was there. k Both in compaſſion towards them, and for fear of themſelves, leſt it ſhould ſhortly be their own lot.

5 And behold, Saul came after the herd out of the field l, and Saul ſaid, What aileth the people that they weep? and they told him the tidings of the men of Jabeſh.

l For being onely anointed King, and not publickly inaugurated, nor owned, nor preſented by the generality of the People, nor having yet had any opportunity of doing any thing worthy of his Place, he thought fit to forbear all Royal State, and to retire to his former private, and Country Life, which howſoever deſpiſed in theſe latter, vain, ambitious, and ſlothful Ages of the World, was anciently in great eſteem among the Greeks and Romans, whoſe Princes and Generals did frequently exerciſe themſelves in it. Though ſome conceive that he now lived in ſome State, and that he had been in the fields onely to recreate himſelf, and that his coming after the Herd was but accidental, and is mentioned only to uſher in what follows of the Yoke of Oxen.

6 And the Spirit of God came upon Saul m, when he heard thoſe tidings, and his anger was kindled greatly n.

m Inſpiring him ſuddenly with more than ordinary Courage, and Zeal, and Reſolution, to ingage himſelf and the people for their Reſcue. Compare Judg. 3. 10. and 6. 34. and 11. 29. n Againſt Nahaſh, for ſo inſolent and barbarous a Propoſition.

7 And

7 And he took a yoke of Oxen, and hewed them in pieces, and sent them throughout all the coasts of Israel o, by the hand of Messengers, saying, Whosoever cometh not forth after Saul, and after Samuel p, so shall it be done unto his oxen: and the fear of the LORD q fell on the people, and they came out † with one consent.

† Heb. as one man.

o Wisely considering, that the sight Mens Eyes do much more affect their Hearts, than what they onely hear with their Ears. p Whom he joyns with himself, both because he was present with him; as appears from ver. 12. and that hereby he might gain the more Authority to his Command, and strike the greater Terror into all despisers of it. q Either 1. A great fear; great things being oft thus expressed, as Cedars of God, Mountains of God, &c. Or, 2. A Fear sent upon them by God, as Gen. 35. 5. that they should not dare to deny their help.

8 And when he numbred them in Bezek, the children of Israel were three hundred thousand r, and the men of Judah thirty thousand s.

r This great Terror drew so many forth: which is not so strange to him that knows what none deny, That the Land of Canaan contained vast Numbers of People in a little compass. s Who are numbred apart to their honour, to shew how readily they, to whom the Kingdom was promised, Gen. 49. 10. submitted to their King, though of another and far meaner Tribe; and how willing they were to hazard themselves for their Brethrens Rescue, although they might have excused themselves from the necessity of defending their own Country from their dangerous Neighbours the Philistines.

9 And they said unto the messengers that came, Thus shall ye say unto the men of Jabesh-gilead, To morrow t by that time the sun be hot, ye shall ‖ Or, deliverance. have ‖ help. And the messengers came, and shewed it to the men of Jabesh, and they were glad.

t To wit, the day after your departure hence, or return home; for it seems probable, that some few days had been spent in the gathering and disposing of the Forces, and bringing them towards those parts, 10 Therefore the men of Jabesh said, To morrow we will come out unto you, and ye shall do with us all that seemeth good unto you u.

u They did, and might reasonably and justly understand their own condition before proposed, ver. 3. if none came to save them; which they were not now obliged to repeat, although they conjectured that their Enemies would understand it absolutely, whose Error therein they were no more obliged to correct, than to prevent their Destruction. Nor did they tell any lye herein, but onely concealed part of their intentions, to render their Enemy more secure and fit for Ruine; which kind of Stratagems are usual, and allowed by all persons.

11 And it was so on the morrow, that Saul put the people into three companies x, and they came into the midst of the host in the morning watch y, and slew the Ammonites, until the heat of the day: and it came to pass, that they which remained were scattered, so that two of them were not left together.

x That so Invading them on several sides with a great Force, he might both strike them with the greater Terror, and prevent their escape. y Having marched all the day and night before it.

* chap. 10. 27. * Luk. 19. 27. 12 ¶ And the people said unto Samuel, * Who is he that said, Shall Saul reign over us z? * bring the men, that we may put them to death a.

z They did not say so in terms, as we may see ver. 27. but this was the design and consequence of their Speech, as they rightly construe it. a Which till this time they were not able to do, because that infection was then almost universal.

* 2 Sam. 19. 22. 13 And Saul said, * There shall not a man be put to death this day: for to day the LORD hath wrought salvation in Israel b.

b I will not destroy any of those whom God hath so graciously preserved; nor sully the mirth of this glorious and comfortable Day with the slaughter of any of my Subjects: and therefore I freely forgive them. Wherein Saul shewed his Policy as well as his Clemency, this being the most likely way to gain his Enemies, and secure his Friends, and establish his Throne in the hearts of his People.

14 Then c said Samuel to the people, Come, and let us go to Gilgal d, and renew the kingdom there e.

c Whilest the people were together by Jabesh-Gilead, wherein Samuel's great prudence and fidelity to Saul is evident. He suspended the Confirmation of Saul at first, whilst the generality of the people were disaffected and discontented at the meanness of his Person: and now when he had given such eminent proof of his Princely Vertues, and when the peoples hearts were unanimously and eagerly set upon him, he takes this as the fittest season for that work. d This place he chose, both because it was near, and, to most of them, in the way to their homes; and because thither the Israelites on this side, and beyond Jordan, might more easily resort; and because it was famous for publick Conventions there kept, and particularly, for the Covenant there renewed by Joshua between God and the People. e i. e. Confirm our former choice, to prevent all such Seditious Expressions and Actions as we had experience of at the former Election.

15 And all the people went to Gilgal, and there they made Saul king f before the LORD g in Gilgal: and there they sacrificed sacrifices of peace-offerings h, before the LORD: and there Saul and all the men of Israel rejoyced greatly.

f i. e. They Recognized him, or owned and accepted him for their King by consent; for to speak properly, Saul was not made, or constituted King by the People, but by the Lords immediate Act; see chap. 8. 9. and 10. 1. g Who was there present in a special manner; both because the People of the Lord were there Assembled, and because there was an Altar, as the following Sacrifices shew. The same Phrase is used chap. 10. 17. and 14. 18. h Partly to Praise God for so glorious a Victory, and for the firm Settlement of the distracted Kingdom; and partly, to implore the Presence and Assistance of God to the King and Kingdom, in all their Affairs and Exigencies.

CHAP. XII.

AND Samuel said unto all Israel a, Behold, I have hearkened unto your voice in all that ye said unto me, and have made a king over you.

a Whilst they were Assembled together in Gilgal. And this is another instance of Samuel's great Wisdom and Integrity. He would not reprove the People for their Sin, in desiring a King, whilst Saul was raw, and weak, and unsettled in his Kingdom, and in the Peoples hearts; lest through their accustomed levity, they should as hastily cast off their King, as they had passionately desired him, and so add one Sin to another; and therefore he chuseth this Season for it; partly, because Saul's Kingdom was now confirmed and illustrated by an eminent Victory, and so the danger of rejecting him was out of doors; which circumstance was also considerable for Samuel's Vindication, that it might appear, that his following Reproof did not proceed from any selfish respects or desires, which he might be supposed to have of retaining the power in his own hands, but meerly from the Conscience of his Duty, and a Sincere desire of all their good; and partly, because the People rejoyced greatly, as is said in the next foregoing Verse; and upon this occasion applauded themselves for their desires of a King; and Interpreted the success which God had now given them, as a Divine Approbation of those desires; whereby they were like to be hardened in their impenitency, and might be drawn to many other inconveniencies: Samuel therefore thinks fit to temper their excessive joys, and to excite them to that Repentance and Holy Fear, which he saw wanting in them, and which he knew to be absolutely necessary, to prevent the Curse of God upon their new King, and the whole Kingdom.

2 And now, behold, the king walketh before you b: and I am old and gray-headed c, and behold, my sons are with you d: and I have walked before you e from my childhood unto this day.

b Goeth out and cometh in before you; i. e. Ruleth over you, as that Phrase signifies, Numb. 27. 16. Deut. 31. 2. 2 Chron. 1. 10. To him I have fully resigned all my Power and Authority, and do hereby renounce it, and own my self for a private Person, and one of his Subjects. c And therefore unable to bear the burden of Government, and feel my self greatly at ease to see it cast upon other Shoulders; and therefore do not speak what I am about to say, from envy of Saul's Advancement, or from discontent at the Diminution of my own Power. d Or, among you, in the same State and Place, private Persons, as you are; if they have injured any of you in their Government, as you once complained, the Law is now open against them; any of you may accuse them, your King can punish them, I do not intercede for them, I have neither Power nor Will to keep them from receiving the just Fruits of their Misdemeanours. e i. e. Been your Guide and Governour; partly, as a Prophet; and partly, as a Judge.

3 Behold, here I am, witneſs againſt me f before the LORD, and before his anointed: * Whoſe ox have I taken? or whoſe aſs have I taken? or whom have I defrauded? whom have I oppreſſed g? or of whoſe hand have I received any † bribe h ‖ to blind mine eyes therewith i? and I will reſtore it you k.

‖ Or, that I ſhould hide mine eyes at him.

f I here preſent my ſelf before the Lord, and before your King, being ready to give an account of all my Adminiſtrations, and to make ſatisfaction for any Injuries that I have done. And this Proteſtation Samuel makes of his Integrity, not out of Oſtentation or Vain-glory; but partly, for his own juſt Vindication, that the People might not hereafter for the Defence of their own Irregularities, reproach his Government; partly, that being publickly acquitted from all faults in his Government, he might more freely and boldly reprove the ſins of the People, and particularly, that ſin of theirs in deſiring a King, when they had ſo little reaſon for it, and they had ſo juſt a Governour, from whom they might have promiſed themſelves an effectual Redreſs of his Sons male adminiſtrations, if they had acquainted him therewith; and partly, that by his Example he might tacitly Admoniſh Saul of his Duty, and prevent his miſunderſtanding of what he had formerly ſaid, chap. 8. ver. 11. &c. and miſtake that for the Rule of his juſt Power, which was onely a Prediction of his Evil Practices. g Whom have I wronged, either by Fraud and falſe Accuſation, or by Might and Violence? h Heb. Price of Redemption, given to Redeem an unjuſt and loſt Cauſe or Perſon, from that Righteous Sentence which they deſerved. i That I ſhould not diſcern what was right and juſt, or diſſemble it as if I did not ſee it. Or, that I ſhould hide or cover mine eyes (i. e. wilfully wink at the plain truth) for it, i. e. for the Bribe; or, for him, i. e. for his ſake. k Or, and I will cover mine eyes from him, i. e. I will take ſhame to my ſelf, and cover my face as one aſhamed to look upon him.

4 And they ſaid, Thou haſt not defrauded us, nor oppreſſed us, neither haſt thou taken ought of any mans hand.

5 And he ſaid unto them, The LORD is witneſs againſt you l, and his anointed is witneſs this day, that ye have not found ought m in my hand: And they anſwered n, He is witneſs.

l To wit, if you ſhall at any time hereafter reproach my Government or Memory. Or rather, againſt you, that I gave you no cauſe to be weary of Gods Government of you by Judges, or to deſire a change of the Government; and therefore the blame of it wholly reſts upon your ſelves. But this was onely inſinuated, and therefore the People did not fully underſtand his drift in it. m i. e. Any thing which I have gotten by Bribery or Oppreſſion. n Heb. he anſwered, i. e. the whole People, who are here ſpoken of as one Perſon, becauſe they anſwered thus with one conſent.

And laſtly, Moſes ſubſtituted Joſhua in his ſtead, and commanded him to carry them thither, and ſeat them there, which alſo he did.

9 And when they forgat the LORD their God ſ, * he ſold them into the hand of Siſera, captain of the hoſt of Hazor, and into the hand * of the Philiſtines, and into the hand of the king * of Moab, and they fought againſt them t.

ſ i. e. They revolted from him, as it is explained ver. 10: and carried themſelves as ungratefully and unworthily towards God, as if they had wholly forgotten his great and innumerable Favours, and their infinite Obligations to him. Forgetting of God, is oft put for all manner of wickedneſs, whereof indeed that is the true cauſe. See Iſa. 17. 10. Jer. 3. 21. Ezek. 22. 12. This he ſaith, partly, to Anſwer an Objection, That the reaſon why they deſired a King, was becauſe in the time of the Judges they were at great uncertainties, and oft-times exerciſed with ſharp afflictions: to which he anſwereth by Conceſſion that they were ſo; but adds, by way of Retortion, that they themſelves were the cauſe of it, by their forgetting of God: ſo that it was not the fault of that kind of Government, but their tranſgreſſing the Rules of it; and partly, to mind them, that this their ungrateful carriage towards God, was no new or ſtrange thing, but an hereditary and inveterate Diſeaſe, that ſo they might more eaſily believe their own Guilt herein, and be more deeply humbled both for their own, and for their Parents Sins. t To wit, with ſucceſs, and ſubdued them.

10 And they cryed unto the LORD, and ſaid, We have ſinned, becauſe we have forſaken the LORD, and have ſerved Baalim, and Aſhtaroth: but now deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, and we will ſerve thee.

11 And the LORD ſent * Jerubbaal, and Bedan u, and * Jephthah, and * Samuel x, and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies on every ſide, and ye dwelled ſafe y.

* chap. 7. 13.

u This certainly is one of the Judges; and becauſe there is no Judge ſo called in the Book of Judges, it is reaſonably concluded, that this was one of the Judges there mentioned, having two Names, as was very frequent. And this was, either, Firſt, Sampſon, as moſt Interpreters believe, who is called Bedan; i. e. in Dan, or of Dan, or the Son Dan, one of that Tribe, to ſignifie that they had no reaſon to diſtruſt that God, who could, and did, raiſe ſo eminent a Saviour out of ſo obſcure a Tribe. Or, Secondly, Jair the Gileadite, of whom Judg. 10. 3. which may ſeem beſt to agree, Firſt, With the Time and Order of the Judges; for Jair was before Jephthah, but Sampſon was after him. Secondly, With other Scriptures: for among the Sons of a more Ancient, and a Famous Jair, of whom ſee Numb. 32. 41. we meet with one called Bedan, 1 Chron. 7. 17. which Name ſeems here given to Jair the Judge, to diſtinguiſh him from that firſt Jair. Thirdly, With the following words, which ſhew that this Bedan was one of thoſe Judges who deliver'd them out of the hand of their Enemies on every ſide, and made them to dwell ſafely; which ſeems not ſo properly to agree to Sampſon, who did onely begin to deliver Iſrael out of the hand of the Philiſtines; as was foretold of him, Judg. 13. 5. as to Jair, who kept them in peace and ſafety, in the midſt of all their Enemies, as may be gathered from Judg. 10. 3, 4, 5, 6. And ſo did all the reſt of the Judges here mentioned. x He ſpeaks of himſelf in the Third Perſon, which is frequent in the Hebrew Tongue, as Gen. 4. 23. Pſal. 132. 1, 10, 11. Dan. 1. 6. Iſa. 1. 1. And he mentions himſelf not through vain Oſtentation, but for his own juſt and neceſſary Vindication, and for the juſtification and inforcement of his following Reproof, to ſhew that he had not degenerated from his Predeceſſors, nor had been ſo inconſiderable and unprofitable to them, as to give them any occaſion to contrive or deſire this change of Government in his days. y So that it was no neceſſity, but meer wantonneſs, that made you deſire a change.

12 And when ye ſaw that Nahaſh the king of the children of Ammon came againſt you, * ye ſaid unto me, Nay, but a king ſhall reign over us z, when the LORD your God was your king a.

* chap. 8. 19.

z See the Notes on chap. 11. 1. a i. e. When God was your immediate King and Governour, who was both able and willing to deliver you, if you had cried to him, whereof you and your Anceſtors have had plentiful experience; ſo that you did not at all need any other King; and your deſire of another, was a manifeſt reproach againſt God, as if he were either grown Impotent, or Unfaithful, or Unmerciful to you.

13 Now

13 Now therefore, behold the king whom ye have choſen b, and whom ye have deſired: and behold, the LORD hath ſet a king over you c.

b Though God choſe him by Lot, yet the People are ſaid to chuſe him; either generally, becauſe they choſe that Form of Government: or particularly, becauſe they approved of Gods choice, chap. 10. 24. and confirmed it, chap. 11. 15.
c He hath yielded to your inordinate deſire.

14 If ye will fear the LORD, and ſerve him, and obey his voice, and not rebel againſt the † Heb. mouth. † commandment of the LORD, then ſhall both ye, and alſo the king that reigneth over you, † Heb. be after. † continue following the LORD d your God.

d Heb. then ſhall---ye---be, (i. e. walk, or go) after the Lord; i. e. God ſhall ſtill go before you, as he hath hitherto done, as your Leader or Governour, to Direct, Protect, and Deliver you; and he will not forſake you, as you have given him juſt cauſe to do. Sometimes this Phraſe of going after the Lord, ſignifies a Mans Obedience to God; but here it is otherwiſe to be underſtood (as it is no new thing, for the ſame Phraſe in ſeveral places, to be underſtood in quite different Senſes); and it Notes not a Duty to be performed, but a promiſe of a Priviledge to be received upon the performance of their Duty; becauſe it is oppoſed to a threatning denounced in caſe of Diſobedience, in the next Verſe.

15 But if ye will not obey the voice of the LORD, but rebel againſt the commandment of the LORD, then ſhall the hand of the LORD be againſt you, as it was againſt your fathers e.

e Who lived under the Judges; and you ſhall have no advantage in that point by the change of Government, nor ſhall your Kings be able to Protect you againſt Gods Diſpleaſure.

16 ¶ Now therefore ſtand f, and ſee this great thing which the LORD will do before your eyes.

f He intends not the poſture of their Bodies, but the conſiſtency of their Minds, by ſerious and fixed Conſideration.

17 Is it not wheat-harveſt to day g? I will call † Heb. voice. unto the LORD, and he ſhall ſend † thunder and rain h, that ye may perceive and ſee that your wickedneſs is great, which ye have done in the ſight of the LORD, in asking you a king.

g At which time it was a rare thing in thoſe parts to have Thunder or Rain, as the Scripture oft implies; and St. Jerom affirms, who was an Eye-witneſs of it; the weather being more conſtant and certain in its Seaſons there, and in divers other parts, than it is with us who live in Iſlands, as all Travellers inform us. h That by this unſeaſonable and pernicious Storm you may underſtand that God is diſpleaſed with you; and alſo how Fooliſhly and Wickedly you have done in rejecting the Government of that God, at whoſe command are all things both in Heaven and in Earth.

18 So Samuel called unto the LORD, and the LORD ſent thunder and rain that day: and all the people greatly feared the LORD, and Samuel i.

i Who had ſuch great Power and Favour with God.

19 And all the people ſaid unto Samuel, Pray for thy ſervants k unto the LORD thy God l, that we die not m: for we have added unto all our ſins, this evil, to ask us a king n.

k For ſo we ſhall ſtill own our ſelves to be, though we have got another Maſter. l Whom thou haſt ſo great an Intereſt in, and canſt ſo eaſily prevail with for any Mercy, whilſt we are aſhamed and afraid to call him our God, becauſe we have ſo highly offended him. m That this terrible Storm may be taken away, leſt our Perſons and the Fruits of the Earth be all Deſtroyed. n So horribly were they biaſſed with their prejudices and paſſions, that nothing but a Miracle could convince them of this particular Sin.

20 ¶ And Samuel ſaid unto the people, Fear not o: (ye have done all this wickedneſs, yet turn not aſide from following the LORD, but ſerve the LORD with all your heart:

o To wit, with a Servile and Deſponding Fear, as if there were no hope leſt for you.

21 And turn ye not aſide p, for then ſhould ye go q after vain things r, which cannot profit nor deliver ſ, for they are vain)

p To wit, after Idols; as they had often done before; and, notwithſtanding this warning, did afterwards. q Or, ſhould ye turn aſide; which words are eaſily to be underſtood out of the foregoing Branch, ſuch Elliſes being moſt frequent in Scripture, as Deut. 1. 4. 1 King. 14. 14. 2 King. 9. 27. r So Idols are called, Deut. 32. 21. Jer. 2. 5. and ſo they are, being meer nothings, 1 Cor. 8. 4. having no Divinity nor Power in them, no Influence upon us, nor uſe or benefit to us. ſ i. e. Which will not onely be unprofitable, but highly pernicious to you; the contrary Affirmative being underſtood under the Negative, as Exod. 20. 7. Numb. 21. 23. Deut. 2. 30.

22 * For the LORD will not forſake his peo- * Pſal. 94. 14.

ſ i. e. For his own Honour, which would ſeem to ſuffer much among men, if he ſhould not preſerve and deliver his People in eminent Dangers; as if he were grown feeble, or forgetful, or inconſtant, or unfaithful, or regardleſs of Human affairs, or unkind to thoſe who own and Worſhip him, when all the reſt of the World forſake him. Hence this Argument hath been oft pleaded with God, not without good ſucceſs, as Exod. 32. 12. Numb. 14. 13, &c. And this reaſon God here alledgeth to take them off from all conceit of their own merit; and to aſſure them, that if they did truly repent of all their ſins, and ſerved God with all their heart, which is here ſuppoſed; yet even in that caſe their Salvation would not be due to their Merits; but onely the effect of Gods Free Mercy. t To wit, out of his own Free Grace, without any deſert of yours, as he ſaith, Deut. 7. 7. and 9. 5. and therefore he will not eaſily forſake you, except you thruſt him away.

23 Moreover, as for me, God forbid that I ſhould ſin againſt the LORD, † in ceaſing to pray for † Heb. from ceaſing. you u: but I will teach you x the good and the right way.

u Think not that becauſe you have ſo highly Diſobliged and Rejected me, that I will revenge my ſelf, by neglecting to pray for you, or by praying againſt you, as I have now done for your Conviction and Humiliation, and ſo for your Preſervation; I am ſenſible it is my Duty, as I am a Man, an Iſraelite, a Miniſter, a Prophet, to pray for you. x Heb. and I will, &c. i. e. I will not onely Pray for you, which is one Branch of my Duty; but will alſo Teach and Inſtruct you, which is the other Branch of it. And though you have caſt me off from being your Judge and Ruler, yet I will not ceaſe to be your Inſtructor and Monitor, to keep you from Sin and Deſtruction.

24 Onely fear the LORD, and ſerve him y in truth with all your heart: for conſider ‖ how great things he hath done for you z.
‖ Or, what a great thing, &c.

y Otherwiſe neither my Prayer nor Counſels will ſtand you in any ſtead. z Or, among you, both at this time and formerly.

25 But if ye ſhall ſtill do wickedly, ye ſhall be conſumed, both ye and your king.

e The firſt Deſign of Saul and Jonathan, was to free their Land from the Gariſons which the Philiſtines had in it; and they firſt begin to clear their own Country of Benjamin. f Not the ſame place called Gibeah, ver. 2. (for if the place were the ſame, why ſhould he vary the Name of it in the ſame Story, and in the next Verſe? Nor is it likely that Jonathan would chuſe that place for his Camp, where the Philiſtines had a Gariſon): but another place in the ſame Tribe, in which there were two diſtinct places, Gebah and Gibeah, Joſh. 18. 24, 28. g i. e. He ſent Meſſengers to tell them all what Jonathan had done, and how the Philiſtines were enraged at it, and made great preparations for War; and therefore what neceſſity there was of gathering themſelves together, and coming to him, for his and their own Defence.

* Joſh. 7. 2. and 18. 12, 13.

k This number ſeems incredible to Infidels. To whom it may be ſufficient to reply, That it is far more rational to acknowledge a miſtake in him that Copied out the Sacred Text in ſuch Numeral or Hiſtorical paſſages, wherein the Doctrine of Faith and Good Life is not directly concerned, than upon ſuch a pretence to queſtion the Truth and Divinity of the Holy Scriptures, which are ſo fully Atteſted, and evidently Demonſtrated. And the miſtake is not great in the Hebrew, Schaloſh for Scheliſhim; and ſo indeed thoſe two Ancient Tranſlators, the Syriack and Arabick Tranſlate it, and are ſuppoſed to have read in their Hebrew Copies, Three thouſand. Nor is it neceſſary that all theſe ſhould be Military Charets, but many of them might be for Carriage of things belonging to ſo great an Army; For ſuch a diſtinction of Charets we find, Exod. 14. 7. But there is no need of this Reply. Charets here may very well be put for the Men that rode upon them, and Fought out of them, by a Figure called a Metonymy, of the Subject for the Adjunct; or the thing containing, for the thing contained in it, than which none more frequent. In the very ſame manner, and by the very ſame Figure, the Baſket is put for the Meat in it, Deut. 28. 5, 17. the Wilderneſs, for the wild Beaſts of the Wilderneſs, Pſal. 29. 8. the Neſt, for the Birds in't, Deut. 32. 11. the Cup, for the Drink in it, Jer. 49. 12. 1 Cor. 10. 21. And, to come more cloſely to the point, an Horſe is put for an Horſe-load of Wares laid upon it, 1 King. 10. 28. and an Aſſe of Bread, is put for an Aſſe load of Bread, both in the Hebrew Text of 1 Sam. 16. 20. and in an Ancient Greek Poet. And, yet nearer, the word Charets, is manifeſtly put, either for the Horſes belonging to them: or rather, for the Men that Fought out of them, as 2 Sam. 10. 18. where it is ſaid in the Hebrew, that David ſlew Seven hundred Charets; that is, Seven thouſand Men, which Fought in Charets, as it is explained, 1 Chron. 19. 18. and 1 King 20. 21. where Ahab is ſaid to ſmite Horſes and Charets; and 1 Chron. 18. 4. and Pſal. 76. 6. where the Charet and Horſe (i. e. the Men that Ride and Fight in Charets, or upon Horſes) are ſaid to be caſt into a dead ſleep: and Ezek. 39. 20. where it is ſaid, ye ſhall be filled at my Table with Horſes and Charets (i. e. with Men belonging to the Charets, for ſurely the Charets of Iron had been very improper Food), with mighty Men, &c. And let any cavilling Infidel produce a Wiſe reaſon, why it may not, and ought not to be ſo underſtood here alſo? Add to all this, that the Philiſtines were not alone in this expedition, but had the help of the Canaanites, and the Tyrians, as is very credible, both from Eccl. 40. 20. and from the Nature of the thing. If it be further inquired, Why the Philiſtines ſhould raiſe ſo great an Army at this time? The Anſwer is Obvious; That not onely their Old and Formidable Enemy Samuel was yet alive, but a New Enemy was riſen, even King Saul, who was lately Confirmed in his Kingdom, and had been flushed with his good ſucceſs againſt the Ammonites, and was likely to grow more and more potent, if not timely prevented; and they thought that now the Iſraelitiſh affairs were come to ſome Conſiſtency, being put into the hands of a King; and therefore they thought fit once for all to put forth all their ſtrength to ſuppreſs the Iſraelites, and to prevent that ruine which otherwiſe threatned them.

6 When the men of Iſrael ſaw that they were in a ſtrait l: (for the people were diſtreſſed m) then the people did * hide themſelves in caves n, and in thickets, and in rocks, and in high places, and in pits.

* Judg. 6. 2.

l Notwithſtanding their former preſumption, that if they had a King, they ſhould be free from all ſuch ſtraits. And hereby God intended to teach them the Vanity of all Carnal confidence in Men; and that they did not one jot leſs need the help and favour of God now, than they did before, when they had no King. m They were not miſtaken in their apprehenſions of Danger, as men oft are, for they were really in great Danger, their Enemies Hoſt far exceeding theirs, both in Number, and Order, and Courage, and Arms. n Whereof there were divers in thoſe parts for this very uſe, as we read in Joſephus, and in the Holy Scripture.

7 And ſome of the Hebrews went over Jordan, to the land of Gad and Gilead: as for Saul, he was yet in Gilgal, and all the people o † followed him trembling.

† Heb. trembled after him.

o To wit, his whole Army, oppoſed to the common People, ver. 6.

8 ¶ * And he tarried ſeven days p, according to the ſet time that Samuel had appointed: but Samuel came not to Gilgal, and the people were ſcattered from him.

* chap. 10. 8.

p Not ſeven compleat days; for that the laſt day was not finiſhed, plainly appears from Samuel's reproof, which had then been groundleſs and abſurd, and he had falſly charged Saul with breaking Gods command therein, ver. 13. And as Samuel came on the ſeventh day, and that with intent to Sacrifice; ſo doubtleſs he came in due time, for that Work which was to be done before Sun-ſetting, Exod. 29. 38, 39. So Saul waited onely ſix compleat days, and part of the ſeventh, which is here called ſeven days: for the word Day, is oft uſed for a part of the Day, as among Lawyers, ſo alſo in Sacred Scripture, as Matth. 12. 40. where Chriſt is ſaid to be in the heart of the Earth three days and three nights, i. e. one whole day, and part of the other two days. Moreover this place may be thus rendred: He tarried until the ſeventh day, (as this ſame Phraſe is uſed Gen. 7. 10, Heb. until the ſeventh of the days) (as the Hebrew Lamed is oft taken) the ſet time that Samuel had appointed.

9 And Saul ſaid, Bring hither a burnt-offering to me, and peace-offerings. And he offered the burnt-offering q.

q Either himſelf; or rather by the Prieſt, as Solomon is ſaid to offer, 1 King. 3. 4. Compare 1 Sam. 1. 3.

10 And it came to paſs, that aſſoon as he had made an end of offering the burnt-offering, behold Samuel came r, and Saul went out to meet him, that he might † ſalute him ſ.

† Heb. bleſs him.

r i. e. It was told Saul, Behold Samuel is coming. ſ i. e. Congratulate his coming. This he did, partly out of cuſtom; and partly, that by this Teſtimony of his affection and reſpect to Samuel, he might prevent that rebuke which his guilty Conſcience made him expect.

11 ¶ And Samuel ſaid, What haſt thou done t? And Saul ſaid, Becauſe I ſaw that the people were ſcattered from me, and that thou cameſt not within the days appointed u, and that the Philiſtines gathered themſelves together to Michmaſh:

t He ſuſpected that Saul had tranſgreſſed; either by his dejected countenance, or ſome words uttered by him, though not here expreſſed: but he asks him, that he might be more fully and certainly informed, and that Saul might be brought to an ingenuous Confeſſion of his Sin, and true Repentance for it. u i. e. When the ſeventh day was come, and a good part of it paſt, whence I concluded thou wouldſt not come that day, and that thou hadſt forgotten thy appointment, or been hindred by ſome extraordinary occaſion.

12 Therefore ſaid I, The Philiſtines will come down now upon me to Gilgal, and I have not made † ſupplication unto the LORD x; I forced my ſelf therefore, and offered a burnt-offering y.

† Heb. intreated the face.

x Hence it appears, that Sacrifices were accompanied with Solemn Prayers. y I did it againſt my own mind and inclination.

nation. My Conſcience told me I ſhould forbear it, and punctually obey God's Command delivered to me by Samuel, but my neceſſity urged me to make haſte.

13 And Samuel ſaid to Saul, Thou haſt done fooliſhly z: thou haſt not kept the commandment of the LORD thy God a, which he commanded thee: for now would the LORD have eſtabliſhed thy kingdom upon Iſrael for ever b.

z In that very thing wherein thou thinkeſt thou haſt done wiſely and politickly, in diſobeying my expreſs Command upon a pretended neceſſity, or reaſon of State. a Not onely upon common grounds, as thou art his Creature, and one of his People; but in a ſpecial manner, who hath conferred peculiar Favours and Honours upon thee; which is an aggravation of thy ſin. b Queſt. How could this be true, when the Kingdom was promiſed to Judah, Gen. 49. 10. and conſequently muſt neceſſarily be taken away from Saul, and from his Tribe? Anſ. Firſt, The Phraſe, for ever, in Scripture uſe, oft-times ſignifies onely a long time, as Gen. 43. 9. Exod. 21. 6. 1 Sam. 28. 2. So this had been abundantly verified, if the Kingdom had been enjoyed by Saul, and by his Son, and by his Sons Son; after whom the Kingdom might have come to Judah. Secondly, Though the Kingdom had been promiſed to Saul, and to his Poſterity for ever in a larger ſence, yet that was upon condition of his Obedience. And therefore God might well promiſe the Kingdom to Judah, becauſe at that time, and before, he foreſaw that Saul would by his diſobedience forfeit that promiſe, and that he would take the forfeiture, and transfer the Kingdom to Judah.

14 But now thy kingdom ſhall not continue: *Pſal 89. 20. Act. 13. 22. * the LORD hath ſought c him a man after his own heart d, and the LORD hath commanded e him to be captain over his people, becauſe thou haſt not kept that which the LORD commanded thee f.

c i. e. Hath found or diſcovered, as men do by ſeeking. An Anthropopathy. d i. e. Such a man as I deſire, one who will fulfil all the deſires of my heart, and not oppoſe them, as thou doſt. e i. e. Hath appointed or decreed, as the word command is ſometimes uſed: for it was not yet actually done. f Queſt. Firſt, What was Saul's Sin? Anſw. Either, Firſt, That Saul Invaded the Prieſts Office, and Offered the Sacrifice himſelf: which is not probable, both becauſe he had Prieſts with him, and among others an eminent one; Abiah, chap. 14. 3. and therefore had no occaſion nor pretence for that preſumption. Or rather, Secondly, That Saul did not wait the full time for Samuel's coming; for that is the thing which God commanded ch. 10. 8. and the breach of this command is the only thing for which Saul makes an Apology, ver. 11, 12. Queſt. Secondly, Why did God ſo ſeverely puniſh Saul for ſo ſmall an offence, and that occaſioned by great neceſſity, and done with an honeſt intention? Anſw. Firſt, Men are very incompetent Judges of Gods Judgments, becauſe they ſee but very little, either of the Majeſty of the offended God, or of the hainous nature and aggravations of the Offence. For inſtance, men ſee nothing but Saul's outward act, which ſeems ſmall; but God ſaw with how wicked a mind and heart he did this, with what Rebellion againſt the Light of his own Conſcience, as his own words imply; with what groſs infidelity and diſtruſt of Gods Providence, with what contempt of Gods Authority and Juſtice, and many other wicked principles and motions of his heart, unknown to men. Beſides, God clearly ſaw all that wickedneſs that yet lay hid in his heart, and foreſaw all his other Crimes; and therefore had far more grounds for his Sentence againſt him, than we can imagine. Secondly, God doth ſometimes puniſh ſmall ſins ſeverely, and that for divers weighty reaſons, as that all men may ſee what the leaſt ſin deſerves, and how much they owe to Gods free and rich Mercy, for paſſing by their great Offences; and what need they have not to indulge themſelves in any ſmall ſin, as men are very prone to do, upon vain preſumptions of Gods Mercy, whereby they are eaſily and commonly drawn on to hainous Crimes; and for many other reaſons: ſo that ſome ſuch inſtances of Gods ſeverity, are neceſſary Diſcipline and Caution to all mankind in the preſent and future Ages; and therefore there is far more of mercy and kindneſs in ſuch actions, than of rigour and harſhneſs, ſince this is but particular to one Perſon, and the other is an univerſal good. Thirdly, It muſt be remembred, that the Kingdom of Saul, and of Iſrael, was now in its Infancy; and that this was the firſt command which he received from God. And it hath been ever held a piece of Wiſdom in all Law-givers, ſeverely to puniſh the firſt Violations of their Laws, to ſecure their Honour and Obedience, and to affright and caution Offenders for the future. And accordingly God dealt with Cain the firſt Murderer; with Iſrael, for their firſt Idolatry with the Calf; with the firſt miſcarriage of the Prieſts, Lev. 10. 1. with the firſt profaner of the Sabbath, Numb. 15. 32. with the firſt groſs Hypocrites in the Chriſtian Church, Act. 5. 5, 10. And therefore it is neither ſtrange nor unjuſt, if he deal with Saul after the ſame manner, and upon the ſame grounds. Fourthly, Though God threaten Saul with the loſs of his Kingdom for this ſin, yet it is not improbable, that there was a tacit condition implied, as is uſual in ſuch caſes, as Jonah 3. 4. to wit, if he did not heartily repent of this and of all his ſins; for the full, and final, and peremptory Sentence of Saul's rejection, is plainly aſcribed to another cauſe, chap. 15. 11, 23, 26, 28, 29. and till that ſecond Offence, neither the Spirit of the Lord departed from him, nor was David anointed in his ſtead, chap. 16. 13, 14.

15 And Samuel aroſe, and gat him up from Gilgal, unto Gibeah of Benjamin g. And Saul numbred the people that were † preſent with him, * about ſix hundred men. † Heb. found. * chap. 14. 2.

g Whither Saul alſo followed him; as appears from the next Verſe: either, becauſe it was better fortified than Gilgal: or, becauſe he expected a greater increaſe of his Army there, it being in his own Tribe, and nearer the heart of his Kingdom: or, becauſe he hoped for Samuel's Aſſiſtance there.

16 And Saul, and Jonathan his ſon, and the people that were preſent with them, abode in Gibeah of Benjamin: but the Philiſtines encamped in Michmaſh.

17 And the ſpoilers came out of the camp of the Philiſtines in three companies h; one company turned unto the way that leadeth to Ophrah i, unto the land of Shual.

h That they might March ſeveral ways, and ſo waſte ſeveral parts of the Countrey. i A City of Benjamin, Joſ. 18. 23. South-weſt from Michmaſh.

18 And another company turned the way to Beth-horon k, and another company turned to the way of the border that looketh to the valley of Zeboim toward the wilderneſs l.

k A City of Ephraim, Joſ. 16. 3. North-weſt from Michmaſh. l i. e. The Wilderneſs of Jordan, Eaſtward.

19 ¶ Now there was no ſmith found throughout all the land of Iſrael m: (for the Philiſtines ſaid, † Leſt the Hebrews make them ſwords or ſpears.) † We muſt take them away.

m This was a Politick courſe of the Philiſtines, which alſo other Nations have uſed. So the Chaldeans took away their Smiths, 2 King. 24. 14. Jer. 24. 1. and 29. 2. And Porſenna obliged the Romans by Covenant, That they ſhould uſe no Iron but in the Tillage of their Lands.

20 But all the Iſraelites went down to the Philiſtines n to ſharpen every man his ſhare, and his coulter, and his axe, and his mattock.

n Not to the Land of the Philiſtines, for it is not ſaid ſo, and that was too remote; but to the Stations and Gariſons which the Philiſtines yet retained in ſeveral parts of Iſrael's Land, though Samuel's Authority had ſo far over-awed them, that they durſt not give the Iſraelites much diſturbance. In theſe, therefore, the Philiſtines kept all the Smiths; and here they allowed them the exerciſe of their Art for the uſes here following.

21 Yet they had † a file for the mattocks, and for the coulters, and for the forks, and for the axes o, and † to ſharpen the goads. † Heb. a file with mouths. † Heb. to ſet.

o So the ſenſe is, They allowed them ſome ſmall helps to make their Mattocks, and in ſome ſort to ſerve their preſent uſe. But theſe words may be otherwiſe Tranſlated, and are ſo by ſome Learned, both Ancient and Modern, Tranſlators; thus, Therefore the mouths or edges of the mattocks, and coulters, &c. were dull or blunt. Or rather thus, When (Heb. And put for when, as the Particle, and, is ſometimes rendred, as Mar. 15. 25.) the mouths or edges of the mattocks, &c. were blunt, So this paſſage very well agrees both with the foregoing and following words; and the whole ſence of the place is intirely thus, They went to the Philiſtines to ſharpen their ſhares, and mattocks, and coulters, and axes, when they were blunt, and (which was more ſtrange, They were forced to go to them, even) to ſharpen their goads.

p Queſt.

p Quest. How could the Israelites smite either the Garison of the Philistines above, ver. 3. or the Host of the Ammonites, chap. 11. 11. without Arms? And when they had Conquered them, Why did they not take away their Arms, and reserve them to their own use? Answ. 1. This want of Swords and Spears is not affirmed concerning all Israel, but is restrained unto those 600, who were with Saul and Jonathan; whom God by his Providence might suffer to be without those Arms, that the glory of the following Victory might be wholly ascribed to God; as for the very same reason God would have but 300 men left with Gideon, and those Armed onely with Trumpets, and Pitchers, and Lamps, Judg. 7. There were no doubt a considerable number of Swords and Spears among the Israelites, but they generally hid them, as now they did their Persons, from the Philistines. And the Philistines had not yet attained to so great a power over them, as wholly to disarm them, but thought it sufficient to prevent the making of new Arms; knowing that the old ones would shortly be decayed, and useless. 2. There were other Arms more common in those times and places, than Swords and Spears; to wit, Bows and Arrows, and Slings and Stones; as appears from Judg. 20. 16. * 2 Sam. 1. 18, 22. 2 King. 3. 25. 1 Chron. 12. 1, 2. besides Clubs, and Instruments of Agriculture, which might easily be turned into Weapons of War. 3. God so governed the Affairs of the Israelites, that they had no great number of Swords, or Spears, Judg. 5. 8. that so they might be kept in more dependance upon, and subjection unto God, wherein their safety and happiness consisted. And therefore, that famous Victory obtained against the Philistines in Samuel's days, was not got by the Sword of Men, but onely by Thunder from Heaven, chap. 7. 10.

‖ Or, standing Camp.

23 And the ‖ garison of the Philistines went out to the passage of Michmash q.

q A place so called, because it was near to Michmash, and led towards Gibeah, which, it seems, they designed to Besiege; and in the mean time, to waste the adjoyning Country.

CHAP. XIV.

‖ Or, there was a day.

NOW ‖ it came to pass upon a day, that Jonathan the son of Saul said unto the young man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over to the Philistines garison a, that is on the other side b: but he told not his father c.

a This was a rash and foolish Attempt, if it be examined by common Rules; but not so, if we consider the singular promises made to the Israelites, That one should chase a thousand, &c. and especially the heroical and extraordinary Motions which were then frequently put into the minds of gallant Men, by Gods Spirit, whereby they undertook and accomplished noble and wonderful things; as did Samson, and David and his Worthies. b Beyond that Rocky Passage described below, ver. 4, 13. which he pointed at with his hand. c Lest he should hinder him in so improbable an Enterprize. Nor was it necessary he should inform him of it, because he had a Commission from his Father, to Fight when he saw occasion; as he had done without his Fathers privity, chap. 13. 3.

2 And Saul tarried in the uttermost part of Gibeah d, under a pomegranate tree, which is in Migron e: and the people that were with him, were * about six hundred men:

* chap. 13. 15.

d In the Outworks of the City where he had Intrenched himself to observe the Motion of the Philistines. e Or, towards (as the Hebrew Beth is oft used) Migron, which was another place, but near Gibeah; See Isa. 10. 28.

* chap. 4. 21.

3 And Ahiah the son of Ahitub f, * Ichabods brother, the son of Phinehas, the son of Eli, the LORD's priest in Shiloh, wearing an ephod g: and the people knew not that Jonathan was gone.

f The same who is called Abimelech, 1 Sam. 22. 9, 11, 20. the High-priest, who was here to attend upon the Ark which was brought hither. ver. 18. g To wit, the High-priests Ephod, wherein the Urim and Thummim was.

† Heb. the tooth of a rock. See Job 39. 28.

4 ¶ And between the passages h, by which Jonathan sought to go over unto the Philistines garison, there was † a sharp rock on the one side, and a sharp rock on the other side i: and the name of the one was Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh.

h So these might be two known and common passages, both which Jonathan must cross, or pass over to go to the Philistines, between which the following Rocks lay. But the words may be rendred thus, In the middle (for so the Hebrew Particle, ben, signifies as Isa. 44. 4. and bath, is, is understood by a very frequent Ellipsis) of the passage; the Plural number being put for the Singular, as is frequent. i Which is not so to be understood, as if in this Passage one Rock was on the right hand, and the other on the left; for so he should have gone between both: and there was no need of climbing up to them, which is mentioned below, ver. 13. But the meaning is, that the tooth (or prominency) of the one rock (as it is in the Hebrew) was on the one side, i. e. Northward, looking towards Michmash (the Garison of the Philistines) and the tooth of the other rock was on the other side; i. e. Southward looking towards Gibeah (where Saul's Camp lay) as the next verse informs us: and Jonathan was forced to climb over these two Rocks, because the other and common ways from one Town to the other, might now be obstructed, or were not so fit for his present Design.

5 The † fore-front of the one was situate northward over against Michmash, and the other southward over against Gibeah.

6 And Jonathan said to the young man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over unto the garison of these uncircumcised k, it may be l that the LORD will work m for us: for there is no restraint to the LORD n * to save by many, or by few.

* 2 Chron. 14. 11.

k So he calls them, partly in contempt, and principally to strengthen his Faith by this consideration, That his Enemies were Enemies to God, and without any hope in God, or help from him; whereas he was Circumcised, and therefore in Covenant with God, who was both able, and engaged to assist his people. l He speaks doubtfully: for though he found and felt himself stirred up by God to this Exploit, and was assured that God would deliver his People; yet he was not certain that he would do it at this time, and in this way. m To wit, great and wonderful things. n There is no person nor thing which can hinder God from thus doing.

7 And his armour-bearer said unto him, Do all that is in thine heart: turn thee o: behold, I am with thee according to thy heart.

o March on to the Enemies.

8 Then said Jonathan, Behold, we will pass over unto these men, and we will discover our selves unto them.

† Heb. be still.

9 If they say thus unto us, † Tarry until we come to you: then we will stand still in our place, and will not go up unto them.

10 But if they say thus, Come up unto us: then we will go up: for the LORD hath delivered them into our hand: and this shall be a sign unto us p.

p Jonathan not being assured of the success of this present Exploit, desires a sign; and, by the instinct of God's Spirit, as the success shews, pitcheth upon this. Divers such heroical Motions and extraordinary impulses there were among great and good men in ancient times; as Gen. 24. 13. Judg. 6. 37. which are not presidents to us.

11 And both of them discovered themselves unto the garison of the Philistines: and the Philistines said, Behold, the Hebrews come forth out of the holes q, where they had hid themselves.

q Therefore Jonathan chose that Rocky and unusual way, that the Philistines might suppose they did not come from Saul's Camp to Fight with them, but rather out of the Caves, and holes of the Rocks, from which their necessity had now driven them.

12 And the men of the garison answered Jonathan and his armour-bearer, and said, Come up to us, and we will shew you a thing r. And Jonathan said unto his armour-bearer, Come up after me, for the Lord hath delivered them s into the hand of Israel.

r We having something of Importance to communicate to you. A Speech of Contempt and Derision. s He piously and modestly ascribes the Success which he now foresees, to God onely.

13 And Jonathan climbed up upon his hands, and upon his feet, and his armour-bearer after him t: and they fell before Jonathan, and his armour-bearer slew after him u.

t The Philiſtines could eaſily have hindred their Aſcent, but thought ſcorn to do it, not queſtioning but they could cut them off in a moment when they were come up to them according to their invitation. u For being endowed with extraordinary ſtrength and courage, and having with incredible boldneſs killed the firſt they met with, and ſo proceeding with ſucceſs, it is not ſtrange if the Philiſtines were both aſtoniſhed and intimidated; God alſo ſtruck them with a Panick Terror; and withal, infatuated their Minds, and poſſibly, put an Evil Spirit among them, which in this univerſal Confuſion made them conceive that there was Treachery amongſt themſelves, and therefore cauſed them to ſheath their Swords in one anothers Bowels; as appears from ver. 16, 20.

14 And that firſt ſlaughter which Jonathan and his armour-bearer made, was about twenty men, within as it were ‖ an half acre of land, which a yoke of oxen might plow.

‖ Or, half a furrow of an acre of land.

15 And there was trembling x in the hoſt, in the field y, and among all the people z: the gariſon, and the ſpoilers, they alſo trembled, and the earth quaked a: ſo it was † * a very great trembling.

† Heb. a trembling of God. * Gen. 35. 5.

x A great Conſternation; partly, from this unexpected and prodigious Slaughter, which made them ſuſpect, there was more than Man in the Caſe; and that the Lord (of whoſe infinite Power they had had former experience) was come forth to Fight againſt them; and partly, from the Lord, who took away their Spirits and Strength, and ſtruck them with Fear and Amazement. y i. e. In the whole Hoſt which was there in the Field. z i. e. Among all the reſt of their Forces, as well thoſe in the Gariſon, (as it is here explained in the following words) at Michmaſh, as the Spoilers, mentioned chap. 13. 17. the report of this Prodigy, and with it the Terror of God ſpeedily paſſing from one to another. a Either 1. Metaphorically and Hyperbolically, the whole Land; i. e. the Inhabitants of the Land: to wit, of the Philiſtines, Trembled. Or rather, 2. Properly, God ſent an Earthquake among them, which probably overthrew their Tents and Chariots, and deſtroyed many of their Perſons, and ſcattered the whole Hoſt, making them to flee away for their lives.

16 And the Watch-men of Saul in Gibeah b of Benjamin looked: and behold, the multitude c melted away d, and they went on beating down one another e.

b Or, in the hill, as the very ſame word is rendred, chap. 13. 16. and that was the fitteſt place for Watchmen. c To wit, of that Numerous Hoſt of the Philiſtines. d i. e. Were ſtrangely and ſuddenly diſperſed, and put to Flight. e Either, 1. Accidentally through haſty Flight: Or, 2. With Deſign to deſtroy one another as the Authors or Abettors of the preſent Calamity. Poſſibly God blinded their Eyes or their Minds, that they could not diſtinguiſh Friends from Foes. Compare Judg. 7. 22. 2 King. 6. 18, &c. 2 Chron. 20. 23.

17 Then ſaid Saul unto the people that were with him, Number now, and ſee who is gone from us f. And when they had numbred, behold Jonathan and his armour-bearer were not there.

f For he probably ſuppoſed, that not only Jonathan, but alſo ſome conſiderable number of his Army was gone, and that by them that Slaughter was made.

18 And Saul ſaid unto Ahiah, Bring hither the ark of God g: (for the ark of God was at that time with the children of Iſrael h.)

g That the Prieſt may put on the Ephod, and may enquire of the Lord before the Ark what the occaſion of this Tumult among our Enemies is, and what we ſhall do. h To wit, in the Camp, whither ſometimes it was brought; as 1 Sam. 4. 5. And now the rather, partly becauſe it was now in an unſetled condition, and without the Tabernacle, and therefore eaſily removed from place to place: and partly, becauſe Saul thought to compenſate Samuel's abſence with the preſence of the Ark.

19 ¶ And it came to paſs while Saul talked unto the prieſt, that the ‖ noiſe that was in the hoſt of the Philiſtines went on and increaſed: and Saul ſaid unto the prieſt, Withdraw thine hand i.

‖ Or, tumult.

i Trouble not thy ſelf in putting on the Breaſt-plate, with the Ephod, to enquire of God; for I now plainly diſcern the matter, the buſineſs calls not for Prayer, but for Action. But if it did ſo, there was the more need of Gods direction and bleſſing, that they might act with more ſucceſs. Herein therefore he ſhews his Impatience in waiting upon God; his Hypocriſie in pretending to Religion; and yet his Prophaneneſs, in neglecting and deſpiſing it.

20 And Saul and all the people that were with him, † aſſembled themſelves, and they came to the battel, and behold, * every mans ſword was againſt his fellow k, and there was a very great diſcomfiture.

† Heb. were cried together. * Judg. 7. 22. 2 Chro. 20. 23.

k The Philiſtines ſlew one another; which might come, either from miſtake; of which, ſee on ver. 16. Or from mutual Jealouſies and Paſſions, to which God could eaſily diſpoſe them.

21 Moreover, the Hebrews that were with the Philiſtines before that time, which went up with them into the camp l, from the countrey round about, even they alſo turned to be with the Iſraelites that were with Saul and Jonathan.

l Either by conſtraint, as Servants; or in Policy, to gain their favour and protection.

22 Likewiſe all the men of Iſrael, which * had hid themſelves in mount Ephraim, when they heard that the Philiſtines fled, even they alſo followed hard after them in the battel.

* chap. 13. 6.

23 So the LORD ſaved Iſrael that day: and the battel m paſſed over unto Beth-aven.

m i. e. The Warriers who were engaged in the Battel, and were Purſuing and Fighting with the Philiſtines.

24 ¶ And the men of Iſrael were diſtreſſed n that day; for Saul had adjured the people, ſaying, Curſed be the man that eateth any food until evening, that I may be avenged on mine enemies o: ſo none of the people taſted any food p.

n With Hunger, and Weakneſs, and Faintneſs, thence ariſing; and all by reaſon of the following Oath. o As Sauls intention was good; namely, to Execute Vengeance upon Gods and his Enemies: ſo the matter of the Obligation was not ſimply and in it ſelf Unlawful, if it had not been ſo rigorous in excluding all Food, without any exception of Caſes of Neceſſity; and in obliging the People to it under pain of a Curſe, and an accurſed Death; ver. 38, 39, 44. which was a puniſhment far exceeding the Fault. p Partly, in obedience to the Kings Command; and partly for fear of the Curſe.

25 And all they of the land q came to a wood, and there was honey upon the ground.

q Heb. all the land, i. e. The People of the Land; as it is explained below, ver. 30. and ſo the word is taken, Gen. 41. 57. All the Iſraelites who were with Saul.

26 And when the people were come into the wood, behold, the honey dropped r, but no man put his hand to his mouth: for the people feared the oath.

r It hath been obſerved by many Travellers, and Writers, That Bees do oft-times ſettle themſelves, and make their Hives, and Honey, in the Trunks of Trees, or Clefts of Rocks, or Holes of the Earth; and this in divers Countries, but eminently in this of Canaan; as may be gathered from Deut. 32. 13. Pſal. 81. 16. whence it was called, a land flowing with milk and honey.

27 But Jonathan heard not s, when his father charged the people with the oath: wherefore he put forth the end of the rod that was in his hand, and dipt it in an honey comb, and put his hand to his mouth, and his eyes were enlightned t.

s Being then abſent, and in purſuit of the Philiſtines, divers of the Iſraelites having joyned themſelves with him, ver. 21. t He was refreſhed, and recovered his loſt Spirits, whereof part went into his Optick Nerves, and ſo cleared his ſight, which was much darkned by Famine, as is uſual.

28 Then anſwered one of the people u, and ſaid, Thy father ſtraitly charged the people with an oath, ſaying, Curſed be the man that eateth any food this day. And the people were ‖ faint.

‖ Or, weary.

u Who came along with Saul, whoſe Forces were now united with Jonathans.

29 Then ſaid Jonathan, My father hath troubled the land x: ſee, I pray you, how mine eyes have been enlightned, becauſe I taſted a little of this honey.

x i. e. The people of the Land, the whole Army, whom by this rash Oath he hath greatly injured. The Zeal of defending himself, makes him run into the other Extream of accusing his Father, and that before the People, whom by this means he might have stirred up to a Sedition.

30 How much more, if haply the people had eaten freely to day of the spoil of their enemies which they found? for had there not been now a much greater slaughter among the Philistines?

31 And they smote the Philistines that day from Michmash to Ajalon y: and the people were very faint.

y Either that in Dan, Jos. 19. 42. Or rather, that in Judah, 2 Chron. 11. 10.

32 And the people flew upon the spoil z, and took sheep and oxen, and calves, and slew them on the ground, and the people did eat them * with the blood a.

* Lev. 7. 26. and 19. 26. Deut. 12. 16.

z To wit, at Evening, when the time prefixed by Saul was expired. a Not having patience to tarry till the blood was perfectly gone out of them, as they should have done. See Gen. 9. 4. Lev. 17. 14. Deut. 12. 16. So they who seemed to make conscience of the Kings commandment for fear of the Curse, make no scruple of transgressing Gods Command.

33 ¶ Then they told Saul: saying, Behold the people sin against the LORD, in that they eat with the blood. And he said, Ye have ‖ transgressed b: roll a great stone unto me c this day.

‖ Or, dealt treacherously.

b He sees their fault, but not his own in giving the occasion to it. c That the cattle might be all killed in one place, under the inspection of Saul, or some other appointed by him for that work; and upon the stone, that the blood may sooner and better flow out.

34 And Saul said, Disperse your selves among the people, and say unto them, Bring me hither every man his oxe, and every man his sheep, and slay them here, and eat, and sin not against the LORD in eating with the blood. And all the people brought every man his oxe d † with him that night, and slew them there.

† Heb. in his hand.

d And his Sheep, which is to be understood out of the foregoing words.

35 And Saul built an altar unto the LORD e: † the same was the first altar that he built unto the LORD f.

† Heb. that altar he began to build unto the LORD.

e Either for a Monument of the Victory; or rather, for Sacrifice, as the next words imply. f Though he had occasion to do so oft ere this time. So this is noted as another Evidence of his Neglect of God, and his Worship. It is true, Saul Sacrificed before this, as at Gilgal; but that was upon an old Altar, Erected by others.

36 ¶ And Saul said, Let us go down after the Philistines by night, and spoil them until the morning light, and let us not leave a man of them. And they said, Do whatsoever seemeth good unto thee. Then said the Priest g, Let us draw near hither h unto God.

g Remembring Saul's Contempt of Gods Ordinance the last time, and the ill Consequence of it; and perceiving Saul ready to run into the same Error again, even though he had not now the same pretence of the necessity of haste as before, and that the people were forward to comply with the motion, he gives them this pious and prudent Advice. h To wit, to the Ark; as above, ver. 18.

37 And Saul asked counsel of God, Shall I go down after the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Israel? but he answered him not that day i.

i Either, 1. Because he was displeased with Saul for his former neglect, ver. 18, 19. where he began to ask advice of God, but was so Rude and Impious, as not to tarry for an Answer; and therefore it was but a just Retaliation, if when Saul did ask, God would not vouchsafe him an Answer. Or, 2. To manifest his dislike of the violation of Oaths. For although Jonathan might have a fair excuse from his invincible Ignorance and urgent Necessity; and though Saul had done foolishly in making this Oath (which also God would this way discover,) yet, when once it was made, God would hereby teach them, that it should be observed; and that they should abstain, even from all appearance of the Breach of it.

38 And Saul said, Draw ye near hither all the † chief of the people k: and know and see wherein this sin hath been this day.

† Heb. corners. Judg. 20. 2.

k In the Name of all the People, that you may be Witnesses, and may see where the Fault lies.

39 For as the LORD liveth which saveth Israel, though it be in Jonathan my son, he shall surely die. But there was not a man among all the people that answered him l.

l None of those who either saw Jonathan Eating, or heard of it, informed against him; partly, because they were satisfied, that his Ignorance excused him, and that there was some other reason of Gods not answering: and partly, from their great Love to Jonathan, whom they would not Expose to Death for so small an Offence.

40 Then said he unto all Israel, Be ye on one side, and I and Jonathan my son will be on the other side: and the people said unto Saul, Do what seemeth good unto thee.

41 Therefore Saul said unto the LORD God of Israel, † ‖ Give a perfect lot m. And Saul and Jonathan were taken: but the people † escaped n.

† Heb. Give Thummim. Deut. 33. 8.
‖ Or, shew the innocent.
† Heb. went forth.

m Or, declare (for giving is oft put for declaring, or pronouncing, as Deut. 11. 29. and 13. 1, 2. Prov. 9. 9.) the perfect, or guiltless person. i. e. O Lord, so guide the Lot, that it may discover who is Guilty in this Matter, and that it may clear the Innocent. n To wit, the Danger; they were pronounced Guiltless.

42 And Saul said, Cast lots between me and Jonathan my son: and Jonathan was taken m.

m God so ordered the Lot; not that he approved Saul's Execration, ver. 24. or his Oath that the Transgressor should die, ver. 39. nor that he would expose Jonathan to Death (for he Designed so to rule the hearts of the People, and of Saul also that Jonathan should not die); but because he would have the whole matter brought to light; partly, that Sauls Folly might be chastised, when he saw what Danger it had brought upon his Eldest and Excellent Son; partly, that Jonathans Innocency might be cleared; and partly, to stablish the Authority of Kings and Rulers, and the Obedience which Subjects owe to all their Lawful commands.

43 Then Saul said to Jonathan, Tell me what thou hast done. And Jonathan told him, and said, I did but taste a little honey with the end of the rod that was in mine hand, and lo, I must die n.

n I am Sentenced to Death for it; which is hard measure He had another Answer, That he knew not of his Fathers command: but that being said before, ver. 27. it was needless here to repeat it.

44 And Saul answered, * God do so, and more also o: for thou shalt surely die p, Jonathan.

* Ruth 1. 17.

o From this, and other like expressions of Sauls, some gather that he was exceeding prone to the vice of Swearing and Cursing. p Strange perverseness! He who was so Indulgent, as to spare wicked Agag, chap. 15. is now so severe as to destroy his own worthy Son: he that could easily dispense with Gods Righteous and Reasonable Command, will not bear the violation of his own rash and foolish command; because his own Authority and Power is concerned in this, and onely Gods in the other.

45 And the people said unto Saul, Shall Jonathan die, who hath wrought this great salvation in Israel? God forbid: * as the LORD liveth, there shall not one hair of his head fall to the ground: for he hath wrought with God q this day. So the people rescued Jonathan, that he died not.

* 2 Sam. 14. 14. 1 King. 1. 52.

q i. e. In concurrence with God, or by Gods help he had wrought this Salvation. God is so far from being offended with Jonathan, as thou apprehendest, that he hath graciously owned and assisted him in the great Service of this day.

46 Then Saul went up from following the Philistines r: and the Philistines went to their own place.

r Partly, because he was discouraged by Gods refusing to Answer him; and partly, because his delays had given them occasion to secure themselves.

47 ¶ So

47 ¶ So Saul took the kingdom f over Israel, and fought against all his enemies on every side,
* chap. 11.11. against Moab, and against the children * of Ammon, and against Edom, and against the kings of Zobah t, and against the Philistines: and whithersoever he turned himself, he vexed them u.

f i. e. Recovered it, and Resumed the Administration of it, after he had in a manner lost it; partly, by Samuel's Sentence, chap. 13. 14. and partly, by the Philistines, who had almost turned him out of it. But now being encouraged by this success, he returns to the exercise of his Kingly Office. b Which lay not far from Damascus. See 2 Sam. 8. 5. u Heb. He condemned them, he treated them like wicked People, and Enemies to God and his People: or, he punished them.

‖ Or, wrought mightily. 48 And he ‖ gathered an host, and * smote the
* chap. 15. 3. Amalekites x, and delivered Israel out of the hand of them that spoiled them.

x Which is here mentioned onely in the general, but is particularly described in the next Chapter.

49 Now the sons of Saul were Jonathan, and Ishui y, and Melchishua: and the names of his two daughters were these; the name of the firstborn, Merab, and the name of the younger, Michal.

y Called also Abinadab, chap. 31. 2. and 1 Chron. 8. 33. Ishbosheth, Saul's other Son, is here omitted, because he intended to mention onely those of his Sons who went with him into the Battels here mentioned, and who were afterwards slain with him.

50 And the name of Sauls wife was Ahinoam, the daughter of Ahimaaz: and the name of the captain of his host was Abner, the son of Ner, Sauls uncle.

51 And Kish was the father of Saul, and Ner
* chap. 9. 1. the father of Abner was the son of * Abiel.

52 And there was sore war against the Philistines all the days of Saul: and when Saul saw any
* chap. 8. 11. strong man, or any valiant man, * he took him unto him z.

z Into his Service, or Army.

CHAP. XV.

* chap. 9. 16. SAmuel also said unto Saul, * The LORD sent me to anoint thee to be king over his people a, over Israel: now therefore hearken b thou unto the voice of the LORD thy God.

a The Lord made thee King, and therefore thou art highly obliged to serve and obey him. b Thou hast committed one Error already, for which God hath severely rebuked and threatned: now therefore make amends for thy former Error, and regain Gods Favour by thy exact Obedience to what he now commands.

2 Thus saith the LORD of hosts, I remember
* Exod. 17. 8. Numb. 24. 20. that which Amalek did to Israel c, * how he laid wait for him in the way when he came up from Egypt d.

c I seem to have forgotten, but now I will shew that I remember, and now will revenge those old Injuries done 400 Years ago, which now I will punish in their Children: which was the more just, because they continued in their Parents cruel Practices, below, ver. 33. d When he was newly come out of cruel and long Bondage, and were now weak, and weary, and faint, and hungry, Deut. 25. 18. and therefore it was Barbarous and Inhuman, instead of that Pity which even Nature prompted them to afford, to add affliction to the afflicted; it was also horrid Impiety to fight against God himself, and to lift up their Hand in a manner against the Lords Throne, as some Translate these words, Exod. 17. 16. whilst they struck at that People which God had brought forth in so stupendious and Miraculous a way.

3 Now go and smite Amalek, and utterly destroy all that they have e, and spare them not f; but slay both man and woman, infant and suckling g, ox and sheep, camel and asse h.

e Both Persons and Goods, Kill all that live, and Consume all things without life, for I will have no Name nor Remnant of that People whom long since I have cursed and devoted to utter Destruction. f Shew no compassion or favour to any of them. The same thing repeated to prevent mistake, and oblige Saul to the exact performance hereof; or, to leave him without excuse, in case of neglect. g For their Parents Crime and Punishment: which was not unjust, because God is the Supreme Lord and giver of Life, and can require his own when he pleaseth; Infants also are Born in sin, Psal. 51. 5. and therefore liable to God's wrath, Eph. 2. 3. and to death, Rom. 5. 12, 14. Their death also was rather a Mercy than a Curse to them, as being the occasion of preventing the vast increase of their Sin and Punishment. h Which being all made for Man's benefit, it is not strange nor unjust, if they suffer with him, and for him, and for the instruction of Mankind.

4 And Saul called the people together, and numbred them in Telaim, two hundred thousand footmen, and ten thousand men of Judah k.

k Who are particularly Noted here, as also chap. 11. 8. either as Select Persons of extraordinary strength and courage: or to commend that Tribe, which though the Kingdom had been promised to their own Tribe, yet were forward in serving and obeying a King of another, and that a far meaner Tribe.

5 And Saul came to a city of Amalek l, and ‖ laid wait m in the valley. ‖ Or, fought.

l Their chief City, where their King was, as is probable from ver. 8. m Intending to draw them forth of their City by some pretence, like that of Joshua, Josh. 7. and then to intercept them, and so surprize their City: which happily they did, though it be not here Recorded, it being not worth while to mention all the minute circumstances of such matters.

6 ¶ And Saul said unto the Kenites n, Go, depart, get ye down from among the Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them: for ye shewed kindness p to all the children of Israel, when they came up out of Egypt. So the Kenites departed from among the Amalekites.

n A People descending from, or nearly related unto Jethro, who anciently dwelt in Rocks near the Amalekites, Numb. 24. 21. and afterwards some of them dwelt in Judah, Judg. 1. 16. whence it is probable they removed, (which, dwelling in Tents, they could easily do) and retired to their old habitation, because of the Wars and Troubles wherewith Judah was annoyed. p Some of your Progenitors did so, Exod. 18. 12. Numb. 10. 31. and for their sakes all of you shall fare the better. You were not Guilty of that sin for which Amalek is now to be Destroyed.

7 And Saul smote the Amalekites from Havilah until thou comest to * Shur q, that is over against * Gen. 16. 7.
Egypt.

q i. e. From one end of their Country to the other, he smote all that he met with: but a great number of them fled away upon the noise of his coming, as is usual in such cases, and secured themselves in other places, until the Storm was over, when they returned again: of whom we read before, chap. 13. 5. and 14. 22.

8 And he took Agag the king of the Amalekites alive r, and * utterly destroyed all the people s * Se: ch. 30. 1.
with the edge of the sword.

r Whom Saul spared, either out of foolish pity for the goodliness of his Person, which Josephus Notes: or, for his respect to his Royal Majesty, in the preservation of which he thought himself concerned: or, for the Glory of his Triumph: Compare ver. 12. s To wit, the Body of the People, but not every individual Person, as hath been shewed. Universal Particles are commonly thus understood, as is confessed.

9 But Saul and the people t spared Agag, and the best of the sheep, and of the oxen, and ‖ of the ‖ Or, of the fatlings, and the lambs, and all that was good u, and sort.
and would not utterly destroy them: but every thing that was vile, and refuse, that they destroyed utterly x.

t The one proposed to do so, and the other consented to it, and so both were Guilty. u Which it is more than probable they reserved for their own use, rather than for Sacrifice; because they knew God would not accept a Sacrifice contrary to his own command. x Thus they obey God onely so far as they could without inconvenience to themselves; they Destroyed onely what was not worth keeping, nor fit for their use.

10 ¶ Then came the word of the LORD unto Samuel, saying,

*2 Sam. 24. 16. 11 It * repenteth me y that I have set up Saul to be king: for he is turned back from following †Heb. confirmed. me, and hath not † performed my commandments. And it grieved Samuel, and he cried unto the LORD all night z.

y Repentance properly Notes grief of heart, and change of counsels, and therefore cannot be in God, who is Unchangeable, most Wise, and most Blessed; but it is ascribed to God in such cases, when men give God cause to Repent, and when God alters his Course and Method of dealing, and Treats a Person as if he did indeed Repent of all the kindness he had shewed to him. z To implore his Pardoning Mercy for Saul, and for the People; so far was he from rejoycing at their Calamities, as an envious and self-seeking Person would have done.

12 And when Samuel rose early to meet Saul in the morning, it was told Samuel, saying, Saul came to Carmel a, and behold, he set him up a † Heb. hand. † place b, and is gone about, and passed on, and gone down to Gilgal.

a Not Mount Carmel, of which Josh. 12. 22. but another Mountain or Town in the Tribe of Judah; of which see Joh. 15. 55. b i. e. A Monument or Trophy of his Victory, as the same Hebrew word is used, 2 Sam. 18. 18. And this may be here Noted by way of censure, That he set it up not to God's honour, but to himself, i. e. to his own praise; which he minded in the first place, and afterwards went to Gilgal, as it here follows, to offer Sacrifice to God.

13 And Samuel came unto Saul, and Saul said unto him, Blessed be thou of the LORD c, †Heb. confirmed. I have † performed the commandment of the LORD d.

c I thank thee, and I beg that God would Bless thee, for sending me upon this Employment, and giving me this opportunity of manifesting my Obedience to God. d To wit, for the main and substance of it, to wit, the Extirpation of that wicked People: for he thought the sparing of Agag and the Cattel very inconsiderable in the case; though indeed it was expresly contrary to Gods command: but self-Interest made him exceeding partial in his own Cause: or else like a bold Hypocrite, he pretends that for his part he had obeyed God; resolving, it seems, to cast the blame upon the People, as he did.

14 And Samuel said, What meaneth then this bleating of the sheep in mine ears, and the lowing of the oxen which I hear e?

e How can this Evidence of Guilt consist with the Profession of thy Innocency?

15 And Saul said, They f have brought them from the Amalekites: for the people spared the best of the sheep, and of the oxen, to sacrifice unto the LORD g thy God h, and the rest we have utterly destroyed.

f i. e. The People. Thus, after the manner of all Hypocrites, he excuseth himself, and lays the blame upon the People; whereas they could not do it without his privity and consent; and he should have used his Power and Authority to over-rule them for God's sake, as he had done formerly for his own sake. But the truth is, he was zealous for his own Honour and Interest, but luke-warm where God onely was concerned. g It is not likely that this was his and the Peoples Design; but this he now pretends, and ascribes that to his Piety, which was indeed the effect of his Impiety and Avarice. h Whom thou Lovest and Servest, and therefore must needs be pleased with our Pious respect to him and his Service.

16 Then Samuel said unto Saul, Stay, and I will tell thee what the LORD hath said to me this night. And he said unto him, Say on.

17 And Samuel said, When thou wast little in thine own sight i, wast thou not made the head of the tribes of Israel. and the LORD anointed thee king over Israel?

i i. e. Modest, Humble and Submissive, as 1 Sam. 9. 21. and 10. 22. Whereby he implies, that now he was grown Proud, and Stubborn, and Impudent, both to commit sin, and justify it.

18 And the LORD sent thee on a journey, and said, Go, and utterly destroy the sinners k the Amalekites, and fight against them, until † they be consumed. † Heb. they consume them.

k So called by way of Eminency, as that word is used, Gen. 13. 13. Matth. 2. 10, Joh. 9. 24, 31.

19 Wherefore then didst thou not obey the voice of the LORD, but didst fly upon the spoil, and didst evil in the sight of the LORD l?

l Who cannot be deceived by thy fair professions of Religion, but knows very well that thou didst not seek Sacrifices for God, but Prey to thy self.

20 And Saul said unto Samuel, Yea, I have obeyed the voice of the LORD m, and have gone the way which the LORD sent me, and have brought Agag the king of Amalek n, and have utterly destroyed the Amalekites.

m He addeth Obstinacy and Impenirency to his Crime, and justifies his Fact, though he hath nothing of any Moment to say, but what he said before. So he gives Samuel the lye, and reflects upon him, as one that had falsly Accused him. n To be dealt with as God pleaseth, and as thou thinkest fit.

21 But the people took of the spoil, sheep and oxen, the chief of the things which should have been utterly destroyed o, to sacrifice unto the LORD thy God in Gilgal.

o Heb. the chief of the devoted things: which being devoted to Destruction, I thought it most proper to destroy them by way of Sacrifice to God. But God had commanded Saul himself to smite and slay all upon the place, above, ver. 3.

22 And Samuel said, * Hath the LORD as great delight in burnt-offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the LORD? Behold, * to obey is better than sacrifice p: and to hearken q, than the fat of rams r. * Psal. 50. 8, 9. Isa. 1. 11. * Eccl. 5. 1. Hos. 6. 6. Matth. 5. 24. and 9. 13. and 12. 7.

p Because Obedience to God is a Moral Duty, constantly and indispensably necessary; but Sacrifice is but a Ceremonial Institution, sometimes unnecessary, as it was in the Wilderness; and sometimes sinful, when it is offered by a polluted hand, or in an irregular manner. Therefore thy gross Disobedience to Gods expres command, is not to be compensated with sacrifice. q i. e. To obey, as hearing is oft used in Scripture. r Than the choicest part of all the Sacrifice, to wit, the Fat, which was appropriated to God, Lev. 3. 16. Whereas the Offerer might partake of other parts of it.

23 For rebellion s is as the sin of † witchcraft t, and stubbornness u is as * iniquity and idolatry x: because thou hast rejected the word of the LORD, he hath also rejected thee from being king y. † Heb. divination. * See Isa. 66. 3. Heb.

s i. e. Disobedience to Gods expres Precept, which was Saul's case. t Is, though not so great, yet as inexcusable and impudent a sin, as Witchcraft; as plainly Condemned, and as certainly Destructive and Damnable. u Either, wilful and presumptuous sin, whereby a man violently breaks loose from Gods Command, and resists his Authority: Or rather, Perseverance or Contumacy in sin, justifying it, and pleading for it, which was Saul's present crime. x Or, the Iniquity of Idolatry; this being an Hendiadis; as Judgment and Justice, Deut. 16. 18. is put for the Judgment of Justice, or just Judgement. Or, Idolatry (for so the Hebrew word Aven, signifies, as Jer. 10. 15. Hos. 4. 15. and 10. 5. Compare with 1 King. 12. 29.) even the Teraphim, which is here mentioned as one of the worst kinds of Idolatry. y i. e. Hath pronounced the Sentence of Rejection: for that he was not actually Rejected or Deposed by God, plainly appears, because not onely the People, but even David, after this, owned him as King; and Samuel, at Saul's desire, did honour him; i. e. own him as King, before the People, ver. 30.

24 ¶ And Saul said unto Samuel, I have sinned z: for I have transgressed the commandment of the LORD, and thy words a; because I feared the people b, and obeyed their voice.

z Which confession proceeded not from true Repentance, but from the sence of his great Danger, and from a desire of recalling that dreadful Sentence denounced against him. a i. e. The Commandment of the Lord delivered to me by thy words. Another Hendiadis. b Who, as thou knowest, are set upon mischief, and would probably have broken forth into a Mutiny or Rebellion, had I done otherwise. But how little he feared the People, may be seen by 1 Sam. 11. 7. and 14. 24. But this this was a false cause: nor doth he acknowledge the true cause, which was his Covetousness, and because he did not fear God.

25 Now therefore, I pray thee, pardon my sin c, and turn again with me d, that I may worship the LORD e.

c Use thy great Interest with God to obtain the Pardon of my sin. Or, do thou Pardon my sin against thee: for he had sinned not onely against God, but against Samuel also, as Gods Prophet; and therefore needed a Pardon both from God and Man. d To Gilgal, whence Saul was gone forth to meet Samuel; and Samuel is here said to turn again to Gilgal; not properly, for he had not now been there: but by way of Concomitancy, because he accompanied Saul, who was come thence, and returned thither: See the like expression Ruth. 1. 10, 22. and 2. 6. e That I may offer further Sacrifices to God; partly to Praise him for the past Victory; and partly, to Implore his Mercy, and the taking off of my sin and punishment. This was a politick device of Saul's; That Samuel might at least seem to countenance his Design in reserving the Cattel for Sacrifice: which Samuel seeing, refused to do it. Heb. and I will worship the Lord, i. e. I will seek his Pardon and Favour.

26 And Samuel said unto Saul, I will not return with thee f: for thou hast rejected the word of the LORD, and the LORD hath rejected thee from being king over Israel.

f This was no lye, though he afterwards returned, because he spoke what he meant, his words and intentions agreed together, though afterwards he saw reason to change his Intentions. Compare Gen. 19. 2, 3. Which may relieve many perplexed Consciences, who think themselves obliged to do what they have said they would do, though they see just cause to change their minds.

27 And as Samuel turned about to go away,
* Sit 1 King. 11. 30. * he laid hold upon the skirt of his mantle, and it rent.

28 And Samuel said unto him, * The LORD
* chap. 28. 17. 1 King. 11. 31. hath rent the kingdom of Israel from thee g this day, and hath given it to a neighbour of thine h, that is better than thou.

g Samuel makes use of the emergent occasion, as a sign, to signify and confirm his former Prediction. h Either, another Man: or, another Israelite: for the word Neighbour, is used both ways: or rather, one of a Neighbouriug Tribe, even Judah, whose Inheritance did not onely joyn to that of Benjamin, but was partly mixed with it.

29 And also the ‖ strength of Israel i * will not ‖ Or, eternity, or, victory. * Num. 23. 19. 2 Tim. 2. 13. Tit. 1. 2. lie k, nor repent l: for he is not a man that he should repent.

i So he calls God here; partly, to shew the reason why God neither will nor can lye; because lying is a weakness, and proceeds from the sence of a Mans weakness, because he cannot many times accomplish his Design without lying and dissimulation; which therefore many Princes have used for this very reason. But, saith he, God needs no such Artifices; he can do whatsoever he pleaseth by his Absolute Power, and hath no need to use lyes to accomplish his Will: partly, to shew that Israel should be no loser by Saul's loss, as he might vainly imagine, because he had saved them from their Enemies on every side, chap. 14. 47. For not Saul, but God, was the Strength and Protector of Israel, and he would continue to save them when Saul was lost and gone: and partly, to assure Saul that God would Execute this Threatning, because he wanted not strength to do it, and none could hinder him in it. k i. e. Nor change his Counsel; which also is an effect of weakness and imperfection, either of Wisdom or Power.

30 Then he said, I have sinned: yet honour me now, I pray thee, before the elders of my people, and before Israel m, and turn again with me, that I may worship the LORD thy God.

m Here he plainly discovers his Hypocrisie, and the true motive of this and his former Confession; he was not solicitous for the Favour of God, but for his Honour and Power with Israel.

31 So Samuel turned again after Saul n, and Saul worshipped the LORD.

n Not to Worship the Lord with him, for that he did not; and therefore it is here mentioned that Saul only Worshipped the Lord: but for two other reasons; First, That the People might not upon pretence of this Sentence of rejection, immediately withdraw all Respect and Obedience to their Sovereign; whereby they would both have sinned against God, and have been as Sheep without a Shepherd. Secondly, That he might rectify Saul's Error, and Execute Gods Judgment upon Agag.

32 ¶ Then said Samuel, Bring ye hither to me Agag the king † of the Amalekites: and Agag † Heb. of Amalek. came unto him delicately o. And Agag said p, Surely the bitterness of death is past q.

o Or, in Delights; or, in his Ornaments; i. e. He came not like an Offender, expecting the Sentence of Death; but in that Garb and Gesture which became his Quality. p Or, for Agag said: This being the reason why he came so. q I who have escaped Death from the hands of a Warlike Prince in the fury of Battel, shall certainly never suffer Death from an old Prophet in time of Peace.

33 And Samuel said, * As thy sword hath * Num. 14. 45. made women childless r, so shall thy mother be childless among women. And Samuel hewed Agag in pieces s before the LORD t in Gilgal.

r Whereby it appears; that he was a cruel Tyrant, and Guilty of many Bloody Actions, and that towards Gods People, though it be not related elsewhere. And this seems to be added for the fuller vindication of Gods Justice, and to shew, that although God did at this time remember and revenge a Crime committed by this Mans Ancestors 400 Years ago, yet he did not punish an Innocent Son for his Fathers Crimes, but one that allowed and persisted in the same evil courses. s This he did by Divine instinct, and in pursuance of Gods express and particular Command, above, ver. 3. which being sinfully neglected by Saul, is now executed by Samuel. See the like Example 1 King. 18. 40. But these are no presidents for private Persons to take the Sword of Justice into their hands. For we must live by the Laws of God, and not by extraordinary Examples. t Either, before the Ark, which, it seems, Saul carried with him in this, as he did in his former Expedition, chap. 14. 18. or, before Gods Altar: or, in the publick Assembly.

34 ¶ Then Samuel went to Ramah, and Saul went up to his house to * Gibeah of Saul. * chap. 11. 4.

35 And Samuel came no more to see Saul u until the day of his death: nevertheless, Samuel mourned for Saul u: and the LORD repented that he had made Saul king over Israel.

u i. e. To visit him, either, in token of Respect or Friendship: or, to seek Counsel from God for him, or to give Counsel to him. Seeing is put for Visiting here, and 2 King. 8. 29. Otherwise he did see him afterwards, chap. 19. 24. Though indeed it was not Samuel that came thither with design to see Saul, which is implied in the Phrase here; but Saul went thither to see Samuel, and that accidentally. x Partly, for Saul's sake, whose sad condition he lamented: and partly, for Israel's sake, whose estate he feared might by this means be doubtful and dangerous.

CHAP. XVI.

AND the LORD said unto Samuel, How long wilt thou mourn for Saul a, seeing I have rejected him from reigning over Israel b? Fill thine horn with oyl c, and go, I will send thee to Jesse the Bethlehemite: for I have provided me † a king d † Heb. for me. among his sons.

a And pray for his Restitution, which the following words imply that he did. b The manifestation of my peremptory Will, should make thee submit to my pleasure. c Which was used in the Inauguration of Kings, as chap. 10. 1. and 1 King. 1. 39. But here it is used in the Designation of a King, though David was not actually made King by it, but still remained a Subject, as is evident from chap 24. 6. And the reason of this Anticipation was, partly, the comfort of Samuel, and other good men, against their great fears in case of Saul's Death, of which they expected every day to hear: and partly, the assurance of David's Title, which otherwise would have been very doubtful. For the prevention of which doubts, it was very meet, that the same Person and Prophet who had Anointed Saul, might now upon Gods rejection of Saul, Anoint David to succeed him upon his Death; and because Samuel was now not far from his Death, and was to die before Saul, it was fit that David's Anointing should be hastned and done before its proper time. d This Phrase is very Emphatical, and implies the difference between this and the former King. Saul was a King of the Peoples providing, he was the Product of their inordinate and sinful Desires; they desired him for themselves, and for their own glory and safety, as they supposed: but this is a King of my own providing providing, one that I have ſpied out, one of that Tribe to which I have allotted the Kingdom, Gen. 49. 10. A King for me; not one to gratifie the Peoples deſires, but to fulfill all my Will, as is ſaid, Act. 13. 22. and to ſerve my Glory. Or, my King; the Hebrew Phraſe, to me, or for me, being commonly uſed for the word mine.

2 And Samuel ſaid, How can I go e? if Saul hear it, he will kill me. And the LORD ſaid, Take an heifer † with thee, and ſay, I am come to ſacrifice to the LORD f.

† Heb. in thine hand.

e To wit, Safely? A Queſtion which ſeems to ſavour of Human frailty; for he ſhould have ſtrongly believed that God who had ſet him upon the Work, would carry him thorough it. f Which he uſed oft to do ſometimes in one place, and ſometimes in another, that ſo he might encourage and keep up the Worſhip of God in all of them. This was one cauſe, though not the onely cauſe, of his coming: nor was he obliged to declare all the cauſes of it.

3 And call Jeſſe to the ſacrifice g, and I will ſhew thee what thou ſhalt do: and thou ſhalt anoint unto me him whom I name h unto thee.

g i. e. Invite him to the Feaſt, which, after the manner, was made of the Fleſh of the Sacrifice: and it belonged to Samuel, as the Offerer of the Sacrifice, to invite whom he pleaſed. h i. e. Whom I ſhall deſcribe, as it were, by name.

4 And Samuel did that which the LORD ſpake, and came to Bethlehem: and the elders of the town trembled at his † coming i, and ſaid, Comeſt thou peaceably k?

i Partly, becauſe it was ſtrange and unexpected to them, this being but an obſcure Town, Mich. 5. 2. and remote from Samuel, and therefore they juſtly thought there was ſome extraordinary reaſon for it; and their Guilty Conſciences made them fear that he came to denounce ſome dreadful and particular Judgment of God upon them: and partly, leſt Saul, whoſe heart was eſtranged from, and incenſed againſt Samuel, ſhould upon this occaſion conceive a jealouſie of them, and a diſpleaſure againſt them. k Heb. in or with Peace; either, firſt, to thy ſelf. Comeſt thou voluntarily, or to flee from the Rage of Saul? Or, Secondly to us. Comeſt thou with no evil Tidings to us, either from God, or from Saul? The Hebrew Phraſe, comeſt thou in Peace, being as much as to ſay (in our Phraſe) is all well?

5 And he ſaid, Peaceably: I am come to ſacrifice unto the LORD: ſanctifie your ſelves l, and come with me to the ſacrifice m: and he ſanctified Jeſſe and his ſons, and called them to the ſacrifice n.

l Prepare your ſelves in the manner expreſſed, Exod. 19. 14. 15. m Heb. in the Sacrifice; i. e. joyn with me in this act of Worſhipping God, and offering this Sacrifice, thereby to give Thanks for the Bleſſings you have received from him, and to pray for what you want. n It ſeems evident, that there was ſomething peculiar in Jeſſe's Invitation. For Firſt, Both he and his Sons were Invited, whereas the others are onely Invited for their own Perſons. Secondly, The different Phraſe here uſed, that he Sanctified theſe, when he onely bad the other Sanctify themſelves; argues a ſingular care and agency of Samuel in their Sanctification: (unleſs we ſhould ſay, He ſanctified them, is no more but that he cauſed them to be ſanctified, that is, theſe in particular amongſt others). Which makes it probable, that the reſt were only to joyn with him in the act of Sacrificing; but theſe, and onely theſe, were Invited to Feaſt upon the remainders of the Sacrifice; which Feaſt is here called a Sacrifice, as it is above ver. 3. And the onely inconvenience of this Interpretation, is, that the word Sacrifice is taken in different ſenſes in the ſame Verſe, which is no unuſual thing. See Matth. 8. 22. And this difference may poſſibly be intimated by the differing prepoſitions prefixed to the ſame word, the firſt being Bazzabach, and the latter Lazzabach. Howſoever, that onely Jeſſe and his Sons were preſent at the Feaſt, may ſeem probable, from Samuel's deſign of Privacy, and from the following relation.

6 ¶ And it came to paſs, when they were come o, that he looked on * Eliab, and ſaid, Surely the LORDS anointed is before him p.

* 1 Chron. 27. 18. Elihu.

o When the moſt of Jeſſe's Sons were come, either to the place of the Feaſt, or to ſome other place near it, appointed for this private Diſcourſe, whither they were to come before they went to the Feaſt. It muſt alſo be underſtood, that Samuel had acquainted Jeſſe with his Deſign, which is eaſily gathered out of the Context, and needed not be expreſſed. p i. e. Is in this place where God is now preſent. For it is obſervable, that not only the Sacrifice is ſaid to be Offered, but even the Feaſt upon the remainders of it is ſaid to be eaten before the Lord, Deut. 12. 7. i. e. before or near his Altar, where God was preſent in a ſpecial manner. And the ground of this expreſſion ſeems to be this, That Jeſſe brought not all his Sons together, but made one after another to come to the place, and to paſs before Samuel, who ſtood before the Lord, in ſome place near the Altar, that this great buſineſs might be managed with more Solemnity. And Eliab being the Perſon now before Samuel, is ſaid to be now before the Lord. But whatſoever the ground of this Phraſe is, this is certain and confeſſed, that this is his meaning, This I take to be the Perſon whom I am ſent to Anoint: wherein yet he was greatly miſtaken, as other Prophets ſometimes were, when they haſtily ſpake their own thoughts, before they had conſulted God in the caſe, as 2 Sam. 7. 3.

7 But the LORD ſaid q unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his ſtature r, becauſe I have refuſed him: for the LORD ſeeth not as man ſeeth: For man looketh on the † outward appearance ſ, but the LORD looketh on the * heart t.

† Heb. Eyes. * 1 Chron. 28. 9. Pſal. 7. 9. Jer. 11. 20. and 17. 10. and 20. 12.

q By ſecret inſpiration. r Whereby thou waſt once deceived in Saul, chap. 10. 23, 24. and therefore ſhouldſt not now be deceived a ſecond time. ſ Men value Men by their outſides. t God eſteems of Men by the goodneſs of their hearts, and hath now proceeded by that Rule in the choice of a King, and would have done ſo before, if the Peoples ſinful Deſires had not provoked him to give them a bad King.

8 Then Jeſſe called * Abinadab, and made him paſs before Samuel: and he ſaid, Neither hath the LORD choſen this.

* chap. 17. 13.

9 Then Jeſſe made Shammah u to paſs by: and he ſaid, Neither hath the LORD choſen this.

u Called alſo Shimeah, 2 Sam. 13. 3. and Shimmah, 1 Chron. 2. 13.

10 Again Jeſſe made ſeven of his Sons x to paſs before Samuel; and Samuel ſaid unto Jeſſe, The LORD hath not choſen † theſe.

† Heb. any of.

x i. e. The reſt of his Sons, which were ſeven, beſides David; for in all he had eight, 1 Sam. 17. 12. It is true, there are but ſeven of them named, 1 Chron. 2. 13, 14, 15. but that may be, becauſe one of them was either born of a Concubine; or, an obſcure Perſon: or, one that died immediately after this time.

11 And Samuel ſaid unto Jeſſe, Are here all thy children? And he ſaid There remaineth yet the youngeſt, and behold, he keepeth the ſheep y. And Samuel ſaid unto Jeſſe, * ſend and fetch him: for we will not ſit † down z till he come hither.

* 2 Sam. 7. 8. Pſal. 78. 70. † Heb. round.

y And conſequently is the moſt unfit of all my Sons for that high Employment. Either therefore he did not throughly underſtand David's great Wiſdom and Valour, or he judgeth him unfit, by reaſon of his mean Education. And God ſo ordered it by his Providence, that David's choice might plainly appear to be Gods Work, and not Samuel's, or Jeſſe's Deſign. z To wit, to the Feaſt. Queſt. How could David be admitted to this Feaſt, being, as it ſeems, not ſanctified with the reſt of his brethren? Anſw. 1. It is not ſtrange, if the Prophet, by Gods direction, diſpenſed with the ordinary Rule, in a perſon ſo extraordinary, both for his Piety, and the Dignity to which he was choſen. 2. It is not affirmed, that David did ſit down with them to the Feaſt; but onely, that they would not do ſo till he came. And when he was come, and Samuel had done what he intended with him, David, for ought we know, might depart, and the reſt ſit down to the Feaſt. For David was not now actually raiſed to any higher degree, but returned to his former employment; as we read below, ver. 19.

12 And he ſent and brought him in: now he was ruddy a, and withal † of a beautiful countenance, and goodly to look b to, and the LORD ſaid, Ariſe, anoint him: for this is he.

† Heb. fair of eyes.

a Which may be referred either to the colour of his hair; or rather, to the complexion of his Face. b Of a comely, but Maſculine and Majeſtick Aſpect.

13 Then Samuel took the horn of oyl, and anointed him in the midſt of his brethren c: and * the ſpirit of the LORD came upon David from that day forward d. So Samuel roſe up and went to Ramah.

* * Pſal. 89. 20. * See Num. 27. 18.

c According to this Tranſlation, his Brethren were preſent at at this Act, and knew that David was Anointed King. But this seems with some, neither consistent to Samuels design of Secresie; nor with Eliabs scornful words concerning him after this, chap. 17. 28. But to this, others reply, That Davids Brethren saw Davids Unction, but did not particularly understand, that he was Anointed to the Kingdom; but were onely told by Samuel, that he was Anointed to some great Service, which hereafter they should know, but at present, it was fit to be concealed: Thus Jesse onely, and David, understood the whole business, and his Brethren were able to Attest to that Act of Samuels Anointing him, which with other collateral Evidences, was abundantly sufficient to prove Davids Right to the Kingdom, if need should be. And this seems fairly to accord, and explain the matter: But the words may be otherwise Translated out of the Hebrew, That he Anointed him out of the midst of his Brethren; i. e. He selected him from amongst the rest of his Brethren to be King. As Christ is said to be raised from the midst of his Brethren. And whereas the Hebrew word is Bekereb, in the midst; not mikkereb, out of the midst; it is confessed, that the Preposition beth, in, is oft used for min, of or out of, as hath been formerly shewed by many instances; and so it may be here. And further, the place may be thus rendred; that Samuel anointed him, being taken out of the midst of his brethren: and so these words may be added, to signifie, That Samuel took him out from the rest of the Company, and privately Anointed him; Jesse onely being present at the Action. And thus there is an Ellipsis of a Verb or Particle, which is frequent; as Gen. 12. 15. The woman was taken (i. e. was taken and carried) into Pharaohs house; and many such places. d i.e. He was immediately endowed with extraordinary Gifts of Gods Spirit, as Strength, and Courage, and Wisdom, and Magnanimity, and other excellent qualities which fitted him for, and put him upon Noble Attempts; for which, he presently grew famous, even whilest he lived a private Life: See below, ver. 18. and 17, 34, &c.

14 ¶ But the spirit of the LORD departed from Saul e, and an * evil spirit f from the LORD g ‖ troubled him h.

* chap. 19. 9.

e God took away that prudence, and courage, and alacrity, and other gifts and assistances of Gods Spirit, wherewith he had qualified him for the management of his Publick Employment. f Properly so called: for what need is there of forsaking the proper signification of the Word? It is evident both from Scripture, and Experience, that God hath permitted some men to be really acted, and disquieted by the Devil: and why not Saul as well as others? g i. e. By Gods permission or judgment, delivering him up to Satan. h Stirred up in him unruly and tormenting Passions; as Envy, Rage, Fear, Despair, and the like.

15 And Sauls servants said unto him, Behold now, an evil spirit † from God troubleth thee.

† Heb. of God.

16 Let our lord now command thy servants which are before thee, to seek out a man, who is a cunning player on an harp, and it shall come to pass, when the evil spirit from God is upon thee, that he shall play with his hand, and thou shalt be well i.

i And the Success confirms their Opinion. For although Musick cannot directly have any influence upon an Evil Spirit to drive him away; yet, because the Devil, as it seems, had not Possession of him, but onely made use of the Passions of his Mind, and ill humours of his Body to molest him: and because it is manifest, that Musick hath a mighty Power to qualifie and sweeten these, and to make a man sedate and chearful, as is evident by the unanimous consent of Learned Writers, and by common Experience; it is not strange, if the Devil had not that power over him when his Mind was more composed, which he had when it was disordered; as the Devil had less power over Lunaticks in the decrease, than in the increase of the Moon: Matt. 17. 15, 18. And seeing Musick prepared the Lords Prophets for the entertainment of the good Spirit, as 2 King. 3. 15. Why might it not dispose Saul to the resistance of the evil Spirit? and why might not the chearing of his heart, in some measure strengthen him against those temptations of the Devil, which were fed by his Melancholick Humour?

17 And Saul said unto his servants, Provide me now a man that can play well, and bring him to me.

18 Then answered one of the servants, and said, Behold, I have seen a son of Jesse the Bethlehemite, that is cunning in playing, and a mighty valiant man, and a man of war, and prudent in matters k, and a comely person, and the LORD is with him l.

k Wonder not that David was so suddenly advanced, from a poor contemptible Shepherd, to so great Reputation; for these were the Effects of that Spirit of the Lord which he received when he was Anointed. Though some would hence infer, that the things related in this Chapter, happened after the History of Chapter 17. though it be placed before, such Transpositions being not unusual in Historical Relations. l i.e. Directs and prospers all his undertakings.

19 ¶ Wherefore Saul sent messengers unto Jesse, and said, Send me David thy son, which is with the sheep.

20 And Jesse took an ass laden with bread, and a bottle of wine, and a kid, and sent them by David his son unto Saul m.

m This Present, though in our times it would seem contemptible, yet was very agreeable to the usage of those times, and to the condition of Jesse, which was but mean in the World. And it seems to have been the Custom of those times, as it is yet in the Eastern Countries (when they made their appearance before Princes, or great Persons, to bring a Present; See Gen. 32. 20. Gen. 43. 25, 26. and elsewhere). To which civil Custom, that Religious Precept seems consonant, Exod. 23. 15. Deut. 16. 16. None shall appear before me empty. And he might send it, partly, as a Testimony of his respect to his Soveraign; and partly, to gain David favour and acceptance with him; being sensible, that he was going into a place and state of hazzard; but knowing Sauls furious temper, he durst not refuse to send him; and he sent him the more willingly, because this seemed a most likely means to accomplish Gods Promise of the Kingdom, and to prepare him for it.

21 And David came to Saul, and stood before him n: and he loved him greatly, and he became his armour-bearer o.

n i. e. Ministred unto him; or, (as we use to speak) waited upon him, as that Phrase oft signifies; as Deut. 1. 38. and 10. 8. o He had that Place conferred upon him, though we do not read that he ever exercised it; for it seems he was gone back to his Father upon some occasion not related; and had abode with him some considerable time before the War described, chap. 17. happened.

22 And Saul sent to Jesse, saying, Let David, I pray thee, stand before me: for he hath found favour in my sight.

23 And it came to pass, when the evil spirit † from God was upon Saul, that David took an harp, and played with his hand: so Saul was refreshed, and was well, and the evil spirit departed from him p.

† Heb. of God.

p To wit, for a season. And the reason of this Success, may be, partly natural and common; of which, see on ver. 16. and partly, Supernatural and special, respecting David; whom God designed by this means to bring into favour with the King and his Court, and so to smooth the way for his Advancement.

And though the whole weight of Goliahs Armour may ſeem prodigious; yet it is not ſo much by far, as one Athanatus did manage; of whom Pliny relates, That he ſaw him come into the Theater with Arms weighing 12000 Ounces.

8 And he ſtood and cryed unto the armies of Iſrael, and ſaid unto them, Why are ye come out to ſet your battel in aray? am not I a Philiſtine, and ye ſervants to Saul? chooſe ye a man for you, and let him come down to me g.

g That the Battel may be decided by us Two alone. Such offers were frequent in thoſe times. And poſſibly he thought the Valiant Jonathan, who had Aſſaulted an whole Army, would never have refuſed this Challenge. But God ſo ordered the matter, that none ſhould accept it, becauſe he would reſerve this Honour for David, as a ſtep to his Kingdom.

9 If he be able to fight with me, and to kill me, then will we be your ſervants: but if I prevail againſt him, and kill him, then ſhall ye be our ſervants, and ſerve us.

10 And the Philiſtine ſaid, I defie the armies of Iſrael this day: give me a man that we may fight together.

11 When Saul and all Iſrael heard thoſe words of the Philiſtine, they were diſmayed, and greatly afraid h.

h Which may ſeem ſtrange, conſidering the glorious Promiſes, and their late Experiences of Divine Aſſiſtance. But the truth is, all men do ſo intirely depend upon God in all things, that when he withdraws his help, the moſt Valiant and Reſolute Perſons cannot find their Hearts nor Hands as daily experience ſhews.

* Joſh. 15. 16.

t It is obſervable, that Saul in his great Diſtreſs, doth not encourage himſelf in God, nor ſeek his counſel or favour by Prayers and Sacrifices, but expects Relief from Men onely. This was one Effect and Sign of the departure of Gods Spirit from him. u Free from all thoſe Tributes and Charges which either the Court or the Camp required.

26 And David ſpake to the men that ſtood by him, ſaying, What ſhall be done to the man that killeth this Philiſtine, and taketh away the reproach from Iſrael? for who is this uncircumciſed Philiſtine, that he ſhould defie the armies of the living God x?

x Why ſhould you all be thus diſmayed at him? he is but a Man, and that of an accurſed Race, a Stranger and Enemy to God, and no way able to ſtand before them who have the Living and Almighty God for their Strength and Refuge?

27 And the people anſwered him after this manner, ſaying, So ſhall it be done unto the man that killeth him.

28 ¶ And Eliab his eldeſt brother heard when he ſpake unto the men, and Eliabs anger was kindled againſt David y, and he ſaid, Why cameſt thou down hither? and with whom haſt thou left thoſe few ſheep in the wilderneſs z? I know thy pride, and the naughtineſs of thine heart a; for thou art come down that thou mighteſt ſee the battel.

y Either becauſe he thought him guilty of intolerable Folly, and and Pride, and Presumption, in pretending to such an Attempt: or because he feared and concluded he would be certainly Ruined in the Enterprize: or rather, because he envied him the glory of so great an undertaking; and took this proffer of David's to be, what indeed it was, a Reproach to himself, and to all the rest, that having the great God on their side, had not the Faith or Courage to Fight with him. z Thou art much fitter to tend Sheep, than to appear in an Army, or to fight with a Giant. a Thy self-confidence, and vain-glory, and curiosity.

29 And David said, What have I now done? Is there not a cause b?

b Either, 1. Of my coming: My Father sent me on an Errand. Or rather, 2. Of my thus speaking: Is there not Reason in what I say? Is this Giant Invincible? is our God unable to Oppose him, and Subdue him?

32 ¶ And David said to Saul, Let no mans heart fail because of him: thy servant will go and fight with this Philistine.

33 And Saul said to David, Thou art not able to go against this Philistine to fight with him: for thou art but a youth d, and he a man of war from his youth.

d Either, 1. For Age, to wit, comparatively to Goliah, being now not much above 20 years old, as is supposed. Or rather, 2. For Military skill, as the words following explain it; as if he should say, Thou art but a Novice, a raw and unexperienced Souldier, and therefore unable to Fight with him.

34 And David said unto Saul, Thy servant kept his fathers sheep, and there came a lion and a bear e, and took a ‖ lamb out of the flock:

‖ Or, kid.

e Not both together, but one after another, at several times.

35 And I went out after him, and smote him f, and delivered it out of his mouth: and when he arose against me, I caught him by his beard, and smote him, and slew him.

f To wit, the Lyon, as appears by his Beard: which having particularly mentioned, it was easily understood, and believed, that he did the same to the Bear; which therefore it was needless to express.

36 Thy servant slew both the lion and the bear g, and this uncircumcised Philistine shall be as one of them, seeing he hath defied the armies of the living God.

g This he is probably thought to have done after he was Anointed; when he was endowed with singular gifts of Gods Spirit: and among others, with extraordinary courage of Heart, and strength of Body.

37 David said moreover, The LORD that delivered me out of the † paw of the lion, and out of the † paw of the bear, he will deliver me out of the hand of the Philistine h. And Saul said unto David, Go i, and the LORD be with thee.

38 ¶ And Saul † armed David with his armour k, and he put a helmet of brass upon his head, also he armed him with a coat of mail.

k Either, 1. With Saul's own Armour which he used to wear in Battel: which seems not to agree with the extraordinary height of Saul's Stature, 1 Sam. 10. 23. Nor is it like that Saul would disarm himself, when he was going forth to the Battel, ver. 20, 21. Or, 2. With Armour taken out of his Armory. Not that the whole Armory of Saul was brought into the Field; but that some chosen Arms were taken out thence, and brought for any emergent occasion. Or rather, 3. With his vestments, or garments. For, 1. So the Hebrew word properly and usually signifies; and so this same Word is Translated, 1 Sam. 18. 4. 2. His Armour is distinguished from this, and is particularly described in the following words. He seems therefore to speak of some Military Vestments which were then used in War, and were contrived for defence; such as Buff-coats now are.

39 And David girded his sword upon his armour, and he assayed to go, for he had not proved it: and David said unto Saul, I cannot go with these: for I have not proved them l. And David put them off him.

l I have no skill nor experience in the management of this kind of Arms.

40 And he took his staff m in his hand, and chose him five n smooth stones o out of the ‖ brook, and put them in a shepherds † bag which he had, even in a scrip, and his sling was in his hand p, and he drew near to the Philistine.

‖ Or, Valley.
† Heb. Vessel.

m His Shepherds Staff. These Arms were in themselves contemptible, yet chosen by David; partly, because he had no skill to use other Arms; partly, because he had inward assurance of the Victory, even by these weapons; and partly, because such a Conquest would be most honourable to God, and most shameful, and discouraging to the Philistines. n That if one should fail him, he might make use of another. o Because such Stones would go most freely out of the Sling; and consequently, with more force and certainty, directly to the Mark which he aimed at. p This sort of Weapons was not unusual in the Fights of ancient times; and many arrived at great dexterity in slinging Stones with great certainty; of which we have instances both in Scripture, as Judg. 20. 16. and in Diodorus Siculus, and Livy, and other Authors.

41 And the Philistine came on, and drew near unto David, and the man that bare the shield went before him.

42 And when the Philistine looked about, and saw David, he disdained him: for he was but a youth, and ruddy, and of a fair countenance q.

q Not having so much as the countenance of a Martial person.

43 And the Philistine said unto David, Am I a dog, that thou comest to me with staves r? and the Philistine cursed David by his gods s.

r i. e. With a Staff. The Plural Number for the Singular; as Gen. 21. 7. and 46. 7. s He prayed that his god Dagon, and Ashtaroth, &c. would Destroy him.

44 And the Philistine said to David, Come to me, and I will give thy flesh unto the fowls of the air, and to the beasts of the field.

45 Then said David to the Philistine, Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield: but I come to thee in the Name of the LORD of hosts t, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thou hast defied u.

t i. e. By a Commission from him, with confidence in him, and assurance of his Help, and for the vindication of his Honour. u In defying that Army and People whereof he is the Lord, and Protector.

46 This day will the LORD † deliver thee into mine hand, and I will smite thee, and take thine head from thee, and I will give the carcases of the host of the Philistines this day unto the fowls of the air, and to the wild beasts of the earth, that all the earth may know that * there is a God in Israel x.

† Heb. shut thee up.
* 2 King. 5. 15.

x Heb. that God, the onely true God, is for Israel; or on Israels side, and against you. Or, that Israel hath a God, a God indeed, one who is able to help them; and not such an impotent Idol as you serve.

47 And all this assembly shall know, that the LORD saveth not with sword and spear y, (for the battel is the LORDS z,) and he will give you into our hands a.

y i. e. That he can save without these Arms, and with the most contemptible Weapons, such as mine seem to thee. z i. e. The Events of War are wholly in his Power, to give Success to whom, and by what means he pleaseth. a David speaks thus confidently, because he was assured of it by a particular Inspiration from God.

48 And it came to pass, when the Philistine arose, and came, and drew nigh to meet David, that David hasted, and ran toward the army to meet the Philistine.

49 And David put his hand in his bag, and took thence a stone, and slang it, and smote the Philistine in his fore-head, that the stone sunk into his fore-head b, and he fell upon his face to the earth.

b Either, 1. The Stone pierced through his Helmet; which such Stones being slung, would not seldom do; as even Diodorus Siculus relates. Or 2. The Stone might get in through one of those holes which are left in Helmets, that he that wears it may see his way, and how to direct his blows. Or rather 3. The proud Giant had lift up that part of his Helmet which covered his Forehead; and that in contempt of David and his Weapons, and by the singular direction of Gods Providence.

50 So David prevailed over the Philistine, with a sling, and with a stone, and smote the Philistine, and slew him; but there was no sword in the hand of David.

51 Therefore David ran and stood upon the Philistine, and took his sword c, and drew it out of the sheath thereof, and slew him d, and cut off his head therewith. And when the Philistines saw their champion was dead, they fled.

c Hence it appears, that David was not a little man, as many fancy: but a man of considerable bulk and strength, because he was able to manage a Giants Sword; which also he did, both here and below, chap. 21. 9. d Quest. How could this be, when he slew him before with the Stone, ver. 50. Answ. There he gives a general account of the Event of the Battel, and of the Giants Death: but here he gives a particular Relation of the manner and instrument of his Death. The Stone threw him down to the Earth, and bereaved him of the use of his Sense and Motion; but there remained some Life in him, (as frequently doth in such cases) which the Sword took away, and so compleated the Work.

52 And the men of Israel and of Judah arose, and shouted, and pursued the Philistines, until thou come to the valley, and to the gates of Ekron: and the wounded of the Philistines fell down by the way to Shaaraim, even unto Gath, and unto Ekron.

53 And the children of Israel returned from chasing after the Philistines, and they spoiled their tents e.

e Heb. their camps, i. e. Their Camp: but he speaks of it in the Plural Number, because of the great extent, and various quarters of their Camp.

54 And David took the head of the Philistine, and brought it to Jerusalem f; but he put his armour in his tent g.

f Either, to terrifie the Jebusites, who yet held the Fort of Zion, 2 Sam. 5. 7. or, for some other Reason not Recorded, nor now known. g i. e. In the Tent which was erected for him in the Camp, upon this occasion. There it was kept for the present; though afterwards it seems to have been translated to the Tabernacle; where we find his Sword, chap. 21. and it is not unlikely the rest of his Armour was there also.

55 And when Saul saw David go forth against the Philistine, he said unto Abner the captain of the host, Abner, whose son is this youth h? and Abner said, As thy soul liveth, O king, I cannot tell i?

h Quest. How could David be unknown to Saul, with whom he had lived, chap. 16. 21.? Answ. That might well be, for divers reasons, because David was not constantly with him; nor, as it seems, used by him, but upon extraordinary Occasions, and desperate fits of Melancholy; from which, possibly he had been free for a good while, by Gods special Providence and Care for his People Israel, that so he might be capable of Governing and Protecting them against the Philistines, who watched all opportunities against them, and at last, broke forth into an open War. Thus David had been for some considerable time dismissed from Saul's Court, and was returned home. And therefore it is not strange, if Saul had for the present forgotten David. For Kings, because of the Encumbrance of Publick Business, and the Multitude of Persons who come to them on several occasions, may easily forget some persons; yea, such as have frequently been with them, especially their Servants whom they do not use to observe with so much attention and care as they do others. Add to this, that the distemper of Saul's mind might make him forgetful; and that David might now be much changed, both in his countenance and in his habit, from what he had before; and it is apparent, that the change of habits makes so great a difference, that it oft keeps us from the knowledge of those Persons whom in other habits we very well know. Some give this Answer, That this was the first time that Saul had seen David; and that David's exploit here Recorded, was performed before that which is Recorded chap. 17. 15, &c. though it be placed after it: But that is confuted by comparing chap. 18. 1, 2, 3. i Which is not strange, because Abner's conversation and employment was generally in the Camp, when David was at the Court; and when Abner was there, he took little notice of a Person so much inferior to him as David was.

56 And the king said, Inquire thou whose son the stripling is.

57 And as David returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner took him, and brought him before Saul, with the head of the Philistine in his hand.

58 And Saul said to him, Whose son art thou, thou young man? And David answered, I am the son of thy servant Jesse, the Bethlehemite.

CHAP. XVIII.

AND it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking unto Saul, that the soul of Jonathan was † knit with the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul a. † Heb. bound up in. See Gen. 44. 30.

a Partly, for his excellent Vertues and Endowments, which shone forth both in his Speeches and Actions; partly, for the great and good Service which he had done to God and to his People; and partly, for the similitude of their Age and Qualities.

2 And Saul took him that day, and would let him go no more home to his fathers house b.

b By which it appears, that before-time David had not his constant Residence at Court, but did return to his Fathers House, and thence again to the Court, as occasion required.

3 Then Jonathan and David made a covenant c, because he loved him as his own soul.

c i. e. An agreement of sincere and perpetual Friendship between them.

4 And Jonathan stript himself of the robe that was upon him, and gave it to David, and his garments, even to his sword, and to his bow, and to his girdle d.

d Partly, as a pledge of his great respect and affection to him: and partly, to vindicate David from that Contempt which might cleave to him for his former Pastoral habit and condition, and to put him into an habit suitable to his present Greatness and Glory.

5 ¶ And David went out e whithersoever Saul sent him, and ‖behaved himself wisely: and Saul set him over the men of war f, and he was accepted in the sight of all the people, and also in the sight of Sauls servants. ‖ Or, prospered.

e Upon Military Expeditions, of which that word is oft used. f Gave him some considerable Command in his Army, though not the Supreme.

6 And it came to pass, as they came, when David was returned from the slaughter of the ‖ Philistine g, ‖ Or, Philistins.

liſtine g, that the women came out of all cities of Iſrael h, ſinging, and dancing i, to meet king Saul, with tabrets, with joy, and with † inſtruments of muſick.

† Heb. three ſtringed inſtruments.

g Either, Firſt, From ſome eminent Victory obtained by him againſt the Philiſtines, though not particularly related, wherein alſo Saul might be preſent and concerned. Or rather, Secondly, From the ſlaughter of Goliah, and the other Philiſtines with him. Againſt this it is objected, That this Song was ſung either after David was advanced and employed, as is related ver 5. and therefore not immediately after that great Victory; or, before he was ſo advanced; and then it would have raiſed Saul's jealouſie and envy, and conſequently hindered David's advancement. But it may be Replied, That this Song, though placed afterwards, was ſung before David's advancement, related ver. 5. And that this did not hinder David's preferment, muſt be aſcribed, partly, to Saul's Policy, who, though he had an eye upon David, and deſigned to cruſh him upon a fit occaſion; yet ſaw it neceſſary for his own Reputation, and the encouragement of other mens Valour, and for the ſatisfaction of Jonathan's paſſionate deſire, and the juſt and general expectation of the whole Army and People, to give him ſome conſiderable preferment for the preſent; and principally, to Gods Providence over-ruling Saul, againſt his own inclination, and his miſtaken intereſt. h i. e. Out of all the Neighbouring Cities, by or through which the Victorious Army Marched. i According to the cuſtom of thoſe times and places; Of which ſee Exod. 15. 20. Judg. 11. 34.

7 And the women anſwered one another k as they played, and ſaid, * Saul hath ſlain his thouſands, and David his ten thouſands l.

* chap. 21. 11. and 29. 5.

k Singing by parts alternately. l So they ſaid, becauſe David killed Goliah, which was the principal cauſe of all the following ſlaughter of the Philiſtines.

8 ¶ And Saul was very wroth, and the ſaying † diſpleaſed him, and he ſaid, They have aſcribed unto David ten thouſands, and to me they have aſcribed but thouſands: and what can he have more, but the kingdom m?

† Heb. was evil in his eyes.

m What greater honour can they give him, but that of the Kingdom? Or thus: And moreover, this will not reſt here, they will certainly give him the Kingdom: they will tranſlate the Crown from me to him. Or thus: And moreover, the Kingdom certainly belongs to him, i. e. I now perceive that this is the favourite of God, and of the people; this is that man after Gods own heart, to whom Samuel told me that God would tranſfer my Kingdom.

9 And Saul eyed David n from that day and forward.

n i. e. Narrowly obſerved all his Counſels and Actions, that he might underſtand whether he had any deſign upon the Kingdom or no; and that he might find ſome colourable pretence of putting him to death.

10 ¶ And it came to paſs on the morrow, that the * evil ſpirit from God came upon Saul o, and he propheſied p in the midſt of the houſe: and David played with his hand as at other times: and there was a javelin in Sauls hand q.

* chap. 16. 14.

o Saul's envy, and jealouſie, and diſcontent revived his Melancholick Diſtemper, which the Devil, according to his wont, ſtruck him with. p Or, he feigned himſelf to be a Prophet, for ſo Hebrew Verbs in Hithpahel oft ſignifie; i. e. he uſed uncouth Geſtures, and Signs, and Speeches, as the Prophets, or Sons of the Prophets uſed to do: for which they were by the ignorant and ungodly ſort reputed mad-men, 2 King. 9. 11. And it may ſeem probable, that Saul did now ſpeak of Divine things Politickly, that thereby he might lull David aſleep, and kill him, before he ſuſpected any Danger. q Which he kept there for the following purpoſe.

11 And Saul caſt the javelin; for he ſaid, I will ſmite David even to the wall with it: and David avoided out of his preſence twice r.

r Once at this time, and another time upon a like occaſion, chap. 19. 10.

12 ¶ And Saul was afraid of David ſ, becauſe the LORD was with him, and was departed from Saul.

ſ Leſt as he had gotten the favour of God and of all the People, he ſhould alſo take away his Kingdom.

13 Therefore Saul removed him from him t; and made him his captain over a thouſand, and he went out, and came in u before the people.

t From his Preſence and Court; which he did, partly, becauſe he feared leſt David ſhould watch and find an opportunity to kill him, as he had deſigned to kill David; partly, becauſe he was a great Eye-ſore, and his preſence now made him more ſad than ever his Muſick had made him chearful: and principally, that hereby he might expoſe him to the greateſt hazards, and in ſome ſort betray him into the hands of the Philiſtines. u He led his Soldiers forth to Battel, and brought them back again with ſafety. Compare 2 Sam. 5. 2. Or elſe the Phraſe of coming in and going out, may be underſtood (as elſewhere) for converſing; or (as we uſe to ſay) going to and fro about buſineſs; as chap. 29. 6.

14 And David ‖ behaved himſelf wiſely in all his ways, and the LORD was with him x.

x So he had great prudence in his Conduct, and proſperous Succeſs following his deſigns: which are two principal qualifications of a General, and of a Prince. Thus God turned all Saul's Devices upon himſelf, and to David's advantage.

15 Wherefore when Saul ſaw that he behaved himſelf very wiſely, he was afraid of him.

16 But all Iſrael and Judah loved David, becauſe he went out and came in before them.

17 ¶ And Saul ſaid to David, Behold, my elder daughter Merab, her will I give thee to wife y: onely be thou † valiant for me, and fight the LORDS battels: for Saul ſaid, Let not mine hand be upon him, but let the hand of the Philiſtines be upon him z.

y This was no more than Saul was obliged to do by his former promiſe, chap. 17. 25. which he here renews and pretends to perform, though he intended nothing leſs, as the ſequel ſhews. Whereby he makes himſelf guilty of Ingratitude, Injuſtice, and breach of Truſt, and withal of groſs Hypocriſie. z He thought ſo great an offer would oblige him, who was of himſelf Valiant enough, to give proofs of more than common Valour, and to venture upon the moſt dangerous enterprizes.

18 And David ſaid unto Saul, Who am I? and what is my life a, or my fathers family in Iſrael, that I ſhould be ſon in law to the king?

a i. e. My manner of living! How obſcure is that condition in which I was born and have been bred! Or rather thus: How little is my life worth, that by the expoſing of that to ſome hazard (which Saul required of him) I ſhould purchaſe a Kings Daughter! In theſe expreſſions David ſheweth not onely his Humility, but alſo his Wiſdom, in diſcovering ſo deep a ſenſe of his own meanneſs, that Saul might ſee how far he was from aſpiring at the Kingdom, and might have no occaſion to ſuſpect that he was already Anointed thereto.

19 But it came to paſs at the time when Merab Sauls daughter ſhould have been given to David b, that ſhe was given unto Adriel the Meholathite c to wife.

b When the Marriage was even ready to be Solemnized. c The Son of Barzillai, as he is called 2 Sam. 21. 8. This was an act of great Injuſtice and Perfidiouſneſs; and accordingly this Marriage was accurſed by God, and the Children begotten in it, were by Gods appointment cut off, 2 Sam. 21.

20 And Michal Sauls daughter loved David d: and they told Saul, and the thing † pleaſed him d.

† Heb. was right in his eyes.

d Not for any reſpect he had to David; but for his own malicious and wicked ends, that he might make uſe of her Love to David, to enſnare and ruine him, which he thought might be done many ways, whereof one is here expreſſed.

21 And Saul ſaid, I will give him her, that ſhe may be a ſnare to him, and that the hand of the Philiſtines may be againſt him. Wherefore Saul ſaid to David, Thou ſhalt * this day e be my Son in law, in the one of the twain f.

* Ver. 26.

e i. e. Suddenly, within a time which probably Saul prefixed. f Whereas I have onely two Daughters, and thou waſt diſappointed of thy expectation in the one by an unexpected accident, thou ſhalt certainly have the other; which is the same thing. Heb. in the twain. Thus the Cities of Gilead is put for one of them, Judg. 12. 7. And the sides of the Ship for one of the sides, Jonah 1. 5. Or, he saith, in the twain, or in both, because he was in effect Betrothed to the one, and should be Married to the other, and so was his Son in law upon a double account.

22 ¶ And Saul commanded his servants, saying, Commune with David g secretly, and say, Behold, the king hath delight in thee, and all his servants love thee: now therefore be the kings son in law.

g Whom having so lately and grosly deceived, he found backward to imbrace his motion, and therefore sets others on work to perswade him.

23 And Sauls servants spake those words in the ears of David: and David said, Seemeth it to you a light thing to be a kings son in law, seeing that I am a poor man, and lightly esteemed h?

h And therefore neither have Estate nor Credit to give (according to the manner, Gen. 34. 12. Exod. 22. 16, 17.) a Dowry suitable to her Quality.

24 And the servants of Saul told him, saying, † On this manner spake David.

† Heb. according to these words.

25 And Saul said, Thus shall ye say to David, The king desireth not any dowry, but an hundred fore-skins i of the Philistines, to be avenged of the kings enemies. But Saul thought to make David fall by the hand of the Philistines.

i These he desires rather than their heads; partly, for the greater convenience of bringing them, and presenting them before him; partly, to cover his malice against David with a pretence of Zeal for God, and for his People, and for the covenant of circumcision; and partly, that the Philistines might be the more enraged against David for this reproachful and barbarous usage of them, and might therefore watch all opportunities to destroy him.

26 And when his servants told David these words, it pleased David well to be the kings son in law k: and the days l were not † expired.

k As for other reasons, so especially because this opened the Door to the Kingdom which God had promised him.
l i. e. The time allowed by Saul to David for the execution of this exploit.

27 Wherefore David arose, he, and his men, and slew of the Philistines two hundred men, and David brought their fore-skins, and they gave them in full tale to the king m, that he might be the kings son in law: and Saul gave him Michal his daughter to wife.

m He doubled the number required; partly, to oblige Saul the more to the performance of his promise; and partly, to shew his great Respect and Affection to Saul's Daughter.

28 ¶ And Saul saw and knew that the LORD was with David, and that Michal Sauls daughter loved him.

29 And Saul was yet the more afraid of David n, and Saul became Davids enemy continually.

n Because he both lost his design against David's life, and had now Paved a way for him to the Throne.

30 Then the princes of the Philistines went forth o: and it came to pass after they went forth, that David behaved himself more wisely than all the servants of Saul, so that his name was much † set by.

o To wit, to War against the Israelites, being provoked both by their former losses, and especially by that act of David's, related above, ver. 27.

CHAP. XIX.

AND Saul spake to Jonathan his son a, and to all his servants b, that they should kill David.

a Whom, though lately engaged in a League of Friendship with David, he thought to oblige to it by sense of his own Interest, as being the next Heir of the Crown, and likely to suffer most by Davids advancement. b What before he secretly designed, now he openly and impudently avowed.

2 But Jonathan Sauls Son, delighted much in David: and Jonathan told David, saying, Saul my father seeketh to kill thee: now therefore, I pray thee, take heed to thy self until the morning c, and abide in a secret place, and hide thy self.

c Lest he kill thee before I discourse with him, and endeavour to reconcile him to thee; which I think not fit to attempt as yet, whilst he is in the fit of Rage against thee; but I intend to do it in the morning, when I may hope to find him in a better temper.

3 And I will go out and stand by my father in the field, where thou art d, and I will commune with my father of thee, and what I see, that I will tell thee.

d In the Field where my Father useth to walk, where also I would have thee to hide thy self, that I may know where to find thee at hand, to acquaint thee with the success of my indeavours, that thou maist accordingly either return to Court, or speedily depart.

4 ¶ And Jonathan spake good of David unto Saul his father e, and said unto him, Let not the king sin against his servant, against David: because he hath not sinned against thee, and because his works have been to thee-ward very good.

e Which he could not do without hazard to himself. Herein therefore he performed the Duty of a true Friend, and of a valiant Man.

5 For he did put his * life in his hand f, and slew the Philistine, and the LORD wrought a great salvation for all Israel: thou sawest it, and didst rejoyce: wherefore then wilt thou sin against innocent blood, to slay David without a cause?

* Judg. 9. 17. and 12. 3. chap. 28. 21. Psal. 119. 109.

f i. e. He exposed his life to eminent hazard. See the Notes on Judg. 12. 3.

6 And Saul hearkened unto the voice of Jonathan, and Saul sware, As the LORD liveth, he shall not be slain g.

g This great change is not to be ascribed to any true Repentance for his sin against David, or any better affection which he now had to him; but meerly to his own worldly Interest; because he was convinced by Jonathan's discourse, that he could not kill him, without great inconvenience and shame to himself.

7 And Jonathan called David, and Jonathan shewed him all those things: and Jonathan brought David to Saul, and he was in his presence as † in times past.

† Heb. yesterday, third day.

8 ¶ And there was war again: and David went out, and fought with the Philistines, and slew them with a great slaughter, and they fled from † him.

† Heb. his face.

9 And * the evil spirit † from the LORD was upon Saul h, as he sat in his house with his javelin in his hand: and David played with his hand.

* chap. 16. 14. and 18. 10.
† Heb. of the Lord.

h Davids successes against the Philistines, which should have cheered his heart, made him sad, and the Devil watched the opportunity to improve his Melancholy, as before he had done.

10 And Saul sought to smite David even to the wall with the javelin: but he slipt away out of Sauls presence; and he smote the javelin into the wall: and David fled, and escaped that night.

11 * Saul also sent messengers unto Davids house to watch him, and to slay him in the morning i: and Michal Davids wife told him, saying, If thou save not thy life to night, to morrow thou shalt be slain k.

* Psal. 59. title.

i Why not in the Night? Answ. Partly, because it would have been barbarous, and most dishonourable to Saul, to break into David's House by Night, and kill him in his own House and Bed;

Bed; and it seemed more expedient to kill him as he came out of his House in the Morning: partly, because the Night might give David some opportunity of escaping, which the Day-light would prevent: and principally, by Gods singular Providence, infatuating Sauls mind to take the worst course, that David might be delivered from him. k Which she might learn, either by information from Jonathan, or some other Courtier that was privy to the design: or from her own observation of some suspicious or dangerous Persons hovering about the House.

12 ¶ So Michal let David down thorow a window l: and he went and fled, and escaped.

l Because they lay in wait for him at the Doors of the House, whensoever he should come forth there.

13 And Michal took † an image m, and laid it in the bed, and put a pillow of goats hair for his bolster n, and covered it with a cloth o.

m Heb. Teraphim, which was an Image made in human shape: which she might keep secretly, either out of a superstitious regard to it, or out of meer curiosity. This stratagem she used, because knowing her Fathers unquiet, and jealous, and furious temper, she suspected he might come or send, to see whether David was there or no. n Or, put great Goats hair upon his Bolster, i. e. upon the head and face of the Image, which lay upon his Bolster, that it might have some kind of resemblance of Davids head and hair, at least in a sick mans Bed, where there useth to be but a glimmering light. Goats is here put for Goats hair, as it manifestly is, Exod. 25. 4. and 26. 7. and 35. 26. It is acknowledged by Learned Writers, that in those Eastern Countries, Goats had much longer hair than ours have, and were shorn like sheep; and that their hair was not unlike to a Mans or Womans hair; as may also be gathered from Cant. 4. 1. thy hair is as a flock of Goats, i. e. as the hair of a flock of Goats. And as there was Goats hair of several colours (as the Wool of Sheep in divers parts is of very differing colours, as white, or black, or yellow, &c.) so it is most probable she took that colour which was likest the colour of Davids hair. And she took this rather than the hair of another man, because the procuring and ordering of that would have taken up some time; whereas she had Goats hair of all sorts at hand, as being used in Spinning or Weaving, &c. Or, the sense may be this, according to our Translation, That she put a Pillow of the softest part of Goats hair under the head of the Image, as they used to put under the heads of sick Men; whereby also the head of the Image sinking into the Pillow, might be less discerned, especially when is was either wholly or in part covered with a Cloath. And all this art was used, that David being supposed, and, by some Persons who were sent to enquire, perceived, as they thought, to be in the Bed, Saul might be hindred from pursuing and overtaking him before he had got into some secure place. o Upon pretence of his being sick, and needing some such covering, but really in design to prevent the discovery of her deceit.

14 And when Saul sent messengers p to take David, she said, He is sick.

p To wit, other Messengers in the Morning, supposing the former to be either slow or perfidious.

15 And Saul sent the messengers again to see David q, saying, Bring him up to me in the bed, that I may slay him.

q Or onely, to see David, which they did not before, but went away satisfied (as it was fit they should) with her Report and Testimony of his sickness.

16 And when the messengers were come in, behold, there was an image in the bed, with a pillow of goats hair for his bolster.

17 And Saul said unto Michal, Why hast thou deceived me so, and sent away mine enemy, that he is escaped? And Michal answered Saul, He said unto me, Let me go: Why should I kill thee r?

r If thou dost not permit me to escape without discovery, I shall be forced for my own defence to kill thee. Though it is most likely, this was a lye, and a fiction of her own.

18 ¶ So David fled, and escaped, and came to Samuel to Ramah s, and told him all that Saul had done to him, and he and Samuel went and dwelt in Naioth.

s Partly, for comfort and direction in his great distress; and partly, for safety, supposing that Saul would be ashamed to execute his Bloody designs in the presence of so venerable a Person as Samuel, who had laid so great obligations upon Saul, and had such great and just Reputation with the People.

19 And it was told Saul, saying, Behold, David is at Naioth in Ramah t.

t Or, near Ramah; the Hebrew preposition beth, in, being oft put for near, as it is apparently used, Numb. 33. 37, 38. Jos. 5. 13. Jer. 20. 2. and 32. 7. Naioth was either an House or Colledge in the Town of Ramah, or a Village in the Territory of Ramah, or near to the Town of Ramah; in which there was a Colledge of the Prophets, amongst whom Samuel thought David might be secure.

20 And Saul sent messengers to take David u: and when they saw the company of the Prophets prophesying x, and Samuel standing as appointed over them y, the Spirit of God was upon the messengers of Saul, and they also prophesied z.

u Thus Sauls wickedness and fury increased; and he that at first used onely secret practices against David, now breaks forth into open and impudent Hostilities; plainly declaring, that he neither feared God, nor reverenced Man. He would have punished Samuel, as afterwards he did Abimelech for giving David entertainment, but that he feared the People, who had so great and unanimous a Veneration for him. x i. e. Speaking of God, or of the things of God by Divine inspiration; either praising God, or instructing Men. Compare Numb. 11. 25. 1 Sam. 10. 5. y To instruct, moderate and direct them in those Holy exercises. For though they prophesied by Divine Inspiration, which Samuel could not govern; yet they were both to prepare and dispose themselves for it before-hand, and to make good improvement of it afterwards, in both which they needed Samuels counsel and assistance. And whereas some might falsly pretend to those Raptures; or the Devil might transform himself into an Angel of Light, and convey some Evil or false Suggestions into some of their minds, Samuels presence and judgment was necessary to prevent and to detect such Impostures. Besides, Samuel would by his present conjunction with them in those Holy Exercises, encourage them, and stir up others to the coveting of those Gifts, and the performance of such Religious Duties. z Being Inspired by God to do so, as wicked Balaam also was; that being wrapt up into such an extasie, their minds might be wholly taken up with those matters, and quite taken off from their design of seizing David.

21 And when it was told Saul, he sent other messengers, and they prophesied likewise: and Saul sent messengers again the third time, and they prophesied also.

22 Then went he also to Ramah, and came to a great well that is in Sechu: and he asked, and said, Where are Samuel and David a? And one said, Behold, they be at Naioth in Ramah.

a For, his Messengers not returning, he knew not exactly where they were.

23 And he went thither to Naioth in Ramah: and the Spirit of God was upon him also b, and he went on, and prophesied until he came to Naioth in Ramah:

b It came upon him in the way; whereas it came not upon his Messengers till they came to the place. Whereby God would convince Saul of the vanity of all his designs against David, and that in them he Fought against God himself.

24 And he stript off his clothes c also d, and prophesied before Samuel e in like manner f, and † lay down g naked h all that day, and all that night i: wherefore they say, * Is Saul also among the Prophets k.

† Heb. fell: Num. 24. 4.

* chap. 10. 11.

c To wit, his Military or Royal Garments: which he did, either that he might suit himself and his habit to the rest of the Company; or, because his mind being altogether taken up with Divine things, he did not understand nor heed what he did. d This implies, that the Messengers which he sent, who probably were Military persons, had done so before him. e This doth not contradict 1 Sam. 15. 35. where it is said, that Samuel came no more to see Saul: for here Saul goes to Samuel, and that not with design to see him, but to surprize David, f As the rest of the Prophets there did. g Heb. fell, to wit, down upon the Earth; for his mind being in an Extasie, he had not the use of his Senses or Motion, as he, Numb. 24. 4. God so ordering it, that David might have an opportunity to escape. h i. e. Script of his upper Garments, as was said before, and as the word Naked is oft used, as Isa. 20. 2. Mich. 1. 8. See also 2 Sam. 6. 20. Job. 21. 7. And it is here repeated to signifie how how long he lay in that posture. i So God kept him as it were in Chains, till David was got out of his reach. k The same Proverb which was taken up upon a like occasion, 1 Sam. 10. 12. is here remembred and revived upon this new occasion, as an Evidence of Gods wonderful care over David; he made Saul in some sort a Prophet, that he might make David a King.

CHAP. XX.

AND David fled a from Naioth in Ramah b, and came and said before Jonathan, What have I done? what is mine iniquity? and what is my sin before thy father c, that he seeketh my † life d?

† Heb. soul.

a Whilst Saul lay in an Extasie. b To Gibeah where Jonathan was, taking the opportunity of Sauls absence. c What is it which thus incenseth thy Father against me? What Crime doth he charge me with? d To wit, to destroy it, as this Phrase is oft used, as chap. 22. 23. Psal. 38. 12. and 54. 3. and 63. 9.

2 And he said unto him, God forbid, thou shalt not die e: behold, my father will do nothing either great or small, but that he will † shew it me: and why should my father hide this thing from me? it is not so.

† Heb. uncover mine ear.

e I will secure thee by my Interest with my Father; nor doth he design to destroy thee; for what he doth in his frantick fits is not to be imputed to him; and when he comes to himself, I doubt not to reconcile thee to him. For Jonathan gave credit to his Fathers Oath, chap. 19. 6. and the worthiest minds are least suspicious, and most charitable in their opinions of others.

3 And David sware f moreover, and said, Thy father certainly knoweth that I have found grace in thine eyes; and he said, Let not Jonathan know this, lest he be grieved: but truly as the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, there is but a step between me and death.

f The matter being of great moment, and Jonathan doubting the truth of it, he confirms his word with an Oath, which follows in the end of the Verse. Onely he interposeth a reason why Saul concealed it from Jonathan.

4 Then said Jonathan unto David, ‖ whatsoever thy soul † desireth g, I will even do it for thee.

‖ Or, say what is thy mind, and I will do, &c. † Speaketh, or thinketh.

g To wit, for the discovery of the Truth, and for the preservation of thy Life.

5 And David said unto Jonathan, Behold, to morrow is the new moon h, and I should not fail to sit with the king at meat i: but let me go, that I may hide my self in the fields, unto the third day k at even.

h Which was a Solemn and Festival time, as among the Romans and other Heathens, so also with the Hebrews, who Solemnized it with offering Peace-offerings to God, and Feasting together upon the remainders of it, after the manner. See Numb. 10. 10. and 28. 11. Psal. 81. 3. i Then he useth to expect my company above other times. k i. e. Unto the next day but one after the New Moon; as appears by comparing ver. 19, 27, 35. His meaning is not, that he should hide himself in any certain place all the three days, but that he should secure himself either at Bethlehem with his Friends, or in any other place till the third day.

6 If thy father at all miss me l, then say, David earnestly asked leave of me m, that he might run to Bethlehem his city n; for there is a yearly ‖ sacrifice o there for all the family p.

‖ Or, feast.

l Quest. How could David imagine that Saul would expect his Company, whom he had once and again endeavoured to kill? Answ. First, He might suppose that David would ascribe all that to his Madness and Frantick fits, which being over, he would promise himself safety in the Kings presence. Secondly, David might not think that Saul would indeed expect him to Feast with him, considering his late and great danger from Saul; but that Saul would make use of this pretence, and require his presence, that he might lay hold upon him; and therefore he desired to try the experiment. m Who being the Kings Son and Deputy, used to give License to Military Men to depart for a season upon just occasions. n i. e. The place of his Birth and Education, Joh. 7. 42. o A Sacrifice which was offered up in some high-place there Yearly, upon some special occasion not mentioned in Scripture, which was accompanied with a Feast: or, a yearly Feast, as the Hebrew word is sometimes used. p Wherein all the Members of our Family, used to meet together, when they will earnestly expect me above others, and will charge me with Pride and Unnaturalness if I neglect their Invitation.

7 If he say thus, It is well, thy servant shall have peace: but if he be very wroth, then be sure q that evil is determined by him.

q Heb. know thou: For indeed David knew well enough that Saul designed to kill him; but he useth this course for Jonathans information and satisfaction, and for his own greater vindication, if he did wholly withdraw himself from Saul, and from his Wife; which he foresaw he should be forced to do.

8 Therefore thou shalt deal kindly with thy servant r: for * thou hast brought thy servant into a covenant of the LORD s with thee: notwithstanding, if there be in me iniquity, slay me thy self t: for why shouldest thou bring me to thy father u?

* chap. 18. 3. and 23. 18.

r In giving me timely notice, and a true account of Saul's disposition and intention towards me. s i. e. A Solemn Covenant, not lightly undertaken, but seriously entred into, in the name and fear of God, and in his presence, calling him to be the Witness of our sincerity therein, and the Avenger of perfidiousness in him that breaks it. t I am contented thou shouldst kill me. u Why shouldst thou betray me to thy Father, by concealing his evil intentions from me?

9 And Jonathan said, Far be it from thee x: for if I knew certainly, that evil were determined by my father to come upon thee, then would not I tell it thee?

x I abhor the thoughts of either killing thee my self, or giving thee up to my Father to slay thee.

10 Then said David to Jonathan, Who shall tell me y? or what if thy father answer thee roughly?

y By what means or Messenger shall I understand this? for peradventure thou wilt not be able to come to me thy self.

11 ¶ And Jonathan said unto David, Come, and let us go out into the field z. And they went out both of them into the field.

z Lest we be over-heard.

12 And Jonathan said unto David, O LORD God of Israel a, when I have † sounded my father, about to morrow any time, or the third day, and behold, if there be good toward David, and I then send not unto thee, and † shew it thee:

† Heb. search. † Heb. uncover thine ear.

a Do thou hear and judge between us. It is an abrupt speech, which is usual in great passions.

13 The LORD do so, and much more to Jonathan: but if it please my father to do thee evil, then I will shew it thee, and send thee away, that thou mayest go in peace, and the LORD be with thee, as he hath been with my father b, b The Lord give thee that Honour and Success in all thy Affairs which he hath given to my Father. Jonathan undoubtedly knew of Samuels final and irrevocable Sentence of Sauls rejection from the Kingdom, and of the Substitution of some other Person after Gods own heart in his stead; and that David was this Person, he might strongly suspect (that which even Saul suspected) both from his eminent Piety, and Wisdom, and Valour, and Universal worth, and from the great things which God had done, both by him, and for him, in preserving and advancing him by such unusual methods; and it is most likely that Jonathan did ask David about it, and that David did Faithfully inform him of the whole truth, as may be gathered both from the words here following, and from chap. 23. 17. And that the knowledge hereof did not raise jealousie, and envy, and rage in him, who was the next Heir of the Crown, as it did in his Father, must be ascribed to Jonathans Piety towards God, to whose disposal he chearfully submitted himself, and to his sincere Friendship to David, in whose happiness he rejoyced as in his own.

14 And thou shalt not onely while yet I live, shew shew me the kindness of the LORD c, that I die not d.

c Or, And wilt thou not, if I shall then be alive, (to wit, when the Lord shall be with thee, as he hath been with my Father, as he now said, i. e. when God shall have advanced thee to the Kingdom, as he did him): yea, wilt thou not (the same particle twice repeated for asseveration, i. e. I am well assured that thou wilt) shew me the kindness of the Lord, i.e. either such kindness as the Lord hath shewed to thee in preserving thy life in the midst of so many, and such great dangers: or, that kindness to which thou hast engaged thy self, in the Covenant Sworn between thee and me in Gods presence. d That thou do not kill me or mine, as Princes of another Line use to kill the nearest Relations of the former Line, from whom the Kingdom was translated to them; which they do either by way of revenge, or in policy, and reason of State, to secure the Kingdom to themselves.

*2 Sam. 9. 3. 15 But also thou shalt not cut off * thy kindness e from my house for ever: no not when the LORD hath cut off the enemies of David, every one from the face of the earth f.

e He saith not, the kindness of the Lord, as before, because the Covenant between them seems to have been onely Personal, and not comprehending their Posterity. And therefore as Jonathan speaks confidently of his own Preservation by vertue of that Covenant; so here he lays this additional Obligation upon David, That he would extend this kindness to all his Progeny. f Which he will certainly do without exception of Saul my Father, and those of his Children who have joyned, or shall joyn with him in his Hostilities and Cruelties against David. And by this word, Enemies, he implies the reasonableness of his request, because Jonathan was none of that number, and therefore not to be treated as such.

† Heb. cut. 16 So Jonathan † made a covenant with the house of David g, saying, Let the LORD even require it at the hand of Davids enemies h.

g The Covenant which before was Personal, he now extends to the whole house of David, expecting a reciprocal enlargement of it on David's side, which doubtless he obtained. h If either I, or any of my House shall break this Covenant, and shall prove Enemies to David or to his House, let the Lord, the Witness of this Covenant, severely punish the Violators of it, whoever they are. Others thus: Let the Lord require and punish the breach of this Covenant in David, if he break it. But because it was ominous and reproachful to suppose such a thing of David, by a Figure called Euphumismus, he names David's Enemies for David; as they also Expound 1 Sam. 25. 22. But the former sense seems more probable, because this Verse contains only Jonathan's Stipulation or Covenant with David and his House, which being expressed in the former part of it, is in this latter part confirmed by the usual form of imprecation; and the restipulation or Covenant of David to Jonathan and his House is mentioned in the next Verse. Yet may that other sense stand well enough; taking these words for Jonathan's Adjuration of David to be kind to him, confirmed with an Imprecation in case he do otherwise. As if he should say, I Adjure thee, as thou hopest to escape such a mischief (which I had rather might befal thine Enemies than thee) that thou deal not so ungratefully with me or my House. Which Adjuration of Jonathan, David seconds with an Oath in the next Verse, at the Request of Jonathan.

17 And Jonathan caused David to swear again i, ‖ Or, by his love towards him. ‖ because he loved him k: for he loved him as he loved his own soul.

i Heb. And Jonathan added or proceeded to make David Swear, i. e. Having himself Sworn to David, or Adjured David, in the foregoing Verse, he here requires David's Oath to him, by way of restipulation or confirmation. k Because he had a true Friendship for David, he desired that the Covenant might be inviolably observed through all their Generations.

18 Then Jonathan said to David, To morrow is the new moon: and thou shalt be missed, † Heb. missed. because thy seat l will be † empty.

l i. e. The place where David used to sit at Meals with Saul. See ver. 25.

‖ Or, diligently. † Heb. greatly. † Heb. in the day of the business. Gr. in the working day. ‖ Or, that sheweth the way. 19 And when thou hast stayed three days m, then thou shalt go down ‖ † quickly, and come to the place where thou didst hide thy self, † when the business was in hand n, and shalt remain by the stone ‖ Ezel o.

m Either at Bethlehem with thy Friends, ver. 6. Or elsewhere, as thou shalt see fit. n Heb. in the day of business; or, of the business. And these Words are to be joyned, either, 1. with the words next foregoing; and so they note the time when David hid himself there; which was, when this same business which now they were treating about, was in agitation formerly; to wit, to discover Saul's Mind and Purpose towards him; chap. 19. 2, 3. Or, 2. with the more remote words; and so they note the time when David should come to the place appointed, and formerly used to hide himself in, upon a like occasion; to wit, in the day when the business here spoken of was to be done, i. e. When the discovery of Saul's Mind was to be made. o Or, by the stone of going, or travelling; i. e. By that Stone which directs Travellers in the way: to wit, in some Cave, or convenient place, which was near that Stone.

20 And I will shoot three arrows on the side thereof as though I shot at a mark p.

p He chose this way to avoid Saul's suspition, because Bows and Arrows were the principal Arms of those times; and Jonathan, as well as others, did oft go forth to Exercise himself with them, both for Recreation, and improvement of his Skill in that Art. Besides, he knew not that he should have any opportunity of private converse with David, by reason of Passengers, though the Event proved better than he expected.

21 And behold, I will send a lad, saying, Go, find out the arrows q. If I expresly say unto the lad, Behold, the arrows are on this side of thee, take them: then come thou, for there is peace to thee, and † † Heb. not any thing. no hurt, as the LORD liveth.

q I will send him out before I shoot, to find out, and take up the Arrows which I shall shoot. And I shall shoot them either short of him, or beyond him, as I shall see occasion.

22 But if I say thus unto the young man, Behold the arrows are beyond thee: go thy way, for the LORD hath sent thee away r.

r Take this for an intimation of Gods Providence, that thou shouldest keep away from the Court.

23 And as touching * the matter which thou and * Ver. 14, 15. I have spoken of, behold, the LORD be † between † witness. thee and me for ever.

24 ¶ So David hid himself in the field s: and when the new moon was come, the king sat him down to eat meat.

s To wit, at the time appointed: for it seems probable, that he went first to Bethlehem, as he bad Jonathan tell his Father, ver. 6. and thence returned to the Field, when the occasion required: else we must charge him with a downright Lie, which ought not to be imagined (without any apparent cause) concerning so good a Man; especially, in so distressed and dangerous a Condition. And why should he hide himself there so long before the time, when Jonathan was to come thither to inform him? Nor were there any need of appointing a certain time to meet, if David were there all the while.

25 And the king sat upon his seat as at other times, even upon a seat by the wall: and Jonathan arose t, and Abner sat by Sauls side, and Davids place u was empty.

t To wit, from his seat where he was sat next to the King, whence he arose, and stood up at Abner's coming, to do Honour to him, who was his Fathers Cousin, and the General of the Army. u Which seems to have been next to Abner on the same side with him.

26 Nevertheless, Saul spake not any thing that day: for he thought, something hath befallen him x, he is not clean, surely he is not clean.

x Some accident which hath rendred him unclean, and so unfit to partake of this Feast, which consisted in part of the remainders of these Peace-offerings, according to the Law; Lev. 7. 20. Unfit also to come into any company, much more, into the Kings company, lest he should pollute them also. See above, on ver. 5. See also, Lev. 11. and 15.

27 And it came to pass on the morrow, which was the second day of the month y, that Davids place was empty: and Saul said unto Jonathan his son z, Wherefore cometh not the son of Jesse a to meat, neither yesterday, nor to day b?

y Or, on the morrow of the new moon, being the second day: Either, 1. of the Three days appointed, ver. 5. 19. Or, 2. of the Feast. Or 3. of the Month. z Who was Davids friend, and best knew his mind, and his ways. a So he calls him in Scorn Scorn and Contempt, to note the meanneſs of his Original; and as not deigning to call him by his proper Name: See below, chap. 22. 9. and 25. 10. b For the Uncleanneſs which came by ſome chance, uſually laſted but for one day. See Lev. 11.

28 And Jonathan anſwered Saul, David earneſtly asked leave of me to go to Bethlehem.

29 And he ſaid, Let me go, I pray thee, for our family hath a ſacrifice in the city, and my brother, he hath commanded me to be there c: and now, if I have found favour in thine eyes, let me get away, I pray thee, and ſee my brethren: therefore he cometh not to the kings table.

c Either in his Fathers name; or in the right of the Firſtborn; one branch of which, was Authority over his Brethren in all the concerns of the Family; whereof this was one.

30 Then Sauls anger was kindled againſt Jonathan, and he ſaid unto him, ‖ † Thou ſon of the perverſe rebellious woman d, do not I know that thou haſt choſen the ſon of Jeſſe to thine own confuſion e, and unto the confuſion of thy mothers nakedneſs f?

‖ Or, thou perverſe rebel. † Heb. ſon of perverſe rebellion.

d This baſe Temper of thine, thou hadſt not from me, but from thy Mother; of whoſe perverſeneſs I have had ſo much experience. Or, thou ſon of perverſe rebellion; i. e. Thou perverſe and rebellious Son: Or, thou moſt perverſe rebel: For in the Hebrew Language, the word Son, thus uſed, is an Aggravation of a Mans Crime; and notes one who is extraordinarily addicted to it. Thus he calls him, becauſe he hid and preſerved that man whom the King had commanded to be brought forth, that he might be ſlain. e For it will be a horrible ſhame and reproach unto thee, that David by his crafty Inſinuations, and fair Pretences, ſhould cheat thee of thy Kingdom. f Men will conclude, That thy Mother was a Whore, and Thou a Baſtard; and that thou haſt no Royal Blood in thy Veins, that canſt ſo tamely give up thy Crown to ſo contemptible a Perſon.

31 For as long as the ſon of Jeſſe liveth upon the ground, thou ſhalt not be ſtabliſhed, nor thy kingdom g: wherefore now ſend and fetch him unto me, for he † ſhall ſurely die.

† Heb. is the ſon of death.

g Thus he groſly miſtakes the cauſe of Jonathan's loſs of the Kingdom, which was not Davids Art, but Saul's Sin; and vainly indeavours to prevent Gods Irrevocable Sentence.

32 And Jonathan anſwered Saul his father, and ſaid unto him, Wherefore ſhall he be ſlain? what hath he done?

33 And Saul caſt a javelin at him to ſmite him h, whereby Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to ſlay David.

h i. e. To Wound him, though not to ſmite him even to the wall; as he deſigned to do David, chap. 19. 10.

34 So Jonathan aroſe from the table in fierce anger, and did eat no meat the ſecond day of the month: for he was grieved for David becauſe i his father had done him ſhame.

i Or, and becauſe: for this is a ſecond cauſe of his Grief. The Conjunction and is oft-times omitted, and to be ſupplyed; as Pſal. 33. 2. and 144. 9. Joſ. 63. 11. Hab. 3. 11.

35 ¶ And it came to paſs in the morning k, that Jonathan went out into the field, at the time appointed with David, and a little lad with him.

k To wit, of the third day appointed for this Work, ver. 5.

36 And he ſaid unto his lad, Run, find out now the arrows which I ſhoot. And as the lad ran, he ſhot an arrow † beyond him.

† Heb. to paſs over him.

37 And when the lad was come to the place l of the arrow which Jonathan had ſhot, Jonathan cried after the lad, and ſaid, Is not the arrow beyond thee?

l i. e. Near to the place. Or, And the lad went, or was going on to the place: for the words following ſhew, that he was not yet come thither. The Hebrew Verb, bo, which properly ſignifies to come, ſometimes ſignifies to go; as here, and Ruth 3. 7. and Jonah 1. 3.

38 And Jonathan cried after the lad, Make ſpeed, haſte, ſtay not m. And Jonathans lad gathered up the arrows, and came to his maſter.

m So he bids him, becauſe finding the coaſt clear, he made haſte to take the opportunity to ſpeak with his dearly beloved David.

39 But the lad knew not any thing: onely Jonathan and David knew the matter.

40 And Jonathan gave his † artillery n unto † his lad, and ſaid unto him, Go, carry them to the city.

† Heb. inſtruments. † Heb. that was his.

n His Bow, and Arrows, and Quiver.

41 ¶ And aſſoon as the lad was gone, David aroſe out of a place toward the ſouth o, and fell on his face to the ground, and bowed himſelf three times: and they kiſſed one another, and wept one with another, until David exceeded p.

o In reſpect of the Stone where David by appointment hid himſelf. p As well he might, becauſe he was driven away, not only from his dear friend Jonathan, but alſo from his Wife, and all his Relations, and from the Commonwealth of Iſrael, and from the Service of God; as he complains below, chap. 26. 19.

42 And Jonathan ſaid to David, Go in peace, ‖ foraſmuch as we have ſworn both of us in the Name of the LORD, ſaying, The LORD be between me and thee, and between my ſeed and thy ſeed for ever q. And he aroſe and departed: and Jonathan went into the City.

‖ Or, the Lord be witneſs of that which &c.

q Therefore doubt not but I will ever love thee, and faithfully ſerve thee; and the like I aſſure my ſelf from thee; and this muſt be our comfort in our ſtate of Separation.

CHAP. XXI.

THen came David to Nob a to Ahimelech the prieſt b, and * Ahimelech was afraid at the meeting of David c, and ſaid unto him, Why art thou alone, and no man with thee d?

* Alſo called Abiathar. Mar. 2. 26.

a City of Prieſts, as it is called, chap. 22. 19. Either, 1. Becauſe it was aſſigned to the Prieſts. For though it be not expreſſed by this Name among their cities, Joſ. 21. yet it might be one of thoſe cities there named by ſome other name, which name might be changed; or another new name added to the old for ſome reaſon now unknown, as was very uſual among the Hebrews: compare 1 Chron. 6. Or, 2. Becauſe it was now inhabited by the Prieſts for the Service of the Tabernacle, which now was here; as appears from v. 7, 9. For as the Kings of Iſrael were to conſult with Gods Oracle in all their weighty Affairs; ſo they endeavoured to have it in, or near their own Habitations. Hence it was firſt carried by Joſhua to Shiloh in his Tribe of Ephraim; and afterwards by David into his Tribe and City; and now, as it ſeems, had been by Saul carried to Nob, a City in the Tribe of Benjamin, Neh. 11. 32. near to Anathoth, 1 King. 2. 26. Hither David reſorted, partly for a ſupply of his neceſſities, which he ſuppoſed he might receive here, without danger of being betrayed into Sauls hands: and principally, that in this great diſtreſs, and his reſolution of going out of the Kingdom, he might ſeek and receive comfort and counſel from the Lord. b To wit, the chief Prieſt, brother to that Ahiah, chap. 14. 3. and he being now dead, his ſucceſſor in the Prieſt-hood, for they were both ſons of Abitub, 1 Sam. 14. 3. and 22. 11. c Suſpecting ſome extraordinary cauſe of his coming in ſuch a manner, and fearing the worſt, as men uſually do in ſuch caſes. d For though David had ſome ſervants and companions, as is manifeſt from v. 4, 5. and from Matt. 12. 3, 4. whom Jonathan probably had ſent to a place appointed to ſerve and guard him; yet they were left at another place, as David himſelf affirmeth, ver. 2. And David was now alone, as alſo he was when he fled to Achiſh, ver. 10.

2 And David ſaid unto Ahimelech the prieſt, The King hath commanded me a buſineſs e, and hath ſaid unto me, Let no man know any thing of the buſineſs whereabout I ſend thee, and what I have commanded thee: and I have appointed my ſervants † to ſuch and ſuch a place f.

† Heb. to the place of Peloni almoni, that is of ſuch a man. Ruth 4. 1. 2 King. 6. 8. Dan. 8. 13.

e This ſeems to be a plain lye extorted from him, by fear and neceſſity. But as it was officious for himſelf, ſo it was pernicious to all the Prieſts there. Whence David afterwards declares his Repentance for this ſin of Lying, Pſal. 119. 29. f To a certain place which it is not material nor convenient now to mention; becauſe the whole buſineſs requires concealment.

3 Now therefore what is under thine hand g? give give me five loaves of bread in mine hand, or what † there is † present.

† other food. † Heb. found.

g To wit, in thy power, and ready for thee to give, and for me to take, and eat.

4 And the priest answered David, and said, There is no common bread under mine hand h, but there is * hallowed bread i if the young men have kept themselves at least from women k.

* Exod. 25. 30. Lev. 24. 5. Mat. 12. 4.

h To wit, here in the Tabernacle: though doubtless he had enough of that, and of other Provisions in his House; but David was in great haste, and in fear of Doeg whom he saw, and knew there, chap. 22. 22. and therefore would not stay till any thing could be fetched thence. i The Shew-bread, which was appropriated to the Priests; of which see Exod. 25. 30. Lev. 24. 5. k Either from uncleanness by Women, which might be divers ways contracted: or from Conjugal converse with their Wives; which though it did not defile them, yet he thought might debar them from the participation of such very Sacred things; which he gathered by the Analogy of that Precept, Exod. 19. 15. There was a double impediment to the giving of this Bread to them; 1. Its Sacredness in its self; which the Priest implies, and David answers v. 5. and the Priest was satisfied therein by Davids extraordinary Occasions and great necessities. 2. The Purity and Abstinence from all Women, which he supposeth should be in those that use it; concerning which he now enquires. And though he mention this onely concerning Davids young men, and out of Modesty and Reverence to David, forbears to name him; yet he is also included in the number, as Davids answer shews.

5 And David answered the priest, and said unto him, Of a truth women have been kept from us about these three days l, since I came out m, and the vessels n of the young men are holy, and the bread is in a manner common o: ‖ yea, though it were sanctified this day in the vessel p.

‖ Or, especially when this day there is other sanctified bread.

l As long as the Law required, Exod. 19. 15. And so long David and his men had, it seems, hid themselves for fear of Saul in some of those Caves, whereof there were many in those parts; whereby they were kept both from all Converse with any other persons besides themselves, and consequently from Women: and withal, from Food convenient for them. m From the place where Jonathan and David met. n i. e. Either, 1. their Garments, or other Utensils for their Journey. Or, 2. their Bodies, for of them the Question was, v. 4, and having now said, that Women had been kept from them, he infers, that therefore their Bodies were Holy; their Members were Undefiled. Thus the word vessel is used, 1 Thes. 4. 4. and in other Authors, both Greek and Latin. o Heb. and this (to wit, the Bread; which is easily supplied out of the former Verse, because that was the thing about which the present discourse was, and against the giving whereof the Priest started an Objection, ver. 4. to which David here giveth an Answer) is in a manner, or, after a sort common: i. e. Considering the time, and our necessity: this may be asked in a manner, like common Bread, and so is used by others. For though for a season whilest it is to stand before the Lord, it be so Holy, that the Priest himself might not eat it; yet afterwards it is eaten by the Priest, and by his whole Family, as their common Food; and so it may be by us, in our circumstances. p If it were but newly put into the Vessel, it must give place to the great Law of Necessity and Charity; because God will have Mercy preferred before Sacrifice. Or thus, Especially when, or, The rather because this day there is other (i. e. new Bread) Sanctified in the vessel, i. e. put into the Vessel which was made to receive this Bread, Exod. 25. 29. and thereby Sanctified, or Consecrated to God: and therefore the former Shew-bread is now to be removed, and employed for the common use of the Priest and his Family.

6 So the priest * gave him hallowed bread, for there was no bread there p but the shew-bread that was taken from before the LORD, to put hot bread in the day when it was taken away q.

* Mar. 2. 26. Luk. 6. 4.

p To wit, in the Tabernacle, where David and the Priest now were. q Which was done upon the Sabbath-day, Lev. 24. 8. For though they might not then kindle a Fire to heat the Bread in, yet they might, and did keep it hot in an Oven that had been heated before the Sabbath.

7 (Now a certain man of the servants of Saul was there that day detained r before the LORD s, and his name was * Doeg an Edomite t the chiefest of the herdmen that belonged to Saul.)

* Psal. 52. title.

r Not by force from others, but by his own choice; he fixed his abode there for that day; either because it was the Sabbath-day; on which he might not proceed in his Journey, or other business: or for the discharge of some Vow: or to beg direction, and help from God in some great business. s i. e. At the Tabernacle. t Either, 1. by his Habitation, and Conversation among those People for some considerable time, as, for the same reason Uriah is called the Hittite; and Obed-Edom the Gittite: Or rather, 2. By his Birth, and Nation: but he was Proselyted to the Jewish Religion: or took it up for Sinister Ends, being advanced, as here we read, to a place of Trust and Preferment, possibly upon this occasion.

8 ¶ And David said unto Ahimelech, And is there not here under thine hand spear or sword? for I have neither brought my sword, nor my weapons with me u, because the kings business required haste x.

u These he left behind him, that he might with less suspicion remove from place to place, and hide himself from Saul and his Spies. x The Message came to me, when I was unarmed, and the business required so great expedition that I could not go home to fetch my Weapons.

9 And the Priest said, The sword of Goliah the Philistine, whom thou slewest in * the valley of Elah, behold, it is here wrapt in a cloth behind the Ephod y: if thou wilt take that, take it, for there is no other save that, here. And David said, There is none like that z, give it me.

* chap. 17. 2.

y i. e. Behind that Holy place allotted for the keeping of the Sacred, or Priestly Garments; all which are here comprehended under the Ephod; which, as the chief of the kind, is put for all the rest. Here it was laid up as a Sacred Monument of Gods Power and Goodness, and that famous Victory, related chap. 17. z Because it not onely served him for his use, for he was a Strong and Tall Man, and one that could wield that Sword, as we saw, chap. 17. but was also a Pledge of Gods Favour to him, and a great encouragement to his Faith.

10 ¶ And David arose, and fled that day for fear of Saul, and went to * Achish the king of Gath a:

* Abimelech. Psal. 34. title.

a A strange Action: but it must be considered, 1. That Sauls Rage was so great and implacable: his Power also and diligence in hunting after him so great, that he despaired of escaping him other way: and it is not strange if a desperate Disease, produceth a desperate Remedy. 2. David might reasonably think, that being Persecuted, and Banished by Saul, and the Israelites under his Command, he should be welcom to the Philistines; who would be glad, not only to be freed from all those Evils which he had from time to time done, and was likely further to do to them, but also to make him their Friend, and oblige him by their kindness; and to make him the more odious and irreconcileable to Saul and the Israelites. Quest. But why did he go to these, and not rather to some other neighbour Nation? Answ. Because they were all at Peace with Saul; and therefore would certainly have delivered him up, upon Sauls Demands.

11 And the servants of Achish said unto him, Is not this David the king of the land b? did they not sing one to another of him in dances, saying, * Saul hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands c.

* chap. 18. 7.

b Or, of this land; i. e. Of the Land of Canaan. They call him King, either more generally for the Governour, as that Word is used, Deut. 33. 5. for the most eminent Captain and Commander, and, as it were the King of the Israelitish Armies: or, rather more specially, the King; to wit, The King Elect, the Person designed to be King: for by this time, the Fame of Sauls Rejection, and Davids Destination to the Kingdom, was got abroad among the Israelites, and from them, probably to the Philistines ears.. c And therefore consider what to do; and now thine, and our great Enemy is in thy hand, be sure thou never let him go alive.

12 And David laid up these words in his heart, and was sore afraid c of Achish the king of Gath:

c Lest either their Revenge or Policy should prompt them to kill him.

13 And * he changed his behaviour d before them, and feigned himself mad e in their hands f, and ‖ scrabbled on the doors of the gate, and let his spittle fall down upon his beard.

* Psal. 34. title.

‖ Or, made marks.

d His Speech and Gesture; and, it may be, his Habit also. e Which they might the more easily believe; partly, because of the disappointment of his great hopes, and his extream danger and trouble from Saul, which might well make him mad: and partly, because he had put himself into their hands; which they supposed none but a Fool, or a Mad-man would have done. And David counterfeited this Madness, that he might might procure, both their Pity, and their Contempt; that they being freed from jealousies and fears of future Mischief from David, and from his wise Conduct, of which they had sad Experience, might be secure of him, and so spare him. f i. e. Whilest he was in their Power, and before them.

14 Then said Achish unto his servants, Lo, ye see the man ‖ is mad g: wherefore then have ye brought him to me h?

‖ Or, playeth the mad-man.

g And so were Achish and his Men too, to be so soon Cheated. But this must be ascribed to the Wise and Powerful Providence of God; who, in answer to Davids Prayer now made, which is Recorded Psal. 34. and 56. did Infatuate them, as he hath done many others in like cases. h What Service can I expect from him? Or, What cause have I to fear him?

15 Have I need of mad men i, that ye have brought this fellow to play the mad man in my presence? shall this fellow come into mine house k?

i I need Wise men, not such Fools, or Mad-men, as this is: k I will not have my Court disgraced with entertaining such Fellows.

CHAP. XXII.

* Psal. 57. title, and 142. title.

DAvid therefore departed thence, and * escaped to the cave of Adullam a: and when his brethren, and all his fathers house heard it, they went down thither to him b.

a A Place of considerable Strength, 2 Sam. 23. 13. 1 Chron. 11. 15. in the Land of Judah, Jos. 15. 21, 35. which being his own Tribe, and the Tribe to which God had first promised the Kingdom, Gen. 49. 10. he hoped for some Protection and Assistance there. b Partly to comfort and assist him; partly, to secure themselves at the present from Sauls Rage, which they knew to be Fierce and Cruel, and thought he might extend it to Davids Friends; especially, because they had so lately Entertained him, chap. 20. 6, 29. And partly, that they might share with David in his Honour and Advancement; which they now concluded certain, and near, though it was interrupted with some difficulties.

† Heb. had a creditor. † Heb. bitter of soul.

2 And every one that was in distress c, and every one that † was in debt d, and every one that was k † discontented e, gathered themselves unto him, and he became a captain over them f: and there were with him about four hundred men.

c Through Want, or Oppression, or otherwise. d How could David receive and countenance such persons to the wrong of their Creditors? Answ. 1. David might be ignorant of their Debts; and it is most likely they concealed that, and pretended other causes of their coming to him, as the Protection of the Innocent, and the Defence of his Just Rights, &c. 2. They might be, and probably were, poor Debtors, whom their Creditors were obliged to spare, and favour, Exod. 22. 25. And though their Persons were with David, yet their Lands and Goods were liable to their Creditors. e Or, bitter in soul: i. e. In an Afflicted, and Calamitous condition. f He did not justifie nor maintain any Injustice or Wickedness, which some of them possibly might be guilty of; but on the contrary, he instructed and obliged them to the practise of all Justice and Honesty; as appears from chap. 25. 15. And he onely used them for his just Defence.

3 ¶ And David went thence to Mizpeh of Moab g, and he said unto the king of Moab h, Let my father and my Mother i, I pray thee, come forth and be with you, till I know what God will do for me k.

g So called, to distinguish it from that Mizpeh, 1 Sam. 7. 5. h Partly, because he was related to, and descended from one of his People; Ruth. 4. 10. And partly, because he was Sauls Enemy, 1 Sam. 14. 47. and therefore more likely to be Davids Friend. i Who being very Aged, were not able to endure those Journeys and hardships which David foresaw that he was likely to be Exposed to. k Till I see the Accomplishment of Gods Promise made to me.

4 And he brought them before the king of Moab l, and they dwelt with him all the while that David was in the hold m.

l Into his Presence that he might see them, and give them leave to dwell in his Dominion. m Either, 1. In Mizpeh of Moab, which was a very strong Hold. But it is apparent, he speaks of some Hold, where his Father and Mother were exposed to fear and danger from Saul; which they were not in the King of Moabs Royal City. Or, 2. In the Cave of Adullam; mentioned above, ver. 1. Or, 3. In Holes; the Singular Number being put for the Plural; as is frequent: i. e. As long as David was forc'd to go from Place to Place, and from Hold to Hold, to secure himself: for it concern'd David to secure his Father, and he did doubtless secure him for all that time; and not onely whilest he was in the Hold of Mizpeh, or of Adullam, which was but a little while.

5 ¶ And the prophet * Gad said unto David, Abide not in the hold n; depart, and get thee into the land of Judah o. Then David departed and came into the forest of Hareth p.

* 2 Sam. 24. 11. 1 Chro. 21. 9. 2 Chro. 29. 25.

n Do not shut up thy self in Holes and Holds. o Go and shew thy self in the Land of Judah, that thou mayest publickly put in thy Claim to the Kingdom after Sauls Death; and that thy Friends may be invited and encouraged to appear on thy behalf. Hereby also God would exercise Davids Faith, and Wisdom, and Courage; and so prepare him for the Kingdom, and uphold, and increase his Reputation among the People. p Where there were many Caves and lurking Places.

6 ¶ When Saul heard that David was discovered, and the men that were with him: (now Saul abode in Gibeah under a ‖ tree in Ramah q, having his spear in his hand r, and all his servants were standing about him).

‖ Or, grove in a high place.

q i. e. In the Territory of Gibtah, in, or near (for so the Hebrew Particle is oft used; as hath been shewed) Ramah, Or, in the town of Gibeah--in an high place; for so the Word Ramah unquestionably signifies; and so it is here rendred by some, both Ancient and Modern Interpreters. r Either as an Ensign of Majesty, for in old times Kings carried a Spear instead of a Scepter; as Justin and others note; Or, as an Instrument of Self-defence or Cruelty, as occasion required.

† Heb. sons of Jemini chap. 9.

7 Then Saul said unto his servants that stood about him, Hear now, ye † Benjamites s, will the son of Jesse give every one of you fields, and vineyards, and make you all captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds t:

s You that are of my own Tribe and Kindred, from whom David designs to translate the Kingdom to another Tribe. t Will he distribute Profits and Preferments amongst you Benjamites, as I have done, and intend still to do? will he not rather prefer those of his own Tribe before you?

† Heb. uncovereth mine ear.

8 That all of you have conspired against me, and there is none that † sheweth me that my son hath made a league with the son of Jesse u, and there is none of you that is sorry for me, or sheweth unto me, that my son hath stirred up my servant against me to lie in wait x, as at this day.

u This he suspected, partly, from Jonathans passionate Love for David, which he had formerly, and constantly declared; and from his late discontent and departure from his Father, mentioned, chap. 20. 33. and partly, from Davids confidence, in Invading the Land with Four hundred Men, which he thought he would never presume to do, without some encouragement or promise of Assistance from Jonathan. x i. e. To design against my Crown, and Life, which will appear to be a most groundless suspicion, and false Accusation.

9 ¶ Then answered * Doeg the Edomite (which was set over the servants of Saul) and said, I saw the son of Jesse coming to Nob y, to Ahimelech the son of * Ahitub.

* Psal. 52. title. * chap. 14. 3.

y See on chap. 21. 7.

10 And he enquired of the LORD for him z, and * gave him victuals, and gave him the sword of Goliah the Philistine.

* chap. 21. 6, 9.

z This is not Recorded, ch. 21. and therefore some think, that Doeg to curry favour with Saul, feigned this; for it is certain, David chargeth him with the Sin of Lying, Psal. 52. 3. though it is not improbable, that he told other Lies also, not here expressed; and withal, he was guilty of concealing part of the Truth, which in this case he was obliged to declare for Abimelechs just Defence; to wit, the cunning pretence and artifice whereby David circumvented Abimelech. Others think this was true, because Abimelech seems to confess it, v. 15. though that may be spoken by way of concession. If it were so as Doeg declares, this was no new thing. Then he might add, that it was not so; though this be not here mentioned: for it is evident, That all his Answer or Apology, is not here expressed; for here is not a word of the Victuals or Sword which he gave him.

11 Then

11 Then the king ſent to call Ahimelech the prieſt the ſon of Ahitub, and all his fathers houſe a, the prieſts that were in Nob: and they came all of them to the king.

a Of the Houſe of Eli, which God had threatned to cut off, chap. 2. 31.

12 And Saul ſaid, Hear now, thou ſon of Ahitub b: and he anſwered, † Here I am, my Lord.

† Heb. behold me.

b He ſhews his Contempt and Anger, that he would not vouchſafe to Name him: See before, on chap. 20. 27.

13 And Saul ſaid unto him, Why have ye conſpired againſt me, thou, and the ſon of Jeſſe, in that thou haſt given him bread, and a ſword, and haſt enquired of God for him, that he ſhould riſe againſt me to lie in wait, as at this day?

14 Then Ahimelech anſwered the king, and ſaid, And who is ſo faithful among all thy ſervants, as David c, which is the kings ſon in law, and goeth at thy bidding, and is honourable in thine houſe.

c He doth not determine the differences between Saul and David; nor affirm, what David now was: but onely declared what David had formerly been, both really, and in Publick Fame and Opinion.

15 Did I then begin to enquire of God for him? be it far from me: let not the king impute any thing d unto his ſervant, nor to all the houſe of my father: for thy ſervant knew nothing of all this e, † leſs or more.

† Heb. little or great.

d Or, this thing; to wit, which thou now chargeſt me with That I ſhould Aſſiſt David in any evil Deſign againſt thee. e Or of thy ſuſpition concerning him. For as for Sauls Attempts upon David, well might Abimelech impute them wholly to the violence of Sauls Paſſion and Diſeaſe, ſeeing even Jonathan did ſo, as may be gathered from 1 Sam. 20. 2.

16 And the king ſaid, Thou ſhalt ſurely die, Ahimelech, thou and all thy fathers houſe.

17 ¶ And the king ſaid unto the ‖ † footmen that ſtood about him, Turn, and ſlay the prieſts of the LORD, becauſe their hand is with David, and becauſe they knew when he fled, and did not ſhew it me. But the ſervants of the king would not put forth their hand to fall upon the prieſts of the LORD f.

‖ Or, Guard. † Heb. runners.

f Chooſing rather to offend the King, by diſobeying his wicked and bloody Command, than to offend God, by ſhedding the Blood of ſuch Innocent and Sacred Perſons.

18 And the king ſaid to Doeg, Turn thou g, and fall upon the prieſts. And Doeg the Edomite h turned, and he fell upon the prieſts, and * ſlew on that day fourſcore and five perſons i that did wear a linnen ephod k.

* chap. 2. 31.

g Or, go about, to wit, from man to man, till thou haſt killed all. h Which is noted to wipe off the ſtain of this Butchery from the Iſraelitiſh Nation, and to ſhew, why he was ſo ready to do it, becauſe he was one of that Nation which had an implacable hatred againſt all Iſraelites, and againſt the Prieſts of the Lord. i With his own hand: which was not difficult, when no reſiſtance was made. k Not at that time, as ſome fancy, but uſually ſuch as uſed to Miniſter to the Lord in a linnen Ephod, which Prieſts and Levites uſed to do. See Exod. 28. 40. &c. 1 Sam. 2. 18.

19 And Nob the city of the prieſts ſmote he l with the edge of the ſword, both men and women, children and ſucklings, and oxen, and aſſes, and ſheep, with the edge of the ſword.

l Either Saul, or Doeg, with the help of ſome others whom Saul appointed to that work. By this barbarous and bloody Fact Saul thought to affright all his Subjects from giving any countenance or aſſiſtance to David.

20 ¶ And one of the ſons of Ahimelech, the ſon of Ahitub, named Abiathar m, eſcaped and fled after David n:

m Who by his Fathers death was now High-Prieſt. n To Keilah, chap. 23. 6, 7.

21 And Abiathar ſhewed David, that Saul had ſlain the LORDS prieſts.

22 And David ſaid unto Abiathar, I knew it o that day, when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would ſurely tell Saul: I have occaſioned the death of all the perſons of thy fathers houſe.

o His malice and ambition made me ſuſpect that he would do it.

23 Abide thou with me, fear not: for he that ſeeketh my life, ſeeketh thy life: but with me thou ſhalt be in ſafegnard p.

p Becauſe God will certainly preſerve me to the Kingdom which he hath promiſed: and I by his help will protect thee.

CHAP. XXIII.

THen they told David a, ſaying, Behold, the Philiſtines fight againſt Keilah b, and they rob the threſhing-floors c.

a Or, Now they had told David, to wit, before he heard of the ſlaughter of the Prieſts. b A City in the Tribe of Judah, Joſ. 15. 44. not far from the Foreſt of Hareth, where David now was, chap. 22. 5. c Which uſually were without the Cities in places open to the wind. See Judg. 6. 11. Ruth 3. 2. &c.

2 Therefore David enquired of the LORD d, ſaying, Shall I go and ſmite theſe Philiſtines e? And the LORD ſaid unto David, Go, and ſmite the Philiſtines, and ſave Keilah.

d Either by Abiathar; or rather, by Gad, who was a Prophet, 2 Sam. 24. 11. and Davids Seer, 1 Chro. 21. 9. and was now with David, ch. 22. 5. for Abiathar was not yet come to him, v. 6. e For the caſe was both doubtful and new, he having not yet made any attempt upon the Philiſtines, but by Sauls Commiſſion; and dangerous, becauſe of the ſmall number of his Forces.

3 And Davids men ſaid unto him, Behold, we be afraid here in Judah f: how much more then if we come to Keilah againſt the armies of the Philiſtines g.

f i. e. In this part of Judah, whereas yet we have no Army to oppoſe us: for elſe Keilah alſo was in Judah. g When we ſhall have a Potent Enemy before us, the Philiſtines, and, it may be, another behind us, even Saul, who probably will come forth, either to reſiſt the Philiſtines, or to intercept us.

4 Then David enquired of the LORD yet again h: And the LORD anſwered him, and ſaid, Ariſe, go down to Keilah: for I will deliver the Philiſtines into thine hand.

h Not for his own, but for his Soldiers ſatisfaction and encouragement; as Gideon did, Judg. 7.

5 So David and his men went to Keilah, and fought with the Philiſtines, and brought away their cattel i, and ſmote them with a great ſlaughter; ſo David ſaved the inhabitants of Keilah.

i Which the Philiſtines had either brought out of their Land, or had taken from the Iſraelites in their March, for the ſuſtenance of their Army.

6 And it came to paſs when Abiathar the ſon of Ahimelech * fled to David to Keilah, that he came down with an ephod k in his hand.

* chap. 22. 20.

k Or, with the Ephod, to wit, the High-Prieſts Ephod, in which were the Urim and the Thummim, Exod. 28. 30. which when Abimelech and the reſt of the Prieſts went to Saul, were probably left in his hand, and to his care; which gave him the opportunity both of eſcaping, whilſt Doeg the Butcher was killing his Brethren, and of bringing away the Ephod, which Saul had oft groſly neglected, and now was juſtly deprived of it.

7 ¶ And it was told Saul that David was come to Keilah: and Saul ſaid, God hath † delivered him into mine hand l: for he is ſhut in, by entring into a town that hath gates and bars m.

† Heb. alienated him. Gr. ſold him.

l He eaſily believed what he greedily deſired, though his own experience had oft ſhewed him how ſtrangely God had delivered him out of his hands, and what a ſingular care God had over him. m So that which he choſe for his ſafety, will be his certain ruin.

8 And Saul called all the people together, to war, to go down to Keilah, to beſiege David and his men.

9 ¶ And David knew that Saul ſecretly practiſed n miſchief againſt him, and * he ſaid to Abiathar the prieſt, Bring hither the ephod o.

* Num. 27.21.

n Whereby it may ſeem he pretended that he raiſed this Army to defend Keilah and his Country from the Philiſtines, and kept his intention againſt David in his own Breaſt. Or, deſigned or deviſed: for ſo the word ſignifies; and it is here Tranſlated by many, and it ſeems both from ver. 8. and from his publickly avowed jealouſie of, and rage againſt David, that he declared his deſign to be againſt him, as a Traitor to his Crown and Dignity. o And put it upon thee, that thou maiſt ask Counſel of God for me.

10 Then ſaid David p, O LORD God of Iſrael, thy ſervant hath certainly heard that Saul ſeeketh to come to Keilah, to deſtroy the city for my ſake.

p To wit, by the Prieſt, for he was to make the enquiry of God, Numb. 27.21. and David puts the words into his mouth.

11 Will the men of Keilah deliver me up into his hand q? Will Saul come down as thy ſervant hath heard? O LORD God of Iſrael, I beſeech thee tell thy ſervant. And the LORD ſaid r, He will come down ſ.

q To wit, if I continue in their City, and if Saul come down. r From this place it may appear that Gods anſwer by Urim and Thummim, was not by any change in the colour or ſituation of the precious Stones in the Breſt-Plate of the Ephod, but by a Voice or Suggeſtion from God to the High-Prieſt. ſ i. e. He purpoſeth to come, if thou continueſt here. For ſtill as Davids queſtion, ſo Gods anſwer, is upon a ſuppoſition, as is here ſufficiently implied.

12 Then ſaid David, Will the men of Keilah † deliver me and my men into the hand of Saul? And the LORD ſaid, They will deliver thee up t.

† Heb. ſhut up.

t To wit, if thou abideſt there. For God ſaw their hearts, their purpoſes, and paſſions, their averſion from David, and their affections to Saul, and knew better than themſelves what they would do in that caſe.

13 ¶ Then David and his men, which were about ſix hundred u, aroſe, and departed out of Keilah, and went whitherſoever they could go x: and it was told Saul that David was eſcaped from Keilah, and he forbare to go forth.

u Two hundred being added to his former number, chap. 22. 2. upon his laſt and great Succeſs againſt the Philiſtines. x Hither or thither, where they could find refuge, or an hiding place.

14 And David abode in the wilderneſs in ſtrong holds, and remained in a mountain in the wilderneſs of Ziph: and Saul ſought him every day, but God delivered him not into his hand y.

y As Saul fondly perſwaded himſelf, he intended, ver. 7.

15 And David ſaw z that Saul was come out to ſeek his life: and David was in the wilderneſs of Ziph in a wood.

z Either by information from his ſpies: or, by proſpect from the top of the Mountain where he was.

16 ¶ And Jonathan, Sauls ſon aroſe, and went to David in the wood a, and ſtrengthened his hand in God b.

a Where David had appointed to meet him at that time. b He comforted and ſupported him againſt all his fears, by minding him of Gods infallible Promiſes made to him, and his ſingular Providence which hitherto had and ſtill would be with him.

17 And he ſaid unto him, Fear not, for the hand of Saul my father ſhall not find thee, and thou ſhalt be king over Iſrael, and I ſhall be next unto thee ‖: and * that alſo Saul my father knoweth c.

* chap. 24. 20.

‖ Which he gathered either from Davids Generoſity, Ingenuity, and true Friendſhip to him; or from ſome promiſe made to him by David concerning it. Or, the meaning of the words next unto thee, may be as much as to ſay, I ſhall be under thee, after thee, or inferior to thee, as the Phraſe tibi ſecundus oft ſignifies. So that the whole imports thus much; I do not look to be King my ſelf (as by my Birth I might expect), but that thou ſhalt be King (God having ſo appointed) and I but in a Secondary place inferior to thee. c By ſtrong and well-grounded conjectures, as hath been noted.

18 And they two made a covenant d before the LORD e: and David abode in the wood, and Jonathan went to his houſe.

d i. e. Renewed their former Covenant. e i. e. Setting themſelves as in Gods preſence, and calling upon him to be Witneſs between them.

19 ¶ Then came up the * Ziphites f to Saul to Gibeah, ſaying, Doth not David hide himſelf with us in ſtrongs hold in the woods, in the hill of Hachilah, which is † on the ſouth of ‖ Jeſhimon?

* Pſal. 54. title.

f Who were of Davids own Tribe, though for this their unnatural and ſtrange carriage to him, he calls them ſtrangers, Pſal. 54. 3.

20 Now therefore, O king, come down according to all the deſire of thy ſoul to come down, and our part ſhall be g to deliver him into the kings hand.

g It ſhall be our care and buſineſs to the utmoſt of our power. Or, we will undertake to deliver him, or betray him to thee.

21 And Saul ſaid, Bleſſed be ye of the LORD, for ye have compaſſion on me h.

h Whilſt others harden their hearts againſt me, and joyn with David in his treaſonable conſpiracy, you ſhew your pity to me by your readineſs to me.

22 Go, I pray you, prepare yet i, and know, and ſee his place where his † haunt is k, and who hath ſeen him there: for it is told me that he dealeth very ſubtilly.

† Heb. foot ſhall be.

i To wit, the matter, inform your ſelves certainly of things, and diſpoſe them ſo that we may not be fruſtrated in our attempt. k In what Cave, or Wood, or Mountain he is moſt frequently.

23 See therefore, and take knowledge of all the lurking places where he hideth himſelf, and come ye again to me with the certainty, and I will go with you: and it ſhall come to paſs, if he be in the land, that I will ſearch him out throughout all the thouſands of Judah l.

l i. e. Through all the parts of that Tribe. Every Tribe was divided into Thouſands, as Counties are now with us into Hundreds. See Judg. 6. 15. Or, with all the thouſands of Judah, i. e. I will raiſe againſt him all the Forces of that Tribe in which he truſteth and hideth himſelf. This he ſaith to animate them to the more vigorous Proſecution of him.

24 And they aroſe, and went to Ziph before Saul m: but David and his men were in the wilderneſs of Maon n, in the plain on the ſouth of Jeſhimon.

m To prepare things for Saul, who Marched after them. n Whither he went from the Wilderneſs of Ziph, upon ſuſpicion or information that Saul was coming thither.

25 Saul alſo and his men went to ſeek him, and they told David: wherefore he came down into a rock o, and abode in the wilderneſs of Maon: and when Saul heard that, he purſued after David in the wilderneſs of Maon.

o i. e. Into a Cave which was in the Rock; or, which might be called a Rock, not for the height, but the ſtrength of its ſituation: where at firſt he might think to hide himſelf, but upon further intelligence or conſideration he removed from thence upon Sauls approach. Or, he came down from the Rock, i. e. Either, Firſt, From the Mountain mentioned in the next Verſe, whence he came down, that ſo he might get out of Sauls ſight and reach. Or, Secondly, From the Hill of Hachilah, where

David

David hid himself, which is said to be on the South of Jeshimon, ver. 19. as this place where he now was, is also described, ver. 24. onely that speaks of the Plain, and this of the Rock or Hill adjoyning to it, or in the midst of it. Or, he came down to Selah, as the Syriack and Arabick translate it; a place so called from the many Rocks or Stones which were in it, or near it.

26 And Saul went on this side of the mountain, and David and his men on that side of the mountain: and David made haste to get away for fear of Saul: for Saul and his men compassed David and his men round about p to take them.

p Dividing themselves into several Parties, each Marching a several way after him.

27 ¶ But there came a messenger unto Saul, saying, Haste thee, and come: for the Philistines have † invaded the land q.

† Heb. spread themselves upon, &c.

q God stirring them up by his all-disposing Providence to do it at this time for Davids Rescue. Compare 2 King. 19. 9.

28 Wherefore Saul returned from pursuing after David, and went against the Philistines: therefore they called that place ‖ Sela-hammahlekoth r.

‖ That is, the rock of divisions.

r i.e. The Rock of divisions, because there Saul was separated, and in a manner pulled asunder from David, who was now almost within his reach.

29 ¶ And David went up from thence, and dwelt in strong holds at En-gedi.

CHAP. XXIV.

AND it came to pass, when Saul was returned from † following the Philistines, that it was told him, saying, Behold, David is in the wilderness of En-gedi.

† Heb. after.

2 Then Saul took three thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and went to seek David and his men upon † the rocks of the wild goats a.

† Heb. the face of, &c.

a Which the wild Goats use to delight and climb into. These very Rocks are exceeding steep, and full of precipices, and dangerous to Travellers, as an eye-witness hath left upon Record. And yet Saul was so transported with Rage, as to venture himself and his Army here, that he might take David, who, as he thought, would judge himself safe, and therefore be secure in such inaccessible places.

3 And he came to the sheep-coats b by the way, where was a cave, and * Saul went in to cover his feet c: and * David and his men remained in the sides of the cave d:

* Psal. 57. title, and 142. title.

b Which some think to have been Caves into which they used to drive their Sheep for shelter in tempestuous weather. c i. e. To ease his Belly, as this Phrase is thought to be used, Judg. 3. 24. The reason whereof is, because the Eastern and some other Nations of old wore no Breeches, but loose and long Coats or Gowns, like those which Women with us wear; but shorter, whence their Feet and Legs were in a great part uncovered; and sometimes other parts, which also in Scripture are designed by the name of the Feet, (of which see on Gen. 49. 10. Deut. 28. 57. 2 King. 18. 27. Isa. 7. 20.) were exposed to view. But when they went to perform this office of Nature, which obliged them first to lift up their Garments, they afterwards disposed them so decently, that all those parts might be covered and kept out of the sight of others. But possibly the words may have another meaning, and it is not to be despised, that those ancient and venerable Interpreters, the Syriack and Arabick, Interpret this Place and Phrase quite otherwise, that Saul went in to sleep there: which was no uncouth thing to Saul, who being a Military Man, used to sleep with his Soldiers upon the bare Ground, as he did chap. 26. 7. And it is not improbable that Saul being exceeding weary with his eager and almost incessant pursuit first of David, then of the Philistines, and now of David again, both needed and desired some sleep, God also disposing him thereunto, that David might have this eminent occasion to demonstrate his integrity to Saul, and to all Israel; and, the season possibly being hot, he might chuse to sleep in the Cave, for the benefit of the shade. But all the question is, how it may appear that this is the meaning of this Phrase, and what is the reason and ground of it? To which many things may be said. First, That this Phrase is but twice used in Scripture, as far as I remember, here, and Judg. 3. 24. and this sense may conveniently enough agree to both of them; nay, this sense may seem better to agree with that place, Judg. 3. for that Summer Parlour, or Summer Chamber (for both seem to be the same place, and were apparently for the same use, v. 24, 25.) seems to be a place far more convenient for sleeping, than for easing of Nature. And the Servants long stay and waiting for their Lord, seems to imply that they judged him gone to sleep (which might take up a considerable time), rather than to that other work which requires but a little time. See my Notes on Judg. 3. 24. Secondly, That there are many Hebrew Phrases, which do confessedly signifie several things, albeit, the reason of such significations be now utterly unknown to us, though it was doubtless known to the ancient Hebrews. Nor need I instance in particulars, seeing it is so in all Languages, and particularly in the English Tongue at this day, in which the use of many Proverbs and Phrases is well understood, though the reason of them be now lost. Which if our modern Infidels, who scoff at some passages of Scripture, which they either do not, or will not understand, would consider, they would lose much of their sport. Thirdly, Although there be not that clear and full proof of this sense which some may require (though indeed it cannot be reasonably expected in a thing so ancient, and in a Phrase of so concise and narrow a Language as the Hebrew is, and in an expression so rarely used in Scripture), yet there are some intimations in Scripture which may seem to favour this Interpretation. For Persons composing themselves to sleep in this manner, are not onely Noted in the general to have been covered with a Mantle, as it is said of Sisera, Judg. 4. 18, 19. but particularly they are said to have their Feet covered, as is expresly observed concerning Boaz when he lay down to sleep in the threshing-floor, Ruth 3. 4, 7. The reason whereof may possibly be this, That when they lay down to sleep in their Garments, they were secured as to the other parts of their Body, onely their Feet were open and visible; and therefore it was convenient to cover their Feet; partly, to prevent the inconveniencies of cold, (for which reason we here take special care to cover our Feet in such cases); and partly, for decencies sake, lest their Garments being loose and large below, should be disordered, and so their Nakedness should appear, as it happened to Noah, Gen. 9. 21. Compare Exod. 20. 26. And therefore it cannot seem strange or forced, if in this place Sauls covering of his Feet, design his composing himself to his rest. And if this be so, then the following difficulties of this History will appear to be plain and ease. For if Saul were fast asleep, which might easily be perceived by David and his Men within; then it is not strange that Saul neither heard David and his men talking of him, nor felt David when he came to cut off his lap. d For that there were vast Caves in those parts is affirmed not onely by Josephus, but also by Heathen Authors; and Strabo in his sixteenth Book writes of one which could receive Four Thousand men.

4 And the men of David said unto him e, Behold, the day of which the LORD said unto thee, Behold, I will deliver thine enemy into thine hand, that thou mayest do to him, as it shall seem good unto thee f. Then David arose, and cut off the skirt of † Sauls robe privily g.

† Heb. the robe which was Sauls.

c Quest. How came it to pass that Saul did not hear the debates of David and his Men? Answ. First, The greater noise of Sauls Men and Horses just by the Caves mouth, might easily drown the lesser. Secondly, There were in these large and capacious Caves, several cells or parts, whereof some were more inward and remote from the Caves mouth, in which they might freely converse and discourse, and yet neither be heard nor seen by Saul, though they could easily see him, and observe all his postures and actions, because he was in the mouth of the Cave. 3. Saul might be asleep, as hath been discoursed. f Not that either God said these words, or made any such particular promise, as some apprehend; but they put this construction upon those confessed and known promises which God had made to him, of delivering him from all his Enemies, and carrying him through all hinderances and difficulties to the Throne and Kingdom: which promise they conceived put him under an Obligation of watching and taking all opportunities which God by his Providence should put into his hand for their accomplishment, whereof this was an eminent instance. g Quest. How could David do thus, and Saul not perceive it? Answ. First, This might be some loose and upper Garment, which Saul might then lay at some distance from him, as we oft do on the same occasion. Secondly, In those vast Caves there were divers particular Cells and Rooms which were distinct from one another, yet so as there were secret passages from one to another, as may be gathered from the Relations of Historians and Travellers. At the mouth of one of these, Saul might lay his upper Garment: which David perceiving, and very well knowing all the Cells and Passages of that Cave, might go some secret way to it, and cut off a little part of it. Thirdly, The noise which Davids motion might be supposed to make, was but small, and that he well knew would be perfectly drowned with the far greater noise of Sauls Army, which lay at the mouth of the Cave. Fourthly, The Heroical Actions of great Men in Scripture are not to be measured by common Rules. And as divers of the Prophets Prophet and Saints of old were in some of their Actions, so David might be in this, moved to it by a secret and Divine impulse, which also gave him confidence of Gods assistance therein, and of the Success of his Enterprize. Fifthly, This difficulty doth perfectly vanish, if Saul was now asleep. And as no man can prove that he was not; so that he was, may seem probable from what is said on ver. 3.

* 2 Sam. 24. 10. 5 And it came to pass afterwards, that * Davids heart smote him, because he had cut off Sauls skirt h.

h Not onely because it was injurious, and reproachful, and dangerous to the King; but possibly because he had some secret thought of doing more to him, though he suppressed and overcame it; for he attempted this in pursuance of his Soldiers suggestion, ver 4. which if followed, would have carried him to further Action.

6 And he said unto his men i. The LORD forbid that I should do this thing k unto my master l the LORDS anointed, to stretch forth mine hand against him m, seeing he is the anointed of the LORD n.

i Either, First, Before he cut off Sauls lap. Or rather, Secondly, Afterwards, when he returned with Sauls lap in his hand, and his Soldiers were enraged that he had not killed him. k Which you perswade me to do, even cut off Saul. l Whom I must still own for my Sovereign Lord and King, to whom I owe Allegiance whilst he lives, although after his death the right of the Kingdom be mine. m To wit, to kill him. A Synecdochical expression. See Gen. 37. 22. n i. e. Anointed by God to the Kingdom; by which Unction his Person was made Sacred and Inviolable, and is so to be accounted by me, and you, and all his Subjects. And as God onely Exalted him, and God onely could pronounce a Sentence of Deprivation of his Kingdom against him; so it belongs to God onely to execute his own Sentence, and actually to Depose him.

† Heb. cut off. 7 So David † stayed o his servants with these words, and suffered them not to rise against Saul: but Saul rose up out of the cave, and went on his way.

o Heb. cut, or clave, or divided, or cut them off. The word notes both the eagerness and violence of Davids men in prosecuting their desire, and Davids resoluteness in opposing them, as it were, by force. Wherein he shews great Piety, and Generosity, and Loyalty to Saul.

8 David also arose afterward, and went out of the cave, and cried after Saul, saying, My lord the king. And when Saul looked behind him, David stooped with his face to the earth, and bowed himself.

* Psal. 141. 6. 9 ¶ And David said unto Saul, * Wherefore heares thou mens words p, saying, Behold, David seeketh thy hurt?

p He prudently and modestly Translates the fault from Saul to his followers, and evil counsellors.

10 Behold, this day thine eyes have seen, how that the LORD hath delivered thee to day into mine hand in the cave: and some bade me kill thee, but * mine eye q spared thee, and I said, I will not put forth mine hand against my lord, for he is the LORDS anointed.

* 2 Sam. 13. 39. Psal. 16. 2.

q Which words are easily understood both from the nature of the thing, and from the use of this Phrase in other Scriptures, as Deut. 7. 16. and 13. 8. The Eye is said to spare, because it affects the heart with pity, and moves a man to spare.

11 Moreover, my father r, See, yea, see the skirt of thy robe in my hand: for in that I cut off the skirt of thy robe, and killed thee not, know thou and see, that there is neither evil nor transgression in mine hand s, and I have not sinned against thee; yet thou hunteſt my soul to take it.

r So he calls him; partly, because he was his Father-in-law; partly, in testimony of his respect and subjection to him as to a Father; and partly, that by so amiable a compellation he might both insinuate himself into his favour, and mind him of that Duty which as a Father he owed to David. s I neither design mischief against thee with my heart, nor will I execute it with my hand, which my false accusers told thee I would do, if thou didst at any time fall into my hand.

12 The LORD judge † between me and thee, and the LORD avenge me of thee t: but mine hand shall not be upon thee u.

‖ Or, will judge.

t Or, will avenge me of thee, to wit, if thou dost persist in thy injurious and cruel designs against me. u I will not execute vengeance on thee, but will leave it wholly to God.

13 As saith the proverb of the ancients, Wickedness proceedeth from the wicked x: but mine hand shall not be upon thee.

x i. e. Wicked men will do wicked actions, among which this is one, to kill their Sovereign Lord and King; as David implied above, ver. 6. and more fully expresseth, chap. 26. 9. And therefore if I were so wicked and vile a Person as thy Courtiers represent me to thee, I should make no conscience of laying wicked and violent hands upon thee, but should assassinate thee when I had opportunity. Which because I have now neglected and refused to do, though moved to it by some of my wicked Soldiers; know therefore that I am not guilty of any wicked designs against thee, but am just and innocent towards thee. Or thus: wicked actions (such as that would have been if I had killed thee) proceed onely from the wicked, of which number I am none; and therefore my hand shall not be upon thee.

14 After whom is the king of Israel come out? after whom dost thou pursue? After a dead dog, after * a flea y.

* chap. 26. 20.

y After a worthless, contemptible, and impotent person; such as I am. Thou disparagest thy self in contending with such a Person; and even thy conquest of me will be inglorious and shameful.

15 The LORD therefore be judge, and judge between me and thee, and see, and plead my cause, and † deliver me out of thine hand.

† Heb. judge. 2 Sam. 18. 19.

16 ¶ And it came to pass when David had made an end of speaking these words unto Saul, that Saul said; Is this thy voice, my son David z? And Saul lift up his voice, and wept.

z He knew his voice, though being at a great distance from him, he could not discern his face. a Partly, from the sense of his sin against God, and of his wicked and base carriage to David, (for there are some such Temporary passions oft-times in Hypocrites and ungodly men) and principally from the remembrance of so great and so late a danger as he had now escaped; which commonly produceth grief and tears; as 2 Sam. 13. 36. Yet these may be tears of affection or tenderness (upon the sense of Davids kindness) rather than of grief.

17 And he said to David, Thou art more righteous than I: for thou hast rewarded me good b, whereas I have rewarded thee evil c.

b For the Evil that I have designed and done to thee. c For thy good will to me.

18 And thou hast shewed this day how that thou hast dealt well with me: forasmuch as when the LORD had † delivered me into thine hand, thou killedst me not.

† Heb. shut up.

19 For if a man find his enemy, will he let him go well away d? wherefore the LORD reward thee good, for that thou hast done unto me this day.

d i. e. He will certainly destroy him. And therefore thou hast not dealt with me after the manner of men, but hast imitated the clemency of God in this act.

20 And now behold, * I know well e that thou shalt be surely king, and that the kingdom of Israel shall be established in thine hand.

* chap. 23. 17.

e Or, am convinced, not onely by the fame of Samuels Anointing thee, but by Gods singular Providence watching over thee; and by that good Spirit, and those Great and Princely Vertues wherewith God hath endowed thee.

21 Swear now therefore unto me by the LORD, that thou wilt not cut off my seed after me f, and that thou wilt not destroy my name g out of my fathers house.

f As Princes use to destroy their Competitors, and those that have any hopes of, or pretence to their Crown; and Saul had endeavoured to destroy David for the same reason, and therefore therefore he feared a retaliation. g To wit, by cutting off my Seed. So it is the same thing repeated in other words, as is usual in Scripture.

22 And David sware unto Saul h : and Saul went home; but David and his men gat them up unto the hold i.

h Quest. How then could David destroy so many of Sauls Sons 2 Sam. 21. 8.? Answ. David could bind himself by his Oaths, but he could not bind God, to whose good pleasure all Promises, Vows, Oaths, must in all reason be submitted; and that was done by Gods command, and God was well pleased with it. 2 Sam. 21. 14. Nor is it to be supposed that David sware not to destroy any of them in case God should specially command it, or that should by miscarriage render themselves obnoxious to the Sword of Justice: but onely that he would not do it barely on his own private account, nor seek occasions of so doing. i To wit, of Engedi, ver. 1. For having had so great and frequent experience of Sauls inconstancy, and malice, and perfidiousness, he would trust him no more.

CHAP. XXV.

* chap. 28. 3. AND * Samuel died, and all the Israelites were gathered together, and lamented him, and buried him in his house a at Ramah. And David arose, and went down to the wilderness of Paran b.

a According to the manner of those times. See Gen. 23. 9. and 50. 5. Matth. 27. 60. b In the Southern Borders of the Land of Judah, that so when occasion served, he might retire out of Sauls Dominions.

‖ Or, business. 2 And there was a man in Maon c, whose ‖ possessions were in Carmel d, and the man was very great, and he had three thousand sheep, and a thousand goats: and he was shearing his sheep in Carmel.

c A place in or near to the Wilderness of Paran. See chap. 23. 24. d Not that Carmel in Issachar; of which see chap. 15. 12. and 1 King. 18. 19. but another in the Tribe of Judah, near unto Maon, as appears from Jos. 15. 55.

3 Now the name of the man was Nabal, and the name of his wife Abigail: and she was a woman of good understanding, and of a beautiful countenance: but the man was churlish, and evil † Gr. a Cynick. in his doings, and he was † of the house of Caleb e.

e This is added to aggravate his Crime, That he was a degenerate Branch of that Noble Stock of Caleb, and consequently of the Tribe of Judah, as David was.

4 ¶ And David heard in the wilderness, that Nabal did shear his sheep f.

f Which times were celebrated with Feasting and Jollity. See 2 Sam. 13. 23, 24.

5 And David sent out ten young men, and David said unto the young men, Get ye up to † Heb. ask him in my name of peace. Carmel, and go to Nabal, and † greet him in my name.

6 And thus shall ye say to him that liveth in pro- † Heb. be thou peace, and thine house peace. sperity g, † Peace be both to thee, and peace be to thine house h, and peace be unto all that thou hast i.

g Heb. to him that liveth. Life is oft put for a prosperous and happy life, as in that Prayer, Let the King live, 1 Sam. 10. 24. 1 King. 1. 25. and in other passages of Scripture, and other Authors; for an afflicted and calamitous life is unworthy of the Name of life, and is esteemed a kind of death, and oft so called, as 2 Cor. 1. 10. and 11. 23. By this expression David both congratulates Nabals felicity, and tacitly minds him of the penury and distress in which David and his men now were. h i.e. To all thy Family. i To all thy Goods. So Davids Prayer is very comprehensive, reaching to his Soul, and Body, and Wife, and Children, and Servants, and all his Estate.

7 And now I have heard that thou hast shearers: now thy shepherds which were with us, we † Heb. shamed. † hurt them not, neither was there ought missing unto them, all the while they were in Carmel k.

k Which considering the licentiousness of Soldiers, and the necessities which David and his men were oft exposed to, was no small favour and priviledge, which Nabal was bound both in justice, and gratitude, and prudence to requite.

8 Ask thy young men, and they will shew thee: wherefore let the young men find favour in thine eyes: (for we come in a good day l) give I pray thee, whatsoever cometh to thine hand, unto thy servants m, and to thy son n David.

l i. e. In a day of Feasting and Rejoycing; when men are most chearful and liberal; when thou maist relieve us out of thy abundance without damage to thy self; when thou art receiving the Mercies of God, and therefore obliged to pity and relieve distressed and indigent Persons, Deut. 12. 12. and 14. 26, 29. and 15 7. m To us who have been and still are ready to serve and guard thee and thine. Or, the word Servants may be only used as a word of respect, frequently used in Scripture, where Inferiors speak to Superiors, especially when they be supplants, and beg some favour. n So he calls himself, to shew that respect and affection which he bore to Nabal, as being elder and wealthier than himself, and of the same Tribe with himself, and a Branch of so worthy a Family as Nabals was.

9 And when Davids young men came, they spake to Nabal according to all those words in the name of David, and † ceased. † Heb. rested.

10 ¶ And Nabal answered Davids servants, and said, Who is David o? and who is the son of Jesse? There be many servants now a days that break away, every man from his master p.

o What relation or obligation have I to David? p Hereby he taxeth both David, as one revolted from, and risen up against Saul his Lord and Master; and his Soldiers, as Runagates from their Masters and Creditors, &c. See chap. 22. 2.

11 Shall I then take my bread, and my water q, and my † flesh that I have killed for my shearers, † Heb. slaughter. and give it unto men whom I know not whence they be?

q He speaketh thus either because in those hot and dry parts Water was scarce and precious: or, Water is here put for any kind of Drink, as Bread is oft taken for all sorts of Meat.

12 So Davids young men turned their way, and went again, and came and told him all those sayings.

13 And David said unto his men, Gird ye on every man his sword r. And they girded on every man his sword, and David also girded on his sword: and there went up after David about four hundred men, and two hundred abode by the stuff s.

r Having resolved and sworn to revenge himself of Nabal, as is expressed ver. 21, 22. s See chap. 17. 22. and 30. 24.

14 ¶ But one of the young men told Abigail t Nabals wife, saying, Behold, David sent messengers out of the wilderness to salute our master; and he † † Heb. flew upon them. railed on them.

t Wisely considering the mischievous effects likely to follow so churlish a message.

15 But the men were very good unto us, and we were not † hurt, neither missed we any thing as † Heb. shamed. long as we were conversant with them, when we were in the fields.

16 They were a wall u unto us both by night and day, all the while we were with them keeping the sheep.

u i. e. A defence against wild Beasts, and Robbers, and Enemies.

17 Now therefore know, and consider what thou wilt do: for evil is determined against our master, and against all his houshold x: for he is such a son of Belial, that a man cannot speak to him y.

x Which it was easie to guess; either, from some threatning expressions which Davids men used; or, from the consideration of Davids great power, and that rage which so high a provocation was likely to produce in Military Persons. y To wit, without hazard to himself, and therefore I acquaint thee, rather than him, with this matter.

18 ¶ Then Abigail made haste, and took two hundred loaves z, and two bottles of wine, and five five sheep ready dressed, and five measures of parched corn, and an hundred † clusters of raisins, and two hundred cakes of figs, and laid them on asses.

‖ Or, lumps.

z Which she did without his leave, and against his mind, because it was a case of apparent necessity, for the preservation of her self, and Husband, and all the Family from imminent ruin. And surely that real and urgent necessity which dispenseth with Gods positive commands, might well dispense with the Husbands right, in this case.

19 And she said unto her servants, Go on before me, behold, I come after you a: but she told not her husband Nabal.

a For she knew she could quickly overtake them.

20 And it was so, as she rode on the asse, that she came down by the covert of the hill b, and behold, David and his men came down c against her, and she met them.

b In the lower part, and under the shadow of the Hill, or of the Trees that grew upon it, so that David did not see her till she met him. c To wit, from another opposite Hill.

21 (Now David had said d, Surely in vain have I kept all that this fellow e hath in the wilderness, so that nothing was missed of all that pertained unto him, and he hath requited me evil for good.

d Either in his journey, or as soon as he heard that reproachful answer. e Whom he thought unworthy to be named, for his barbarous ingratitude and churlishness.

22 So, and more also do God unto the enemies of David f, if I leave of all that pertain unto him by the morning light, any that pisseth against the wall g).

f i. e. Unto David himself. But because it might seem ominous and unnatural to Curse himself, therefore by a Figure called Euphemismus; instead of David he mentions Davids Enemies. See 1 Sam. 20. 16. The words may be thus rendred: So and more also let God do: for (the Hebrew Lamed being very oft so used) the Enemies of David, i. e. Let God work for them, and give them as much Prosperity and Success as Nabal hath hitherto had. Or, let God utterly destroy their Enemies; and especially, my self the chief of them, if I do not destroy this man. g i. e. Any of the Males, for they onely do so; and of them this Phrase is manifestly understood; 1 King. 14. 10. and 21. 21. and 2 King. 9. 8. And men not wholly barbarous have generally spared Women in such cases. Quest. Why then was Abigail so much concerned and afraid? Answ. Partly from humanity, and the horror of so general and dreadful a Slaughter of her Family and neerest Relations: and partly, because when the Sword was once drawn, she knew not where it would rest, nor whither she should escape: for she knew nothing of this limitation of Davids threatning, till she came to him.

23 And when Abigail saw David, she hasted and lighted off the ass, and fell before David on her face, and bowed her self to the ground h, h Not onely in token of deep reverence, but as a most humble suppliant; as 2 King. 4. 27.

24 And fell at his feet, and said, Upon me, my lord, upon me let this iniquity be h, and let thine handmaid, I pray thee, speak in thine † audience, and hear the words of thine handmaid.

h Impute Nabals Sin to me, and, if thou pleasest, punish it in me, who here offer my self as a Sacrifice to thy just Indignation. This whole Speech of Abigail is done with great Artifice; and she doth here, by an absolute submitting to Mercy, without any pretence of justification of what was done, (but rather with aggravation of it) indeavour to work upon Davids generosity, and good nature, to pardon it. And, with great art, first would divert the punishment from her Husband to her self, because she had then much more to say, why David should spare her, than why he should spare Nabal. And there was hardly any head or Argument, whence the greatest Orator might argue in this case, which she doth not manage to the best advantage, and most plausible insinuations for such an exigent.

† Heb. lay it to his heart.

25 Let not my lord, I pray thee, † regard l this man of Belial m, even Nabal: for as his name is, so is he: Nabal is his name, and folly is with him n: but I thine handmaid saw not the young men of my lord, whom thou didst send o.

l His Person and Words deserve thy contempt, but not thy regard. m For such hath he shewed himself to be by this wicked and abominable carriage towards thee. n His noted folly and stupidity is a more proper Object for thy pity than anger. His sordid Answer to thy Servants did not proceed from any ill design, or deep malice, but from brutish Sottishness, and want of the understanding of a man in him. It may be thought a great Crime, that she traduceth her Husband in this manner. But this may be said for her, That she told them nothing but what they all knew concerning him, and that she onely seemed to take away that which he never had indeed, to wit, his good name, that she might preserve that which he had, and which was more dear and important to him, even his Life and Soul. o Though I freely submit my self to the Punishment in my Husbands stead, yet I was innocent of the Crime.

26 Now therefore, my lord, as the LORD liveth, and as thy soul liveth, seeing the LORD hath with-holden thee from coming to shed blood p, and from † avenging thy self with thine own hand: now let thine enemies, and they that seek evil to my lord be as Nabal q.

† Heb. saving thy self.

p Seeing God hath so ordered this business by this wise and wonderful Providence, that I should accidentally, and unexpectedly come to the knowledge of my Husbands vile and sordid Carriage; and that I should come to meet thee, and find thee so gracious; as to give me a favourable Audience; and all this, that hereby he might with-hold thee from the Sin of Bloodguiltiness, q Let them be as contemptible and hateful as Nabal is, and will be for this odious Action; let them be as unable to do thee any hurt as he is; let them be forced to yield to thee, and implore thy Pardon and Favour, as Nabal now doth by my mouth: let the Vengeance thou didst design upon Nabal and his Family, fall upon their heads, who by their constant and inveterate Malice against thee, do more deserve it than this silly Fool for this one miscarriage; and much more than all the rest of our Family, who as they are none of thine Enemies, nor such as seek thee evil, so they were no way guilty of this wicked Action. And therefore spare these, and execute thy Vengeance upon more proper Objects.

27 And now this ‖ blessing r which thine handmaid hath brought unto my lord, let it even be given unto the young men that † follow my lord s.

‖ Or, present.

r So a gift or present is called here, and Gen. 33. 11. and elsewhere; not onely because the matter of it comes from Gods blessing; but also because it is given with a Blessing, or with a good will. s As being unworthy of thine acceptance or use.

28 I pray thee, forgive the trespass of thine hand-maid t: for the LORD will certainly make my lord a sure house u, because my lord fighteth the battels of the LORD x, and evil hath not been found in thee, all thy days y.

t i. e. Which I have taken upon my self, ver. 24. and which if it be not Pardoned, but Punished, the Punishment will reach to me. u i. e. Will give the Kingdom to thee, and to thy House for ever, as he hath promised thee. And therefore let Gods great kindness to thee, make thee gentle and merciful to others; do not sully thy approaching Glory with the stain of Innocent Blood; but consider, that it is the glory of a King (which thou art by Gods appointment, and shalt ere long actually be) to pass by Offences; and that it will be thy loss to cut off such as will shortly be thy Subjects. x i. e. For the Lord, and for the People of the Lord against their Enemies; especially, the Philistines. And as that is thy proper Work, and therein thou mayest expect Gods blessing and help; so it is not thy work to draw thy Sword in thy own private quarrel against any of the people of the Lord; and God will not bless thee in it. y Though thou hast been oft aspersed, and charged with many Crimes, by Saul and others; yet thy Innocency hath been, and is evident to all men: do not therefore now by this cruel act of Vengeance justifie thine Enemies Reproaches, nor blemish thy great and just Reputation.

29 Yet a man z is risen to pursue thee, and to seek thy soul a: but the soul of my lord shall be bound in the bundle of life b with the LORD thy God c, and the souls of thine enemies, them shall he sling out, † as out of the middle of a sling d.

† Heb. in the midst of the bought of a sling.

z To wit, Saul, though no way injured nor justly provoked by thee. a i. e. To take away thy Life. b Or, in the bundle: i. e. In the Society, or Congregation of the living; out of which men are taken, and cut off by Death. The Phrase is taken from

from the common usage of men who bind those things in bundles, which they are afraid to lose, because things that are solitary and unbound, are soon lost. The meaning of the place is, God will preserve thy Life; and therefore it becomes not thee, unjustly and unnecessarily to take away the Lives of any; especially, of the People of thy God and Saviour, c i. e. In the hand and custody of God, who by his watchful Providence, preserves this bundle, and all that are in it; and thee in a particular and singular manner, as being thy God in a peculiar way, and special Covenant. God himself will hide, and keep thee in the secret of his Presence, Psal. 31. 20. where no hand of violence can reach thee. And therefore all the Attempts of Saul, or others against thee, are vain and ridiculous. For who can Destroy whom God will keep? d God himself will cut them off suddenly, violently, and irresistibly; and cast them far away, both from his Presence, and from thy Neighbourhood, and from all capacity of doing thee any hurt.

30 And it shall come to pass, when the LORD shall have done to my lord, according to all the good that he hath spoken concerning thee, and shall have appointed thee ruler over Israel;

† Heb. no staggering or stumbling. † Heb. saved himself, v. 26.

31 That this shall be † no grief unto thee, nor offence of heart unto my lord e, either that thou hast shed blood causeless f, or that my lord † hath avenged himself g: but when the LORD shall have dealt well with my lord, then remember thine handmaid h.

e Thy Mind and Conscience will be free from all the Torment which the guilt and shame of such an Action would cause in thee. By which, she cunningly insinuates, what a Blemish this would be to his Glory, what a disturbance to his Peace and Felicity, if he proceeded to execute his Purpose: and withal implies, how sweet and comfortable it would be to him to remember, that he had for conscience to God denied himself, and restrained his Passions. f Which she signifies would be done if he should go on. For though Nabal had been guilty of abominable Rudeness, Uncharitableness, and Ingratitude; yet he had done nothing worthy of Death, by the Laws of God or of Man. And whatsoever he had done, the rest of his Family were innocent. g Which is directly contrary to Gods Law, Lev. 19. 18. Deut. 32. 35. compare with Rom. 12. 19. h When God shall make thee King, and I shall have occasion to apply my self to thee for Justice, or Relief, let me find Grace in thy sight. and so let me do at this time. Or, and the Lord will bless my lord, and recompence thee for this Mortification of thy Passion, and thou wilt remember thine handmaid: i. e. Thou wilt remember my Counsel with satisfaction to thy self, and thankfulness to me.

32 ¶ And David said unto Abigail, Blessed be the LORD God of Israel, which sent thee i this day to meet me:

i Which by his gracious and singular Providence so disposed Matters, that thou shouldest come to me: He rightly begins at the Fountain of this Deliverance, which was God; and then proceeds to the Instruments.

33 And blessed be thy advice, and blessed be thou k, which hast kept me this day from coming to shed blood l, and from avenging my self with mine own hand.

k i. e. The Lord bless and recompence thee, for this thy good Advice. l Which I had sworn to do. Hereby it plainly appears, That Oaths whereby men bind themselves to any Sin, are Null and Void: and as it was a sin to make them; so it is adding sin to sin to perform them.

34 For in very deed, as the Lord God of Israel liveth, which hath kept me back from hurting thee m, except thou hadst hasted and come to meet me, surely there had not been left unto Nabal by the morning light, any that pisseth against the wall.

m Not that he intended to kill her, but the Males onely; as was noted on ver. 22. But their Destruction, was a dreadful Affliction and Damage to her.

35 So David received of her hand that which she had brought him, and said unto her, Go up in peace to thine house: see, I have hearkened to thy voice, and have accepted thy person n.

n i. e. Shewed my Acceptance of thy Person, by my grant of thy Request: See Gen. 19. 21.

36 ¶ And Abigail came to Nabal, and behold he held a feast in his house like the feast of a king o, and Nabals heart was merry within him, for he was very drunken: wherefore she told him nothing p, less or more, until the morning light.

o As the manner was upon those Solemn Occasions. Sordid Covetousness, and vain Prodigality were met together in him. p He being then uncapable of Admonition, his Reason and Conscience being both asleep.

37 But it came to pass in the morning, when the wine was gone out of Nabal, and his wife had told him these things, that his heart died within him, and he became as a stone q.

q He was oppressed with Grief, and fainted away through the fear and horror of so great a Mischief, though it was past. As one, who having in the Night galloped over a narrow Plank, laid upon a broken Bridge, over a deep River; when in the Morning he came to review it, was struck Dead with the horror of the danger he was in.

38 And it came to pass about ten days after, that the LORD smote Nabal, that he died r.

r God either inflicted some other stroke or Disease upon him, or increased his Grief and Fear to such an height, as killed him.

39 ¶ And when David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, Blessed be the LORD, that hath pleaded the cause of my reproach from the hand of Nabal s, and hath kept his servant from evil t: for the LORD hath returned the wickedness of Nabal upon his own head. And David sent u and communed with Abigail, to take her to him to wife.

s How could David rejoyce at the Death of his Enemy? Ans. Although it may be said, that he rejoyced not in Nabals Death as such, but onely in the declaration of Gods Justice in punishing so great a Wickedness; which was an honour to God, and a document, and therefore a benefit to Mankind, and so a Publick good, and cause of Joy: yet the matter is not weighty, if we confess, that this was another instance of Humane Infirmity in David, and that it is not proposed for our Imitation, but for our Caution. Yet it may be further said, That this was not purely an act of Private Revenge, because David was a Publick Person, and Anointed King: and therefore Nabals Reproach cast upon David above, v. 10, 11. was a Contempt of God, and of his Ordinance, and Appointment; which was vindicated by this remarkable Judgment. t i. e From the Sin of Bloodshed, and Self-revenge, v. 33. u To wit, Messengers; which he thought fitter than to go himself: partly, because if he had met with a Repulse, it had been less Ignominious; and partly, because he would leave her to her freedom and choice, and would not so much as seem to take her by violence. But this doubtless was not done immediately after Nabals Death, but in some convenient space of time after it; though such circumstances be commonly omitted in the Sacred History; which gives only the heads, and most important passages of things.

40 And when the servants of David were come to Abigail to Carmel, they spake unto her, saying, David sent us unto thee, to take thee to him to wife.

41 And she arose, and bowed her self on her face to the earth, and said x, Behold, let thine handmaid be a servant to wash the feet of the servants of my lord.

x She shewed this Reverence, and spake thus to them, as representing Davids person.

42 And Abigail hasted, and arose and rode upon an ass with five damsels of hers that went † after her: and she went after the messengers of David y, and became his wife. † Heb. at her.

y Not immediately, but some competent time after they were gone. She considered not Davids present straits and penury, which she thought her Plentiful Estate might supply; nor his danger from Saul; but by a true and strong Faith rested upon Gods Promise made to David, not doubting but God would perform it.

43 David also took Ahinoam * of Jezreel, and they were also both of them his wives. * Josh. 15. 56.

44 ¶ But z Saul had given * Michal his daughter, Davids wife, to Phalti the son of Laish, which was of Gallim. * 2 Sam. 3. 14, 15.

z Or, For, as the Hebrew Vau is oft-times used. For this seems to be added, as a reason why David took other Wives, because Saul had given his former Wife to another man, that he might as far as he could Extinguish all Relation and Kindred to him, whom he hated; and withal, cut off his Hopes and Pretence to the Crown upon that account.

CHAP. XXVI.

AND the Ziphites came unto Saul a to Gibeah, saying, * Doth not David hide himself in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeshimon b?

* chap. 23. 19. Psal. 54. title.

a Having once betrayed him before, they thought their Case desperate with David; and therefore did more strenuously assist Saul in discovering him, in order to his Ruine. b He is returned to his former haunt: of which see chap. 23. 19. This place might be convenient for him, either for its nearness to Abigails Estate: or because he might think, that Saul was mollified, and the Ziphites cautioned by the unsuccessfulness of their former Attempt; or because he could from thence, make good his Retreat into other places, if need were.

2 Then Saul arose, and went down to the wilderness of Ziph, having three thousand chosen men of Israel with him, to seek David in the Wilderness of Ziph.

3 And Saul pitched in the hill of Hachilah which is before Jeshimon by the way: but David abode in the wilderness, and he saw c that Saul came after him into the wilderness.

c i. e. He understood by Information, probably, from his dear friend Jonathan.

4 David therefore sent out spies, and understood that Saul was come in very deed.

5 ¶ And David arose, and came to the place where Saul had pitched d: and David beheld the place where Saul lay, and * Abner the son of Ner the captain of his host: and Saul lay in the ‖ trench e, and the people pitched round about him.

* chap. 14. 50. 17. 55.

d Came near to the skirts of Sauls Camp; which he might easily discover from some neighbouring Hill, or Wood; and yet not be discerned himself. And it is probable, he came thither disguised, and towards Night. e Encompassed with his Carriages for better security. Compare 1 Sam. 17. 20.

6 Then answered David, and said to Ahimelech the Hittite f, and to Abishai the son of Zeruiah g, brother to Joab, saying, Who will go down with me to Saul to the camp? And Abishai said, I will go down with thee.

f So called, either because he was one of that Nation, but Converted to the Jewish Religion: Compare 2 Sam. 11. 3. and 15. 18. Or, from his Habitation amongst, or some Relation to some of that people. g Davids Sister: See 1 Chron. 2. 16. His Father is not named; either because he was now dead; or because he was an obscure person.

7 So David and Abishai came to the people h by night, and behold, Saul lay sleeping within the trench, and his spear stuck in the ground at his bolster: but Abner and the people lay round about him.

h i. e. To Sauls Host and Camp. It might seem a bold and strange Attempt; but many things are to be considered: 1. That Heroical persons have oft attempted things of no less difficulty and danger than this was, as many credible Historians relate. 2. That David did, and might easily perceive, that they were all fast asleep. 3. That David had a particular Assurance, that God would preserve him to the Kingdom. 4. That he had a special Instinct from God, to this Work; and possibly God might inform him, that he had cast them into a dead sleep, that he might have this second opportunity of manifesting his Innocency towards Saul, and the Justice of his Cause.

8 Then said Abishai to David, God hath † delivered thine enemy into thine hand this day: now therefore let me smite him, I pray thee, with the spear, even to the earth at once, and I will not smite him the second time i.

† Heb. shut up.

i I will Nail him to the Ground at one blow, that I shall not need a second stroke.

9 And David said to Abishai, Destroy him not: for who can stretch forth his hand against the LORDS anointed, and be guiltless k?

k Though Saul be a cruel Tyrant, and rejected by God, yet he is our Soveraign Lord and King; and I, though designed King, as yet am but a private Person, and his Subject; and therefore cannot kill him without Sin, nor will I consent that thou shouldst do it.

10 David said furthermore, As the LORD liveth, the LORD shall smite him l, or his day shall come to die m, or he shall descend into battel and perish.

l By some sudden and mortal Stroke. m According to the course of Nature.

11 The LORD forbid that I should stretch forth mine hand against the LORDS anointed: but, I pray thee, take thou now the spear that is at his bolster n, and the cruse of water o, and let us go.

n Which will shew where we have been, and what we could have done. o Which might be put there, either to wash himself in case of any accidental Pollution, which oft happened in the Night: or to refresh him, and quench his thirst in that hot Climate and Season: or for divers other uses.

12 So David took the spear, and the cruse of water from Sauls bolster, and they gat them away, and no man saw it, nor knew it, neither awaked: for they were all asleep, because a deep sleep † from the LORD p was fallen upon them.

† Heb. of the LORD.

p Sent upon them by the Lord, for Davids advantage.

13 ¶ Then David went over to the other side, and stood on the top of an hill afar q off (a great space being between them.)

q That his person might be out of their reach, and yet his Voice might be heard; which in a clear Air, and in the silence of the Night might be heard at a great distance.

14 And David cried to the people, and to Abner the son of Ner, saying, Answerest thou not Abner? Then Abner answered and said, Who art thou that criest to the king r?

r Or, with or beside the king, i. e. So near to him, so as to disturb the King.

15 And David said to Abner, Art not thou † a valiant man? and who is like to thee s in Israel? Wherefore then hast thou not kept thy lord the king? for there came one of the people in to destroy the king thy lord.

† Heb. a man.

s For Courage and Conduct: and therefore thy fault herein is the greater.

16 This thing is not good t that thou hast done: as the LORD liveth, ye are † worthy to die, because ye have not kept your master the LORDS anointed. And now see where the kings spear is, and the cruse of water that was at his bolster.

† Heb. sons of death.

t i. e. It is very bad, a great Crime. A Figure called Miosis, as Prov. 18. 5. and 19. 2.

17 And Saul knew Davids voice, and said, Is this thy voice, my son u David? And David said, It is my voice, my lord, O king.

u As thou wast my Son by Marriage, so thou hast expressed the care and affection of a Son to me now a second time.

18 And he said, Wherefore doth my lord pursue thus after his servant? for what have I done? or what evil is in mine hand?

19 Now therefore, I pray thee, let my lord the king hear the words of his servant. If the LORD have stirred thee up against me x, let him † accept an offering y: but if they be the children of men z, cursed be they before the LORD: for they have driven me out this day from † abiding in the inheritance of the LORD *, saying, Go, serve other gods a.

x If the Lord hath by the evil Spirit which he hath sent, or by his secret Providence, directed thy Rage against me for the Punishment of thine, or my Sins. y Let us offer up a Sacrifice to God to appease his Wrath against us. z Who by their crafty insinuations, and calumnies, have incensed thee against me. He sheweth his Prudence, and Reverence, and Meekness; that he Accuseth not the King, but translateth the fault wholly upon his Evil Ministers; as the Israelites do in like Case. Exod. 5. 10.

* From the Land which God hath given to his People for their their Inheritance, and where he hath Eſtabliſhed his Preſence, and Worſhip. a This was the Language of their Actions. For by driving him from Gods Land, and the place of his Worſhip, into Foreign and Idolatrous Lands, they expoſed him to the peril of being either enſnared by their Counſels, or Examples; or forced by their threats and power to worſhip Idols.

20 Now therefore let not my blood fall to the earth b before the face of the LORD c: for the king of Iſrael is come out to ſeek * a flea †, as when one doth hunt a partridg in the mountains d.

* chap. 24. 14.

b Do not attempt to ſpill my Innocent Blood like water upon the ground. c Remember, if thou doeſt it, God the Judge of all men ſeeth it, and will avenge it of thee; though I will not avenge my ſelf. † Hard to be taken, and not worth catching; a mean and contemptible perſon. d Where his advantage doth no way compenſate his Labour.

21 ¶ Then ſaid Saul, I have ſinned, Return, my ſon David, for I will no more do thee harm, becauſe my ſoul was precious in thine eyes this day: behold, I have played the fool, and have erred exceedingly e.

e He not onely confeſſeth, but aggravateth his fault, becauſe his Conſcience was fully convinced, though his Heart was not changed.

22 And David anſwered and ſaid, Behold the kings ſpear, and let one of the young men come over and fetch it.

23 The LORD render to every man his righteouſneſs and his faithfulneſs f: for the LORD delivered thee into my hand to day, but I would not ſtretch forth mine hand againſt the LORDS anointed.

f I deſire, that God would deal no otherwiſe with me, than I have dealt with thee.

24 And behold, as thy life was much ſet by this day in mine eyes, ſo let my life be much ſet by in the eyes of the LORD, and let him deliver me out of all tribulation.

25 Then Saul ſaid to David, Bleſſed be thou, my ſon David: thou ſhalt both † do great things, and alſo ſhalt ſtill prevail. So David went on his way g, and Saul returned to his place.

† Heb. in doing thou ſhalt do. Dan. 11. 28, 32.

g Knowing Sauls unſtable and deceitful Heart, he would not truſt to any of his Profeſſions, or Promiſes, but kept out of his reach.

CHAP. XXVII.

AND David ſaid in his heart, I ſhall now † periſh one day by the hand of Saul a: there is nothing better for me, than that I ſhould ſpeedily eſcape into the land of the Philiſtines b, and Saul ſhall deſpair of me, to ſeek me any more in any coaſt of Iſrael, ſo ſhall I eſcape out of his hand.

a I ſee by this late experience his reſtleſs and implacable hatred againſt me; and how little heed is to be given to all his pretences of Repentance or Friendſhip. b But this was certainly a great miſtake and fault in David: for 1. This proceeded from groſs diſtruſt of Gods Promiſe and Providence; and that after ſuch repeated demonſtrations of Gods peculiar Care over him, which gave him cauſe to conclude, quite contrary to what is here ſaid. 2. He forſakes the place where God had ſetled him, chap. 22. 5. and given him both aſſurance, and experience of his Protection there. 3. He voluntarily runs upon that Rock which he curſed his Enemies for throwing him upon, chap. 26. 19. and upon many other Snares and Dangers, as the following Hiſtory will ſhew; and withal, deprives the people of the Lord of thoſe ſuccors which he might have given them, in caſe of a Battel. But it pleaſed God to leave David to himſelf in this, as well as in other particulars, that theſe might be ſenſible demonſtrations of the Infirmities of the beſt Men; and of the neceſſity of Gods grace, and daily direction and aſſiſtance: and of the freeneſs and riches of Gods Mercy, in paſſing by ſuch great Offences. And beſides, God hereby deſigned to accompliſh his own Counſel, to withdraw David from the Iſraelites, that Saul and they might fall by the hand of the Philiſtines, without any reproach or inconvenience to David, whom God had put into a ſafe place.

2 And David aroſe, and he paſſed over with the ſix hundred men that were with him, unto Achiſh the ſon of Maoch, king of Gath c.

c It might ſeem a bold adventure: but 1. He thought himſelf forced to it by Sauls inveterate Rage, and continued reſolutions to Perſecute him. 2. It is probable, he had ſent ſome perſons to Treat with him, and had agreed upon conditions; and received aſſurance of his ſafe and peaceable abode with him. 3. David reaſonably thought, that Achiſh would gladly receive him, as indeed he did; partly, becauſe he ſaw Sauls implacable Enmity againſt him: partly, becauſe by this means he ſhould be freed from the moſt formidable Enemy which he had in all Iſrael, who might do him moſt miſchief in the Battel; which it ſeems at this time he deſigned: and partly becauſe, he came not now alone, as he did before, but brought with him ſufficient Pledges of his Fidelity to Achiſh; namely, all his Souldiers, and his and their Wives, ver. 3.

3 And David dwelt with Achiſh at Gath, he and his men, every man with his houſhold, even David with his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreeliteſs, and Abigail the Carmeliteſs, Nabals wife.

4 And it was told Saul that David was fled to Gath, and he ſought no more again for him d.

d By which it is implyed, That he would have gone on in Perſecuting David, if he had continued in his Dominions.

5 ¶ And David ſaid unto Achiſh, If I have now found grace in thine eyes, let them give me a place in ſome town in the country, that I may dwell there e: for why ſhould thy ſervant dwell in the royal city with thee f?

e A prudent deſire. Hereby David deſigned, 1. To preſerve his People, both from the Idolatry, and other Vices; which converſation with the Philiſtines would have expoſed them to: and from that envy, and malice, and miſchief, which diverſity of Religion, or other prejudices, might have cauſed. 2. That he might have opportunity of enterprizing ſomething againſt Gods Enemies, without the knowledge, or obſervation of the Philiſtines. f Which is too great an honour for me, and too burdenſome to thee, and may be an occaſion of ſuſpicion and offence to thy People, and of many other inconveniences.

6 Then Achiſh gave him Ziklag g that day: wherefore Ziklag pertaineth unto the kings of Judah h unto this day i.

g Not onely to Inhabit, but to Poſſeſs it as his own. Which he did, to lay the greater obligations upon David, whom he knew ſo able to ſerve him. h It was given to the Tribe of Judah before, Joſh. 15. 31, and afterwards to the Tribe of Simeon, Joſh. 19. 5. whoſe inheritance was given them within the inheritance of the children of Judah, chap 19. 1. But the Philiſtines kept the Poſſeſſion of it till this time, and were hitherto permitted to do ſo. And being now given by them to David, it now belonged not to the people of the Tribe of Judah, to whom it was allotted before; but to the King of Judah, David and his Heirs for ever. i This, and ſome ſuch Clauſes ſeem to have been added by ſome Sacred Writers, after the main ſubſtance of the ſeveral Books was written.

7 And † the time that David dwelt in the countrey of the Philiſtines, was † a full year and four months k.

† Heb. the number of days. † Heb. a year of days.

k Heb. days and four months; days being put for a year; as Lev. 25. 29. Or, ſome days and four months; i. e. Some days above four Months. Or, ſome days and (for, even, or, that is; the Conjunction, and, being oft ſo uſed, as hath been proved above) four months.

8 ¶ And David and his men went up, and invaded the Geſhurites, and the ‖ Gezrites l, and the Amalekites m: for thoſe nations were † of old the inhabitants of the land, as thou goeſt to Shur, even unto the land of Egypt.

l Who were anciently ſeated in other places, Joſh. 12. 12. and 16. 3. but for ſome reaſons not now known, they changed their Seats, as was then very uſual and ſeated themſelves, and had for ſome conſiderable time lived near the Amalekites. m The remnant of thoſe whom Saul deſtroyed, 1 Sam. 15. who fled from his Sword, and retired into Remote and Deſert places.

9 And David ſmote the land, and left neither man nor woman alive n, and took away the ſheep, and the oxen, and the aſſes, and the camels, and the apparel, and returned, and came to Achiſh.

x To wit, in that part where he came: but there were more of the Amalekites yet left in another part of that land, chap. 30. 1.

‖ Or, did ye not make a rode, &c.

10 And Achish said, ‖ Whither have ye made a rode to day? And David said, Against the south of Judah o, and p against the south of the Jerahmeelites q, and against the south of the Kenites r.
